Party's Action in Regard to Tariff Warmly Criticised.

Tells What Republicans Have Done in the Matter.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 21.—Candidate Taft this afternoon addressed a large meeting here, the occasion being the celebration of Virginia day.

Mr. Taft reviewed the record of the Democratic party from the time of the last Democratic administration in 1893.

"During this administration," he said, "it repealed the McKinley tariff bill passed in 1890 and enacted the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill of 1893. With the prospect of a Democratic tariff for revenue, and under the operation of the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill subsequently

KING LEOPOLD
Of Belgium, Whose Personal Rule of the Congo Has Been Taken From Him by the Adoption of the New Treaty by Belgium. It Is Expected That the Awful Atrocities in That Country Will Now Be Stopped.

FUTURE OF THE CONGO

Likely to be Far Better for Its Inhabitants.

Power Taken From King Leopold and Invested in Government.

Brussels, Aug. 21.—After several months of bitter struggle, the chamber of deputies yesterday adopted the Congo annexation treaty by 83 votes to 55, and, although this action probably will insure the solution of the great Congo problem, there still remains open the important question of Belgium's financial responsibility.

This action on the part of the chamber had not been expected, and at the last moment nearly caused the collapse of the cabinet.

During the first reading, recently, of the colonial bill, which provides for the administration of the Congo independent state, and which, with the treaty, was adopted today, Herr Moeste, reader of the Right, secured the adoption of an amendment relieving Belgium of the responsibility of guaranteeing the payment of the interest on the Congo debt, but yesterday the government made a determined effort to secure the restoration of the stipulation that Belgium would make advances to Congo in case of necessity.

REAR ADMIRAL GOODRICH,
Who Is Now at the Head of the Active Rear Admirals of the Navy, Having Been Advanced to That Position by the Retirement of Rear Admiral Evans.

Hope to Save the Elkins Law From Becoming Futile.

Bonaparte, Kellogg and Others Sign the Document.

Decision as to Rehearing Will be Most Important.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The government's petition for a rehearing by the United States court of appeals of the case against the Standard Oil company of Indiana was filed today, and represents, it is authoritatively stated, the administration's attempt to save the Elkins act and the interstate commerce law from becoming futile.

The filing of the petition marked the appearance of Attorney-General Bonaparte in the case, as well as that of Frank B. Kellogg, who is a special assistant to the attorney-general. Besides these two names the petition is signed by Edwin W. Sims, United States district attorney at Chicago, and Special Assistant James H. Wilkerson, both of whom presented the government's side of the case in the original hearing before Judge Landis, who administered the famous fine of $29,240,000 against the defendant.

Although it is not specifically stated in the petition, it was agreed by counsel for the government in their conference at Lenox, Mass., following the reversal by the appellate court of

GOVERNOR HUGHES
Of New York, Who Will Probably Be Nominated to Succeed Himself, as the Republican Leaders of That State Admit He Is the Best Man.

So Decided at Conference of Leaders With the President.

All Organized Opposition to the Governor Will Cease.

Probably No Other Name Will be Presented to Convention.

New York, Aug. 21.—Announcement was made at Republican national headquarters today by James S. Sherman, Republican candidate for vice-president, confirming the Associated Press dispatch from Oyster Bay that President Roosevelt's conference with party leaders at Sagamore Hill yesterday had developed that political exigencies demand the renomination of Governor Hughes for a second term. Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock was present when Mr. Sherman stated the result of the conference, and he assented to all the vice-presidential nominee said.

The statement made today unquestionably will put an end to organized opposition to the candidacy of Governor Hughes, although it is possible that certain individuals will continue to voice their protest against the continuance of Mr. Hughes as the head of the Republican ticket in the state. With President Roosevelt, Mr. Taft, Mr. Sherman, Mr. Hitchcock, several New York members of congress and other state leaders for Mr. Hughes, it is not believed possible that the fight against his renomination can gain any headway. In fact, political leaders are now predicting that no other name will be presented to the convention.

FREIGHT TRAINS GO INTO DITCH

Much Rolling Stock on the Canadian Pacific Damaged.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 21.—That the Canadian Pacific railway rolling stock is getting in bad condition, owing to the absence of mechanics in the repair shops, was made evident today when the announcement came in that three freight trains went into a ditch on the Lethbridge-Alberta branch yesterday. Much rolling stock was destroyed. It is reported that 150 engines between Swift Current and Calgary have been put out of business since the strike began.

With additions of thirty constables yesterday the company now has 300 police guarding its shops. The men patrol the tracks in gasoline motors.

HELD UP BY A HIGHWAYMAN

Minneapolis Brakeman Has Fierce Battle With Would-be Robber.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. F. White, a brakeman on the Rock Island railway, was held up by a masked highwayman on Twelfth street, between Hennepin and Nicollet avenues, late last night, but in a fierce struggle in which the robber was badly worsted. White escaped and notified the police. White told the police that he had just come in from a run and was going toward his home, when suddenly the highwayman stepped up from behind a tree and commanded him to throw up his hands. White did not obey, and the highwayman flashed a revolver before his face and again demanded that the brakeman turn him over his belongings. White immediately knocked the revolver from the intruder's hand and closed in on him, and a fierce battle for supremacy ensued, during which the highwayman picked up the revolver from the pavement and threatened to kill his adversary. White regained his feet and darted down the street, with the thief after him, but the latter dashed into an alley and White continued on his way and reported to the police, giving them a minute description of the highwayman.

ILLUMINATIONS MOST STRIKING

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 21.—Following the official landing of the American visitors today and their public reception by the state and commonwealth authorities, the city, the harbor and the shipping were brilliantly illuminated this evening. The governor of New South Wales, Sir Harry Rawson, gave an official dinner at 7 o'clock in honor of the American officers, and the commonwealth government entertained the officers, sailors and marines of the fleet at theater parties and other places of amusement. The illuminations were most striking. All the public buildings were outlined with numberless lights, there were countless devices and decoratics conveying sentiments of welcome and fraternity displayed on every hand, private buildings vied with the municipal edifices in the brilliancy of their decorations, while the American battleships in the harbor did their full share, being literally covered with lights, large and small, while the flashlights threw vivid streamers of brilliancy in every direction and even to the clouds overhead. The gorgeous spectacle was viewed by vast crowds that filled the streets of Sydney until a late hour.

MILITARY RULE ENDS

Troops Are Leaving the City as Fast as Possible.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21.—Military rule ceased in Springfield today, the militia force here being reduced to one regiment and the task of preserving order being turned over to the civil authorities. The First cavalry broke camp at daylight and the Seventh infantry patrols were withdrawn from the street. Sheriff Werner, had an increased force of deputies on duty and the city police was also enforced by a few special policemen. Except for the closed saloons, and the ruined homes and business houses in some of the streets there was nothing to indicate that a week ago the city had been in the hands of an uncontrolled mob.

The early morning hours were practically without incident. One case of shooting was reported from the northeast section of the city, a sentry asserting that some one had discharged a double-barreled shotgun in his direction. The "Shafter Cavalry" was sent from the jail headquarters but no trace of the marauders was found. The promiscuous shooting has practically ceased since the troops began to de-

BIG FIRES RAGE IN CALIFORNIA

Sonora, Cal., Aug. 21.—The forest fire which is raging in the Hetch-Hetchy valley continues unabated, according to reports received here last night. The fire is sweeping north and already great damage has been done. A number of houses have been destroyed and numerous head of cattle have perished. The flames are now raging in the reserve timber tract of the West lumber camp. A surveyors' party from San Francisco, headed by E. J. Jones, is reported to have had a narrow escape.

Maj. Benson, superintendent of the National park of Yosemite, with forty soldiers as well as several hundred other men, are fighting the flames. It is hoped by the fire fighters to check the fire at Lake Eleanor.

FREED FOR MELON SEASON.

Negro's Soulful Plea Melts Heart of Pennsylvania Mayor.

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 21.—Johnson Brown, a huge, typical North Carolina darkey, stood before his honor, the mayor, charged with vagrancy. The mayor eyed him for a minute and then said sternly: "I have a good notion to give you fifteen days."

The darkey gasped and quivered. "Fo de Lawd's sake, yo honor, don' do dat," he gasped. "Don' do that; don' do dat' Don' yuh know dat dis am de watermelon season in Jersey, and I'se ought to be thar to help gather 'em? 'Deed I'se ought to be thar, judge!"

"How long will it take you to get out of town if I let you go?" queried the mayor.

"Tell dat dar fat pleesman to shove dat white trash out of der way to give me room to git, and den watch out," was the reply.

The order was given, the crowd gave way, there was a sound like a horse galloping and several minutes later a huge cloud of dust was seen rapidly traveling Jerseyward.

ADDITIONAL PAY DENIED

To Man Holding Two County Offices, Says Attorney General.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The attorney general's office yesterday decided that just because a man holds two county offices that he cannot draw compensation for both. William J. Stevenson, assistant county attorney of St. Louis county, refered to the state superintendent of public instruction several questions concerning the duties of the officers of the school board, which were turned over to the attorney general's department.

Mr. Peterson, assistant attorney general, in answering, says that a treasurer of a school board is not entitled to the 2 per cent disbursements, usually allowed the treasurer of a school board, when the school treasurer was elected county treasurer and holds the other office ex-officio. He also rules that a county clerk, being at the same time county superintendent of schools, cannot have additional pay for his added duties.

The county commissioners are paid $1,200 a year to perform the duties of their office and if those duties include looking up school locations or require expenses connected with their services on the school board they are not entitled to additional compensation of any nature.

ONLY HAT AND COAT

Composed Raiment of Man Frightening Twin City Women.

The Residents of Prospect Hill Are Terror Stricken.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Terror reigns among the women residents in the Prospect Hill district near the city limits of Minneapolis and St. Paul, where the Belt line crosses the Como-Harriet street car tracks, and many of them are afraid to leave their homes alone because of the actions of a wild and supposedly insane man who is ranging the woods and corn fields in that

ST. LOUIS COUNTY TAXES TO STATE

Greater Than Those of Hennepin and Ramsey Combined.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—St. Louis county paid the final settlement for the state taxes at the state treasurer's office yesterday. The state received $184,437, making the total taxes paid by the county this year, $409,000. This amount is larger that that paid by Hennepin and Ramsey counties together. Ramsey county this year paid only $180,000 in taxes. Hennepin has made a partial settlement, but the last report is not in.

A TERRIBLE VENGEANCE

Victims Accused of Giving Information to Authorities.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—News has reached this city of a terrible vengeance taken by the Revolutionists of Yurievka, in Yekaterinoslav province, upon a Jewish family named Edelstein, who were accused of giving information to the authorities regarding the activities of the agitators. They went to the Edelstein house at night, threw two bombs through the window, and opened on the members of the family with revolvers, and shot to death the father, a daughter, a woman guest and her child. The mother, a son, a son-in-law and two grandsons were severely wounded.

After this murderous onslaught the Revolutionists temporarily retired, and help for the wounded was summoned. In the course of a couple of hours the victims who were still alive had been conveyed to a hospital. Not satisfied with their vengeance, the Revolutionists, now a well-armed band of about forty or fifty men, descended upon the hospital, overpowered the nurses and guards and shot the mother and son to death, after which they made their escape.

Another dispatch from the provinces received here says that the prisoners in the jail at Saratov, upon discovering that two of their comrades were traitors, fell upon them and beat them to death.

PARKER TALKS ON THE TARIFF

Its Reduction Only Remedy for Evils of Great Corporations.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 21.—Judge Alton B. Parker spoke to an audience of about 1,800 people at the Coliseum last night. The meeting was held under the joint auspices of the King County Democratic club and the Bryan volunteers. His speech dealt with issues of the national campaign, and he devoted his principal attention to the evils of the great corporations, which he declared are fostered by the present high tariff. The remedy, Judge Parker declared, is in lowering the tariff wall, and this he doubted if the Republican party would do if continued in power another four years. Judge Parker denounced the idea of Federal control of corporations as a remedy. He recommended a statute imposing a jail sentence upon corporation officers convicted of contributing money to a campaign fund.

Delancey Nicoll of New York followed Judge Parker in a short address.

WOMAN AND DOG JAILED.

Owner Refused to Muzzle the "Vicious Little Brute."

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Margaret McCue refused too muzzle her little brown spaniel, Pat, so both she and the dog were whirled away to the Harrison street police station and locked up in the same cell. Neighbors had asserted that little Pat was vicious and unruly. Mrs. McCue is charged with disorderly conduct and harboring a dog without a muzzle.

Some New Corporations.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—The Osakis Milling company of Osakis has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The capital stock is $50,000 and the incorporators are George B. Ayres and Elwain F. Moore of St. Cloud, and John F. Russell of Greensburg, Ind.

The Diamond Calk Horseshoe company of Duluth also filed articles. Its capital stock is $10,000.

DIXIE II WON THE FIRST RACE

Senator E. B. Hawkins' Boat Beaten by Only Nineteen Seconds.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first of the series of three motor boat races for the Gold cup, donated by the American Motor Boat association and now held by the Chippewa Bay Yacht club, took place yesterday afternoon on the Chippewa bay course and was won by the Dixie II, representing the Thousand Island Yacht club. The distance was thirty miles, and there were several starters in the race, but all were outdistanced by the Dixie II and the Chip III, the latter representing the Chippewa club. It was a close race, the Dixie II winning by only 19 seconds from the Chip III. The same boats will race again this afternoon and tomorrow, and the possession of the cup depends upon the most points scored in the three races.

The Chip III is the property of Senator E. B. Hawkins of Duluth, Minn., and the Wainwright estate of Ogdensburg and was built specially to defend the Gold cup. The Dixie II was the winner of the recent international race for the Harmsworth cup at Huntington Bay, L. I., and is owned by ex-Commodore E. J. Schroeder of the Motor Boat club of America. The Dixie II defeated the English motor boat, the Wolseley-Siddeley, by 49 seconds in the international race.

POSITION OF THE GOVERNOR

Cannot Avoid Race Without Putting Party in a Hole.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the interview yesterday stating that he would accept the nomination for governor as a duty that he owed to the party, Governor Johnson said:

"This acceptance is contrary to my better judgment. I have given this matter the closest thought for the past twenty-four hours, and my first opinion that a third nomination is unwise and against the principles of the party is unchanged, yet I hardly see how I can get away from making the race without putting the party in a hole. I regret this action and wish it had never happened. The nomination has been made. I have been declared the nominee, and so there you are. It really leaves me in an embarrassing position and with the party in similar position, so you see the only thing I can do is to yield."

THEIR HOUSE DESTROYED WHILE THEY ENJOY PLAY.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While Mr. and Mrs. George Burk were attending the Lyceum theater last evening, their residence in Carman caught fire and burned to the ground, the flames being fanned by a brisk wind. The loss is $19,800; insurance, $1,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Ain-Ed-Dowle Captured.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 21.—A special dispatch received here from Teheran says that Ain-Ed-Dowle, who arrived outside Tabriz a couple of days ago at the head of 1,200 government troops, has been captured by the revolutionists.

Heringsdorf, Prussia, Aug. 21.—The bride of a week of Prof. Rudolph Spitzer of Sternberg-Mecklenberg-Schwerin, today threw herself from the top of the Bismarck tower here, falling 1,200 feet to the bottom of the cliffs upon which the tower is built. The couple came here on the honeymoon. The woman left a note addressed to her husband asking his forgiveness and requesting that he marry another woman with whom he could be more happy. Prior to their marriage the pair had been engaged for ten years.

CLEAN BUILDING WITH SAND BLAST

Old Stone Made to Look as Fresh as New.

A novel method is being employed to clean the smoke and dirt stains from the front of an old building on Third avenue east and Superior street. It is a building that was moved stone by stone from Sixth avenue west and Superior street, where it had stood for years.

The sandstone front of the building is being cleaned by the use of a compressed air sand blast. Before the idea of a sand blast was tried several other methods had been tried but all proved unsatisfactory. The sand is forced through a hose and played on the surface to be cleaned. The sand is blown against it with such force that its sharp lined edges grind off the outer coat of discolored rock. The part of the front that has been gone over, looks almost as fresh as when new.

BUYS NEW PAIR OF SHOES.

"Colonial Jack" Walked 580 Miles in His Last Pair.

Example—If a man can walk from Portland, Me., to Duluth on four pairs of shoes, refitted with nineteen pairs of soles and twenty-four pairs of heels, the last pair last him 580 miles, how far can he walk with a brand new pair purchased in Duluth, walking toward Portland, Or.?

That's the question that "Colonial Jack" asked himself this morning as he tried on a new pair at a Duluth shoe store.

Careful attention to the feet is Jack's first thought as he has to take good care of them in order to win that $1,000 bet. He bought a pair of soft leather walking shoes. Number 9 is the size, Jack says he could wear 5½, but he doesn't care to take chances.

MARINE NEWS

Last of Bonded Wheat.

The Conestoga of the Port Huron line, took out about the last of the bonded wheat in store at this port yesterday, when she cleared with 8,000 bushels of durum wheat. The Great Northern later in the day received one car containing 980 bushels of wheat in bond and yesterday that represented all the Canadian grain under bond in Duluth.

The steamer Clyde, today loaded 65,000 bushels of American durum for Montreal, and the Monteagle, also, loaded 45,000 bushels for the same port.

Both boats are handled by Capt. D. T. Helm.

RAILROADS

LOW RATES FOR LUMBER

Scraps and Slabs of Mills Will be Utilized.

Scarcity of Lumber Cause of the Reduced Tariff.

Rates that will have an important bearing on the shipment of resawed lumber from this center, will be placed in effect upon the first of September by the Northern Pacific railroad. The placing in effect of the new rates also calls to mind the increasing shortage of lumber in the Northwest.

Upon the date mentioned the rate per 100 pounds, carload lots, for resawed slabs, edgings and short pieces of boards not exceeding four feet in length, will be reduced to 4.8 cents. The present rate on these lumber leavings is 6 cents per 100 pounds.

Because the mill officials claim they could not afford to ship the lumber leavings under the old rate, much of it was burned. It was not thought worth while to ship it. The new rate, it is believed, will result in the shipment of large amounts of short lumber and slabs to St. Paul, Minneapolis and Stillwater, to be used in the manufacture of boxes and other products that require such lumber.

The new rate is the result of the mill men pointing out that the waste of lumber, in the face of the increasing scarcity, was deplorable. The officials of the Northern Pacific were inclined to take this view of the situation, and as a result the decreased rate will be placed in effect.

The rates apply to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Minnesota Transfer and Stillwater there are a number of large box factories.

Perhaps the most pertinent feature of the new rate, is that it points out that the lumbermen of the Northwest have come to the realization of the fact that the rapid decrease of lumber necessitates the greatest caution in using what might be called by-products.

LABORERS COME.

Special Brings Men for Western Wheat Fields.

Eight hundred Canadian laborers, from the provinces of Eastern Canada, are coming to the Canadian West to assist in the great wheat harvest. The rush for the Canadian wheat fields has begun.

A special came in today over the Northwestern and Wisconsin Central lines. The transfer from the Wisconsin Central was made at Ashland. The cars of the Northwestern road will go all the way through with the men, being transferred at Duluth to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, and going from Virginia to Winnipeg over the lines of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and Canadian Northern.

About 200 men were on the train that came in today. The remainder of the men will be sent in different specials. It is said by the railroad officials that the movement of men to Canada will be unprecedented this year.

Coal Shipments.

Records of the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern show that approximately 300 cars of coal are leaving the Head of the Lakes daily. This movement includes St. Paul and Minneapolis, as well as Western points. It does not include company coal, all of it being for commercial use. Both hard and soft coal are included in the movement.

DEMOCRAT ENTERS RACE.

Charles Jesmore, recommended by the Minnesota Democrats at Hibbing last week for sheriff, filed his affidavit with the county auditor yesterday afternoon. This puts three parties in the race, the Republican, the Democratic, and the Public Ownership parties.

Another candidate also filed yesterday as a contestant for honors sought by Dr. David Graham of West Duluth and Joseph Austin of Chisholm. The new contestant for the nomination for representative from the Fifty-ninth district on the Republican ticket is Edward L. Raab of Fayal, near Sparta.

Liked Northern Minnesota.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—Judge H. F. Miller returned yesterday from a week's outing spent near International Falls on the Rainy river. He went out into the wildest part of the Northern Minnesota woods and got as close to nature as possible. He reports a delightful week, and his only regret is that he did not stay longer. He says that he has lived almost wholly on game and fish while away.

MONEY FOR POINT OF ROCKS

Committee Will be Asked for Appropriation This Year.

The conference committee will again be asked to provide an appropriation for the Point of Rocks work this year. It is expected that $5,000 will be set aside for the purpose.

Last year $5,000 was appropriated to be used on the Point of Rocks this year, but most of this amount got switched into other funds, and very little was actually spent on the Point of Rocks. The council resolved last year to appropriate a certain amount each year for work at the point.

DULUTH BANK RANKS HIGH.

First National Appears on Banking Roll of Honor.

The Financier, a monthly financial journal of New York, which has just issued its eighteenth annual roll of honor of national banks of the country, gives room near the top of the list to the First National bank of Duluth. The Duluth bank, in point of capital, surplus and undivided dividends, percentage of gain, etc., ranks very high among the national banks of the country.

ONE SIDE OF HEAD ENTIRELY BALD

Hair Began Falling Out After a Severe Illness—Consulted Several Barbers without Satisfaction—Friend Cured Same Trouble with Cuticura and Advised Its Use.

CUTICURA REMEDIES EFFECTED HIS CURE

"After a severe attack of sickness my hair fell out all over. One side of my head was completely bald. I was frightened, not knowing what to do for it. I was almost wild. I consulted several barbers with no satisfaction. A friend of mine told me that his hair fell out in patches all over. He had secured a set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent which stopped his hair falling out and made it grow again as thick as ever. He induced me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I began using them and in forty days, more or less, I noticed my hair coming out all over the bald spots. I was so glad I did not know how to praise the greatness of Cuticura. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap, three boxes of Ointment and two bottles of Resolvent Pills. I can prove by numbers of persons that I was bald before using the Cuticura Remedies, and you may use my name as a guarantee of their wonderful cure. George Simmons, 1630 So. Franklin St., New Orleans, La., October 10 and 22, 1907."

SKIN COMFORT

For Tortured, Disfigured Babies in Cuticura Remedies.

Itching, burning, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, inflammations, irritations and chafings of infants and children are instantly relieved, in the majority of cases, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura, the great Skin Cure. This pure, sweet and economical treatment permits rest and sleep and points to a speedy cure when all other remedies suitable for children fail. Cuticura Remedies are guaranteed absolutely pure, and may be used from the hour of birth.

WEST END

BRINGS SUIT AGAINST OFFICER

West End Man Says He Was Arrested Without Cause.

Charging Officer David Olson with assaulting him and arresting him without just cause, William Gronquist of the West end this morning brought suit against the policeman for $1,000 damages.

According to the claim made by the officer, Gronquist's wife appeared at the bluecoat's home about midnight on April 27, and told the officer that her husband had driven her from home. The officer accompanied her to her home and placed Gronquist under arrest on the charge of drunkenness. Chief Troyer stated this morning that Gronquist had been found guilty of the charge.

Gronquist is suing for $500 for the false arrest and $500 for a beating which he claims the officer gave him. Warren E. Greene is his attorney.

PLAN BIG RALLY.

West End Republican Club Will Hold Meeting Tuesday Evening.

A big rally is being planned by the West End Republican club for next Tuesday evening at Sloan's hall. Hon. Clarence B. Miller, candidate for congress, will be the principal speaker. Charles E. Adams, candidate for county attorney, and several others will also speak during the couse of the evening.

The Grand Army drum corps will furnish the music.

Later the members of the Svea and West End Republican clubs are planning to hold a joint meeting in order to stir up more interest and enthusiasm over the coming election.

No Trace of Relatives.

No trace of the relatives of Peter Nordeen, who committed suicide in the West end Wednesday, can be found, although the authorities have made a thorough search. So far, no funeral arrangements have been made. The body is still at Forward's undertaking parlors.

Declines to Run.

Dr. O. A. Oredson has declined the nomination on the Democratic ticket for the state legislature. He says that it is impossible for him to neglect his medical practice.

West End Shortrails.

Misses Clara Anne and Florence Nelson of the Jennings block have gone to Isle Royale on a two weeks' outing.

Emil Olson and Arthur Burmaster of the U. S. block have gone to San Francisco on a pleasure trip.

Mattie Helm, who at one time lived in the West end, but who now lives in Glencoe, Fla., is the guest of Mrs. H. T. Thompson of 1928 West Michigan street.

Miss Maud Hanson and Miss Nellie Gorby are home after spending an enjoyable two weeks' outing at French river.

ALL RIVALS OF TAFT WILL STUMP FOR HIM.

New York, Aug. 21.—That every one of the candidates for the presidential nomination whose name was presented to the Chicago convention will speak during the national campaign in support of Taft and Sherman is the expectation of Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee. He made this announcement at Republican headquarters here Wednesday. The list includes Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Senator Knox, Senator La Follette and probably Senator Foraker. It is said that Senator Foraker, who was in New York Wednesday on business, feels resentment because of the failure of the men in charge of the Ohio campaign to invite him to speak at Youngstown.

WATER BOARD DEFENDED

To The Editor of The Herald:

One week ago the morning newspaper printed an attack on the board of water and light commissioners of Duluth, which should not go unrebuked. In a "fair play" spirit I sent the editor a letter at once, but he is evidently not going to publish it, so I enclose it because when one side is made public the other side should be. Your very truly,

PAMPILLIO PUNCTILLUS.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 19.

To the Editor of the News-Tribune—If I were an ardent advocate of the extension of municipal ownership, I would pass by without comment the editorial attack on the Duluth water and light commissioners, for what we have of the system will remain and more will continue to be added so long as thinly veiled pleadings for private interests are put forward as arguments against public ownership.

You discuss the board's borrowing $15,000 for a short time, a matter apparently intended to give the impression that it is an unusual procedure and one that no well managed private company would take. How many business concerns are there in this city, do you suppose, who do not frequently borrow money in anticipation of future earnings? How many board of trade firms could continue in business if they did not borrow money to pay "current expenses" in moving the grain crop in the fall and late summer? If you take the trouble to inquire from your business manager, he will tell you that it is not unusual for railroad companies, street railway companies and all other kinds of companies to borrow money on short time notes to meet some immediate demand, "anticipating payment of the notes out of [illegible] earnings."

In the matter of hydrant rentals, you make no case unless you give figures to prove that the cost per hydrant is greater than the cost per hydrant would be if private company owned the plant.

The putting in of by-products coke ovens by the Zenith Furnace company resulted in a reduction of the price of gas, but you need to show that the furnace company would have to make the reduction without any pressure from public officials; also that the price we were paying for gas was higher than the price usually paid in cities where gas is made and sold by private companies.

In the matter of the board's borrowing $15,000 you try to make, inferentially at least, a case of poor business management and a plea for the application of strict business principles; when you get to the matter of installing meters, your heart begins to throb for the poor man and his garden. You would do well to show that private water companies are in the habit of supplying poor men with water free of charge. The installation of meters is an application of business principles, nothing more nor less. When us will pay for what he uses. There is just as much reason for a flat rate in gas, electric light, and street car rides as there is for a flat rate in water. Why don't you belabor the electric light company and the street car company for making the poor man and the rich man alike pay for just so much electric light and just so many street car rides as they use?

Incidently this poor man racket is getting tiresome. I have yet to learn that "the poor man" is the contemptibly pitiable creature that the silver-tongued demagogues of every party and every creed make him out to be, or that he is unwilling to pay for what he gets.

Now I will close where I began by saying that I do not favor an extension of municipal ownership, but an argument against it is one thing, and a specious plea in favor of private interests is another. Your very truly,

PAMPILLIO PUNCTILLUS.

FRUITS ARE PLENTIFUL

Heavy Shipments From Washington—Home Produce Offered.

Small Boys Anxiously Watch Cars of Melons Unloaded.

Michigan street looks like the harvest from some large truck farm these days. It is the time of year when everything is most plentiful. All kinds of home-grown stuff, and a great variety of fruits, berries and melons, are on the market.

The Washington fruit has commenced to arrive, and during the week pears and plums were received. This Washington fruit is very popular among Duluth people, who wait for it each year.

"The week past has been unusually quiet," said a Michigan street man this morning, "but the prices hold well up, and there is a steady demand so that we can't kick. They seem to be using more fruit on the range than they are in town. City trade was quiet, but business on the ranges was good.

"There is not a single new thing on the market. There really is not anything new to get at this time of the year, for everything is on the market."

There are pears and plums from Washington that sell at from $1.50 to $1.75 a crate; California peaches from $1.10 to $1.25; oranges from $4.50 to $5 a box; lemons from $5 to $6 a box, and bananas at 4 cents a pound.

"No there's nothing that I would call extremely cheap, still in quantities such as the average uses, I think fruit is within the reach of every one."

A car of Texas watermelons was received during the week. These are the first Texas melons received in the city. The melon comes from the South, but usually comes from nearer home than Texas. Watermelons have been grown successfully as far north as Central Wisconsin."

It was thought that last week was the last week of blueberries, but nearly half a carload was received during this week. The housewife who has let her blueberry canning go until the last will now have a chance to redeem herself.

These warm summer days the small boys hang around the cars and wait for the freight handlers to drop a melon. The commission man pointed to a group of them anxiously watching two men unload a car of melons. One man inside the car was throwing to a man inside the house. They were throwing accurately at this time and the tongues of the boys were hanging out waiting for a misthrow.

"They are the biggest pest we have, still we enjoy seeing them scramble for a melon once it has fallen," said the commission man.

Blueberries are not plentiful, but a few crates can be bought at $2.25. Blackberries are of the large juicy variety, and are worth $2.00

The apple market is strong, and Michigan street is well supplied. They can be bought at $3.25 to $3.50 a barrel.

Pears are of the finest seen in some years and are selling at $1.75 a bushel.

Home grown lettuce is offered at 75 cents a bushel; wax beans at $1.75 a bushel; cucumbers at $1.75 a bushel; green onions at 18 cents a dozen; radishes at 25c a dozen, and any amount of other home grown stuff at prices to correspond.

The roots of Minnesota are on the market, and can be bought at reasonable prices. Beets, bagas, cabbage, onions potatoes, and so on are displayed in great profusion.

The butter market has been firm all week. Creamery sells at $24 cents and dairy at from 19 to 20 cents.

The demand for eggs has been strong, but the local market has been able to supply it. They are some cheaper at 22 cents.

Some Weather Forecasts.

If the dew lies heavily on the grass in the morning, after a fine day, the one following is sure to be fine also. If not, and there is no wind, rain must come. If the wind veers about much, rain is sure. If your system needs toning up, try a case of golden grain belt beer, the ideal home tonic. Serve daily with your meals and insure health, strength and happiness. Order Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing Company.

SAMARITANS HAVE PICNIC

More than 1,000 people attended the picnic given at Lester Park yesterday by the Modern Samaritans. The weather was particularly agreeable, and from the appearance of the grounds it looked as if every Duluth member of the order was on hand with his family.

An interesting program of athletic events was pulled off in the afternoon. There were races, jumping contests and other games. In the evening there was dancing at the pavilion, and the hall was crowded. Most of the crowd ate a picnic supper at the park and remained during the evening.

WAS STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY

H. H. Jenkins of Fargo Dies on Way to Hospital.

H. H. Jenkins, a Fargo real estate man, was stricken with apoplexy while on board the steamer Easton yesterday afternoon, just before the vessel was due to leave the dock, and died a few minutes later. The stroke came a few minutes before 3 o'clock, and he died shortly after that hour while on his way to the hospital.

Mr. Jenkins had a similar stroke a few days ago, but recovered from it, and to all outward appearances was feeling well. He knew from Dakota physicians, however, that he was liable to have a more serious stroke, and carried a physician with him for just such an emergency. He was on his way to Isle Royale for his health, and was also accompanied by Mrs. Jenkins.

The deceased was 38 years old. He was an officer in the Masonic lodge, and a nephew of Frank Day, secretary to Governor Johnson, who arrived in Duluth with his daughter this morning. The body will be shipped to Fargo, where the funeral will be held.

EDITORS WILL MEET NEXT AT SEATTLE, WASH.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—Practically all of this season's business of the National Editorial association was finished yesterday when Seattle, Wash., was chosen as the 1909 meeting place, and officers were elected for the year. Several cities made application for the next convention, but Toledo and Seattle were the strongest competitors, and when it was seen that Seattle would win, the Toledo delegates moved that the choice of Seattle be made unanimous. Cincinnati, Buffalo, Brownsville, Tex., Atlantic City and Put-in-Bay were also after the convention.

The following officers were elected: President, Will H. Mayes, Brownwood, Tex.; first vice presinedt, A. N. Pomeroy, Cammerlin, Pa.; second vice president, R. E. Dowdell, Artesian, S. D.; third vice president, F. B. Call, Jamestown, N. Y.; corresponding secretary, W. F. Parrott, Waterloo, Iowa; recording secretary, R. H. Walker, Athens, Ala.; treasurer, Will Curtis, Keewaunee, Ill. Delegates from each state were elected members of the executive committee.

Seventy-Six Perished.

Wigan, Eng., Aug. 21.—It is now known that seventy-six miners perished in the explosion and the fire that followed it in the May Pole mine. Finding that it would be impossible to recover the bodies still in the pit, the fire having taking such a firm hold, the directors decided to flood the mine.

THE LUSITANIA BREAKS TRANS-ATLANTIC RECORDS.

New York, Aug. 21.—The Cunard liner Lusitania, finished a sensational run across the Atlantic at 9:30 o'clock last night and when the official figures for the trip became available after the liner had anchored outside the bar for the night, it developed that the big turbiner had not only lowered all records for the trans-Atlantic voyage by nearly four hours, but that she had also broken three other records.

The official timing of the Lusitania placed her off Daunts Rock at 11:30 o'clock last Sunday. Steaming abreast of the light ship at 9:30 o'clock last night, she had made the passage in just four days and fifteen hours. The best previous record, made by her on Nov. 8 last, was 4 days, 18 hours and ering the previous mark by 3 hours and 40 minutes, her new performance low- 40 minutes.

C. P. Employes Must Move.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—Orders were issued from the Canadian Pacific offices today for the evacuation within thirty days of all houses owned by the company and occupied by striking employes. The company owns many of these houses both in Montreal and at other points where they maintain shops. Paymasters have been instructed to make out the August payrolls for strikers and take their names from the books.

New Stillwater Gas Mains.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest L. Hoopes as receiver of the Stillwater Gas & Electric Light company, is going ahead with plans for rather extensive improvements in the gas company affairs. Cast iron pipe of six inches in diameter is on the ground for a new main to take the place of a smaller one on Olive street between Second and Greeley streets.

It was the intention to make extensions on Holcombe street, between Olive and Pine streets, and on South Fourth street, as well as some other short extensions.

BIG PROHIBITION RALLY

Planned at Fargo Next Tuesday When Chafin Speaks.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The prohibitionists of the state are planning to kill two birds with the same stone when the convention and mass meeting and the address of their presidential candidate, E. W. Chafin, occurs here Tuesday. Mr. Chafin is to make four speeches in the state and the cold water people concluded to make the one in Fargo the rallying point.

Fargo is entertaining two distinguished Germans in Lieut. Gottlieb von Nathusins and Edward Reichart of Berlin. They are here investigating harvesting machinery and have visited several fields to watch the machines in operation. They will be taken to some of the big bonanza farms before their return.

La Crosse Helps Fox.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—A letter to John A. Fox, special director of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, from W. A. Anderson, mayor of La Crosse, is to the effect that the business men of that city have raised $500 for furthering the work of the congress in promoting deep waterways.

GREETINGS EXCHANGED

Between the People of Australia and President Roosevelt.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 21.—Upon the arrival of the American fleet at Sydney, N. S. W., the president received through the British charge d'affaires the following telegram from the governor general and government of the commonwealth of Australia:

"Australians, hundreds of thousands of whom are gathered on shores of Sydney harbor to welcome the battleship fleet of the United States, at this moment entering the eastern gateway of this continent, unite in cordial greetings to President Roosevelt. The people of the commonwealth gratefully appreciate the generous response to their invitation by the president and citizens of the republic, and rejoice in the opportunity afforded by this demonstration of the might of American naval power, to express their sincere admiration of your sailors and their esteem and affection for the country whose glorious flag they hope to see always floating beside that of their motherland."

Reply of President.

Secretary Foster returned from a night visit to the president at an early hour this morning. The president sent this telegram in response:

"The British Charge d' Affaires, Manchester, Mass.: Through you I have just received the cordial and kind message from the governor general and government of the commonwealth of Australia, and I desire to express, in my turn, to the governor general and government, and through them to the entire people of the mighty commonwealth of Australia, the appreciation which the American people feel for their generous hospitality to the American fleet. The people of this republic hold in peculiar esteem and admiration the people of Australia, and it was a very real pleasure for me, on behalf of the nation, to accept the generous hospitality proffered by Australia to the fleet on its voyage of peace, for the American navy is a menace to no power, but is, on the contrary, as we believe, an asset of high importance in securing the peace of justice throughout the world.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

part, the absence of the numerous patrols and sentries having seemingly eliminated the incentive to cause excitement by the firing of guns and revolvers. Except for the incident mentioned there was no authenticated instance of "sniping" this morning. It is believed that this form of disorder will disappear tonight because the policemen and deputy sheriffs will not attract the attention on the streets that the rifle bearing and broad hatted soldiers have.

Boy's Chances Not Bright.

Rolla Keys, the boy witness against the alleged assailant of Mrs. Mabel Haham, who was shot accidentally by a companion yesterday was in a satisfactory condition according to early reports from the hospital today. The 22-calibre revolver bullet which struck him ranged into the upper portion of the right lung, it is thought, but the extent of its damage cannot be accurately determined as yet but Keys' chances of recovery are not considered bright by the surgeons. The national guard has risen in the esteem of the residents of the capital, the bad impression made by sky-larking soldiers during the annual encampments at Camp Lincoln having been dissipated by the conduct of the troops during their tours of riot duty. Of the 4,200 men assembled here during the past week, less than a score have been found derelict, the guard tents being the least busy places in the camps.

No announcement has yet been made as to when Maj. Moriarity's command, the Seventh infantry, will be ordered home. This regiment was the strongest, numerically, in the capital. Its departure will depend upon the ability of the police and sheriff's forces to prevent further depredations.

Grand Jury Resumes.

The grand jury resumed its investigations this morning. It is understood that further charges against Abraham Rayner, who was made the subject of six indictments, were being considered. Rayner now stands formally accused of murder, malicious mischief and riot. The indictments, except the one charging murder, are all based upon his alleged actions while the mob was destroying Loper's restaurant, Friday last. The murder charge alleges that he took part in the lynching of William Donigan on the succeeding night. The authorities claim to have information that he was also a ringleader in the raids on the "black belt," which followed the Loper riot and resulted in the burning of about thirty-five structures, the demolition of a score of business houses and the lynching of Scott Burton.

Kate Howard, who was indicted for malicious mischief and riot in four forms, was arrested on a bench warrant last night. Her bail has been fixed at $10,000 by Judge Creighton of the circuit court, who issued the warrant. The charges against her relate to the looting of the Loper restaurant.

Loper was a witness before the coroner's jury last night at the inquest into the death of Louis Johnson, who was found dead in the basement of the restaurant. It developed that no autopsy had been held on the body by Coroner Woodruff, and none of the physicians who viewed the remains would venture a positive opinion as to the cause of death. The possibility that the boy was killed by falling into the basement and breaking his neck may cause an exhumation of the corpse.

IN THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

The New Suits

Early in the season as it is, our showing of the new ladies' Tailored Suits for Fall is a large and varied one, already an excellent idea of the style tendencies for fall and winter may be had from our advance showing of Suits. The Coats for the season, although termed semi-fitted, have more of the appearance of the close fitted models, being more "shaped" than those of the past season—Coats vary in length from 32 to 40 inches.

The Skirts are gored, full flaring, many of them having deep folds of self cloth; materials are principally Chevrons, Cheviots, Broadcloths and fancy Worsteds—in colors of blue, brown, black, green and smoke—either in plain or striped materials.

Satin Bindings, Braids and Button Trimmings are decreed as being carried out this season, although the plain tailored garments are still greatly in demand.

Prices, $19.50, $25.00, $29.50, $32.50 and up to $50.00

New Fall Skirts

Our First Showing of the New Fall Models.

We are showing several special values at $7.50, in both pleated and gored styles, either plain tailored or trimmed with braid and strap trimmings. The skirts are made of good qualities of Panama or French Serge, full and generous in cut, finely tailored and perfectly finished, in colors of blue, brown and black. These skirts will be found to be particularly attractive and low priced at

Judge Landis' decision, that if the interpretation of the law given by Judges Grosscup, Seaman, and Baker, were allowed to stand, successful prosecution of rebate cases against corporations would be impossible in the future. The lawyers at that conference, over which the attorney-general of the United States presided, were a unit in expressing the opinion that the reforms in rebate matters brought about by the Roosevelt administration would represent so much waste of time unless the upper court can be convinced that it is in error in its construction of the law.

Only One Point Criticized.

"On but a single point involved in the trial up to the return of the verdict of guilty," says the petition, "are the rulings of the trial court criticized by the court of appeals. In all other particulars his rulings are sustained. The point on which the trial judge is reversed by the court of appeals, relates to his ruling on evidence and his charge to the jury with reference to ignorance on the part of the Standard Oil company of the lawful rate as a defense. The court of appeals in its opinion has not correctly stated how the judge ruled on this subject."

Continuing, the petition declares that whereas, the opinion of the court of appeals, states that Judge Landis refused to admit evidence to the effect that the Standard Oil company did not know what the lawful rate was, the record of proceedings in the lower court shows that such evidence was admitted.

Although the government points out what it considers other errors in the opinion of the appeate court, the allegation that the Standard Oil company did know that it was not paying the legal rate, is regarded as the vital point. If, with the evidence introduced at the trial before Judge Landis, it can be held that the defendant did not have guilty knowledge of its own acts, then successful prosecution of similar cases is regarded as impossible. All the years of legislation designed to correct rebate abuses would have to be repeated.

The petition concludes:

Based on Misconception.

"It is therefore respectfully submitted: That the opinion of this court is based upon a misconception of the record with reference to the rulings of the trial judge as to the admission of evidence tending to show want of knowledge, and with reference to his construction of the statute on that subject, and the theory on which the case was tried; that the evidence of Bogardus, which it is claimed showed want of knowledge, was admitted; that it was overcome, however, by the facts and circumstances of the case, and that the evidence as an entirety was sufficient to show actual knowledge, or what in law was its equivalent;

"That the interpretation of the statute by this court, imposing no duty on the shipper and permitting a defense of ignorance to be made without regard to the negligence of the shipper, is contrary to the language of the statute and to its purpose, and seriously impairs the efficiency of the act;

"That the ruling stated in the opinion as to the basis for determining the number of offenses involves an erroneous construction of the statute and fails to take into consideration that the thing which is prohibited by the act is the transportation of property at the unlawful rate;

"That the criticism of the trial judge for abuse of discretion rests upon a wrong assumption of what the trial judge actually did and assumes that he attempted to try and punish the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, when in fact, as appears from the record, the entire proceedings were directed against the defendant, the Standard Oil company of Indiana;

"That the ruling stated in the opinion to the effect that a fine is excessive when it exceeds in amount the ability of the defendant to pay is an innovation in criminal law and if generally applied would prevent the practical enforcement of most criminal statutes;

"That, in short, the opinion as it stands erroneously states material portions of the record; does injustice to the trial judge; leaves doubtful in a new trial the rule of law to be applied, both as to knowledge on the part of the shipper, and as to the number of offenses; appears to be in conflict with the language of the presiding judge of this court, and with the great weight of legal authority; and, if permitted to remain unmodified, will tend to encourage disobedience to law, to impede the enforcement of salutary statutes and largely to defeat their purpose.

"For the reasons stated we respectfully request that a reargument of this case be granted."

PLANTING FISH FRY.

Large Consignment Being Placed in Northern Minnesota Streams.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state fish car Glenwood came from St. Paul yesterday with a consignment of 200 cans of fish fry for points between and including Anoka and Big Falls. The fish and game commission, Carlos Avery, their executive agent, and S. F. Fullerton, the superintendent of fisheries, accompanied the car. Senator S. F. Alderman and Judge C. W. Stanton, accompanied the car from Brainerd to International Falls. The commission will make some investigations on the fisheries question on the Rainy river and lake, as well as enjoy an outing there. They expect to visit the site of the new hatchery at Deerwood on their return. The dams there are progressing finely and everything will be in readiness for erecting a building as soon as the legislature provides the means.

BRAINERD FLOUR MILL HAS BEGUN TO GRIND.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Brainerd Milling company started the machinery of its mill today for the first time. The mill, which was purchased by the company a few months ago, has been rebuilt at an expense of over $6,000, and is now one of the best equipped mills in Minnesota. It will have a capacity of 100 barrels daily.

Minneapolis real estate men to the number of sixty were in the city last night on their way home from a trip to International Falls.

GOVERNOR AT HEADQUARTERS

Minnesota's Executive Calls on Chairman Mack at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Governor Charles Haskell of Oklahoma, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, arrived at Democratic headquarters today and began systematizing his efforts to secure contributions. He said money was coming in in fair amounts and that there would be enough to finance a good campaign.

Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, who was a caller at Democratic national headquarters today, informed Chairman Mack that, as he had been drafted as the party's standard bearer in Minnesota he would have to devote most of his time during the campaign to work in that state. He would, however, do everything possible for the national ticket so far as loyalty to his Minnesota colleagues would permit.

Governor Johnson on next Monday will confer with members of the Democratic state central committee of his home state as to how much of his time will be demanded by local politics. He will then inform Mr. Mack to what extent he will be able to lend his strength to the general campaign.

Governor Johnson has just completed a series of Chautauqua lectures in Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois. He said the signs for Democratic success in the fall were positive.

Another who was W. G. Conrad of Montana, whose candidacy for the Democratic vice presidential nomination was a feature of the pre-convention canvass.

Girls Not Kidnaped.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 21.—It is reported that the Beihn sisters, who were suspected to have been kidnaped, were seen walking toward Milwaukee the night they disappeared, and they are believed to have left home voluntarily, and not to have been stolen, as claimed by their father.

STEEL OFFICIALS VISIT.

Looking Over Iron Mines on Marquette Range.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A party of chief engineers of subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation, who have been in the Copper country the past few days, spent a short time at Champion Wednesday, leaving that evening for Iron Mountain.

The engineers found that the Champion mine engine house has one of the most complete plants in this region. When the Oliver Iron Mining company took over the property a few years ago, it practically rebuilt the entire hoisting plant, also the water works pumping plant at the lake. The compressor was moved from its former location to the main building; the old engines were provided with new cylinders, safety clutch devices and other up-to-date equipment. By numerous changes the company modernized the plant in every respect.

The party is being personally conducted by H. J. Wessenger of Duluth, chief engineer of the Oliver Iron Mining company, who is a frequent visitor to this range. The other members of the party are: John Reis of New York, assistant to President F. E. Corey of the U. S. Steel corporation; J. L. Bernard of Beaver, Pa., mechanical engineer for the American Bridge company; F. H. Daniels of Worcester, Pa., chief engineer of the American Steel & Wire company; P. C. Patterson of Pittsburg, chief engineer of the American Steel & Wire company; E. E. Slick of Pittsburg, chief engineer of the Carnegie company; L. Holmboe of Chicago, chief engineer of the Illinois Steel company; M. A. Neeland of New York, assistant to Mr. Reis.

New Bemidji Building.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the many new buildings, which are being erected in Bemidji this summer is a new block being put up by Kline, Hagberg & Hornmann, to be used as a meat market.

It is built of pressed brick, one story high, and twenty-five feet wide by about 100 feet deep. Completed, the structure will cost between $6,000 and $7,000.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

This afternoon the mothers of the young girls who have been attending the domestic science school at the Irving school were invited to be present at a little exhibition, which will close the work for the summer. The school, which has been maintained by the Women's Council of the city has been under the instruction of Miss Martha Whitham with Miss Sophie Hogan as assistant. Classes in cooking and sewing have been taught and during the six weeks' term, 130 girls have been enrolled. In former years the school has been held in the building of the Adams' school which was unavailable this year because of repairs to the building, and although the location was changed to the Irving school at West Duluth a large class of girls has been reached who probably would have been unable to attend the classes at the Adams' school.

"Although of course there are always a few in a school of this kind, who will not voluntarily give their undivided attention to such work," said Miss Whitham in speaking of the summer term, "there are the girls who conscientiously attend and who reap great benefit from the instruction. I feel that it has been a success this summer and that Duluth can do nothing better than provide summer schools of this sort for the children."

A large number of the mothers were entertained this afternoon and showed much interest in the work accomplished by their young daughters.

BEAUTIFUL AFFAIR

Is Lawn Fete at Spirit Lake Club House.

Another of the beautiful events of the summer season at which the members of the Boat club were hosts, took place last evening at the Spirit Lake branch of the club, when the charming little resort was a blaze of lights and more than 1,000 guests listened to the program of music of light opera selections which was played by the Third Regiment band. The affair was planned by the club president, Julius H. Barnes and the details were carried out by a committee consisting of Albert Ames, James Ginder, E. Walker, R. W. Marshall, Guy E. Warren, C. B. Stewart, Walter N. Tolman, A. K. Squires, Rev. Arthur Wurtele, Dr. Clarence Taylor, J. D. Mahoney, A. G. Messer, George S. Higgins and R. R. Wells. The design for the illuminations were planned by Frank Libby.

The paths about the clubhouse were flooded with light from Japanese lanterns swung a uniform height from the ground. The club buildings were outlined in gleaming lights and the line of lights was in several places lifted high above the architecture of the building. On the basketball grounds the Third Regiment band was stationed and the place by the aid of the graceful grouping of the lights made a most attractive improvised theater for the concert. Chairs were placed for 400 guests. Arches of light across the pathways gave pleasing variation and the piers and paths leading from them were lighted.

Ninety of the club members dined at the branch early in the evening and more than 1,000 of the members and their guests enjoyed the affair. On the special train which went from the union station in the evening 700 guests were taken to the scene and twenty-five launches were tied to the piers and almost as many more were forced to run aground at any convenient point to reach the clubhouse. Ten motor cars were lined up on the path leading from the New Duluth road and fifty of the nearly campers were present for the affair. The ideal floor of the new dancing pavilion attracted dancers during the entire evening.

The scene from the river was one of almost unbelievable beauty, and the affair is but another added to the list of splendidly planned affairs to the credit of the club.

SOCIETY VAUDEVILLE

Delightful Program is Given at Country Club.

Almost the entire membership of the Country club was present last evening at the club house when a most enjoyable bill of vaudeville was presented by the members and their out of town guests. The evening was a most highly successful one. Much interest centered in the sketch, which was presented by Mrs. F. A. Patrick and Arthur Applin of London. The bit of comedy was called "The Burglar" and was written especially for this occasion by Mr. Applin. It was delightfully presented. Mrs. Applin gave two readings, which were received with great pleasure and Miss Redledge of New York, who has appeared professionally in Duluth in the "Belle of New York" and more recently with Grace Von Studiford in "Red Feather" sang two numbers.

The numbers by the club members were songs by Mrs. Homer Collins, who is always given a warm welcome, and the charmingly pretty nonsense rhymes by Miss Berta Schmeld, which she presented with a piano accompaniment. Miss Julia Hunter gave three piano numbers and a dance by little Anita Lachmund of New York, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Emma L. Schmeld was received with enthusiasm.

The approach to the club house and the table d'hote dinner was served early in the evening. After the program an informal dance was enjoyed.

Honors Guest.

Mrs. George H. Crosby entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home, 2029 East Superior street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. J. Omer Cole of Peru, Ind. The game was played at four tables and the favors were won by Mrs. Hans Christiansen, Mrs. A. M. Chisholm and Mrs. C. G. Traphagen.

Mr. and Mrs. Crosby entertained at dinner last evening at the Country club in compliment to their guest.

Dancing Party.

Mrs. Frank Lyman and Mrs. George S. Richards have issued invitations for a dancing party at the main house of the Boat club Wednesday evening of next week in compliment to Miss Katherine Pearson of Minneapolis.

Dance at Joyland.

The young women of the Duluth Telephone exchange will entertain at a dancing party at the Joyland pavilion Monday evening of next week.

Sheath Girdle.

The sheath girdle is the very newest form of belt, and is a flat tubular ribbon, woven from mercerized thread. This waist accessory is made from one and one-quarter yards of ribbon and is arranged around the waist, tied once, a short end overhanging on the left side.

It is usually fashioned from solid colors, or a colored stripe alternating with one of white, besides stripes in combinations of colors.

The ends are fringed and then knotted.

To Mark Linen.

Cross-stitch embroidery is always suitable for marking household linen, and, where the linen is not of a weave the threads of which may be easily counted, a satisfactory way is to baste a piece of old-fashioned foundation canvas upon the section to be marked, says an exchange.

Then work your cross-stitch letters through the holes of the canvas, being careful not to stitch through the threads of the canvas. Draw your stitches moderately tight and when the embroidery is finished, pull the canvas away thread by thread. This is simple enough work, but it must be done carefully, so as not to pull the embroidery.

the EVENING STORY

Grayson's Forgotten Promise

By Hal Hunniston.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Grayson sat at the car window drinking in the landscape with an eagerness he had not known for many years. The delights of the theater and the opera, the sensation of travel, even the fierce contest of the stock exchange, had all palled upon him. Jaded and tired from contact with the world, he was on his way back to the old home in the quiet hills to see if they were really as refreshing as they seemed to him as he looked back to them during brief pauses in his feverish life.

It really seemed to him as though they were, as he sat looking out of the window and recognized the familiar landmarks. He was getting closer and closer every moment—now was scarcely twenty miles from the old home station, and the landscape grew more familiar each moment. He could scarcely believe there could have been so little change in so long a time. After all how long was it? Only ten years. But what an age seemed to have been included in that decade.

Since he had gone forth to woo fame and fortune it seemed as though eons of time had passed. Well, he had not been so unsuccessful. He certainly had won the money he had set out to get. Yes, he was a rich man, and they listened on 'change when he spoke. As to fame—well, what is fame anyway? He was known wherever great affairs of finance were conducted, and was that not as much fame as to drone about in legislative halls?

The fact remained, however, that he was desperately tired of it all—tired and worn out and it seemed to him if only he could get into his old jeans and hike across the hills to Stillson's pond with a hook and line in his pocket, cut a pole from one of Kyle's trees without getting caught by the dog, and spend the day standing knee deep in the water and land a good mess of fish and then carry them back to Aunt Hannah and coax her to cook them the way she used to—that he would be supremely happy.

While he was thinking these things the train stopped at a junction and a young woman got on. He noticed her casually and returned to his thoughts and then tried to count the telegraph poles as he used to do in the old days—and laughed when he failed even as he used to fail. His eyes wandered back to the young woman who had entered at the last station. There was something strangely familiar about the side-face which puzzled him. Presently he looked at her again and noted that she was regarding him out of the corner of her eye.

After a time their eyes met and both flushed recognition. She half rose and exclaimed:

"Paul—surely it is Paul Grayson."

He was at her side before she had completed the sentence.

"Nina," he cried. "As I live, Nina Horton."

He sat down beside her and noted with exquisite pleasure the soft flush which grew in her cheek. He had nearly forgotten Nina; how careless of him. His old sweetheart with whom he had roamed the countryside and taken to the spelling bees, and fought the other boys about and pledged eternal fidelity to and kissed in the moonlight and to whom, when he went away he had pledged his heart. There was a distinct thrill in meeting her again. It made him feel quite young again—and so handsome and ruddy and well poised, too. He scarcely could believe it was the callow maiden in short dresses he had left. And she evidently was as greatly moved as he at the meeting. His heart leaped. He had not felt such a thrill since Northern Pacific broke and lost him a half million in a half hour and he switched quick enough to get out even in the next ten minutes—and then went to a hospital with nervous prostration.

"And so you have come back at last, Paul," she was saying softly and her eyes dropped. "We have been looking for you and waiting for you for a long time."

His pulse throbbed as he leaned toward the splendid creature. Then something in her face or attitude struck him and he leaned back half stunned and made a common place reply.

Great heavens, had Nina taken it seriously? Had she waited for him all these strenuous years and remembered her promises and his.

"And you have not written for ever so long," she went on, with the most charming air of reproach. "Years and years, Paul."

He mentioned some conventional excuse. Write—why, he even had forgotten the old hillside home these many years, and as for writing, did any busy operator ever write anything longer than a telegram? But the alarming thing was the coy attitude of the girl and the sidelong glances she shot from her expressive brown eyes—he never had noticed in the old days that she had such fetching eyes. But the situation was becoming embarrassing—especially when he remembered Madonna-like Pauline in his great castle on the avenue. Of course Pauline never could send the blood coursing through his veins as this woman was doing—but then Pauline graced his establishment with the aristocratic flavor of her blue blood. Sometimes he wished it were a trifle more red even at the expense of her regal dignity. Now if Nina was there with her glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes and lithe figure to share—but pshaw, what nonsense is this?

"We have missed you so much," Nina was saying. Then looking up with a happy ingenuous smile she went on: "But it's all right now, that you have come back."

Great heavens, was she snuggling close to him. Yes, there was no mistake about it. And what could a man do but snuggle a little himself. By this time he had got to the point of pitying her.

"Poor child," he thought; "it will break her heart." And he put one of his hands over one of the dainty ones so seemingly close, and gave it a gentle squeeze.

"You will come right up to the house with me, won't you, Paul," she whispered. "There really is nowhere else to stop. You know Aunt Hannah is dead?"

Aunt Hannah dead and he never had heard of it? That was a shock, indeed. But to go home with her—that surely would lead to consequences. No, it evidently was time to stop this nonsense.

His heart was full of pity as he said:

"My dear Nina, I have been a brute, but out in the world men lose themselves and—and forget the old home ties and the old days. I have been in the thick of the fight and—and—I have been so long away—that—you see I built up a new life in a new place—and you see I didn't think you remembered—or took it seriously—and all that sort of thing—and—and—Nina, the fact is I am a married man and just came back to get a whiff of the old air."

He paused lamely and she lifted her handkerchief to her face so he could not see it; but he could feel her tremble and he felt the guilty wretch he was.

"Smithville," yelled the brakeman just then and the train slowed down. Poor Grayson would have given ten thousand not to have had to get off with the girl, who still held her handkerchief to her face. But he was in for it and resolved to take his punishment. He picked up her baggage and his and laboriously waddled off the car after her.

On the platform she put her handkerchief in her pocket and Grayson noticed that there were no traces of tears in her eyes. Before he had time to wonder about it a tall-bearded fellow with bronzed skin and cheery voice strode forward and gathered Nina into his arms with a fervor which threatened the integrity of her ribs. Presently when she had extricated herself from the embrace, which was before Grayson recovered his senses, she turned to him with that coyness which always suggests mischief, and said:

"Oh, Mr. Grayson, I want you to meet my husband, Mr. Simpson. Joe, this is Paul Grayson, the New York banker. He used to live here years ago and we were great chums when we were children."

Then as Grayson mechanically shook hands with the big bronzed fellow, she went on: "I have been trying to induce Mr. Grayson to stop at our house while he visits the scenes of his boyhood. Really, you must, Paul, and see my girls. Nina is 8 and May is 6 and Jessie is 4 and Lillian is 2—and we've the sweetest little baby just 3 months old."

What Precious Stones Mean.

Diamonds rank first among precious stones, being the most beautiful, brilliant and valuable of gems, and signify light, royalty. The pearl is an emblem of purity, humility and innocence. Like the diamond, golden grain belt beer ranks first among all beverages. It is not only the purest of all beverages, but also the most beneficial to body and mind. Have it on the home table at all times. Order from Duluth branch of Minneapolis Brewing company.

Frosts Visit Fertile.

Fertile, Minn., Aug. 21.—The first white frost of the season covered the ground here yesterday morning, but did very little damage to plants.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Crab apples, 45 cents a peck.
Wild plums, $1 a basket.
Spinach, 25 cents a peck.
Egg plant, 15 cents each.
Very grand carrots, four bunches for 10 cents.
Sweet potatoes, four pounds for 25 cents.
Fruit.
Hens, broilers or roasters, 20, 25 or 28 cents per pound.
Beef kidneys, 10 cents each.
Autumn asters.

With air tasting like "they" say wine tastes and exquisite asters in generous clusters flaunting their beauty from the florists' windows, there is nobody who cares what there is to eat, especially just after breakfast. The market does, however, show a prodigality of late summer vegetables, and they are all fairly good and fairly cheap, and it is a difficult matter to decide just what to have. In the meat market lobsters repose on the ice, and the fish, cool and subdued, are arranged in rigid rows that give no inkling of their one-time frenzied flopping.

The Saturday marketing should be a matter that may be finished with ease and despatch.

BOULEVARD IS DAMAGED

Heavy Rains Wash Out Fill Over the Culvert.

Extension Will Not be Completed Before Next Year.

Considerable damage was done to the extension of the boulevard on the hill back of West Duluth by the recent heavy rains. The fill over the culvert, in the ravine at the top of Fortieth avenue west, was washed out and in several other places along the new work there were several other minor washouts reported.

At the park board meeting, held the first Monday in this month, Supt. H. C. Helm said that he would put men on the boulevard job as soon as he had completed several rush pieces of work he had on hand. Men are now at work on the extension, repairing the fill at Fortieth avenue west, and continuing with the road making farther west.

It is planned to build the boulevard so that it will terminate on the St. Louis county road, which is also known as the Oneota cemetery road. Little work has been done beyond Forty-first or second avenue west, except to bush it out. There is still about a mile to be made into road. Dr. I. T. Burnside, a West Duluth member of the park board, said this morning that they had hoped to have the road through this fall, but it was very doubtful if they would complete it until next summer. The work, he said, had necessarily been slow, on account of the lack of funds.

NEW POSTOFFICE.

Uncle Sam Takes Possession of His New Quarters.

This morning the West Duluth postoffice was installed in its new quarters on Bristol street, off Central avenue, and the mails will be distributed from there from now on.

There have been reports from time to time that the postoffice would be moved in a few days, but each time something came up to delay it.

It occupies the ground floor of the building, and it will be furnished with the new and up-to-date fixtures which have been so long in arriving from the East. The quarters are well lighted and in every way seem to be satisfactory for the use to which they are put.

GIVES HIMSELF UP.

Young Man Tires of Efforts to Elude the Police.

Last evening Stanley Andresky, who has been wanted by the West Duluth police since April 2 for stealing timbers from the Northern Pacific's railroad's right of way near Smithville, walked into the police station and gave himself up.

At the time of the theft his brother was arrested and fined by Judge Flack in the West Duluth justice court, for having been implicated in the larceny. Stanley could not be located then, but in the last few days the police learned that he was back in West Duluth and visited his home, but did not find him in. It was the young man's father who advised him to give himself up. It was also the father who paid the other brother's fine. Andresky's hearing is set for 10 o'clock Monday morning in the West Duluth justice court.

Talk on Temperance.

There will be a special meeting on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Norwegian Lutheran church, corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street. The address of the afternoon will be given by Peter Swenson, a member of the Norwegian parliament, who came to this country as a delegate from Sweden to attend the meeting of the International Grand Lodge I. O. G. T., which met at Washington, D. C., about two months ago. Mr. Swenson is considered one of the most prominent temperance workers in his native land. He is also said to be a very fine speaker.

Two Small Fires.

Two small fires started yesterday afternoon in the yards of the old Merrill & Ring mill, which burned down several months ago. One was at about 10 o'clock and the other was at 1 o'clock. They are supposed to have started from sparks from the Nessinger plant as the wind was from that direction. About the old mill site there is a coating of sawdust and dry chips, which easily ignite. Before the fire department left after their second call, they gave the whole yard a thorough wetting with the hose.

West Duluth Briefs.

Miss Effie Mintle of Minneapolis is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. O. Applehagen. Miss Mintle will teach at the Fairmont school this year.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Grice of the Asbury M. E. church have returned from a week's outing on Lake Pokegama, near Grand Rapids, Minn. Mr. Grice will preach at the Asbury church Sunday morning and evening.

Mrs. Joseph Cocklin of 608 North Fifty-sixth avenue west will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Baptist church this evening at her home.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Hara, at Mrs. Olson's hospital, yesterday.

The annual Northern Minnesota district convention of the Degree of Honor, ladies' auxiliary of the A. O. U. W., is meeting this afternoon in Gilley's hall. At 6 o'clock a banquet will be served, and in the evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be a lodge meeting.

A social will be given this evening by the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the West Duluth Baptist church at the home of Mrs. Joseph Cochrane of 608 South Fifty-sixth avenue east.

Mrs. C. M. Porter of O'Fallon, Ill., is the guest at the home of her brother, L. A. Barnes.

Mrs. Mose Mark and Miss Marie Mark of St. Paul arrived in West Duluth last evening for a ten days' visit with Mrs. Mark's sister, Mrs. N. B. Abrahamson, of North Fifty-eighth avenue west.

Registered at the Phillips hotel are T. J. Collins of Proctor, Clifton Ford of Fergus Falls, Earle Waterworth of Eau Claire, Harold Campbell of Chicago and Chap Cash of San Francisco.

The funeral of Mrs. Aaron West will take place tomorrow afternoon from the residence, 11 South Fifty-seventh avenue west, at 2 o'clock. The interment will be at Oneota cemetery.

Misses Elva Smith and Lillian Ramstead entertained last evening at the home of Miss Ramstead, 5505 West Sixth street, at a lawn party. The evening was passed at games. The refreshments were served out of doors. Those present were Misses Grace Backbec, Ruby Mitchell, Ruth Zauft, Beatrice Ramstead, Katherine McDonald; Masters Raymond Erickson, Ernest Christensen, Norman Geistman, Warwood Watson, Hamilton Phelps, Wallace Hawkins and Reeve Hawkins.

HEAT WAVE SWEEPS EUROPE.

Berlin Experiencing Its Hottest Summer for Generations.

London, Aug. 21.—London, and in fact the whole of Europe, has been suffering from an intense heat wave. Berlin reports that it is experiencing the hottest summer known there for generations. In Lisbon recently the thermometer registered 100 in the shade at 6 p. m. This is the highest figure ever recorded on the Atlantic seaboard of Europe at that hour of the day. The intense heat at Lisbon added to the discomfort caused to the inhabitants by the shortage of water in that city.

Some of the temperatures recorded in the area of the heat wave were: Lisbon, 100; Germany, 90; Austria, 98; Lapland, 80; London, 74.

HORSE FOR TAFT.

Iowa Offers to Provide Biggest Animal in the State.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Persons whose sympathies have gone out to the horse ridden by Candidate William H. Taft, in his efforts to combat obesity, were cheered by information that the following telegram had been sent from Chicago by an Iowa man to the Republican presidential nominee:

"Judge William H. Taft, Hot Springs, Va.: Have 2,200-pound saddle horse, named 'Buffalo.' Biggest animal in Iowa, and guaranteed to carry any weight under a ton. Offer you this horse as token of esteem, and will consider it honor if you accept. Can ship at once. Answer.

SEEK DIVORCE.

Husbands Are Plaintiffs in Two Cases Filed in District Court.

Two divorce cases were filed with the clerk of court today. Jacob Speh of Chisholm prefers serious statutory charges against his wife, Mary, and asks divorce on this ground. Speh is 30 years old and his wife 20. They have been married since Aug. 5, 1907.

William H. Johnston of Duluth is seeking divorce from his wife, Amy, on the ground of desertion. He says that they married on March 29, 1898, and that on Aug. 11, 1906, his wife left him, in spite of his protests, and has since been living at Northbome, Minn. There was one child, a boy, who has been in the custody of his father, and in his petition for divorce the father asks the custody of the child. Johnston is 39 years of age; his wife 28.

Contest at Primaries.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time in the history of the county there is to be a contest at the Democratic primaries. William McGinty, several weeks ago, filed for the nomination for sheriff, and last week Daniel Linnehan, the former holder of the office, also filed, thus making a contest in the primaries.

SUPERIOR NEWS

BIG YARDS FOR SUPERIOR.

Soo Road Will Construct Seventeen Miles of Track.

Yesterday before the state railroad commission some of the railroad construction that is planned for Superior was made known.

The testimony brought out the fact that the Soo line intends to build seventeen miles of track in the Connor's Point yards, and, among other things, that the Soo, Omaha and the Northern Pacific roads eventually intend to make use of the interstate bridge for a part of their traffic. The Soo line will build two docks, 1,200 feet long and 80 feet wide, with a slip between them for boats. The road will use these docks for its merchandise traffic on the lakes. The Soo will also enter into negotiations for an approach to the interstate bridge, which all roads may use if they desire. Property for a joint approach will be condemned by the Duluth-Superior Bridge company.

Placed Under Bonds.

For an alleged threat to take the life of J. Bouden, an ex-policeman, Ducild Bouvine was yesterday placed by Judge Parker under bonds to keep the peace.

No New Developments.

No further developments have taken place in the Young murder case, though it is believed that the attorneys for the state have some strong evidence, which they will bring out during the trial. Another trip to Foxboro was made yesterday by Coroner Dudley and County Physician O'Brien. They exhumed the body and made further investigations. Kramer, the alleged man-slayer, has had his preliminary hearing set for Wednesday.

A Turning Basin.

If the Great Northern railroad does not receive permission to build its trestle from "H" avenue to the interstate bridge, the Superior Shipbuilding company will construct a turning basin in the upper end of its yards. The company claims that such a trestle as is proposed will interfere with its plans.

Stephenson Clubs.

Plans for advancing Isaac Stephenson's prospects for another term as senator were discussed last evening at a meeting of a number of "Uncle Ike's" admirers. Stephenso clubs are being formed in several wards of the city.

Fled From Hospital.

Charles Lindahl, who has been a patient at the St. Mary's hospital for some time, on account of mental derangements, yesterday noon made his escape and fled in his night clothes to the police station for protection. He was returned to the hospital, where he became so violent that he was put into a straight jacket.

Starkweather Speaks.

Ex-Mayor C. S. Starkweather addressed a large audience at Billings park last night. Mr. Starkweather's speech drew a comparison between the two candidates for congress, Jenkins and Lenroot, in which he scored Lenroot for not looking after the interests of Superior and its district at Madison.

GOVERNOR MAGOON OF CUBA AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Charles E. Magoon, provisional governor of Cuba, arrived here today. He called on the secretary of war and had an extended conference with him. Governor Magoon will go to Oyster Bay Tuesday next and expects to be back in Cuba by Sept. 1. Governor Magoon said he saw no likelihood of difficulty in turning over the islands to the Cuban government. He spoke in the highest terms concerning the general condition of the people on the island.

SAY STEAMER WAS DELAYED

Owner Wants Heavy Damages From the Coal Company.

Claiming that it was delayed in unloading a cargo of coal from the steamer Ionia in October of last year, the Ionia Transportation company of Buffalo, N. Y., has brought suit in the federal court against the Lehigh Valley Coal company for the sum of $1,750.

The steamship company claims that the boat was first chartered to Houghton at the rate of 50 cents a ton. Upon arriving at that port, the dock refused to receive the coal, and the boat laid up waiting for orders, which finally came, sending the boat to Superior to unload.

The boat company says that nine full days were lost in this manner, and that the time of the boat at this particular part of the year was worth $250 a day. They say the boat could have easily been unloaded in two days' time, and they have taken the two days off the time actually lost. The whole time the boat company lost was eleven days.

In answer to the complaint the Lehigh Coal company admits that some little time was used in Houghton before orders could be sent to them, but denies that the boat lost eleven days. It is also claimed that the boat would have lost the time anyway, because while waiting for orders in Houghton the boat had extensive repairs made to her rudder, which was in such bad condition that it was almost unable to make port.

The case was heard before Judge Morris this morning and was taken under advisement by him.

Granted New Trial.

Bagley, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Stanton has filed a decision in the case of the State of Minnesota against J. H. Ferris, found guilty of grand larceny in the second degree, in which the judge directs that the verdict of the jury be set aside and a new trial granted on the grounds and for the reasons that said verdict is not sustained by the evidence.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS TURTLE

One Man Killed, Four Persons Are Hurt at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 21.—One man was killed and two men and two women injured early today at Wesley and West Jefferson streets when a wheel of a sixty horsepower automobile gave way and the machine turned turtle, pinning the occupants under it. An explosion followed which set fire to the machine. It was with the greatest difficulty that the living occupants were saved from death in the flames that consumed the machine. The dead:

JOSEPH BOBBS, chauffeur, aged 26 years.

The injured will recover.

These Prices Talk.

Creates Elmsdorf Fund.

New York, Aug. 21.—The will of Dr. Joachim Elmsdorf of New York city was admitted to probate today. The will directs that at the death of his widow $5,000 shall be given to the synod of the Reformed Church of America to create the Elmsdorf fund, the income of which is to be annually given to the beneficiaries of the disabled ministers' fund.

WORK OF BRUTE.

Willow Creek, Minn., Young Woman Assaulted by Unknown Man.

Vernon Center, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edith Saulsbury, daughter of Almond Saulsbury, of Willow Creek, was brutally outraged by an unknown assailant. Her parents had gone to Amboy to trade and she was alone at home. She was washing the windows when a man approached her from behind, throwing a cloth over her head which was saturated with chloroform, saying: "I was here before when you was asleep; now I'll put you to sleep."

He then carried her into the house. When she revived, an hour later, she dragged herself to the telephone and called for help. The surrounding country was immediately in arms and posses organized.

KOREAN EDITOR IS TURNED OVER TO POLICE.

Seoul, Aug. 21.—The British consul general today unconditionally surrendered to the Korean authorities the editor of the vernacular edition of the "Daily News," who escaped from the police on Aug. 13, and sought refuge in the home of E. T. Bethel, the English proprietor of the paper. Bethel at that time raised the English ensign over his gate and positively refused to surrender the editor to the police on their demand, claiming for him extra territorial protection from the British consul. The trial of the editor will shortly commence on the charge that he was connected with the misappropriation of a part of the Korean national loan redemption fund.

Several Persons Hurt.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Several persons were slightly hurt today when whites and negroes at the corner of Chicago and Milton avenues became involved in a quarrel, using bricks and stones as weapons. A patrol wagon loaded with police responded to a riot call, but the combatants had dispersed when the police arrived.

World Encourage Aviation.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Baron d'Estournelles de Constant today announced his intention of urging the French senate to make an appropriation for the encouragement of aviation in France.

Baptists to Organize.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 21.—Baptists from all over the country attending the Winona Bible conference took steps today to form a permanent association, with headquarters at Winona Lake. They decided to raise funds to erect a building to cost approximately $50,000.

Why They Were Certified

Being a State official and authorized to authenticate documents, I have been called upon in my official capacity to authenticate hundreds of statements that are so at variance with the popular beliefs, and the evidence of the text books, as to the curability of chronic kidney disease, that the unusual precaution was taken to have them authenticated with an official seal.

Several hundred letters and statements selected because they were from supposed incurables were presented for attestation and certificates. The recoveries reported by them permit only two views, viz: Either the age of miracles has not passed or the text books are wrong and the supposed dead line between the curable and the incurable forms of kidney disease has disappeared. To my mind there is no escape from the latter view, and chronic kidney disease, even in its worst forms, is no longer an incurable malady.

I further certify that the recoveries certified to as above were made by Fulton's Renal Compound.

In attestation of the foregoing, I hereby attach my signature and official seal at my office in Montgomery block, San Francisco, California, this 28th day of February, 1908.

(Seal) THOMAS S. BURNES, Notary Public, In and for the City and County of San Francisco.

Fulton's Renal Compound is the first successful Renal emollent thus reducing Renal inflammation, and kidney disease is now curable for the first time. Even serious supposed incurable forms yield as above. At all first-class druggists.

FAMINE OF CHORUS GIRLS.

Eastern Managers Find There's a Dearth of Shapely Women.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—There is a famine in chorus girls. The big towns like Chicago, New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where companies are rehearsing for the opening of the season, are suffering from the lack of shapely young women who can dance and sing. One night stands have not yet felt the effects of the shortage.

But it is not improbable that those places will be called upon to furnish "merry villagers" and "amazons" for more than one musical comedy before the theatrical season of 1908-09 is well under way. Stagefolk say that never before was there such a scarcity of chorus girls. New York managers have sent emissaries to Chicago during the last two weeks to engage all the girls they could get.

Extraordinary inducements have been offered to experienced stage woman, but it is almost impossible for the agents to get girls who know the business.

PIGS' SANITARY STY.

Sleep in a Steam Heated Flat and Eat Cooked Food.

Danville, Pa., Aug. 21.—Work is under way on the new "sanitary pigsty" at the Danville state hospital for the insane, for which the legislature appropriated $6,000, and palatial quarters are promised for the pigs to be housed there.

The sty will be warmed by steam heat, lighted by electricity and the hogs will not partake of no common swill, but will feast on "cooked food." This implies that as a feature of the "sanitary apparatus and equipment" the piggery is to have a cuisine. Protected from the cold and with their diet under constant surveillance the hogs could not do otherwise than prosper.

They will not be permitted to wallow in the mire, because there will be no mire. Everything will be kept immaculate. The building will be of two stories, and in all probability the hogs will sleep above stairs.

MARRIES HER OWN FATHER.

Doesn't Discover Relationship Until They Return to Fatherland.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Another instance of truth surpassing the most daring imaginings of fiction has come to light through the arrest at Bromberg of an artisan named Thomas Wolland. More than thirty years ago this man abandoned his wife and infant daughter, and went to America. As year followed year, and no news was heard of him, the court at last pronounced him to be legally dead, and the woman was united to a second husband. The daughter, who was at this time 21 years of age, was now seized by the romantic idea of going to America, and endeavoring to discover her father, who she still, in spite of the pronouncement of the court, believed to be alive. While engaged in the search she made the acquaintance of a man whom, in spite of a considerable disparity of years, she ultimately married.

After living with him for some years in the United States she became homesick, and persuaded him to return with her and their three children for her native town of Bromberg. On their arrival there it was discovered that the husband was none other than her own father, who, while in the United States, had changed his name. Naturally suspicions were aroused that Wolland could not have been ignorant of the relationship which existed between him and the girl, and he has been arrested.

EFFECT OF THE VOTES

Of the Lesser Parties on the Great National Issues.

The Unknown Element Entering Into This Year's Calculations.

New York, Aug. 21.—When anyone talks to you about the size of anyone's vote next November, you can put it down as a sure thing that he is merely guessing or gassing. In the first place, it is too early. In the next place, no one knows. Several things have to be taken into consideration in making forecasts, and matters have not yet settled down so that they can be judged.

This is true of both the big parties, and as for the lesser parties no one has any idea what they may do this year. In recent years the aggregate vote of the lesser political parties in this state has generally varied between 50,000 and 65,000. In 1900 it fell below 50,000; in 1904 it rose largely by reason of the large Socialist vote, to almost 75,000.

Since 1904, however, a new element has entered into the calculations of the political statisticians that makes their work difficult. This is the Independence league, or as it is now called, the independence party. The first appearance of this party as a state organization was in the campaign of 1904. In 1905 William Randolph Hearst, the founder, promoter and financier of the league, polled as its candidate for mayor in New York city, 224,929 votes. This, of course, did not represent the strength of the party. On the other hand, when in 1906 the league fused with the Democratic party, with Hearst as its gubernatorial candidate, the 178,371 votes which were all that were polled for him under the league's banner, were just as far from being a measure of the party strength.

More Satisfactory Measure.

Coming down to last year it is possible to find a measure that is rather more satisfactory. As the candidates of the league, John T. McDonough and Reuben R. Lyon, running for the court of appeals against E. T. and Willard Bartlett, nominated for re-election by both the Republican and Democratic parties, polled respectively 121,304 and 114,209 votes throughout the state. Eliminating McDonough, who received a considerable number of Republican votes on account of his former standing in that party, the 114,209 votes of Lyon may serve as a fair basis for calculation.

On the basis of the Lyon vote, members of the Independence party are claiming today as many as 250,000 voters in the state. Some of their more moderate adherents are contented with claiming 150,000.

Experience, however, has shown that many men who will vote for a third-party candidate in an off year will return to their old party allegiance in a presidential year. Whether this will hold true as regards the Independence party is the question. On it depends the fate of that organization. If it can hold or increase its vote over that cast for Lyon a year ago it will be considered a proof that its foundations are more firmly established than has generally been supposed.

Two other elements besides the Independence vote to be considered this year are the Socialist and Prohibition votes. The latter has been steadily declining of late. It reached 23,000 in 1894, but in 1906 it was under 16,00. However, Prohibition leaders express the belief that the wave of prohibition sentiment that has been spreading over the country within the last three years, and which is surprisingly strong in this city and state, will be a great advantage to them and that thousands of members of other parties who have participated in the recent Prohibition campaigns will vote their ticket this year.

The Socialists polled for Debs for president in 1904 more than 400,000 votes throughout the country. They are asserting that this year their total will reach 1,000,000. If they did no more than double their vote this year all along the line the 36,000 votes cast for Debs in New York in 1904 will be swelled.

Decided by Third Party.

The great historical example of an instance where the votes polled by a third party in New York decided the result in the nation occurred in the election of 1844. In that year there was a difference of scarcely 5,000 votes between Polk, the Democratic candidate, and Henry Clay, the candidate of the Whigs. But James G. Birney, the Liberty, or anti-slavery party candidate, polled about 16,000 votes, most of which were derived from the Whig party. Had Clay taken a resolute stand in opposition to Texan annexation the anti-slavery ticket might have been withdrawn.

At any rate, enough anti-slavery Whigs could have remained with their party to insure the success of their electoral ticket in New York and a change of New York's thirty-six electoral votes would have played Clay and not Polk in the White House.

Four years later the Whigs carried the state for Taylor, but had the regular and Free Soil Democrats been united their aggregate vote would have surpassed that of the Whigs. The state election of 1854 was determined by the vote cast by the native American or Know Nothing party, which held the balance of power. Myron H. Clark, the Whig candidate, running on a temperance platform, defeated Governor Horatio Seymour, nominated by the Democrats for re-election by the exceedingly close vote of 156,804 to 156,495. Daniel Ullman, the Know Nothing candidate, polled 122,282 votes. Had this vote been divided between Clark and Seymour it is generally conceded that Seymour would easily have been elected.

SWEDISH DANCERS

Will Show Dulnthians How Barn Dance Was Danced 200 Years Ago.

The Swedish National Dancers from Stockholm will be seen at Lester park for ten days beginning, Aug. 29. Among the dances exhibited will be the "barn dance" as it was danced 200 years ago.

The Swedish National Dancers come from the great historical gardens of Skansen, Stockholm. These gardens form an adjunct to the Northern Museum of Ethnography and Folk lore, created by the noted scholar Dr. Hazelius.

The dancers are sons and daughters of the people, selected by Dr. Hazelius to come to Skansen, there to revive the quaint and charming folk dances of their respective home provinces.

These dances, in the middle ages, were the vogue among the aristocracy of the country, but when discarded and forgotten by them, were faithfully preserved by the peasantry. Yet in use through centuries, they had become almost extinct, when their revival at Skansen was accomplished. The folk dances of Sweden form an entertainment most unusual in character; their half mystic origin coupled with their unsophisticated rustic charm making them really interesting and a delight to the eye. Without exaggeration, it may be said that these dances are the most unique, most varied and most picturesque exhibition in their line, seen upon the stage today.

TURTLE SEIZES GIRL.

Fair Bather Nearly Drowns When Reptile Tries to Swallow Toe.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 21.—Gwendolyn Washburn, an 18-year-old girl, had a narrow escape from drowning in White river, south of Omega, Sunday afternoon. The girl with a party of campers was endeavoring to escape the intense heat by spending the afternoon in the water. The girl was in water that reached almost to her shoulders, when suddenly she disappeared. When one of the young men dived for her, he found that she was being drawn down the river by an unseen force. Bringing her to the surface, he called for help. When she was dragged to shore an immense turtle was clinging to her foot, one of her toes being in its mouth. Miss Washburn was rolled on a log and worked with for seventeen minutes before she recovered consciousness.

TAMMANY IS TO HAVE A TABLET

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 21.—After a six years' delay it is now hoped soon to erect a tablet over the spot where the Indian chief, Tammany, is supposed to be buried. The tablet was provided in 1902 by the Historical society of Bucks county, but the man who owned the ground where the grave is situated refused to permit its erection unless the society bought the land immediately surrounding the grave. As the society had no money for the purpose, it abandoned the project. Recently, the site of the grave was sold, and the new owner is expected to consent to the erection of the memorial.

The supposed grave of Tammany is a few miles northeast of Doylestown, the county seat of Bucks county. It is close to a spring on the banks of the Neshaminy Creek in New Britain township.

Without a doubt a famous Indian was buried there about the middle of the eighteenth century. Whether or not he was the sachem known as Tammany may never be positively decided.

According to the stories preserved in the old families of the neighborhood, Tammany and a large party of Indians were on their way toward Philadelphia from the interior of Pennsylvania to participate in a treaty negotiation. The aged chief became ill and was left in a hut on the banks of the Neshaminy with a squaw as his attendant.

Finding himself abandoned and unable to take part in the preparation of the treaty, the chief tried to end his life by setting fire to the hut, but the squaw extinguished the blaze. Soon afterward he succeeded in stabbing himself through the heart with his hunting knife. White men buried him near the hut.

Those who question the accuracy of the story base their objections principally upon the fact that written accounts telling of Tammany show he was in his prime about the time that William Penn came to America, in 1682. Therefore, if he lived until 1750, he must have been nearly 100 years old.

The name is also mentioned in early official documents, and is written variously as Tammine, Tamanend, Tamenend, Tamane, King Tammany, Great Sachem Tammany, and finally after his death Saint Tammany.

The spot where Tammany is supposed to be buried is part of a large tract which he first sold to Penn in 1683 for so much wampum, so many guns, shoes, stockings, looking glasses, blankets and other goods as ye said William Penn shall please to give unto us.

RANCH LIFE IN EARLY DAYS.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West Will Introduce Scene Showing It.

Among the many interesting scenes depicting western life in the early days which will be presented as part of Buffalo Bill's Wild West when it visits this city, will be "A Holiday at T-E Ranch." In this scene the pleasures and pastimes of the plainsman will be depicted. His sports and amusements will be re-enacted with the same fidelity to fact, which marks all the features of Col. William F. Cody's remarkable exhibition. The scene painter has reproduced with as much exactness as circumstances will permit the ranch house of Col. Cody and its surroundings. T-E Ranch is the winter home of Buffalo Bill, in Wyoming, near Cody, a prosperous city, which has been named in his honor. Here it is that Buffalo Bill, spends his vacations between the traveling seasons of his historic exhibition. The scene depicts a typical cowboy holiday and the sports and pleasures of the plainsman are enacted in detail. Ray Thompson's troupe of educated broncbos and mustangs is also introduced in the ranch scene. They are the first western horses that have ever been trained to duplicate the feats of thoroughbred circus horses. As a climax to their exhibit, one of the ponies jumps over a table, where a group of diners are reveling. Never before have the accomplishments of these ponies been attempted by horse trainers, for it has been an accepted belief that bronchos and mustangs could not be trained to do exhibition "stunts." The holiday festivities are interrupted by an attack by Indians and the resulting action shows in a striking manner the perils of life during the era of the pioneer settlers of the prairies. Other typical Western scenes, open-air melodramas, in fact, will be "The Battle of Summit Springs" and "The Great Train Hold-up"—two strikingly different, still typical Western scenes. Add to these dramas, the Congress of Rough Riders of the World and it will be readily admitted that Buffalo Bill presents an entertainment unique in character and strictly alone in its class among open-air amusements.

KERMIT TO USE CAMERA.

Will be the Official Photographer on African Trip.

New York, N. Y., Aug 21.—Kermit Roosevelt is to be the official photographer with the president's party on the African hunting trip. In preparation for this important work, the young man is studying with Frank M. Chapman, the ornithologist, of this city.

The responsibility which will rest on Kermit's shoulders will be heavy, for all his father's accounts of his adventures in the jungles of the dark continent are to be illustrated. It is also understood that the president is anxious to bring back photographs of African birds and animals taken in life for the big museums, including the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, and the American Museum of Natural history, here.

The president was anxious to have Mr. Chapman accompany him, but when this was found to be impossible, it was decided that Kermit should get a complete camera outfit and be trained in its use by Mr. Chapman.

Mr. Chapman has long been a friend of the president. He is associate curator of the department of ornithology of the museum of natural history, and has made a study of the photographing of birds and animals.

The question now under consideration by Kermit and Mr. Chapman is the best photographic outfit to take. It is expected that the camera alone with the several lenses, including a powerful long range lens, will cost about $250. He will have to "snap" birds hopping and flying, and wild animals in action. It is not unlikely that a taxidermist of either the American museum of natural history, or the Smithsonian institute, may accompany the president to prepare the skins of the big game, which he expects to kill.

BOYS TOO MUCH FOR SNAKE.

Three Kill a Monster Nine Feet Ten Inches Long.

Lathrobe, Pa., Aug. 21.—As Eddie L. Bates of Youngstown, 12 years old, was picking berries on the mountain a blacksnake swung from a low tree and twined about the boy's body. The boy fought in terror, but fell to the ground and one of the folds of the snake slipped around his throat.

The three mates of the boy fled when the snake attacked him, but returned, and Eddie Greely, with a fence stake, attacked the snake. The first blow missed the snake and, landing on the Bates boy's head, almost finished him, but Greely persevered and with his two companions finally beat off the blacksnake, which then attacked the other boys.

Bates, who had been worse scared than hurt, filled his lungs with air a few times; then, grabbing a club, assisted his companions in their battle. The snake was finally killed and when the lads dragged it triumphantly into Youngstown it was measured and found to be 9 feet 10 inches long. Many parties of berry pickers have been attacked in the foothills here by snakes.

Comfort for the Fat in Hot Weather.

Don't simply shed all your clothing. That is not the secret. It isn't your textile coverings that make life so wretched for you, my stout friends, but the fleshly covering—the fat.

You can be comfortable though fat, in the hot weather, by reducing the fat with a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime of the following: ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Sirup Simplex. This is a harmless home mixture that any druggist will put up for a small sum, but it succeeds marvelously. Try it and in a little while you should be losing a half to a pound of fat a day. You will soon catch up with comfort at that rate, no matter how hot it gets. Alluring, isn't it? And when you realize that this inexpensive sane method takes the fat off and gives you a trim, slim figure without causing wrinkles or interfering with one's diet —it becomes more than alluring—it's fascinating. Fat folks say so.

DICTATOR OF AFRICA?

Commission With Roosevelt at Its Head is Proposed.

Diplomats Believe African Question Could Thus be Settled.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Will the question, "What shall we do with our ex-presidents?" be settled in the case of Theodore Roosevelt, who will be the only survivor when his term expires, be settled by making him practically dictator of Africa?

This solution is suggested in view of the fact that when he comes back some time in 1911 from his game hunting trip in Africa he will be recognized as one of the world's specialists in affairs relating to that immense, mysterious, and still largely unknown continent.

Africa is about as vaguely divided into colonies and spheres of influence and protectorates and independencies as was America in the first half of the eighteenth century. The Congo empire alone approximates two-thirds the size of the United States.

The division of the continent, the establishment of permanent governmental institutions, the protection of its natives from cruel exploitation by avaricious whites, the adjustment of international differences, the construction of a railroad system which will open up the vast regions now almost unknown; in short, the great work which was done for North America in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries is largely to be done for Africa.

Students of African conditions are wondering if it is not possible that somewhere in the organization of this task a figure as great as that of the energetic and commanding Roosevelt might find place.

United States Is Neutral.

Africa, it is pointed out by the diplomats, is likely to be handled in large measure by international agreement and adjustment. Their colonies in America and the East were the fruitful occasions of repeated armed conflicts among the European powers during the centuries of exploration and early colonization. All the powers have seemed desirous of avoiding such clashes over Africa; yet Africa is none the less an object of very real and very substantial concern to many powers.

The United States, though it backed the founding of Liberia, has steadily refrained from desiring territorial interests in Africa. Senator Morgan of Alabama was regarded as the father of the Congo Free State, by reason of his initiation of international consideration which finally brought about the establishment of that state under Belgian protection. But in this, as in the Liberian case, American interest was inspired solely by motives of altruism.

Sooner or later, it is widely believed by diplomats and students of international relations, some sort of international body will be given large powers in connection with organization, development, and administration of Africa. There will be questions of boundaries, of concessions, of international railroad rights-of-way, and connections; all sorts of problems which a new continent must meet.

To Civilize a Continent.

What more natural, then, it is being pointed out, than that Theodore Roosevelt, after he has tired of writing about big game, should turn to the vastly greater problem of civilizing the second greatest continent, and presently, as one of the great authorities on the subject, be called the world and the new continent—yes, and the cause of international peace—his services as head of an international board, commission, or court having some grant of power from the great nations? That something of the kind will one time come about is widely believed. That such a man as Theodore Roosevelt might naturally point the way, it is thought in many minds, apropos of the fact that he is soon to go to Africa and spend a long period in its interior.

He will have ample opportunity to learn more than big game. Already, indeed, he is making a study of the country, its people, resources, history, and possibilities, and he has developed an acute interest in many aspects entirely aside from the primary one of elephant and hippo hides, and tiger skins.

NATIONAL THEATER

As Memorial to Shakespeare Making Headway in London.

London, Aug. 21.—The scheme for a Shakespeare memorial, to take the shape of a national theater, was carried a step farther here when the executive and general committee of the rival schemes of a statue and a theater met at the Mansion house with the lord mayor in the chair. Since the big meeting held at the Lyceum theater in the middle of January, negotiations between the two sets of admirers of Shakespeare have been steadily carried on, with the result that a friendly amalgamation has taken place. The meeting referred to was convened for the purpose of forming a strong executive committee. Lord Plymouth proposed the resilution and Lord Lytton seconded it.

A list of some twenty-one men was read by A. W. Pinero, and was passed as forming an executive committee. It includes the lord mayor, Lord Esher, Lord Lytton, Lord Onslaw, Beerholm Tree, Comyns Carr, William Archer, Bernard Shaw, Granville Barker, W. L. Courtney, A. W. Pinero, Sir John Hare, H. W. Massingham, the Hon. Lourena Gomme and others.

The executive committee intends to hold a kind of commission in the first place, with the object of ascertaining the ideas of specialists with regard to the foundation of the National theater. The committee will also mold the scheme into practical shape before appealing to the public for subscriptions. There is certainly more chance of the proposed National theater becoming a fact now that the two schemes for honoring the memory of Shakespeare have been amalgamated.

Order For Racing Cutter.

Morton F. Plant has cabled an order to Mr. Herreshoff at Bristol, R. I., for a racing cutter of the 23-meter class, which will be entered next summer for all the leading regattas of the British and continental season. As a new boat for Myles B. Kennedy is already practically certain to be built, this insures a year of almost record interest, for Shamrock, the projected Herreshoff boat, and another White Heather will make as brilliant a trio as the pastime has ever known. One need not be surprised to hear of a fourth ne wboat, if accounts from Germany are to be relied on. The new German-designed and German-built schooner has inspired the yachtsmen across the North sea with a desire to try their luck with something of greater metal, and the talk is that the emperor might do worse than succeed the schooner Meteor with a cutter designed and built at home.

The Herreshoff order recalls to mind that exactly twelve years ago an order for a big cutter to race in British waters was in the hands of Herreshoff. W. Miles of Southampton and his brother were in fact under orders for America to stand by during its construction when the mix-up took place at Spithead, in which Baron von Zedwitz owned the Herreshoff 52-rater, Isolda, that no satisfaction will be accepted in the order for the bigger boat mentioned. The baroness is an American, and she was devoted to yachting, until the dreadful accident. On the baron's death the order was canceled.

Incomes of Lawyers.

A London judge has just declared that in England "there are many well qualified barristers who are not earning as much as bricklayers." "A junior of fifty" has put the declaration on the basis of statistics, and says: "Roughly speaking, there are about 9,000 counsel whose names are to be found in the Law List, and of these probably 1,500 are actually engaged in the practice of the law. Of the 1,500 it is doubtful whether more than 10 per cent make an income exceeding $5,000 a year; 20 per cent may see from $2,500 to $5,000 as the net result of twelve months' work, while the remaining 70 per cent either fail to clear expenses or to have the scantiest margin for their livelihood. I know personally several barristers of more than twenty years' standing whose net income is smaller than that of many an artisan, and more than one who would gladly change incomes with a bricklayer. And matters are getting worse. During the last two years legal incomes have shrunk at least 30 per cent, a fact which scores of fee books painfully demonstrate."

Increase in Accidents.

The report of the chief inspector of factories and workshops in Great Britain and Ireland for 1907 is far from being satisfactory. There is a growth of accidents, an inexplicable, large growth, from 35,000 in 1906 to 48,000 in 1907. As usual, young persons and children were the chief sufferers. The increase in the number of accidents comes no doubt from the fact that 1907 was a boom year, and in busy times there is always more hustling, but machinery is being better fenced, and perhaps part of the increase is due to better reporting. The lead poisoning cases have diminished from 632 attacks in 1906 to 578 in 1907; but the decrease in the pottery branch was very slight, from 107 to 103. There was only one case of phosphorus necrosis, and this ended fatally. Miss Martindale, one of the lady inspectors, shows incidentaly how the home working peasantry in Donegal are enslaved by the "gombeen" men; one girl, a hand knitter, who made men's socks at the rate of 3 cents a pair, was allowed by the shopkeeper to run up in one day a debt of $10, and in three months she was only able to pay 62½ cents.

Control of Alcoholism.

At the congress of the Royal Institute of Public Health just held at Buxton considerable interest was evinced in the subject of state control of alcoholism introduced in the preventive medicine section by Dr. Browne of London. He remarked that notwithstanding all preventive measures, a certain proportion of the population could not resist the evil influence of strong drink. Science had not made all men equally strong in power of resistance to evil, and any devise for remedying drunkenness had to reckon with the jerry-built man, the man with a tendency to indulge in too much riot, and who became a nuisance and a danger to himself and to society, not by reason of the cup, but of the consequences which arise therefrom. So we had the introduction of legislation as a consequence of evil-doing. In Greece today there is not one single restriction against drinking, and no punishments for drunkenness, and the vice of drunkenness is now scarcely heard of in Greece. It could not be said that the firm hand had not been tried with the drunkard in the past. Every shade of iniquity, barbarity, cruelty and indignity had been showered upon these poor creatures from the earliest days till now. In the days of our modern elegance and refinement the magistrate had to deal with the question of the control of alcoholism, and he did it by a process of imprisonment, a punishment which had been in existence for drunkenness from the time of early Saxons and from then until now it had never succeeded in reforming a single drunkard.

During the last century half a hundred legislative laws have been enacted to amend or control the liquor traffic, and in spite of them all enough revenue was derived from this traffic to pay for the upkeep of the British navy and army. If the nation were to turn immediately teetoatelers, the chancellor of the exchequer would probably commit suicide. His government would assuredly resign and the excise officers take to the hills as brigands until a new government could be formed which would, he suspected, be as anxious to use the services of the police to invite the community to use public houses as they were now industrious in keeping them out. The astonishing feature of the whole thing was that so few of the population became habitual inebriates, or really suffered from chronic alcoholism. If this disease was so prevalent, which he did not for an instant believe, as to be a scandal and injury to the community, it would not be cured by harshness or injustice, neither would it do any good to penalize and worry the moderate man. Let them direct their attention to the habitual inebriate. From him the poison cup must be withheld.

MANY CARLOADS OF TAFT TONES

New York, Aug. 21.—Fourteen carloads of Taft eloquence left this city last night for the wild and wooly. This sounds like a "campaign special" full of spellbinders, but it is not. It is just an ordinary freight train with an unusual load—a huge consignment of phonograph records, containing the speeches of the Republican presidential candidate.

Tomorrow and every day thereafter similar trainloads will start for other points in the country—not forgetting the "solid south"—so that Mr. Taft's voice will be heard during the balmy autumn evening in several million summer cottages, hotels and theaters in a cheerful elucidation of Mr. Taft's views.

There are twelve different records. No. 9,996 bears the title "Foreign Missions" and covers the gist of Mr. Taft's interesting and sympathetic observations in Chicago a few months ago on the whole foreign missionary movement.

"Irish Humor" is the title of No.9,997, an unsual aspect of Mr. Taft, though a bona fide speech. Then comes one on the "Republican and Democratic Treatment of the Trusts." No. 9,998, in which the Republican candidate points out sententiously and humorously the difference between his own point of view and that of "the Commoner."

"The Rights of Labor" is the title of No. 9,999. The next cylinder contains his speech on "Unlawful Trusts."

But popular interest probably will center about the next two—No. 10,001, on "The Function of the Next Administration, and No. 10,002, on "The Roosevelt Policies." These are long and give the "tang" it is said, of Mr. Taft's strong personality.

Then comes his speech on "The Philippines," others on "The Enforced Insurance of Bank Deposits," "Jury Trial in Contempt of Court Cases," "The Farmer and the Republican Party."

HALLEY'S COMET COMING AGAIN

Preparing to Make Its Regular Call to Terrify Superstitious.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 21.—Halley's comet, the most sensational of the sky truants known to astronomers, has looped the loop in its whirl through a billion miles of space and is heading this way again on a visit which it makes to these parts every seventy-five years. Elaborate preparations are being made for photographing the visitor. The first plate will be exposed two weeks from tonight, and at close intervals thereafter throughout the fall, winter and spring of 1908-09.

The comet will not be visible to the naked eye, however, until well along in 1909, and will swoop into its perihelion, the point of its course closest to the sun, about May 10, 1910.

Will it strike the earth and smash things into bits? This has been a popular fear ever since this heavenly visitor was first observed, along about 12 B. C., but the authorities now assert that we are bound to squeeze by with several million miles to spare.

No other comet has had the influence on the human race which this one has had through the dread inspired by its brilliancy and sensational size. To it, for instance, is due the current practice in the Roman Catholic churches of ringing the church bells at noon. This was initiated by special edict of Pope Calixus in 1456, who, it may be recalled, added to the Ave Marias of that year the famous prayer, "Deliver us from the devil, the Turks, and the comet."

More than one English historian blames Halley's comet for the weakness of the Anglo-Saxon resistance to the invasion of William the Conqueror in 1066.

Curiously enough, nothing is known as to the speed with which this comet travels. All that is known is that it returns, approximately speaking, every seventy-five years and that its own orbit is tilted at an angle of seventeen or eighteen degrees away from the horizontal plane in which the earth and the other planets swim.

GRAFT IN INDIA BARED.

European Engineer and Wife Fared Well Off Famine Fund.

Allahabad, Aug. 21.—A case which has been arousing considerable interest in Upper India has just been decided by the high court. The accused were a European executive engineer and his wife, hailing from Sitapur, in the United Provinces. The charge was the acceptance of an illegal gratification, or "graft," and, as the judge pointed out in the course of his summing up, the evidence showed that, while the accused man, Wall, received a salary of $200 a month, shortly after he had begun to give out contracts for famine work and implements, a perfect "monsoon" of presents arrived, comprising a motorcycle, a carriage, a diamond ring, a saddle, dressing cases, carpets and thirty-six suits of servants' clothes. His passbook also showed the receipt of three sums, amounting to about $1,800, in less than three weeks. The accused were found guilty, and the man was sentenced to eighteen months' rigorous, and his wife to one year's simple imprisonment.

PEG LEGS TO ORGANIZE.

Banquet in London Planned by French and English Mendicants.

Paris, Aug. 21.—London is threatened with an invasion of one-legged Frenchmen belonging to the Union of French Mendicants, which was established eighteen months ago at Marseilles. M. Rosen, the one-legged president of the one-legged union, says he has conceived the idea of celebrating a one-legged entente by organizing a visit to the Franco-British exhibition by a number of his fellow cripples, both Frenchmen and Englishmen.

"We do not want to meet any humbugs, but genuine, hard working, honest British peddlers or itinerant musicians, possessed of one wooden leg," he said. "Just think of what a fine and picturesque thing it would be to have a banquet in London of the French and British one-legged men." M. Rosin intends to tramp to London with a view to making arrangements with a committee of British one-leggers.

A SOCRATIC TARIFF LESSON.

A correspondent signing himself "Pack," whose communication appeared in The Herald on Wednesday, revived some familiar old reasoning of which we have not heard very much lately. After the Socratic fashion, he pictures a Republican "statesman" teaching an "intelligent voter" the principles of protection, as follows:

"The protective tariff has two purposes," said the Republican statesman. "The first is to shut out the low-priced products of foreign pauper labor, and thus allow our manufacturers to sell their product at higher prices so that they can pay high wages."

"I see," said the intelligent voter; he was very intelligent.

"The second object of protection is to encourage competition in the home market, with the result that this competition reduces prices."

"I see," said the intelligent voter.

"In other words," observed the statesman, "protection puts up prices for the producer, and reduces prices for the consumer."

"I see," said the intelligent voter.

According to "Pack," who must be, by the way a famous joker disguising himself under a nom de plume, the "intelligent voter" proceeds straightway to enroll himself as a member of the "Theodore Taft First Voter league." We think, however, that the intelligent voter really did nothing of the sort. He most assuredly went away in a secluded corner somewhere and after his puzzled wits had stopped whirling from the impulse given them by the complacently ridiculous logic of the "statesman," he did a good deal of serious thinking about this matter.

The correspondent has caught to a nicety the old-fashioned arguments for the protective tariff. Men like Cannon, Payne, Dalzell, McCleary, Tawney, Aldrich and other power-inflated guardians of special privilege would be very highly pleased with this little dialogue, and not one of them would see a particle of absurdity in it.

It was not until quite lately, in fact, that the average "intelligent voter" began to suspect that he had been trifled with by those who led him to believe in the soundness of logic which never could have borne a minute's serious analysis. He was told that the tariff, a benevolent institution in the interests of American labor, would keep out the products of cheap foreign labor and enable American manufacturers to charge high prices and pay high wages, and that it would at the same time stimulate domestic competition so that prices would be low to the consumer. High prices and fairly high wages did follow; but the high prices came largely because American manufacturers killed competition by combining behind the tariff wall, and the high wages came because the cost of living was so high that in order to keep labor alive it had to be better paid. Wages tend, almost inevitably and almost without exception, to settle to a basis representing the actual cost of existence; and if existence costs more, wages must increase.

But of course prices couldn't be high to the seller and low to the buyer. If matters were not arranged for the best interests of all, they had to be arranged for the benefit of either seller or buyer, and the tariff arranged them for the benefit of the seller; the buyer, who is usually the workingman, has been given the worst of it at all times.

THE CLINTON SUFFERERS.

The manner in which the people of Duluth are responding to the appeals for the relief of the sufferers of Clinton, Minn., who were made homeless and destitute by a cyclone more than two months ago, is not a subject for pride.

Probably the sufferers are too remote, for certainly if they lived next door to Duluth, where the generous people of this city could witness with their own eyes the state to which storm has reduced them, the response would be spontaneous and large. Yet the capacity of people to suffer is just as great a hundred miles from Duluth as it is five miles from Duluth.

The Commercial club started a list with $50, and the members of the club have added to that about $15. The Herald started a list with $25, and the people of Duluth have added to that about $7. The response has been very sluggish, and is not at all after the usual fashion of Duluthians, who have always been uncommonly ready to respond to the appeals of humanity in need.

It is no credit to the state that after more than two months has elapsed these people still suffer for the necessaries of life, and Duluth, as the third city in the state, should contribute more than it has toward their relief.

PATERNAL GOVERNMENT.

It is curious and interesting that while certain forms of paternalistic legislation are accepted everywhere without protest and even with approval, the proposal of other legislation not a whit more paternalistic is invariably greeted by protests that are frenzied and fearful.

The New York World, after giving a number of instances of paternalistic operations of the government of the United States, says: "Some of these acts savor of self-preservation. But that means preservation of the people, who are the state. It is a wise government that knows how to be discreetly paternal—that knows where to stop."

The boundary line between paternalism that everybody can accept and the paternalism that arouses bitter opposition is very clearly defined. When it treads upon the corns of no special vested interest, it is perfectly wholesome; but when it threatens a selfish interest, no matter how unconscionably that interest may have abused its privileges and oppressed the people, it is thoroughly and frightfully bad—to hear some folks tell it.

The issue, then, is whether paternalistic operations of government are to be confined to objects in which nobody is specially interested, or whether they are to be used as an implement in the hands of the people to curb the greed of plutocrats and selfish owners of vested interests. In other words, have the people the right, if they see a public utility being made the means of oppressing humanity and squeezing inordinate profits out of the public, to exert their government in a paternalistic way to defeat this selfishness?

For instance, the postoffice is thoroughly paternalistic, even socialistic; yet nobody criticises government ownership of the postoffice because nobody is interested in private ownership of the postoffice. Yet when it is proposed to extend the postoffice facilities by providing a universal parcels post system, such as nearly all other civilized countries have, there is immediately a great outcry. Why? Because the express companies are doing a private parcels post business, and government opposition would reduce their exorbitant profits.

These operations of the government are all paternalistic, yet they are unopposed because they trench upon no private selfish interests: The planting of fish fry by the United States fish commission, amounting to more than two and a half billion fry last year; the carrying of messages, money and parcels by mail; the issuance of passports to guarantee protection of citizens in other lands; the chartering and improvement of rivers, harbors and coasts and the maintenance of lighthouses; the establishment of quarantines against disease; the pure food laws; the distribution of seed to farmers for experimental purposes; the searching of the earth for new food plants; the importation of bacilli to be used in making certain cheeses; the cultivation of birds, animals and insects that destroy the parasites upon crops; the reclamation of land that is too dry or too wet for use.

These are all paternalistic, yet nobody proposes to put a stop to any of these functions of government until, as in the case of the extension of the parcels post, they begin to affect interests which have not dealt generously by the people in the exercise of their special privileges.

TOO BAD!

It pains us to have to announce that the Duluth News Tribune is very much displeased with Governor Johnson; displeased and disappointed. It had counted upon him, it appears, and he has "thrown it down." It had hoped that it could engage in one governorship campaign without his stalwart figure standing between it and the pie wagon. It didn't care a codfish how the pie in that wagon was to be eaten—whether with a knife, a fork, a spoon, a scoop shovel or a pitchfork, but it did want to get its fingers into the luscious depths of a nice, fat political pie, and here is that man Johnson standing right in the way, just as he did in 1904. Ain't it awful, Mabel?

So it comes, quite as much in sorrow as in anger, to lay its aching head upon the cold shoulder of the public and to weep great salt tears into the public's coat sleeve. It points to the fact that the governor had declared himself, as emphatically as he could, against his renomination, and between the lines of this bitter complaint you can read the anguish of a partisan organ which had permitted itself to indulge in dreams of a clear road to the political pie wagon, and which had been rudely awakened by the shrill alarm of the morning clock calling it back to the dreary grind of working for a living.

It is sad indeed, that Governor Johnson and the Democratic state convention couldn't have pleased the morning paper better than they did. They knew how to do it; the governor had only to efface himself from the world and submit to exile in some far-off island of the unexplored oceans, and the Democratic convention had only to endorse Mr. Jacobson, the man whom the News Tribune took delight in grilling until the fortunes of war and the designs of the interests made him the Republican candidate for governor, or to nominate some harmless individual who would have been easy to beat; for if any candidate ever needed an easy opponent, Mr. Jacobson is that candidate. He didn't get it, and the News Tribune refuses to be consoled.

FARMING IN JAPAN.

United States Consul Hunter Sharp of Kobe, Japan, has transmitted to the state department a very interesting review of agricultural conditions in Japan, the most notable feature of which is the large return obtained from a very small acreage.

Japan has an area of 148,852 square miles—a little more than the combined areas of Minnesota and Iowa—and a population of 48,304,397—about twelve times that of the two American states mentioned. Sixty per cent of its people are farmers, yet because of the mountainous nature of the country, only about a sixth of its area is under cultivation. This would make about 25,000 square miles, which is very close to the area of the single state of West Virginia.

In other words, more than 48,000,000 people, nearly 30,000,000 of whom are farmers or members of farmers' families, exist upon the product of a soil area equivalent to one of the smallest states in the Union. In order to do this, evidently, it is necessary to get results many times greater than are obtained in this country, and this is done by the most intensified farming, a thing that is just being considered in this country, where land has been so cheap and plentiful that the most wasteful methods have, up to now, served our purpose after a fashion.

Besides, modern farming implements have not yet been established in Japan. The narrow-blade plow and the foot-tread machine for irrigating are still in use. Sowing, harvesting, and thrashing of grain are done by hand, the small and irregular size of the fields preventing the use of large machinery. Individual holdings vary from half an acre to ten acres, the latter, probably, being considered a vast estate.

The farm laborers work from sunrise to sunset, and the men are paid 17 to 22 cents per day and the women 10 to 15 cents, the employer providing subsistence. The value of farm lands is not high, considering the scarcity of the land and the results secured from it. Rice land is worth about $1.50 per tan—a tan being a trifle less than a quarter of an acre—and uplands are worth $50 per tan, or about $200 per acre.

Taxes are very high, and they would make the average American taxpayer explode with indignation. The national tax is 5½ per cent of the value of the land; the prefectural tax is 17½ cents for every 50 cents of the national tax; and the village tax is 4½ cents for every 50 cents of the national tax. With a 10-acre tract worth $200 an acre, these taxes would work out this way: National tax, $110; prefectural tax, $38.50; village tax, $9.90; total, $158.40. This is a total tax of nearly 8 per cent. The average Duluth property-owner with a lot worth $2,000 is assessed at $1,000 and taxed $36.30 on that; which is a tax of less than 2 per cent upon actual value. Japanese taxes, therefore, are four times as great as those prevailing in Duluth. It should be remembered, however, that there is no national tax in Duluth, but that every citizen pays national taxes as a part of the price of the beer he drinks, the tobacco he uses, and the food and clothing he consumes. The internal revenue and the import tariff raise the government's revenues, and the people pay them through their purchases of taxed goods.

There is very little public interest in politics now, but wait until October begins to draw to a close.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

J. A. Thorpe, who is at the Lenox hotel, has almost been assaulted three times by men who are utter strangers to him. At first he thought that he had a double in Duluth. When the second man rapped him upon the middle of the back, he was sure of it. Then came the third bear-like embrace and Mr. Thorpe demanded an explanation.

It seems that there is a well known coffee agent in Duluth, whose home is here and who knows almost every one. He is almost the exact double of Mr. Thorpe. He—that is the coffee agent—has been away on a long trip, so that the men who believed they were greeting their old friend were naturally glad to see him.

The first mistake occurred when the man registered. Henry Ribenack affectionately greeted the stranger by a name that he had never heard in his life. The mistake was explained and then Mr. Ribenack told Thorpe that he would be hailed by other men during the course of the day. When Mr. Thorpe came back to the hotel at noon he knew all about his double, knew his business and besides had a sore back from the hearty greetings of the friends of the other man.

Mark H. Joseph of Louisville, who is at the Lenox, says that there is very great doubt of Kentucky going Democratic at the coming national election. In fact, if Mr. Joseph were a betting man, he says he would be willing to risk several good hats that the state would go Republican.

Mr. Joseph further says that the vote of Kentucky will be the largest this year of any year in the history of the state. The reason of this is that many of the mountain voters, who have never cast a vote in their lives, will be voters this year. The activity of the national fight in "Old Kentucky" will result in the increasing of the vote for the national ticket.

Fred J. Hoy of Minneapolis, at the Lenox, says that Johnson will carry Minnesota by a very comfortable majority. Mr. Joy has been over the state and knows the situation fairly well.

"I believe that Johnson will carry Minnesota by a very comfortable majority," said Mr. Joy. "The result of the convention at Minneapolis was not a surprise to many voters of the state. They wanted Johnson and insisted that he be the leader again. I don't think that Johnson will have an easy fight ahead of him. Jacobson is a strong fighter and in many places that I have visited I have found a very strong sentiment for him. But, taking everything into consideration, I believe that Johnson will win and that the Democrats stand a very excellent chance of electing some of the state ticket to office. In fact, I believe that Democratic sentiment, both state and national, is very strong in Minnesota this year. There is more discussion of politics than I have ever heard, and the people seem intensely interested in the coming election."

Mr. Walter Rider, who is stopping at the St. Louis, says that at the present time there is a crusade against the billboard in Washington, D. C. The various clubs have taken up the agitation, according to Mr. Rider, and they are doing everything in their power to abolish the billboard evil, or at least succeed in getting the glaring signs off the more prominent streets of the city.

Literature, showing the extent to which the billboard advertising has gone, has been published by the various clubs who are interested in the movement, and this literature is being sent to city officials and officials of the national government who are stationed in Washington.

Mr. Rider says that the approach to the national capitol is marred by the unsightly billboards that obstruct the view and make the surroundings seem cheap and tawdry. The people interested in the crusade are determined to at least succeed in having all billboards removed from Pennsylvania avenue, the approach to the Capitol and White House. "A More Beautiful Washington" is the motto of the crusade that is being vigorously carried on, and if the people interested in the movement carry out their present plans, Mr. Rider believes that the city will be made one of the most beautiful in the country.

Six tourists were industriously writing letters at the McKay yesterday. Suddenly one of the party looked up and asked how to spell "refugee."

"Simple," exclaimed the tourist sitting next to him, "r-e-f-u-g-e-e." It didn't sound right to the original inquirer and he went down the length of the writing tables making further inquiries. No one knew how to spell the word. Finally the girl at the cigar counter spelled the word to the satisfaction of the original inquirer.

THE WEATHER.

With a warmth suggesting summer in midday, and a hint of coolness in the evening hinting at coming fall, these days are perfect of their kind. Yesterday's highest temperature was 76 degs., and last night's lowest was 52 degs. This morning it was clear, warm and splendid. The weather man looks for local showers tonight and tomorrow, with cooler weather tomorrow. A year ago today it was fine and pleasant.

The sun rose this morning at 5:13 and sets tonight at 7:09, making 13 hours and 56 minutes of sunlight, two hours shorter than the longest day.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The Saskatchewan disturbance has moved to Lake Superior, attended by higher temperatures in the latter district, Wisconsin, Southern Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska and with resultant showers in Manitoba, Saskaetchewan ,Montana and Eastern Washington. Further showers fell during the past twenty-four hours throughout the extreme South and Southeast, due to the stationary depression central over the Gulf of California. The barometer is high over the North Atlantic states and Alberta, in the latter case causing much cooler weather in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The barometer remains relatively low from the plateau region northward."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

Abilene	86	Miles City	90
Asheville	82	Milwaukee	72
Atlanta	80	Minnedosa	88
Battleford	74	Medena	82

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Aug. 21.—Local forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Saturday: Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges—Probably local showers tonight and Saturday; cooler Saturday; fresh and brisk southwest to northwest winds.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Forecasts until 7 p. m., Saturday: Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy, with possibly local showers tonight or Saturday; cooler Saturday.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Saturday; warmer tonight in south and east portions; cooler in northwest portion Saturday.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy and possibly local showers tonight or Saturday; cooler Saturday and in northwest portion tonight.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy and probably local showers tonight or Saturday; cooler tonight.

Upper Lakes—Fresh, to brisk southwesterly winds tonight, becoming west or northwest Saturday; generally fair, except possibly showers on Lake Superior.

The Red Head.

Chicago Evening Post: A member of the ethnological bureau at Washington has found by some process unknown to the layman that within a century red hair will have vanished.

The ethnologist may rub his dry and dusty hands over this discovery, but reflect what it means—no more red-headed girls! Every composer in the minor poet must freeze at the word—and every man is, or was, a potential minor poet. No lactoen for us. Who would wish to live on a planet merely blonde, merely brunette? We regard Metchnikoff, with his promise of perpetual life, as our dark enemy.

The red-headed girl may be silent. She may be immobile. Yet she wins without word or gesture. Man is her born slave, and she has never proclaimed emancipation. Why does she bewitch?

No woman with mouse-colored hair can tell you. Red should be a danger signal to the susceptible, but they love the danger. Titian is the limit. Cleopatra was a Titian—not the first flaming anarchronism.

To plan for the red-headed girl a hairbreadth escape might reasonably become the mission of the Quixotic. We recommend them to found a Society for the Protection of Red-Headed Girls, and we pray for an invitation to the first reception.

Ben Tarr on "Bearin' the Cross."

"I've never had no cross t' bear"
You meet such stupid now an' then,
Who've never had no fret or care
T' harry 'em like other men—
No tears or woes;
But Lordy knows
I pity 'em, wher'er they air,
Who've never had no cross t' bear!

You've never had no cross t' bear?
Then you don't know ner understand
The gentleness of Him up There,
Ner 'preciate this pleasant land
You're livin' in;
You best begin
T' bear a cross an' then y'll see
How thankful mortal man kin be!

You've never bore no cross, y' say?
Well, then I take it, friend, that you
Her had no clouds t' drift away
An' let the sun come shinin' through
Like sunbeams kin,
A-whisprin'
That trubble's gone away an' then
It's time fer you t' smile again.

You've never had no cross to bear?
No woes er tears er rail distress?
You've never set His help Up There,
Ner never felt His tenderness?
It's so, I s'pose,
But Lordy knows
I pity you, wher'er you air,
Who've never had no cross t' bear!

Majority Control in Congress.

Chicago News (Ind.): As the man personifying opposition to the control of legislation by the majority in congress, Speaker Cannon has become a national issue to the present campaign. This is shown in the address issued the other day by the temperance society of the Methodist church in reference to the bill providing that alcoholic beverages, when shipped from one state to another, shall be subject to the laws of the state into which they are consigned.

The address declares that Speaker Cannon "absolutely controls" the proceedings of the house and has used his power to hold his bill in committee. It says the time has come when those who want to help secure this legislation must support for congress candidates who not will only vote for the measure, if given an opportunity, but also will "support for speaker a man who will allow it to be voted upon."

This address demonstrates the exasperation of a large body of citizens at the arbitrary action of the speaker in preventing consideration of a specific measure by the members of the house. However, if a new speaker willing to permit a vote on this bill should be elected that would not necessarily put a stop to the throttling of legislation in general by a small coterie of members controlled by the presiding officer. A general reform of this abuse is greatly to be desired.

Mr. Bryan made a strong appeal for popular support in his speech of acceptance when he dwelt upon the pledge of his party to adopt, if put in power, "such rules and regulations to govern the house of representatives as will enable a majority of its members to direct its deliberations and control legislation." Speaker Cannon's tyranny in the house is a serious element of weakness for the Republican party at this time.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

•••Passenger trains on the Duluth & Iron Range road now run through to Ely, having begun to do so yesterday morning. Trains will run daily, Sundays excepted.

•••The public schools open on Monday, Sept. 3. Fully 2,500 scholars are expected during this term. It is probable the foundation for a new school building will be put in this fall on Fourth street and Twentieth avenue west.

•••The fair for the benefit of St. Mary's church closed last night. It was very successful. J. H. Delaney won the gold-headed cane and Ellen Cashler the gold watch.

•••Yesterday the experiment of telephoning over the telegraph wires between Duluth and St. Paul was again successfully made under the direction of P. G. Reynolds, superintendent of construction. Manager W. B. Joyce of the St. Paul Telephone company, General Supt. Warman of Minneapolis and Manager Van Brunt of Duluth. Conversation could be distinctly heard for the 160 miles. At an early date a long distance telephone company will construct lines between the Twin Cities and Duluth and will later extend to Chicago and Milwaukee.

•••Albert Schaeffer of St. Paul, a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is in Duluth looking after his fences. He regards the situation as badly mixed, but rates his chances as better than those of any other candidate. He believes that every point in the state should have transportation rates based upon the same rate per ton per mile, and would have the constitution amended so that railroad property would be taxed as other property is taxed.

•••At the meeting of the chamber of commerce this morning, the report of the special committee to hear complaints regarding the character of the city improvements was presented. The committee found that all the complaints were groundless and complimented the board of public words and the engineering force on their earnest devotion to the public interest.

•••The mayor last night presented to the council a veto of the resolution ordering an engine house at the West end. After much discussion the resolution was passed over the veto by a vote of 8 to 3. The salary of Detective Robert A. Benson was raised to $85 a month.

•••Luke Herman, about 26 years of age, was drowned in the bay near Conner's Point this morning by falling out of a boat. He has an uncle living at Towah, Wis.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Perham Enterprise: It is reported that Jacobson has said that he does not want to be elected unless the entire Republican state ticket is elected. Then Jake should be defeated. Any candidate who endorses the re-election of that man Mills as railroad and warehouse commissioner should meet the fate in store for Mills when the people register their votes in November.

Wadena Pioneer Journal: Apparently there has been a check in the movement of homeseekers toward far distant countries, and the trend is now toward Northern Minnesota, where a man of little or no capital may secure a home of his own and where a crop failure was never known. The deluded farmers who have gone to Western Canada, Western Dakota, and other semi-arid countries have learned their lesson in thousands of instances this season. From the unusually large number of inquiries being received by land agencies of this part of the state it becomes apparent that the movement toward Northern Minnesota is about to set in more heavily than ever.

Two Harbors Iron Trade Journal: Jacobson says he doesn't want to be elected unless the whole Republican ticket goes through. Well, he occupies the only position that has failed to land the past few years, and if he looks after his own end, the rest of the ticket may manage to tag along in the old-fashioned way.

Madison Independent Press: The political parties have press bureaus, but they have no press.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Some of the Republicans of the state seem to think that with Johnson out of the way the Republican candidate will have plain sailing. Maybe so, but it will be good politics for the Republicans to hustle just as though Johnson was the opposing candidate.

Virginia Enterprise (Rep.): Pie or peas, it's all the same. Jake may eat crow with a knife if it suits his taste; don't believe many Minnesotans aside from Bob Dunn would feel badly over it.

Perham Enterprise: We notice an exchange clipping booming Bob Dunn for the senate to succeed Senator Clapp. If he lands his man, Jacobson, this fall, Bob Dunn will be the big chief of the Republican party in this state, and the glossy black scalp of Senator Clapp will easily be within his grasp two years hence.

Bemidji Pioneer: The Chicago school board will no longer employ women teachers who are more than 50 years old. This will go hard with women of 40 who have been teaching for thirty-five years.

LeSueur News: It is said that Taft licked an editor once, and many suspicion he will lick another one in November.

Less Bitterness in Politics.

Springfield Republican (Ind.): Walter Wellman, writing from New York to the Chicago Record-Herald, quotes Chairman Hitchcock of the Republican national committee as saying: "We are proceeding on the theory that we have a hard fight before us; that there is danger of Taft's defeat, and that we must work hard to make sure of winning." Mr. Wellman commends this point of view as not only in line with the facts, but as necessary for the success of the fight in behalf of Mr. Taft. This correspondent also finds that the former fear of Mr. Bryan has largely passed away, so that his election is no longer regarded as an actual menace to the country. Mr. Wellman is further of the opinion that we are in for what will be in the main a good-natured political contest. Here is his summing up of the outlook:

"From all parts of the country comes the opinion that this is not going to be a very bitter or exciting campaign. It may be close. I have good reason for believing that in a few weeks the Republicans will have a scare on. That is, they will suddenly become alarmed over the progress Bryan is making and will not be able to conceal their anxiety. Already there are signs of the coming of such a scare. After it has reached its climax, the Republicans will gradually begin feeling better, and by October will have recovered their normal composure and confidence. On account of the belief which is likely soon to gain currency that Bryan has a fair chance, after all, the masses are sure to wake up and show genuine interest in the campaign. But all the travelers and observers with whom I have talked agree that at no time is there likely to be anything like the bitterness, the depth of feeling or the hysteria and fright we have seen in former presidential struggles. The progress Bryan has made from a dangerous outsider into the class with the best of our public men of thought, action and leadership is one large contributing cause of this national serenity."

This is an intelligent diagnosis of the temper of the American people as they enter upon the last phases of the presidential campaign of 1908, and Mr. Wellman has gathered his basis of judgment in many states. He attended both the national conventions, and since has been "on the road" studying the temper of the voters. That which he finds agrees with the judgment expressed by other experienced students of politics. The testimony of men competent to weigh the situation coincides in the conclusion that this year the fanatic hot-heads are the exception, and that the intelligent and fair-minded constitute the majority. Under such circumstances the chances for a well-considered verdict at the polls are the best—something that may well be welcomed. The more of thought and candid weighing of issues and of men, and the less of passion and prejudice, the better for the republic.

The McKinley Tree.

At the time of President McKinley's death one of the great trees of California was named the "William McKinley." Arthur W. Upson, the Minneapolis poet who was drowned in Lake Bemidji recently, wrote the following beautiful sonnet on that incident:

He who in dying blessed the peaceful trees
That lulled the slow grief of the lapsing year
Toward tranquil death, is best remembered here.
He leaves a name that shall make hollier these Huge temple pillars where the organing breeze,
Always at requiem, fills the atmosphere,
And does to their eternal roof uprear
Perpetual music of great memories.
Men raised rich temples in the days antique
To serve memorial unto virtues wan.
Beside his. Him no rites shall celebrate
Gold-wrought, ephemeral as their altar-reek—
But, while time is, he here in solemn state
Shall hold fit place in Nature's pantheon.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HIBBING IS THE WINNER

Sox Lose Third Straight Game on Mesabe Range Diamond.

Contest Goes Twelve Innings and is a Slugging Match.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing made it three straight victories over the Duluth White Sox yesterday afternoon by winning a wierd twelve-inning game by a score of 13 to 12.

The contest was about the queerest thing in the way of a baseball game that has ever been seen on the local lot. With the score 5 to 0 in favor of Hibbing, the Sox went at Gilligan in the second inning and pounded out ten runs, securing a commanding lead. In the fourth, each secured a run and in the twelfth, with Sage on third base, Carroll hit for two sacks and won the game.

Both teams hit the ball hard and often, each side using up three pitchers. Murray only lasted two innings for Duluth, Thorsen pitching six and Williams the remainder. Gilligan, Sage and Calligan all took a turn in the box for the home team.

The detailed score of the game follows:

EVEN BREAK AT BRANDON.

Maroons and Angels Each Win Game of Double Header.

Brandon, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brandon and Winnipeg split even in a double header yesterday, the Maroons winning the first game, 4 to 2, and the home team the second game, 1 to 0. In the first game, Nelson was hit hard in the third inning, the Maroons scoring enough to win. Theobald kept the hits well scattered. In the evening game, Terry was hit hard and Dahlgren was invincible. Fast fielding behind Terry kept the score down. Scores:

Reds Are Shut Out.

Cincinnati, Aug. 21.—Although the Cincinnatis out-hit the New Yorks, 2 to 1, they were unable to score, poor base running and the good pitching of Mathewson with men on bases prevented tallies. The New Yorks were helped in their run-getting by the wildness of Coakley and an error by Hulswitt. Score: R. H. E.

LIPTON CUP TO CHICAGO

Two Seconds and One Fourth Give Yacht Good Lead.

Accident to Cleveland Loses Last Race and the Trophy.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—For the first time in the history of the trophy, Chicago Yacht club tars won the Lipton cup yesterday afternoon. The victory came as a result of the victory of the I. A. C. of the New Illinois Athletic club, with the Chicago of the Chicago Yacht club in second place. Chicago was built and sailed by A. G. Cuthbert of Chicago, and is the club's syndicate boat. A strange feature of the Chicago's victory is the fact that the syndicate boat did not win a single first, but won the trophy with two seconds and a fourth. Chicago's second yesterday gave her a total of 244.5 points for the series as against 233.4 for the La Rita, owned by the New Illinois athletic club.

But for an accident it is probable that the Cleveland of the Cleveland Yacht club of Cleveland, Ohio, would have won the race and the cup. Cleveland crossed the line far in the lead and in the first half mile she outsailed her competitors two feet to one. It was discovered that the Buckeye yacht had crossed the line less than a fifth of a second ahead of the starting and efforts were made to recall her. They were unsuccessful however until Skipper Herman of the Columbia, Chicago, hailed her and told Skipper Barth that he had beaten the gun. Barth made all haste to return and cross the line in proper fashion, but he lost fifteen minutes in doing so. This did not daunt the plucky Ohioan, who sailed the best race that has been seen in the races during the week that the Lipton races have held sway in this city and succeeded in picking up nine of the fifteen minutes he had lost, and finished fifth in the race. Spectators all along the course cheered the Cleveland as she made the plucky effort to regain her lost lead.

A good twelve mile wind was blowing from the east when the yachts went to the starting line, and there was no doubt in the minds of the spectators that nothing excepting a very sudden change would prevent the finish of the series. After jockeying around the starting point for about fifteen minutes, the yachts started at exactly 2:15. Cleveland was seen to lead the field and the hopes of out of town spectators were high when she increased her lead.

When she had gone about a half a mile she was seen to come about and return to the starting line, Columbia, which had held second place, now took the lead.

At the finish of the first leg Columbia seemed to miss her course, as she did in yesterday's trial, and the La Rita took the lead. Before the Columbia could regain her course, the Cleveland, which was sailing a beautiful race, went into eighth place ahead of her. The order at the first buoy was as follows:

La Rita, first; Chicago, second; I. A. C., third; Spray, fourth; Jackson Park, fifth; Quen Sabe, sixth; Cherry Circle, seventh; Cleveland, eighth, Columbia, ninth.

Cleveland continued her good work on the second leg and passed the Quien Sabe and the Cherry Circle. She was closely followed by the Columbia. La Rita still held the lead, and I. A. C. had passed on Chicago. The order at the second buoy was:

La Rita, I. A. C. Chicago, Spray, Jackson Park, Cleveland, Columbia, Quien Sabe, Cherry Circle.

La Rita dropped back to third place on the next leg, both the I. A. C. and the Chicago passing her. Jackson Park went all to pieces and dropped far back of the Cherry Circle and was passed by Columbia, Quien Sabe and Cleveland in the order of finishing. The order was:

I. A. C. Chicago, La Rita, Spray, Cleveland, Columbia, Cherry Circle, Jackson Park, Quien Sabe.

Before half the last leg was finished it was seen that the I. A. C. would be the winner in the race, and an exciting struggle took place between the La Rita and the Chicago for second place, as they were tied for first in the percentage, and the second place meant the trophy for the winner. Chicago's lead was too great, however, to be overcome and the position of the leaders remained the same.

This afternoon a twenty-one mile race will be sailed between the Valmore, schooner, and the Vincedor, sloop, for the championship of large cruiser class. The Pabst cup has been offered as a trophy to the winner.

The White Sox are back—no, the iron ore mud-bespattered Sox are back, after being dragged in the muck and mire of the Mesabe range for three days. It's the same old story.

That team simply cannot or will not play ball away from home, and all the management can do is keep them on the lot at Athletic park to work out their destiny under favorable conditions.

This pill is the worst of the season. It's bad enough to be beaten by the Canadian teams in the league, but one doesn't come in contact with Brandon and Winnipeg fans every day in the week and is left to his misery without barbed prongs to scratch the skin. But to have a range team win three straight games, is almost too much. W'at's a busher?

The assertion has often been made that for any team to win games from a range club, it must play baseball—not one-old-cat. Duluth fans have always given it to the range clubs on that score. They admit Virginia, Hibbing and Eveleth have strong teams. But they have contended that the Northern league ball was faster and the teams better, and they wanted the Sox to prove it conclusively.

They still stick to their contentions. The Duluth team that played at Hibbing isn't a fair representative of the Northern league. It isn't playing Northern league ball; the pitchers aren't pitching Northern league ball; the men aren't doing Northern league batting. They were in the bushes and were playing bush ball, so how could they expect to win against bushers playing league ball?

Now the home series begins and the fans want to see something. It is up to Williams and his men to win a majority of the games at home with every range club. If the present men will not do, let them get others. The humiliation of losing three straight at Hibbing will be somewhat lessened if the big end of the home series is won.

There will be an awful crash when Jack Johnson meets Mike Schreck soon. Poor old Mike could fight a little once upon a time. Then he began to exhibit natural German propensities in such fashion that he took on weight like a new brewery wagon driver. It wasn't good fighting weight, either. He took a few beatings and drank more beer. Then he took a few more beatings and drank some more beer, and now he has taken so many beatings and so much beer that he has about as much right to enter a ring with Johnson as a Plymouth Rock hen with a fighting cock.

Burns is really the only man with whom Johnson can find a real fight. With Stanley Ketchell to the front now, Johnson must retire to the background and let the white men have their say. A fight between him and Burns is just as far away now as it ever was. He and Sam Langford ought to have a condolence party. The tears shed would float a freighter.

The Tri-State circuit race meet here the first week in October will give Duluth followers of the harness horse sport their first opportunity to see it at home for a good many years. The circuit will not be any puny affair, either. Some of the best horses in this north country will take part in the two days' racing, and the old West end track will be again as it was in days of yore. The meet will be a big boost to harness horse racing in Duluth and may be the forerunner of a bigger circuit next season.

JOHNSON AND CLOTHIER VICTORS

Tennis Tournament at Casino Goes Into the Fifth Round.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 21.—More than a score of matches were played yesterday on the Casino courts in the all-comers' tournament for the national tennis championship, with the result that when the sport ended for the day, the third round had been completed and the fourth well closed up. The principal winners of the day were:

F. B. Alexander, G. F. Touchard and A. L. Westfall of New York; B. C. Wright and F. J. Sulloway of Boston; J. D. E. Jones of Providence; Richard Stevens of Hoboken, William Clothier of Philadelphia, and Nat Emerson of Chicago. Today Touchard will meet Westfall and Stevens will play Jones, while Clothier will have J. O. Omes of Providence as his opponent on the championship court.

Two matches of the day were featured by the committee, that between B. C. Wright and W. F. Johnson of Philadelphia being played on the championship court, while the contest between Clothier and the younger Wright was sent to the clubhouse court. Both were decided in straight sets. Beals C. Wright played indifferently and with seeming carelessness. The younger Wright played a dashing, persistent game, which kept the former champion on the run, but Clothier showed ability to carry off his strokes, and while two of the sets went to deuce, he managed to win without extra sets. Much hard contests, however, were fought out on the other courts, and six of them went four or five sets. Sulloway and Robert LeRoy of New York played sixty games before the former pulled out a victor.

VALUABLE MARE DIES AFTER RACE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The three races that made up yesterday's program in the Grand Circuit meeting at the Hudson River driving park were won in straight heats.

The brown mare, Alceste, which was taken sick after winning two heats in the 2:28 trot Wednesday, died Thursday of inflammation of the bowels. The horse, which was five years old and valued at $10,000, was owned by Stambaugh Brothers of Youngstown, Ohio. Alceste was by Jay Bird and had a mark of 2:07¼.

Margaret O trotted one of the prettiest races of the meeting. She was never headed.

Hedgewood Boy fulfilled expectations by winning the 2:04 pace. John A made the pace the first part of each heat, and the first heat was a hard fight in which Hedgewood Boy nipped out John A a few feet from the wire. Black Lock and Baron Brattan made bad marks early in the first heat. John A, after making the pace in the second heat, proved a rank quitter, finishing last.

In the Dutchess, the only stake race of the day, Jerry B was never in serious danger, although Fred D made a bid for first place in the first heat.

EASY FOR FAVORITE.

Footpad Takes Wakefield Stakes on the Yonkers Track.

Empire City Race Track, Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Footpad, the 3 to 5 favorite, easily won the Wakefield stakes, five and a half furlongs, at Empire City yesterday, and in doing so created a new track record for the distance, 1:06 1-5, which lis one-fifth of a second faster than the best previous time. Dick Roller, a Western colt, went out to make the pace, and, leading by two lengths at the stretch, where Notter sent Footpad up, and taking command in the last sixteenth, won easily by one and a half lengths. Roseben started in the third race, but second to Nimbus was the best he could do.

BIG RIFLE MATCH ON.

National Teams Gather at Camp Perry for Program.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 21.—The president's match, the final event on the program of the National Rifle association, attracted 376 contestants who, at 8 o'clock yesterday, went on a 20-shot skirmish run, followed by slow fire at 200 and 600 yards. The fifty competitors who have made the highest aggregate score, were put into the second stage, which began at 1 o'clock. This stage includes the ten shots at 800 and 1,000 yards.

The winner of the president's match gets a gold medal and the highest aggregate score in the president's and in the national individual match, next week, will decide who is entitled to the military championship of the United States. Sergeant Berg of Washington won the president's match last year by the score of 310.

Teams kept arriving yesterday for the national matches today and Saturday.

Sweet Marie Beaten.

TOO BIG FOR THE COPPER

Police Refers Queer Proposition to the Police Court.

J. M. Bell's Horse Chewed Up Tree While in Bluecoat's Charge.

"My horse was in charge of a policeman at the time," said John M. Bell in police court yesterday afternoon. "If he did any damage, talk to the copper. I have nothing to do with it."

Mr. Bell was arrested because he left his horse unhitched at the corner of Nineteenth avenue east and Superior street. Mrs. Barbara Hibbing of 1350 East Superior street swore out a complaint. She claimed the animal belonging to Bell had damaged two trees in front of her residence.

Mr. Bell, who pleaded guilty to the charge of leaving his horse unhitched, but who would not admit that he was responsible for the damage, was dismissed from custody without punishment. Mrs. Hibbing failed to appear against him.

Bell left his horse for a few minutes yesterday morning, and while he was gone the animal began to nibble at a small tree on East Superior street. Mrs. Hibbing shooed him away, and when Bell reappeared she scolded him for being so careless. At this juncture a policeman came along, and after learning the facts in the case, decided to arrest Bell.

"I guess I'll take both you and the horse to the police station," said the copper.

"I guess you'll do no such thing," said Bell. "Take the horse and do what you want to with it. As for me, I prefer to go about my business, and my business is of more importance than a visit to the police station. If you want to arrest the horse, go ahead and do it. It is no concern of mine."

This puzzled the bluecoat somewhat, and he crossed the street to a store and telephoned to headquarters for instructions. Mrs. Hibbing went back into the house, and Bell leisurely strolled after the policeman. While the three were gone, the horse rambled up to another tree in front of the Hibbing home. This tree was the last one planted by Mr. Hibbing before his death, and it was therefore highly prized by Mrs. Hibbing. Some other horse had chewed it a few weeks ago, and the bruises had been tenderly wrapped in a canvas covering.

Mr. Bell's animal took offense at the covering, and tore it entirely away, afterwards proceeding to eat a chunk out of the tree itself. It is claimed the last injuries will kill it. When the policeman and Bell returned to the scene, Mrs. Hibbing had again driven the horse away, and was standing there with tears of rage and sorrow in her eyes.

"Now I will have you arrested," she exclaimed. "See what your ugly brute has done."

"Me arrested!" ejaculated the surprised Mr. Bell. "Better have the policeman arrested. The horse was in his charge when the damage was done. I am not in the least responsible for it. If the cop hadn't meddled, the horse and I would have been blocks away before the animal ever saw the tree."

The problem was too big a one for the copper to solve, and he turned the whole thing over to Judge Cutting.

OCONOWOC BOAT WINS.

Handy Andy Finishes First in Class A Race at Minnetonka.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21.—A new winner came to the front yesterday in the Class A races of the Inland Yachting regatta at Minnetonka, Handy Andy, the Oconowoc Lake club's entry, taking first place with Tomahawk, Minnetonka's boat, second. Troubadour, the leader in the standings, was third. The Class B and C races were again easy victories for the Minnetonka boats, Butterfly and Skip.

TAYLOR GIVES UP CANDIDACY

Aitkin, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Adam Bede of Pine City and Clarence B. Miller of Duluth can fight it out alone for the Republican nomination for representative in congress in this, the Eighth district, as Carl E. Taylor of this city, who has been in the race several weeks, or ever since he filed for the nomination, found the pace too hot and quit. He says he did not receive the support he anticipated.

In a communication, printed in the last issue of the Aitkin Republican, he announces his withdrawal from the campaign for the nomination on the Republican ticket, as follows:

"I wish to announce my withdrawal as a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the Eighth district. Much of the support which I was led to expect, and which was assured me, has not been forthcoming, and as I have neither the time nor the funds necessary to prosecute a campaign that would be a winner, I wish to withdraw. I desire to thank all who have taken an interest in my candidacy and to assure them that their good will is appreciated."

S.S.S. THE CURE FOR SCROFULA

Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, pale, waxy complexions, running sores and ulcers, skin diseases, and general poor health, are the usual ways in which Scrofula is manifested. The disease being deeply intrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, and the scrofulous and tubercular matter so thoroughly destroys the healthful properties of the blood that Scrofula sometimes terminates in consumption, an incurable disease. The entire circulation being contaminated, the only way to cure the trouble is to thoroughly purify the blood and restore the circulation to a strong, healthy state. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Scrofula; it renovates the entire blood supply and drives out the scrofulous and tubercular deposits. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and it not only goes right down to the very bottom of the trouble and removes the cause, but it supplies the weak, diseased blood with the healthful properties it is in need of, and in this way builds up weak, frail scrofulous persons and makes them strong and healthy. S. S. S. is a gentle, safe, vegetable preparation. Book on the blood containing information about Scrofula and any medical advice free.

STIRRING SUIT SALES AT THE COLUMBIA

Never have we offered greater inducements to buy suits, and never have we met with a more enthusiastic response from the people of Duluth. Times are getting better every day and many a man who feared to spend money for a suit earlier in the season, carries off a prize now, saving a good round sum on his late purchase.

Tomorrow is the last day of this extreme offer. It's a shamefaced figure to connect with good Columbia Suits, and must not be classed with the ordinary Cheap-John sales advertised at so low a price.

These are regular Columbia Suits, the kind known to every man in Duluth. The values run up to $15, $18 and in some instances $20. Come in early tomorrow, for they go fast.

And this is not all! If you can't find anything to suit you on the $6.75 table, step over to the $11.85 one, where this shocking low price gives you the free choice of the Columbia's best light colored suits from $18 and $20 upward, including the high-class Stein-Bloch garments.

VALUE OF A GOOD VOICE

Two Men Have Spirited Conversation at the State House.

Des Moines, Aug. 21.—The arrangements for Mr. Bryan's reception in this city today were entirely informal. While automobile riding, Mr. Bryan and his party were conveyed to the state capitol, where the Democratic standard-bearer called upon Governor A. B. Cummins in the executive chambers. Governor Cummins had not been informed of Mr. Bryan's purpose to call upon him, but greeted his visitor with marked cordiality. For ten minutes they indulged in scintillant repartee, much to the enjoyment of the small audience. "You are looking well, Mr. Bryan, and capable of the work before you," was the way Governor Cummins opened the conversation.

Governor Cummins referred to Mr. Bryan's speaking qualities. "In 1894," said the governor, "when I first heard you speak, I thought you had the finest voice I ever heard."

"That was the first time you heard me," was the Nebraskan's remark. "It is a very fine compliment," he said, "but I don't like the way you offer them. You Republicans always pass compliments on my physical qualifications."

Governor Cummins insisted that Mr. Bryan impaired his voice in 1896 but protested that he had not given him time to finish. "I was coming to that," the governor said, "but I mentioned the most marked characteristic first."

"That does not help matters much to call it 'The most marked characteristic'" quickly interjected Mr. Bryan, who added:

"Governor, you are a good talker yourself."

Value of Good Voice.

The two men talked further regarding the value of a good voice in a campaign. "If you have a good voice," said the governor, "it does not make much difference what you have in your head; another thing is a good stomach."

The conversation then turned in another direction and Governor Cummins complimented Mr. Bryan for having done a whole lot of good outside of the things he stood for. "I don't admit that about myself," said Mr. Bryan, "because I won't admit it about anybody else."

The senatorial fight which Mr. Cummins is making was alluded to by Mr. Bryan, but Governor Cummins asserted that a man may enjoy a fight. "It is a different proposition, however, to have to fight your friends as well as your enemies," he said.

"You are a pretty good fighter, governor," remarked Mr. Bryan with a smile, "and one fight at a time won't keep you busy."

A Cummins Democrat.

Turning to Father John F. Nugent of Des Moines, one of the reception committee, Governor Cummins asked him if he was still a Democrat. "I am a Cummins Democrat," replied the learned prelate, at which Mr. Bryan urged the governor to not press the priest too hard.

Reverting to the question of political fights, Governor Cummins remarked that Senator La Follette was growing fat on them.

"That is because he drinks so much milk," commented Mr. Bryan. The governor characterized Senator La Follette as a remarkable man.

"I have heard him deliver a brief address of four hours and a half," he said, "and in that time drink a gallon and a half of lemonade. That would kill you or me."

"What does he put that lemon in for?" inquired Mr. Bryan, and then laughed.

The conversation then drifted into general matters. The governor escorted Mr. Bryan from the executive chamber all the while holding his hand on the shoulder of the Democratic candidate. They shook hands in parting, and the auto ride was resumed.

LEOPARDS MAKE THEIR ESCAPE

Two Get Away at St. Paul and Create a Panic.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two leopards, owned by a carnival company, exhibiting on the West side, escaped while being fed this morning and scattered consternation in the vicinity of South Robert and Roble streets.

The Ducas street police were notified and sent a patrol with several officers to round up the beasts. One was coralled in Wakerfuss' shop. The other is still at large in the woods near the vicinity.

The escape of the leopards aroused the lions, who are confined in the animal tent, and for a moment pandemonium reigned on the carnival grounds.

PRICES HOLD UP UNDER PRESSURE

Bearish Feeling Prevails in Coppers, But Decline is Slight.

Profit-taking in Boston continued today, and the feeling in the copper market was decidedly bearish, but prices held up pretty well under the pressure, and in most of the good listed issues the close was but little lower than the opening, and in some cases it was higher.

North Butte opened at $83.50, went down to $82.75, rallied to $83.25 and closed at $83 bid and $85.12½ asked. Amalgamated opened at $77, dropped to $76.62½, rallied to $77 and fell off again at the close to $76.50 bid and $76.75 asked. Anaconda opened at $47, fell off to $45.12½, rallied to $46.50 and closed at $46.25. Butte Coalition opened at $26.87½, dropped off to $26.75, rallied to $27 and closed at $26.75 bid and $27 asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $118 and closed at $118.50 bid and $118.75 asked.

There was considerable activity in the curb market, with little change in prices in any of the local stocks. Greene-Cananea sold at $11.62½, then at $11.75 and back to $11.62½ again, Superior & Pittsburg at $13.75 and $13.62½, Black Mountain at $3.62½ and $3.75, Butte-Ballaklava at $7, Butte & Superior at $1.37½, Calumet & Sonora at $10, Carnan at $3.37½, Denn-Arizona at $4.25, Globe at $4.50 and $4.62½ and Red Warrior at $3.12½.

Cliff was inactive at $1.25 bid and $1.37½ asked. Copper Queen at $1.25 bid and $1.37½ asked, and Mowitza at $2 bid and $2.25 asked.

INTENDS TO BE GOVERNOR WITH THE HELP OF GOD.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 21.—Texas has a new candidate for governor, who aspires to the highest office in the state without regard to party affiliation. Scuddy Richardson, who has served as reporter on many southern papers has issued formal announcement of his candidacy for chief executive in an altogether unique platform.

"With the help of God, I intend to be governor," says Mr. Richardson in his announcement. "I enter the race seemingly handicapped, cut off from the great parties that have ruled the land; but I shall win as God is with me, and I stand for what is right." Mr. Richardson opposes Prohibition.

Cole Declines Honor.

Ann Harbor, Mich., Aug. 21.—Prof. Rufus I Cole of Johns Hopkins university, has declined an invitation to succeed Dr. George Dock in the chair of medicine at the University of Michigan. It is said Dr. Cole will become director of the new Rockefeller Research hospital.

Villa Maria Alumnae Meet.

Frontenac, Minn., Aug. 21.—On Tuesday was held the seventh biennial meeting of the Villa Maria Alumnae association. Besides the usual official work of the association, there was a picnic dinner on Point au Sable, launch rides on Lake Pepin, a banquet in the evening, which was followed by an informal musical. Mrs. Edna B. Young, '93, rich mezzo voice, sang Schira's "Sognal" and "Castles in the Air." Miss Elizabeth Maddox, '07, gave some spirited numbers on the violin, and sang DeTert's "Swiss Song" and Tostl's "Good-bye." Members of the faculty closed the program with piano and vocal numbers.

The newly-elected officers are: Miss Mary Wilkins Coons, '06, president; Miss Elizabeth Harney, vice president. By unanimous vote it was decided to hereafter hold the meetings after the annual commence ments.

Houghton Jail Full.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The jail is full," said Sheriff Beck, "but we can accommodate anyone, nevertheless. A jail is like a street car in this respect, there is always room for one more."

There are now fifty-four guests at the county boarding house, forty-three men and eleven women. "All reported for breakfast this morning," said the sheriff, "and it was quite a task to feed them."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MANY LOGS COME DOWN

Huge Drive, Largest in Years, Descends Red Lake River.

Is Mile Above Crookston Where It Will be Divided.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The rear end of a monster drive of 16,000,000 feet of logs has reached a point about a mile above the city and the crew of forty "river hogs" is busy sorting and scaling them as they reach the sluiceway of the Crookston Lumber company. The drive was brought down by a crew under the direction of River Boss Pat Sullivan.

About 12,000,000 feet of the logs belong to the Grand Forks Lumber company, and 4,000,000 will be boomed and held here for the Crookston Lumber company, which with the stock already on hand will make an abundant supply to start the mill up on next spring after one year's idleness.

This is the biggest drive that has been brought down the Red Lake river in ten years. It has been brought down under great difficulties because of the extremely low stage of the water, and were it not for numerous dams which were opened to flood the rear end millions of feet of the drive would have been stranded high and dry along the flats en route, where the river spreads out. It will take a couple of months to sort the logs here and get the tail end of the drive started for East Grand Forks, and the drive from here down will be a difficult feat unless heavy fall rains start in within a month or two.

The Red Lake river is so low above here that in places it is possible to wade across. There has not been a rain which would affect the stage of water in the river for the past eight or ten weeks.

STOCK CARS ARE BUILT RAPIDLY

One Every Hour Turned Out at N. P. Brainerd Shops.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Pacific car shops in this city have established a record in the building of stock cars that is hard to beat. Two hundred and fifty cars have been built at the shops under the supervision of D. K. Fullerton, general foreman of this department of the Northern Pacific shops here. One car has been turned out complete every hour since commencing on the work, not one single hour of the working day having been missed.

The sills and other heavy timbers are laid on the trucks outside the shop and the cars are pulled forward to the stations of the various crews once each hour. The first crew puts in the plates which hold the draw bars, bolt the sills in position and put in the trusses. The next crew puts in the floor and the cars are then run into the shop proper. The roof timbers, posts, etc., have in the meanwhile been placed beside or on the car. The roof is framed on the deck of the car, hoisted by means of tackle and let down upon the upright posts. At the same time the draw heads are put in place. An ingenious machine invented by Mr. Fullerton is used to counterbore the draw bar springs and put them in place. The next crew puts on the end lining and the side slats while, another puts on the doors, etc. Ten crews altogether work on each car, each crew working an hour, the last crew applying the paint.

The clockwork regularity is maintained through the knowledge of Mr. Fullerton as to what time each part of the work should consume. Often the men on a gang, or on all the gangs will complete their work before the hour, but they are not expected to do anything till time is up and the line of cars is each advanced on station.

The company is also having 250 cars built in the South Tacoma shops, and while the officials refuse to discuss the matter, some of the men express positive knowledge that the work is being done cheaper here than at the former place because of the splendid system of Mr. Fullerton.

MAKES TYPEWRITER FLY.

Fastest Typist in World Attends Reporters' Meeting.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 21.—Milwaukee, the birthplace of the typewriter, and the city in which the first girl to operate the writing machine, invented by her father, still resides, has been honored this week with the presence of the "fastest expert typewriter in the world." This is Miss Rose L. Fritz of Brooklyn, N. Y. Miss Fritz has been attending the tenth annual convention of the National Shorthand Reporters' association. It is fitting that one who has achieved world-wide fame for the rapidity, dexterity and accuracy with which she handles the machine should attend a convention of rapid writers and typewriter artists in the city where, thirty-five years ago, Christopher Latham Sholes, the humble inventor, brought out the first writing machine, and where his daughter, Miss Lillian Sholes, who operated the first successful machine, still resides. She is a petite little woman of 20 years of age, of German-Jewish descent. After graduating from the high school of Jersey City and the Hope street high school in Providence, she went to New York city and took a course in shorthand and typewriting. When she graduated she had attained a speed of 120 words a minute. This was attained at the end of four months' practice. Later she wrote 150 words a minute.

In October, 1905, Miss Fritz entered the Madison Square garden typewriting contest. She won second place, and since then to the present time, she has never been beaten.

NEW BRAINERD INDUSTRY.

Furniture Factory to be Started in That City.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Rhone of Rhone & Flaata has purchased the site of the Fricker Bros.' flouring mill, which was destroyed by fire a few months ago, together with the steam engine and boiler used to furnish power for the mill.

Work has already commenced in cleaning up the site, and Mr. Rhone has made arrangements to begin at once on the erection of a wooden building, 35 by 50 feet, for use as a factory, and also on a building to be used as a dry kiln.

He states that he will start in a small way manufacturing only kitchen tables and kitchen cupboards. If this proves a success, he will then extend the work to other articles of furniture.

SUSPECT ARRESTED.

Man Believed to Have Been Implicated in Robbery, Taken.

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 21.—Answering the description of a man wanted at Felton, and having in his possession a full kit of tools used in safe blowing, a suspect was arrested by Constable E. J. Murphy, near Averill. He was taken back to Felton.

The Felton robbery was committed early yesterday morning, the store of A. V. Specht being entered and $13 in cash taken. The postoffice is located there, but nothing was touched as far as is known in that department. Bob Wood's fruit and confectionery store was entered and a quantity of fruit was stolen.

Suspicion at once pointed to a man who was in the village on Monday, who had left his horse tied to a hay rack outside of town. The officers are certain that he is the man.

After a hearing Murphy was held for trial.

READ OF HIS DEATH.

Then He Visited Undertaker and Sized Up the Corpse.

Antigo, Wis., Aug. 21.—Last evening the Journal had an account of the death of Charles Zurawski, saying that he had been killed by a falling tree. Charles Zurawski didn't die, however, and when he read it in the Journal he immediately went over to the undertaker's to see what his corpse looked like. After examining it closely he found it was his old friend John Kukowski, with whom he had worked in the woods Kukowski had some of Zurawski's letters upon his person and the undertaker took it for granted that was his name.

MANY HEARD STOKES.

Millionaire Socialist Packed Unitarian Church at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Unitarian church was crowded Tuesday night by people auxious to hear J. G. Phelps Stokes, a New York millionaire, who believes in Socialism and is making a campaign of the country in the interest of Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate for the presidency. The speaker got a warm reception and was closely followed during his address.

He refuted the idea that Socialism meant a diving up of all capital or that its adoption would be revolutionary. He maintained, with excellent arguments, that competition between workers and tradesmen would be even more keen under the system which Debs represents as presidential nominee in this country. His doctrine is similar to the single tax, save that it is not "single" in some instances, where he believes the latter would not be for the benefit of the worker. After speaking for two hours Mr. Stokes requested to be questioned on points not made clear and the advantage of the opportunity was taken by many, one of which drew out the fact that the speaker did not hope for the election of Debs, but by every good Socialist voting the ticket the impression for good would continue to spread and that instead of the million votes of last election it would be nearer the two million mark by the natural increase indicated in the past.

BIG CREAMERY PLANT HAS CHANGED HANDS.

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 21.—C. E. McElroy has bought the business and creamery plant of the Minnesota & Dakota Produce company in this city, the transaction having been practically completed yesterday. The creamery has been doing a good business this spring and summer, and has disposed of a large amount of butter to wholesale dealers in the West. Local parties will take hold and make a permanent enterprise of the creamery. The company will be incorporated at once.

TRAMMER FRACTURES SKULL.

Hancock, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of a blow on the head from a small fragment of rock in No. 8 shaft of the Quincy, Tuesday afternoon, Samuel Saari, a Finn employed there as a trammer lies in St. Joseph's hospital with a fractured skull. The injured man is still alive, and there are some chances for his recovery.

FARMERS IN COMBINE.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Aug. 21.—The Potato and Hay Growers' association of the American Society of Equity closed its business session in this city yesterday after perfecting plans for a permanent organization, as outlined in convention yesterday. The following directors were elected to carry on the work of the organization for the ensuing year: F. W. Ploetz, Coloma; A. A. Brekke, Rosholot; J. B. Muller, Grand Rapids; A. C. Elliott, Westfield; A. L. Lumson, St. Croix; A. M. Miller Kaukauna, and H. Jobell, Knapp.

BROOKS DENIES SELLING HIS WATER POWER STOCK.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 21.—W. L. Brooks of the Backus-Brooks company denies absolutely the report that his firm has sold its water power holdings at International Falls. He says that his firm has entered into no negotiations for the sale of the holdings, and on the other hand expects to carry out its original plans for development of the water power and manufacturing industries.

Indian Is Game Warden.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—Star Bad Boy, an Indian, has been appointed a game warden for Mahnomen county by the state game and fish commission. He filed his bond yesterday. Star Bad Boy is looked upon as a vigilant officer. He already has a number of convictions to his credit.

Fires Doing Michigan Harm.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 21.—Forest fires at Misery bay, southeast of here, have destroyed several million feet of standing timber and upward of $10,000 worth of cut logs owned by the Houghton Lumber company. The dry spell of the past several weeks has resulted in many bush fires in this region.

THIRD ASSISTANT P. M. GENERAL GIVEN LUNCHEON.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—A luncheon was given to Third Assistant Postmaster General A. C. Lawshe at the Commercial club at noon yesterday. Those present were J. T. McCleary, Postmaster E. Yanish, 1511 Warner, Charles P. Noyes, R. A. Kirk, J. W. Cooper, Capt. H. A. Castle, John F. Kelley, Oliver Crosby, W. C. Waterous, H. E. Hutchings, H. A. Merrill, A. H. Lindeke, Congressman F. C. Stevens, F. G. Walther, C. L. Kluckhohn and Special Agent Strohm.

Will Marry Eveleth Man.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Announcement is made of the coming marriage of Miss Lilly Eklund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Swan Eklund, to Henry Peterson of Eveleth, Minn. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents at 377 Caledonia street.

Kills Large Wolf.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nickoll Hoekkala of Toivola brought in a pelt from a large wolf yesterday and brought to the county clerk's office to be placed on the lost for bounty orders. Mr. Hockkala says he expects to kill more this month, as they are quite thick in the vicinity of his homestead.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Crookston—E. W. Jones, who has a large farm on section 27, town of Andover, has just finished threshing a field of oats. It covered 15 2-3 acres, and he reports that the yield amounted to 740 bushels, or over 47 bushels to the acre.

St. Cloud—Despondent over financial reverses, the loss of his family and general ill luck an unknown man attempted to commit suicide at St. Joseph on Monday afternoon. He pulled a razor and was in the act of cutting his throat when the foreman of the water works job appeared on the scene and partially succeeded in preventing the man from destroying himself.

Perham—Contractor Alex Nelson has taken the contract for the erection of a brick building for the Bank of Vergas, and will commence work at once. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $3,500.

Brainerd—G. A. Jones of Anoka, general manager of the Brainerd Mill company, has arrived from the cities, accompanied by S. H. Swan of Minneapolis, who will be local manager of the Brainerd Milling company. Mr. Swan has spent the past six months in Kansas and expresses himself as more than glad to get back to the bracing air of Northern Minnesota.

Cambridge—John Stadden, one of the earliest settlers of Spencer Brook, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson Howard in this village Tuesday afternoon from a general breaking down of the constitution, the result of old age. Mr. Stadden was almost 88 years of age and had been ailing for about ten years.

Isanti—Jonas Highland has purchased the building and two lots at the southwest corner of Main street and First avenue, the consideration being $1,400. In the deal Andrew Norling becomes owner of the Highland property west of the Woodman hall. Mr. Norling expects to build a residence on his new property.

North Branch—A few loads of potatoes are coming in every day, but the market is very dull compared to what it will be later on when the season for late potatoes begins. The price at present is around 50 cents.

Little Falls—Harry E. Meyers, Jr., is now substitute clerk at the Little Falls postoffice. A civil service examination was held here on July 1, and the returns have just been received. Meyers had the highest standing and was appointed substitute clerk.

Moorhead—John Monahan, who was so horribly mangled at Wolverton Monday evening, succumbed to his injuries, death coming at about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. No new information was gleaned as to his relatives, though he stated that his home was in Chicago.

St. Cloud—A deal was closed Wednesday, whereby Henry W. Bensen, who is now at Miles City, Mont., becomes the owner and proprietor of the bowling alley on Fifth avenue south. The purchase was made of Hollern & Ross of Sauk Rapids.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—Having completed a thirty days' petty larceny term, Ollie Blondie's liberty was brief as he was re-arrested immediately on leaving the jail. Last month he forged a check on a clothing merchant at Casselton. He pleaded guilty before the committing magistrate and was held to the district court.

Bismarck, N. D.—A. Prust was arrested on complaint of H. A. Schmid of Los Angeles, Cal., of robbing him of $28. The accused demanded an immediate hearing before Judge Gilbert, who discharged him after hearing the evidence.

Russell, N. D.—While filling a lighted lantern with what he supposed to be kerosene, but what afterwards proved to be gasoline, R. H. Rafter was seriously burned about the head and hands.

Fargo, N. D.—Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jenkins left Wednesday evening for a week's trip to Duluth and vicinity and took along Dr. Sten Hanson as their guest, as well as physician.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Joe Steele, a farmer residing near Arvilla, is missing and his wife asserts that he has eloped with a woman and her three children. She has notified State's Attorney J. B. Wineman of the case and has asked him to take action. Just where Steele has gone is not known, but it is believed he is not very far away.

Fargo, N. D.—The sale of the four sections of land belonging to the Houston estate in this county was not confirmed by Judge Hansen of the county court. Minor heirs contended the property had been undervalued and were upheld. The sale was for about $100,000.

Grand Forks, N. D.—At a meeting of the county drainage board the Levant drainage ditch proposition was considered favorably and surveying will be commenced at once. It is proposed to extend a ditch some five miles. On August 31, at 10 o'clock, a hearing will be held at the courthouse.

Bismarck, N. D.—The city will put up a fight over the replevin of the Baker cattle, impounded by Poundmaster Forsyth three or four days ago. The cattle taken up were replevined by their owner, and the time for rebonding expired Wednesday night, and the city not putting up the bond, they were returned to Mr. Baker.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—The Elks' baseball team will battle with the traveling salesmen's nine at Fairmount park Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The teams are practicing hard and will be in fine condition for a hot game.

Washburn—The Jacobs mill and the Northwestern Fuel company docks in this city had a close call from destruction by fire, when a small fire which had been started by boys who had been in swimming near the bay shore was suddenly fanned into raging flames by the heavy wind which prevailed.

Manitowoc—A trust fund of of $14,000 is created for his sister, Mrs. Dolly Waldo, with whom he made his home, in the will of S. A. Wood, Manitowoc's oldest attorney, filed for probate Thursday. Miss Flora Waldo, a niece, and George Waldo are named to manage the trust fund and estate.

Milwaukee—Otto Seidel, Jr., former register of deeds, was rescued from possible death in Lake Winneconne Monday by his brother, Emil Seidel, former Socialist alderman and candidate for mayor last spring. Otto Seidel slipped from a disabled launch and Emil Seidel grabbed him by the hair when he arose. Companions assisted in dragging the victim into the boat.

Manitowoc—Nelson Pronto, a former Manitowoc man at Algoma, lost his life while attempting to gather driftwood in the lake there, the overturned boat on the beach leading to a search for the body, which was recovered after twenty-four hours.

Eau Claire—C. J. Crosby of the Crosby Granite company has returned from Duluth, where he and his wife and family have been visiting for a few days. Mrs. Crosby is still visiting at Duluth.

Janesville—Arthur Hanson, a Milwaukee road brakeman, was caught between two cars here and badly pinched. He may die.

Neenah—Miss Helen Kimball, daughter of Postmaster Kimball, heroically prevented fatal results in a runaway by cutting the tugs from the carriage in which she, with her guests, were taking a pleasure ride, when the horses became frightened. The horser were thus liberated and ran away.

Appleton—The Water Wagon, a fast pleasure launch from Wepere, crashed into the steamer J. H. Marston on the lower Fox river and capsized. The men in the party were all good swimmers, and, with the aid of the deckhands of the steamer, saved the women.

Ladysmith—The present outlook for the tobacco crop in Rusk county is very promising. The season has been favorable and the plants have attained a magnificent growth. The tobacco growers are feeling good over the outlook and are preparing to put the crop into shed.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—The farmers and mining companies of Hancock and vicinity at the solicitation of Game Warden St. Clair Wilson have banded together, and within a few days signs will be posted everywhere forbidding hunting between April and October.

Lake Linden—A boom of logs owned by Belheumer & Eddy of Lake Linden parted near the ship canal Monday evening, and only after considerable difficulty were the logs gathered. High winds prevailed at the time and it was feared that the boom was wrecked.

Calumet—The Calumet clerks have at last affiliated with the International Protective association and from now on the meetings will be conducted under the rules of that organization.

Dollar Bay—The members of the Dollar Bay band are contemplating giving a promenade at the Finnish hall in the near future. The event promises to be enjoyable and the invitation will be public.

Calumet—Some unknown miscreants recently entered the Kearsarge school and proceeded to break all the windows in sight, and demolish things generally. They also broke a window in Petermann's store and did much damage to other property.

Laurium—James Shea of Laurium, died Tuesday of tuberculosis at the home of his father, Tim Shea. Mr. Shea was 28 years old, and is well known in this district. He is survived by his father, four brothers and one sister. Within the last four years, Mr. Shea has lost his wife, two sons and a daughter.

Ishpeming—William Trebilcock, who was awarded the contract for building 1,140 feet of concrete curbing on Lake street, between Canda and Bancroft, has started the work and has about a block put in. The work will cost 25 cents per foot.

Marquette—Rev. S. G. Bettes, the "cowboy" preacher, well known in Upper Michigan, was recently mixed at Seattle. The ceremony was performed in a tent and an admission fee of 25 cents was charged.

Negaunee—Arthur E. Willman, who came home from the Panama canal zone a few weeks ago on sixty-days' leave of absence, was married Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock to Miss Margaret Bellanger. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. B. Coombe, pastor of the Mitchell Methodist church, at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. William.

Menominee—Formal announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Margaret Ethan Harris, daughter of the Hon. and Mrs. Michael B. Harris of Menominee county, to Edward P. Reynolds of Escanaba. The ceremony will be performed Wednesday, Aug. 26, at St. George's church of Harris.

Calumet—Miss Rose Delongchamp, daughter of Joseph Delongchamp, of Wolverine, and Delore Perrault of Kearsarge will be married at St. Anne's church, in Calumet, next Tuesday morning.

ON THE IRON RANGES

CONTRACTOR HAS COMMENCED WORK

Is Clearing Ground Near Ohio Mine for New Buildings.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. B. Shaver, who has the contract for erection of two large boarding houses for the Oliver Iron Mining company, is clearing the ground where the old Ohio Mine camps were located. These buildings will be for the accommodation of employes of the Oliver company at the Norman mine. Mr. Shaver also has the contract for erection of twelve new cottages at the Higgins mine location for the same company.

The funeral services for the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Prijanovich, who was killed Monday by being run over by a wagon wheel, were held this afternoon from the Polish Catholic church.

REMOVING FIRE RUINS.

Work on Eveleth's New High School is Progressing.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The old scrap iron on the high school grounds is being taken away by Gus Simons & Co. of Duluth, whose bid was accepted by the school board at $5.65 per ton. The remains of the building are all cleaned out. The boilers remain intact in the boiler room, as they were surrounded by brick walls. It is not known whether or not the old boilers will be used in the new building. The bricks from the old building that can be used are piled up, so that they can be made use of.

The pupils are waiting for the opening of school, two weeks from Monday. The teachers will be coming next week, when final arrangements will be made in regard to the high school course. All arrangements have been made for the placing of the pupils in the various halls and school buildings.

It seems to be the opinion of the players on last year's high school football team, that a team will be put into the field this fall, even though the football uniforms were burned at the time of the fire. The prospects this year are very good for a light but fast team, as most of the members of last year will be back in school.

EVELETH GARDENS THRIVE.

Fresh Vegetables, Home-Grown, Quite Common.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers in this vicinity expect good crops this fall, and already some of the nearby gardeners are coming to town to sell their products. The weather of late has been favorable to the farmers, as the dry and rainy spells have come at opportune times. A number of people within the city who have suitable ground for raising vegetables, are taking advantage of that fact and are now taking potatoes, radishes, lettuce and other garden stuff, fresh from the earth. A number of the boarding houses have gardens that supply their entire need in the vegetable line.

CHISHOLM MAN BEATEN.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. Anderson, a well known citizen, employed in one of the mines, is laid up at his home suffering from bruises he sustained a few nights ago when he was brutally assaulted by some unknown assailant with a club.

On awakening several hours later his head was a mass of bruises and cuts and it is thought an attempt was made to murder him. It is apparent that robbery was not the motive, as none of the valuables or money on the person of Anderson was taken. Anderso nmanaged to walk home with assistance, but his condition is rather serious.

HIS INTESTINES EXPOSED.

Frightful Wound Sustained by a 9-Year-Old Boy.

Biwabik, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—With his intestines protruding through the opening in a wound he sustained in the abdomen when he fell on the pieces of a broken bottle, Glenn, the 9-year-old son of F. A. Howerton, foreman at the Iron Range roundhouse, was received at the local hospital. While the wound is serious, the surgeons hope to save the boy's life, unless blood poisoning results.

Coleraine to Have Park.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company has fenced a piece of ground, about 700 feet square, at the east end of Roosevelt avenue and along the shore of Trout lake, and a landscape gardener will improve it for a pleasure ground, to be known at Cotton park. At the north end of Gayely avenue another plot of ground is undergoing improvements for park purposes, and will be known as Gayely park.

BRIEF VIRGINIA EVENTS.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Otto A. Poirier departed Wednesday for a week's outing at Isle Royale.

W. D. Washburn, the Duluth attorney, has been in Virginia this week on business connected with the Virginia Lumber company.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hall, who are now in Texas, where they went to inspect fruit lands, will return home next Tuesday. Nels Nelson, who accompanied them, has decided to remain in Texas permanently.

R. M. Sellwood of Duluth arrived here Wednesday to look after mining interests.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dees of Allegan, Mich., are here visiting their sons, Will and Frank Dees, who are employed at one of the local mines.

A. W. Hubbard, the undertaker, has returned to take his old position with John Mesberg.

Miss Julia Florence Helstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Helstrom, was married at 8 o'clock last evening to Oscar Tamte of this city. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents and the service was read by Rev. Carl Shurvenius, pastor of the Norwegian M. E. church. There was a large number of guests present at the ceremony.

MANY ARE COMING TO RAILWAY CLUB MEETING.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Railway club at their meeting Saturday, Aug. 29, will devote their time to the entertainment of the members and their families and to that end a boat trip to Two Harbors and return has been arranged. The local members will leave here on their special train at 2:30 p. m. to catch the boat leaving Duluth at 4 p. m., and on their return the special will leave Duluth at 11 p. m.

TWENTY-FOUR CREWS ARE NOW BUSY HAULING ORE.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 21.—Special to The Herald.)—Ore business continues at the same gait, about twenty-four crews being employed in that service, and no prospects of any improvement. There is no surplus labor about, however, many having gone to the harvest fields.

The lumber shipments through here to Western and Southwestern points is increasing daily and will soon reach normal again, an evidence of larger demand from the farming districts.

FOREST FIRE.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Quite a heavy forest fire started Thursday morning, apparently in the Brooks-Scanlon slashings on the west side of the Knife river valley, a little northwest of town, and with the heavy wind, was burning towards the northeast.

Moving Old Building.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Knox store building, erected nearly twenty-five years ago and one of the oldest structures in the city, is being torn down, and the material will be used in the construction of a residence for Frank Bowden.

Coleraine Man Visiting.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. V. Quail of this city, who has been with the Oliver Iron Mining company's engineering corps at Coleraine, is here for a two-weeks' visit with his parents. Before going to the Mesaba he was employed in F. Braasatd & Co.'s store.

County Will Assist.

Biwabik, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)— County Commissioner Neil McInnis, who has been looking over the situation, has decided to extend to the farmers south of here enough financial assistance to allow them to replace a temporary bridge that was washed out by the spring flood. The farmers use this bridge across the St. Louis river at the Ecklund homestead, last winter.

Hibbing Militia Drill.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Drilling by artificial light was a novel spectacle furnished the public last night, when the members of Company M, National Guard of Minnesota went through their evolutions at the ball park. The boys are improving in tactics with every drill and certainly make a fine showing.

Lectured on Temperance.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large audience greeted Peter Swenson, the noted Norwegian temperance advocate, when he spoke here upon "Temperance" last evening.

Three Drills at Fayal.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three diamond drills have been received and are now working at the Fayal mine, in the near vicinity of the Adams. The work in the mines is going on at a ... rate. The shipping at this time is not so large as it usually is, and the men are waiting for better things.

Canisteo Miners Paid.

Bovey, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The miners employed in the Canisteo district were paid yesterday, about $200,000 being distributed.

vicinity, and has attempted one assault upon a woman.

Yesterday afternoon a young married woman who resides at Prospect Hill was walking through a ravine toward the Como-Harriet line with the intention of taking the car when her attention was attracted by the coughing of a man who suddenly appeared within a few yards of her. Looking up she saw that the man was clad in only a hat and a coat. He made an insulting remark and frightened, she started to run down the ravine with the nearly naked man in close pursuit.

Fear Lends Wings.

Fright lent wings to her feet, and she succeeded in keeping ahead of her pursuer, although he followed her to the street car line and along the line nearly to the shooting park across the Minneapolis boundary. Just before reaching the park he turned into a corn field and disappeared.

Both the Minneapolis and St. Paul police were notified of the occurrence, and a patrolman from the east side station and one from St. Anthony park were soon on the ground. They searched during the remainder of the afternoon, but failed to locate the miscreant. By that time the neighborhood was thoroughly aroused, and in the evening fully fifty armed men turned out and made a thorough search. The only trace they could discover of the wild man was a place in the corn field where he had apparently lain down after his run. The search is being continued today.

FUTURE OF CONGO

The government was defeated in this, however, and it was generally believed that the ministers would be forced to resign.

At the conclusion of a long meeting of King Leopold and the members of his cabinet it was announced that the ministry would not resign, the government temporarily accepting the chamber's action on the financial question.

Annexation Assured.

The passage of the Congo treaty by the chamber of deputies means that the annexation of the state of Belgium is now practically assured, as the senate and King Leopold are ready to endorse the bill. The personal rule of King Leopold in Africa is now drawing to a close—In the future he will have nothing to do with the state, which is to be administered by Belgium—and the hope is widespread that there will now be an end to the atrocities and mal-administration in this part of the world which for years has been a subject of investigation and bitter complaint by humanitarians all over the world. Governments became deeply interested in bringing about the introduction of reforms in the Congo and it became known last year that Great Britain and the United States had about decided to interfere in the Congo unless the situation improved.

Annual Allowance.

Under the terms of the treaty, the Congo's revenues are charged with the foreign annual allowance—$24,000 to Prince Albert, son of the count of Flanders, brother of King Leopold; $15,000 to Princess Clementine, the king's third daughter, and as an especial token of gratitude to the king the sum of $10,000,000 in fifteen annual installments for his use in constructing hospitals and schools and forwarding scientific work in Africa. Furthermore, Belgium must expend the sum of $3,000,000 in work for which contracts have already been made. In addition, King Leopold retains in fee simple 40,000 hectares of land at Mayumbe for coffee and cocoa-growing experiments, and during his lifetime he is to enjoy his interests in the Congo concessionary companies and the property in Belgium, in France, which he purchased out of his funds of the Congo foundation. Upon the death of the king all this property will revert back to Belgium.

TAFT REVIEWS RECORD

passed, a period of industrial depression set in which continued through the next presidential campaign of 1896. The remedy for this depression, as proposed by the Democratic party under its present leadership, was a change from the gold standard of currency and value to a silver standard—a change which would have scaled the debts of all by quite 50 per cent and would have produced a financial crash in which the business disaster would only have been exceeded by the injury to our national financial honor.

"As soon as the Republican party came into power in 1897," he said, "it repealed the Gorman-Wilson tariff bill and enacted the present Dingley tariff bill, and with the assurance of an honest monetary standard, confidence was restored and a period of business expansion and prosperity followed to an extent never before known in the history of the world.

"Attending this great prosperity, abuses developed, growing out of the dishonesty of some prominent men entrusted with the management of the business of others and of a greed of financial power on the part of others, stimulated by the enormous successes incident to the combination of capital in large corporations.

Violated Anti-Trust Law.

"These abuses," he said, "took the form of the violation of the anti-trust law and the granting of rebates and discriminations by railways to large shippers. When the extent of these evils was brought home to the people, President Roosevelt evoked the attention of congress and the public to them, and proceeded to enforce the laws then on the statute books.

"The Republican congress which had been elected with Roosevelt in 1904," Mr. Taft said, "made a record for remedial legislation along the lines recommended by the president, which, as he has said himself, has never been equalled in our time."

He declared that "the people have ruled through the Republican party. I have no hesitation in saying that not since the beginning of the government has any other national administration done so much for the cause of labor by enactment of remedial legislation as Theodore Roosevelt and the Republican congresses elected and sitting during his terms of office.

"It is true," he said, "that additional legislation is needed to perfect the machinery for enforcing the principles laid down by Mr. Roosevelt and declared in the remedial statutes already passed.

"Great care," he said, "would be required in the enactment of additional legislation, and the fact that the Democratic party has had but little recent experience in the responsibilities of power and but little training in actual legislation, makes the party and its distinguished leader utterly oblivious of the necessity for care and caution in the enactment of statutes which are to accomplish changes in our social and business relations."

Woman Who Began Life in Orphan Asylum, Inherits Fortune.

New York, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Emma O. Southard of Brooklyn, who began life in an orphan asylum, has fallen heir to more than $130,000. It comes from the estate of Mrs. Mary Miller, who, with her husband, Arhtur Miller, adopted her when she was Emma Thatcher, a 6-year-old inmate of the New York Orphan asylum. The girl was educated by them and lived with them in their Brooklyn home until she married Townsend L. Southard.

KILLED BY HARROW.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 21.—Charles Betry, a farmer near Dover, while harvesting, was thrown from the top of a load of grain by his horses starting up, and went under the wheels, which passed over his body, causing injuries producing death.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON ISSUES LABOR DAY PROCLAMATION

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—Labor day has been officially proclaimed by Governor Johnson, who designates Sept. 7 as the day in a proclamation issued yesterday afternoon. The governor proclaims the day a holiday in the following language:

"It is typical of our twentieth century civilization to set apart a day in which all the people may acknowledge their debt to that great army of toilers whose industry has made our civilization possible. The nation leans on the shoulders of labor. Upon its strength, its health, its domestic happiness and economic well-being, depend the peace and prosperity of the people. We must look to the man in the workshop, in the mine and on the farm for those qualities of manhood and citizenship—integrity, loyalty, industry and thrift—which make for the greatness of our nation and the perfection of its institutions.

"We in Minnesota are proud of the advanced moral, intellectual and social attainments of labor. With the future development of the vast, resources of our great state, these accomplishments will make Minnesota labor more indispensable than ever before. In opening avenues for its permanent employment we will not forget a government's duty to its citizens in protecting their lives and their liberties and aiding them in the pursuit of happiness. Labor day carries the message of a oneness in purpose of the two mighty factors in industry, capital and labor, and, therefore, it is eminently fitting that on this occasion we should lay aside our accustomed employments to join in a proper observance of the day.

"Now, therefore, I, John A. Johnson, governor of Minnesota, do hereby designate and set apart Monday, the 7th day of September, as Labor day.

"Let there be a proper celebration of the purpose of the day, and let social meetings of friends lend cheer and enjoyment."

PUSHING WHEELBARROW AROUND THE COUNTRY

COLONIAL JACK.

"Colonial Jack" is in Duluth. He arrived last evening, about 4:30, on the steamer Newsboy from Superior, making the second ferry ride of his trip so far. He disclosed the fact that he is an ex-Duluthian, last evening, having worked in the composing rooms of several of the local papers. He was born in states to Jacksonville, then up the Atlantic coast to Portland again. He plans to reach Seattle by Thanksgiving, to go down the California coast before real severe weather sets in, and to be in the South during the winter. He will make the trip on the Atlantic coast next summer.

Karohn says the trip has done wonders for his health. He was hollow chested in the extreme when he started, and he says he has improved wonderfully in this respect. He gets almost as tired walking as he did at first, he says, but feels better in the morning. He has worn out three pairs of shoes, and will get his fourth pair in Duluth. He wears extremely heavy, square-toed boots.

There is a little cyclometer on the wheels of Karohn's wheel barrow, and it shows that the strange-looking vehicle has traveled 1,722 miles thus far. As he has been on the road about eighty days, this gives him an average of 22.7 miles. He has hiked all of this distance with the exception of two ferry rides. One was at St. Ignace and the other from Duluth to Superior, last night.

Karohn carries letters to various parties along the route. He is carrying letters from the mayor of Portland to the mayor of Minot, and to the mayor of Seattle.

On his wheel barrow he has a hollow wooden pyramid, built to shelter the little baggage which he takes. The barrow is equipped with a solid tired bicycle wheel, and the entire outfit weighs about sixty pounds.

BRYAN SLEEPS ON HARD BENCH

Lateness of Trains Causes Candidate Some Hardships.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 21.—William J. Bryan reached Des Moines at 9:30 a. m., two hours behind schedule time. Although he worked far into the night at Lincoln preparing for his departure, he slept well en route and stepped from the train at the Rock Island station fresh and happy. He was met by a large crowd. State Chairman Clint Price and other Democratic leaders took him immediately to the Savoy hotel. A crowd of Democrats was on hand, and Mr. Bryan was forced to hold an impromptu reception in the lobby.

When the jolly crowd was informed by the press reporters with Mr. Bryan that he had slept two hours on a hard seat in the Lincoln railroad station while waiting for the belated train that brought him into Des Moines, the candidate became the subject of much merry jest. He turned the jollity to his advantage with the statement that he of all his party, alone was able to lure sleep under such adverse conditions. He declared it pointed to an unusually clear and confident mind, and a conscience entirely free.

Mr. Bryan's program here permits of little rest for him. He will be called upon to meet hundreds of his party at the Savoy hotel this afternoon in the public reception. Hosts have come in from all over the state. Reduced rates for the Iowa state fair, which opened yesterday, proved an added inducement. This afternoon there will be a council of the Iowa Democratic leaders, which Mr. Bryan will attend. They will then plan the campaign in this state. This evening Mr. Bryan enters actually into the campaign, with his speech on the tariff, which will set forth his views on that great issue and which will be his answer to those who have criticized his attitude. The principal meeting will be held in the baseball park. Fifteen thousand persons will be accommodated. An overflow meeting will be held in the auditorium.

To Burn Church Mortgage.

Princeton, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Tuesday evening, Aug. 25, an entertainment will be given in the M. E. church, Spencer Brook, to celebrate the paying off of the mortgage on the edifice. An attractive program consisting of vocal and instrumental music, essays, etc., will be presented and the church mortgage will be burned.

SLOW IN BUYING COAL.

North Dakotans Not Heeding Advice to Lay in Stocks.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the efforts of the newspapers, the coal dealers and the railroad representatives, it is practically impossible to interest North Dakotans in the proposition to purchase their winter's supply of fuel before the rush of the grain season. Two years ago the fuel famine was so vividly impressed on the people that when the coal shipping season was on last summer many people purchased their fuel months ahead, but the warm weather last winter has made the people forget other experiences and the dealers insist that there has been less coal sold direct to customers for future use than in many years.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davison, of No. 379 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

LOADED SCOW SINKS.

Fills With Water at Thief River Falls Dock.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The scow, which has been towed by the Red Lake River Transportation company's steamboat, filled with water at the city docks last Monday evening and sank to the bottom of the river. There was a large amount of freight aboard for up river points and a great part of this cargo was destroyed. The boat was raised next day and the part of the cargo not spoiled was again placed aboard the craft. The loss will be borne by the company.

PLOT TO ROB RAND MINES.

Women Prove Medium in Gigantic Gold Looting Conspiracy.

Petermaritzburg, Aug. 21. — Exposure is imminent of a gigantic conspiracy to rob the Rand gold mines of enormous sums annually. Some months ago several Rand mining companies discovered leakages of gold. The matter baffled inquiry, and a careful watch was kept on persons suspected of illicit dealings. Detectives were sent to all the seaports and watched all the trains.

Suspicion pointed to a gang operating in Johannesburg and Durban. Six weeks ago sixteen detectives were dispatched to Durban to shadow the suspects. The detectives were ostensibly watching card sharpers attracted to Durban by the gala season. In reality they had laid careful plans to fathom the conspiracy. It is believed that their efforts will shortly be rewarded with success.

The modus operandi is to obtain gold from confederates on the mines, women taking it in their luggage by the fast mail train to Durban, where other confederates ship it to England. Members of the gang have been constantly traveling between Durban, Johannesburg and Europe. Another party is believed to be operating in the direction of Cape Town, and possibly a third by way of Delagoa Bay. It is alleged that a total sum of $100,000 was stolen in 1908, and many thousands in 1907. The detectives preserve profound secrecy as to their investigations.

CLEARED FOR TRAFFIC.

East Michigan Street Will be Opened for Teams.

As the result of numerous kicks on the part of property owners, East Michigan street, from Second to Third avenues, is to be cleared for traffic as soon as the work can be completed.

Ever since the establishment of the metal plant on the lake shore at that point, over twenty years ago, the street has been practically blocked by piles of metal, barely sufficient space being left to allow the passage of a wagon.

P. R. McDONNELL ON JOB.

Duluth Contractor Looking After Grand Forks Work.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of paving twenty-five blocks of the streets of Grand Forks was commenced Thursday afternoon, when a force of men began the task of tearing out the old cedar block pavement. Contractor P. R. McDonnell of Duluth, who has the contract for the big job, arrived in Grand Forks this morning to personally superintend the operations, for a short time at least.

He states that he expects to pave about twenty blocks before the time of freezing up, finishing the contract next spring. Creosoted blocks and a concrete base are being laid. The action of the parties interested in dropping the action against the paving will result in the work being pushed ahead without interruption.

TWENTY BUSHELS TO ACRE.

First Grain From Crookston Point Shipped to Market.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—G. N. Bergerson, whose farm is partly in the city limits, has finished threshing 160 acres of wheat, his yield averaging twenty bushels per acre, and he shipped the first car of wheat to Minneapolis from this point yesterday afternoon. It is plump grain, with good color and clean, and will grade No. 1 northern easily. All yields in this section are very satisfactory thus far, but poorer averages will certainly come when the late-sown fields are threshed.

Harvest and threshing hands are still in big demand. There are thousands of men coming into the country, but are not stopping off here.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with croup if you apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

Lucky is the man who knows when to present his wife with a box of Huot's Delicious Candies. Nothing else quite answers the purpose, with a squall brewing in the offing. A box of Huot's is like taking a reef in the mainsail and scudding quietly before the wind.

The experienced captain of the family ship has his weather eye peeled for sudden tempests and instead of running into port, he drops into our store and supplies his first mate with a box of our candy. This averts mutiny and preserves order in the craft. 50c and 75c lb. box.

HOUGHTON GOLF TEAM

Copper Country Players to Meet Northland Club Members.

A team of golfers representing the Portage Lake Golf club of Houghton, Mich., arrived in Duluth this morning, and tomorrow afternoon they will meet a team of members of the Northland Country club on the Northland course in a friendly match game. Those in the party are W. R. Thompson, Dr. L. L. Hubbard, John C. Pryor, F. W. Nichols, F. E. Cairns, S. E. Byrne, Graham Pope and R. T. Goodell.

The Houghton golfers went out to the Northland grounds this afternoon and will go over the course to become acquainted with it. They have a nine hole course on their own grounds at Houghton and are accustomed to that style of play.

The play will begin tomorrow morning, eighteen holes, Nassau system, and which is to represent the Northland club, has not yet been selected, but will be this afternoon. Pryor, Pope and Goodell are the stars of the Houghton team, having won nearly all of the honors on their course this year.

RACE AGAIN POSTPONED

Formal Test of Motor Boats Take Place Next Week.

Informal Races Will be Held at Boat Club Saturday.

The big handicap motor boat race, which was scheduled for the Duluth Boat club tomorrow afternoon, has again been postponed for a week on account of the appearance here of Buffalo Bill tomorrow and the probability that some of the boat owners will beg off to attend the show in the afternoon.

President Julius Barnes said there will be no formal program at at the club tomorrow afternoon, but there will be a few brushes which will interest lovers of sport. The Buster, Robert B. and Donan, the three boats which will start from scratch in the big race, will be out tomorrow, and the owners will probably arrange a private race, which will be a good test of the speed of the boats.

The big race, which will be pulled off a week from tomorrow, will be a great affair, with every fast boat in the harbor entered. Fair handicaps will be given by impartial judges, and the Buster, Robert B. and Donan, the three fast boats, will be placed on scratch, so as to give their slower rivals a fair chance to win the race. The real contest will, of course, be between the three scratch boats, and the owners of them are all worked up over the chances of their respective craft.

The course for the race will be from the Hanna coal dock to the boat club, a distance of three miles. The same course will probably be used for the informal races tomorrow. Just what boats will start are not known.

The probable entries for the big race a week from tomorrow and their owners are: Robert B., Julius H. Barnes; Buster, Guy E. Warren; Doman, Frank H. Wade; Maxart, W. N. Hart; Hans, Jay Finkelson; No. 1 Nose, Carlisle Hastings; Sliver, John Schuler; Ona O., R. B. O'Dell; Jane E., W. E. Fitzgerald; Unknown, Patterson Bros.

LEAGUE IS SMASHED.

American Ball Players Too Much for Canadian Organization.

Catcher Tommy Robinson and Infield Ernie Olson of Duluth and Outfielder Lemier of Superior, who have been playing with the Port Arthur team of the North Shore league, returned to Duluth this morning and announced that the league had smashed.

The importation of American players was the rock upon which the league split. Port Arthur, with the three Americans to aid was getting away with the honors, when the other teams bucked. An effort was made to show that the league rules provided that players should be citizens of Canada, but the rule couldn't be found, and at a meeting of the league, a majority of the teams voted to disband it.

Robinson and Olson say they were treated well by the Port Arthur people and the league had some good ball. Olson will probably finish the season with the Duluth White Sox, playing shortstop to replace Koepping.

CRIPPLED TEAM IS HOME.

White Sox to Open Series Here With Brady's Champions.

The Duluth baseball team, which lost three straight games to Hibbing at Hibbing, returned from the range this morning and was accompanied by the Hibbing team, which will open a series of four games here this afternoon.

The Sox are in bad shape. Koepping is out of it for the remainder of the season with a broken thumb, which he received catching in the first game at Hibbing. Billings, the former Virginia catcher is working behind the bat. The shortstop position will probably be filled in with Arnie Olson, a local boy, who has been with a Port Arthur team this season. All three pitchers are in bad shape, even Thorsen having a sore arm and the Sox will go into the games here badly crippled.

Brady has a swell team right now, Brookins' addition strengthening it up immensely. In Gilligan, Gilchrist and Sage, he has three of the best twirlers on the range and his men can hit the ball. Whatever may happen to the Sox, it is certain good crowds will turn out for the games, as the range champions can play some ball and there is a great desire on the part of the fans to see the Sox cop a few games.

AKELEY MINISTER RESIGNS.

Rev. L. B. Arnold of Congregational Church to Take Needed Rest.

Akeley, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. L. D. Arnold, pastor of the Congregational church temporarily, has resigned, and his resignation has been regretfully accepted. He was given a three months' vacation and will visit the East, where his relatives live. Mr. Arnold has been here several years, and it is through his energy and work that the Congregationalists have such a good building, with a personage attached. He built most of the parsonage adjoining the church with his own hands, and has put considerable work on the church building. He has just begun the erection of a fine large sidewalk and a porch. He is an expert carpenter and a fine mechanic. He has the record for preaching at funeral services, and for funeral sermons has a high reputation. The church in all its departments owes practically everything to Mr. Arnold, who has toiled faithfully amid great discouragements. Mr. Arnold has a host of friends, who hope his visit East will help him physically.

VITAL ISSUE OF THE CAMPAIGN

"Shall the People Rule?" the Most Important Question.

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Shall the people rule?" This, Mr. Bryan says, is the vital issue of the campaign. Mr. Sherman says it is no issue at all, for "the people do rule." Very well; how do the people rule? There are three distinct branches of government on "how the people rule."

First, and most important, the "legislative" power invested in "the congress, the house of representatives and senate. The house of representatives is elected by the people every two years. This is the most important branch of congress, because near the people. J. Adam Bede is our Eighth district member. Does Mr. Bede truly represent the people of this district? Does Mr. Bede, together with all other congressmen, truly represent all the people of the common country?

Now the house elects its own chairman—"the speaker." For the Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth congress, Cannon has been speaker, together with just such powers as the house, Bede and the other Republican members conferred upon him. Now the "Rules"—self made—for the Fifty-ninth congress gave Cannon greater power for good or bad or no legislation than is possessed by the czar of Russia or the sultan of Turkey. Joe Cannon, in absolute control, appoints his committees. Candidate Sherman is chairman of one. His committee, together with the other committees, are appointed by Cannon, promote or "defect in committee" or pigeonhole all legislation, proposed in any way by any member of the house. Now, Cannon is a reactionary, or a member of congress controlled by special interests, instead of general interests of the whole people, and he appointed as chairmen of the legislative committees his apt tools, or, in other words, reactionaries—one to guard this special interest, another that. He knew his men. He knew they would serve him good and well. Democrats could introduce bills. The president could transmit his messages, embodying the "Roosevelt policies." The daily and weekly press for the people could rave and demand this and that legislation; but "Joe" Cannon was in complete control of all bills by virtue of the power invested in him by the Republican members of the house. Now, "Joe" was chosen to represent one district, and his great power was bestowed on him by the Republican representatives of other districts. Sherman was one, Bede was another. Now all the power the people vested in members, members are accountable for. I submit for the consideration of the voters an editorial from the Duluth News Tribune of Jan. 22, 1908, which very truthfully shows the condition of the house under Cannon.

Congress Is Handicapped.

The congress of the United States cannot pass a parcel post law because the express companies will not permit it. It cannot pass a postals savings bank law because the banks will not permit it.

It cannot be fair to the Philippine islands because the sugar trust and the tobacco trust will not permit it. It cannot pass a free pulp or free lumber bill because the lumber trust will not permit it.

It cannot pass any measure for reciprocity with Canada or with any foreign country because the manufacturers will not permit it.

It cannot revise the tariff because Uncle Joe will not permit it. He wears homespun made up by a fashionable tailor and riches have come to him while he waited. What is good enough for him is good enough for the rest of the working classes.

It will pass the Aldrich bill because Wall street demands it, but it cannot pass any rational financial legislation which will tend to temper New York's control of the country financially and gradually give "the provinces" fair play because Wall street will not permit it.

It cannot continue railroad legislation nor the perfecting of the laws to control corporations because this is a presidential year and the interests now are as mad as it is safe to make them. They might "throw a fit" with disastrous political results.

When criticising congress for inaction or wrong action the people should consider these conditions which handicap it. It is not a free agent. It cannot do what it would like to do and what the people want it to do, because the railroads, the banks, the express companies, the trusts, the big producing interests and the other specials will not permit it.

They have as a total more representatives than the people, though they do not cast as many votes at the polls, and they can combine their forces more readily. So do not blame congress; pity it. It is held where even to wriggle would only cause it useless pain.

Mr. Bryan and the Democratic party are pledged to pass such rules as will permit the house to legislate; in other words, "The people's representatives" in congress will not at the beginning of the session transfer all their powers to the speaker, but will retain power to pass all laws demanded by the people, through a majority of their representatives. Then the people will rule and not until then. Sherman and Bede are asking the people for their votes. They have had them—and oh; the shame of it all!

"Shall the people rule?" is an issue, and the main issue; and they who have so grievously erred shall, no, can not escape the wrath of an intelligent constituency. HOMESTEADER.

HOME FOR BOY.

Orphan, Who Did Not Like Home, May be Placed Here.

John Moynahan, the 11-year-old orphan who has twice run away from the orphans' home at Owatonna and returned to Duluth, will probably be given a good home here. He ran away for the second time two months ago, and a few days ago turned up in Duluth. Mr. Yager, who is connected with the Owatonna Institution, arrived in the city yesterday and at a conference with Judge Ensign held yesterday, Truant Officer Fifer reported that the youngster could probably be placed in a good home here, since he seems to like the Zenith City so much.

Coal Dock Collapses.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 21.—The Pittsburg Coal company's dock at Point aux Frene collapsed Wednesday night, letting a large amount of coal into the river. The dock was built a year ago, and is one of the largest on St. Mary's river. The mud bottom is to blame for the accident.

NEWS HAS NO EFFECT

Wheat Off in Face of Canadian Frost Scare.

Flax a Trifle Higher—Trading is Very Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 21.—In the face of the frost reports from Canada, with a considerable area of green crop in the Saskatchewan valley which may be damaged, wheat went off a little in the American markets today, though there was a slight advance in Winnipeg on the strength of the weather conditions. Reports from the Northwest continue to show good weather for threshing and entirely satisfactory results. Some counties do not show as large a yield as expected, but, on the whole, the crop conforms to the estimates.

The demand for cash wheat continues in all markets, but there is little to be had, and the new crop will come in good time. A car of No. 3 spring wheat arrived at Chicago today and brought $1.08. There is little cash wheat to be had in Duluth, and the new wheat to arrive in August is being bid up strongly.

The September option closed ¼c off in Duluth, ½c off in Chicago, ⅝c off in Minneapolis, ¼-⅜c off in New York, ¾-⅜c off in St. Louis, ⅜-½c off in Kansas City and ⅝c up in Winnipeg. The December option closed ⅜c off in Duluth, ⅜c off in Chicago, ⅝-¾c off in Minneapolis, ½c off in New York, ½c off in St. Louis, ⅜-½c off in Kansas City and ½c up in Winnipeg. Oats closed ⅜-½c up in Chicago, and corn ⅝c off.

The Modern Miller says: "Many Illinois farmers are threshing and marketing their stack wheat, finding it badly weevil eaten. Otherwise winter wheat farmers are generally holding their crops and little grain is moving from the farms. Plowing is progressing under generally favorable weather conditions."

The Argentine shipments this week are: Wheat—This week, 1,224,000 bus; last week, 1,264,000 bus; last year, are: Wheat—this week, 1,224,000 bus, 536,000 bus. Corn—This week, 1,227,000 bus; last week, 1,406,000 bus; last year, 1,674,000 bus. Tre Argentine visible supply is: Wheat—This week, 1,992,000 bus; last week, 2,576,000 bus; last year, 704,000 bus; two years ago, 1,328,000 bus. Corn—This week, 1,828,000 bus; last week, 2,389,000 bus; last year, 1,714,000 bus; two years ago, 3,486,000 bus.

Wheat was ⅛d to ⅜d lower in Liverpool and corn ½d higher. In Budapest wheat closed unchanged and in Paris it was ¼c to ½c higher. Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The strength in American cables yesterday and the light shipments from Argentina were offset by the fact of large Russian and Danubian offerings, and at the opening the market, although steady in tone, was ⅛d to ¼d lower than Thursday's close. During the morning offerings were larger and support lacking, with the general market very dull and values further declined ⅛d to ¼d. Further pressure to sell was stimulated by the continued fine prospects in Argentina. At midday the market was easier and ⅜d lower than yesterday.

"Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. The better American cables for a time caused lighter offerings, but during the morning the cheaper La Plata offerings and a poor consumptive demand led to realizing, and values lost ⅛d."

Car receipts of wheat were 14 against 11 last year, and at Minneapolis 182 against 73 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 196 against 84 last year. Chicago received 86 against 160 last year. Winnipeg received 14 against 141 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 745,000 bus, last year 611,000 bus. Shipments were 805,000 bus, last year 520,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 857,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 448,000 bus, last year 338,000 bus. Shipments were 325,000 bus, last year 312,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 53,000 bus.

Trading was very light in both wheat and flax on the floor of the Duluth board of trade today. There were few offerings of any kind and wheat was bid up early in the session, but fell back toward the close. Flax prices remained practically unchanged with few offerings or bids.

September wheat opened unchanged at $1.01½, went to $1.02⅝ and fell back to $1.01¼ at the close. December wheat opened ¼c higher at 98c, went to 98½c and fell off to 97¼c at the close.

September flax opened ¼c off, at $1.29 bid, went to $1.30 and fell off at the close to $1.29½ bid. October flax opened ¼c off, at $1.26½ bid, went to $1.28 bid, dropped to $1.27½ and closed at $1.27¼ bid. November flax opened ¾c up, at $1.27¼, went to $1.28, dropped back to $1.27¼ and closed at $1.27 bid. December flax closed unchanged, at $1.24 bid.

Durum wheat was unchanged and cash wheat sold 18¾c over September and 8c over new wheat to arrive in August. Oats were 1⅛c up in the local market, and barley close at 51-61c against 51-62 yesterday.

Close: Wheat—No. 1 hard on track, $1.21. On track; No. 1 northern, $1.20; No. 1 northern new, $1.12B; September, $1.01¼B; December, 97½cB. Durum on track: No. 1, 94c; No. 2, 92c; September, 89½cB; October, 88@cB.

Flax to arrive, $1.30½; flax on track, $1.32½; September, $1.29½B; October, $1.27¼B; November, $1.27¼A; December, $1.24B.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Low Temperatures Caused Some Bullishness With Trade Inactive.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Low temperatures in the Canadian Northwest instilled moderate bullishness in the local wheat market today, but trade was not active, early traders being reluctant to buy, owing to a weak market at Liverpool. The opening was easy, due to the foreign situation, but prices soon advanced about ½c. September opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower, at 93½c to 93¾c, and advanced to 94⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 282 cars against 281 cars last week and 224 cars a year ago.

For September the high point of the day was touched at 94⅞c. Toward midday prices slumped off about 1c on liberal sales by a leading commission house, followed by general selling by pit traders. Sentiment continued bearish the remainder of the session, September declining to 93⅜c. The close was weak, with September off ⅝@½c at 93½c.

Trade in the corn pit was slow, especially for the September delivery. There was a fair demand for the May option, brought out by cold weather throughout the born belt, and that delivery was strong. The September delivery was steady, opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, at 77⅝c to 77¾c, and for a time holding within that range. Local receipts were 255 cars with 47 of contract grade.

The market was influenced chiefly by wheat and declined with the break in that grain. From 78c September sold off to 77c. The close was easy, with September down ⅜c at 77¼c.

Oats were firm on covering by shorts. The demand was due partly to a crop report of a local bank, which estimated the total yield of oats to be 113,000,000 bus less than that indicated by the government report for August. September opened ¼c higher, at 49c, sold at 48⅞@49 and then advanced to 49⅛c. Local receipts were 123 cars.

Provisions were steady with a very light trade. A 5c advance in live hogs was the chief bullish influence. September pork was 5c lower, at $14.80. Lard was unchanged, at $9.25. Ribs were 2½@5c higher, at $8.77½.

Close: Wheat—September, 93⅜@½c; December, 94½c; May, 95½c. Corn—September, 77¼c; December, 65⅝@¾c; May, 64⅛¾@¼c. Oats—September, 49⅛@¼c; December, 48½@⅝c; May, 50¾@⅝c. Pork—September, $14.45; October, $14.57½c; January, $15.52½. Lard—September, $9.12½@9.15; October, $9.25; January, $9.10@9.12½. Ribs—September, $8.65; October, $8.75; January, $8.07½. Rye—Cash, 77½@78c; September, 76@77c. Barley—Cash, 63@68c. Timothy—September, $3.65. Clover—October, $11. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 96¾c; No. 3 red, 94½@96c; No. 2 hard, 95@97½c; No. 3 hard, 94@96½c; No. 1 northern, $1.12; No. 2 northern, $1.15; No. 3 spring, $1.05@1.12. Corn—No. 2 yellow, 80¼c; No. 3, 79¼@½c; No. 3 yellow, 80@¼c. Oats—No. 3 white, 49@50½c; No. 4 white, 47@49c; standard, 50¾@51c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Lower on Scattered Trade and Indifferent Cables.

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.—Light scattered trade was all the pit showed at the opening, which was lower on indifferent cables and somewhat larger receipts. Liverpool was ⅜d down in second cables. The railroads brought 182 cars into Minneapolis, which looked heavy against only 73 a year ago. Duluth got 14 against 11. Local stocks made no change over night, and having decreased 200,000 bus for the five days, they now promise that much decrease for the week. The market jumped on predictions of frost for Western Canada, and new September went from $1.01⅝ to above $1.03. Later it fell off, and bull news would not revive it, even the daily clearances of 872,000 bus, the largest for a long time, having no effect. The close was weak at the low point. September opened $1.01⅝, high $1.03⅜, low $1.01¼, close $1.01¼; old September opened $1.02½, high $1.03⅞, low $1.01⅞, close $1.01⅞; December opened 98⅜c, high 99⅞c, low 98⅛@¼c; close 98⅛@¼c; old December closed 98⅝c.

The cash market was influenced by larger offerings. There was good milling demand at $1.24 for No. 1 northern and $1.21 for No. 2. Considerable velvet chaff was in the new wheat and it was not wanted. Prices offered by millers were 9 to 14 cents under regular spring wheat. Later in the day the less desirable velvet chaff sold as low as 15 cents under regular No. 1 northern. Close: No. northern, $1.24, spot; new, $1.08 to arrive; No. 2 northern, $1.21@1.22, spot; new, $1.05, to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.15@1.16.

No. 3 yellow corn, 76¾@77⅜c; No. 3 white oats, 47c.

No. 2 rye, 73¼@74⅝c.

Barley—Receipts, 64 cars. The market started easy and early quotations were a cent lower, but it firmed up later and most of these were even with yesterday's prices. Two cars brought 61½c top price 5, sol dat 61c and 5 at 60c. Close, 55@61½c.

Flax—Receipts, 4 cars. One cent over Duluth September was the price for No. 1 seed spot here. Close, $1.30¼.

Millstuffs steady, millers quoting $19.50@20 for bran in bulk.

Flour remains firm, quiet and in moderate demand. Strong cash wheat keeps prices high. Shipments, 31,488 barrels. First patents, $6.15@6.25; second patents, $6@6.15; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $2.50@3.60.

Grain Gossip.

Broomhall estimates world's shipments for Monday, exclusive of North America, about 3,600,000 bushels, of which quantity Europe will take about 3,200,000 bushels. Shipments last week were 6,528,000 bushels; a year ago, 7,568,000 bushels. Arrivals of breadstuffs into the United Kingdom will aggregate about 2,800,000 bushels. There will be moderate changes in the quantity of breadstuffs on passage.

In its annual report on the crops, the Commercial National bank of Chicago makes a sensational showing in many respects. It says that in the opinion of the foremost private authorities the government estimate on winter wheat is 40,000,000 bushels too high and on spring wheat 20,000,000 bushels too high. The Illinois crop is cited as an instance, being estimated at 20,000,0000 bushels by the state authorities, while the government figures are 30,212,000 bushels. The total crop, based on government figures, is 672,000,000 bushels, against 634,000,000 bushels last year. Estimates on corn are 2,623,000,000 bushels, or 43,000,000 bushels under the government's, and the best informed men believe that the crop will be little if any larger than in 1907, under the best possible maturing conditions. Visible stocks of corn are extremely low, the reports say, and it seems inevitable that prices will be maintained, if not advanced, with the revival of business activity.

NEW ROOM NEARLY READY.

Grain Traders Will Move Into New Quarters on Monday.

The members of the Duluth board of trade will go into their new trading floor at the top of the addition to the building, next Monday, and the members are happy. The present temporary quarters are too crowded for comfort, and the appointments and layout of the new trading room will facilitate business.

George C. B. Ross, who is to be doorkeeper at the new trading room, has already arrived and is becoming acquainted with his duties and, incidentally, with the people, who frequent the floor. He was formerly with the St. Paul Street Railway company.

MINERS REFUSE TO OBEY PRESIDENT.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 21.—President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America addressed a miners' meeting last night at the Hudson mine at Farmersburg, where the original trouble started the present strike in Indiana, urging the men to return to work. They voted his instructions down by 61 to 8, and decided not to return. President Van Horn and Vice President Curry of the Indiana district stood with the men against the national president. Much feeling was displayed. President Lewis announced he would issue an order for all the men in the state to return to work tomorrow.

YOUNG WOMAN KILLED.

Marmath, N. D., Aug. 21.—During a drunken brawl in a resort in North Marmath, that culminated in shooting, a woman, aged 22, whose name is not known, but who came here recently from Terry, Mont., was killed. Maud Livingston, an inmate of the house, is being held on suspicion.

Vilas Improving.

George Estabrook Dead.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Aug. 21.—George R. Estabrook, for five years a member of the state Republican central committee from the Fifth district, a prominent Iowa Republican, and secretary of the Fisher gubernatorial campaign, died suddenly yesterday of hemorrhage of the brain.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Entire Market Weakened Near the Close, Which Was Heavy.

Raids on American Smelting and Rock Island Were Features.

New York, Aug. 21.—Realizing sales were on a large scale in the stock market today, as a result of yesterday's late advance and most of the important stocks were depressed. New York Central, Great Northern, preferred, American Smelting and Amalgamated Copper gave way 1, and St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred 1½. Louisville and Nashville improved a point and the Harriman stocks, also, gave evidence of support, Southern Pacific attaining a new high record at 99¾.

The market displayed momentary steadiness as the result of heavy accumulation in Southern Pacific, which touched 100⅛, passing above par for the first time in its history. Subsequent realizing in this stock and an outbreak of liquidation in recently weak features, such as the New York Central and Rock Island issues, brought about a resumption in the general selling. Prices gave way below the figures current at the opening, and overnight losses were shown of 3 points in Rock Island preferred and Wisconsin Central, 2⅜ in St. Louis & San Francisco preferred 1¾, in New York Central, 1½ in American Malting and a point in many others. Southern Pacific ran off to 98¾ and was still heavy in common with the rest of the list at 11 o'clock.

Covering of shorts caused a fractional rally, but trading became exceedingly dull on the rise. Southern Pacific worked back to last night's closing, but the rest of the list did not respond. Bonds were irregular.

Prices held well on the rally until a new drive against American Smelting encouraged the professionals to sell the general list again. American Smelting broke 2⅜ to 92. The recessions elsewhere were small.

When the pressure against American Smelting ceased, the rest of the list commenced to harden, particularly the Harriman stocks, which rose to their high prices. Earlier losses were made up except where they were most severe. Erie first preferred and American Sugar advanced a point.

The market closed heavy. Another successful raid on Rock Island preferred and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred depressed them 4 and 4½ respectively, and stopped the rise elsewhere. The general market did not fall much and strengthened subsequently when Union Pacific and Southern Pacific both gained a point. In the last few minutes Southern Pacific lost its advance and the entire market weakened.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 21.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 2@9 points under a renewal of heavy liquidation, presumably for Wall street bulls. There was active covering on the decline, but before the end of the first half hour October had sold off to 8.51 or 19 points net lower and into new low ground for the movement, while other active months showed losses ranging from 11@14 points. At this level offerings seemed to be partially withdrawn and there was a quick rally of several points on covering, but the market continued very nervous and unsettled at a net decline of about 5@8 points during the middle of the morning with sentiment of an apparently bearish average on the theory that long lines had not yet been completely liquidated, and owing to continued bearish crop and trade advices.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: August, 9.50; September, 8.75; October, 8.69; November, 8.55; December, 8.58; January, 8.52; February, 8.55; March, 8.00.

My own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

AUGUST 21, 1908.

Personally, I look for Butte & Superior to easily advance to $3.50 a share. The big station on the 1,200 has been cut and is 40 feet long and 18 feet wide.

They will reach the big vein on the 1,200 inside of two weeks and by that time the big electric pump will be installed and will handle 350 gallons per minute. Plenty of money in the treasury—a big property with unlimited possibilities.

Buy it to a standstill at this low level, for it is like ready money all the time.

Superior & Pittsburg is cheap at this level.

Amalgamated should be bought now.

Anaconda looks very good at $46.

Our wires reach from East to West. Give us your business—we will give you service.

THE "MERRY WIDOW" WINS AT WHITE BEAR.

Minneapolis, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A St. Paul skipper and White Bear lake boat, Merry Widow, won the last race of the Class "B" series of the Inland Lake Yachting association on Lake Minnetonka today. Butterfly, a Minneapolis boat, which won the championship of the series yesterday, came in second today with Royal Flush of Lake Calhoun, Minneapolis, third. Twenty-three of Butte des Morto, Virginia, of Oshkosh, Young America of Duluth, finished in the order given.

Merry Widow's time was 2:01:51. There was a difference of 1 minute and 5 seconds between the two leading boats at the finish. A 15-mile breeze was blowing. Skip of the Minnetonka club won the "C" class race in 1:48:52. Doe-Wah-Jack, the other boat, finished in 1:58:53.

Fire Marshals Meet.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifteen state fire marshals from as many states are in St. Paul today attending the annual convention of the Fire Marshals association of the United States, which began its sessions in the new capitol building today. The sessions will deal principally with the means of preventing fires and the measures necessary for the apprehension of incendiaries.

Dicken's Reading Tour.

Lyceumite and Talent: Two hundred and twenty-eight thousand dollars for seventy-six readings. Such was the record for a month's tour in the states in the winter of 1867-68—an average of $3,000 a reading. While it is unlikely that a return trip would have proved so remunerative, yet any manager could safely have guaranteed him $1,500 or even $2,000 a night for another series of a hundred or more readings. Perhaps no more popular novelist has ever lived. But more than that, Dickens was equally popular as a reader and as a writer, so that those who heard him once were eager to hear him as often as he appeared. Just from the manager's standpoint, moreover, his tour of America included not more than a dozen Eastern cities.

It is quite impossible to imagine the tremendous enthusiasm which his readings created. In Boston, where his first series of four readings were to be given, the tickets were placed on sale on a Monday morning two weeks in advance. By 10 o'clock of the preceding night a line had begun to form in front of Ticknor & Field's publishing house and by morning it had extended for fully half a mile.

Some brought chairs, others blankets, and a few carried mattresses on which to rest during the night. When the selling finally began it continued for eleven hours, until the entire capacity of the hall had been sold for the series—twelve thousand dollars for the four nights. Many of the tickets fell into the hands of speculators, who had no difficulty in selling choice seats at $10 each, and a few were sold at more than $20.

Indeed the speculators followed the manager, Mr. Dolby, from one city to another to carry on their trade, and in spite of every attempt to prevent their securing tickets they did a profitable business, so willing were the people to pay any price for seats. The winter was unusually severe, yet people in every city stood in line all night to secure tickets. In New York, Philadelphia and Washington the early ticket buyers stood out in a heavy snow with the thermometer below zero, goodnaturedly enduring the hardships in order that they might get choice seats.

In Brooklyn the line had formed early in the night before the sale of tickets, and to protect themselves from the cold weather the men built a huge bonfire in the street, around which they spread their blankets and mattresses. But when the manager, George Dolby, arrived the next morning they greeted him with good naturad chaffing: "Hello, Dolby!" "How's Charley this morning!" "We're frozen to death waiting for you, but we will buy you out if you will let us." As good as their word, the sale during four hours amounted to $20,000, when it was closed because the capacity of the church had been sold. The series was given in Plymouth church.

New Zealand Lumbermen.

Wide World Magazine: The kauri timber industry is one of the most important in North New Zealand. In the districts north of Auckland almost one-half of the population are in some way connected with the industry, and look to it as their mainstay of existence.

First must be reckoned the vanguard of the army of workers—some 40,000 hardy bushmen whose province it is to penetrate into the forests and the wild mountain regions where the kauri grows and with ax and saw to "fall" and lop the great trees. Next comes the haulers, bullock drivers, wagoners, sailors, sawmill hands, engine drivers, clerks, cooks, "saw doctors" and a host of others too numerous to mention.

SAYS DEAL WAS A FRAUD

C. E. Lovett Makes Charges Against Sherwood and Hunter.

Suit Over Commission Promises to Develop Warm Fight.

In an answer filed this morning with the clerk of the district court to an action to recover commission, brought against him by W. C. Sherwood, C. E. Lovett makes some serious charges against the plaintiff, Mr. Sherwood, and also against R. M. Hunter.

Sherwood is suing for half of the commission of $1,750 which was paid upon the transfer of the property on the southeast corner of Fourth avenue west and First street some time ago, the consideration being $65,000. The commission, he claims, was due to Mr. Hunter, and Hunter transferred his claim to him.

In his answer, Mr. Lovett makes charges of fraud involving both Mr. Hunter and Mr. Sherwood. He states that he was agent for James W. Potter, owner of the property, and had a commission agreement with him. He says that R. M. Hunter approached him and said that he thought he had a sale for the property in view, which he would endeavor to put through if Mr. Lovett would give him half the commission. This Mr. Lovett agreed to. A few days later, he claims, Mr. Hunter said he had a purchaser for the property, the price being $65,000. He said then, according to the answer, that "the purchaser did not desire to have his name known at the time, although he was a man of high standing in the community, financially and otherwise." Mr. Lovett also states that Mr. Hunter said that the purchaser wanted the earnest money receipt made out in the firm name of J. C. & R. M. Hunter, in order to keep his own name a secret. This was done.

The answer then goes on to state that "during all of said negotiations said Hunter falsely and fraudulently represented that he was obtaining the purchaser for said premises at the best terms obtainable, and that he was exercising the utmost good faith toward the owner of said property, and that he was interested in the sale only as the agent of said owner, and assisting this defendant (Mr. Lovett) in consummating the sale, and that in truth and in fact said Hunter, during all of said time, was really and actually purchasing said property himself, and that said earnest money receipt was so obtained for the benefit of said Hunter and William C. Sherwood, and that said Hunter and Sherwood were jointly and equally interested in said purchase so made."

The answer also alleges that the fact that Hunter was interested in the deal himself was "concealed with fraudulent intent" by Mr. Hunter and also by Mr. Sherwood, from both Mr. Lovett and Mr. Potter, the owner. Mr. Lovett claims that he would not have acted as he did, nor agreed to share his commission with Mr. Hunter, had he known that "he was attempting to act in the dual capacity of agent for the owner and as the purchaser as well."

Continuing his charges, Mr. Lovett goes on to state that Mr. Hunter and Mr. Sherwood failed to make good their purchase within the time stipulated, and made various excuses for an extension of the time within which the earnest money might not be forfeited. They delayed until June 6 of this year, says the complaint. At that time, Mr. Lovett alleges, Mr. Sherwood transferred the contract to one Augusta Berg, who, according to Mr. Lovett's claims, is a servant in Mr. Sherwood's employ, and that the deal was put through in her name, and the property transferred to her. Mr. Sherwood, however, according to Mr. Lovett's charges, paid all the money himself, and the property was at once deeded to him by Augusta Berg as soon as the deal was complete.

Charging that this alleged fraudulent conduct renders his commission contract with Mr. Hunter void, Mr. Lovett asks for judgment in his favor for the costs of the action.

The answer was filed prior to the complaint, which will be filed some time this afternoon. The allegations of the complaint are sworn to by W. J. Stevenson, Mr. Lovett's attorney, on account of Mr. Lovett's absence from the city. H. J. Grannis will represent Mr. Sherwood.

WILL THRIVE ON FIRES.

Crookston Chief to Receive Only So Much Per Blaze.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last evening laid the communication of the Crookston fire department in which Albert Barrett was named as chief providing a salary of $75 per month was allowed by the council, was laid on the table, and a resolution passed naming Barrette chief, but he will draw the salary fixed by the ordinance, $4 per fire. He will not accept under those conditions and as a result the fire department squabble is still up in the air as high as ever. Last night, while the matter was under discussion the fire bell rang, and a large crowd congregated to see whether the department would respond, and under whose leadership. The fire fighters turned out but there was evidence of ill humor which bodes ill for the city if some compromise is not reached in the very near future.

FLEES ON WEDDING EVE.

Would-be Bridegroom Gone With $5,000 and Fiancee's Jewelry.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 21.—After making all arrangements to marry Miss Blanche B. Eldridge, having the house where the ceremony was to have taken place elaborately decorated, Jewett E. Warren, supposed to hail from Atlanta, Ga., has disappeared, leaving his bills unpaid and his intended bride in distress.

It is alleged that Warren has taken with him about $5,000 belonging to Mrs. Mary E. Cramer, aunt of Miss Eldridge, and all the jewelry purchased for the niece. The police say that Warren has so well laid and executed his plans that no criminal charge can be lodged against him.

BRYAN WILL SPEAK TWO TIMES IN NORTH DAKOTA.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was announced here Thursday evening that William Jennings Bryan, Democratic candidate for United States president, would deliver an address hereon Tuesday, Sept. 1. The Nebraskan will also speak in Fargo the same day.

After Tawney's Scalp.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. V. Knatvold of Albert Lea filed yesterday for the Republican nomination for congress in the First district. He expects to make it interesting for Congressman Tawney at the primaries.

W. S. Hammond of St. James also filed for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Second district. He represents the district at present and asks for a renomination.

SWINDLER GETS CASH

Trims Duluth Merchants to the Tune of $2,000.

G. B. Anderson Reaps Harvest Through Fake Advertising Scheme.

If a sucker is born every minute, it took about three hours to cover the births of the local business men who were taken in by the latest and rankest advertising swindle worked in Duluth. The police are now looking for G. B. Anderson, representing himself to be a representative of the G. B. Anderson Publishing company, who got to local merchants to the tune of $2,000 cash.

Absolutely no benefit came to Duluth or the men interested from money thus expended, except that the redlight district is said to have been enriched to a certain extent by the carousals of Mr. Anderson, who managed to have a pretty good time while in the city on the easy money obtained here.

Anderson got out of town yesterday, just in time to escape being arrested. It is expected he will be apprehended, however, for the police believe they have a clue to his whereabout. He is a young man, only 19 years of age, but his glibness of tongue, and smooth appearance, adequately make up for a deficiency in years.

Anderson issued what he was pleased to call a business proclamation, setting forth the "Commerce of Greater Duluth." The idea as presented to the business men wasn't entirely impractical, if the youth had only carried out his promises. He told glowing stories of how the eight-page sheet printed in newspaper style, only on somewhat better paper, would be given a wide circulation from coast too coast, and from the gulf to the Canadian border.

He promised to write up Duluth, setting forth all its many advantages commercial, residential, and otherwise, in attractive style, and then distribute the sheet where it would be apt to do the most good. On the strength of glowing promises and beautiful word pictures, he secured advertising for his "industrial edition" to the amount of $2,000 cash, which was pretty good, in view of the fact that he landed in town from St. Louis, Mo., with scarcely enough money in his pocket to pay his board for two days.

Despite his youth, he seems to be a shrewd observer of human nature, for he had a varying scale of prices, asking one man $100 for what he gave the next man for $10. He got whatever he could for "space" from $5 up to $100, and the $5 man was treated to as good a position as the $100 man. When he took the advertisement, he also took an order for a certain number of copies, promising in addition to send thousands and thousands of copies broadcast over the country.

The sheet was printed in a local establishment, and it is learned that the order was for only 2,000. These were given no circulation outside the patrons of the advertising columns, the copies thus disposed of followed the surplus into the alleys, waste paper basket and garbage cans when the men who had been bitten found how horribly they had been swindled. It didn't take one sucker long to realize what they were up against, and that they would receive absolutely no benefit from the publication.

Most of them were willing to take their medicine quietly, and charge the loss to experience, but a few didn't look at it in that light, and reported the matter to the police. About this time Anderson concluded the climate of Duluth did not agree with him, and he took the next train out of town. All the copies left on his hands he threw into the alleys.

One scheme connected with the swindle was to get about 200 leading business firms to attach their signatures to the proclamation. These are reproduced in the publication, and will be meat for forgers and others with blank checks, etc., that need only a good signature to give them a marketable value. This scheme of getting signatures was first worked by Bidwell, the great English forger. About the only benefit is that those taken in by the swindle have learned a lesson, and probably hereafter they will be more cautious about intrusting their cash to smooth-tongued strangers with big promises of advertising benefits.

HIS WAGON WAS ON FIRE

While driving down Fourth avenue west this morning, John Siegel, a paper merchant, was the victim of a peculiar accident. His wagon was about half full of old papers, and either the sparks from the cement engine on Fourth avenue west or some mischief-making newsboys set fire to them.

He did not notice the fire until he had turned in at the alley between Superior and First street. By this time the whole back of the wagon was in flames, and they were spreading rapidly towards the front.

His excited cries brought help at once. The horse was unharnessed, the burning paper raked from the wagon and finally put out with no damage to the owner except the suspense of a few anxious moments.

PAVEMENTS ARE SPOILED

Authorities After Men Who Build Fires in Streets.

Sidewalk contractors and others who have been in the habit of building fires on pavements in different parts of the city for heating material for use in their work will have to be more careful in future. City authorities are highly incensed over the fact that the pavement has been ruined in many places by fires thus built, and hereafter offenders will be arrested and prosecuted.

Some of the worst offenders have been cement sidewalk contractors. In heating material for their walks they have built fires on the streets, regardless of whether the foundation was dirt, tar macadam, asphalt or creosote. The result has been big damage to the pavement around the fire, and considerable expense to the city for repairs.

ATTRACTS ATTENTION.

Superior street crowds are fascinated daily by the amazing art of Wink, the wizard. This clever artist never fails to get the crowd. He's unlike a certain celebrated marine artist who had a queer experience on Long Island recently!

A well known Duluth art connoisseur tells the story that while "Mr. Blank" was engaged in painting a bit of sound scenery, he discovered a farmer running at full speed to see what he was doing.

Reaching the spot, the farmer looked for an instant, then turned and shouted to the rest of his family, who were approaching on the run. "Tain't nuthin' don't come," and turned away in disappointment!

But jokes aside, this man Wink is a wonder. In five minutes he paints an oil painting which compares favorably with pictures some artists turn out in a month! Even the most critical admit this. He is working daily this week and next week in one of Gray-Tallant's show windows!

Again Attempts Suicide.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Mary Cassiday, who last Monday shot and killed her husband, John Cassiday, at their home, 226 Illinois street, and then shot herself, made another attempt to end her life by jumping from the second story window of the Pansavant hospital today. She suffered internal injuries in the fall which may prove fatal. She is believed to be mentally deranged.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF— CEDAR LAKE LAND COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, whose names are hereunto subscribed, have agreed to and do hereby associate ourselves together under the constitution and general laws of the State of Minnesota, and more particularly under the provisions of Chapter 58 of the Revised Laws of said State for the year 1905, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, as a corporation, under the name and for the purposes hereinafter set forth, and to that end do hereby adopt the following Articles of Incorporation:

ARTICLE I.

The name of this corporation shall be Cedar Lake Land Company and the general nature of its business shall be buying, selling, and dealing in mineral and other lands and for the purpose of mining, and working of ores and minerals, said business to be carried on in the State of Minnesota and elsewhere, but the principal place of transacting the business of said corporation shall be in the City of Duluth, County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, with such other offices and places of business, either within or without the State of Minnesota as may from time to time be determined by the management of such corporation.

ARTICLE II.

The period of its duration shall be thirty (30) years.

ARTICLE III.

The names and places of residence of the incorporators are as follows:
Wm. E. Culkin, residing at Duluth, Minnesota;
P. H. Seymour, residing at Duluth, Minnesota;
Mabel Sorenson, residing at Duluth, Minnesota; and Victor H. Gran, residing at Duluth, Minnesota.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of this corporation and the conduct and management of its affairs are hereby vested in a board of four directors, and except as herein provided shall be elected by the stockholders at their annual meeting, which shall be held on the first Tuesday of January of each year, and who shall thereafter elect the following officers: President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. Any two of said offices may be held by the same person with the exception of the offices of President and Vice President.

The first meeting of the corporation shall be held on August 29th, 1908, without notice, and the first annual meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday of January, 1909, but until such time and until the directors thereat shall have qualified, the following persons shall be and constitute the board of directors of this corporation: Wm. E. Culkin, P. H. Seymour, Mabel Sorenson, and Victor H. Gran. The officers shall be elected at the first meeting above provided for, to hold until the succeeding annual meeting.

The officers and directors of this corporation, except those elected at the first meeting shall hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and in case any vacancy occurs in any of the offices or membership of the board of directors of this corporation, either before or after the first annual meeting, the same shall be filled by the board of directors until the next annual meeting and until such vacancy shall be filled by election held in accordance with these articles and such by-laws as may be adopted providing for elections.

The board of directors of this corporation may adopt, and is hereby authorized to adopt such by-laws, rules and regulations for the corporation and the management of its business not inconsistent with these articles, or with the constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota, as may be deemed needful for the government of officers and the conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and may create such other offices in addition to those herein provided as may from time to time be deemed necessary, and may fill such offices as it may so create, and may abolish and discontinue such offices at will.

The board of directors shall also have power, when in its judgment cause exists, to remove any such officers of this corporation from their positions and declare the offices vacant.

ARTICLE V.

The amount of capital stock of this corporation shall be Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) and the same shall be divided into one hundred shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be sold either for cash or for property and things of value deemed by the board of directors to be equivalent thereto, such determination by the board of directors to be final and binding upon the parties in interest.

The stock of this corporation shall be paid for as called for by the board of directors, and no stock which has not been subscribed for and upon which the payments have not been made as required by the board of directors, shall be entitled to vote or representation in any of the proceedings of this corporation.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be the sum of Ten Thousand dollars ($10,000).

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals this 13th day of August, A. D. 1908.

GERMANY IS NOT WILLING

To Join With Great Britain in Reduction of Armament.

Matter Was Not Broached by Chancellor Lloyd George.

Berlin, Aug. 22.—David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the British exchequer, who has been on the continent for some days past, continued his inquiries today regarding special legislation. He visited a number of insurance offices in Berlin and received specialists from the government department of penson administration. He is to leave here for Hamburg tonight.

It now seems that the question of naval armament has not been mentioned between Mr. Lloyd-George and the statesmen of Germany. The whole idea that Mr. Lloyd-George came to Germany on a special private mission to discuss the possibility of an agreement regarding the reduction of naval armaments as a sequence to the meet-William appears now to be without foundation.

The German press has reproduced at length the English comment and speculation on Mr. Lloyd-George's visit, but there has not been a single paragraph in any government or semi-government journal indicating the willingness of Germany to join with Great Britain in a naval agreement. The constant reiteration has been that the German navy is not being built with hostile designs against anybody, but only for the general protection of German commerce abroad should occasion arise.

Die Grenzboten, whose weekly review of foreign affairs is written by a person whose statements are guided by the foreign office, disavows this week that the German government has any thought of contesting Great Britain's position as a sea power. Continuing, the writer says that inasmuch as Germany's commercial marine has been developed in complete independence of that of Great Britain, in the same manner Germany is building a navy commensurate with her over-sea interests and her mercantile fleet. If Great Britain considers that her position has been rendered on any way insecure, Germany cannot object to Great Britain's building two warships for every one that Germany lays down.

INTERESTED IN BRYAN'S COMING

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement that William Jennings Bryan would speak in Grand Forks on Sept. 1 has created a great deal of interest among the Democrats of this city and state. His appearance here will be the cause of a big gathering of Democrats from all parts of the state, who want to hear their leader tell his side of the national political situation.

The arrangements for Mr. Bryan's coming to North Dakota were made by National Committeeman Collins of Bottineau and Chairman J. L. Cashel of Grafton. On Aug. 31 Bryan will speak at the Minnesota state fair and evening will leave for Fargo. Tuesday morning, Sept. 1, he will deliver an address in Fargo, leaving that city at 3 o'clock for Grand Forks, arriving here at about 5:30 o'clock.

At the regular meeting of the Bryan and Burke club next Monday evening arrangements will be made for the entertainment of Mr. Bryan during his stay here and the securing of a place for the delivering of his address.

A TWENTY-THREE AFFAIR.

Fated Number Figured Conspicuously in Menominee Wedding.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—At twenty-three minuter after 2 o'clock in the morning, after driving twenty-three miles, Alderman Hoffman of Milwaukee, 23 years old, was married by John E. Jones to Mrs. Mina Mudge Boudaz of Florence, twice 23 years old, the ceremony lasting exactly twenty-three seconds.

Monday afternoon Mr. Hoffman called at the county clerk's office and secured a marriage license, asking that the matter be kept a secret.

His elderly bride was waiting for him in the country, and after securing the precious document he wasted no time in returning to her. The trip back to Menominee was made late at night, and it was exactly 2:23 a. m. when a foam-flecked horse, a boy, a middle-aged woman, a case of beer and one of champagne, stopped at John E. Jones' residence. The justice, in his nightcap and pajamas, answered the violent jangling of the door bell, and as soon as he dressed the ceremony was performed. It is said that the couple insisted upon an impromptu banquet, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman departed from Menominee.

BLACK HAND LETTER CAUSES EXCITEMENT.

Mexico City, Aug. 22.—Excitement was caused at police headquarters here yesterday by the receipt of a letter from Pittsburg, written ostensibly by a member of the "Black Hand" and threatening the life of Judge Juan Perez de Leon. The envelope in which the missive was enclosed bore the printed inscription of a Pittsburg hotel.

Judge de Leon was the magistrate who recently sent two Americans to prison charged with robbing a bank messenger. It is believed here that they are members of a dangerous criminal band who worked in various foreign capitals and that the alleged black hand letter was from their confederates who escaped and returned to Pittsburg.

The police of Pittsburg and Philadelphia will be asked to trace the sender of the letter.

Attorneys Elect Officers.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 22.—The National Association of Attorney Generals elected the following officers for the ensuing year at the closing session of its annual convention last evening: President, R. V. Fletcher of Mississippi; vice president, U. S. Webb of California; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Dickson of Colorado.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESS IS NOT TO BE TRUSTED TO REDUCE THE TARIFF

Bryan on "Fat Frying" and Favors to Protected Interests.

How Past Tariffs Have Been Framed For Their Beneficiaries.

Relief Can be Secured Only by Electing Democratic Congress.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 22.—Comparing the attitude of the two dominant parties on the tariff question, William J. Bryan, the Democratic candidate for the presidency, at the baseball park in this city, last night before a vast audience, fired the first gun in the campaign. He attacked the Republican promises of tariff revision and asked if the Democratic party was not justified when it included in its platform the declaration that "the people cannot safely entrust the execution of this important work with a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as the Republican party." He said, in part:

The Democratic party in its platforms and through its representatives in congress has for years pointed out that the tariff through its representatives in congress has for years pointed out that the tariff ought to be reduced, but the Republicans have until recently, refused to admit that there was any necessity for reduction. They now confess, through their platform and through their presidential candidate, that the need for revision is so great as to justify the party in declaring "unequivocally for a revision of the tariff" and the need is so urgent that the work is to be undertaken at "a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president." The use of the word "unequivocally" indicates that those who wrote the platform recognize that they are under sus-

CONFERRING WITH BRYAN

Democratic Candidate to be in Chicago Over Sunday.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Preliminary to a thirty-day speaking tour in which he proposes to force the fighting in the Middle Western states, William J. Bryan conferred today with National Chairman Mack and other members of the national committee on the general plan of action for the presidential struggle that has been outlined by the heads of the various bureaus of the national committee.

The conference at the Democratic national headquarters followed Mr. Bryan's arrival here today from Des Moines, where he spoke on the tariff last night. Mr. Bryan's tour through the Middle West will start about the middle of September and will carry him through Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky and will conclude in New York. The national committee is working out the states of this stumping trip. Mr. Bryan was in continuous conference practically all day and passed upon the detailed plans that were submitted to him for his approval by Chairman Mack. He will spend Sunday quietly in this city.

Mr. Bryan expressed himself as more than pleased with the reception given him in Des Moines. Speaking of the outlook and the more recent developments in the campaign, Mr. Bryan said:

Situation Satisfactory.

"The situation is most satisfactory to me and the reports from both the East and West are very pleasing. Excellent progress is being made. The Democrats of Minnesota have nominated a strong man in Governor Johnson and I am glad to see that he has accepted."

"I expect that head of the committee bureaus will talk with me today about their plans which will probably be announced later. The committee does not

A POLICEMAN WINGS ROBBER

James Daly Shot While Trying to Escape at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Shot while trying to escape arrest, James Daly, who is accused of complicity in the theft of two 100-pound sacks of flour from a St. Paul road freight car, will probably lose his left arm. The elbow bones are shattered and Dr. John Kelly, police surgeon, under whose care he is, believes that an amputation may be necessary.

While making the rounds on Eagle street last night, Patrolman Tom McMahon observed three men pushing a wheelbarrow on which was loaded two sacks of flour. At the same instant the men saw McMahon. Two of them took to their heels and succeeded in making their escape, while the third, who was handicapped by the barrow and its load, fell into the hands of the officer and was sent to the police station with the stolen flour. He gave his name as Michael Daly.

Returning to the scene of the capture, officer McMahon began a search for the two men who had escaped him. He soon sighted them near the railroad and gave chase. As they did not halt, he fired a volley of bullets after them. One of the fugitives was struck in the left elbow and fell to the ground. The other, on seeing his companion fall, stopped and surrendered to the officer.

The injured man was found to be James Daly, a brother of Michael Daly, and the uninjured one was Mike McDermott. Both were taken to the police station, but James Daly's injuries were found to be so serious that he was sent to the city hospital.

ALL IS NOW PEACEFUL

Absolute Quiet Follows Departure of Troops From Springfield.

Civil Law Working Expeditiously to Punish Guilty Men.

Springfield, Ills., Aug. 22.—Undisturbed by the clank of accoutrements or the challenges of sentries during the night, Springfield awoke this morning from dreams of peace. There was absolute quiet during the early hours, not a single alarm being turned in to the sheriff after midnight, and the few calls for troops earlier in the night being due to the happenings which ordinarily would not attract attention as indications of possible riot.

The citizens, in fact, realize today that the civil law is working expeditiously and smoothly to bring the persons responsible for the recent disturbances to justice. With thirty indictments already returned by the grand jury and all except one of the eight persons formally charged with murder, riot, destruction of property or malicious mischief in custody, there is a feeling abroad that retribution is about to overtake the rowdy elements of the community. For a time there was a fear that the state's attorney, despite his earnest efforts, would fail in proving criminal charges against the rioters. This was due largely to lax or half-hearted methods used by

TO FOUND AN INSTITUTE

Friedrichshafen, Aug. 22.—Count Zeppelin, inventor of the famous airship that was recently destroyed, has announced that he intends to found an institute for the investigation and solution of the problems of air navigation in the interest of German industry, defense and science. The contributions made by the public, he says, are now far beyond the sum necessary to replace the destroyed airship and beyond the sum he intends to accept toward the recuperation of his private fortune, which was spent in airship experiments. All of the surplus now on hand and all further contributions will be added to the endowment of the institute.

The bank at Stuttgart which is receiving the subscriptions has $500,000 deposited to Count Zeppelin's credit and this amount is probably $250,000 less than the amount subscribed and which will be available later.

Word has been received by the count that the Berlin city council has given the name "Zeppelin" to a public square in that city.

EMPEROR CRACKS A JOKE.

Seizes Opportunity When Offered Postal Cards for Sale.

Cassel, Aug. 22.—Emperor William had an amusing adventure last evening while walking in the environs of Wilhelmshoehe, dressed in a lounging suit and accompanied by a single adjutant. On a country road a little girl, not recognizing him, offered him postcards on which were pictured the recent meeting of the emperor and King Edward of England. The emperor asked the prices.

"With the emperor alone, 10 pfennig," replied the child, "or with King Edward, 15 pfennigs."

The emperor laughed and remarked to the adjutant:

"By myself, you see, I am worth 10 pfennig, but when joined with another I am worth only 7½."

THE PRESIDENT FINALLY APPROVES OF PUNISHMENT FOR WEST POINT HAZERS

Recommendation of Secretary of War Wright Stands.

Two First Class Men Are Dismissed From the Academy.

Six Members of Third Class Are Suspended for One Year.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Announcement was made today by Secretary of War Wright that his recommendation for the punishment of the eight West Point cadets suspended from the military academy for hazing had been approved by President Roosevelt. The order to be issued by Secretary Wright, based upon the president's approval, will dismiss from the academy the two first class men under suspension, William T. Rossell, Jr., a son of Col. William T. Rossell of the engineer corps of the army, and Harry G. Weaver of Illinois, and the suspension without pay and allowances for one year of the six members of the third class, George Washington Chase of New York, James Naile of Virginia, William Wellington Pryde of Alabama and Isaac Spalding of Oklahoma.

LUKE WRIGHT, Secretary of War, Whose Recommendation for Punishment of the West Point Hazers Has Been Approved by the President.

IS OPPOSED TO COUNTY OPTION

Nebraska Candidate for Governor Makes an Announcement.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 22.—Mayor James C. Dahlman has announced that in his race for the gubernatorial nomination he will take a stand against "county option" and strongly in favor of a law providing for a guaranty to bank depositors. Dahlman declares county option law is against the principles of local self-government, which anticipates that the purpose of organizing municipalities is to control affairs within their corporate limits. He says country citizens would be able to control churches, schools and saloons alike in cities adjacent to them with a county option law.

Postoffice is Destroyed.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 22.—Fire Friday at Ayr, Cass county, did a total damage of about $4,000. The postoffice, blacksmith shop and several other places were destroyed. A concrete building stopped the progress of the flames or the entire town would very likely have been destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown.

SAILORS WIN AT BASEBALL

Men From the Battleships Defeat Teams at Sydney.

Australians Turn the Tables at Rugby Football.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 22.—In spite of a heavy downfall of rain that swept over the city of Sydney this afternoon, the entertainments for the men of the fleet of the American battleships, which include a regatta, football and baseball matches, a race meeting at Rose Hill and matinee performances at all the theaters, were carried out according to program.

A baseball team composed of sailors from the battleship Nebraska defeated the team of the Sydney university by a score of 3 to 0, and the team representing the entire fleet defeated the New South Wales team by a score of 6 to 5. But at rugby football New South Wales turned the tables and defeated a team from the fleet by a score of 6 to 3. A large number of officers and men attended the complimentary races at Rose Hill, where the program included "the battleship hurdles," and stake races, which in compliment to the visitors have been named as follows: "The Admiral Sperry," "the American President," "the American Fleet," "the Admiral Dewey," and "the Flagship." At the conclusion of the races 300 officers of the fleet were entertained at luncheon by residents of the city.

Sperry Gives Reception.

During the afternoon Admiral Sperry gave a reception on board the flagship Connecticut to a large number of guests. Among those present were Governor General and Lady Northcote, Admiral Sir Harry Rawson, governor of New South Wales, and his wife, and the lord mayor of Sydney and his wife. The main deck of the ship was covered by awnings and the decorations consisted of British and American flags interwined. The ship's band played during the reception. Officers and men of the fleet were entertained at the theaters of Sydney this afternoon.

Last night over 2,000 sailors of the fleet were given shore leave, and they impressed the people of the city strongly by their quiet and orderly behavior.

There was a race on the harbor yesterday afternoon between the speed launch of the Connecticut and a privately owned launch named the Invincible in which the latter was an easy winner.

A number of the American visitors went on an excursion this afternoon to Newcastle, seventy miles away. They were given a hearty reception there. Several parties were made up and entertained at luncheon at the beach. Others visited the local collieries.

ARSENIC FOR BAKING POWDER

Mistake of Woman at Columbus, O., Costs Two Lives.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug 22.—A mistake of Mrs. Walter Starkey in using arsenic instead of baking powder, in a pot pie dish, prepared for the family luncheon, cost the lives of her two children last night in their home at Groveport, Ohio, and caused the serious illness of herself and husband. Although every effort was made to save the two little children, they succumbed to the poison, but in the case of the parents, it is believed the efforts were successful.

The dead:

ALICE STARKEY, aged 2.

MARY STARKEY, aged 4.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Starkey are in a serious condition today, but will recover.

Postoffice Robbed.

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 22.—The postoffice at Warwick, N. D., was robbed yesterday of all registered mail, $10 in stamps and some cash. The Ness & Williams store in the same building was robbed of $300 worth of silk and other goods. There is no clue.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

To be Made by the Supporters of Governor Johnson.

Democrats and Republicans Uniting to Secure His Re-Election.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Now that Governor Johnson has accepted the nomination for a third term as governor, at a sacrifice of his own interests and his personal inclinations in the matter, his friends are planning to make a fight for his election this fall which will make the two previous campaigns look tame.

They fully realize that in accepting the nomination the governor did so only out of a sense of his duty to the party, and that when, prior to the convention, he expressed his determination not to accept it under any circumstances, he expressed his real feelings in the matter, and that he was far from pleased when he was informed of the action of the convention. He was in hopes that the convention would consider his feelings and desire in the matter and accept one of the other good men mentioned for the nomination.

With the gathering of the delegates on the day of the convention, and on the day previous, it became evident that a stampede was practically inevitable, and all efforts on the part of the governor's close friends to stem this tide were unavailing. The delegates had words of praise for the other men mentioned, and admitted that they would make formidable candidates, but that was as far as they would go in that direction. They wanted Johnson, whose nomination they felt confident meant his election, and they would not be satisfied with anything else.

Under these circumstances the governor's personal friends and Democrats throughout the state generally realize that it is now up to them to insure his election, and they intend to do so. Realizing that the governor has made a great personal sacrifice for the party, they feel that justice and fair play demands that the party show its appreciation of his action by putting up the best campaign it is possible to make.

Letters and telegrams have been pouring into the governor's office ever since the action of the convention was announced and they all bear the same message. They assure him of the loyal and enthusiastic support of his friends in all parts of the state, Republicans as well as Democrats, and breathe a spirit of confidence in the outcome of the election, which will do much toward giving the campaign such an en-

GENERAL MEYER CALLS ON TAFT

Says He Has No Doubt Hughes Will be Renominated.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 22.—Postmaster General Meyer reached here from Oyster Bay and Washington today for a conference with Mr. Taft.

Gifford Pinchot, chief forester, who will be on a fishing trip in the West, also was here to see Mr. Taft today. Among other callers was George W. Painter, an American missionary to China.

Mr. Taft was the recipient today of a heavy teak wood can with an elephant's head for a handle. It was made in Ceylon and sent by C. P. Vance, assistant engineer of Moro province, Philippine Islands.

"Personally, I have no doubt that Governor Hughes will be renominated," said Gen. Meyer, when asked the result of the recent Oyster Bay conference on the New York situation. "President Roosevelt, while taking a keen interest in the situation, is leaving the whole matter to be worked out without suggestion from him."

Mr. Meyer added: "And it will be worked out, in my opinion, by the renomination of the governor."

Gen. Meyer is here, Mr. Taft said, for a general conference on the national political situation. This conference, which began in Mr. Taft's office, was adjourned to the golf links with Mrs. Taft and Gifford Pinchot going along as observers.

AGED WOMAN IS VICTIM OF FIRE

Sebeka, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The home of Carl Deason, three and one-half miles northeast of here, in the township of Red Eye, took fire and burned to the ground day before yesterday. Mrs. Deason's mother, a woman close to 60 years of age, perished in the fire.

Mr. Deason was away from home at the time of the fire, being in Renville county, looking after a farm he owns there. Mrs. Deason went out to milk and the house took fire during her absence at the barn. Finally she noticed that the house was in flames and ran to assist her mother, who was something of an invalid.

When Mrs. Deason arrived on the scene the house was entirely enveloped in flames, which were rolling out of both doors and windows. Her mother had made her way to a window and her daughter succeeded in grasping her hand. The old lady was a heavy woman and her daughter was unable to pull her through the window. The old lady sank back and perished in the flames.

The alarm was spread and neighbors and people from Sebeka went to the scene. The charred remains of the old lady were removed from the smouldering embers and brought here.

Exhibit of Adulterated Food at State Fair to be Large.

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state dairy and food department will have in the dairy building at the Minnesota State fair this year an exhibit of illegal foods and adulterations that will stagger the most reckless eater and keep him worrying about the germs in his food for weeks afterwards.

The exhibit will consist of all illegal foods that have been discovered and removed from sale by the inspectors, all adulterations of foods, the adulterations of which have been found by the state chemist through analysis, and for contrast, samples of thoroughly examined pure foods. Forty feet of show cases will be used to exhibit 2,000 samples of illegal foods, and other cases of equal length will be filled with pure foods. F. B. Helberg of St. Paul, a state food inspector, is now preparing the exhibit.

Because of the number of impure candies, which have been analyzed by the department, candy will have a prominent place in the exhibit.

LOSES SIGHT.

Miner Suing Ore Company for Injuries to His Eyes.

Mike Sakich, through Power, Power & Stratton of Virginia, has begun an action for damages, amounting to $15,000, for injuries to his eyes, alleged to have been received while in the employ of the Consumers' Ore company, at the Yates mine, on Aug. 2, 1907. Sakich claims that he was told to fix the "lips" of the dipper on a big steam shovel. He was told to pound the teeth of it into place with a sledge hammer. The teeth shattered and fragments struck him in the face and eyes, destroying the sight of one eye and injuring the other. Sakich claims he should have been warned of the danger by the defendant's employes.

DULUTH WOMAN CURES FEMALE TROUBLES

Mrs. John Lheureux, 2302 West Michigan St., Performs Wonderful Cures, After Given Up By Doctors. Read This Letter:

Clarksburg, Mich.,
Marquette county.

I hereby certify that Mrs. John Lheureux of Duluth, Minn., has has cured my daughter, Leona, who was ailing in bed with female trouble for four years, unable to walk.

My daughter, Leona, was treated by the best physicians of the country, but they have failed to do her any good. They pronounced her case as incurable. I was advised by a friend to write to Mrs. Lheureux of Duluth, which I did, and my daughter had one treatment from her, and she is now well and able to walk. So many thanks to Mrs. John Lheureux, for the recovery of my daughter's health.

So, I recommend Mrs. John Lheureux to every suffering woman of that disease. Your respectfully.

MRS. MAGOLIRE THIBERT,
Humboldt, P. O.

INCENDIARY SUSPECTED

Fire in Irving School Was of Mysterious Origin.

Two Firemen Are Injured While Fighting the Flames.

The cause of the fire that last night threatened the Irving school building is not known, though there are many suppositions.

The fire department has on its books "cause unknown." Spontaneous combustion might possibly have been a cause, as painters had been oiling the school's floors.

Another cause from which the fire may have resulted is defective wiring.

But one theory that has been gaining headway in West Duluth today is that the fire was the work of an incendiary. It is quite evident that the fire started beneath the sairway in the north wing of the building, and worked its way from there along the ceiling of the furnace and boiler room, and up into the hallway of the second floor and on up the third stairway. The stairways in the north wing and the furnace room were completely gutted. The rest of the building was untouched, except for smoke and water. Under the stairway, where the fire started, stands a carpenter's salamander, and it is in this that it is believed by some that the original fire was built. All the woodwork of the stairs is of hardwood and it would be a hard matter for an ordinary blaze to get a start in it. The building was locked at 6 o'clock last evening, and as far as is known was not visited by any one who had the authority to do so, until after the fire had started.

The fire alarm was turned in by Patrolman Oscar Peterson, who noticed smoke coming from the building at about 12:45 a. m. The No. 8 fire department first responded, and when it arrived, a call was sent in by their captain, which brought out No. 2. The firemen did not leave the building until 4 o'clock this morning.

When they first arrived, the fire had gained such headway that flames were springing from the school chimney, and the building was filled with dense smoke that made it almost impossible to work one's way through. One fireman, while crawling on his hands and knees, close to the floor, where he could breathe, went through the building, opening up the windows. The smoke became so dense before he had finished his job, that the light in his lantern was smothered. In the darkness that followed, he fell down a flight of stairs. He sustained no serious injuries.

Another fireman, W. E. Harrison of No. 8, while working on the roof of the engine room, struck his hand and wrist against a live wire, from which the insulation had been burned. He sustained some ugly burns. The firemen were shortly afterwards ordered from that roof, for the wooden beams below it had entirely burned away, leaving only the tin to bear their weight.

Considering the damage of the fire, smoke and water, the total loss was about $8,000.

It is a strange coincidence that just a year ago today, Thursday, Aug. 22, the Franklin school, on Sixth avenue east and Fourth street, burned, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Altered Check.

Robert Kyle was arrested in Proctor yesterday charged with changing the date on an old Duluth, Missabe & Northern time check from October, 1907, to August, 1908, and cashing it. The check was for $23. He pleaded guilty to the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and was sentenced to thirty days by Justice Guilderman. He was brought to the county jail this morning.

In West Duluth Churches.

At the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Rev. S. G. Briggs, the pastor, will preach at 11 o'clock tomorrow, on the subject, "The Choice That Moses Made." Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock. There will be no evening service.

At the Asbury M. E. church, Rev. Thomas Grice, the pastor, will preach in the morning at 10:30 o'clock, on the subject, "The Continuity of Evil," and at 8 o'clock in the evening on "Vision and Fact." Sunday school will meet at 11:45 o'clock.

At the Plymouth Congregational church, there will be service at 10:30 with preaching by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Lumley, on the subject, "Petitioning for the Right of Way." In the evening at 8 o'clock there will be service, preceded by music, gospel songs, solos, etc. The subject of the evening sermon will be "The Honored Service." Sunday school will meet at 12 o'clock sharp, and Young People's society of Christian Endeavor at 7:15.

At the Westminster Presbyterian church, Rev. W. J. Lowrie, pastor, will preach morning and evening. At 10:30 o'clock communion service will be held, baptism administered and a sermon on "The Prisoner of Hope." Evening service will be at 8 o'clock and Christian Endeavor at 6:45.

At the Immanuel Lutheran church, corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Gosnold street, there will be evening services commencing at 7:45 o'clock, conducted in the English language by Rev. B. A. Johnson. No Sunday school will be held.

At the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue, Rev. Arthur J. Hoag, the pastor, will preach at both services tomorrow, on the following topics: At 10:30 o'clock, "Primitive Christians," and in the evening at 8 o'clock, "The Value of a life." Sunday school will meet at noon and S. Y. P. U. at 7 p. m., the topic being "Vacation Religion."

Minister Suits for Home.

Montreal, Aug. 22.—Under the name of M. H. Perah, Mehmed Ali, former Turkish minister at Washington, sailed today for Liverpool on the steamship Ottawa. He was accompanied by his family and several servants.

HIS LIFE A BAGATELLE

James Le Roy Plays With Death for $18 a Week.

May Die as Result of Accident During High Dive Act.

Prof. James LeRoy, aeronaut and high diver for the Street Carnival company, which has been showing in West Duluth this week, lies in the Duluth hospital as a result of an injury to his back received while performing the high dive act last evening.

It is understood that the young man receives in payment for doing these two stunts $18 a week, $15 for the balloon ascension act and $3 for the high dive. For this small sum he gambles with death.

Last night as he stood on the platform raised sixty feet from the ground, it was noticed that he was nervous. He caught himself in the first attempt, and made a new start. The finish of his leap is in a small net raised several feet from the ground. He struck this on his back and instead of allowing himself to bounce free, with body relaxed, he caught the mesh of the net with both hands, stopping his rebound with a snap.

How badly he is injured can not be definitely determined for at least twenty-four hours. His back is swollen and black and blue all up and down his spine. He has one hopeful symptom, that is, he still has the sense of feeling in his feet, which is said to be a sign that the spinal cord is not broken. Today he was in great pain and his groans and cries filled the hospital.

West Duluth Briefs.

In the event of Dr. Cullum not filing for the office of county auditor, it is understood that John Cashin of West Duluth will file.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cornwell of 621 South Sixtieth avenue west, last night.

Mrs. L. Chabot and daughter Eleanor, formerly of West Duluth, now of San Francisco, who have been the guests of West Duluth relatives and friends for the past two months, left Tuesday on the Tionesta for a two weeks' visit in Houghton and Calumet, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cochran are entertaining Mrs. H. Kelly and Miss Emily McClenaghan, sister and niece of Mrs. Cochran, both of Huntington, Quebec, Can.

Cully Brown has returned to his home on Fortieth avenue west, after nearly a year and a half in Seattle, Wash.

A daughter was born last night to Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Shannon of 405 Fifty-seventh avenue west.

Edward Warner's mother, who has been visiting at the home of her son, 212 Fifty-sixth avenue west, has returned to her home at La Crosse, Wis.

Miss Agnes Dever of 208 South Fifty-ninth avenue west, leaves today for the Twin Cities and Lake Minnetonka, where she will spend two weeks. Before returning home she will visit the Minnesota state fair.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson of 712 North Fifty-sixth avenue west.

Tonight is the closing night of the West Duluth street carnival. It is confetti night. The Woodmen held sway last evening and a good-sized crowd attended.

Watch repairing. Hurst, West Duluth.

Holdup for Small Stakes.
Boys are said to have held up and robbed several small girls of a few small coins at Eleventh avenue east and Fifth street last night. The girls were on their way home from a berry picking expedition. A mounted patrolman was put on their trail and as soon as the youngsters got wind of it, they returned the money and made themselves scarce.

Likes Rainy Lake Region.
J. L. Washburn has returned from a trip to the Rainy Lake region and is enthusiastic over the outlook there. He visited Ranier, International Falls and Fort Frances and says they are all growing towns.

Boys Break Windows.
Boys playing baseball in the vicinity of Second avenue east and First street yesterday afternoon put balls through several windows in the vicinity and the property owners reported the matter to the police. An order was issued, prohibiting the playing of baseball on that particular lot in the future.

Want Killing Stopped.
Suburbanites at the eastern part of the city complain to the police that hunters have been shooting and stoning porcupines and leaving the bodies to become nuisances. They wanted the practice stopped. There is no law against the killing of porcupines, and the police could do nothing.

Takes New Position
A. W. Pearing, for several years chief clerk for James Kelly, chairman of the Lake Superior Car Service association, has accepted a position as accountant in the ticket office of the union station. The volume of business at the station was such that an accountant was necessary.

Companies Incorporate.
Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the Lavell Land company with a capitalization of $10,000, and the incorporators are Martin M. Lavell, Hugh F. Cameron and John E. Meehan. Articles were also filed by the Diamond Calk Horseshoe company with a capital stock of $10,000, the incorporators being Frank Swanstrom, Albin R. DeVohn, Ernest Peterson, G. W. C. Rost and Leonard Peterson, all of Duluth. The company will manufacture a patent horseshoe.

The person who has once experienced the pleasure of a cup of delicious "Salada" Tea—that feeling of satisfaction that its purity and flavor guarantee, is not easily persuaded to accept a substitute.

First M. E. Church Services.
There will be services at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Third avenue west and Third street, at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. tomorrow. Rev. M. S. Rice, the pastor, will preach at both services. Sunday school will meet at 12:15 p. m. and Epworth league at 6:45 p. m.

Camping on the Point.
The members of S. W. Richardson's Sunday school class form a camping party at 2925 Minnesota avenue on Park Point. In the party are Louise Ellis, Jessie Muir, Hazel Roberts, Maude Leng, Ednah Johnson, Annabelle Clark and Katherine Ellis, with Mrs. J. S. Abbott as chaperone.

G. B. Anderson Still Missing.
The police are still looking for G. B. Anderson, the clever swindler, who victimized local merchants to the tune of $2,000 by a fake advertising dodge. Authorities in St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Winnipeg and other points have been notified to be on the lookout for him, and the chances of catching him are thought to be good, although up to the present time he has covered his tracks well.

Parker is Coming.
Judge Alton B. Parker, democratic candidate for president at the last national election will arrive in Duluth Monday evening from the West and will sail Tuesday evening on the North West for the East. Apartments have been reserved at the Spalding for him.

Neighborhood Quarrel.
The trial of Esther Cohn, 1932 West Michigan street was postponed until Tuesday, after she pleaded not guilty yesterday in municipal court to the charge of assault, entered by Ganny Cohn. The trouble is an outgrowth of neighborhood difficulties.

Brothers Reunited.

Sues on Notes.
Suit was started yesterday in the district court by Vasselos Meros against Vessells Bradisis asking judgment for $400 alleged to be due him upon promissory notes drawn up at Little Falls. According to the complaint filed Meros sold an undivided half interest in a store at Little Falls to the defendant for $1,000 and that only $600 was paid, the balance being secured by promissory notes. That none of these have been paid is the claim of the plaintiff.

Immigrant With Big Roll.
One lonely immigrant presented himself to Inspector in Charge W. H. Dean at the Booth line dock when the steamer America arrived from Port Arthur yesterday. He flashed a roll of money that a giraffe couldn't see over and the inspector thought he would do as an American citizen, so admitted him.

To Meet at Fond du Lac.
The Ladies' Aid society of the Central Baptist church will go to Fond du Lac next Tuesday on The Herald excursion and will have their monthly meeting at the summer home of Mrs. George Stevens at that place.

Mrs. Milne Recovers.
Mrs. J. O. Milne, who underwent an operation at St. Luke's hospital some time ago, has returned to her home at 1927 West Second street, and is convalescing rapidly.

Mantala Files.
John Mantala of Virginia this morning filed as the candidate for the state legislature from the Forty-ninth district on the Public Ownership ticket.

Transferred to Federal Court.
Judge Ensign yesterday afternoon issued orders transferring two cases from the district court to the federal court, on the ground of diversity of citizenship. One was the case of Matt Salo against the Cloquet Lumber company, who is suing for $2,000 for personal injuries. The lumber company is incorporated in the state of Iowa.

The other case is that of Celia Smith, administratrix of the estate of Robert Cavanaugh, deceased, against the Swan River Logging company, a foreign corporation. Cavanaugh was killed last December while working for the logging company.

Dairies Improving.
G. W. Luxon, milk inspector, says the dairies supplying Duluth with milk continue to show a marked improvement, and that the August report will show an improvement of 50 to 75 per cent over the June report.

Returns From West.
A. H. W. Eckstein, has returned from a three weeks' business trip to Jerome, Ariz., where in company with Joseph J. Shaw, one of the foremost mining engineers of the country, he inspected the property of the Mazatzal Copper company. The mine most carefully inspected was the United Verde mine, and both men are enthusiastic over the future. While there, a vein was uncovered that averaged more than 8 per cent. Mr. Eckstein went out West in the interest of a number of Duluth parties, who wanted a report on the property.

HEAVY WHEAT CROP EXPECTED

Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, was at the Spalding last night en route for St. Paul. Mr. Hill was accompanied by Mrs. Hill and Dr. Charles Wheaton of St. Paul. The party had been on a fishing trip to the Brule river.

In speaking of the wheat situation, Mr. Hill expressed the opinion that there would be more grain handled this year than ever before from a single crop. He stated that there was some damage from rust, but it wasn't of serious proportions. He stated that rust must come early to work much damage to a crop, and that the rust had not come early this year.

Mr. Hill is of the opinion that the roads will have plenty of cars to handle the large crop. He stated that the railroads of the West were never better prepared to handle a heavy wheat movement.

"There is not a very heavy coal movement to the West," said Mr. Hill. "There is a large amount of coal on the docks and the roads are prepared to speedily move it, but the dealers are not ordering. When the crops get to moving the people may find that the roads are not prepared to handle coal with the facility with which they could handle it at the present time. The business outlook is good. The large crop outlook makes it certain that business conditions will improve in the Northwest.

WILL HONOR GROCHAU.

Henry R. Grochau, the retiring general agent for the Omaha railroad at Superior, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given in the Saratoga cafe, Superior, tonight by his railroad friends at the Head of the Lakes. Thirty or forty will be present to felicitate Mr. Grochau upon his promotion to the position of assistant freight claim agent of the Omaha road and express regret that his new position will take him from the Head of the Lakes. During the evening Solon Perrin, a Superior attorney, speaking for the hosts of the evening, will present Mr. Grocheau with a solid gold watch set with diamonds as a further token of the esteem of his friends.

A FORTUNE INVOLVED

Oliver Mining Co. Defendant in Damage Suits Aggregating $180,000.

Dynamite Explosions Do Havoc Among Range Laborers.

As a result of actions commenced this morning, the Oliver Mining company is made the defendant in damage suits on the part of its employes aggregating $180,000. A feature of the actions is that every one of them is the result of operations with dynamite at some of the various mines of the company.

Nick Hechimovitch is suing the company for damages for injuries sustained on March 10, 1908. He was employed in digging what are known as "gopher holes" for dynamite blasting at the Holman mine. He ignited two charges and retired to a safe distance, heard an explosion and returned. He was just crawling into the hole, which is about two feet in diameter, when there was a terrific explosion. He was hurled back into the open, with both eyes put out and one arm paralyzed. He wants $50,000.

Henry Saila is also suing for $50,000 for injuries received at the Higgins' mine, on Dec. 14, 1907. He alleges that the fuses used were defective. He is rendered practically blind.

David Johnson was crushed under a falling bank of earth at the Oliver mine. The bank fell, following a dynamite explosion. He was crushed, his skull fractured, and one arm paralyzed. He wants $20,000 for his injuries.

Frank Gracer places his injuries at a higher figure, and wants $60,000 from the mining company. He was injured in an explosion at the Sibley mine, near Ely, on Oct. 15, 1907. He is rendered permanently blind. All of the plaintiffs allege that they had not sufficient experience or instruction in the handling of dangerous explosives to be put to work at such a job, and that the defendant company furnished them with defective and carelessly handled fuses, with which to work. The injuries in most cases were due to workmen going back to investigate charges, which were slow in exploding, but which went off with fatal violence when they were close to them.

A Feminine Mistake.

The greatest mistake a woman makes is that she is not jolly enough. She makes too serious a business of life. Men stop in the midst of the gravest perplexities to have a hearty laugh, and it keeps them young. For some reason women cannot do this and they fade early. To preserve youth and beauty, nothing is so helpful as the daily use of a good malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer. Taken at mealtime it will aid digestion, revitalize the nerves and make rich, red blood. Order Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

NO DECISION WAS FILED

Supreme Court Fails to Pass on Courthouse Bonds.

County May Forfeit $10,000 Premium Through Court's Delay.

The decision of the supreme court in regard to St. Louis county courthouse bond issue which was expected yesterday, was not received. This leaves the constitutionality of the issue still in doubt.

The county authorities were especially anxious to get a ruling yesterday, as but one week remains before the date set for the delivery of the bonds, Sept. 1. Under the contract the company which took the bonds, T. J. Bolger & Co. of Chicago, can refuse to grant the county the $10,000 premium which was coming to them if the bonds were delivered by Sept. 1. It will be impossible to make this delivery by that date now, as the question of the legality of the bonds is still unsettled.

W. J. Stevenson, attorney for the county board, stated this morning, however, that the company had agreed to extend the time for the delivery of the bonds, considering the unusual circumstances, and had been very obliging in this regard. He does not believe that if a decision is rendered soon, there will be any necessity for forfeiting the premium.

The question of the constitutionality of the bonds was raised by Whitney Wall, attacking the constitutionality of the act of the legislature which authorized their issue. The amount of the bonds is $600,000.

the EVENING STORY

The Mending of a Voice

By Edgar White.

Following the custom of the day, the minister had written a play. Being a clergyman, he had chosen a religious subject. Before entering upon his task he had read diligently. With the production of the drama, fame had come. There were Roman senators and soldiers, kings and queens who were bad, and a Magdlen who was good. The playwright had mined through the substratum and worked his way to daylight. Out of hideous crime and debauchery had come the triumph of faith, and a better life. The prelate author had sought to teach a wholesome lesson, for he placed his part in the redemption of mankind above earthly glory. Unnoticed save by the critical eye of the man of cloth was one weak part in the cast. A young woman of rare beauty and grace could not bring to her lines the proper cadence. The marble columns at the entrance of the king's castle were no whiter than her soul. Yet the grand, melodious chord deep in her heart had never been touched, and until vibrated by the invisible hand, which sears with the white brand of human woe, the intonations given the sacred lines sounded like sacrilege to the sensitive author.

The minister had a son attending college. During the Christmas holidays he joined his parents in the city, where "The Trinity of the Cross" was being presented. The boy was strong, handsome, manly—like his father. He mingled with the players, who became much attached to him. He was enthusiastic over the play, and told the "governor" he was proud of him. If he observed the "slow-hole" in the cast he did not speak of it. From his point of view everything was perfect. There were delightful little suppers after the show, in which he acted as host and general good fellow. He was a man only son, and the ground he trod was sacred to his worshiping parents. In no respect had they ever censored his conduct, and they gave to him sublime credit for an honorable philosophy of life.

The student had not been back to his books three months when the playwright detected an improvement in the derelict's voice.

"Good girl!" he said to her on day: "I knew you could reach it if you tried."

The little actress smiled queerly, and expressed herself as gratified to learn she was pleasing him better.

One night the minister's wife went to the actress' room without knocking, and found her lying face down on the bed, crying. On the dresser was a small photograph of Wendell, the minister's son, which the mother recognized before she tiptoed out of the room. By the kinship of womanhood she understood.

In response to an urgent wire from his father, Wendell hastened to him. The minister met his son at the station.

"Anything wrong, father?" asked the bright-faced boy, anxiously. "Is mother well?"

"We are all well, but I have made a few changes in the play and I wished to get your opinion about them. I want you to go to the theater tonight in disguise. I don't want you to recognize a member of the cast, nor do I wish you to be recognized. I think your views of these changes would be better if you made your observations purely from your own standpoint."

"I understand, and appreciate the honor, sir."

Wendell occupied a box with some press critics, and pretended to take notes of the play.

It was a land wherein no church spire pointed the way to the living God. A heathen court was issuing hideous decrees against the followers of the Nazarene. The white-robed martyrs of the arena knelt in prayer as they awaited the signal from the human tigers in the royal podium to release the four-footed tigers in the cages.

"I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

A girl with wavy chestnut hair, and a marble white face, reverentially repeated the promise of Holy Writ, as the chains crashed to the floor and the monsters from the Euphrates leaped out. Her arms were around the trembling shoulders of a younger sister, whom she was trying to comfort.

"And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die!"

In the solemn hush preceding the tragedy the tender voice of the comforter vibrated with the celestial melody of the dawning transfiguration. She looked over and beyond the blazing eyes and cavernous jaws approaching her.

"Unto Thee, my Lord and my Redeemer—"

The hot-mouthed beasts were now among the sacrifices, and the tumult of ferocity and agony was on. From the podium voluptuous women and half-drunken couriers smiled interestedly and voiced no sentiment of compassion. The curtain fell on the shambles.

"Do you think it is an improvement?" asked the author of his son, as they seated themselves in a cafe near the theater.

"She is superb!" exclaimed the boy, enthusiastically.

The minister regarded him curiously. "I wanted to know what you thought about the change of lines in the trial scene?" he said.

"Oh! Why, I don't believe I noticed that," returned Wendell, with hesitation. "What were the changes?"

"If you didn't detect them, I'm afraid it would not interest you to relate them now. In the revised version the lines of counsel for the denounced are strengthened."

"I observed that Nortoni had more to say, and that he did fine; but what interested me most was the power of Miss Carroll in the arena scene."

"Her lines are the same as when you saw her first."

"I know, but she is reciting them in a different way. Before I thought she was perfect. Her work tonight was more; it was an inspiration."

"You are enthusiastic."

"Don't you agree with me, sir?"

The minister meditatively balanced his fork on the edge of the plate.

"Miss Carrol is improving," he said. "I'm sorry we're going to lose her."

"Lose her! How?"

The father did not notice the vehemence of the exclamation.

"Her widowed mother lives in New Orleans, and is lonely. Miss Carroll feels that she must go to her."

A week later, shortly after the porter had made his stentorian announcement of the approaching hour for the Iron Mountain's night train to depart southward, a young woman, heavily veiled and attired for traveling, tripped lightly down the winding stairs into the office. She was immediately joined by a young man who had been waiting at the foot of the staircase.

"The reckoning is made," he whisper, "and our suit cases are in the carriage, which is waiting at the side entrance."

She took his arm and they started down a small corridor. A man was standing at the door of the carriage, but it wasn't the coachman. The young man thought it was.

"Please open the door," he said.

The man suddenly raised his hat from his eyes, and threw open his coat. It was the author of "The Trinity of the Cross."

"Father!" gasped the young man.

"I'm ashamed of you, sir!" said the minister, severely.

"I know—I know it was wrong," said Wendell, nervously; "but I couldn't help it. I love her so!"

The girl at his side repaid him with a tender look from two lustrous blue eyes, which even the heavy veil could not wholly hide.

"Of course you do," said the father, with astounding acquiescence; "that's not what I'm mortified about; it's you people running off after another minister, when I'm in the marrying business myself—I mean when I can get a job of the sort. Now, you two run back upstairs, and tomorrow we'll have a nice little comedy drama on the side, and I'll see to it that Caesar and his whole profligate court attends to do you honr!"

TO MAKE WOMEN GARDENERS.

London Telegraph: Swanley Horticultural college's work is to make women into gardeners, whether as growers for market or in private grounds, or as teachers of others. The course is specially designed to be of use to those who have land of their own and those who look forward to a colonial life.

The college was founded nearly twenty years ago and now possesses forty-three acres of land, two of which are devoted to flowers, twelve to kitchen and market gardening and seventeen to fruit. There is a long range of glass houses, an apiary, a dairy and poultry run. The report for the past year refers to the growing demand for teachers of nature study, in view of which the college has established a course in natural history. There were over sixty students at the college during 1907.

As a testimony to the practical nature of the instruction at Swanley, it may be pointed out that during 1907 twelve students received appointments as teachers, three as head gardeners, four as gardeners and under gardeners, two as market gardeners, while five obtained positions in jobbing or temporary work. One student went to teach nature study in British Columbia

GOPHER IS BACK HOME

Naval Militia Men Get Back After Successful Cruise.

Vessel Reaches Port After Triumphs at South Manitou.

With the "homeward-bound" pennant and signal flags flying, which in the international code spell "a pleasant voyage and safe return," the United States Steamship Gopher came into the home port this morning, bearing the members of Minnesota's triumphant naval militia, the bes. in the fleet at the recent manuevers at South Manitou Island, Mich.

The Gopher passed the piers at the harbor entrance shortly after 11 o'clock and a few minutes afterward was tied up at Lake avenue dock. Relatives of the officers and men on the boat waved greetings as the ship glided into the slip, but after brief meetings on shore, the militiamen returned to the boat for lunch. After lunch, the march to the armory was made and when the men turned their sea equipment into the lockers there, the two weeks' successful cruise was wound up.

The weather was ideal most of the time the ship was away. Smooth seas and smiling skies greeted the Gopher all of the time until the boat left the Sault on the homeward trip. Then the waves began to roll high and the winds whistle through the rigging.

The first stop after leaving the Sault Wednesday was at Isle Royale, Thursday noon. After three hours at Washington Harbor, the anchor was weighted and a start made for Grand Marais. It was between Isle Royale and Grand Marais that the roughest weather was encountered. Under the direction of Lieut. Commander Ben F. Howard, navigating officer, the Gopher rode the waves very well, although before the flights of the Cook county seat was sighted, there were a good many cases of seasickness aboard.

zovonsl g..can -k..... Chil,ts- shret

Grand Marais was sighted about 9 o'clock Thursday night and the Gopher remained there until 12 o'clock last night. The citizens of Grand Marais were very hospitable to the boys and made every effort to make their stay in Cook county pleasant. Yesterday afternoon, a ball game between the Gopher's team and that of Grand Marais was indulged in and resulted in a victory for the Duluthians.

Last evening the citizens of Grand Marais were hosts at a dance at the village hall and a supper across the street in the newly completed Willing Workers' hall. The Willing Workers comprise the ladies of the town and they have built a meeting place, where just such functions as last evening's supper may be held.

Before the boys left the ship for the armory this noon, Commander Eaton gave a short talk to them, complimenting them upon their work at the maneuvers and throughout the cruise, which was the most successful, in some ways, ever held. He was loudly cheered at the conclusion of his remarks, as were all the officers of the ship.

LATE IN GOING TO STATE AUDITOR

Duluth's Assessment Will Not be Affected by Delay, However.

In spite of the earnest work of the entire force at the auditor's office for the past week the city assessment books will not be ready to go to the state auditor in time. The date set for the delivery of the abstract of the Duluth assessment to the state auditor is next Monday and it will take until Wednesday at least to get them in shape, and may take until the last of the week. The work of revising the 1906 assessment has proved truly colossal.

It is not thought, however, that this will invalidate the assessment at all. St. Louis county will probably be the first of the big counties to get the assessment in to the state auditor in spite of the delay, as Ramsey and Hennepin counties' books are often delayed until Sept. 10. The date for the meeting of the state board of equalization is Sept. 1, but they do not usually get down to work until the second week of the session.

MASONS WILL LAY CORNER STONE

Grand Lodge Officers Will Officiate at Courthouse Ceremonies.

The grand lodge of the A. F. & A. M. of Minnesota will probably lay the cornerstone for the new St. Louis county courthouse, now under construction at Fifth avenue west and Second street. An invitation will be extended by the board of county commissioners to the grand lodge officers and it is believed that they will accept.

The date for the laying of the corner stone has not yet been set, but the contractors will be able to say when the work will be ready for it, within a few days. They are rushing matters on the construction as speedily as possible. The cornerstone will be laid with the usual ceremonies and will be made a big affair for St. Louis county.

SUPERIOR NEWS

SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED.

Police Claim That Kramer Admits Killing Erick Young.

According to the Superior police, Matt Kramer, who is in the county jail charged with the murder of his shack mate, Erick Young, near Foxboro, has admitted the crime on several occasions, but each time with a different story. He is claimed to have told of shooting Young by accident while deer hunting. At another time, it is claimed, that he told the police that his gun was discharged by accident one day while he and Young were crossing a field together, the bullet striking and killing his partner. Each time he said he was afraid of arrest, so kept the matter a secret.

Kramer seems quite cheerful in his prison life. He reads a great deal and talks with the jailer and his fellow prisoners on every opportunity.

Machines Not Used.

Through a technicality the voting machines purchased by the city of Superior and intended for use at the coming primary election, may be knocked out and the ballot system substituted.

Superior attorneys have unearthed the fact that the law providing for the use of voting machines in Wisconsin was passed before the primary election law and provides for their use only at general elections. The fact that the law does not specify primary elections is taken by Superior attorneys to mean that their use at the coming primaries would be illegal. To avoid trouble, it is probable that the machines will be laid away until the general election.

Sixteen of the machines were purchased by the city at a cost of $650 each.

Candles Set Fire to House.

After lighting several candles in preparation for a celebration at their home, A. Pearson's family deserted the building and went up town to do some shopping. While they were away the candle set fire to some draperies and had it not been for a passerby noticing the blaze and calling the fire department, the whole building might have been destroyed. The Pearson residence is 717 Hammond avenue and the fire took place at about 7:30 o'clock last evening.

Indian Boys Run Away.

Phil Lemieux and William and Leonard Welch, Indian boys about 15 years of age, ran away from the Indian reservation school at Odanah yesterday morning, and are said to be working their way toward Superior. The Superior police have been asked to keep a lookout for them.

WEST END

GOOD HAUL BY THIEVES

Thieves broke into Mrs. Emma Johnson's New Store in the West end, 2012 West Superior street, last night, and stole goods to the value of $1,000 or more. The men were frightened away, it is believed, before they had a chance to try to break open the safe, so they secured no cash.

The men showed good taste, and selected only the best silks, laces, gloves, dress goods, etc., making a safe getaway with their loot. The loss this morning was not all checked up, and the management of the store could not estimate just what the cash value of the goods taken would be. A conservative estimate, however, placed the loss at $1,000. It may run higher than that. The store has been conducting a big sale for several days past, which makes it all the more difficult to learn just what goods were taken.

The burglars gained entrance by means of a ladder placed against the side of the building. The ladder was taken from Farrington's paint shop, a short distance from the store. From the appearance of things about the place, it is believed the robbery was committed along towards morning, the men being frightened away before they had a chance to complete their work.

They also made an attempt to break into Moe's store next door, but were unable to gain admittance, although marks of their work were evident on the double-locked door.

The management is of the opinion that the robbery was committed by local people. This fact, they say, they have had something to do with the robbers having nothing to do with the safe. It is thought they may have felt more cereain of being able to get away with the goods alone, and if they had blown open the safe and taken the money. If they were amateurs at the business, it is considered likely they were afraid to try the safe. As it was, they got a very good haul, and will be $1,000 to the good if they succeed in disposing of the goods taken.

Silk suspenders and women's hose supporters were among the articles taken.

TALK ON TEMPERANCE.

Eau Claire Woman Will Speak in the West End.

Under the auspices of the Duluth Union Temperance society, in the parlors of the Ebenezer church, next Tuesday evening, Miss Laurine Rakke of Eau Claire, Wis., who, it is said, is one of the foremost temperance speakers of the country, will give a talk on the "Drink Question."

MISS LAURINE ROKKE.

Miss Rakke has spent several years working in the interests of the different temperance societies of the country, and will no doubt give an interesting talk.

The Duluth union invites all those interested in the promotion of temperance to be present.

DEER AT WEST END.

Buck Grazes Peacefully With Herd of Cattle Near Ore Docks.

The East end has its bear stories, now comes the West end with deer stories.

John Nelson, who lives on Twenty-eighth avenue west, yesterday saw a large buck grazing near the track with two cows.

The deer appeared to be used to city life, for when Mr. Nelson approached it did not seem in the least frightened. He got within 100 feet of the animal, and was in the act of throwing the rope as they do out West, when a small boy yelled and the deer trotted away. It ran in the direction of the old Merritt homestead, and a number of boys followed until it disappeared over the hill.

Mr. Nelson says he would have been able to capture it had not the boys frightened it with their loud talk.

New Lodge Formed.

Henry J. Lofgren, state deputy for the North Star Benefit association, organized a new chapter in the West end at a meeting held in the Swedish Lutheran church last night.

The new chapter will be known as the Duluth chapter, No. 71.

Those elected to office for the first year of the lodge's existence are: Oscar Johnson, astromer; A. G. Anderson, recorder; and Herman Hanson, conductor.

West End Shortrails.

John D. Rogers of 315 Seventeenth and One-Half avenue west has returned from a trip to the Copper country. After spending a few days with his family he will go to Chicago.

Rev. A. Edston returned yesterday from Grand Lake, where he conducted services. Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Mrs. Charles Peterson and Miss Pearson left this morning for Verndale, where they will visit with friends for the next two weeks.

Hans P. Beckman is on an outing of two weeks at Grand Lake.

Leonard, the 10-year-old son of A. Koneczny, 2405 West Fourth street was bitten on the hand by a dog yesterday, while he was in the act of trying to stop a fight between his dog and a strange one. The boy's hand is in a bad condition, but Dr. Greely says it will be well in a few days' time.

Miss Edith Peterson of 306 West Vernon street, has returned home after spending her vacation at Ashland, Wis. Miss Anna Peterson, her sister, has also returned home from a two weeks' outing trip at Cedar Lake, Minn.

Andre Olson has returned from Port Arthur, where he has been playing ball with the Port Arthur team of the Lake Shore league.

Clara Rich, Florence Long, Ida Snow and Jennie Armstrong of Minneapolis are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Breen. The girls will visit in the West end for a week, and will then be chaperoned on a trip down the lakes by Mrs. Breen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson of St. Paul are the guests of Mrs. Carlson's brother, John Engels of West Third street.

COPPERS QUIET; LITTLE CHANGE

Market is Well Supported During Short Saturday Session.

The copper market was quiet during the short session today, with little range in prices. The profit selling of the past few days had about spent itself and the market was well supported. Some of the more prominent issues lost slightly on the day's trading, but the net declines were small.

North Butte opened at $83.12½, went to $83.87½ and fell back to $82.75 bid and $83 asked at the close. Amalgamated opened at $77, went to $78.75, dropped back to $77.25 and rallied again to $78, closing at $77.75 bid and $78 asked. Anaconda opened at $46.37½, went to $47 and dropped back to $46.75. Butte Coalition opened at $26.50, went to $27, dropping back to $26.50 bid and $27 asked at the close. Calumet & Arizona opened at $118.50 and dropped to $118 bid and $119 asked at the close.

The curbs were also quiet, with little change in prices. Greene-Cananea sold at $11.62½ and $11.75. Superior & Pittsburg at $13.62½. Butte & Superior at $1.37½. Calumet & Sonora at $9.75. Copper Queen at $1.25 and Denn-Arizona at $4.25. Black Mountain was quiet at $3.62½ bid and $3.87½ asked. Butte Ballaklava at $6.87½ bid and $7.12½ asked, Carman at $3.12½ bid and $3.37½ asked. Cliff at $1.25 bid and $1.37½ asked, Mowitza at $2 bid and $2.25 asked, Globe at $4.37½ bid and $4.62½ asked, and Red Warrior at $3 bid and $3.25 asked.

DRIVES HIS FIST THROUGH GLASS

Andrew Hanson Creates a Disturbance at the Police Station.

Andrew Hanson, arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge, did not like the idea of having officers go through his pockets at headquarters, and as an expression of dissatisfaction, he drove his fist through a window, smashing the large glass into small pieces. Before Judge Cutting, in police court this morning, he drew a fine of $15 and costs, with an alternative of fifteen days in jail.

John Crow, arrested recently for being a vagrant, was given thirty days at hard labor, with a $25 fine as an alternative. He was pulled last night for being drunk and creating a disturbance at the Missabe ore docks. When last in he was allowed to go under suspended sentence, on condition that he would leave the city and not return for a year.

Thomas Riley admitted that he was drunk, but said it was due to taking mail for medicinal purposes. He was fined $1 and costs. Archie Corbett drew a fine of $10 for being drunk, second offense.

MADE FORTUNE IN ALASKA

Carl M. Johnson Visits Old Haunts at Dawson City.

Friends of Carl M. Johanson, a former resident of the city, and partner of H. B. Freyberger, will be gratified to learn of Mr. Johanson's success in the mining industry of the Klondike. Mr. Johanson left this city when the gold fever first struck the country some years ago and has been successful. He now lives in Seattle.

"Mr. Johanson came into the Klondike in 1897, not long after he had left Cornell university. There he was famous as the captain of the great football team of Cornell during the years of 1892 and 1893. At that time Johanson weighed 170 pounds, and was one of the cleverest tackle men who ever bucked the line. When the call came to buck against the rigors of the North to get to Klondike, he was one of the first to answer the lure of the wild, and made a successful trip over the Chilkoot and down the Yukon. For a time he was part owner of No. 20, at the mouth of Bear creek, where individual mining was not very profitable, because of the great quantity of water in the claim. The whole claim could have been bought then for $2,000. Later A. D. Patterson and Frank Berry took as high as $170,000 from the ground in one winter, but the pumping and other work cost almost every dollar that was taken out. No. 20 has produced probably $500,000 or more. It is one of the richest spots in the Klondike. In Mr. Johanson's early struggles to Bear and back to Dawson, he clambered with his hardy partners over the high bluff at the Cliff house, and through the tundra and heavy woods of the Klondike valley. It was in marked contrast to the easy manner in which he rolled into Bear creek yesterday in the touring car, Red Devil."

HEADED OFF THE PETITIONS

County Commissioner Patterson Declines to Run Again.

E. M. Patterson, county commissioner from the First district, who refuses to stand for re-election to the office, was forced to hold back enthusiastic and well-meaning friends, who thought that the office should seek the man, if the man would not seek the office.

They began the circulation of petitions calling upon Mr. Patterson to set aside personal inclinations and answer to the call of the people. He discovered the petitions after they had been signed by a large number of influential citizens and headed them off, as he says he is unable to take the office for another term.

Mr. Patterson's hard and efficient work on the county board is appreciated by the people of his district and the announcement that he would not run for the office again was received with keen regret. Friends thought that he might be influenced to change his decision by the petitions, but he called them off with the announcement that he could not accept the office under any circumstances.

The petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, electors of St. Louis county, Minnesota, gratefully appreciate your unselfish and painstaking services for the public welfare during your term of office as county commissioner of this county and regret to learn of your intention not to stand for another election to that office. As you are aware, there are public improvements of great moment to the taxpayers of this county, now under way, and we believe it to be of great importance to them and to the public generally that you continue in that office until at least these improvements are completed.

"We therefore ask you to reconsider the matter, and if possible to subordinate your personal inclinations and convenience to the public good, and again become a candidate for county commissioner in your district."

Four of the petitions were circulated and they were signed by the most influential citizens of the district before Mr. Patterson interposed his objections.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 27.—Dr. A. C. McBath, prominent Republican politician and veterinary surgeon of state-wide reputation, died suddenly last night from the effects of an apoplectic stroke suffered two days ago.

DEMOCRATS TO MAKE FINAL PLANS SEPT. 8.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—A meeting of the national committee of the Democratic party and of all subcommittees will be held at Chicago Sept. 8, at which final plans for the presidential campaign will be adopted.

This was determined upon at a meeting of party leaders including Mr. Bryan and National Chairman Mack at Democratic headquarters today.

PREDICTS A LANDSLIDE

Governor Never So Popular as Now, Says McEwen.

Accepted the Situation Like the Good Sportsman He Is.

"Governor Johnson was never as popular in this state as he is today" said W. E. McEwen, who returned this morning from St. Paul, after a trip through the western part of the state.

"This fall will see another land slide for the governor, and I will tell you why. I don't believe there is a man in the state who deep down in his heart does not believe that the governor was honestly opposed to a third term, and tried in every way to head off the nomination. Some of the Republican papers are making a play about the 'kitchen cabinet,' but their readers know that it doesn't ring true. Governor Johnson even went so far as to make a personal appeal to his close friends at the capitol to help him to head off the third term nomination, after he had done everything he could on other grounds, and I don't believe there was a man in the crowd that turned his hand to boost the third term idea along, much as they wanted it. The governor, when he saw that there was nothing else to do, accepted the situation like a good sportsman, and is going to make the best fight he knows how to, to win. And let me tell you, that the fellows who stood this on him are going to show what they are made of, also. They realize that if they forced Johnson into a defeat it would mean his political death, perhaps, and if every friend of the governor's doesn't turn in and work this fall as he never worked before for any candidate, I am very much mistaken.

"His strength in the three cities is amazing. It took me half an hour to walk three blocks in Duluth this morning. I was stopped every few feet by Duluth men, who knew I had just come from St. Paul, and who wanted to hear about the governor. 'It's Johnson for me this time,' was the expression I heard on every side, and among the men I met, were many who, had voted against him two years ago. Jacobson's record on St. Louis county measures in legislature is too well known her to make him any friends.

"Johnson is nominated now, and it is up to his friends to show him how well he does stand in this state. You watch him run this fall, if you can see him for dust."

DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

THE MODERN, PROGRESSIVE, BUSINESS TRAINING SCHOOL OF THE NORTHWEST

Present Location, 105-7 West Superior Street.

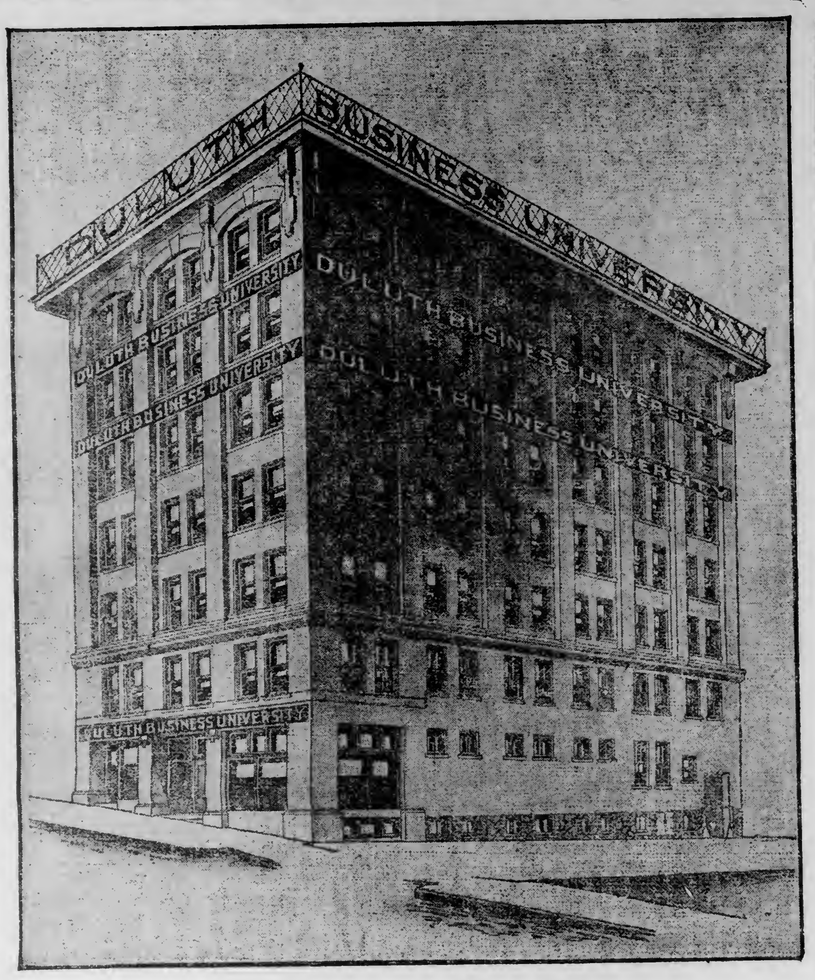
118-120 FOURTH AVENUE WEST

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL OPENING, DAY AND NIGHT SCHOOL, TUESDAY, SEPT. 8, '08



HOME OF DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

On and After December 1, 1908, at 118-120 Fourth Avenue West, the New Business and Civic Center of Duluth. Directly Opposite our $1,000,000 Courthouse.

In Your Selection of a School, Choose the Best Rather Than the Cheapest. It Will Certainly Pay You.

INTRODUCTION The forward march of our progressive city calls for a bigger, a better equipped and a more modern Duluth Business University. In response, the college will locate in the best business block in the heart of the city, double its seating capacity and its teaching force, install a new actual business system and a new model office department, spend many thousand dollars in modern office devices and general equipment, in its efforts to give its students unsurpassed facilities for obtaining a sound, practical business training.

OUR NEW QUARTERS—The University will occupy the entire Sixth and Seventh floors of the Christie Building, now being erected at Fourth avenue West. The College Offices, Model Office Department, Shorthand and Typewriting Departments will occupy the entire sixth floor. The Commercial and English Departments will occupy the entire Seventh floor. These floors are being planned for the special requirements of the college, and when ready the college will have rooms, which from the standpoint of light, sanitation, convenience and elegance, will be unsurpassed by any business college quarters in America.

THE BUILDING—The Christie building, in which the college will be located, will be an excellent seven-story, fireproof, reinforced concrete building, a model of modern improvements and conveniences, perfectly lighted, heated and ventilated, with wide corridors and excellent elevator service. There will be no handsomer, more sanitary, or better built building in the city, and we feel that we shall be particularly fortunate in locating our new home in such a building.

THE LOCATION—The location of the school's new home is an ideal one. Although only one block from the busiest corner in the city, it will be far enough removed to escape the annoyance of noise and dust from street cars and heavy traffic. The college will be located in the same block as the Y. M. C. A. and Board of Trade building, and will be directly facing the grounds of our magnificent courthouse.

TEACHING STAFF, SEPTEMBER OPENING, 1908

OPPORTUNITIES FOR ALL

If you are desirous of attending our school but have not the means with which to do so, please state your case clearly and frankly to us, and the probabilities are that we can make it possible for you to take up the work. We receive calls frequently for young men and young women to work mornings, evenings and Saturdays, in private families for room and board while attending college. Hence, if you can pay the tuition, we can procure employment for you that will take care of the other expenses, and in this way you can prepare yourself for the business world, as many others have done.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8th, AN EXCELLENT DATE TO ENTER

You could not select a better time to begin a course at the Duluth Business University in day or night school than Tuesday, Sept. 8th. It is true, there has been a lull in business during the past few months; it is also true that business is below normal at the present; but it is likewise true that in six months or one year hence, when you have completed a course in our school, business in this Northwest will be humming. Duluth will come in for a lion's share. The mammoth enterprises now being launched here make this a certainty. There will then undoubtedly be a much greater demand for office assistants than there has ever been at any time in the history of this city.

Is not this an opportune time for you to enroll and get the necessary preparation that this school gives for the business world? Sept. 8th is also the beginning of our school year, and the classification and program of studies are particularly arranged for those who enter then. You should, if possible, arrange to begin at the opening.

Hot Weather

During hot summer weather men, women and children will drop down from sunstroke and heat prostration, if the constitution is weak.

Everyone should, during these hot, humid days, be on guard. Life depends on care. Keep the body strong and vigorous, shun ice water, unripe fruit. Eat and drink with discretion. Put a teaspoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in each glass of water you drink. It kills all disease germs. Prescribed as a family medicine by thousands of leading doctors. If you wish to keep strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 per bottle.

If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a handsome illustrated medical booklet containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the World's greatest medicine.

$00 RAILROAD IS SUED.

Contractor Alleges He Was Worsted on Construction Deal.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Burt O. Steeves, contractor for the Sault Ste Marie Railway company, has commenced an action in district court against the company for the recovery of $3,759.40, which the man claims is due him on a contract which he had.

The action is brought against Felix Barbeau and David Hickcox, Foley Bros., and the Sault Ste. Marie Railway company. It is alleged in the complaint that Steeves performed work and furnished material for the construction of the Duluth-Glenwood line of the Soo in the amount of $9,546.43, part of which was paid him, leaving the above balance. Barbeau and Hickcox were sub-contractors of Foley Bros., who held the main contract, hence their inclusion in the action.

ON THE IRON RANGES

MOUNTAIN IRON MINE

Will be Ready to Make Monster Record Next Season.

Four Drills at Work on the Sauntry-Alpena Property.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the mining industry is comparatively quiet in the mountain Iron district this year, as elsewhere on the Mesaba range, there is in reality a considerable amount of development work going forward in preparation for the good times coming. The great Mountain Iron mine, operated by the Oliver Iron Mining company, will make a very small output of ore this year, compared with its record for past seasons, but the work of stripping the overburden is going forward constantly with three steam shovels operating night and day, and the property will be in shape to make a monster record next season if the ore is demanded.

The Iroquois mine, operated by the Rogers Iron Mining company, is being wrought steadily, although with reduced forces compared with those of more prosperous seasons. This mine is operated by the milling system and a considerable portion of the stockpile hoisted during last winter has been shipped.

To the east of the Mountain Iron mine about a mile distant, is another large deposit of ore running northeast and southwest, which is about three-quarters of a mile in length and of considerable width. If this deposit were operated as one property it would make one of the biggest mines of the range, but it is divided up amongst three concerns. The southerly portion of the deposit is included in the Brunt mine of the Pittsburg Iron Ore company. The central portion is under the control of the Pitt Iron Mining company and is known as the Wacootah, while the northerly portion is known as the Hanna mine, and is operated by the Consumers' Ore company.

Stripping at the Hanna.

Stripping operations on the Hanna were started last year, but were discontinued when the slump came last fall. These operations were resumed last week and one shovel is employed steadily in removing the overburden. This week the shovel ran into a capping of broken taconite, which causes slow progress, but it is not believed that this material is of very great extent. It has been reported that the Consumers' Ore company recently made a contract for its output from both the Hanna and Sliver properties, covering a period of three years, which insures steady development work at both properties thoughout the winter.

There has been nothing done at the Wacootah since early last winter. A considerable body of ore is already uncovered, but much striping remains to be done. At one place, the ore was only six to eight feet below the surface, while the average depth of the overburden is about twenty-five or thirty feet. Present indications are work will not be resumed at this property until next season, unless there should be a considerable spurt in the demand for ore this fall.

The Brunt has also been idle since shipments ceased last season. This property was operated as an underground proposition two seasons, and made an exceptional record for shipments. But the greater cost of underground mining compared to open pit work led the management to the decision to strip the property before any further mining was done. So the pumps were pulled and the shaft dismantled. The surface at the Brunt is about 70 to 75 feet in depth, and undoubtedly it could be operated much more economically by the steam shovel process. Although the operating company has not yet signified the time when stripping will be started, local officials expect that nothing will be done until next spring. The ore of this deposit is of good quality, although not of the highest grade, and will meet a ready sale as soon as the iron business revives.

A large amount of drilling has been done during the past three years to the east of this deposit, but with what success is not yet known. The fact that drills are still at work to the northeast would indicate that the showing is good at any rate.

The township of Nichols has built a splendid roadway between Mountain Iron and the western limits of the city of Virginia, and it is kept in excellent repair, which is a great convenience to the mining companies operating in this district. This is without doubt the best piece of wagon road on the Mesaba range and the officials of other political subdivisions on the range might take lessons in road building from the management of the town of Nichols, with benefit to themselves and all concerned. The road is wide and well rounded up and the highway commissioners keep a man constantly at work throughout the summer season filling with gravel any little rut or hole that may be worn into the surface of the roadway. In another year or so the road will be packed so hard and solid that the rains will hardly affect it, and its maintenance will be comparatively easy.

Sauntry-Alpena Development.

The Cole & McDonald Exploration company recently started four drills at work on the Sauntry-Alpena property of the Oliver Iron Mining company, adjoining the city of Virginia on the north. A crew of surveyors is also at work running out lines on the property and locating the places for drill holes. This work led to circulation of the rumor that the company was preparing to resume stripping operations on this big property, which has been idle for several years. The report was also circulated that this drilling was being done preparatory to removing the old dumps near the Rainy Lake railroad, because they were supposed to cover an ore body. But M. S. Hawkins, general superintendent for the Oliver company in this district, states that the work is simply a continuation of the company's policy of thoroughly exploring all its properties with a view of obtaining exact knowledge of the extent and character of the ore bodies, surface, etc. The experience of buying out townsites and shifting buildings is a costly one and the Oliver company makes sure what it is doing before proceeding with improvements. There are few of the older villages and cities of the range but are or have been located wholly or in part over bodies of ore as a result of inadequate explorations in the early days, before the towns were located. Eveleth had to be moved entire, the larger portion of Sparta will be shifted, a part of Hibbing stands over an ore body and at the time the Virginia Commercial club was discussing prospective sites for a federal building, the statement was made by a prominent real estate dealer, that the ore body of the Columbia mine, now idle, extends under the greater portion of the thickly settled Second ward, and that the time is surely coming when all these buildings will have to be moved elsewhere, while the costly improvements being made by the city in the way of sewers, streets and alleys will necessarily be destroyed.

The Shaw Property.

The Oliver Iron Mining company is now making preparations for the erection of a boarding house and a dozen new cottages at the Higgins' mine location, and also a number of cottages on the Shaw property near the Iron Range depot. These latter are located near the Norman property and will be mainly for accommodation of employes of the company at that mine, where two shafts are being sunk with a view of prosecuting extensive underground mining operations in addition to the open pit work now under way. The shaft houses will be of the modern steel head variety, with substantial power houses adjoining. The company is also figuring on the erection of a large machine shop and roundhouse to the north of the Oliver pit, but when this work will be started is not yet known.

Owing to the determination of the state authorities to tax ore in stockpile on the first of every year, and because of the fact that stockpiles are usually at the minimum amount on that date, it is expected that there will be comparatively little underground mining on the Mesaba range in future, and especially during the winter months. As with most personal property taxation, this is a tax on industry, and the range will suffer in consequence in nearly every instance where it is possible to strip, underground mining will be abandoned and open pit work substituted, while those compelled to mine underground will do nearly all their work during the summer months. This will materially reduce the number of skilled miners heretofore employed during the winter and will work considerable hardship to that class of labor. It may yet occur to the people of this section that an amendment to the state constitution, which would permit a tax commission to devise a sane and sensible system of taxation that would remove unjust burdens from those who desire to develop the state's resources, might not be such a bad thing after all.

CLUB IN FAVOR OF GOING AHEAD

Virginia Commercial Organization Desires the Improvements Made.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 22.—At the regular meeting of the Commercial club last evening the resignation of Secretary F. J. Hughes was accepted and O. H. Griggs was elected to fill the vacancy by unanimous vote. Ransom Metcalfe, the president, also tendered his resignation, giving as a reason that he no longer desired to serve in that capacity, and on motion the matter was laid over until the next regular meeting.

Messrs. W. E. Pickering and D. W. Stebbins of the committee appointed to wait on the council with regard to the proposed new road between Virginia and Eveleth, made a report and discussion of the subject led to the adoption of a motion that a committee be appointed to wait upon the board of tax levy on Aug. 26 and urge that body to make a substantial levy for permanent improvements. Some time ago the commercial club recommended to the council that the matter of bonding the city in the sum of $100,000 for improvement of streets and alleys be submitted to a vote of the people, but no action has been taken as yet by that body. It was stated that some of the councilmen are opposed to submitting the matter to the people for fear it might be carried, and it was the sense of the club that whether the bond proposition is submitted or not, or if submitted, whether the proposition be carried or defeated, a levy might be made of sufficient size to inaugurate the work next year without greatly adding to the burdens of the taxpayers. The president named a committee to wait upon the board of tax levy Messrs. W. E. Pickering and O. H. Griggs.

The secretary was instructed to write to the officials of the Duluth & Iron Range road asking them to run their Sunday train into Virginia.

C. B. Miller to Speak.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hon. Clarence B. Miller of Duluth, candidate for the Republican nomination for representative in congress from the Eighth district, will speak at Central hall this evening under the auspices of the Swedish Lutheran church.

IS INJURED BY A FLYING ROCK

Edward Slagle Has His Leg Broken at the Gilbert Mine.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—While working with a drilling gang at the Gilbert mine yesterday Edward Slagle was knocked down and severely injured by a large rock that was blown up during an explosion while the men were blasting. The man was taken to his home in Gilbert, where it was found that his leg was broken. He will be laid up for at least a month.

The No. 3 shaft at the Fayal mine is now dismantled. The shaft has not been in use for some time of late and the other day the men started tearing the shaft down. The shaft was put up about seven or eight years ago.

It is reported that ore has been found on the homestead of C. Christoferson, ten miles south of here. A drill working on the ground struck taconite a few feet below the surface, the test of the ore shows 35 per cent ore. It is said that an exploration company will make an investigation of the property.

RETURN FROM HONEYMOON.

Coleraine Couple Are Being Welcomed by Friends.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Rogers, who were recently married in Exeter, Can., and who returned yesterday, are welcoming the couple to their future home. After their wedding they enjoyed their honeymoon visiting in Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit, returning to Duluth on the North west. They are at home in a handsome cottage on the boulevard.

A representative of the firm of St. Germain Bros. of Duluth was taking contracts for stained glass windows in the new Methodist and Presbyterian churches this week.

Biwabik is playing a series of three games of baseball in Coleraine Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

A. M. Sjaler, clerk of the board of education of La Prairie, was looking over school matters in this part of District No. 2 Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Vandyke of Baxter, Iowa, are visiting their son, J. A. Vandyke, and family.

The board of education has recently employed Benjamin W. Spaulding of the Stout manual training school, Menominee, Wis., to take charge of the manual training which will be installed in the Coleraine and Bovey schools, in September.

The Duluth, Missaba & Northern railway is building spurs from Taconite and from Coleraine to the location of the great ore washing plant, to be built on the east side of Trout lake. The road from Coleraine will be a four-track way.

School will open on all of the schools of this district on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

A NEW CHARTER FOR VIRGINIA

Judges Appoint Commission to Submit Draft to the People.

As a result of the agitation, which has been going on in Virginia of late for a new charter for the range town, the judges of St. Louis county district court this morning decided that it was for the best interests of the town that a new charter should be submitted to the people and appointed a commission according to the state law, which will in due time draw up and submit a charter.

EXPENSIVE ALTERCATION.

Hibbing Man Assessed $24 for Figuring in Row.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Murphy, a boss employed by Butler Bros., who was arrested last Monday upon complaint of Zisko Ziokovich, had his hearing in the municipal court Friday. The complaining witness claimed that Murphy broke his arm during an altercation. The defendant was found guilty of assault and battery and fined $5 and costs, $20.02 in all, or in default ten days in jail. The defendant announced he would not pay the fine, but was ready to be committed to the county jail immediately. He will be taken to Duluth.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETING.

Dr. Rice, Dr. Clemans and Other Duluth Men Participating.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 22.—Special to The Herald.)—The three-day session of the Duluth District of the Epworth League, the first ever held on the range, began here last night in the M. E. church with a large attendance. Prominent among the speakers last night was Dr. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist church of Duluth. The session today is well attended. During the morning session, Dr. E. C. Clemens, superintendent of the Duluth District of the M. E. church, spoke upon "Kings and Queens of the Twentieth Century." Others addressed the meeting today and there were several notable discussions. Alderman Watson S. Moore of Duluth is scheduled for an address Sunday evening on "Good Citizenship."

RANGE CONDITIONS GOOD.

Mankato Man Says This Section is to be Congratulated.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. J. Macbeth of the Mankato packing firm of Macbeth & Gardner, arrived in the city yesterday, on his way to Ranier after a ten-days' visit in New York. He says that the people of Northern Minnesota do not realize the conditions in the East. In the city of New York there are hundreds of vacant business places, while building operations are practically at a standstill. These vacant buildings are a result of men being forced out of business on account of the hard times. He says the Mesaba range is more fortunate, perhaps, than any other section of the country.

Mr. Macbeth went to New York in the interests of his fishing industry on Rainy lake, as it is in the Eastern metropolis that he finds a market for much of the product. He says the catch has been rather poor of late, owing to the warm weather, as the fish seek the deep holes during the heated term, and it is difficult to find them, but now that cooler weather prevails, he expects the catch to materially increase.

DEATH FOLLOWS OPERATION.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following an operation for appendicitis, Arvid Klingberg, 40, single, died in a local hospital yesterday. He had been employed in the local shops of the Iron Range since 1892. His parents reside in the old country and he also has some relatives at Bellingham, Wash. The Order of Druids will have charge of the funeral.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—While trying to place a mail pouch on a Duluth & Iron Range train at Stewart yesterday, P. Cassidy, 64, an employe of the Lake County Lumber company, was struck by the train and sustained a fractured hip. He is in the local hospital and may recover.

Gilbert People Here.

Gilbert, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—L. Schweitzer left for Duluth this morning to witness Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. Quite a number of Gilbert people also went to Duluth, expecting to return home Sunday noon.

previous local administrations. "Sangamon county trials" had, in fact, become a synonym for weak prosecutions and light sentences.

New Civic Spirit Aroused.

The evident intent of the present authorities, county, city and state, to change this condition has aroused a new civic spirit here. The prosecuting forces are backed by the full strength of the commercial and professional associations of the city and aided by the revelations which individual citizens are making. If this does not result in successful trials, the authorities will be bitterly disappointed.

"We have a finely efficient grand jury and have secured the strongest kind of evidence for the riot trials," said Assistant State's Attorney Wines before he entered the grand jury room today. "All we shall need further will be the trial jurors determined to see that the letter as well as the spirit of the law is enforced."

The smaller of the detail of the Seventh infantry which were scattered about the city last night as reserves for the sheriff's force of deputies, were called back to the camp on the state house grounds at daybreak.

No intimation of the regiment's release from duty has been given yet. It is the understanding of the officers of the command, however, that the organization will be kept here until well into next week, if not longer. No chance for a revival of the mob spirit is to be given, and it is thought it will be effectually quenched by the time the grand jury has finished returning indictments.

thusiastic launching as to carry it through to success against all opposition.

State Committee Meeting.

Chairman Frank A. Day will probably call the state central committee together on Monday, Aug. 30, the first day of the state fair. At this time the makeup of the new committee will be arranged and the manager of the campaign selected. There is some uncertainty as to who the manager will be. Mr. Day is generally looked upon as the one who can best carry this campaign through as he did the other two. Mr. Day, however, is not seeking the place and does not seem anxious to take it. It is probable, however, that considerable pressure will be brought to bear on him to accept the office again, as his work in handling the past two campaigns puts him in a better position to carry on the work than any other man in the state.

The Democrats this year are going to make a determined effort to land a few of the congressional jobs and they will have candidates in practically all of the districts. In several, however, they feel that they have an excellent chance of winning out and in these districts a special effort will be made in the congressional campaign. In the First district James A. Tawney will have an opponent for the Republican nomination in T. V. Knatvold of Albert Lea, who made the race against him six years ago. Since that time the opposition to Tawney in his own district has developed greatly and he will have the fight of his life to land the nomination this year. Knatvold is making his fight largely on an anti-Cannon platform and it is making him lots of friends in the district. Tawney's famous machine will be put to a severe test this fall, and there are lots of people who expect to see it found wanting.

At any rate the primary campaign will probably stir up a great deal of animosity. Andrew French of Plainview, who ran against Tawney two years ago, will make the race again this year and with the united support of the Democrats of the district, together with others who are dissatisfied with Tawney's position in congress, the chances for Mr. French's election are very bright.

Hammond Stronger Than Ever.

In the Second, Congressman Hammond will file again and he is stronger in the district than ever. In the three-cornered race for the Republican nomination between ex-Congressman McCleary, Paul A. Ewart and Gilbert Gutterson considerable bad blood is being stirred up and whoever lands the nomination will not have the united support of his party behind him. If McCleary slips in again, his milk and water position on the tariff will make him an easy opponent for Hammond, who made a good record at Washington for a newcomer.

In the Third there is talk of Senator Julius Collier of Shakopee and Senator Frank Glotzbach of Faribault for the Democratic nomination, but as yet neither has filed. It is considered certain, however, that there will be a Democrat in the field in the Third district this year against Charles Davis. Rumors are afloat that Davis and Heatwole have not been on the most friendly terms of late and that the Northfield man will make trouble for Davis this fall.

In St. Paul, the Fourth district, it is rumored that T. F. Kane will be the Democratic candidate against Congressman F. C. Stevens. Mr. Kane served three terms as county attorney of Ramsey county and is one of the best-known orators in the state. He is a campaigner with few equals and if he enters the race this fall Stevens will have a lively fight on his hands. There is already one Democratic candidate in the field in the Fourth, D. F. Peebles, a well-known St. Paul attorney.

In the Fifth district, Minneapolis, the outlook is considered so promising for the defeat of Congressman Frank M. Nye that three or four candidates are expected to enter the race. While no one has filed as yet, the Democrats of Hennepin county state that they will have trouble in selecting their candidate from the field.

In the Sixth, Congressman Lindbergh is serving his first term and no Democratic candidate has appeared against him, although it is by no means certain that he will get it again without a fight.

In the Seventh and Ninth there have been no developments of opposition to Volstead and Steenerson, respectively, but in the Eighth it is expected in state house circles that Charles d'Autremont of Duluth will take up the fight with the victor in the present race between Congressman Bede and Clarence B. Miller. JUNIUS.

plan to have me make as many speeches in this campaign as in other years. I shall, however, make a number of speeches in the principal centers through the Middle West but the dates have not been fixed. The subject of my speech in New York has not been determined."

Shortly after Mr. Bryan's arrival at headquarters he was joined in conference with National Chairman Mack who made known in a general way the plans and progress of political events The chairman told Mr. Bryan that the campaign was gaining impetus daily and that every one was working hard for the success of the ticket.

Chicago, Aug. 22. — William J. Bryan arrived in Chicago today to pay a two days' visit to his political friends and campaign managers. The presidential nominee was greeted at the railway station by National Chairman Norman E. Mack, Col. M. C. Wetmore, in charge of the finances of the campaign, and a score of party leaders and prominent Democrats from Chicago and elsewhere. A rousing cheer went up as he stepped down from the platform of the sleeper and grasped the hands outstretched in welcome. Mr. Bryan looked refreshed and jovial after his night on the road and declared that he felt fine. Greetings having been exchanged all around, the party proceeded through the station, where throngs of Democrats had gathered to catch a glimpse of the Nebraskan. Their number had been augumented by patrons of the incoming suburban trains until the station was packed to its utmost limit with an enthusiastic, cheering crowd, through which Mr. Bryan and his escort passed along a lane, marked out by policemen detailed to guard the person of the illustrious visitor, who bowed to right and left in smiling acknowledgment of the noisy tribute.

Plunges Into Business.

Arriving at the Auditorium Mr. Bryan lost no time in getting down to the business that brought him to Chicago, and plunged into a series of conferences over plans for the fight to be waged between now and Nov. 3. All the heads of the various committees had been summoned to Chicago by Chairman Mack, as had also the members of the executive committee and the advisory council, and before Mr. Bryan leaves for Indianapolis Monday noon to attend the official notification of John W. Kern, vice presidential nominee, the whole scheme of warfare is expected to have been mapped out in detail.

One of the important questions to be taken up is the speaking part Mr. Bryan is to play in the campaign. Some of the officials of the national committee are opposed to any extensive tour of the sort made four and eight years ago, but it rests with Mr. Bryan to decide. Another subject which will come in for full discussion is the money question—how to raise cash for the campaign. The campaign in the East will also claim attention from the nominee and it was for the purpose of taking up this subject that Senator Culberson of Texas, as head of the advisory committee, was summoned to the conference by Chairman Mack.

Among other party chiefs, who came to town yesterday to meet Mr. Bryan, were Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota, Governor Malcolm Patterson of Tennessee and John E. Lamb of Indiana. John W. Kern, vice presidential nominee, also was in the city yesterday, but he hastened on to Indianapolis to prepare for the ceremonies next Tuesday.

Men Past Sixty In Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Sold by all druggists."

Central Business College

30 East Superior St.
DULUTH, MINN.

A SELECT SCHOOL

To appreciate the advantages of the CENTRAL BUSINESS COLLEGE, it is necessary to know not only the superiority of the instruction and courses of study, but of the equipment of the school and the beautiful quarters occupied. The college is central in location, as its name implies, being just one block EAST of Lake avenue, and it commands a splendid view of Lake Superior and Duluth harbor.

GRADUATES and EMPLOYERS

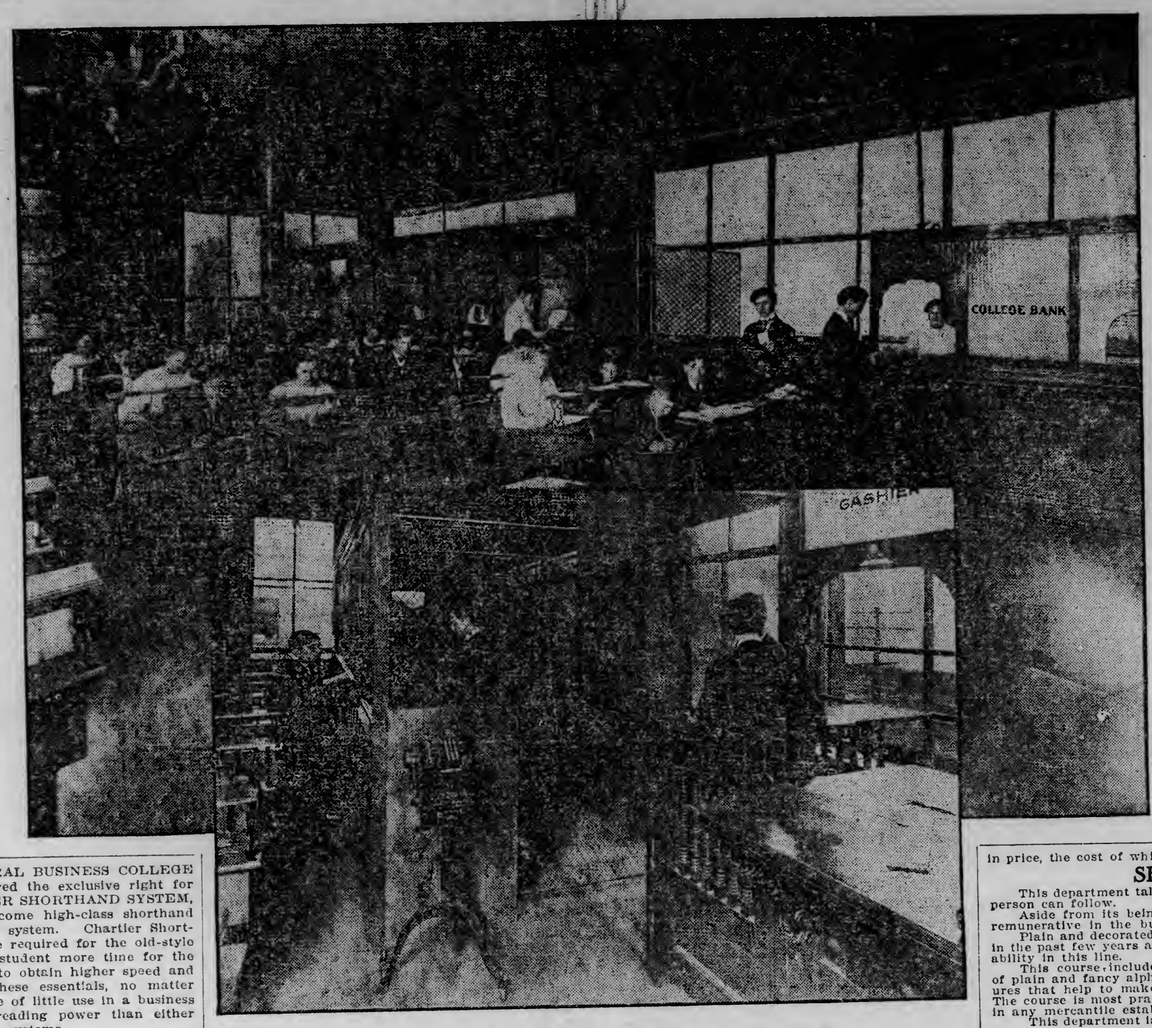
The Central Business College offers as reference hundreds of graduates, and the various individuals, firms and corporations employing them. The employers are the newspapers, railroads, mining companies, insurance, law and real estate offices, mercantile and wholesale houses and manufacturing companies, the banks—and in fact, all the prominent business concerns of the city and vicinity. Consequently, our graduates are today occupying the BEST PAID positions in the city. We have students from various parts of the country—some from distant states—for most of whom we secure positions in the city, although others come only for the preparation, having ing in view positions in their own home towns.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

At a large expense we have installed the most elaborate Actual Business Department in this part of the country. The student has actual business from the start, handling papers, covering all business transactions and making entries in exactly the same kind of books that are used in banks and mercantile houses, using also the latest business apparatus, such as card systems, loose-leaf ledgers, condensed charging devices and Burrough's Adding machines, mimeographs, etc.; he goes through the daily operations of actual business, deals with the bank and various departments of wholesale and commission, railroading, etc., so that he is fitted by actual experience.

SHORTHAND

This feature is one in which the CENTRAL BUSINESS COLLEGE stands supreme over all others. Having secured the exclusive right for this section to use the CELEBRATED CHARTIER SHORTHAND SYSTEM, we are better fitted to prepare students to become high-class shorthand writers, than any other school not teaching the system. Chartier Shorthand can be acquired in less than half the time required for the old-style phonography (Graham or Pitman), giving the student more time for the improvement of penmanship, English, spelling; to obtain higher speed and greater skill on the typewriter—for without these essentials, no matter how one may be as a shorthand writer, they are of little use in a business office. Then Chartier Shorthand has more reading power than either Pitman, Graham, Gregg, or any of the old-line systems.



Sectional View of Actual Business Department.

Term Opens Tuesday, Sept. 1 and Sept. 8.

SHORTHAND—Continued

However, WE WILL TEACH THE GRAHAM OR PITMAN Shorthand to any one demanding it, having expert writers and highly qualified teachers of the Graham shorthand, and consequently as well prepared to teach these systems as any other school.

CHARTIER SHORTHAND meets the demands of the most exacting, which amply refutes the malicious mis-statements of would-be competitors.

TYPEWRITING

In addition to the work outlined above, strong courses are given in Penmanship (Business and Artistic), Commercial Law, Arithmetic, Business English, Business Correspondence, Rapid Calculation, and other minor subjects, without extra charge.

We teach touch typewriting on the standard machines. The student learns to operate the machine without looking at the keys, and becomes as familiar with the keyboard as a piano player. This work is in charge of Miss Ida Saltwick, who is an expert touch operator.

OFFICE PRACTICE

The student is given thorough drill in all necessary office routine, such as mimeographing, letter press copying, indexing business letters, practical filing of business letters and papers, and all the thousand and one things one must know in filling an office position, either as bookkeeper or stenographer, concluding with actual work in our business office.

COST OF TUITION

(Either Course—Business or Stenography.)

DAY SCHOOL.

Six months	$50.00
Nine months	70.00
Twelve months	90.00
By the month	10.00

NIGHT SCHOOL.

Six months	$25.00
By the month	5.00

Text books, blank books, ink, pens, paper, and all items of stationery required to pursue either course of study, have been carefully selected and are the best in the market and kept in stock at the college.

The books and stationery are very reasonable in price, the cost of which depends upon the course pursued.

SHOW CARD WRITING

This department takes up one of the most practical courses that any young person can follow.

Aside from its being a most interesting occupation, it is one of the most remunerative in the business world today.

Plain and decorated show cards have become a necessity to every business in the past few years and there is no end of opportunities for the person with ability in this line.

This course includes instruction in the making of many different styles of plain and fancy alphabets, borders, scrolls and other small decorative features that help to make show cards attractive, using both pens and brushes. The course is most practical, and is intended to prepare the student for work in any mercantile establishment.

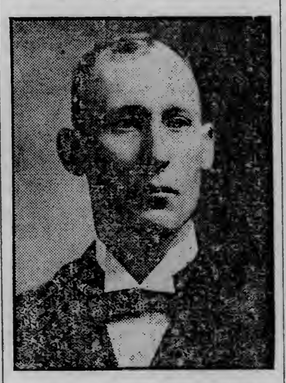
For Judge of Probate



JUDGE J. B. MIDDLECOFF.

I have filed for renom'nation for the office of Probate Judge, and again a k the voters of St. Louis county for their votes and support at the primaries on Sept. 15th.

I cannot see every voter personally during the campaign, but wish to thank you for your support in the past and assure you that if I am re-elected I will give to the office all of my time and careful consideration, the same as I have always done, and see that all business receives prompt and careful attention.

BIG GAIN IN VALUATION.

Red Lake County Shows Large Increase This Year.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of equalization for Red Lake county completed its labors today after a short session. No important appeals were presented to the board from the town and city assessments. The valuation of the real property is placed at $3,468,000, and the personal at $843,000, making a total of $4,311,000, an increase of about $1,100,000 over that of two years ago. Of this amount the city of Thief River Falls owns real property valued at $550,000 and personal of the value of $247,000. The real property of Red Lake Falls, the county seat town, is placed at $192,000.

The pronounced increase in the valuation of the property of the county is accounted for by the rapid development and improvement of the farming lands and by the final proofs on homesteads taken some four years ago on the Red Lake reservation.

BOX FACTORY TO SOON BE READY

Walker's New Industry Will be Running in Sixty Days.

Walker, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the new box factory is under way and within the next sixty days it is expected that the industry will be employing about fifty people. The building is to be a three story structure, and is being erected by L. Sushansky of the Twin City Box company. Several acres of ground for a site was given the factory by the Walker Commercial club association.

The association has also donated a site for a $20,000 beet factory, which is to be built here in the early spring. It also turned over several acres to the Leech Lake Lumber company which operates a sawmill here. The Commercial controls about 100 acres of desirable land for factory site purposes, with lake shore frontage and access to two railway lines.

JACK FROST IS BUSY.

Late Wheat and Barley Near Crookston Damaged.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Farmers report considerable damage done to late wheat, barley and flax by a heavy frost which was noticeable in many places, but which was not general. East of the city it damaged late grain badly, and killed all tender garden stuff. Practically all the wheat, however, was beyond damage, but there will be considerable barley damaged, and the corn was hit in spots.

The threshing returns continue excellent. One farmer near Shelly threshed a field that yielded twelve bushels per acre, the wheat testing sixty-one pounds per bushel, right from the machine, when an average test is fifty-eight pounds after it has been screened.

Mrs. Romadka Not Dying.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 22.—Attorney Maurice McKenna received a telegram from Warden Murphy of the Joliet penitentiary branding the widely published story that Mrs. Evelyn Caine Romadka of Milwaukee, the most noted female inmate of that institution, was dying, as a canard of the worst description. Mr. Murphy added that, on the contrary, she was enjoying good health.

AT THE LYCEUM

Mack-Leone Players Will Present "The Middleman" During Their Last Week Here---"Salome" Dance Will Be Seen Here.

The Mack-Leone players, who have had such a phenomenal run all summer at the Lyceum, will bid farewell to Duluth next week. As a farewell bill, Mr. Mack could have made no better choice of a bill than Henry Arthur Jones' "The Middleman," which was played by E. S. Willard, the famous English character actor, and brought him both fame and fortune.

Those who have seen Mr. Quigley's excellent performances are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to his portrayal of Cyrus Blencarn, the lovable old pottery maker. Mr. Mack will again be seen in the cast, playing the role of Julian Chandler.

"The Middleman" will be one of the heaviest productions that this company has ever put on. The third act is the most elaborate ever staged, showing the pottery kilns in full operation, and Cyrus Blencarn, who is alone and starving, without fuel to keep his furnaces going, and finally, in desperation, breaking up chairs and tables, and in one of the most dramatic scenes ever seen on the stage, when he discovers the great secret of making china that will stand the test of fire.

Miss Holmes will play the role of Mary Blencarn, the old man's daughter. As there are several very eccentric character parts in the play, which will be played by Messrs. Patton, Farnum, Joyner and Lennon, the comedy element will not be lacking. The other members of the company will all be cast in good parts, and no doubt the farewell week of this splendid organization will be the banner one both from an artistic and financial standpoint.

THE "SALOME" DANCE

Will be Seen at the Lyceum Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

Fickle New York, like London has gone "Salome" mad.

Every New York theatrical manager has requested his European representative to look for "Salome" dancers. So great has been the demand of those capable of doing this oriental wiggle, that fabulous prices have been given to secure their services. Duluth will be one of the first cities after New York to see the "Salome" dance. So great is the craze to see this fantastic series of evolutions, that it has been incorporated into "Coming Thro' The Rye" the big musical show that is booked for three performances at the Lyceum theater, Monday and Tuesday, matinee and evening, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

Miss Maud Allen was the first one to set old London agog. La Sylph first set the pace in New York followed closely by Miss Margaret Taylor, who will be the first one seen in this city in this difficult bit of terischorean activity. Others, who are now doing it in New York, include Gertrude Hoffman, Lotta Faust, and now Eva Tanquay has the fever and is giving an imitation of the vision of "Salome" in her vaudeville sketch.

As soon as Miss Taylor arrived in New York from London, she signed a forty weeks' contract with Mr. Rork, manager of "Coming Thro' The Rye"

The story of "Salome's" dance is not a mirthful one, as every one knows. Salome was the daughter of the wife of King Herod. On a feast day she was asked to dance before the king. So pleased was he that he offered her the choice of any gift within his power. Having no personal wish she consulted her mother. The royal lady commanded her to ask for the head of John the Baptist, who wass lying in prison for no other reason than for preaching the gospel. Herod expostulated, but his royal word was given and he kept it, although unwillingly. Salome was in turn pleased to gratify her mother's wishes, although she scarcely understood the gravity of her demand.

However, when the head of John The Baptist was brought into her on a silver tray, she was seized with terror and remorse, that she fainted with horror at the sight of the dead eyes, which seemed to follow her in all her movements.

It is this tragic picture that has set the two greatest cities in the world wild with excitement. It attracts by its gruesomeness as well as its grace and beauty of motion.

This city has long been waiting for The Merry Widow waltz and will have to wait longer before the Viennese dance is seen. But it is getting the "Salome" dance in its early tages, by one who understands the art.

JAY QUIGLEY,
As Cyrus Blenkam in "The Middleman."

AT THE BIJOU

Hugh Emmett and Company and the European Globe Rollers Are the Features for the Coming Week in Vaudeville.

A well balanced bill of vaudeville will be offered for next week. On the program are several well known acts and a good show is promised.

The Les Durand trio of high class character vocalists will be heard in a number of grand opera as well as light comic opera selections. This act is considered to be one of the best singling acts before the public and promises to be an exceptional musical treat.

A lively comedy act will be given by "The Kramers," a trio of women artists, who have a comedy skit that is a continuous laugh from start to finish, entitled "The Flap Jack Gal From the West," introducing Maudie Kramer, who is recognized as one of the best buck dancers in America.

A good novelty will be presented by Hugh Emmett and company in a musical and ventriloquial entertainment. This act is different from all other ventriloquist acts and the musical numbers offered are excellent.

"The Man Who Makes You Laugh," Al Coleman, the clever dialect comedian, will be on hand with fifteen minutes of good wholesome comedy, introducing his original songs and parodies. As an added feature the Yllerom sisters, European novelty artists, will present their sensational gymnastic feats upon the rolling globes.

Isadore Silver will sing "Dreaming of the U. S. A."

Matinees are given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either 'phone. Performances are given Sunday afternoon and night.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

New York, Aug. 22.—The simple fact alone, that William Faversham, in his new play, "The World and His Wife," with which he will inaugurate his next starring tour in a few weeks, will offer a character interpretation wholly different from any role which he heretofore has popularized with playgoers is of itself sufficient to invest the announcement with more than ordinary interest. In fact, it is bound to command unusual public attention when that verile and versatile young actor shall be seen next month in Charles Frederick Nirdlinger's version of Jose Echeragay's very human dramatic tale, "El Gran Galeoto."

Several ambitious literary dilletante and even purposeful playwrights, have from time to time attempted dramatization of this palpitating classic of the Spanish Shakespeare since first its lines were penned, perhaps twenty-five years ago, but it still remained for Mr. Nirdlinger, with a fine felicity and a prescience born of a thorough acquaintance with the theater and theatergoer of America, to achieve a finished adaptation of the original, which though free and bread, not only preserved all the fire and action of the author's intention to an absorbing degree, but furnishes for the splendid Faversham histrionism a vehicle such as even that conscientious player has not enjoyed in years. And yet the record seems to show only three performances in public of this remarkable story, the last and best of which goes to the credit of William Faversham. The first two presentations were of a version, or rather a close translation by Maude Banks made in 1898 and were in the nature of a new independent theater experiment that died a-horning. The Nirdlinger-Faversham presentation was not a translation, but proved to be a really brilliant adaptation in which all the fundamentals and narrative essentials are preserved, consequently it scored as the only successful effort to transplant this vital drama to our stage, when at a special matinee performance given for charity, in Boston, in February last, it won such instant and unqualified success that whatever small doubts Mr. Faversham may have had regarding his initial judgment of selection, they were forever effaced.

It was William Archer, famous English reviewer, who, in 1897, first "discovered" Echeraray as the author of between fifty and sixty plays, the best of which in the order of the excellence he named as "The Great Galeoto," "Folly or Saintliness," "The Son of Don Juan" and "Mariana," all of them dramas of modern life. Speaking of "The Great Galeoto" and its author, another widely known writer said:

"It is full of those salient and admirable qualities that give him a high place in his craft, for he is facile, voluminous and sanguine, and he is so essentially, thoroughly Southern that he makes Daudet and Paoli Ferrari appear staid and cold-blooded by contrast. He works by instinct rather than by reflection, and shows himself a master of all the essential elements of dramatics— character, passion, situation." Again, it has been said, "The World and His Wife" is Othello and Desdemona over again; Paula and Francesca without the sin of the Italian lovers; for it portrays the wreck of lives through idle, wanton gossip, cruel suspicion and hatred envy. There is no preparatory introduction of "The World and His Wife," no dawdling of situation, no perfunctory explanation, for the play seizes the spectator with a heart-grip at the very rise of the curtain and yet the great climax when it arrives is as unexpected as it is poignant with dramatic power and affording as it does to Mr. Faversham the finest opportunity to distinguish himself that he has had since he played the part of the prince in "Aristocracy" many years ago.

When Robert Edeson opens his season at the Hudson theater on Aug. 24, one of the finest casts gathered together in some time will be in support of the star. "The Call of the North," which is believed to be the strongest article in which Mr. Edeson has ever appeared, has induced Henry B. Harris to engage for Mr. Edeson a cast of equal importance. Their names are a sufficient guarantee for a performance of the excellence. The players include De Witt Jenkins, Robert Peyton Carter, Francis Byrne, David Torrence, Grant Mitchell, Thomas McGrath, Macy Harlam and Burke Clarke, Miss Majorie Wood, Miss Olive Oliver, Miss Beatrice Prentice and Miss Helen Dahl.

Here's a bit of neighborly badinage related by Rose Stahl at a dinner party not long ago in London:

"Good afternoon," said Mrs. Nagg, with icy politeness, to her next door neighbor. "Would you mind not looking out when my visitors are passing? It makes the place look vulgar."

"Thought they were brokers' men," replied Mrs. Snapp, pleasantly. "You and your sister, or charwoman, or whatever she is, are not the kind that men visitors run after much, are you?"

"Better than some people whose 'usbins have run away from them," observed her neighbor.

"What do you mean, ma'am?"

"I name no names; their 'usbins may be in prison or they may not. 'Ave you seen my doormat, bye the bye? I missed it yesterday."

"When I become a thief, ma'am, I'll steal something that's clean."

"Well, I must go," said Mrs. Nagg cordially. "I wish I could stop, but I've got to call on a lady."

"And so, of course, you feel awkward. Going to ask for a place as cook, perhaps? Well, I shan't keep you, ma'am. Good evening!"

George Ade, the author, farmer and playwright, recently entertained at the Knickerbocker hotel, in New York, an old neighbor from Indiana, the state that is famous for its corn as well as for its literary product. The guest found deep satisfaction in every dish that was set upon the table, but he was amazed to observe that his host was entirely engrossed in a huge platter of boiled sweet corn, in which the rest of his dinner was served only as a sort of relish. Ear after ear of the corn was turned adroitly beneath the author's teeth, and the countryman gradually forgot his own appetite in gazing at the process.

"George," he finally blurted out, not being able to conceal his curiosity any longer, "I wish you would tell me in confidence what it costs you to board here."

"Oh, a matter of $7 a day," replied Ade, picking up a fresh ear of corn as a substitute for another mutilated cob. "Now, don't you think, George," the former asked shrewdly, "that you could get a good deal more reasonable rates at a livery stable?"

Wallace Munro announces that Louis James will, in his coming presentation of "Peer Gynt," retain all the features of the Richard Mansfield production, and in addition introduce several innovations that will not quicken the action of the comedy, but lend additional atmosphere to this fantastic classic.

In the Morocco scene a ballet of sixteen coryphees will execute the "Hourl" dance, and a special feature will be made of the "Anitra" dance.

A select orchestra will be carried to render the twenty-one musical numbers incidental to the comedy, which includes the Peer Gynt suite by Grieg.

The season will be inaugurated at the Tulane theater, New Orleans, on Sept. 20.

Miss Kitty Cheatham of Nashville, Tenn., has been received with such favor in Paris this summer that she will go back there for a long season next year. She appeared with Coquelin (Aine) on June 30 in recital and has enjoyed the high favor of that gifted man. Miss Cheatham's real negro melodies must come as a pleasant surprise to Paris, where ragtime importations have been doing duty as representative of this nation. Miss Cheatham sailed for New York on Aug. 11.

Margaret Wycherley will appear this coming season under the management of Alfred R. Aarons and John P. Slocum as the star in a drama of modern life by Stanislaus Stange and Bayard Veller, entitled "Her Other Self." Besides this production, during her New York season she will give special matinees. She has in preparation Isben's 'The Lady From the Sea," two pieces by Strindberg, Yeats' new poetic tragedy "Dierdre," and Singe's 'Riders to the Sea." Miss Wycherley expects to make her first London appearance early in June. In addition to the pieces named, the managers who are to continue to direct Miss Wycherley's affairs for the next five years, have obtained options on plays by Mr. Stange, Channing Pollock and Jules Eckert Goodman.

Morris Gest arrived in New York last week and made the announcement that Miss Hoffman, upon the completion of her engagement at the Victoria, would immediately begin preparations for a season of bookings under his direction, playing all the big cities, East and West, with the support of a big vaudeville aggregation, with the Salome dance as the feature. A number of special matinee performances will be given at the big theaters, in which other material will be introduced as well as the sensational dance.

Maxine Elliott has engaged Julian L'Estrange, a young actor of the romantic school, for her forthcoming autumn season. He is the husband of Constance Collier, who is shortly to appear in New York in William Gillette's version of Henry Bernstein's "Samson."

James Neill, whose stock company is playing a summer engagement in St. Paul, signed a contract to take players from the United States to South Africa for an extended engagement. The company will leave New York Sept. 5, and will go to Buenos Ayres, Rio Janeiro, Rosario.

It is not generally known that the proper name given of the great Dutch explorer, Hudson, was spelled H-e-n-r-y rather than H-e-n-r-i-k. A new drop curtain for the Hudson theater bears the name of Henry Hudson, and the painter, Joseph A. Physioc, who is an authority on early New York history, states that Hudson, although sailing under the Dutch flag, was an English citizen by both birth and name.

The New York theater-goers are to have a look behind the scenes. They are going to be shown how to make up, how wigs and costumes are made, where the calcium comes from, and how it follows the star from the wings to the center of the stage and stay there steadily, how scenery is painted and "props" are made, how a theatrical agency is conducted—In fact, all of the tricks of the trade. All this is to be accomplished at an exposition of the arts and crafts of the theater, which Lee Shubert intends to organize for the summer of 1910, and which will be held in the Madison Square Garden.

It was learned that as soon as the early autumn productions of the firm are made Mr. Shubert will leave for Europe. He will combine business and pleasure on the trip. The first exposition of theatrical arts and crafts will be held in Munich next summer under the auspices of German managers. Mr. Shubert was requested to send an exhibit, and has promised to do so. Believing such an exibition would increase public interest in matters theatrical, he decided to arrange a similar exposition here. He plans to enlist the aid of his fellow members of the New York Theatrical Managers' association.

With the arrival of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, came George C. Tyler, the executive head of Liebler & Company, and a satchel full of new plays that will be given American presentation as soon as the theatrical season is well under way. Mr. Tyler returns after an absence of four months, a considerable portion of which was spent upon the African desert, and his first work will be the launching afresh of the Booth Tarkington-Harry Leon Wilson play, "The Man From Home," at the Astor theater.

A most important acquisition abroad, Mr. Tyler believes, is the new play he has secured from Cleveland Moffat, a title for which has not yet been found, but which will be given an immediate production, opening in the early part of September. From the description of the play it is a class problem, treated from an entirely new viewpoint, and bearing a central theme that is hinged upon the axiom that brains will achieve results in any environment. Mr. Moffat has treated his idea from an angle that will entail unusual interest, owing to the bizarre conditions that surround the central figure.

Other plays are "The Melting Pot," a new drama by Israel Zangwill, which has for its paramount character the figure of a young Russian Hebrew student, and musician, who comes to America immediately after the massacre of his family at Kischeneff. There is also a new play by C. M. S. McLellan, the author of "Leah Kleschna," to which has been given the title, "A Matter of Money." Its locale is Pennsylvania, and it deals with conditions surrounding one of the greatest trusts in the world. This play will also have an early production.

One of the chief causes of Mr. Tyler's early return has been the necessity for arranging for a theater for the New York presentation of Arnold Daly, in "The Regeneration," which achieved success in Chicago last year. Mr. Daly arrived Sunday on La Bretagne.

Mr. Tyler has arranged for a September production of Viola Allen's new play that has been written for her by Eugene Walter, and this will, in all likelihood, occur about the middle of the month in New York.

The arrangements for Eleanor Robson's season are most extensive, and include a new play by F. Marion Crawford, to be called "The Nun," a new vehicle by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, to which has been given the title "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," and one or two others that have not as yet been named. Miss Robson is to remain abroad until quite late in the season, in an endeavor to recover her health, which broke under the strain of last year's arduous season. She is at present resident with her mother, Mrs. Madge Carr Cook, in the Isle of Wight. Mrs. Cook will shortly resume her English provincial tour, in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and will return to America in November to appear in a new play that is now being prepared for her.

Nat C. Goodwin will open early in October in Chicago in "Cameo Kirby," by Messrs. Tarkington and Wilson, and Dustin Farnum will shortly go on tour in "The Squaw Man." Mr. Tyler has also with him a massive Biblical play that will probably see a production about the first of the year.

The annual big production at the Hippodrome this season will be called "The Battle in the Clouds." Airships will, of course, be the feature of the spectacle. The other part of the exhibition will be called "Sporting Days," and will be divided into three parts. The first will illustrate a baseball game between two college teams, the second will show a rowing race between two university eights and the third will present a horse race. The big ballet this year will be a third ballet, every specimen of the feathery kingdom to be represented. As usual, the musical score will be furnished by Manuel Klein.

Frank Daniels, the irresistible, has come under the Frohman wing, who will henceforth permit him with the surname Charles to assume his managerial responsibilities. The first thing Mr. Daniels will do is to familiarize himself with the role of Mr. Hook in the musical comedy, "Hook of Holland." Originally it was known as "Miss Hook of Holland," but the Miss has been dropped now that a male star is to be featured.

Reports from Australia tell of the successful appearance there of Margaret Anglin, whose reception has been the most cordial. She opened an eight weeks' engagement at Sydney in "The Thief," her supporting company including Henry Kilker, George and Dion Titheradge, Sydney Sterling and Susie Vaughan. She is also booked for eight weeks at Melbourne, two at Adelaide and several shorter visits, returning to Sydney in November for another month.

"Mrs. Dot," one of the several successes of Somerset Maugham, now current in London, has been secured by Frohman for Maude Adams' use. It will be made her principal new offering of the season. Miss Adams has been watching the play's progress during her stay in London.

A poetical terpsichorean delineation of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" is the style of the newest classic dance Miss Gertrude Hoffman is to bestow upon the American public. It has been done by Maud Allan with great success in Europe.

The opera in which Grace Van Studdeford will star this year is called "The Second Fiddle." It is based on the play of the same name, in which Louis Mann starred several years ago. The music is by Reginald de Koven. Louis Harrison and Louis Cassavant are among the members of the cast.

There are said to be twenty-three Salomes in training for the coming season, an indication that the burlesque theaters will have plenty of dancing this winter.

Edward Fitzgerald Foy, better known as Eddie Foy, has begun rehearsals on the new vehicle in which he will be seen during the coming season, entitled, "Mr. Hamlet on Broadway." Mr. Foy intends to appear in the traditional black costume of the prince of Denmark, having discarded the red dress, which he wore at Brighton Beach some weeks ago. He has also obtained the consent of his management, the Messrs. Shubert, to introduce a specialty, in which he will be surrounded by twelve grave diggers, doing a slow waltz with a pick and shovel, re-enforced later on by ten Ophelias, gliding slowly around to the tune of the "Merry Widow."

During the absence of Frank Losee from the cast of "The Rose of the Racho" last season, the part of the "Padre" was played by the stage manager, Oscar Eagle, in such a manner that David Belasco made Mr. Eagle a tempting offer to relinquish stage management and the production of plays for a season, and has engaged him to play the part of the Indiana politician, Judge Andrews, in "A Grand Army Man," in support of David Warfield.

Suderman's "Blumenboot" has been translated into English and is to be produced in this country. The American public will then have the opportunity of becoming acquainted with one of the most involved moral studies the contemporaneous stage has to offer.

NEW YORK IS SALOME MAD

The New Craze Crowds Out "The Merry Widow"—Forty-Five Salome Dancers Are Billed in Different Places of Amusement.

New York, Aug. 22.—New York loves its nine days' wonder. It may be the trial of Nan Patterson or Harry Thaw. It may be the appearance of Elinor Glyn. It may be the arrest of Caruso or a war between grand opera impresor a war between grand opera impresarios. New York positively howls for novelty, and the newest sensation is sure of a hearing, but it must eclipse the one just ended. It is now the Salome dance. What a lure of fascination comes with the name. It suggests that far, wild, indefinite period, when men were neither men nor beasts, but lay like animals at the feet of Venus.

The last days of the decadent Roman empire which were even far more decadent in the Eastern countries, are brought to mind. Degeneracy reigned, and lust was prince consort. Life was very different then, and the artist who would paint a description of it would need to dip his brush in blood and paint on flesh.

This was the period of Salome. The dance itself differs but little from the usual Oriental dance which has been seen time and again in "The Streets of Cairo" of every world's fair and in nearly every street carnival company displaying an Oriental theater. It is not new. It is a graceful undulation of certain muscles of the lower body, followed by a series of contortions that are quite wonderful in a physical way, but entirely unattractive from any other point of art.

It is the environment given the dance which makes it a great success. New Yorok is Salome mad. Every roof garden show has its star. Every summer theater has its salome dance. At last accounts there were forty-five Salome dancers billed in different places of amusement from the bowery music hall to the Aerial roof garden. Every little theater hos its unheralded Salome, and every big one has its premier. George Cohan is introducing Julian Eltinge, the female impersonator, in a burlesque of the Salome dance which is said to be the cleverest act in New York. Instead of receiving the head of John the Baptist on a silver platter he nightly receives the head of William Taft and then the head of William J. Bryan. Grewsome, it is true, but ridiculous in another sense, when compared with the real tragic purpose of the Salome dance.

Maude Allen in London, varies her Salome dance with other beautiful creations of her own, but in New York it is all Salome and nothing else, and "The Merry Widow" is forgotten. There is Maude Hoffman, one of the cleverest women in vaudeville, doing her version which is said to be the most beautifully staged dance ever seen in New York. Eva Tanguay does a Salome dance, which, however, is very much Tanguay; Mlle Dazie, who created the dance for Herr Conried when he first produced the Oscar Strauss opera of the same name, is also a great success. The general public did not know at this time that it was Mlle Dazie who danced and not Olive Fremstad. No singer could preserve sufficient breath to sing the last difficult scene of the opera and execute this dance of the seven veils at the same time and a substitution is made in order that the singer may reserve her strength. It was not Mme. Fremstad who danced, but the clever French premier, who is now dancing the seven veils on Broadway. La Sylphie, Bessie DeVoe, Lotta Faust and numerous other dancing stars are in the limelight with a Salome dance, and dancers who are not familiar with the Oriental dance are takink daily exercise with the view of adding it, for every musical comedy company of the coming season, of great or small importance, will feature its Salome dance.

Only a fleeting idea of the real meaning of the dance is entertained by any of the thousands who see and shudder. The Bible says: "But when Herod's birthday was kept the daughter of Herodius danced before them and pleased Herod. Whereupon he promised, with an oath, to give her whatsoever she would ask. And she said, Give me John Baptist's head on a charger."

Oscar Wilde, a degenerate dramatist, wrote the play "Salome," and it shocked Berlin. After Berlin and Vienna had been sufficiently shocked at the sheer brutality of the concluding scene, Oscar Strauss, a degenerate composer, adapted the play to the operatic stage. His music at times is said to be exquisite, but the music which precedes and accompanies the dance before Herod is as degenerate, as lustful and as sensuous as the subject itself. When the bloody head of John the Baptist is pushed up through a cistern, in which he was slain, on a silver charger, the crisis is revolting. Clasping the head in her arms, Salome comes to the footlights and kisses the bloody lips, protesting all the time against the bitterness of the kisses.

This is carried out in the dance now shocking and fascinating New York. The stage is subdued in moonlight. The dancers do not wear as many clothes as the law should require and are bare-legged up to the knee. A long skirt, reaching the ankles and covered with spangles, constitutes the principal garment of the danceer, but only those close to the stage can tell the difference because of the dim blue light which floods the garden in which the dance is executed.

The season is one of dancing. In London Isadora Duncan in her Greek classic dances and Maude Allen in her nature dances have both appeared before the king and established a vogue which is finding many imitators. Both are American girls, and for this reason will find many English rivals in time. In New York both dancers are booked during the winter season. It is a season for Terpsichore rather than for Thespis.

History has no record of the origin of dancing, nor has the theater. Neither is the time, country, race or tribe alluded to which did not have its votaries of the nimble foot. Through the mountain mists of ancient traditions that rise from ashes of far more ancient myths and creeds of buried civilizations and from the earliest written record of the human family down to ahe present time of the Mendlesohn and Salome dances the history of dancing runs in an unbroken chain, ever maintaining a close resemblance in character to the genius of mankind.

The primitive dance, like primitive music, which it undoubtedly preceded, was of the crudest and simplest action. The early man, deficient in language, but swayed by various emotions, evidently sought in pantomime the means of expressing them. Sound and action came next, and gradually the supreme law of the universe, harmony, brought about a concordance of sound and motion, and the dance was born.

As language and music developed so did the dance, and it has varied as they have varied in the different tribes of men. At first it was simply the expression of strong emotions. Passion became a keynote, and passion is the keynote of the Salome dance today. In its second stages dancing became a combination of graceful movements which were meant by the dancers to vividly represent mental states. In one or the other of these forms dancing has been known to all nations, and it has been and still is the surest index of their character. Like language, dancing is ever changing, but the principles which underlie it never change. It is the handmaid of the race, taking whatever form the public may demand, but absolutely certain to betray the true mental and moral condition of those whom it serves.

New York has been growing degenerate in the matter of its entertainments. New York is badly in need of a censor in its theaters. Not only is the lack of moral purpose shown in its amusements, but it leans to newspapers pandering to the degenerate instincts. The present furore created by the Salome dance is in no measure a surprise after what has happened before.

New York in explanation says this all illustrates the broadening of ideas and the spread of culture, and that the dance of death with which witches met their end in the days of John Endicott and Governor Winthrop has developed into a dance of love. There was a time when people of the theater thought they knew all about the dance. We thought we knew what Terpsichore could do, and were confident that Fanny Elssler, Bonfanti, the Black Crook and the successors thereof, comprised the whole secret of the matter. Dancing then appertained to the sphere of the legs; the more leg the more dance; the loftier of the kick the higher the art. Our elders sat in the front row and our youth congregated at the stage door. It was magnificent, but withal, we were not entirely satisfied. The human soul is infinite, whereas tights and gauze skirts have their limitations. No proportion could be established between the component elements of the problem. To stand on one toe, to walk on two—these were indeed achievements; but men cannot live on toes alone. Vaguely we surmised at that time, even though we did not dream of the Salome dance, that our development was arrested. A pensive sadness has haunted New York ever since when the matter of dancing was introduced into the theater. The question was continually propounded, "Was it thus that Jepthah's daughter advanced to meet her father with cymbals and songs? Was it by arts like this that Salome juggled the head of John the Baptist from nis shoulders? What meant these legends of Nautch girls and Arabian Nights. Critics were racked by historic doubts and by misgivings as to human nature. Were men of early times so different from ourselves or was the difference in the women who danced before them, and if so, when the difference?"

When the apple is fully ripe it falls: when the chrysalis is mature it bursts and behold the butterfly. Tights and gauze have done their work. New York has awakened to its oriental dispensation. There is no longer any mystery. Theater-goers know now how John the Baptist lost his head. There is no longer a doubt how Jepthah's daughter danced with cymbals and songs. The problem has been solved. New York revels in a riot of ancient barbarism, when Degeneracy reigned and Lust was Prince Consort.

"Salome," the opera, was ruled off the New York stage. It was even related that J. P. Morgan, one of the largest stockholders in the Metropolitan opera house, said that he would pay out of his own pocket the cost of the production, rather than have it continue. It was stated then by critics and others interested that music could not clothe its indecency, nor art serve as an excuse for its degeneracy. However, the dance which is one of the essential features of the opera has become popular on both sides of the Atlantic and is crowding theaters everywhere with the best and most discriminating people.

Just a word about the costume, and to describe it a quotation from the dramatic columns of a representative New York newspaper is used. This paper says:

"Miss Hoffman's Salome costume consists specifically of one pair of flesh-colored silk trunks ,reaching from the waist half way to the knees, one skirt of black gauze, gold-embroidered at the bottom and reaching to the ankles, a girdle of pearls and brilliants, breast plate and decoletage of pearls and emeralds, with ropes of pearls, looped to the girdle, and necklace and armlets of brilliants and jade. A diadem and a red wig complete the costume. Neither tights nor sandals are worn, the arms, limbs and torso being entirely bare."

It is really the story as told by Oscar Wilde which offends most in the opera, for Strauss has written a remarkable score. The play was presented by Madam Bernhardt in Paris and was ordered discontinued by the French censor. The same was true when an effort was made to present it in London. It was withdrawn in New York, and it is not likely that it will ever be attempted again. The dance came with the closing scene, and the hugging of a bloody head and the kissing of bleeding lips was what made the dance so offensive. In many instances the head feature of the dance is abandoned, and only the seven veils are used. The dance is purely Oriental. There may be art in such evolutions and twists; there is certainly a grotesqueness and vulgarity about it, shocking to any one of refined perceptibilities.

However, New York has set the stamp of popular approval on "Salome," and the public in Memphis and elsewhere may be prepared for an early invasion.

It may be due to the weather that New York's head has turned. The season explains many things. The air in summer in New York becomes contaminated by many different sensuous exhalations. As Ella Wheeler Wilcox explains it is a season of mild madness, and that much ruin is wrought beneath a sunshade. Ususally beginning at Coney Island in the early summer and lasting until late, there is a scarlet mist hanging over its beautiful resorts like a pale reflection of hell fire. At this season the moral fibers of New York deteriorate and grow more flacid under the potency of the dog days. The very witchcraft of prudent obsession seems to possess the managers of the metropolis in the summer time, and when the cool days of October come, with their splendid contributions of dramatic genius, with their new plays and their new stars, this midsummer madness may be forgotten, and "Salome" and her grewsome head and the barbaric splendor which surrounds her dance may be allowed to retire again to the pages of history.

MISS FLORA WILSON,

GRINDS OF THE REHEARSAL

Stage People Work Hardest Before the Public Ever Sees the Play---And They Get No Pay for the Rehearsing.

The friend of the actor slapped him on the shoulder.

"Well, old fellow," he said, "I see that you have landed a good part in a play that's a success. Congratulations."

The actor smiled a stiff, conventional smile.

"Thanks, awfully," he replied. "Of course I'm glad that I have the part and that the play has proved successful; but it will be some weeks before congratulations will be in order, for all of my salary—or at least the greater part of it will have to go for some time toward paying up the various debts which I contracted while I was rehearsing. We don't get paid until the play's put on, you know."

The question arises—why?

Did you ever go into a theater while a rehearsal was on? Try it some time. You will probably go in the late summer time—the latter part of July, for instance. You will find it hot and stuffy and dimly lighted with a kind of ventilation which in reality is not ventilation at all. The chairs will be swathed in the dust covers and everything about the place will present a pathetically forlorn and down at the heel appearance. Seated in a couple of seats from which the coverings have been carelessly tossed will be the manager of the playhouse and his friend who has dropped in. Otherwise the auditorium will be deserted.

On the stage, however, you will see quite a crowd. In front, just back of the footlights—which are not lighted—will be the stage manager instructing his show girls in the various dances which are to be in the play. Though the afternoon is hot, almost to suffocation, they will be going through violent exercise, bending, waving their arms and making gestures. Their faces will be almost purple from their exertions.

"One-two-three. One, two, three!" sings the stage manager to the tune which a rickety piano is sending forth. "One, two, three! Oh, why in the world don't you try, girls! Now, that's no way to do. One, two, three—like this! No, no, no! Can't you count? Oh, stop!"

Over and Over.

There is a sound of cracking fingers as the manager pauses suddenly, his face sodden with anger. The piano player turns around, his eyes sarcastic.

"They can't count," sneers the stage manager. "Do try a little, girls. Now, all ready!" The piano player crashes out a chord and again the dance is started.

At last, almost too tired to totter back to their places in the rear, the girls are allowed time to rest for a few moments, while an installment of "broilers," who have been waiting, come up and take their turn. These are kept at work longer than the show girls, and then the little girls are brought forward to take their turn.

At last the afternoon rehearsal is over. Curt instructions are given to return again that evening, and a wearied lot of chorus girls straggle out of the theater. They have been rehearsing already probably eight hours. The evening will bring it to twelve.

And they don't get a cent while they are rehearsing, though they will be, in a way largely responsible for the success or failure of the show.

The "real" actors and actresses receive no compensation while they are rehearsing their parts. The last week it is possible in many cases for them to get their salaries advanced, but until then they are entirely dependent on themselves.

If they have no homes of their own and are "broke," what do they do? That depends largely on their ingenuity and their faculty for putting off obstreperous landlords and ladies. If they have frields or parents or guardians to whom they can write for money, they are indeed fortunate.

Can't Take a Chance.

"But why are they not paid during rehearsals, when they work ten times harder than they ever do while the play is on?"

This question was put to several of the theatrical managers the other day. They in turn asked "Why?"

"Supposing," said one, "that we should pay these people full salary, or even half salary, while the play is being rehearsed, and that the show should be a failure? What would we get out of it? Not a thing. In addition to all the other losses that we would sustain we would be out the salaries we had paid these people when the people would in reality do us no good. If a show is a failure, it is a failure, and nothing in the world can make it anything but failure. Everybody has to take a chance. When we take a play from the man who has written it, we take another chance, and they take a chance, too. The chorus girls and men know when they come to us just what is to be, and they go into the thing with their eyes open. Therefore, there is no injustice done, even though the plan of procedure may be inconvenient."

It's a good thing that everybody goes into rehearsals with their eyes open, is it not?

DULUTH HAS CHAMPION DEGREE TEAM

Among the local lodge teams that have won considerable renown by efficiency in the exemplification of initiatory work is that of North Star lodge, No. 35, Knights of Pythias.

For several years North Star's team has held the championship of the Northwest, its last victory being wrested from the Minneapolis K. of P. team at a contest in third rank work in the Lyceum theater about two years ago. Since that time no other lodges have disputed the North Star's claim. It is understood that a contest may be arranged in the near future between the local team and the K. of P. team from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., which took the honors at the carnival held by the Copper country K. of P lodges this summer. The contest, if one is arranged, will probably be held in Superior.

North Star's team exemplified the third rank work before the Minnesota grand lodge at Minneapolis this spring, since which time it has had numerous invitations to visit various other lodges of the state for the same purpose.

WHERE GRIEG LIVED.

Visit to Widow of Great Norwegian Composer.

Mrs. Charles Cahler in Indianapolis News: While we were in Bergen we were invited out to luncheon with Madame Grieg. Their home lies out in the country, about a half hour's ride from Bergen and on the banks of a big lake. We were received by Madame Grieg at the station, and after a walk of twenty minutes we came to their charming villa.

As we came to the big gate leading through the garden we were shown a big tree where Grieg always had a sign in four languages, reading, "Mr. Edward Grieg is not at home to any one before 4 p. m." You know he was a sick man, and he was so bothered by tourists that he found it necessary to protect himself that way. Madame Grieg received us in the big living room, which loving friends had fairly filled with blooming plants for her first lonely homecoming, the day before. Naturally she was very sad, but as we were all friends who had known and loved Grieg it was her sad pleasure to see us and to talk of him. She showed us every little detail of the room.

After our coffee we all, with the exception of Madame Grieg, went to visit the little house where Grieg did most of his composing. We had to descend steps and winding walks until at the end of the big garden on the edge of the lake we came to a plain little house consisting of one room, the "holy of holies." Opposite the door was one large window, in front of which stood a plain deal table with a small armchair and a footstool. On the table were his pens and pencils, pot of glue, blotter, paper weight—everything that he used. The whole room had the air of being left only for a short while and of waiting for his return. On each side of the window was a place for a set of shelves, where he kept his scores. By the door was another set of shelves, where were all his manuscripts. I asked if it were not dangerous to leavo his original works so unprotected. I was told that the Norwegian folk are so honest that no one would think of taking them.

As an example of Grieg's humor we were shown a slip of paper on his desk on which he had written the following: "To any one who may enter here: Please take anything that may please your fancy, but kindly leave me my manuscripts, which are of interest to no one but myself." He always left that slip there when he went away. The rest of the furniture of the room consisted of a sofa, two chairs and a little old cracked upright piano that he said was "good enough to compose on."

From there we went across the garden, past the house, where we saw Mme. Greig's face smiling sadly at us out of the window, down to the other side of the water. In the side of a cliff, about fifty feet high, lying about twenty-five feet from the ground, we saw a stone slab, cemented solidly in the cliff, with the inscription, "Edvard Greig." There, looking out over the beautiful lake, in the midst of pine trees, with only nature for his companions, the rough, rugged Norwegian nature that gave him his birth, and whose beauties he made known to the world in his music—there he wished to lie, and there he lies.

Below us, on the edge of the water, were two workmen shovelling broken stone into the water by the landing place. We were told that Grieg wished to be alone there, and that was being done to prevent boats from landing. The slab is about five feet square. Beneath it we hung the wreath, with the American colors, which we took with us. After a half hour or more with Mme. Grieg we walked to the station and took the train to town. As we reided out of the station we saw that lonely little black figure waving a farewell from the platform.

A COUGH CURE.

The brilliant and learned Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton was discussing the church cough.

"In my boyhood there came to Germantown," he said, "a gentle minister who, the very first Sunday of his incumbency, stopped effectually his coughing congregation. It was a congregation, too singularly addicted to coughing. Rattling volleys of coughs ran over it every few minutes. The minister, indeed, that first Sunday, could hardly make himself heard. He had a rather weak voice.

"Well, after his sermon had proceeded for ten or twelve minutes, now audible enough, now drowned under great waves of coughs, he took a resolution; and when the next outbreak was at its height, he eased preaching. At once the coughing ceased. There was a profound silence. The minister smiled.

"'My friends,' said he, 'it seems that when I stop you stop.'

"From that day in that church they coughed no more."

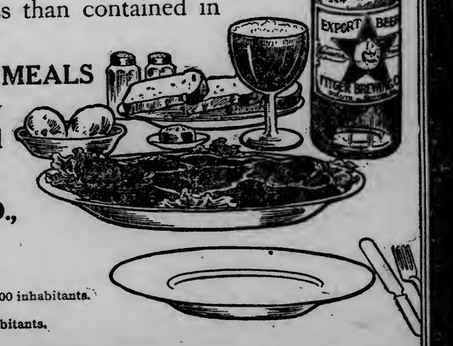
Why Fitger's Beer is good for you

THE delicious, refreshing qualities of Fitger's Beer constitute but a part of its real merit.

It's exceptional food and tonic properties are what make Fitger's the choice of the most fastidious beer drinkers.

Barely Malt makes a food—and Bohemian Hops produce one of the best tonics. Together with the choicest of the above ingredients we use the pure, clear, sparkling water of Lake Superior—proven by tests to be the best adapted to brewing of any in the country.

The percentage of alcohol in Fitger's Beer has been reduced to about 3½%, just enough to be a gentle aid to digestion, and much less than contained in most patent medicines.



DRINK IT WITH YOUR MEALS at home and let your family enjoy its delicious flavor and healthfulness.

ONE MORE TO HIBBING

Brady's Men Hit Opportunely and Win Loosely Played Game.

Great Gilligan is Hit Hard, But Strengthens in Pinches.

A mere thimbleful of shivering fans sat in the chill wind at Athletic park yesterday afternoon and watched Tom Brady's Mooses from Hibbing trim the Sox by the corpulent score of 8 to 5. They put on all the trimmings that go with bush-ball victories, stretched the show out into two hours and gave a good exhibition of baseball at that.

To digress a little from the subject in hand—the man who named the aggregation "The Colts" must have been visiting some of the sightless porkers on the range before he did the deed. The name is a libel on all the laws of consistency. Stand Red Carroll, Big Gilligan, Lefty Booth, Sage, Gilchrist and Kline up in a row—and Calligan and Brookins might be added without stretching the thing—and if any man can discover anything coltish or kittenish about that outfit, the tape measure must be in the ash barrel, the scales out of whack and the lenses turned with the concave side outward.

The team that Duluth trotted out was a mournful memory of the days of yore. Max Cook was in the box, and was shown no mercy by the whales from the Mesaba. Ray Fenton was at short. Koepping sat on the bench and Pratt in the stand, each with a finger swathed in bandages, mute evidence of baseball incapacity. Worst of all, Gilligan had the whole outfit hooked, landed and strung when chances came to put men enough across to win the game. 'Tis no wonder the few faithful fans shed silent tears and let their minds wander to days gone by.

Tom Brady has some ball team. His pitching staff is great, his infield greater, and the outfield good enough to strike an even balance. Best of all, he has a crowd of sluggers that is dangerous to any pitcher any time, and it is no discredit to Cook that he was handled roughly. His support wasn't all that could be desired, but even good support couldn't have saved him, with the Hibbing crowd running in a score nearly every inning and taking the lead every time the Sox threatened to take the game.

It was a queer sort of a game. The Sox scored three in the first, and Hibbing took five innings to tie it up. In the sixth each scored one, and in the seventh the same thing happened. In the eighth Hibbing kept it up by scoring two, and also in the ninth ran one more in, but the Sox had opened their package of hits and strewn them around and they couldn't keep up the pace.

The Sox had several chances to win the game, but the necessary clout—that which comes sometimes, but more often not—when the bases are thickly populated, and the other side leads, wasn't very much in evidence. In the sixth inning they scored but one run on four singles, a stolen base and an error. In the ninth they filled the bases, with two down, but Dick Thorsen, batting for Cook, had lost his home run charm, and the game went aglimmering.

Gilligan didn't show himself to be the wonder his reputation makes him. The Sox gathered twelve hits and he gave five passes, but he was wonderfully strong and the Sox woefully weak when the bases were filled. He won his game—true, he is a great pitcher.

The Sox tore into Gilligan in the first inning like the Thomas cat after the wee, small mouse. Hopkins walked, Mource singled and Ness was safe on an error by Fagin, filling the bases. O'Brien's grounder wasn't sent home in time by Moulhan, and Hopkins registered. Williams hit to left, and two more men scored. The next three men died natural and easy deaths.

Hibbing began an uphill fight and made good. Gilligan held the Sox runless until the sixth, while Hibbing began to get to Cook. In the second, Brookins walked. Gilchrist hit once to Fenton, who tried to make a double. Darby got his hands on the ball, but let it get away and Brookins took third. Fagin hit a fly to Hopkins and he dropped it, Brookins scoring. Hopkins got Gilchrist going to second. The next two men went down. In the third, Gilligan singled and Moynihan went down trying to bunt. Booth hit one to the left field fence and the big pitcher scored from third. The fourth didn't bring anything, but Gilligan was the hero of the proceedings that brought the trying run in the fifth. He reached first on a slow single in the infield and stole second. Moynihan sacrificed him to third and Booth hit to Fenton, who booted the ball, Gilligan scoring.

In the sixth, the game went on the fence and teams see-sawed. Gilchrist single, Fagin's sacrifice and Kline's single brought one for Hibbing in the sixth and the Sox tied it on Thompson's single, a steal, a wild heave by Carroll and Billings' single. Two more singles filled the bases with two out, but Ness rolled one down to Brookins.

An error, a wild pitch and Carroll's single scored for Hibbing in the seventh and the Sox tied it on O'Brien's single, a steal, a sacrifice and Thompson's single. The Hibbing crowd took it home in the eighth. Fagin singled and Calligan hit for three sacks, one hit to Fenton, who heaved the ball over Billings's head in trying to catch the runner at home. In the ninth, Booth's single, a pass to Brookins, Ness' error and Gilchrist's single scored the final run.

The Sox brought out a few thrills in the ninth, but didn't crystalize them into runs. O'Brien opened with a single and Williams popped to Fagin. Darby stole second and Thompson walked. Billings fouled out to Brookins and Murray, who was sent in to bat for Fenton, got a short single, filling the bases. Dick Thorsen was sent into bat for Cook, but he ignominiously fanned and Tom Brady marked up the fourth straight victory.

Mercy, what horrible misfortunes have befallen us!

Many Pitchers Used.

Boston, Aug. 22.—Chicago won an uphill game from Boston yesterday, 8 to 7, each team using three pitchers. The locals seemed to have a commanding lead, but Cicotte was wild and Steele was hit hard. Smith and Altrock were also batted hard and Walsh saved the game for the visitors by good work. Score:

Boston	2 1 2 0 0 1 1 0 0—7	16	1

Batteries—Smith, Altrock, Walsh and W. Sullivan and Shaw; Cicotte, Steele, Burchell and Carrigan. Umpires—O'Laughlin and Hurst.

Browns Win on Errors.

New York, Aug. 22.—Errors at critical times were fatal to the locals' chances in a close game with St. Louis yesterday, the visitors winning 4 to 3. Both Howell and Lake pitched good ball, but the former was steadier and his support better. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 0 0 3 1 0 0 0 0—4	6	2

Batteries—Howell and Stevens; Lake and Blair and Kleinow. Umpire—Connolly.

Tigers Drop Another.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Washington bunched two hits and a base on balls on Willet in the first inning yesterday and defeated Detroit, 3 to 1. Johnson was steady and effective with men on bases. Manager Jennings was put off the field for objecting to Umpire Egan's decision on Milan's steal of third in the first inning. Score:

Naps Lose Hard Game.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—Cleveland played a great uphill game yesterday and tied the score twice, only to be beaten out in the ninth, when Philadelphia scored a run on four singles off Ryan. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cleveland	0 0 0 0 0 1 2 3 1—7	14	2
Philadelphia	0 5 0 0 0 0 1 1 1—8	14	0

Cubs Win On Hitting.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Two of Lindman's passes were turned into runs by clean hitting. Well-placed drives, with a fumble of a hard-hit ball, scored the other three. The visitors found Reulbach rather freely and he retired after two outs in the third. Overall succeeded him and allowed but two safeties. Score:

Maddox Wins Own Game.

Pittsburg, Aug. 22.—Pittsburg won a postponed game from Brooklyn yesterday by a score of 2 to 1. The feature of the game was the batting of Maddox, who brought in both runs for the home team. He also pitched a splendid game. Rucker was strong at critical stages. Score:

DIFFICULT FEAT ACCOMPLISHED

Catcher Street Catches Ball Dropped From Monument.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Charles Street, catcher of the Washington baseball team, yesterday won a bet of $500, made with John Biddle of this city, by performing the unprecedented, though oft-attempted, feat of catching a regulation baseball dropped from the top of the Washington monument. It was necessary to secure a permit from Col. Bromwell, in charge of the monument, before this feat could be undertaken because of the extreme danger involved.

The ball was dropped from one of the small windows near the top of the monument, a height of 550 feet above the ground, and Street caught it on the thirteenth attempt, the failures being due to a rather brisk wind, which deflected the ball in its course. Street was considerably jarred by the impact of the sphere on his big catchers' mitt, but nevertheless caught in yesterday afternoon's American league game in the city.

Paul Hines, Buck Ewing, Charley Snyder and Malachi Kittredge are a few old timers that have tried this feat without succes. The ball, it is estimated, was traveling at the rate of 125 feet per second when it reached the catcher's hands. Street wore a regulation mitt.

THE TWO FASTEST MOTOR BOATS IN THE WORLD

THE CHIP III, OWNED BY SENATOR E. B. HAWKINS OF DULUTH.

Ogdenburg, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Covering the thirty-mile course on Chippewa bay in the fast time of 58 minutes, the motor boat racer Dixie II, owned by E. J. Schroeder of New York, and entered in the name of the Thousand Island Yacht club, yesterday won the second of the series of races for the gold challenge cup, thus putting two races to her credit. As in Thursday's race the Chip III, defender of the cup for the Chippewa Yacht club, was the boat the Dixie had to beat. The Chip kept close to the Dixie and the final was only 7 seconds in the rear. There were four other boats in the race, the Jan finishing third, the Pirate fourth, the Stranger fifth and the Pawnee sixth. The final race will take place this afternoon. The Dixie won the great international cup race at Huntington, L. I., recently and if she comes out victorious in the gold challenge cup races, she will be champion of motor boats.

The Chip III, was built for Senator E. G. Hawkins of Duluth, Minn., and the J. Wainwright estate of Ogdenburg, N. Y., and the fact that she was beaten by the Dixie by only 7 seconds, shows that her owners had good reason for believing that she might be successful in the races. The Dixie II and the Chip III are undoubtedly the two fastest motor boats in the world.

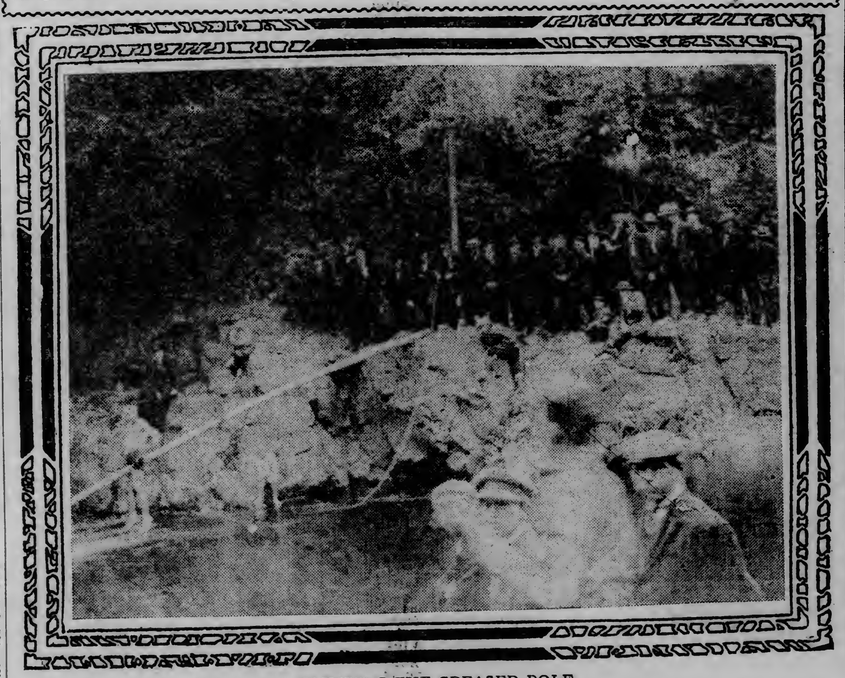
BOYS HAVE SPORT CLIMBING THE GREASED POLE



CLIMBING THE GREASED POLE.

One of the favorite sports at picnics this summer has been the contest on the greasy pole.

The Duluth & Iron Range railroad men had a most exciting contest at their picnic last Saturday. A prize of $5 was given to the boy who could slide down the pole, touch his nose to the end and climb back. The pole was hung over one of the deep pools in the stream and the youngsters enjoyed it as much as the spectators.

SIX "M" MEN TO BE BACK

Minnesota Football Prospects Are Brighter Than Last Year.

Wisconsin and Carlisle Games Will Draw Crowd From Duluth.

The three-year eligibility rule, graduation and scholarship qualifications, leave but six of last year's 'varsity eleven at Minnesota in position to answer "Doc" Williams' call this fall. Prospects, however, are considerably brighter than last year, when Schuknecht, big George Case and Kjelland were the only "M" men who got into the game.

It is rumored that George Capron, the phenomenal drop kicker and back field man, is coming back this fall, and through a cancellation of his registration may be eligible to play. With the exception of touchdowns on Carlisle and Wisconsin, Capron did all of Minnesota's scoring last year, with his wonderful boot, and his return means much to the team. Rademacher, right end; Mohlstad, left guard; Young, left tackle, and Harry Capron, who played left and part of the time, while Chestnut was at quarter last season, will be back and are a fair start toward a line. The right side of the line, with Bandelin and Case out of the game, suffers the heaviest loss. Kjelland, the 152-pound man, who played a brilliant game at center last year, in spite of his diminutive size, is out of the game, but Orren Safford, ex-Duluth high, is counted on to fill the position and will probably captain the bunch.

The sensational suicide of Ney Dunn, at his home in Jackson, early this summer, leaves a big hole in Minnesota's back field. Dunn was a brilliant defensive player, and was placed on the second All-American by several of the sporting writers last fall. His place will be hard to fill. Big John Schuknecht, last year's captain, is out on the three-year rule this fall, though he is still in school. His line plunging and defensive abilities will be missed.

Atkinson, who was ineligible last year, will be one of the leading candidates for quarter this fall, and Coughlan, who played the position last season, will also be back in school. One or two of last year's freshmen did good work in the position last season under Sig Harris' tutelage and they may give the older players a fight for the position.

Minnesota plays the same teams this fall that she did last year. The big games at Minneapolis are Wisconsin on Nov. 7, and Carlisle on Tuesday, Nov. 24. The Chicago game is played on Marshall field, Chicago, this year, and this is Minnesota's only game away from home. It will be played on Oct. 31. Minnesota meets the Cornhuskers from Nebraska on Oct. 17 at Minneapolis, and will probably play Ames on Oct. 10. This is about as early as a Western team can get into shape for a league game, the conference rules declaring that practice shall not begin until Sept. 20.

Last year Minnesota's weakness was a failure to stop the new forward pass play. Williams schooled his men all through the season for this play and they fell down repeatedly when it was worked. Chicago did all the scoring on this play, and even Wisconsin used it with telling effect in the tie game on Randall field. The play is made more difficult of execution this year in the new restriction requiring the man of the passing side who first touches the ball to recover it, and this will limit its use to some extent. Williams has had additional opportunity to study the blocking of the play at its inception, the point where practically all coaches say it must be stopped, and Minnesota enthusiasts hope that the result will be more effective work in this line.

A large number of Duluthians are planning to go down to either the Wisconsin or the Carlisle games, and the management of the high school teams will try to arrange one of its Twin City games, probably that with Minneapolis Central, so as to enable the team and its supporters to see one of the college games on the same trip.

WEST STARS IN BASEBALL

Supremacy of the East Has Vanished in Recent Years.

Leagues Make Money Despite Unsettled Business Conditions.

Supremacy in baseball unquestionably is with the West in distinction from the East this year. With four Western teams occupying the four first division berths in the American league and two Western teams holding first and third places in the National league, not much comfort is left for baseball patrons of the Atlantic slope. Only New York and Philadelphia in the National league retain a foothold for the East among the so-called winning clubs.

It was not so long ago that the East was supreme on the diamond. In the decade preceding the birth of the American league and the subsequent baseball war the lion's share of the honors was monopolized by the Eastern clubs of the major league, and it seemed impossible to break into their strong intrenchments. The baseball war did this by breaking up the powerful combinations got together in Eastern cities and scattering the brainy players over the country.

For three years in the present century Chicago carried off the honors for the West in the old league, while Chicago and Boston were dividing them in the American league. Then the pennants switched to New York and Philadelphia in the East. Following that, came the segregation of all the highest honors in Chicago alone in 1906, and since then both pennants have remained with the West along with the world's championship.

But there has been no such spectacle recently as that presented this year, when the Western clubs hold practically all the desirable positions in both leagues. The result of this gradual change during the last eight years has been a great revival of interest in the national pastime in the West without any serious loss of prestige in the East, where the enthusiasm of former years still is of impelling force.

This widespread interest has spelled prosperity even in a year when business in general has been stagnant. The continuation of this prosperity naturally will necessitate concentrating more playing strength in the East before the West gets palled at winning and the East becomes weary of losing. In the enterprise and hustle of managers lies this remedy. There is no likelihood of another big league war to distribute the playing talent again.

BLATHERWICK IS UNFORTUNATE

Peters Wins Tennis Match at Omaha by Default.

Omaha, Aug. 22.—The finals in the championship tennis singles here proved a disappointment. Dr. Blatherwick, who was opposed to Peters of Chicago, had played two hard matches in doubles before going into the contest. When the first set was ended he was attacked by a nervous stroke which forced him to retire. The set furnished some of the fastest tennis seen during the tournament, in which the two men were on almost equal terms. It is not improbable Blatherwick would have won had he not become faint. A physician attended him and he revived. Peters graciously offered to postpone the deciding sets, but the referee ruled that this was not permissable and gave Peters the match by default. The first and only set played went 8-6, with the points 51-47.

Peters will meet Champion Hayes, also of Chicago, this afternoon. The championship doubles reached the final round, which will be played today by Jones of St. Louis, who is paired with Scribner of Omaha and Blatherwick of Rock Valley, Iowa, and Branson of Mitchell, S. D. The winners of this match will meet Peters and Hayes for the championship. Many of the players are preparing to go to Kansas City for the big tournament in that city next week.

WRIGHT AND CLOTHIER STAR

Eight Men Remain in Tennis Play at Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 22.—Of the great entry list of 145 players who started in the all-comers' tournament on the Casino courts for the right to challenge the present national champion, William A. Larned, only eight remained in the running at the close of yesterday's play. The fifth round was completed and today, in the sixth round, F. B. Alexander of New York will meet F. J. Sulloway of Boston; W. J. Clothier of Philadelphia will play against G. F. Touchard of New York; Nat Emerson of Chicago will be pitted against J. E. Jones of Providence, and Beals C. Wright of Boston will have for his opponent H. Torrance, Jr., of New York. All these men came through their matches yesterday without being called upon to extend themselves greatly, with the exception of Touchard, who fought and won a long up-hill contest against his heavier opponent, H. L. Westfall of New York.

Only the most unexpected upset can prevent the final match from resolving itself into a battle between Wright, who held the national title in 1905, and Clothier, who won the same honor in 1906. Either of these men should give Champion Larned plenty of work to do to retain his title.

Clothier had an easy time in his match in the fifth round yesterday afternoon, disposing of Church, winner of the Columbia interscholastic tournament, in straight sets. Alexander was also opposed to a school boy, Mathey, the Princeton interscholastic winner, and won without difficulty, although Mathey forced the first set to deuce. Emerson won from Nettleton in a four-set match.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bedwetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, South Bend, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

SPORT FOR HORSEMEN

Matinees and Tri-State Meet to be Held This Fall.

Good Entries for Second Matinee of Season Next Week.

Duluth horsemen are looking forward with considerable pleasure to the prospects of good sport in Duluth this fall. A series of matinees and the two days' Tri-State meet will furnish plenty of excitement for the lovers of the harness horse sport and the owners of fast travelers are preparing their steeds for the events.

The second matinee of the season will be held at the West end park next Saturday when there will be three events—a free-for-all, a 2:30 pace and a 2:22 trot. Probable entries for the free-for-all are: Tomango, 2:24¼, owned by C. R. Rust; Kitty D., 2:21¼, owned by Lawrence Duplais, and Ole Boy, 2:10½, owned in Superior.

There will be four starters in the 2:22 trot: Black Chief, 2:21¼, owned by Billy Randall; Alger Audubon, green colt, owned by Elliott & Runquist; Raffles, green colt, owned by Elliott & Runquist, and Luxon, 2:09¼, owned by Peterson Bros. In the 2:30 pace, Badger, owned by Billy Randall; Penline, owned by Elliott & Runquist, and Jerry, owned by C. R. Rust, will start.

The Tri-State circuit meet will be held here Oct. 2 and 3 and will furnish the best racing seen in Duluth in a good many years. The Duluth meet will be the fourth of the series and the horses should be in fine shape by the time they strike here. Sept. 8, 9 and 10 the circuit will hold forth at Rhinelander, Sept. 17 and 18 at Ironwood, Sept. 23 and 24 at Ashland, and after the Duluth races the horses will go to Hibbing for the St. Louis county fair, which will be held the following week.

Each town will offer $1,400 in prizes, making an aggregation of $5,000 on the circuit. The program and purses for each city are as follows:

Rhinelander, Wis., Sept. 8-10.

2:30 pace, 2:25 trot	$300
2:17 pace, 2:13 trot	400
2:24 pace, 2:20 trot	300
Free-for-all	400

Ironwood, Mich., Sept. 17-18.

2:17 pace, 2:13 trot	400
2:24 pace, 2:20 trot	300
Free-for-all	400

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 23 and 24.

2:17 pace, 2:13 trot	400
2:24 pace, 2:20 trot	300
Free-for-all	400

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 2 and 3.

2:30 pace, 2:25 trot	$300
2:17 pace, 2:13 trot	400
Free-for-all	400

The Twin Cities' papers have finally taken up the plan of the Northern league to put teams in the Twin Cities, and form an entirely new league, and they are putting in a much-needed good word for it. "O'Loughlin" of the Minneapolis Journal discusses it favorably and seems inclined to think that it could be made a go.

That has always been contended in Duluth. The circuit the Minneapolis man has in mind would be composed of the Twin Cities, Duluth, Superior, Eau Claire and La Crosse. That sounds very well, but Superior may as well be counted out right now. Unless somebody injects a good big dose of the elixir of life into the baseball blood of the Superior sports, there will be nothing doing, and there's no sense in counting Superior in, as the Northern league magnates did last year, and then have it run away at the last minute and upset all plans.

A good town could be found to take Superior's place in the proposed circuit. Winona and Stillwater both being probabilities. With the Northern league using the St. Paul and Minneapolis American association grounds, when those teams are away, the invasion of the Twin Cities would be simplified. Eau Claire is already out of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and La Crosse is said to be not averse to dropping out, especially when it could get into a more concentrated league. Now that plans are laid so far, it is up to the magnates to get busy immediately and not let the thing drag at all.

In the Twin Cities the word goes that the American association has already secured a park in Chicago, and is ready for the invasion of that city next year. In that event the St. Paul franchise will go to Chicago, and the Western league will hop into St. Paul. That would bring the Northern league, Western league and American association all into the same territory, but good baseball heads would be able to straighten out the muddle, so that all might live.

There is no getting away from the strength of the range clubs, of which Hibbing is a good representative. There are many points, in which they are "bushy" in the extreme, but on the whole, they play good ball and go out to win games.

Brady has a fine aggregation together. His pitching staff is composed of big husky men with smoke to waste and everything else that goes to make good pitching. Red Carroll is one of the headiest backstops seen on the local lot this year. The infield composed of Booth, Fagin, Moynihan and Brookins is fast and sure and with Calligan, Geiselman and one of the pitchers, the outfield is formidable in fielding and hitting.

The Sox are taking a nice trimming from Hibbing, but the fans let out hardly a whimper. They are so accustomed to having the Sox walloped that the point of the spear is blunted. There is some consolation in the fact that they are beaten by a good team. Transplanted leaguers in the bushes can make good ball teams and Duluth fans are fair enough to recognize their ability.

Why cannot it be so arranged that the present day fighters know in what class they are? There was a time when each division was clearly stated and a weight limit put on each class from the bantams to the heavyweights. Today there are so-called lightweights who are really welterweights in the old scale of weights, and "welters" who are really middleweights, and middleweights to prevent argument, who are politely classed as light "heavies." There is something radically wrong in the manner in which promoters of boxing matches arrange the bouts.

There surely should be some limit to the various divisions, and the up-to-date managers and promoters should get together and settle upon a limit weight for the various classes. The managers of clubs can help to bring about this most needed change. The fighters and their managers are only too anxious to let the present "free and easy" way of matching men continue to exist. It gives them an opportunity to haggle over terms and to call for so much more money if their men are required to make a certain weight at the ringside.

Boxing enthusiasts, always willing to pay well for their amusement, are desirous of seeing evenly weighted boys compete. In the present state of affairs a boy who is naturally heavy and trained to the finest point will weigh several pounds less at 3 o'clock in the afternoon than he will at 10 or 11 o'clock at night when he is scheduled to don his fighting clothes. On the other hand, a boy who does not go to flesh may not add an ounce in the intervening hours from the time he has stepped on the scales to the time he climbs into the ring.

This particularly applies to boxers in the bantam, feather and lightweight divisions, and on the face of it is unjust to the boy who does not take on flesh. Ringside weight should be insisted upon. This mode of procedure would also benefit the public, inasmuch as patrons would know at just what weight the boxers were competing, and it would prevent the many one-sided matches that have been seen even in the best clubs of the country.

It surely appears as if a scale of weights should be arranged which would allow one to figure on the best boy in each division. As it stands today, it is a vexing problem to distinguish the various champions.

GREAT FINISH BY GEERS.

Veteran Drives Loyal Under Wire in Sensational Manner at Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Close finishes were in order on the last day of the Grand Circuit at the Hudson River Driving park yesterda yafternoon. The 2:14 trot in the first heat developed the most sensational finish of the week. The Aloma led handily to 100 feet from the wire, when Geers, back of Loyal, made one of his old-time drives and fairly lifted his horse under the wire, winning the heat in 2:10¼, which was a quarter of a second better than his winning time last week. Loyal won the second heat with more to spare, and entered the select 2:10 list by making 2:09¼. Loyal was never in serious danger in the third heat.

The 2:20 trot, although a straight-heat affair, was by no means one-sided. Cereal, the winner, had to fight Nelcyone most of the time and the latter was a fair bidder for the first heat when she broke.

MINNETONKA IS FIRST.

Twin City Boats Capture All Events at Regatta.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 22.—The Inland lake regatta came to a close yesterday afternoon on Lake Minnetonka, Tomahawk, of the Minnetonka Yacht club, winning the class A event. Troubadour of White Bear wins first place in this class, however, as she finished fifth and succeeded in making enough points to land the championship. Butterfly of Minnetonka is the class B champion and Skip, also of Minnetonka, is the winner of the class C series.

A strong gale was blowing in the afternoon and Tomahawk's time of 1:39 37 is extraordinary.

WINS TROPHY FOR THIRD TIME

Sixth Massachusetts Rifle Team in Permanent Possession of Cup.

Camp Perry, Aug. 22.—The regimental championship rifle shoot of the United States, held under the auspices of the National Rifle association, was won yesterday, for the third successive year, by the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts. By winning for three years the Massachusetts team is entitled to permanent possession of the $500 trophy. The Massachusetts team made a score of 775. The Fifth regiment team of Maryland was second with a score of 769, and was accorded the silver medal.

Yesterday's contest for the 1,000-yard range of the regimental championship, which had been continued from last Tuesday, and concluded the events scheduled in the National Rifle association's tournament.

The final stages of the shoot for the Herrick prize, which also was a continued event, held under the auspices of the Ohio Rifle association, and open to all, was shot yesterday. The first place was taken by the United States Marine corps, with a total score of 1,647. The Pennsylvania team was second, with 1,643, and Ohio's first team third, with 1,642. The service revolver match, held by the Ohio association, was won by the United States cavalry by a total score cf 82.

These events concluded the preliminary shooting, incident to the contests to be held under the auspices of the United States army, which will begin next week.

Consequently the range was turned over yesterday to Lieut. Col. R. K. Evans of the general staff, U. S. A. Fifty-one teams have been entered in this contest, representing the army, navy, marine corps military and naval academies, and the National Guard of all the states and territories of the United States, excepting Nevada, Idaho, and Florida. There will be individual and team matches for the congressional trophy, Mars, the Hilton trophy, and the famous Soldier of Marathon prize. There will also be cash prizes, which are offered by congress.

RIOT AT DES MOINES.

Umpire Forfeits Game and Crowd Rushes Box Office.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 22.—An arrested umpire, a riot and a hurry-up call for the police combined to make yesterday's baseball game between Des Moines and Sioux City the shortest on record here this year.

President John F. Higgins of the Des Moines club demanded that Umpire Brennan show his credentials before he proceeded with tho game. He refused, whereupon Higgins sent an officer into the field to arrest him. As the officer marched the umpire away, he shouted over his shoulder: "I hereby forfeit this game to Sioux City." Then the crowd took a hand; it began to shout and clamor for its money back; it made a swoop upon the box office with such vigor that the police were called. Order was finally restored and the money refunded. Tho umpire was taken to the police station and later released on bonds. Brennan threatens suit for false arrest.

This evening President Hartley of the club will entertain the visiting golfers at dinner, and there will be music for dancing this evening.

ALL HIBBING HEADS FOR DULUTH

Range Fans Will Travel by Special Train to See Ball Game

Duluth fans will see how they do it on the range tomorrow afternoon. For unalloyed baseball enthusiasm, no district on the face of the earth has the Mesaba range beaten, and Hibbing fans will unload a lot of it in Duluth tomorrow. A special train will carry the "bugs" from the rango town and they will swarm all over Athletic park with yells, hoots and money—mostly money. They'll bet anything from a picayune to an iron mine on their team and if any venturesome Duluth fan dare say he has a cent, he will be made to put it up or be chased off the lot.

The game itself should be a good one. Dick Thorsen will pitch for Duluth and Sage or Gilligan for Hibbing. Efforts are being made to strengthen the Duluth team. A. W. Kuehnow has wired for a couple of pitchers and an infielder and they may be on hand for tomorrow's game. The fans are anxious to see tho Sox get a game or two from the range champions and they will be out in force tomorrow to lend what aid they can to the downtrodden players.

DAVENPORT MEET ENDS.

Don Roma Wins Feature Event of the Last Day.

Davenport, Iowa, Aug. 22.—The Great Western circuit races closed yesterday afternoon. Red King furnished an exciting incident by throwing Driver Buckbee into the track in the first heat of the 2:08 pace and running five and a half miles before he was caught.

Results:

8:08 pace; purse, $1,000—Don Roma won in straight heats. Best time, 2:06¼. Carrie B, Queen Pomona, Rollins, Twist C., Red King, Richard Grattan and Cassie Richmond also started.

2:07 trot; pure, $600—Bay Seth won in straight heats. Best time, 2:13¼. Annetta, Isabelle, Old Mark, Boquito Boy also started.

Three-year-old pace; purse, $600—Catherine Direct won in straight heats. Best time, 2:13½. Admiral, Weber Boy, Montenet also started.

ALL AFRAID OF NEGRO

Langford Offers to Fight Stanley Ketchell and Bill Papke.

Punch, Not Color Line, Bars Langford From Fights.

New York, Aug. 22.—So anxious is Sam Langford, the negro middleweight, to have a chance at the so-called top notch men of his class that his manager has made a remarkable proposition to Billy Papke. Langford wants to fight both Papke and Stanley Ketchell. Papke had found it impossible to get on a good fight in the East. He came to meet "Sailor" Burke for $1,800 and Billy Elmer failed to pull off the match. Then he was matched with Willie Lewis for the Armory club in Boston. But Willie thought over the matter a day or two and then all the sand ran out of him. However, there is yet a chance for Papke. He can have the fight of his life and make a lot of money.

Joe Woodman, who handles the affairs of the Boston negro, has made the following proposition:

"We will box Papke six rounds or more in New York or in any other city. Langford will guarantee to knock him out within six founds, and if he fails to do so Papke may have all the money the club offers. If the club gives Langford a guarantee Papke can have that as well as his own. If it gives a percentage he may take all of it. If Papke will consent to this Langford will make 158 pounds in the ring for him, or, if he likes it better, Sam will do 154 at 3 o'clock. I will put up a forfeight to make either of these weights.

"I make just two conditions, we must have a small amount, just enough to cover our training expenses and the referee must be a man of sufficient nerve to call it no contest if Papke should try to get through the six rounds by making it a foot race. I don't think that Papke will run away, but I want to be sure that he won't.

"This ought to be a pretty good proposition for a man who thinks that he can win the middleweight championship in his fight with Ketchell to take place in Los Angeles next month."

Manager T. E. Jones has refused in the most positive terms to fight Langford or even Jack Blackburn, a much lighter boxer than Langford. There is little likelihood of his accepting Woodman's proposition. Still, should Papke beat Ketchell before Jim Jeffries' club, Jones will pose him as the "middleweight champion of the world." He'll be a champion all right—he'll be the white champion of the world—the same kind of a champion that Tommy Burns is at present.

The real reason for refusing to take on Langford is not his color. Langford's punch is the obstacle. No white light in years has avoided a fight with Joe Gans. In fact, every one of them has maneuvered to get a chance with him. He hasn't been barred since he became such a card that he could draw more money than any other man of his weight in the world. Langford has been boxing heavyweights because every white middleweight in the country has been buffaloed by his punch. Most of the Eastern middleweights admit that the Boston negro would stop them in a few rounds.

SIX IN BALLOON RACE.

Entries Close for Big Event at Columbus Next Week.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 22.—Entries for the Columbus balloon race, which is to start on Aug. 29, were completed yesterday. Six will participate as follows:

The Chicago, Pilot Coey; Ville De Dieppe, Pilot Mueller; King Edward, Pilot Bennett; Iroquois, Pilot Meade; Queen Louise, Pilot Stang; Stars and Stripes, Pilot Perrigo.

TIM FLOOD INJURED.

St. Paul Man Has Cheek and Jaw Bones Broken in Collision.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—While coaching on the third base line in yesterday's game, Tim Flood of the St. Paul team, was run into by Third Baseman McCarthy of the Toledo team and the former's cheek and jaw bones were broken and his nasal bone fractured by the impact with McCarthy's head. Flood will probably be out of the game for the rest of the season.

ALASKA TEAM EN TOUR.

Baseball Players From Far North Arrive at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 22.—The Fairbanks, Alaska, baseball team has arrived in Seattle and will start Monday on a tour of the state. The first stop will be made in Spokane and the players will then work toward the South ern country for the winter, playing along the Atlantic coast next spring and back across the country to Seattle next fall.

Benson Hit Hard.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine defeated Biwabik in a slugging match yesterday afternoon by a score of 17 for 4. Benson was touched up for nineteen hits and seven errors were made behind him. Score:

NOT ACCORDING TO FACTS.

Deputy Comptroller Issues Statement Concerning Oklahoma Banks.

Washington, Aug. 22.—T. P. Kane, deputy comptroller of the currency, stated yesterday that the published statement that a large number of national banks in Oklahoma had notified the comptroller of the currency of their intention to surrender their national charters and enter the state banking system, because of the opinion rendered by the attorney general that they can not lawfully avail themselves of the guarantee laws, was not in accordance with facts.

"There are about 310 national banks in the state of Oklahoma," said Mr. Kane, "only 57 of which entered into the guaranty scheme. On Aug. 8 last these 57 banks were notified that they must withdraw from the agreement. So far replies have been received from 33 of them. Twenty-seven have informed the comptroller that they have notified the state banking board of their desire to withdraw from the guaranty agreement, and seven have indicated their intention to surrender their national charters and reorganize as state banks, and two only have thus far actually gone into voluntary liquidation for that purpose.

"Replies have been received from 134 of the 253 banks that have not entered into the agreement. A majority of them state that they had no intention of doing so, as they were not in sympathy with the movement. One national bank chartered stated that its purpose in converting from a state bank to a national system was to escape the requirements of the guaranty law.

DECAYED GREENBACKS IDENTIFIED BY EXPERT.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Of $1,000 in decayed greenbacks sent to the treasury department for redemption by O. D. Earl of Morrilton, Ark., all but $25 have been identified, and a check for $975 was mailed to Mr. Earl today. Fearing the banks were unsafe, Mr. Earl buried his savings in an old pail in 1904. Recently he dug up his treasure only to find that the bills were so decayed that he could not discern their numbers. All that was left of the roll was a bundle resembling a package of dried leaves, with here and there the torn end of a note displaying a figure. Mrs. A. F. Brown, the burnt money expert of the redemption department, was given custody of the unrecognizable mass when Mr. Earl forwarded what was left of his fortune to the treasury department.

After much tedious work, she has succeeded in identifying most of the money.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE.

HORACE B WILD AND HIS EAGLE AIRSHIP ONE OF THE FOUR AIRSHIPS TO RACE AT THE MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.

THE RED RIVER CART OF OLDEN DAYS IN "FORT RIDGELY IN 62 MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.

Visitors to the Minnesota state fair of Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, will be given the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the first colony of head-hunting Igorrotes ever seen in the Northwest, for the board of managers has arranged, with the courtesy of the United States government, to entertain on the state fair grounds during he state fair week, the only village of these strange natives of the Philippines now in the United States. A dozen or so representatives of this most talked of of all the tribes inhabiting the Far Eastern possessions of the United States, appeared in two or three cities in the Far West during 1905 and 1906, but were returned to their native province of Bontoc in October of the latter year, with the exception of one adopted by a gentleman in Chicago, who is now giving him all the advantages the son of a well-to-do American parents might receive. The second group, or colony —the one which is to visit the state fair this season—came over last year, and has proved the most interesting of all the strange people who have come out of the Philippine islands.

There are about 300,000 Igorrotes in the Philippines, comprising many dialect groups, and for the most part they live in the mountain fastnesses of Luzon at an elevation of from 3,500 to 5,000 feet. There are no roads and bridges in the Bontoc country, which is almost inaccessible, and it is partly on this account and partly because of the uncomfortable custom the Igorrote warriors have of coming home with the heads of those over whom they triumph in battle, that the barbaric Igorrotes are so largely discussed and so little known, even in their own Philippines.

Ever since the advent of the United States in the Philippines they have, however, been repeatedly brought to the attention of the public through official and unofficial reports, and wherever they have appeared in this country have been the center of interested thousands.

In pursuance of the purpose of the United States government to give the American public a perfect idea of the kind of people inhabiting the Philippine islands and of their mode of life, the Igorrote colony, which comes to the state fair will dress in a simple unconventional way, customary in the uplands of Luzon, and will live their regular every day life in a village built of native material, in native style. The men will be seen at work at their strange forge fastening the head axes and spears, which they use in war and the chase. Others will be making hats, which are used as pockets and not as headgear, while others will be molding and finishing the brass pipe used by men and women alike. The women will be busily engaged in weaving on their simple looms, the simple garments in which both men and women are clothed.

The various sports and ceremonies incident to the simple communal life which these people lead will serve to enliven the week. There will be the Igorrote war dance, a preliminary to the head hunting expeditions, which have brought the people so much to the attention of the world at large. The men will also illustrate their marvelous skill at tree climbing, spear throwing, and ax throwing, and there will be various public gatherings of natives in their "pa-ba-foo-nan," or public building, in which the tribal ceremonies are observed.

While the exhibition will be primarily for the benefit of the curious, it will not be without its educational value, as the Igorrotes are accompanied by competent lecturers, who explain the ways of this people and the significance of their various habits and customs.

The Ox Carts.

In the olden days, when Minnesota was a territory, the Red river cart, with its plodding yoke of oxen, was a sight common enough in any of the settled or semi-settled portions of what is now the state of Minnesota, but it has been a good many years since this leisurely mode of locomotion has been resorted to.

The oxen and cart are part and parcel of the "Fort Ridgely in '62" production, now being built on the state fair grounds, in preparation for the great historical spectacle which is to be presented each evening in front of the grand stand, with 300 Sioux Indians and 600 white men participating.

This interesting reminiscence of territorial days in Minnesota will form a part of the wagon train which during the spectacle will wind its way across the prairies to the famous fort of 1862. During the day time, it is expected that it will be used for sight-seeing tours by those who regard two and a half miles an hour as speed sufficiently sensational for their present needs.

The Airship Race.

Following close upon the heels of the first balloon race ever held in the Northwest is to be the first airship race ever held in Minnesota and the second bona fide aerial speed endurance contest participated in by dirigible balloons in America. During the fair nearly $4,000 will be given away in prizes to the most resourceful sailors of the air, and four contestants have already entered their airships in the belief that they will take away the bulk of the prize money.

Patrons of the state fair and the people of St. Paul became directly interested in the problem of aerial navigation when Jack Dalles, in his marvelous Strobel airship, accomplished such wonders in airship manipulation at the state fair last year, and finally reached the climax in his performances by sailing his ship from the fair grounds to and around the dome of the state capitol and back to the place of starting. This year, however, there will be four airships instead of one, sailing about the state fair grounds, and the Twin Cities, and each one will be striving to outdo the other in steering his ship over various assigned courses. Jack Dallas has been entered with the Strobel airship. Horace B. Wild of Chicago, who, in addition to being a balloon pilot, is recognized as one of the most daring and skillful airship navigators in the country, is coming with his ship "The Eagle." The Case Airship company of South Chicago is coming with one of its ships, and Prof. L. L. Hill of Little Rock is coming with a dark horse ship, called "The Meteor."

Each day, between 4 and 6 o'clock, these four ships will start from in front of the grandstand in an aerial obstacle race, at the conclusion of which the two ships making the prescribed round trip first will be given $150 and $100, respectively. These races will be laid out over courses requiring the ships to sail up against the wind and to circle various buildings on the fair grounds, such as the exposition building, agriculture building, poultry building, live stock pavilion and grandstand.

During the week also, the ships will be competing for a $500 prize given to any airship making a flight of fifteen minutes and returning to the point of starting, and the same sum will be given the ship which makes the quickest trip around either the state capitol dome in St. Paul or the city hall tower in Minneapolis. Another $250 goes to the ship having the best general record in the daily trials made between 4 and 6 o'clock.

The amount of prize money offered by the state fair management and the number and quality of the entries are such that during the state fair week the air should be filled with airships.

TO TRY JAPANESE SEAL POACHERS

Officials Ordered to Valdez to Make Ready for Case.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 22.—Judge Silas H. Reid, United States Marshal G. G. Perry, United States District Attorney J. J. Crosby and other officials of the Third judicial division of Alaska, have been directed by the attorney general to proceed to Valdez at once to prepare for the trial of the Japanese seal poachers seized in illegal sealing on Pribilof islands on July 22. The revenue cutter Bear has been ordered to the island to bring the rest of the prisoners to Unga or Unalaska for a preliminary hearing. Until this order was issued, it was thought that the eighty-five Japanese and two schooners seized by the Bear were all that were implicated in the raids, but the orders of the Bear make it appear otherwise.

Deputy marshals and deputy district attorneys have also been ordered to Unga and Unalaska to appear on behalf of the government at the preliminary hearings. A court term has been called at Valdez for Sept. 19.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

E. W. Chafin, the Prohibition candidate for the presidency spoke at La Porte, Ind., Friday to a crowd of more than 3,000 persons, creating more enthusiam than ever did any Prohibition candidate before him.

John M. Ward, wanted in connection with the murder of his wife, which occurred near Biteley, Mich., last Tuesday, was captured Friday night. He was found in an old building on the edge of the swamps about half a mile from the scene of the crime. Ward is said to have made a full confession.

Four coaches on the Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 4 were derailed Friday evening four miles east of Pueblo, Colo., while the train was moving slowly. No one was injured. The cause of the wreck was spreading rails, due to heavy rains.

A son was born Friday to Senator and Mrs. Albert Beveridge of Indiana, who are stopping at Manchester, Mass., for the summer.

Augusto B. Leguia was Friday proclaimed president of the republic of Peru by the Peruvian congress. All the members of the congress except two, voted in the affirmative, according to news received in New York.

HAS DISAPPEARED FROM HER HOME

Police Informed That Myrtle Ehle Has Run Away.

Myrtle Ehle, 18 years of age, has disappeared from her home on Park Point, and it is believed that she has run away. She disappeared Thursday noon and has not been seen since. She was living with the family of her half brother, Carl S. Ehle, 1522 Minnesota avenue. Mr. Ehle is away from home on a homestead in Northern Minnesota, but has been sent for.

Mrs. Ehle says she cannot imagine why the girl would want to run away. The woman left the house for a few minutes at noon Thursday, and when she returned Myrtle was gone. She thought little of this fact at the time, but when several hours passed by and the girl did not return, Mrs. Ehle became greatly worried. The police were notified yesterday by telephone, but no one has appeared at the station to give a detailed description of the girl or circumstances surrounding her disappearance.

Town Nearly Wiped Out.

Bellingham, Wash., Aug. 22.—A forest fire Thursday night nearly wiped out the little town of Bow, ten miles south of here. The saw and shingle mill and drying kilns, owned by Daniel Cain, with half a million shingles, were destroyed, as well as five cottages belonging to the mill company.

BRUTAL ASSAULT BY ARTILLERY MEN.

Laramie, Wyo., Aug. 22.—While every effort has been made by the authorities at Camp Emmet Crawford, the military maneuver ground, to keep the fact secret, it is known that one of the most atrocious crimes imaginable was committed last Sunday by members of an artillery battery, who assaulted a young woman, leaving her bruised and unconscious upon the ground. According to the story, a non-commissioned officer of the Twenty-first regiment was escorting the young woman when they were attacked by thirty-two men of the artillery battery. The officer was beaten into insensibility with a gun and the unfortunate young woman was dragged to an isolated spot and assaulted. After lying half dead for hours, the victim of the outrage revived and succeeded in crawling to a house some distance away and told her story. Twenty-six men alleged to have been implicated in the outrage are under arrest and are chained together in the camp prison. They are under constant guard to prevent lynching, as sentiment in the camp is strong against them. Six of the alleged assailants escaped, but three of them were apprehended at Rawlins. The other three are still at large.

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. IS BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

George Hogan, With Duluth Bank Account, Arrested in Dakota.

George Hogan, said to be a Duluth man, with an account with the local First National bank, has been arrested in Grand Forks, N. D., and the authorities there believe him to be insane. He was taken into custody while acting queerly in the vicinity of a dwelling on the outskirts of the city, and it was thought at the time that he was either a burglar or insane.

In searching his pockets, the police found $800 in gold and a savings bank book of the First National Bank of Duluth with about $50 to his credit. It is said Hogan offered fourteen of the fifteen $20 gold pieces in his possession to the police if they would let him go. He said he had been in Duluth looking for work and had been unsuccessful. The man is described as being about 26 years of age, five feet, five inches tall, and smooth shaven. The only George Hogan in the Duluth directory is a timber cruiser, and his residence is given as 7 South Sixth avenue west. The building there has been torn down by the Wisconsin Central.

NON-UNION MINER IS PROBABLY FATALLY SHOT.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 22.—Anthony Davis, a negro non-union miner, whose house at Pratt City was destroyed by dynamite Wednesday night, was fired upon from ambush near his home at Pratt City last night and fatally injured. Quite a number of shots were fired into his body. Davis has been working steadily since the declaration of the strike, and immediately after his house was dynamited claimed that he had seen and recognized the men who committed the deed.

Governor Comer has not yet decided what action to take in the matter of throwing the troops into the district, although great pressure has been brought to bear upon him to augment forces. Apprehension of further trouble continues keen all over the district.

WINONA, MINN., MAN KILLED IN MEXICO.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Consul Maxwell K. Moorhead at Acapulco, Mexico, has notified the state department of the death of Grant U. Price of Winona, Minn., from a gunshot wound inflicted by a Mexican named Manuel Saluda, at Pie de la Causta, near Acapulco. Price was an employe of the Mexican Pacific company of Seattle. His death occurred Thursday night. The Mexican authorities are making efforts to capture Saluda.

Died a Maniac.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 22.—William Vest died in the insane ward at the county jail yesterday. Fifteen years ago his wife was assaulted by a negro named Rush, who was taken from jail and hanged by a mob to a telephone pole. Since that time Vest has been subject to melancholia. Following the recent riots at Springfield he became violently insane, and died a maniac yesterday.

FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

ONTONAGON MINES ACTIVE

Drill Explorations Being Pushed Vigorously at the Adventure, Mass, Michigan and Victoria Mines---Lake to Enlarge Its Operations.

Ontonagon, Mich., Aug. 22.—The Ontonagon field continues a center of attraction. Operations show that there are wonderful possibilities for making some of the best mines of the Copper country. Explorations are in full blast and during the next few weeks developments may be anticipated.

Drilling is going on at Adventure, Mass, Michigan and Victoria, while Lake and North Lake are about to receive like attention. Adventure is about due to tap the formation from the second surface hole. If it reveals a lode as richly mineralized as the one which was pierced from No. 3 shaft, steps will then be taken for developing it. Through the payment of delinquent assessments and the money derived from the settlement of the mill contract, it is officially claimed that no call will be made for more funds from the stockholders for some time to come.

A drill has been installed at the fifth level of shaft "A" of the Mass mine. It will be driven south and is practically certain of cutting the Adventure lode and without going any great distance. This will place Mass in an exceptionally strong position. The lode no doubt outcrops on the property and while its position is to some extent a matter of conjecture, the indications are that it will be reached without going any great distance. Mass is continuing its mining operations without interruption. The most of the output is coming from shaft "C," and is running fairly well in copper. The company has closely economized during the past year, and according to Secretary Bancroft, stockholders need have no fear of being asked to poney up while operations are being conducted along the present scale.

Lake is getting active for a more active development campaign. From the outset operations have been conducted very conservatively. No needless expense has been incurred, but now that the shaft has reached a depth of nearly 300 feet and without the least diminution in values, it is proposed to accelerate operations. With this purpose in view, the compressor which was used at the old Knowlton shaft, was moved to the new location and will soon be ready to go into commission. The temporary hoist which was installed when sinking was started, is to be supplanted by a more powerful machine. The shaft has reached nearly 300 feet and it is probable that the second level will be established near this point. From the second level drifts will be extended both north and south. The mineralization continues strong. Men who are competent to judge claim that it is the best showing which was ever made on an amygdaloid vein in the Lake Superior district.

IN THE PELLY RIVER VALLEY

Alaska District That is Gold Bearing From End to End—Offers Hope to Prospector Equipped to Stand the Climate.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 22.—The Pelly River valley is an empire in itself and is gold bearing from end to end. It offers encouragement for the prospector who is well equipped to stand the climate and to keep himself from starving. Such is the opinion of Dell Van Gorder, who has just arrived at Dawson from Pelly Lakes, at the extreme head of the Pelly river. He has spent seven years in the Pelly country, four in the McMillan division and three at the head of the Pelly proper.

"My partner, Ira Van Bibber, and I," said Van Gorder, "have been prospecting steadily every season and we have found gold on bars from the mouth of the Pelly to the lakes. In some places we have found the gold on the creeks, but not sufficient to get down to regular mining. We have confidence in the country ultimately proving a payer. To go into that region to spend a long time one first needs a good partner. Without a congenial sidesticker there is no success and one should not attempt to operate in such a remote field alone.

"One great point in favor of the Pelly country is that the ground is unfrozen in most places. It seldom freezes to the bottom. That makes it favorable for dredging and such work, but of course difficult for the individual prospector to get to bedrock. The gravel formation extends throughout the country similar to that of the Klondike. Right up to the lakes and across to the Laird the gravel is extensive. There is considerable evidence of glacial action.

"Since coming to Dawson I have been told of the strike on Findlay river, beyond the Pelly lakes, but this is the first news I have heard of the strike. Although we apparently are not a great distance at the head of the Pelly from the Findlay river, we saw no one from the Findlay, and naturally knew nothing of the excitement over that region. Few Indians or others travel through that country to the Pelly. The Hudson Bay posts once at the head of the Pelly and along the river are gone, and we are told that they were burned by the company when they left there."

MEANS MONEY FOR LOW GRADE

New Method of Treating Sulphide Ore That Will Afford an Opportunity for Mining the Cheapest Class of Ores.

Goldfield, Nev., Aug. 22.—A discovery of vastly greater importance than the finding of gold in Goldfield or the uncarthing of fabulous mountains of high grade is announced by Manager Mackenzie of the Consolidated Mines company, through the discovery of a method of treating sulphide ores that insures the extraction of 99 per cent of their precious contents without having to roast the ores. The latter form of treatment is used today all over the world, and no later than last week one of the greatest mill experts of the country predicted that the Goldfield mills would be failures, owing to the fact that the management had not made any provision for roasting the ores.

Manager Mackenzie does not attempt to conceal the process, which is protected by patents, but takes pride in telling the results of the experiments that were conducted before the process was fully determined.

By means of this discovery, ore running as low as $3 per ton can be handled at a profit. Every mine that can treat its own ore, and every miner with a little capital can install a plant that will render him independent of smelters and railroads. The find is little short of the transmutation of base metals to gold, as it brings into the market tons and thousands of tons of rock that would be otherwise worthless. It is estimated that the process will net the Consolidated alone a profit of $12,000 a day or over $4,000,000 per annum, for this single company. When the same principle is applied to the mines of the world it opens up a vista of wonderful possibilities.

It is one of the discoveries that will revolutionize the treatment of refractory ores, and thousands of mines containing fair values, but of a refractory nature, will reap the benefit. All over the country are mines where in evidence is refractory ore that cannot be treated by cyaniding or amalgation. The cost of transportation and smelting charges precludes the possibility of shipping to the smelters. It looks as though that condition of affairs has come to an end, and that it is no longer necessary to depend on railways and smelters for the conversion of gold into bullion right at the mine.

Concentrates that assay at the rate of $300 a ton yield 80 per cent of the assay value after having been in the solution for four hours. This was on stuff that was not supposed to be amenable to treatment by cyaniding. The other $60 in the ore will not be lost. All that will be required is longer treatment, and Supt. Huchinson is of the belief that the tailings will not assay better than $1. The process is as cheap as the ordinary cyaniding on oxide.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work Progressing Satisfactorily on Property of Roenna Company in the Tinton District---Clara Belle Company to Be Reorganized.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 22.—Work is progressing satisfactorily on the 300-acre plot of the Roenna Mining company in the Tinton district. The tunnel is in 185 feet. This tunnel has crosscut veins of gold ore running from 80 cents to $5. The company is controlled by Ohio men. The president is George M. Williams and the secretary, W. T. Moore, both of Columbus.

To satisfy Eastern creditors, principally from Cleveland, Ohio, the property of the Clara Belle Mining company, near Oreville, in the Southern Hills, has been sold at a receiver's sale in Rapid City for $28,000, which covers all indebtedness, to N. T. Bowler of Cleveland. Reorganization will be completed at once.

The Nebraska Mining company, which is working the Connie May Morris ground near Roubaix, has decided to use the diamond drill for more thorough prospecting. It is the intention to run the drill into the hill on an incline, staring where the ore outcrops 500 feet below the apex of the hill.

Work will be resumed at once on the Old Charley ground near Custer, owned by the Ruberta Mining company. The work will be in charge of W. W. Olds, one of the chief owners. The present ten-stamp mill will be renovated and a roasting and cyanide addition put in with greater facilities for crushing the ore.

Work on the 100-ton treatment plant of the Hercules Mining company is expected to start within a few weeks. The development of this property, known as the Cooper ground, and situated at the mouth of Ruby gulch, above Bare Butte creek, has been going on for two years, but this company got into the hands of a receiver some years back.

LARGE FURNACE READY SOON

At Calumet & Arizona Smelter—Twenty-Five Feet Long and Two-Thirds Greater Capacity—Output to Be Greater Than in 1907.

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 22.—The work of enlargement continues uninteruptedly at the Calumet & Arizona smelter. The news of this week is the erection of the frame for the first of the six new large furnaces and the statement that it will be ready to be blown in within the next thirty days. These furnaces will each be ten feet longer than the old and will have a capacity two-thirds greater. The present furnaces, six in number, are fifteen feet long and have a capacity of 300 tons daily, while the new ones will be twenty-five feet in length and have a daily capacity of 500 tons. As soon as the first furnace has been blown in and proved satisfactory work will be commenced on a second, and so on until all six shall have been inshtalled and blown in. At the present time only five of the six furnaces are kept in operation, and the same policy will be followed with the new ones, one being shut down at all times except in cases of emergency, or rusch.

It is now more than a month since the converter stands were moved to make room for the enlargement of the furnaces, and the outside trackage was laid to each furnace, so that the main work now is the enlargement mentioned. Nothing will be done at present in the way of providing new ore beds, though this will become necessary with the large increase of capacity which the plant will have, as will other enlargements.

It is stated that there will be a considerable increase in the output over the year 1907, even without taking into consideration any added capacity, or five furnaces have been running constantly since Jan. 29 last. The output last year was approximately 40,000,000 pounds, and at the present ratio it will run this year into figures which will exceed 45,000,000 pounds. This figure will be still further increased with the new furnace in operation for three or four months, and probably a second for two or three months, and a safe estimate would seem to be between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000 pounds.

With the completion of these six furnaces, and with five of them in operation, the daily feed will be 3,000 tons or 11,000 tons of ore per year, and its monthly output should run not far from 6,500,000 pounds of copper.

While there is but little apparent to indicate such on the surface, the mining industry of the Warren district is showing a gradually increasing betterment and almost all of the producing companies are employing more men than at any time for about sixteen months. With the later months of the coming fall, it is believed that there will be more men employed in the district than there have ever been, owing principally to the fact that the Superior & Pittsburg will be mining and developing on a scale that will surpass all operations in the past.

Great interest is being thaken in the new ore handling system of the Copper Queen company at its Sacramento shaft —the most important mechanical installation in the history of the district —and many prominent mining men have visited the new plant recently.

Shipments from the Copper Queen mines at present run about thirty-seven cars daily, of which thirty-four are shipped to the company's smelter at Douglas and three cars of sulphide to the Old Dominion company at Globe.

The Calumet & Arizona company continues to ship about twenty-three cars of ore daily to its smelter at Douglas. Underground, the results of recent exploration work are of a most gratifying nature to the management.

The ore body which is being developed on the Supplement claim by a cross-cut from the drift connecting the Cole of the Superior & Pittsburg and the Oliver of the Calumet & Arizona on the 1,000-foot level, is showing up well and it promises to be one of the best ore bodies in the properties of the Superior & Pittsburg company.

The Junction shaft of the Superior & Pittsburg continues to furnish data of interest to the mining world. Shipments from that property are of a richness that has seldom been surpassed or even equalled in the district. In No. 5 raise from No. 22 crosscut on the 1,300 foot level, some good ore has been penetrated through the entire fifty feet of the raise. At present the raise has passed out of the ore body and into leached ground containing rich stringers.

Cross-cut No. 23 is still furnishing the richest ore in the entire workings, running from 5 per cent to 40 per cent. No. 26 cross-cut running from No. 5 drift, on the same level, has been opened for some distance and but fifty feet more is required before a raise will be commenced which will cut into the body encountered in winze No. 2 on the 1,200-foot level. All work on the 1,400 level has ceased for the present on account of the great amount of water, but will be resumed in a few days when sinking will be completed for the present.

The 1,500-foot station has been commenced and when this is completed it is probable that sinking will again be resumed. At present shipments run about ten cars a week, averaging from 5 to 14 per cent copper. Most of these rich ores come from cross-cuts Nos. 23, 21, and 17 on the 1,300-foot level.

BUTTE OUTPUT DECREASED

Falling Off Due to Boston & Montana's Production Being Only 40 Per Cent of Normal Capacity—Tuolumne Strikes Good Ore.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 22.—The Boston & Montana company mines were operated at but about 40 per cent of their normal capacity during July, due to the shutdown of the company's smelter at Great Falls because of the June floods. Because of the restricted output of the Boston & Montana the copper production of the Butte district again was considerably below the normal monthly production. The total was 26,225,300 pounds, against 13,159,000 pounds in June, when all the mines were restricted to less than 50 per cent of the normal production.

Boston & Montana	1,500	80	120,000
Anaconda	3,600	71	255,000
Butte & Boston	650	70	45,500
Washoe	550	68	37,400
Parrot	500	61	30,500
Trenton	450	62	27,900
North Butte	1,425	100	142,500
Butte Coalition	850	90	76,500
Original	1,200	82	98,400
Pittsburg & Montana	150	80	12,000
	10,875		846,200

The various companies contributed to the June totals as follows:

Companies.	Tons of Ore.	Lbs. of Copper.
Boston & Montana	46,500	3,720,000
Anaconda	111,600	7,823,600
Butte & Boston	20,150	1,410,500
Washoe	17,050	1,179,400
Trenton	13,950	864,900
North Butte	44,175	4,417,500
Butte Coalition	26,350	2,371,500
Original	37,200	3,050,400
	337,125	26,235,300

The Tuolumne Mining company appears to be one of the first of the newer companies to develop pay copper ore. At a depth of 1,000 feet in the Tuolumne claim, which is just south of and adjoins the Jessie mine of the North Butte company, a lot of exploration work has been done and the company has cut into good ore in the first vein south of the shaft. After crosscutting south and drifting east, crosscuts were driven north again. The vein at that point is 26 feet wide and there are four feet of ore on the hanging wall and two on the foot wall, assays from which showed 29.1 per cent copper, 20 ounces in silver and 80 cents in gold to the ton. The six feet of ore is high grade. Drifting is being done and preparations made to sink the shaft several hundred feet deeper, during the progress of which work exploration and development will continue on the 1,000 level. The company is preparing a foundation for a new surface plant, including a 22x60 Nordberg, first motion engine, with a capacity to work to a depth of 3,000 feet; three new boilers of 250-horse power each, a 15-machine drill compressor and a new gallows.

The Raven Mining company has resumed shaft sinking, and will carry the incline from the 1,100 to the 1,390 level at least. At the same time development work on the 1,100 level is being continued.

At a meeting of the directors of the Butte & Arizona Copper Mining company in Butte it was decided to resume operations at the mines in Arizona immediately, and a telegram was sent to Supt. Casper Schultz at Bisbee to that effect. The property of the company is at Hereford, about thirty-five miles from Bisbee, and as soon as supplies can be taken to the camp, work will begin. Since a fire last spring destroyed the surface building and the company's supplies the mine has been closed.

The Pilot-Butte Mining company, promoted by the same interests that organized and started the Butte & London, Colusa-Leonard Extension and the Reins Copper company, all among the financial unfortunates, seems about to give up to adversity. The Milwaukee capitalists who were to furnish the development funds have, it is reported, failed to keep their agreement and no further work will be done on the Pilot by the company. The Pilot has good veins, but at the depth at which one was opened it does not carry commercial values.

The recent negotiations to raise funds for resuming work on the Butte & London also seem to have fallen through.

The Reins Copper company, which passed into the control of Col. Guffey and associates of Pittsburg, may get on its feet again if the $600,000 bond issue is successful.

The rapid advance in the stock of the North Butte Mining company has not been surprising to the people of Butte among whom the merits of the North Butte are known. The company is producing copper, it is asserted, at a cost little in excess of 7 cents per pound, and its monthly production is more than 4,000,000 pounds. The company has a capitalization of only 400,000 shares, and the advance of a cent per pound on copper means a great addition to the earnings of the stock. Butte Coalition is producing ore almost uniformly as rich as that of the North Butte, but the production is at present and will be for some months, limited to about 850 tons per day. By the first of next year, and with the completion of the development work now being done through the Tramway shaft, the capacity output will be fully 2,000 tons per day, counting on only the Mimple Healey and Rarus mines. In addition to these two mines, however, the Coalition company gets a share of the profits from the ore mined by the Boston & Montana in the Red Penn ground,

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Steady Improvement in Progress and Better Things Evidently in Prospect—Shipments Increased and Some Mines Nearly Idle Restored to Practically Their Normal Capacity.

A survey of the situation in the Lake Superior region finds that while the iron mining industry is in an irregular state, the conditions in some fields still being unsatisfactory, steady improvement is in progress. In no district is there that degree of activity witnessed last season in getting out ore, but there is ample evidence in the preparations making and in recent significant events that much better things are on the way.

The present month is drawing to a close with mining affairs appreciably better than at the advent of August. Developments have increased the confidence that the upward swing has already set in. Shipments have enlarged somewhat, and a number of mines heretofore all but idle, have been restored to practically their normal activity. It looks, indeed, as though the fag end of the season of navigation will witness a veritable rush of ore to the docks.

On the Marquete range, industrial conditions are better than at any previous time this year. The tonnage sent out is increasing. Both at the Hartford and the Queen mines, the stockpiles will be entirely cleared away this season. These are properties of the Steel corporation at Negaunee. Shipments are quite brisk at other mines of the company on the Marquette range, and the ore in stock there, if not all removed, will at least be very considerably reduced. It is significant of the conditions to note that there are very few, if any, idle miners in the district.

Important Sales of Ore.

The Breitung interests of Marquette, which operate the Breitung Hematite and Mary Charlotte mines at Negaunee and the Baron at Humboldt, have recently made important sales of ore, as a result of which they have increased their working forces to the extent of almost 300 men. The greater number of these have been taken on at the Mary Charlotte, and this property is now employing both day and night shifts. Operations at the Mary Charlotte were greatly curtailed some months ago. No more stockpile room was available. Since then important shipments have been made, and practically all of the tonnage in stock will have been forwarded to the docks by the close of navigation. The Mary Charlotte is a fine property, with plenty of ore and an excellent equipment, and it will be on the shipping list for many years to come. Both it and its neighbor, the Breitung Hematite, will retain the increased working forces throughout the winter and perhaps permanently.

The Baron mine, west of Ishpeming, is opening up very satisfactorily. The ore is of good quality and it works well in the smelting process, a number of sample consignments sent out latterly having come fully up to expectations when tested in furnace stacks. Prior to some months ago, when the Breitung interests took over the Baron, the property had not been operated for a quarter of a century. Twenty-five additional men have now been employed and more will be taken on when the ore-crushing plant is completed and ready for duty. This will be about the first of the coming month, until which time little mining will be done, such ore as is now being broken being stored in the underground drifts.

The American mine, which also lies in the territory to the west of Ishpeming, is developing steadily and is gaining in importance with the opening of each level. The property is in the hands of the Hanna interests of Cleveland. Shipments are being made. The ore is of high grade, and there seems to be enough of it to warrant quite considerable work being done to get it. A new steam pump has been installed on the bottom level. There is much very favorably located ground in the vicinity of the American that has not yet been explored. A big swamp to the west looks to have been an ideal place for ore concentration. There is indication also of hematite deposits. More will be heard of this field in the years to come.

Shipping From Lucy Mine.

Ore is being shipped from the stockpile at the Lucy mine at Negaunee to the Gladstone furnace of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company. It is the first ore taken from the property in a number of years. Because the stockpile room at some of the company's Ishpeming mines is limited, particularly that at the Cleveland Lake property, it is the intention to store a considerable tonnage at the Cleveland Cliffs ore dock at Marquette the coming winter. The necessary trestle work is now being erected. The company a few years ago had a big pile of ore at Marquette, but it was shipped during the boom times and the trestle was dismantled. At its Cliffs Shafts mine at Ishpeming, the company is prepar-

THE CONDITIONS AT GLOBE

Old Dominion May Soon Resume Payment of Dividends---Entire Copper Lode of Globe Still in Sulphide Ore.

Globe, Ariz., Aug. 22.—Conditions have improved at the Old Dominion, and the cost of producing copper has been considerably reduced, so that with a rising metal market, Old Dominion should soon be in a position to renew the payment of dividends. The regular development work, which includes the sinking of three shafts, was prosecuted last week, and a large tonnage of ore of excellent grade was hoisted. The sulphide ore shipped in from Dalton, Cal., is giving very good satisfaction. It runs 48 per cent iron, 28 per cent sulphur, 2.5 per cent copper and 6 per cent silicate. Five furnaces continue in blast and are turning out about 120,000 pounds of copper every twenty-four hours. The company has contracted for a large amount of coke from the Phelps-Dodge ovens at Dawson, N. M., and shipments will soon begin to arrive.

Good reports continue to come from the section west of Globe, in which the Miami and Warrior copper companies are operating. A great ore body is being developed in the Warrior company's Montgomery mine, and ore shipments have been doubled.

The Miami Copper company has resumed sinking the Red Springs shaft and is still extending the drifts and crosscuts on the 470-foot level and adding to the ore in sight.

The crosscuts on the Future Copper lode are still in sulphide ore. There has been no change in the Gem vein, the drift on the 1,100-foot level showing 3 per cent sulphide. The south crosscut from the Mallory shaft is 850 feet in length and shows the same seams of chalcopyrite in the face.

The development of the rich ore shoot in the Great Eastern mine below the 450-foot level continues. Drifts from the bottom of the 104-foot winze have been driven fifty feet to the east and thirty feet west in ore of a uniformly high grade, assaying 9 or 10 per cent copper and ten ounces of silver to the ton. The stopes on the 450-foot level show no loss either in the quality or quantity of the ore mined. The Gardner shaft is down 210 feet in quartz, and better headway is being made in sinking, as the drilling is easier and the ground breaks well.

The work of cutting the station at 450 feet in the Eureka shaft will soon be finished and connection made with the 900-foot drift from the Black Hawk incline shaft. Another 200 horsepower boiler has been installed at the Eureka shaft and pipe for the steam column has been received.

SINKING TO BE PROSECUTED

To 1,200-Foot Level of Monitor Property in Idaho---New Machinery Installed---Crackerjack Mine at Buffalo Hump to Start.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 22.—Sinking to the 1,200-foot level of a double compartment shaft on the Monitor property in Idaho, near Saltese, Mont., owned by H. F. Samuels and J. Leslie Bailor and their associates, will be prosecuted with vigor now that new machinery has been installed. Otis Hill, president of the company, while in Spokane, announced that the equipment consists of two boilers of 50 and 60-horse power, a 600-cubic feet compressor and a pump of 240 gallons a minute at 700 feet. The boiler and other equipment already at the plant will also be used. Mr. Hill says that with the added machinery, the company is in position to make rapid progress in sinking from the 400 to the 700-foot level. There will probably be no more drifting or stoping at any point below the 400-foot level until the 700-foot level is reached. In addition to sinking the double compartment shaft, the management has planned to do 1,500 feet of drifting. This work will represent an outlay of more than $65,000. Considerable work has been done on the 400-foot level since the property was opened sixty days ago, but not much shipping will result until more development work is completed. The Monitor has shiped a large quantity of ore, returns yielding from 15 to 30 per cent copper, with igh gold values. The Milwaukee line will run within one and a half miles of the mine. O. H. Linn, superintendent of the Success mine, in which H. F. Samuels is interested, is also superintendent of the Monitor property.

Michael Sweeny of Spokane, who recently acquired control of the Crackerjack mine at Buffalo Hump, has thirty-two men at work on a wagon road, between Buffalo Hump and Orogrande, as he is preparing to open the mine in ninety days. The

MERGER OF MEXICAN MINES

Bisbee, Ariz., Aug. 22.—One of the biggest mining deals of the past year has just been consummated in this city. The deal involves the merger of the Mexican holdings of the Silver Mining company, Consolidated Silver & Copper company and the Miller Mining company. The new company is known as the Kansas-Cananea Copper company, and is capitalized at $10,000,000.

David Miller, the president of the new company, has been working on the deal for the past four years and had completed all preliminary steps toward the organization a year ago, when the slump came. In an interview Miller spoke of the organization as follows:

"The properties of the three companies involved in the merger are contiguous and comprise a total of about thirty-five acres. The properties are entirely surrounded by the holdings of the Greene-Cananea company. The capital for the consolidation of the three companies has been furnished by men of New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia, and is sufficient to insure the thorough development of the property.

"The Southwestern has been operating for the past four years in the Cananea district, and on the Marita claim two very promising ore bodies have been already shown up. Shipments from it assayed 20 per cent. Machinery and other equipment necessary for some time to come are already in use. A. B. Wadleigh, who has been most efficient in the management of the Southwestern, will be manager for the company.

"The merits of the properties involved in the deal have been examined for the original owners by Fritz Harrington and Smith & Laird of your city, and it was upon their recommendation that the work was continued. The new stockholders in the company have also had the property thoroughly examined, and all of the reports have been highly satisfactory to them.

"The new company will make its headquarters in Bisbee and in the course of the next thirty or sixty days we hope to begin operations in Cananea on a large scale. The opening of the Greene-Cananea mines has encouraged the outside companies and there is every indication that this section of the mining world will see its most active period.

"The new company will take over the assets and liabilities of the Ortega Mining company's new holdings for the Southwestern, under whose direction the work has been carried on."

The Kansas-Cananea Mining company is backed by ample capital, by men who have made their investment after the most competent engineers in the United States have assured them of the value of the property, and the camp will be surpassed in the extent of its operations in the Cananea district by only the Greene-Cananea company. That this will mean much to the future of the district goes without saying.

OPERATIONS AT CLEOPATRA

Work Will Be Started at the Smelter Early in Month of September—Machinery Now Being Placed in Shape.

Prescott, Ariz., Aug. 22.—It is expected that the Cleopatra Copper company's smelter will be in operation for ore from the Cleopatra mine the last of September. The smelter tracks and other machinery are now being placed in shape to start the plant. Four hundred tons of ore are already on the dump ready for treatment. The ore was mined from the Cleopatra mine in the Dillon tunnel. It samples from $10 to $35 a ton, carrying copper values from 10 to 18 per cent. The Dillon tunnel is now in 3,200 feet. The drift from the 1,888 shaft is being run to connect with the tunnel and is in 850 feet. Connection will be made with the drift and tunnel by running about 450 feet. The tunnel will be 4,000 feet in length when it reaches the 1,888 shaft. The tunnel taps six ledges, in all of which there is a good ore showing. Three leases of ore are now being developed in the tunnel. The first lens is in the Cleopatra mine, through which the tunnel passes 1,400 feet. Power drills started in operation the other day on the Cleopatra ore body, which is being mined 1,200 feet from the mouth of the tunnel. The ore body is tapped at a depth of 900 feet below the apex of the ledge. Good ore is exposed on the surface, indicating that the shoot is continuous from the tunnel level to the surface. When connections are made with the 1,888 shaft the development of the other edges tapped by the tunnel will be pushed.

The mouth of the Dillon tunnel is in Deception gulch, immediately southeast of the town of Jerome. It runs through the mountains south of Jerome and the United Verde mine in the direction of the 1,888 shaft, located immediately west of the United Verde company's smelters. It taps the six ledges at depths ranging from 900 to 1,000 feet.

The Cleopatra Copper company during the week put nine men to work driving on ore bodies. This mine has one compressor driving south drift under the Winning tunnel. The shaft will reach in about forty feet when high-grade gold and copper ore were encountered. Then a rise will be made of about 120 feet to connect a shaft with the Dillon tunnel. The compressor will be put on the ore bodies encountered, which means from fifteen to twenty tons of ore per day, the last of September.

MR. FACING-BOTH-WAYS.

A very interesting political phenomenon is presented by the attitude of the Duluth News Tribune toward the congressional contests in progress at the Head of the Lakes.

There are two of them, and in a general way both are being waged upon the same issue—one candidate in each district being a sitting member of congress known to be friendly to Speaker Cannon's re-election, and the opposing candidate in each case being opposed to putting back in his place of power that arch-champion of special privilege who has so abused his position.

In Minnesota the sitting member is Congressman J. Adam Bede and his opponent is Clarence B. Miller. The News Tribune, in this case, is against the sitting member, and professes to be very much perturbed about his associations with Speaker Cannon.

In Wisconsin the sitting member is Congressman Jenkins, chairman of the house judiciary committee, and his opponent is Irving L. Lenroot, a La Follette Republican who has come out squarely against Cannon, and who has plenty of material to work with in his fight because the judiciary committee, of which Congressman Jenkins is the head, is known as "Cannon's morgue" because when he wishes to kill a piece of popular legislation he refers to it to that committee, confident that his faithful friend Jenkins will see that that is the last that is heard of it. In its Superior department the News Tribune is very emphatically for Jenkins.

Daily reports are published about the Jenkins meetings, from which it appears that they drew "large and appreciative audiences," and "large and enthusiastic audiences," that the congressman punctured his opponent's claims full of holes, that somebody else "exposed" Mr. Lenroot's record, etc. Except in the flings that Jenkins or his friends make at Lenroot, you wouldn't know from the morning paper's reports that Lenroot was running at all.

In short, the News Tribune is against Bede because he is friendly to Cannon, and for Jenkins, apparently, because he, too, is friendly to Cannon. The Wisconsin man can do chores for the Danville autocrat and it is all right; the Minnesota man rises to the defense of Cannon, and it is all wrong.

But this is no unusual spectacle to those who have watched carefully the morning paper's political career.

THE RETURN OF THE TAVERN.

Says the Utica Press: "Just as the old dam and water wheel which gave way to the steam boiler and engine are coming back to their own and are now recognized as exceedingly valuable properties, so this country is about to see the return of the tavern. The building of good roads and the general introduction of automobiles is responsible for them. About as good a business proposition as anybody can have is to conduct anywhere from ten to twenty miles away from a city a first class tavern where a fine meal can be had, well cooked and neatly served, and where passengers can stay if they wish over night in bright, clean, airy rooms with plenty of windows to let in the fresh air. People are now touring the country by automobile as they did formerly by horse-drawn vehicles, and they must stop over night at the tavern along the way."

This opens up an interesting vista. As the development of water powers brings back memories of the old water wheel by the dam side, so do the needs of automobile tourists bring back memories of the old vanished tavern days.

But there is a vast difference in both between the new and the old. The old water wheel simply used the direct power of the water fall. The water wheels turned the machinery of the mill, and the mill ground the grain into flour. The new water wheel turns the armature of a dynamo which generates electric power for distribution over a wide area.

The old tavern was for the convenience of everybody that traveled, for the stage coach was the only means of journeying except the good old-fashioned way of walking; while the new tavern will be largely, if not entirely, for the convenience of those who own automobiles, which involves some taste for luxuries together with the ability to supply that taste. There will be nearly as much difference, therefore, between the new tavern and the old, as there is between the new generator of electric power driven by water and the old water wheel.

What a world of romance hovers over the old tavern! You can find it in the pages of the masters of fiction who wrote of the days before the coming of the steam locomotive. Most of those living today have no personal memories of the old-time tavern; but who has not a cheerful memory of those splendid roadside inns which Dickens and Irving have given such charm? You embarked in a coach drawn by four spanking horses, you wound your way along the roads all day long, and at night you drew up with a flourish before the tavern to whose comfort you had looked forward for many hours. The cheerful host, with rosy face advertising the merits of his wares, came out to greet you, and you followed him from the darkness into the cheerful light of the taproom where a comforting blaze leaped merrily up in a wide fireplace. Way was made for you by the fire, and as the innkeeper prepared a steaming beverage you toasted your heels before the crackling logs. Your supper, piping hot and embellished with more drink than you are in the habit of taking now, was presently prepared, and after cheerful converse before the fire, brightened by song and merry tales, you followed a tallow candle to a roomy feather bed, soft as a summer cloud, and slept the sound sleep of the tired and contented traveler.

Can the luxury and show of today, with the pretense and parade of automobile-owning wealth, conjure back to life such cheer and comfort as this?

THE DICKENS GIRL.

The London Sketch informs us that England is threatened with a formidable revival of the Dickens girl, and this is important because if England undergoes this experience, the United States is certain to have a siege of it, too.

Says the Sketch: "It has come about by the simplest means. An audacious milliner, in a thoughtless moment, re-introduced the 'cottage bonnet,' familiar in portraits of the young Queen Victoria, as a kind of blinker for motoring, and this headgear, tied round the dimpled chin of a pretty young woman, reminded numerous elderly gentlemen of sirens of the '50s. Like Yvette Guilbert, the first girl who ventured to wear the coal scuttle bonnet had a succes de grand'mere. The contrast was piquant, irresistible. For some time past the artists of the younger school have been painting crinolines and shawls, parted hair and cameo brooches—all the insignia, in short, of the young person of the Dickens novel and period. And now she is upon us in the flesh and not upon canvas. The cottage bonnet and the floating veil sweep all before them, the most devout woman hater is disarmed, and the susceptible fall at one glance."

These results, if truly pictured, make certain the prediction of the Sketch that we are in for a revival of the Dickens girl. A new headgear or costume that will "sweep all before it," disarm the most devout woman hater and fell the susceptible at a single glance, has an appeal to femininity that cannot easily be resisted. Such an advertisement for it may be expected to spread the new fashion afar, and it is by no means to be expected that the seas that wash the tight little isle will be able to confine it. Its sweep cannot fail to be world wide.

This is not a mere matter of headgear or costume, however. It seems that if you wear a Dickens girl bonnet, you must adopt the Dickens girl's ways, and if your memory of Little Em'ly, of Dora, of Agnes Wickfield, of Dolly Varden, of Lizzie Hexam and of Esther Summerson is at all clear—and if it isn't you ought to read about them again—you will realize that this involves a very radical change from modern girl ways.

Says the Sketch: "It would be a surprising about-face. Missy would have to put away her golf clubs and hockey sticks, and take to tatting and playing the piano. Young persons with a pretty wit and a talent for conversation must henceforth sit mumchance, and their voices must not be heard at the dinner table. Instead of snubbing and chaffing the Mere Man, she will have to prostrate herself before him as a being of superior powers. One can foresee some diverting contingencies—until the heroine of another and more audacious period becomes, for the nonce, the fashion."

The most alarming feature of this change, to "Mere Man," is the probability that the Dickens girl of 1908 may "prostrate herself before him as a being of superior powers." He isn't used to this, by a long shot. He is used to having his feminine associate act as though she considered herself quite as much of a personage as any man; and to have her suddenly switch about and become a demure, silent being, sitting at his feet and looking up to him with soulful and admiring eyes, will be bewildering. No man—except a few whose self-esteem over-balances judgment—can have that happen without an uneasy sense that he is being made fun of.

CANNED CAMPAIGNING.

Both Taft and Bryan—and perhaps some others—have made speeches into phonographs, and shortly the country will be flooded with phonograph records bearing their messages to the people.

The more one thinks of this new style of campaigning the more pregnant with possibilities does it appear. Though the phonograph has some disadvantages, such as the fact that its imitation of the voice of a speaker or singer is usually something of a caricature, the phonograph method of campaigning provides many advantages over the old-fashioned kind.

For one thing, both candidates have decided not to stump the country, but to content themselves with making a few speeches, and with giving out frequent interviews taking hard raps at each other's ideas and at each other's platforms. But instead of galloping up and down the country, speaking at county fairs, making addresses from the rear of a flying train, and undergoing infinite toil and hardship for the sake of appealing directly to the voters, they will this year sit quietly at home, bawl into a phonograph, and send the records flying over the United States. There will be no village so small and so remote that it cannot hear the leading candidates for president; all it has to do is to invest a little money in a few phonograph records, and it can have all the campaign speeches it needs and more, too.

It is not only a good thing for the candidates, saving them a lot of trouble, expense and toil, but it is a good thing for the voters, too. In other years, if they wished to hear campaign speeches, they had to give up an evening to it. They had to go down town after dinner, stand around the armory or the town hall or the village opera house or the roller skating rink, talking politics with the boys until 8 o'clock. Then they had to file into the hall behind the band, sit on a hard board without a back, laid over two or three chairs for economy's sake. Then they had to listen to the local chairman blunder through his speech and perhaps get so involved in his introduction that he used up half the imported speaker's time. The hall, probably, was cold and damp, crowded to the doors and thick with bad air. The program often included local candidates, painfully endeavoring to fill in the time by telling why they should be elected and why the voters should "stand by the ticket" and "vote her straight." You will remember, perhaps, that most of the talk about "voting her straight" came from fearful candidates who relied upon straight voting to drag them in at the tail of the ticket.

You don't have to do any of these things any more. You can put the phonograph on the dining room table, fix the lamp comfortably upon the red cloth, pull up an easy chair and a box of records, and enjoy yourself. You can put in a Bryan record and hear why you should vote for Bryan. You can follow that with a Taft record and hear why you should vote for Taft. Then you can weigh the opposing arguments, and make up your mind to vote the way you were going to vote anyway. You can replace the stale, steaming air of the political hall with the ease and comfort of your own home, and you can hear both sides if you wish, or a lot of one side if you prefer it.

But here is the cardinal beauty of it, after all: you can always shut a phonograph off.

MR. BRYAN ON THE TARIFF.

Mr. Bryan has been accused of giving too little attention to the tariff as an issue, and he evidently regards it as only a part of the all-embracing issue of whether the people shall conduct this government in their own interests or in the interests of special privileges; but he is thoroughly orthodox on the subject from a Democratic and liberal Republican viewpoint, and his speech last evening at Des Moines was in complete accord with the sentiment of the average citizenship, regardless of partisanship.

He devoted much consideration to the attitude of the Republican party and Republican leaders on the subject, and said that the Republican plan now is to seem to yield, without actually yielding, to the manifest popular demand for tariff reductions. He rightly arraigned the party which promises tariff revision, yet which failed to revise the tariff when it had, as at the recent session and many preceding sessions of congress, entire control of the lawmaking powers of the government. When a Democrat introduced a bill reducing tariff schedules to 100 per cent where they now exceed that figure, the measure was not even reported out from the committee.

The protectionist claim for the tariff has always been that it is in the interests of American manufacturers, farmers and producers; yet, as Mr. Bryan says, the farmer and the wage earner, supposed to be the chief beneficiaries, have never contributed largely to Republican campaign funds. The manufacturers and other direct beneficiaries of discriminatory tariff schedules have supplied practically all of the sinews of political warfare; indeed, much the greater part of the money has come from a few specially privileged interests.

"The 'reasonable profit to American industries' is an addition to the Republican rule," says Mr. Bryan; and he might have added that it is a very sinister and suggestive addition. He does add that "it is likely to be used as an excuse for raising the tariff;" and certainly it provides quite as much excuse for raising the tariff as it does for lowering it.

Mr. Bryan does well to harp upon Speaker Cannon and the tariff, for it is upon the extent of popular appreciation of these two evils that Democratic success must depend.

TWO CONVENTIONS.

The real activity of the governorship campaign will not begin right away, certainly not until after the coming primary election is out of the way, but in the meantime there is a very fruitful subject for the voters of the state to think about, and that is the contrast between the conventions that nominated the two candidates for governor.

But while the memory of the two conventions is still fresh in the minds of the people, it is well that the voters should contrast the pictures formed in their minds by the spectacle of the nomination of Jacobson in St. Paul and the nomination of Governor Johnson in Minneapolis.

In the convention that nominated Mr. Jacobson everything was prearranged. The candidates, the platform, the organization of the convention—everything was arranged for the delegates by party leaders by the night preceding the convention. Indeed, before the delegates came upon the scene reprsentatives of machine politics and of the corporate interests had everything fixed so that the delegates had nothing to do but vote "aye" occasionally. The candidate, who used to talk freely and loudly upon the relations of the people with the public service corporations, hadn't a word to say about them at the convention, and hasn't had a word to say about them since. The convention was over and the platform and ticket adopted before the delegates realized what was going on; and since the adjournment some Republican papers, including the Duluth News Tribune, have repudiated the steam roller methods that produced a bad platform, many others have repudiated the interference of corporations that produced the nomination of one of the candidates for railroad and warehouse commissioner, and others have been looking askance at the manner in which the candidate for governor received his nomination with the help of machine politicians and the corporate interest and at the price of silence upon matters in which both were interested. It was purely a machine affair, and one of its objects was to lacerate the political corpse of an attorney general who had dared to enforce the law against the selfish interests which procured his defeat for the governorship and the nomination of Jacobson.

In the convention that renominated Governor Johnson the leaders were swept off their feet and carried along in a storm of enthusiasm for the governor who has brought fame to his state and to himself. He did not want the nomination, and the leaders had taken him at his word, much to their regret, and did their best to nominate another. He had done his share, and he thought it was time for somebody else to take up the work. His own reluctance and the plans of the leaders were as nothing in the path of the convention, which, without prearrangement, without order and without anything but a very positive knowledge of what it wanted, burst all bounds and nominated Governor Johnson for a third term by acclamation.

This is the difference between a machine-made candidate and a candidate named by the irresistible will of the people who are proud of him and anxious to have him save the state from the prospect of a Jacobson for governor.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Who says the Prohibition candidate for president isn't going to poll enough votes to cut into the majority of both the Republican and Democratic candidates?" asked D. R. Scott of Chicago, at the Spalding yesterday. "I believe, from what I have heard, that the Prohibition movement is a serious one and that many voters throughout the country are seriously aroused upon the problem of doing away with the saloon.

"I have heard many voters say that they do not care for the platforms of the two great parties, but are more interested in the abolition of the saloon. When you hear any considerable number of people say that, as I have, you may be sure that the question of prohibition is being seriously considered.

"Of course, don't understand me for a moment as saying that the Prohibition candidate has the least chance of being elected. I don't imagine that anyone seriously believes that. But the fact remains that the Prohibition candidate will receive more votes than a candidate of that party has ever received before, and I believe that some of the politicians who are not seriously considering the prohibition movement will be very much surprised when the votes are counted.

"You do not get so intense a view of the situation up here. In Illinois, for instance, the question has received much discussion, and some of the counties and cities have gone dry. But down South they even look upon the question as one vital to the safety of their home, and a question that has to do with the progress of the community. When men and women consider a question in so serious a light, it is only natural that the voters should show some reflection of this sentiment at the polls.

"I believe that the total vote cast for the Prohibition ticket will draw from the Republican ticket. Just how much this will be, no one can predict. It will be more than most politicians are willing to admit.

"In every state where the negro problem is something that the citizens have to deal with and solve, you will find that prohibition has a deep hold. More than 75 per cent of the crimes of the South are directly traceable to the influence of liquor. Then there is another consideration. The influence of liquor not only makes the negro vicious, but it also makes him worthless as a workman. People in the North wonder at the wonderful spread of prohibition in the South. Once you could see the effects of the sale of liquor upon the negro, you would understand the reason. It is a fight for the safety of the home and for the commercial progress of the community."

According to Hugh J. Burke, at the St. Louis, Wisconsin may go Democratic this fall—or go very near Democratic. They are sore clear through, are the voters of the Badger state, according to the statement of Mr. Burke, because La Follette was turned down with a hard bump at the Chicago convention. They are also sore because the interests of New York are apparently attempting to run the campaign of the Republican party.

"You hear a lot of grumbling in Wisconsin these days," said Mr. Burke. The people who have stood behind La Follette all these years are very mad over the way his platform recommendations were turned down at the Chicago gathering. La Follette has taught the voters of Wisconsin to be more or less radical, you know, and so in the face of the platform adopted at the Chicago convention they are liable to turn to William J. Bryan as the man whose principles most resemble those of the Wisconsin statesman.

"The voters are also exertmely disgruntled at the attitude of Wall street. Many of the citizens of Wisconsin believe that Wall street is going out of its way to knife Bryan. I believe that this fact will gain many votes for the Democratic party in Wisconsin. The voters are saying that Wall street ought to be taught a lesson, and Wisconsin may be a state where an expression of opinion regarding the methods of Wall street is given. The Democrats stand the best show they have stood in years to carry the state.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

•••Murdock McRae and family started yesterday for their future home in Washington trerltory. They leave Duluth on account of Mr. McRae's poor health.

•••Julius Janzig and David Buchanan paid $5.75 each for not appearing at the municipal court as jurymen this morning.

•••Suit will soon be entered, it is understood, against the stockholders of the defunct Duluth Life society, to compel the payment of the policy on the life of George W. Clark, who was insured in the company for $4,000.

•••City Attorney Smith is now preparing papers in a suit to compel the St. Paul & Duluth railroad company to show cause why it should not bridge Lake avenue at the railroad tracks, and it will probably come up at the next term of court. The bridge is an imperative necessity, as there is great delay to teams and pedestrians and great danger of loss of life.

•••W. H. Longstreet, son of A. M. Longstreet of this city, was married last night to Miss Annie M. Haynes.

•••Mrs. Nellie Walsh, who has been visiting friends in this city during the summer, took passage on the Ontario for her home in Port Huron.

•••Robert Rutherford and Miss Susie Dunnigan, both well known members of the Duluth printers' craft, will be married in Eau Claire this evening. They will make their residence in Duluth.

•••A farewell reception will be given this evening to Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Pools before their departure for Faribault, where Mr. Poole takes a professorship in the Seabury Divinity school.

THE WEATHER.

The hint of coming fall was more pronounced last night and this morning than ever, and it is not at all improbable that light frosts will emphasize it in Minnesota and Wisconsin tonight. Still, the air is fine and tonic, the sky is clear and splendid, and it is weather that makes for the joy of living. Last night the temperature got down to 42 degs., and yesterday's highest was 74 degs. The weather man expects fair weather tonight and tomorrow, colder tonight and warmer tomorrow.

A year ago today it was pleasant, but partly cloudy.

The sun rose this morning at 5:14 and sets tonight at 7:07, making 13 hours and 53 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Much cooler weather prevails in the upper lake region and throughout the greater portion of the Northwest, attending a high pressure area overlying the Dakotas, the center of which moved to that district from Alberta during the past twenty-four hours. Light to copious rains fell over the upper lake region, Atlantic, Southern and Rocky Mountain states during Friday or last night as a result of low pressures in the lake region and extreme Southwest, and which also caused higher temperatures in the Ohio valley states. Another disturbance is developing in British Columbia."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

"Yes. Flirts by instinct, but with the finesse of maturity."

Baltimore American: "Have you ever seen a grapeshot?"

"No, but I've often watched a cherry-bounce."

Cleveland Leader: "Let me ask you one question," said the leader of the suffragettes to an attentive masculine listener. "Would you give up your seat in a street car to a woman?"

"No, ma'am," the man replied. "I wouldn't."

"And why not?" the suffragette demanded.

"Because I'm a motorman," the man replied.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Why did he buy that second-hand fire escape? He paid a good price for it and it's nothing but junk."

"Not to him. He thinks maybe he can induce somebody to build a theater or an office building to fit it."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Streaks in Human Nature.

How often when you inquire about a man you elicit some such response as this: "He is a pretty good fellow, but there are one or two streaks in him." Then you are forced to discount a little from the favorable opinion which you might otherwise have cherished. Probably we all have streaks, and the only difference between us is that some of us have found time to conceal them, or to overlay them with virtues and graces so that the streaks are not discernible to the average onlooker. Now and then a certain kind of a streak in a man gives pungency to his personality and you like him all the better for it; but as a rule, streaks mar the symmetry of a man's character and impair his influence. There is A, for example: he has a streak of vanity. He is a pretty able fellow, but he knows it and he lets other people know that he knows it. He expects you to compliment him on his new clothes or his recent athletic achievement, or his last book. He projects himself in the field of public vision a little oftener than the truly modest man does.

B's streak is sensitiveness. You can hurt him, oh, so easily! His patient parents and considerate friends have learned to respect his thin skin; but it fares hard with him when he mingles promiscuously with the crowd and is exposed to the darts and arrows that fly about when people talk freely with one another. He winces alike under attack or under neglect.

C is of a very different makeup. He is not sensitive enough to the dictates of propriety. He does not realize when he passes the boundary line between merry making and roistering. He is too fond of "shady" stories. His streak is consceness, and it becomes too frequently evident to the pain of those who like him best.

The streak in D takes the form of intolerance and narrowness. He is so set in his own opinions—and these are often based on a very narrow induction of facts—that he has small use for the man in the other party, the other denomination, the other country. He sees truth only from one angle. He will not give to foreign missions because, forsooth, he happens to know a secretary of a missionary society who lives in a handsome house and who, he thinks, ought not to go round pleading for funds unless he occupies a modest cottage in the poorer part of the city.

E's streak is cynicism. Bit by bit he bites off the reputation of other people. He puts the worst interpretation upon other men's motives and actions. The sky is seldom anything but gray to his vision, and if it happens to be bright he looks upon the day as a "weather breeder," a sure forerunner of a storm tomorrow.

So we might go on to designate the streaks that belong respectively to F, G, H, and other people in the neighborhood; but enough have been portrayed to make our point, namely, that streaks are, as their name implies, disfigurements of otherwise worthy characters. Most of the streaked people are at heart essentially sound. They belong to the respectable portion of the community. They are usually to be held in honor in spite of their defects, and we who have to deal with "streaked" people need to regard their underlying stability and worth, and not rule them out of our friendship because they seem to us lacking in this or that desirable trait.

For what are we that we should be too censorious. Peter Cartwright was once asked if he were sanctified, "yes," was his laughing reply, "in spots." In every one of us there are regions of personal life yet unconquered by noble ideals. Let us not look upon the streaks of others so much as upon our own, if so be we have them, in order that discovering them we may remove them forever from us.

THE PARSON.

When the Fish Won't Bite.

There's days when the fish won't bite;
It's either too calm or else too rough;
It's either too warm or not warm enough;
It's either too cloudy or the sun's too bright;
The wind's the wrong way, or the moon's not right
It's either too wet, or else it's too dry;
Or for some other reason, you can't tell why,
But there's days when the fish won't bite.

There's days when the fish won't bite;
You may try every lure, you may try every bait,
You may do what you will, and wait and wait
From morning till noon and from noon till night,
But you won't get a nibble tho' you try all your might
You may grumble or swear,
But the fish don't care,
For there's days when the fish won't bite.

But there's days when the fish will bite;
When it ain't too calm and it ain't too rough;
When it ain't too warm, but just warm enough;
And the big old fellows, oh, joy, how they fight!
Your rod's bent double as you keep your line tight.
How they leap! How they run!
Gee whiz, but it's fun!
On the days when the fish will bite!

Bachelors.

Life: Bachelors are cultivated in all large cities. They live in bachelor apartments and bungalows. They can be seen during the day in counting houses and on the golf links, and in the evening at dinner and poker games.

Bachelors at one time were easily caught with almost any kind of bait and swallowed bait, hook, sinker and all, often at the first throw. Now, however, they are becoming much more wary, and hide in the depths of their bachelor apartments or in deep poolrooms from which they cannot be lured.

They are gregarious in their habits, running in schools, but they stand by each other, and it is very unusual to find a solitary one. Occasionally, however, a more foolish and overconfident specimen will poke his nose into a summer resort, when he is promptly landed.

Bachelors are in reality the bulwark of the nation. By not getting married they do not raise families. Families, as we know, are constantly consuming our natural resources. Bachelors are, therefore, really providing more natural resources for the few. Their conduct, it will be seen, is quite unselfish.

WILLIAM BOYD ALLISON

By SAVOYARD.

ON MONDAY, Dec. 7, 1863, the Thirty-eighth congress was convened at the national capital and there appeared a gentleman from Iowa, William B. Allison, then a young man of 34, who took the oath as a member of the house of representatives. Schuyler Colfax was chosen speaker, and though not the titular leader of the body, Thaddeus Stevens was the actual leader. Other new members who appeared on that occasion and subsequently became distinguished political leaders, were William R. Morrison, James G. Blaine, James A. Garfield and Samuel J. Randall.

But one of these men is left among the living, and his congressional career terminated with the Forty-ninth congress in 1887, his seat in the house of representatives having been purchased by the ironmasters of Pittsburg for old Jehu Baker. Afterward Morrison long served with credit to himself and advantage to the country, as a member of the interstate commerce commission. He is now in honorable retirement, the most illustrious citizen of the great state of Illinois—soldier, statesman, patriot, gentleman.

Allison served four terms in the house of representatives and declined a re-election in order to run for United States senator against George W. Wright. James W. Grimes has resigned the seat in the senate after he had voted "not guilty" in the impeachment trial of Andy Johnson. A man named Howell was appointed to the vacancy, and Allison contested for the succession. He was beaten by George W. Wright, the one and only defeat of his long career, and that was in a caucus of his own party.

In 1873 Allison took his seat as senator from Iowa, the successor of James Harlan, and was five times re-elected by the legislature. Last spring he defeated Governor Cummins in a blanket primary for the term in the senate beginning 1909, and that election would have been ratified by the legislature. His service in the senate was more than thirty-five years, a thing unprecedented in the history of that body.

On Dec. 1, 1873, Allison took the oath as senator. A few minutes later John James Ingalls was sworn in for the first time. Edmunds and Morrill were there from Vermont; Sumner from Massachusetts, Conkling from New York, Bayard from Delaware, Logan from Illinois, Morton from Indiana, Carpenter from Wisconsin, Schurz from Missouri, Sherman and Thurman from Ohio. From Kentucky were Garrett Davis, a very superior man, and Thomas C. McCreary, "the silver-tongued sluggard of the senate," the first orator of that body.

The day Allison entered the senate the following gentlemen, subsequently eminent in parliamentary life, entered the house of representatives: Joseph G. Cannon, Julius Caesar Burrows, Richard P. Bland, J. D. C. Atkins and Roger Q. Mills. Alexander H. Stephens and L. Q. C. Lamar were also sworn in as members of the house that day, but they never served in congress before the big war between the states.

Allison was not a brilliant man but a useful one. In debate, contrasted with Conkling or Bayard, Carpenter or Lamar, Thurman or Vest, he was as Dobbin to Bucephalus. He was no orator, but a ready and sagacious debater, and what was greatly to his advantage, he never made a speech without careful and exhaustive preparation. He was far from a garrulous man, and he never said a word until he deemed it necessary to speak. If all our solons would follow his example, the Congressional Record would be decreased in bulk at the least 89 per cent.

The public considers Allison as a conservative, and so he was, by nature and by impulse—if you can couple the word impulse with the man—but first of all, Allison was a party man. Mike Sheen, an Irish saloonkeeper at Louisville, Ky., approached the late A. G. Caruth in 1886, when that lovable fellow was a candidate for congress, and said: "Asker, yer wrong, but I'm with yez, and such was the loyalty of William B. Allison to the G. O. P.

Or a more classical illustration can be had from that most readable of all "lives," Campbell's "Lord Chancellors:"

"A body of Presbyterians made application to Lord Thurlaw to assist in repealing certain statutes which disqualified nonconformists from holding civil offices. He received the delegation with great civility, and hearing them out, said: 'Gentlemen, I am against you, and for the established church, by G—d. Not that I like the established church a bit better than any other church, but because it is established. Whenever you get your d—d religion established I'll be for that too.'"

And whatever the Republican party established, Allison was "for that too," though he is politer speech than "the stern and hostile" chancellor ever employed.

They say out in Iowa that Allison was the pupil of Grimes. That may be; but he forgot his teachings. If Allison had held Grimes' seat in the senate in 1865, Andy Johnson would have been convicted. Allison supported all the reconstruction measures of Stevens, Butler and Morton, not that he favored them, but because the party favored them.

Allison entered congress more of a free trader than William Jennings Bryan is today, and it was Allison, and not Michael C. Kerr, that made the first speech for tariff reform in congress after the passage of the Morrill tariff of 1861, but he supported every protective tariff of his party including the McKinley bill of 1890 and the Dingley bill of 1897. No doubt he did it against his better judgment, but Allison, more than anything, than all things else, was a party man.

Ben Harrison was a far abler man than William B. Allison, but Allison would have made a better president. Leaving out matters of party and of policy, and relating only to the administration of things, in time of tranquility, I believe Allison would have been the best of presidents. He was naturally benevolent. He loved to confer favors. His patriotism embraced the South, all of it, even South Carolina, and while he would have remained a party man the South would have found a sincere friend in him.

James B. Beck of Kentucky, was a more intellectual and more forceful man than Allison, and a Democrat from crown to heel. They were chums, and Beck was Allison's pair in the senate. Both were members of the two great committees of the senate, finance and appropriations. Both were gluttons for work, and it is perhaps true, that Allison and Beck without assistance from any other senator could have formulated and brought into the senate every one of the annual appropriation bills. Many was the morn, that, as the sun rose from his bed in the East, saw these two in that committee room up to the elbow at work after an all night's ceaseless labor. John G. Carlisle is the only man I ever knew who could turn out more work in a given time than either of these, but Carlisle could not "labor" as they did. His is a genius for work; theirs was a passion for it. Carlisle's mind is phenomenal, and will get to a conclusion before Allison's or Beck's had fairly started. Instantaneously Carlisle knows wheat from chaff; Beck and Allison were necessitated to sample and examine.

Party man that he was, Allison was a great compromiser. When Dick Bland passed through the house of representatives of the Forty-fifth congress 16 to 1, and the senate agreed to it and sent it to R. B. Hayes, who vetoed it, Allison set to work on the amendment that is known in the statutes as the "Bland-Allison bill," under the operation of which more than $400,000,000 full legal tender 16 to 1 silver dollars were coined. Had Allison not compromised then—and without the aid of Beck he would have failed—Hayes' veto would have been overridden in the senate as it was in the house, and we should have had 16 to 1 in 1878. We would have had it anyhow but for Benjamin Hill of Georgia, and L. Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi.

So frequently did Allison compose legislative complications that somebody dubbed him "Old smoothin iron." When the rate bill was up in the last congress, and the debate had been furious for months and everybody predicted that it would fail, one morning Allison, without ado, proposed an amendment that the president and Aldrich agreed to. Tillman kicked; but the amendment was adopted, and the bill was carried with but three negative votes—Foraker of Ohio and Morgan and Pettus of Alabama. He was constantly doing such things, and that is what made him so invaluable in the councils of the nation.

Of all the men in national public life when Allison entered the house of representatives, in 1863, not one remains on the political stage. Politically, he survived them all, and of all the men in public life when Allison was sworn in as a senator, in 1873, but three remain on the political stage—Joseph G. Cannon, Julius C. Burrows and Isaac R. Sherwood.

After all, it is the man of solid endowments and attainments who is made for government. Ingalls was Allison's colleague in the senate eighteen years, but he only dazzled, while Allison delved, and yet your man who can pick a bill to pieces is, in many respects, as valuable to the country as one that can put it together. Either would be of little account without the other.

THE NEW ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SOCIAL REFORM. By William D. P. Bliss. New York: Funk & Wagnalls Company. $7.50.

There is no topic that is so close to the people, so much upon the tongues and in the minds of men today, as social reform; and this monumental yet concise and convenient volume is an indispensable adjunct to the understanding and discussion of the subjects covered under that head. It is a new book, rather than a revised edition, and it covers a wide field with commendable clarity and fairness. As a book of ready reference it occupies a place that is all its own, and that should have been filled long ago. There are thirteen hundred closely written pages in the volume, and a glance at some of the subjects covered will suggest what a variety of information it includes. "Accidents," treated by a named authority, shows that more persons are killed in industrial pursuits every four years than were killed or died from disease during the Civil war. "Adulteration of Foods," by W. J. Ghent and S. Archibald Vasey, shows how articles of food are debased and with what ingredients. "Child Labor," treated by Owen R. Lovejoy, shows the phenomenal increase in the employment of little children during the past few years. "Crime," "Education," "Expenditures and Cost of Living," "Poverty," "Railways and the Public," "Trades Unions," "Trusts," "Socialism," "Wages and Hours of Labor," are some of the hundreds of topics treated by recognized authorities. Usually, in a matter of controversy, articles appear from both sides. The book also contains very complete biographies of men and women whose names are particularly associated with social movements. A feature of great value is the critical treatment of special subjects. For instance, on the question of "overproduction" divergent views from various schools of economic thought are given in a form most helpful to students. This critical and comparative treatment is judiciously followed through the book. Tables of late statistics are exhaustive and compiled in connection with a bibliography that adds greatly to their value. Religious sects are considered as they affect social reform, education and labor. Foreign countries find a place in the encyclopedia as they affect trade, immigration or other social interests of the people, and evils that are particularly hurtful in their nature are treated critically and compared with like evils in other lands. The nature of causes and remedies is discussed and described.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE. By Mary Roberts Rinehart. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

This is a "bully" story of mystery and excitement. The tale is related by Miss Rachel Innes, a crisp and grimly humorous spinster of certain age, of very positive character and of exceedingly admirable courage; and not the least delightful feature of the book is the insight she gives into her unassuming and engaging character. But that is something you don't think about until afterwards. The rush of events, complications and mysteries weave such an interesting web artistically and from almost the first page until quite the last, you let yourself go in breathless absorption. Miss Innes rents a large house for the summer, and strange things begin to happen as she gets inside of it the curtain goes up on a stage from which exciting incident is never absent for a moment. There are queer doings in that house; strange noises, strange murders, strange thefts, strange comings and goings, strange disappearances and more strange reappearances.

Though the mystery element in the story is uncommonly ingenious, it is not this alone that makes the book notable. There is humor in it, and you don't often find that in mystery stories; there is genius of character-drawing in it, and that is only a little more common in such tales. In addition, it is written well; mighty well, in fact; in a clear, snappy, showing and vastly entertaining style. The reading of the book will prove an unexpectedly delightful experience. By all means, don't miss it.

AUNT MAUD. By Ernest Oldmeadow. New York: The McClure Company. $1.50.

Refreshing, ingenious, delightful. Mr. Oldmeadow, the author with the unusual name, has an unusual style of making books, and the appeal of his work lies not only in the freshness, but in the diverting and musical manner in which his English flows, with the working out of the story accomplished in just the lucid and clear-headed manner you would expect in a man who frames sentences as he does. It will be remembered, perhaps, that not very long ago this same author produced a novel which had in several characters a young man who fell in love with a young woman who came to him frozen in a clear cake of ice—with the ice about the only wearing apparel in her possession. That was novel and startling, and while there is no such amazing device for attracting interest in "Aunt Maud" as there was in "Virginie," it is every bit as diverting a tale, and rather better done. The story deals in very uncommon piece of matchmaking, perpetrated by Aunt Maud, who is herself a beautiful spinster, only 33 years old. From two far-separated corners of the globe she brings together Richard Cambie and her niece, Irene, and startles them by admitting that she intends them to marry each other. Irene keeps a diary, and it is from the pages she fills that we get the story. In them, too, the reader will find much charm, much vivacity, much wit and much imagination. Besides these two, there are two others, young people who represent the character comedy in the story. This doesn't sound like much to make a story from, but to tell it all would be telling indeed. It is a story, and one that is new, clean, appealing and full of irresistible interest.

THE GATES OF LIFE. By Bram Stoker. New York: The Cupples & Leon company.

Bram Stoker was the personal manager of Sir Henry Irving during his later years, and is also an accomplished novelist who found time while prosecuting his other work to turn out several very good stories, most striking of which was "Dracula," the weird story of a vampire, which has curdled the blood in many a set of veins. This new story is very different. There is blood-curdling in it, too, but of a different kind; the kind that good staunch human action in time of peril does with good red blood. "The Gates of Life" is a love story, pure and simple, though the hero does go through some very unusual experiences and shows the stuff that is in him in several very exciting experiences. It is somewhat over-wrought in one or two instances, such as where the heroine proposes—being a mannishly raised girl of independent mind—to a worthless and dissolute young wastrel, and where the hero, naturally rebuffed because he lets the heroine know he knows about the incident, propels himself off into the wilds of Alaska with a heart-broken story about an irreparable tragedy in his life—which the story goes on to show isn't irreparable at all. The action is for a short time in a vague place called "America," a longer time on shipboard, and more still of the time in England.

THE SOUL OF CROESUS. By Gerald Villiers-Sturd. New York: The Cupples & Leon company.

Standish Vandraken, a nice young American who owns a couple of hundreds of millions and wants to have a good time with them, makes a deal with a soothsayer and inventor with the heart of a villain by which another young man is to take all the hardships and headaches of his life of dissipation, while he is to have his fling with no disturbance from the conscience which next morning's disabilities makes so perniciously active. It is an unusual idea, and it makes a pretty dreadful story telling how it came out, for Vandraken, as it appears when his plan goes into effect, is not a "nice" young man any more; quite the contrary, as his trail of unspeakable dissipations with a woman who is the soul of harlotry tells too plainly. The story goes to show that even when you can hire a magician to work off the physical consequences on another fellow, dissipation is not a pretty thing; and that makes the story a cross between a magnificent tract and a thrilling and well-told melodrama.

THE COUNT AND THE CONGRESSMAN. By Mrs. Burton Harrison. New York: The Cupples & Leon company.

In this dramatic and absorbing, though rather over-wrought tale, the congressman is the villain and the count is the hero. The former is a wealthy American, intensely selfish, purse-proud and rather vulgar; the count is a young and impoverished Italian nobleman whose graces of character form a very marked contrast with the deficiencies of the American. The heroine, Margot Methuen, a daughter of a poor but ambitious mother and a weak and imposed-upon father, feels compelled to marry the congressman for the sake of her family, though she loves the count. As it turns out, the congressman has robbed the girl's father in a mining deal, and she gets enough of his fortune back so that it is possible to bring the story to the sort of end that readers desire.

SIXTY DAYS IN EUROPE; AND WHAT WE SAW THERE. By Thomas Rees. Springfield, Ill.: State Register company. $1.25 net.

This narrative of travel is interesting for its fresh viewpoint and entertaining treatment, its pleasing style and its touches of humor; and at the same time it is valuable for its hints and information, because it gives a clear idea of what can be seen in Europe in the time indicated in its title while traveling by the ordinary methods and with a fair degree of comfort. The journey was along the beaten paths, of course; and everybody who takes such a journey wishes to take the beaten paths. It is only the basest traveler upon his dozenth voyage who can break away from the beaten paths and seek new interests in the byways. A journey so short must cover the objects of principal interest which everybody must see, and the book tells how to do it. It is by no means the old, prosy, hackneyed rehash that fills so many books of travel, but it is fresh, clear and diverting.

This is a vivid novel of church and state in South America, showing the disorganized and crudely developed social and political conditions in parts of that continent. It is not a pretty picture of humanity or of the influence of the church which wields an immense power over the natives. The writer is evidently not a practiced hand at novel-making, but he has got hold of some very stirring material, and has handled it with unusual skill. The story is lavishly equipped with exciting incidents, narrated with compelling interest.

Among the Magazines.

Among the special articles in the New Broadway magazine for August are: "The Black Hand Power and Mystery," by Alfred Henry Lewis; "Prison Parasites and Their Amiable Lesbian Prey," by Vance Thompson; "The Man Bird and His Flight," by George Grantham Bain; "Liquor's Fight Against Prohibition," by Carrington A. Phelps; "The Face Factory," by Eugene Wood. The fiction is of a high order.

The August Forum, which is its second issue since the magazine reverted to the form of a monthly publication, opens with its customary survey of American politics, by Henry Litchfield West, who deals specifically with the opening of the presidential campaign, the party platforms, and the probable influence of the independent vote. A. Maurice Low, in the department of foreign affairs, discusses with his usual acumen, the significance of the Anglo-French entente, and incidentally points out that France is making a new record for herself as a conservative among nations. Among the special articles this month, Prof. Harry Thurston Peck contributes a thoughtful and impartial estimate of the late Grover Cleveland, both as man and statesman.

The midsummer number of Recreation is very profusely and attractively illustrated. Its articles are timely, full of the spirit of the season and most of them very helpful to those who are seeking the different methods of recreation. A few of the leading articles, each one of them well illustrated, are "Canoeing in the Surf," "A Trip Through Liverpool Waters in Canada," "Glimpses of Newfoundland," "Pack Horse Trip to Recreation Lake," "Building Recreation Houses," "Exploring the Wisconsin in a Canoe," "The Future of Wing Shooting," "Motor Boating on the Mississippi" and "Useful Hints for Outdoor People."

The special features of the August number of the Review of Reviews are a review of the work of the Denver convention, by Samuel E. Moffett; sketches of the Republican and Democratic candidates for the vice presidency, by William E. Weed and Frederic Austin Ogg, respectively; a tribute to the late Grover Cleveland in his home life at Princeton, by Dr. Henry van Dyke, and a summary of Mr. Cleveland's public career, by St. Clair McKelway of the Brooklyn Eagle; brief tributes to Murat Halstead, the journalist, and Joel Chandler Harris, the author of "Uncle Remus"; important articles on the gyroscope and its applications, by Prof. A. G. Webster and J. F. Springer; a description of the newest transcontinental railroad route—that across Guatemala—by M. A. Hays, formerly of Duluth; and an illustrated answer to the question, "What Are the Japanese Doing in Formosa?" by William C. Gregg.

Last month, in the National Magazine, there was a strong story about the Chicago convention that read like Macaulay's history; this month we find the editor in Denver, gazing pensively at Pike's Peak, and a veritable "chiel amang ye takin' notes." It is a remarkable story of the Denver convention, well told, with those personal flashlights which make it peculiarly worthy of preservation. Joe Chapple gives an incisive and interesting series of glimpses of great national events. The home department, as usual, has a large number of practical and useful hints to home-makers; the serial essays on "My Lord Hamlet" are worthy the thoughtful consideration of every student and lover of Shakespeare. Continued chapters of that charming serial, "The Keeper of the Door," appear in this issue.

Unalloyed enjoyment of the water's refreshing coolness is shown on the face of the boy looking out from the front cover of the August American Boy, and the contents of the magazine justs fits in with the vacation season. The fine serials of Houston, Tomlinson and Optic, with Weir's story of his experiences "Under the Great White Canvas" continue with increasing interest. There are many splendid short stories and seventy-six illustrations in this issue.

The August number of the Atlantic Monthly, the first issue to appear under the imprint of the Atlantic Monthly company, is full of fresh and inviting material. Charles D. Stewart, the well-known author of "The Fugitive Blacksmith," writes "The Story of Bully," a stirring and full-blooded tribute to one of man's most useful servants, the ox. The description of the tug of war, in which Bully conquered his rival, is as fine a piece of descriptive writing as has appeared for many months. The summer season is appropriately recognized by a delightful paper on "Newport: the City of Luxury," by Jonathan T. Lincoln.

In the August number of Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine the publishers announce that Julian Harris, the son of the late founder of the periodical, will succeed his father as editor and general manager. President Roosevelt chooses the same issue of the magazine to present a suggestion to the American public with regard to a national hymn. The president gives his reasons for thinking that the famous "Battle Hymn of the Republic" should have that place; and the editors of the magazine ask their readers to write what they think of the president's proposal.

The August number of the North American Review opens with an article by the late Prof. Henry Loomis Nelson on "Grover Cleveland," which was revised by the late Daniel S. Jean Jaures, leader of the Socialist party in the French chamber, describes the attitude of Socialism toward international arbitration. Sir Martin Conway defines "The Ideal of Egyptian Art" as being monumental mysticism. Gilman Hall examines the provisions of "The Aldrich-Vreeland Bill," which he believes will protect the country against monetary panics.

The leading place in the Engineering Magazine for August is given to the second instalment of Harrington Emerson's discussion of efficiency as a basis for operation and wages. In this section Mr. Emerson treats of the tendencies and influence of national efficiencies. He describes and contrasts in striking fashion the distinct racial qualities which characterize Great Britain, France, Germany, Japan and the United States in their race for commercial and industrial supremacy. Illustrated features include the concluding instalments of John George Leigh's review of the mining and industrial development of Sweden, and Charles R. King's description of the products and methods of European locomotive shops.

The August Lippincott's affords a good ample of what can be done in the way of "popular fiction" of the entertainment — though the magazine could hardly fail to be interesting were the mercury flirting with the zero mark. The title suggests the plot, which has to do with an elopement—two elopements, in fact. Among the shorter stories are Kate Jordan's "The Quarrel," a charming love tale; Inez G. Thompson's "The Apple," which narrates how a young husband's love first grew cold, then was fanned into a stronger flame; Karl von Kraft's "The Destiny of Rip," the account of a dog who refused to be given away or otherwise disposed of.

picion. They want to distinguish this promise from the unkept promises of the past by adding as emphatic an adjective as could be found in the dictionary.

"Fat Frying" and Favors.

Are we not justified in saying that "the people cannot safely entrust the execution of this important work to a party which is so deeply obligated to the highly protected interests as is the Republican party?" The "fat frying" process has become familiar to the American people. Pressure has been brought to bear upon the protected interests every four years—and to a less extent in the congressional campaigns between presidential elections—to compel contributions to the campaign fund in return for former favors and in anticipation of the favors yet to come. Those who are acquainted with the tariff fight know to what an extent the pecuniary argument has been used.

> The recent Republican platform is a bugle call to every beneficiary of special privilege, to enlist again under the Republican banner, and when the election is over and the Republican committee publishes the list of contributors—too late to make the information valuable—it will be found that the Republican party has again so obligated itself to the protected interests as to be unable to make a revision in the interests of the consumers.

With a president who, toward the close of his term, admitted the necessity for tariff revision, with a two-thirds majority in the senate and nearly sixty majority in the house, the Republican party has refused to permit any revision whatever. Mr. Williams, the leader of the minority in the house, introduced a bill prviding for a reduction of the tariff to 100 per cent, wherever it is now more than 100 per cent. It would look like the Republican party might have taken this step toward tariff revision, had it been deeply in earnest; but no, the bill was not even reported from the committee. When attention was called to an indefensible schedule, the answer was that they could not afford to open the subject for debate just before a campaign, but there is no force in this objection because the house rules are so framed that the majority can cut off debate, prevent amendment and silence opposition.

The Standard Oil Fine.

The administration has claimed credit for the fine against the Standard Oil company in the case which was lately reversed, but no effort has been made to relieve the people from the fine which is imposed upon them every day by the Standard Oil company through the operation of the tariff law which gives that company more than 100 per cent protection against its chief rival, Russia. What faith can a real tariff reformer, whether he be a Republican or a Democrat, repose in the Republican leaders, when they deliberately put off all reduction until after election, and then call for contributions, with the understanding that the public shall not know the names of the contributors until after the polls are closed?

> The Republican platform says that the tariff is intended for the American manufacturers, farmers and producers, and especially for the wage earners. If the farmer and the wage earner are really the chief beneficiaries of the protective system, will the Republican candidate explain why the farmer and the wage earner have contributed so little to the Republican campaign fund?

If Mr. Taft's new-born zeal for revision were an hundred times greater than his notification speech indicates, what assurance would the Republican candidate have of securing any real tariff reform at the hands of such Republicans as now represent that party in the senate and house, the very men who represented it in the recent national convention? Speaker Cannon, who has suppressed tariff legislation in the present congress, was a dominating factor in the convention and, if the Republicans retain control of the house, will be the speaker of the next congress. Does his prominence afford tariff reformers any assurance of a reduction of the tariff in the interest of the consumers? In case of a Republican victory, Congressman Sherman will become the presiding officer of the senate. He has been the confidential champion of Speaker Cannon, and in the convention it was Speaker Cannon who vouched for him.

Its Adds Delusion.

The Republican platform suggests that there should be a maximum tariff and a minimum, the maximum to be used in retaliation and the minimum in ordinary cases. This is merely adding delusion to procrastination and uncertainty. We have prominent Republican authority, Senator Dolliver and Senator Hanna, to prove that in the present law the rates were knowingly made higher than necessary, with the understanding that reductions would be made to secure foreign trade.

The Homestead strike occurred after the Republican convention of 1892, but before the Republican candidate wrote his letter of acceptance. He could not ignore the strike, for it presented an object lesson which even a high tariff Republican could not fail to see. So Mr. Harrison, the candidate, referring to the strike, said:

"I regret that all employers of labor are not just and considerate, and that capital sometimes takes too large a share of the profits!" "Too large a share of the profits?" Yes; more than that. The protected manufacturers have secured, in many cases, a tariff of more than twice the percentage paid to workmen in wages. The net profits of the steel trust last year were just about equal to the entire amount paid in wages, and the wages constituted less than 25 per cent of the total value of the product. According to this statement each working man employed by the steel trust earned, on an average, not only the amount paid to him, but 100 per cent profit besides for his employer. And, I may add, while these beneficiaries of protection have been pretending to make the tariff laws for the direct benefit of the employes, these same employes have, as a rule, been kept close to the hunger line, while many of the employers have become the possessors of the "swollen fortunes" which now menace the nation's morals as well as its business.

> And yet the Republican party was not willing that a single item on the steel schedule should be touched, and the Republican campaign will not dare to publish, before the election, the contributions that have been made or will be made to the Republican campaign fund by the men most largely interested in the steel trust.

How will Mr. Taft explain to the average man the benefits of protection? He can easily convince a trust that it profits by the tariff, but what about the victim of the trust?

Who Will Make Reductions?

No Republican leader will now deny that reductions ought to be made, but who is to make the reductions? The only answer given by the Republicans is that the tariff ought to be reformed by its friends; that is, that those who made the last tariff law should be entrusted with the mapping of a new tariff law. But suppose the people adopt the Republican idea and entrust the making of the tariff law to Republican congressmen; what will be the method of procedure? In the April, 1905, number of American Industries, H. E. Miles, head of the agricultural implement trust, says: "The people instruct and trust congress to grant just, equitable and ample protection."

Is not that just what the Republican leaders claim to favor? They want you to "instruct and trust congress to grant just, equitable and ample protection." And what does that mean? Mr. Miles says that congress "trusts the ways and means committee," and a Republican leader will tell you that this is also proper. Then what? Mr. Miles says that "this committee trusts such persons as Mr. Palzell," and that "they —they trust the trusts."

The method of procedure is simple. It is a case of confidence. The voters have confidence in Republican leaders; the leaders have confidence in a Republican congress; a Republican congress has confidence in the ways and means committee; the ways and means committee has confidence in the men who represent the trusts, and the trusts write the tariff law and thus secure to themselves the right to levy tribute upon the public.

We would not expect a jury to do justice to the defendant if it was composed entirely of the relatives of the plaintiff; neither can we expect a congress to do justice to the masses if it is composed of men who are in sympathy with, and obligated to, the corporations which have for a generation been enjoying special privileges.

> There is no prospect of relief from a Republican president and congress. The Democratic party, if entrusted with power, can and will reduce the tariff.

The Democratic platform not only demands a reduction of the tariff, but it plainly outlines the course to be pursued in securing the reduction. It begins by proposing that articles which come into competition with articles controlled by a trust be placed on the free list. What better place to begin? Years ago Mr. Havemeyer, the head of the sugar trust, said that the tariff was the mother of trusts—and her children are many. Secretary Taft, in his notification speech, says that an excessive tariff serves no useful purpose, "but offers a temptation to those who would monopolize the production and the sale of such articles in this country, to profit by the excessive rate."

No Penalty Suggested.

Now suppose the manufacturers, who have been favored by legislation, do conspire against the public and enter into a monopoly. What penalty do the Republicans suggest? None whatever. These men are to be consulted about proposed changes, and if the next Republican tariff is made like former Republican tariffs, nothing will be done without the unanimous consent of the beneficiaries.

Mr. Taft did not refer to the platform demand that wood pulp, print paper, lumber, timber and logs be placed upon the free list. Why? Because the president vainly besought congress to enact a law embodying part of this demand. It is absurd to complain of the exhaustion of our forests while we encourage their destruction by a tariff on the products of foreign forests. But such legislation becomes not only a folly but a crime when it is remembered that a handful of men monopolize the benefits flowing from the tariff on these things, while the whole country bears the burden of the tax.

The second step in the reduction of the tariff is a "material reduction upon the necessities of life, especially upon goods competing with such American manufactures as are sold abroad more cheaply than at home." At present the articles used by the poor bear a higher rate, ad valorem, than the articles used by the rich. This statement can be verified by an examination of any of the schedules. A tax upon consumption, even when laid with absolute impartiality, bears heaviest upon the poor, because our necessities are much more uniform than our possessions.

> It is true that we pay higher wages per day than are paid elsewhere, but that does not necessarily mean that the actual labor cost of an article is higher here than abroad. On the contrary, the rule is that high priced labor produces a cheaper article than low priced labor.

Manufacturers of hardware will tell you that they export hardware, which contains a great deal of labor and a small amount of raw material, but they cannot export hardware in which the raw material constitutes a large proportion of the value. We are sending manufactures of steel all over the world. The steam engine, for instance, is made by skilled labor, and yet we cannot send it abroad and defy competition. Our electrical machinery is made by skilled labor, and yet we have no fear of foreign competition, even in the foreign markets. Our agricultural machinery is made by skilled labor, and yet we export it to all countries. Our sewing machines are manufactured by skilled labor, but the American traveler finds our sewing machines everywhere, and the list could be extended indefinitely.

Not Due to Protection.

For twenty-five years the American working man has been told that he receives higher wages than the English workman solely because of protection, but our wage earners now know that this cannot be due to protection, because the English workman receives higher wages than the German workman, although the German tariff is higher than the tariff of Great Britain.

Protection does not make good wages. Our better wages are due to the greater intelligence and skill of our workmen, to the greater hope which free institutions give them, to improved machinery, to the better conditions that surround them, and to the organizations which have been formed among the wage earners.

A revenue tariff will not bring a panic; it will not inaugurate industrial depression; it will not reduce wages; on the contrary, it will stimulate business and give more employment, and a larger demand for labor will be a guaranty against the reduction of wages. A reduction of the tariff will reduce the extortion that is now practiced because of the high schedules; a reduction in price will enable more people to buy, and this larger demand for the goods will put more people to work and increase the number of industries.

> A lower price will greatly stimulate exportation, and manufacturers who are now crippled by a tariff upon what they use will be better prepared to enter the contest for supremacy in the world's trade.

The whole aim of our party is to secure justice in taxation. We believe that each individual should contribute to the support of the government in proportion to the benefits which he receives under the protection of the government. We believe that a revenue tariff, approaching gradually, according to the plan laid down in our platform, will equalize the burdens of taxation, and that the addition of an income tax will make taxation still more equitable. If the Republican party is to have the support of those who find a pecuniary profit in the exercise of the taxing power, as a private asset in their business, we ought to have the support of that large majority of the people who produce the nation's wealth in time of peace, protect the nation's flag in time of war, and ask for nothing from the government but even-handed justice.

SOCIETY

THE most beautiful affair of the summer season was the debutante reception held late Wednesday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Adams of 2110 East Superior street, at which their daughter, Miss Esther Adams, was presented to Duluth society. The affair was a garden reception and at both the afternoon and evening hours the exquisite beauty of the gardens made a most charming setting for the coming out party of a young girl. At the entrance gate, two large Japanese temple lanterns, designed by Chalmers Agnew, were erected. They were of simple design and bore a stenciled decoration in black of Japanese iris. From the gate a canvas walk led to the marquee at the left side of the lawn, where the receiving party stood. Along the street side of the walk bay trees stood as a screen from the street and alternated with Japanese lights. In the marquee a most charming scheme of decoration was used. The poles were wound in asparagus ferns and two hanging baskets held graceful bouquets of sweet peas in the pink American beauty shades. In tall vases and on mahogany tables were great clusters of American beauties. Miss Adams wore a simple French gown of embroidered white and a large picture hat and carried an armful of American beauties. Mrs. Adams also wore white, with a white picture hat.

In the pergola, punch was served and the white columns of this pretty bit of garden architecture, combined with the soft lights and green, was charming.

Receiving informally about the lawn were Mrs. Russell Bennett and Miss Frances Passmore, both of Minneapolis, who are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. The assisting hostesses were: Mrs. A. M. Marshall, Mrs. G. G. Hartley, Mrs. A. M. Miller, Mrs. Katherine Van Loo, Mrs. W. C. Agnew, Mrs. J. N. McKindley, Mrs. A. H. Comstock, Miss Josephine Peyton, Mrs. M. F. Jamar, Jr., Miss Jessica Marshall and Miss Hardy of Boston.

Garden paths led from the pretty formal garden with the flower beds of brilliant, blooming flowers to the wilder recesses of the garden, no less artistic and beautiful. The garden, which is on both sides of the creek rushing through the grounds, is arranged in the most artistic manner to preserve the characteristic features of the lovely natural scenery. In the valley of the creek, behind a tiny rustic bridge, the tinkling of music of a mandolin orchestra chimed in with the gurgle of the stream. Nearby the refreshment table was placed, trimmed in greens, and the service was from graceful baskets, carrying out the idea of rustic simplicity. On the hill at the eastern bank of the creek a summer house is concealed, and the guests came upon it unexpectedly. An open-air fireplace is built of the native stone, and coffee kept hot on the open-air fire was served in the summer house, which was a veritable room in tho tree tops. A rustic pergola leading from this exquisite garden into the formal cement walks near the house, was hung with pale lavender and white Japanese wistaria. Square Japanese lights, after a simple craftsman design, stenciled in black with a design of Japanese iris, were hung in the half-concealing bits of the woodland, making a most effective and harmonious light.

During the evening several hundred guests called.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

The Duluthians who have for several years been watching the career of Oliver Colbentson are interested in the testimonial concert which is to be held in his honor at the Lyceum tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. He began his musical studies when 9 years old with family friends and in a very short time passed from that to an experienced teacher. He studied with Carl Riedelsberger and when 11 years old gave his first concert, assisted by Mrs. Olund, Oscar Gronseth and Carl Riedelsberger. He later studied with Fred G. Bradbury of this city and has appeared in concerts many times during the ensuing years. He has been teaching in Duluth and this fall he plans going to Chicago for broader study. The program which will be presented at tomorrow's concert is as follows.

Violin solo, Spanische Tanz No. 8.... .... Sarasate
Oliver Colbentson.
Tenor solo, selected.................

FASHIONS in the School Room

WHITE EMBROIDERIES PRETTY ON COLORED GINGHAMS.

ONE PIECE FROCK WITH SELF COLOR EMBROIDERIES

A NEW MODEL IN SAILOR DRESSES.

BLACK VELVET AS A TRIMMING FOR GAY COLORED PLAIDS.

Simple Frocks Most Popular - Dark Toned Plain Fabrics and Modest Plaids and Checks - Pretty Touches of Hand Embroideries and Braidings.

No matter how blessed with worldly goods may be the woman of refined taste, she never makes the mistake of sending her small daughter to school wearing an elaborate frock. In fact, the well-bred mother studies simplicity in this respect to such an extent that the frock designed for the schoolroom is apt to err on the side of simplicity, were such a thing possible. The idea is to have nothing about the costume which shall distract the wearer's thoughts from the duties of the forenoon hours or arouse feelings of envious admiration in the minds of other little maidens not so fortunately placed. In this respect simplicity of garb not only spells refinement, but consideration for others, likewise, and particularly for the teacher, who must keep the undivided attention of her pupils if they are to be a credit to her efforts.

For Early Autumn.

Although the small daughter of well-to-do parents is seldom brought back to town from the summer cottage until the latter part of September or the early weeks of October, the weather is still usually warm enough to permit of the wearing of launderable frocks to school. These may be of any simple cotton or linen material that is not transparent, or of the muslin order, such as the corded materials, ducks and piques in white or light shades of blue or deep tints of rose. For any girl under 10 years of age such dresses are made in one piece, preferably a princesse laid in wide box plaits from shoulder to hem and closing at the left side of the front. These are usually soutache, embroidered or trimmed with pipings of a contrasting shade.

Tobacco Brown Linen.

For the little women, as well as those who have attained full growth and presumably the age of discretion, there is no color or material at the moment that is considered quite so smart as is tobacco-brown linen. It is particularly practical for a small girl's school costume in that it does not readily show dust or the inevitable ink stain. Moreover, the dull, dark hue is an excellent foil for the fresh complexion and the glossy hair above the bright eyes, the concomitants which youth does not appreciate until they are beginning to fade. These exceedingly smart little frocks are made up similarly to those linens of paler hue, but without contrasting trimming, as the smartness of the tobacco-brown costume depends chiefly on its one-tone coloring and perfection of tailoring.

Clan Plaid Ginghams.

So pretty are the plaids developed in ginghams and madras, not to speak of mohairs, that the woman who has not any particular clan to which she feels that she must show allegiance in such portions of the sartorial outfit as will permit of it fairly revels in the bright reds, dull blues and dark greens, crossed, striped or barred with yellow or white or black. In fact, so fascinating are these plaids that the shopper who starts out with the intention of purchasing material for but one such school frock for her small kinswoman usually selects several for that fortunate young person. She excuses herself, aloud or mentally, with the observation that Scotch gingham is never an extravagant purchase because it launders so perfectly and may be worn until the autumn is quite well advanced into the seer-and-yellow-leaf period. Moreover, that a washable frock is infinitely more sanitary than is one of wool; or if she selects the mohair she argues its iron-wear qualities as an equal reason for indulgence.

Worsteds Are Practical.

With the first chill wind of autumn the cotton plaid frock is discarded for the mohair or worsted, which, however, is not infrequently its exact counterpart in coloring and design. Such dresses, if not cut in one piece, are built in two sections and then so joined that they may be put on as one. This is because the frocks belonging to the average schoolgirl, of whatever age save that verging on the debutante period, invariably show a tendency to divorce themselves at the waist line, and this despite the strongly sewed on buttons and the row of heavy hooks which are supposed to keep them together. Consequently, the dressmakers who work exclusively for the younger set have come to the conclusion that the only safe way to avoid such mortifications is to have the plain little skirt, side or box plaited, onto the wide waistband which supports the blouse. This portion of the attire usually carries more or less trimming, according to the age and proportions of the wearer, in the way of plain silk bias bands of a color matching the plaid fabric's grounding.

White Frock Fads.

A great many mothers prefer to dress their young daughters in white the year round. Although this may seem a bit impractical in a large city where more or less dust is to be contended with, it is a most attractive and dainty fad, and one that may be unmasked even in the case of school frocks, if suitable materials and designs are selected. One of the popular materials for this purpose is a sort of poplinette containing wool and a small proportion of cotton. It is said to launder perfectly and to be almost as warm as some of the lightweight worsteds, notably the tropical serges which are now so much affected by college girls. Another practical fabric is medium-weight serge. This should be thoroughly shrunken before being made up, so that when washed there will be no danger of the frock's losing its shapeliness. There are also certain cashmeres of the cheaper sort which launder well and always look soft and girlish. All frocks of this class should be made up with gored skirts, as pleats are most difficult to iron.

All-winter Guimpes.

So well is the child of intelligent parents now protected with silk or fine wool underwear, especially the combinations, which are closewoven and warm without being in the least degree bulky, that it is quite possible for her to wear the daintiest of white guimpes throughout the winter. These are invariably of such launderable materials as dotted swiss or fine batiste, group tucked and entre deux, with rows of hand feather-stitching, the narrowest of genuine Valenciennes or Cluny lace. For this purpose imitation laces are never employed, for it is a hard and fast sartorial rule that no matter how simply made a child's frock may be, it must not carry any sort of trimming suggesting an imitation of something that is comparatively costly, as that at once vulgarizes its appearance. For this reason there is no style of guimpe material that in the long run is quite so satisfactory as is the one of muslin embroidery done in bold openwork design. While it is usually easier to cut out a guimpe from a piece of allover muslin fabric, the broad bandings, joined by means of beading, are rather more effective. Better still are the embroidery ruffles wide enough to cross the shoulders in such a manner that the scalloped edges may meet at the center of front and back.

Shepherd Plaid Suits.

The vogue of the shepherd plaid suits has extended almost to the nursery doors, for the clean-looking combination, so suggestive of coolness and freshness, appeals strongly to mothers of small daughters prone to have accidents happen to their wardrobes. It is rather remarkable, but nevertheless a fact, that in almost any material the shepherd plaid will wash satisfactorily. Consequently, there is nothing in the dry goods universe—so say the mothers who have had their trials and disappointments in the matter of providing hard-wearing and suitable school garments—that has so many firm friends as has the shepherd's plaid. This, of course, is not always of the two widely contrasting colors. Often dark blue, green or brown are used instead of black with white, but there is small difference in the size of the checks or in the general appearance.

Dark Band Trimmings.

While a shepherd's plaid may, and often is, made up without other trimming than that finishing the neck and sleeves of the frock and the little semi-fitting, half-long coat, which usually accompanies it, they are infinitely more smart—and, indeed, they seem to call for some trimming of a decided sort. Therefore, black velvet ribbon bands are immensely popular as a relief for the otherwise plainly made skirt and as a finishing for the jumper and the jacket. Or the velvet may be of whatever color matches the one checking the white ground. In lieu of velvet, fancy silk braids may be employed unless narrow bias bands of dark satin piped, with a high shade of red, blue or green be preferred, as is often the case when a girl is of the type to whom such trimming treatments are becoming.

Velveteen School Frocks.

Although velveteen may seem a bit elaborate as a material for a school frock, they are in reality the simplest of any that are worn. This is because they are made absolutely plain. There is not a scrap of trimming on the short gored skirt, which is finished with a broad hem, nor upon the loose blouse waist, which fastens blindly at the back, is finished at the neck with a medium high collar, and has long, straight sleeves that come well over the wrist. Such a frock in dark brown or green is immensely smart for autumn and winter wear, and is exceedingly inexpensive. Often there is a coat of the same material which almost covers the frock, and like it, is made absolutely plain, with not even a row of big, fancy buttons to relieve its one-tone effect.

The School Coat.

This wrap is of such vast importance that it deserves serious consideration. In the first place, the school wrap at almost any season of the year, but particularly at autumn, would best be quite as long as the frock which it is designed to accompany, and of a color that will harmonize well with whatever hat is likely to be worn. A smart fall model of this character is a half-fitting ulster, having long, loose, conventionally shaped coat sleeves, double-breasted fronts and capacious pockets. The schoolgirl always has an assortment of small articles which are of no earthly use to herself or to anyone else, but to which she clings so long as the "junk shop," which she terms her pocket, will withstand the strain imposed upon it.

For early fall wear there are few materials more practical than the heavy serges in black and white check design. These are not somber, as the checks are large and the white prevails over the black. Moreover, they may be smartened in various ways. Some of them have turned-over high collars and widely turned-back cuffs of bright red or Copenhagen blue or French army green silk, banded narrowly with black satin and further trimmed with black soutache or bullion braid. Or, in lieu of the high color, a shade of dark gray or light tan may be used for the cuffs and collar, the gold bullion being omitted and self-colored soutache employed.

Dark Blue Serge.

Year in and year out, the school coat of dark blue serge holds its own against all rivals. The reason for this is not far to seek. The color is subdued, but not somber, and the material sheds the dust. Blue will accord with almost any other shade: it becomes a youthful face, and it lends itself readily to supplementary adornment. Some of the blue serge coats now worn by young schoolgirls—the majority of these are shaped similarly to those developed in black and white checks—are brightened with huge buttons of gold or silver, showing some tinge of the dark blue in their incrustations. Other blue coats of this class have black and white checked silk collars and cuffs and nearly all have little neckties of black or dark blue satin, with tiny gilt tassel-finished ends.

Much of the smart appearance of a small girl's costume is due to the shape and style of her headgear. Quite as much care should be devoted to this detail as to frock coat, boots or guimpes, but at the same time it should be of the simplest possible type and with a marked absence of exaggerated effects. The latter tendency is apt to develop in the schoolgirl's hat which is not carefully chosen.

For the earliest days of autumn, when the rough straw of midsummer has become just a bit battered and faded, but the weather is still warm for a felt, there are canvas and fabric shapes which are exceedingly pretty in white and mole shades. They have rather square crowns and the wide brims of the sailor, but carry no trimming beyond an ornamental band which in some cases may bear the name of a private yacht or a warship. This, however, is only permitted to quite small girls who wear the boyish sailor blouse with its accompanying broad collar, white dickey and wide neck tie.

Some of the French felts are exceedingly light and come in every shade of color of which a little girl's frock is likely to be made. These shapes are distinguished for their softness of texture and their flexibility, so that if the flaring brim be not becoming when tilted sharply upward from the wearer's face, it may be caught up at the sides or even at the back. Often to tilt a brim at the back is advisable, for the child returning from school is obliged to face the noonday glare of the sun which is apt to be injurious to the eyes accustomed for several hours to the subdued light of a schoolroom wherein she has, of course, been studying with her back to the light.

The fur beaver hat has always been regarded as belonging almost exclusively to the little girl, and though this fabric occasionally suffers a fall from grace, it is usually revived the following season and taken up with the degree of enthusiasm which it deserves. The new hats of the fuzz-surface type are of platter shape, the long side to be worn across the head. Their crowns are rather low than otherwise, for it must be noted, in passing, that to the average girl under 14 years of age a high crown is not becoming. For schoolgoing there are hats of this character in shades that are eminently practical, such as those in brown, dark green and navy, trimmed with huge pleated rosettes, bands and bows of self-colored taffeta silk or ribbon. A few fancy wings are used on the school hat, but not many, as they are apt to make it of too ornate a character, and the idea is to have it eminently practical. The safest way is always to buy a rather expensive shape in order not only to get a hat that will withstand the weather, but one that will be exclusive-looking. It may then be trimmed with whatever material is at hand. If this is of silk or ribbon it may readily be taken off from time to time, sponged and pressed and put on somewhat differently. This is scarcely an hour's work, and will so freshen the appearance of the hat that it will look absolutely new to the uninitiated.

For a winter school hat there is no trimming quite so seasonable as velvet formed into knots and loops and twists, such as those which trim the little Gainsboroughs, having wide brims upturned jauntily at the left side and supporting stiff quills. The felt Gainsborough should match the all-enveloping school coat in color or in trimming, as in the case of a navy blue hat trimmed with black velvet knots that is to be worn with a navy blue serge coat having black velvet collar and cuffs or the white French felt trimmed with black velvet ribbon, which is to be worn with a black and white shepherd's check coat.

In most instances a large hat is far and away more becoming to a girl than is a small one, even if her face be of miniature proportions. But of all the big hats ever designed for the little miss none was ever so smart-looking as that of all black fine felt of shepherdess shape and scarf trimming, not unlike the grown woman's so-called Directoire. This is a type of girlish hat, which survives the changes and chances of every season and reappears annually, sometimes under a fanciful name, but always the same so far as any others than the milliners who make it can discern.

If a school girl is determined to have a little hat it should be of the smallest type imaginable and of a flat turban shape that will set well back on her head. These little affairs do not carry any trimming beyond a quill or a tiny wing and are only pretty with a coat which they absolutely match in color and material. In the case of a very slender little girl, with big eyes and a mass of curly hair, they sometimes look rather chic, but are really of small service as a head covering.

The little girl's church hat may be of finest felt in a low-crowned, broad-brimmed fine felt. Here her fond mother's fancy for being extravagant in her behalf may have a certain amount of license. On this type of hat may go innumerable short ostrich tips of a color matching the felt, a wreath of darkly tinted fine French flowers, such as Christmas roses or a band of handsome fur of the fluffy order, so long as it is not of sable or ermine. Little girls are not supposed to wear flower trees, feather aigrettes, ospreys or ostentatious garish buckles.

LARGE SHAPES ARE BECOMING. BEAVERS WILL BE WORN AGAIN.

Chicken Mold.

Mince any remains of cold chicken and mix with it one teaspoonful of minced onion or shallot, two tablespoonfuls of parsley, a pinch of cayenne, salt and pepper to taste and a few grains of nutmeg. Moisten with a quarter of a pint of jellied stock or gravy and two beaten eggs; press into a plain mold and steam one hour. The mold must be covered with buttered paper. When cold turn out and serve garnished with salad.

Little Lottie's Sweet Surprise.

BY HELENA DAVIS.

Little Lottie had a playhouse in the shade of a fine tall walnut tree, whose branches offered a home to many, many birds. And as little Lottie and her young companions played beneath the walnut tree the birds sang to them, and little Lottie declared they made music on purpose to cheer and entertain her company.

"Just hear that dear little singer!" little Lottie cried one day as she and Annabelle and Daisy were having play tea in the playhouse. "Isn't he—or maybe it's a lady-bird—grand? Oh, that song is sung for us—I feel quite sure of it. And if you'll look up into the branches just over our table you'll see the singer."

Annabelle and Daisy stopped sipping play tea from empty cups to look up into the branches designated by little Lottie, and, sure enough, there on a tiny bough, just over their heads, sat the dearest little bird they had ever seen, and the way it was swelling its throat in song was marvelous to see.

"Oh, the dear, sweet little singer!" declared Annabelle, smiling her admiration at the pretty feathered songster. "And see what a strange marking it has on its breast! There—right in the very center of its gray vest, is a white spot. I never saw such a spot on a bird before. Did you, Lottie?"

"No, and I don't know what kind of bird it is," replied Lottie. "See, there are others flitting about in the tree just like that one, only none of them have white spots in their vests. Maybe that's a birthmark."

"Ah, now it's flown away!" exclaimed Daisy. "I do believe it heard us talking about it, for it peeped down at us as if it heard. But—lookie! It went to a nest—there, hidden beneath that thick bunch of leaves at the right of that long limb? And, as sure as I am here, there are wee birdies in that nest. See? They are sticking up their heads, asking the singer for a bite. Oh, the pretty dears!"

"Well, I didn't know there was a nest in that spot," said little Lottie, getting up to have a better look at the little birdhouse so nearly hidden in the leaves. "Well, isn't it there for sure?" she declared. "And I wonder where the mother bird is? That singer—with the white spot in his vest—must be the father bird. Ah, there comes the mother!" And little Lottie pointed towards a quick-winged little birdie that flew into the tree, going direct to the nest.

But at this moment Annabelle's mother called for her to come home, and the tea party was broken up. Daisy had come with Annabelle and, of course, must depart with her.

"Why must you go so soon?" asked little Lottie, not having had half enough tea party. "Ask your mamma if you can't stay just five minutes longer."

But Annabelle's mother again called from her home, across the street, saying: "Come, dearie, it's going to storm. Just see the great black clouds, and hear the distant thunder! Come, hurry home, for we shall have to take Daisy to her home in the phaeton. I fear the storm will be upon us within half an hour."

"Oh, then I must take all my things in at once," said little Lottie. Then she fell to gathering up ten table, dishes, chairs and many other little bits of playhouse furnishings. But in her hurry she forgot a tiny basket, in which she had carried cookies to the playhouse, but which had been emptied by the three little ladies during tea. The basket had been tossed down on the grass several feet from where the hostess and guests had spread their table, and in that way escaped little Lottie's notice when she gathered up her playthings. And so it remained in the grass, waiting for the storm to come and fill it.

And pretty soon the storm came on in awful fury, blowing a gale and drenching with rain the hungry, hot soil. It was a glorious storm to look at, but awful to be caught out in. Little Lottie stood in the bay window of the library watching it, and felt great anxiety for the birds in the tall walnut tree. And while she was wondering if they were safe a terrific gust of wind caught the tall tree by its full top and bent it to the earth as though it were a mere weed. "Oh, those dear little birdies!" cried little Lottie, her face full of pity and anxiety. "Oh, I wonder if they were hurt—killed! And that dear singer who has serenaded us so many, many days. Perhaps he'll never sing again. Oh, it is so sad to have those dear, helpless things hurt! Oh, the wicked, wicked storm!"

And so little Lottie worried over the fate of the birds in the tall walnut tree, waiting with impatience for the storm to subside, so that she might run out and investigate the harm done.

But the storm did not abate till it was quite dark and then little Lottie could not go out into the grass, for it was, to use her own language, "swimming in water." Indeed, the rain had come down in torrents and had filled up every little hollow spot, making pretty miniature lakes. As a rule, little Lottie loved a great storm, but this one she did not enjoy, for she feared for the safety of the little creatures that were at its mercy. And she could see by the lightning's light that one great limb of the walnut tree had been torn from its parent stem and was lying stretched out over the very spot where her playhouse had been.

The next morning bright and early little Lottie jumped from bed and ran down stairs in her nightie and out into the yard. She was so anxious to see if any of the poor little birds had been harmed during the previous night's storm. She was glad to hear from overhead the songs of the birds, perched as they were on the limbs of the tall walnut tree. But when she looked through the branches for the nest that had been discovered the day before by Annabelle she was sadly disappointed to find it missing. But there—sitting proudly on the twig—singing as beautifully as ever, was the little gray fellow, the white spot in his vest being the mark of identification by which little Lottie knew him.

"My dear singer, where are the little ones, their mother and the nest?" little Lottie asked the birdie. But, of course, the singer made no answer. But even as little Lottie watched him, wondering how he could be singing when his mate and their little babies were gone, he flew from the tree, circled about over the heavy limb which had fallen on the playhouse spot and perched himself just above a very thick-leaved nook in the branches. Little Lottie turned her attention to his actions, wondering if the nest of birdies had been blown down to that place. Then, as the singer flew quite away, going off toward a meadow in the distance, she crept up to the fallen limb and began to search in its thick branches. Ah, what was that? Surely, something very peculiar in appearance. Why, it was her little cookie basket that she had forgotten to take into the house on the previous evening before the storm. And in it was a nest—a nest holding three little birdies, and all were as snug as could be, for by the manner in which the leaves of the fallen limb covered the basket of birds they had been protected from the storm after being tossed from the tree.

"Oh, how lucky for you that I forgot that basket," cried little Lottie; "and how nicely you fell into it—nest and all. But where can your mamma be, I wonder?"

Just then a whir of wings, and little Lottie looked up to see the mother bird, worm in mouth, circling above the spot where her little ones were resting after so strange and awful an experience of the night before. Little Lottie withdrew to a safe distance and hid behind a clump of shrubbery, watching the mother bird. And just as the loving mamma bird had fed the worm to her hungry birdies along came papa bird, wearing his white-spotted vest and carrying in his bill a fine, fat worm, which was to be given to the hungry nestlings also. And as he lowered himself to the nest, assisting the mother in feeding their family, little Lottie said, smilingly:

"You dear papa and mamma and children, you are just too sweet for anything, and when I tell mamma about how you fell from the storm-tossed tree into my cookie basket she'll say that it was a miracle to save my singer and his loved ones. And we'll have papa take the nest and put it into a safer place high up in the tree again, where the cats can't get at it. Oh, how dear those little ones look in the basket! I must call Annabelle to come and get a peep; and after breakfast I shall run down town and fetch Daisy, too, for she'll be so surprised to find a bird's nest in our cookie basket."

"And now, Mrs. Maloney," said the counsel, "will you be kind enough to tell the jury whether your husband was in the habit of striking you with impunity."

"With what, soir?" asked Mrs. Maloney, a bit doubtful.

"With impunity," repeated the counsel.

"He wuz, soir; but now and thin he preferred to strike me with his fist."

Ah, what was that? Surely, something very peculiar in appearance.

When the Tables Were Turned.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

Willie Walker was a little 12-year-old chap with red hair and a "crossed" eye. And Willie Walker's father was just a poor carpenter whose family lived in a simple cottage with unpretentious surroundings. Therefore, Willie, being a poor boy and not of very pronounced good looks, fell under the ridicule of most of his fellows at school and about the streets. Wherever Willie went he was sure to hear some boy's voice call out to him: "Hello, Bricktop!" or "Hello, Sandy-pate!" or "Hello, there, crooked lamp!" And, again, some tormentor would yell out to him as he went along: "Say, does the world look on the bias to you, sandy kid?"

And Willie, being but a child, had not learned to turn a deaf ear to his tormentors. In fact, he was very much hurt by the epithets hurled at him and was quite unhappy by being the object of ridicule.

But in the town where Willie lived were two brothers—Syd and Tom Jackson—who felt the kindest sympathy for the carpenter's little cross-eyed son and who braved the jeers of the other boys to play with him. To be sure, Willie was not entirely ostracized by his fellows, but was so often made the butt of their ridicule and coarse, painful personalities that he felt he had no genuine friends save Syd and Tom Jackson. And often he refused to go on a picnic—where he had been invited by Syd and Tom, knowing that some of the boys would surely spoil his day by poking fun at his red hair and crooked eye.

One day Willie was lying on the grass under a tree, watching the clouds floating overhead and wishing that both his eyes were straight like other boys' eyes, when he heard a man's voice call from the gate:

"Is this the home of William Walker, carpenter?"

Willie quickly rose and replied that it was and that his father was William Walker, but was at his shop in town, busy with some work.

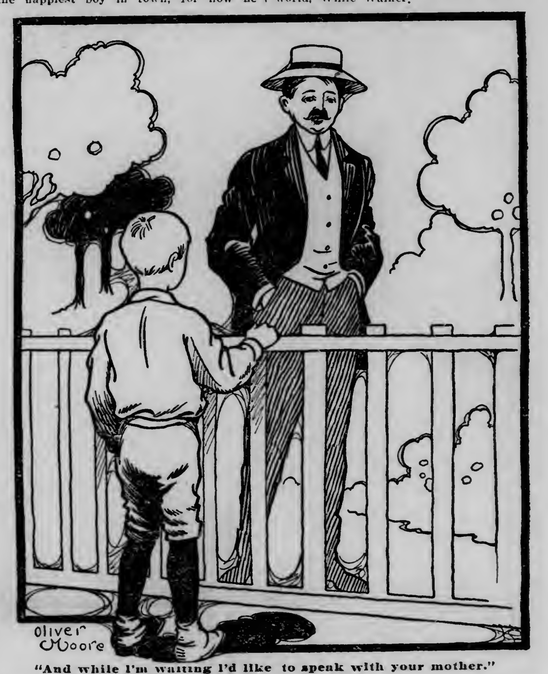
"Well, I can wait till he comes home for dinner," said the man, coming in through the gate. "And while I'm waiting I'd like to speak with your mother."

Willie called to his mother, who came upon the porch. And as soon as her eyes fell on the stranger she cried out in a happy voice: "Why, if it isn't my dear brother Jim!" And in another minute she was in the big man's arms and crying for very joy over the meeting, which was so unexpected.

And then Uncle Jim took Willie in his arms and really kissed his frowzy red head, declaring that he was a fine boy and worthy of his relationship. But that day, after dinner, Willie heard his parents in earnest conversation with his Uncle Jim and heard his uncle say: "Of course it can be done as slick as a ribbon and no harm done. And I've got the money to pay for it, too." And it turned out that it was Willie's crossed eye of which they were speaking, and on the following day they took him to the doctor's office, and, after being there a little while, Willie came away with two straight eyes. But, of course, he couldn't use his eye that had been operated on for some days and had to have it closely bandaged. But when the bandage was at last removed by the doctor Willie was the happiest boy in town, for now he had two eyes exactly alike and as fine and straight as any other boys' eyes, too. As for his red hair—bah, he didn't care a fig about that. Uncle Jim declared it would grow darker as Willie grew older and that if he lived long enough it would turn as white as snow. And to all this Willie laughed heartily, for now he was so happy. No more would the boys laugh at him and ask if he saw all things bias. And, to cap the climax, good, jolly Uncle Jim bought the finest pony for Willie you ever saw and a saddle and bridle to go with it, or on it, I should say.

Then you should have seen the way all those ugly, tormenting boys did try to get into Willie's good graces, for they coveted a ride on the pony. Beside, the report had been circulated about town that Uncle Jim was a very rich man (which was true) and that he meant to give his nephew all sorts of schooling and travel (which was true, also).

And to do Willie justice—for he was not a bad boy at heart—he did not resent the way the boys had treated him in the past; but he never quite trusted any of them save Syd and Tom. But he treated even his former tormentors with kindness and made them feel quite ashamed of themselves. And to this day they regret having made fun of the kindest and most generous boy in the world, Willie Walker.



"And while I'm waiting I'd like to speak with your mother."

The Merry-Go-Round.

On the jolly merry-go-round
We children love to go;
A-swinging round to music gay
Is such good sport, you know.

Mounted on a camel's back,
Or on a tall giraffe;
Or sitting on a tiger's back,
We sing and shout and laugh.

No other sport in all the world
Is half so fine, I'm bound,
As is the one of riding fast
Upon the merry-go-round.

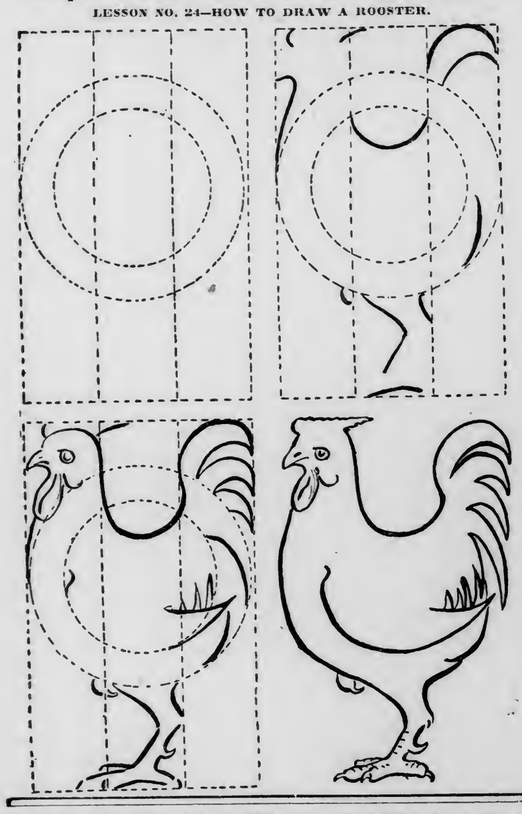
LESSON NO. 24—HOW TO DRAW A ROOSTER.



BRAVE KATIE DONIVAN.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Katie Donivan, 10 years old, was the child of very poor parents. The Donivans lived on the top floor of a tumble-down old tenement-house in a great city. Every morning Mr. and Mrs. Donivan went to a factory to work, and did not return till long after 6 o'clock in the evening. Katie, being their eldest child, was left in charge of the house and her five-year-old brother and six-month-old baby sister.

And so it was that while most of the other children in the tenement-house had time for play—though it was necessarily in the hot and dirty street—Katie Donivan had time only for work. She had the three poor living-rooms to keep tidy, food to prepare for the little ones and herself, and the baby to mind when it was cross, and to watch when it slept. So you children who never have to work cannot realize what a dull and work-worn life poor Katie Donivan lived.

But Katie was not a complaining girl at all; in fact, she was always in a very hopeful frame of mind, doing her work with a will and doing it the very best she knew how to. And her love for the little brother and delicate baby sister prevented the care of them from becoming a hardship.

One sultry afternoon while the baby slept Katie made a hurried trip to the market, a few blocks away. She led her little brother with her to give him the pleasure of going and to prevent his making any noise to wake the baby during her absence. And as the two hurried down the burning pavement Katie counted over her change—12 cents—and named over the things she would buy for the family's supper.

"Five cents for bread," she began, "and five cents for sausages. That leaves two cents for potatoes. But we've got three potatoes in the kitchen already. And we've got several slices of bacon, too, which will make supper for papa. And I'll cook some rice—there is still a bit of it for you, Sammy, and myself."

"I want sausages," declared Sammy, smacking his little red lips in anticipation. "I don't want bread nor rice—I wants sausages."

"All right, piggie, you may have one nice, big slice off the sausage. And here we are at the market. Ah, there's old Mr. Schnider to wait on us. He's very good, too, and gives me good measure. I like him to wait on me—he gives me such a lot for my pennies."

The old marketman, Mr. Schnider, came to wait on Katie and to ask her how the family were. Then he got the things she wanted, giving her about seven cents' worth of sausage for the nickel. And to add to his kindness the old German gave a ripe, juicy plum to Sammy, who put it into his mouth at one bite.

Then Katie and Sammy started homeward. But at the next corner they were held in delay by a fire engine coming down the street. Then another and another came in its wake. The crowds became so thick that it was almost impossible for Katie and Sammy to get through, and Katie had to push her way, dragging the reluctant Sammy with her. He wanted to stay there and "see what all the noise was."

"But these engines are going right down past our house and they'll wake the baby," explained Katie, hurrying him along. "And—— Why, Sammy, look! I do believe—I do believe——" But Katie said not another word. Fairly dragging Sammy, she ran down the street like a flash, winding her way in and out through the crowd and gaining the front of her own home.

But she couldn't get to the door, for policemen barred the way and kept intruders out. The engines were near to the house, the firemen getting ready to go to work right there. And, to Katie's horror, she learned that the fire had broken out in the floor just below that occupied by her own family. Oh, and there was the baby up there alone. Katie's heart beat fast and her little pinched face turned a deadly white. Telling Sammy to go across the street and to remain there till she should call for him, she ran to a policeman and said: "Please, sir, our little baby is on the top floor. I must go up and get it."

"Stand back," ordered the policeman, pushing Katie away from the "fire line." Then he explained to her: "The firemen have been up and have fetched out all who were there. You can't go in—the whole third floor is afire."

At this news Katie felt the very blood in her veins turning to ice. What! Trust their precious baby to the firemen? What if they had not found her? She was lying in the bedroom—way back in the shadiest—which meant the darkest—corner of the room. And she was on a little pallet on the floor. Chairs, the bed and other furniture would have been in the way of the firemen seeing her!

Katie pressed her lips together firmly. She had made up her mind to save her beloved and helpless baby sister. Waiting her chance, she went close to the "fire line," then, when the policemen were busy keeping grown-ups back from the danger line she darted past them, gaining the steps, then the door, before anyone had scarcely caught a glimpse of her. "There goes a child into the house!" went up the shout from a dozen onlookers. Then the policemen ran to call her out. And half a dozen firemen hurried into the burning building to force Katie out again. But she had gained the door, and before those in pursuit of her could cross the threshold she had gone up the first flight of stairs. Then she was bounding up the other flight, holding her apron over her mouth and eyes to shut out the terrible smoke.

Then, almost miraculously, she was on her own landing, and in another minute had found her precious baby sister—where it had really been overlooked by the firemen and was starting down again. But the smoke drove her back into her own rooms, and she found exit by way of the stairs cut off.

But Katie was a little woman in mind. Her lot had always been such a poor one that, like all children of the poor, she was wise for her tender years. Having known so much responsibility in her life, she did not shudder, nor cry out at the danger which now confronted her. She stood but a moment, with the precious baby wailing lustily in her arms. Then, running to the fire escape, she stepped out through an open window upon it. As she did so a cry of horror and fear sprang from a hundred throats in the street below. "A child—a little girl, holding a baby!" At the sight several women fainted and strong men lost control of their voices and began condemning the careless firemen who claimed to have rescued every living soul from the building.

Hastily ladders were placed, and firemen—two of them—ascended to the rescue of Katie and the baby. And not a minute too soon were they, for already the smoke and flames were shooting out through the closed windows of the lower floors, and 10 minutes after Katie had been taken from the fire escape, still holding tightly to her baby sister, the entire front of the building was one mass of seething flames.

A little later Katie, still white and trembling, was the center of an admiring group of strangers. And even as they applauded and praised her for her brave act in saving her baby sister she remembered her little brother. "Please let me pass across the street," she begged, "for my brother Sammy is there waiting for me. I mustn't leave him too long."

"Bless that child—that dear little motherly sister!" exclaimed a stout old gentleman who had stopped near to the burning building to ascertain the amount of harm done. But in his interest in Katie, whose bravery and love had so impressed him, he forgot the building and the financial loss. And after Katie had found Sammy—the little fellow had obeyed her—the old gentleman called her to him and began to question her regarding herself and her parents.

And what Katie told him was so straightforward, so innocent of trying to arouse his sympathy, that he stayed about the place till the agonized Mr. and Mrs. Donivan came hurrying to the scene. Some of the neighbors had telephoned to the factory, breaking the news to them of their loss, for loss it was indeed, every particle of furniture, clothing and food gone up in flames. And they too poor to replenish at once.

After the first expression of woe had spent itself, however, the portly old gentleman approached Mr. and Mrs. Donivan and entered into conversation with them. "You might have lost more than your worldly goods, my friends, had it not been for this bravest little girl in the world. At the risk of her own life she rescued the baby sister. And to show you my appreciation of her, and my sympathy for you in your distress, I shall be glad to hand you this sum of money to assist you in furnishing up another little home. And I shall take it upon myself to see that this little girl shall profit by her brave act, for she shall be proved a Carnegie heroine and receive the sum due her on such an occasion. I have already half a hundred names signed here by people who witnessed her more than brave act." And the portly gentleman showed a paper covered by signatures.

And then, promising to let them hear from him within a few days, and giving Mr. Donivan his address, the good old gentleman kissed Katie on each cheek, patted Sammy on the head and departed. And when Mr. Donivan looked into the little purse the stranger had thrust into his hands he found the splendid sum of $50 there.

"Oh, what a good, good man!" cried Mrs. Donivan, holding her baby against her breast. "And just to think that our own dear Katie——" But tears choked off further utterance, and the mother could only reach out her arm and embrace the little daughter who had that day shown herself more than brave indeed, for she had risked her own life to save her little sister.

But the smoke drove her back into her own room.

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in tail, but not in dog:
My second is in tree, but not in log:
My third is in drink, but not in spree:
My fourth is the same as is found in my three:
My fifth is in iron, but not in lead:
My sixth is in spread, but not in bed:
My whole spells a game
That all children love,
And they'll know what it is
If they can read it above.

BEHEADINGS.

(1) Behead an animal that is very dangerous when in the wild state and leave a part of a rowboat. (2) Behead to run away and leave that which comes with the dawn. (3) Behead a name often applied to a dirty little street urchin and leave a small animal.

CURTAILINGS.

(1) Curtail that which is used on the exterior of a frame house and leave the result of a severe blow on the human body. (2) Curtail a lucious fruit and leave a small vegetable. (3) Doubly curtail a small driving vehicle and leave a large insect.

HIDDEN NAME PUZZLE.

By taking the initial letter of a one-syllable word from each of the following sentences and writing them in the order in which they come you will have the name of a famous composer:

The bee is an industrious insect.
Always aim to do your best.
Never cry over spilled milk.
The brave are always full of hope.

RIDDLE.

He that in music takes delight;
And he that sleeps secure at night;
And he who sails too near the land;
And he that's caught by law's strong hand;
He who his time in tavern spends;
And he that courts of law attends—
Are all acquainted well with me:
My name you surely now must see.

SEABORN WRIGHT.

TWENTY SALOONS IN TWO BLOCKS IN THE BUSINESS CENTER OF LEXINGTON KY.

By JOHN S. HARWOOD

(Copyright, 1908, by the Associated Literary Press.)

A TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY, WITH tears streaming down his face, stood in the streets of a little Georgia town nearly forty years ago, and with agonizing appeals and frantic gestures, tried to stop an angered, drunken woman from beating her child into insensibility.

The boy was Seaborn Wright. Today Seaborn Wright is probably the best known prohibition leader in the United States—he could have had the presidential nomination this year had he but signified his willingness to make the race. He is generally credited in Georgia, by Prohibitionists and saloon men alike, with doing more than any other man to put that state in the "dry" column, and throughout the South he is looked upon as being largely responsible for the spread in that region of the present-day remarkable temperance wave that is extending pretty much over the entire civilized world, but more especially in this country and the north of Europe.

It was the spectacle of the drunken mother—when sober, a charitable and loving woman—trying to kill her son that gave Seaborn Wright his lasting impression against the sale of liquor, and from the day that he tried to protect the child until now he has been a fighter for prohibition. In its cause he has spoken in every state of the Union. For its advancement he has spent each year for many years a large part of the income that he receives from his 20,000 peach trees and other Georgia farm land and his law practice. And to further its cause he entered politics when a young man, has been a member of the Georgia legislature for a quarter of a century, and a thorn in the flesh of the Cracker politicians for as long. Georgia still vividly remembers his race for governor on the Prohibition-Populist ticket ten years ago, when he polled three-fourths of the state's white vote, being defeated by the heaviest negro registration known in the history of the state.

Wright has attained his prominence as a promoter of the "dry" doctrine not only by his everlasting keeping at it, but also by his eloquence. It is to be doubted whether the cause he champions can boast today of a more forceful speaker. A few weeks ago he addressed, on their invitation, the members of the Louisiana legislature on his favorite subject. There was present also an anti-prohibition delegation from New Orleans, but before he had been speaking long, Mr. Wright had not only the legislators but the anti-prohibitionists standing upon the chairs and cheering for him like a lot of delighted college boys. The last two years he has delivered addresses all over the South; not infrequently he has spoken night after night for considerable stretches, and his audiences have numbered all the way from 1,000 to 10,000 people.

As a member of the Georgia legislature Wright always receives the closest attention when speaking. When he wants to say anything he rises from his seat, walks to the front of the chamber, throws his right leg across the top of an unoccupied desk, removes a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles, wipes them carefully with a handkerchief, leans his six-foot, slender frame slightly forward and begins, with not a whisper to disturb his train of thought; for though he has had many opponents in the legislature, none disputes his oratorical powers.

Wright comes of a family noted in his section of Georgia for its orators as far back as the oldest resident can remember. Some of his ancestors were sturdy old pioneers of the Georgia backwoods. They were the leaders in the brush-fire political rallies, and swept the opposition off their feet by their oratory. Wright's father was particularly noted for this gift. A typical gentleman of the old Southern school and one of the leading men of his town, yet, even at times of the greatest social or political importance, he declined to wear a collar over the shirt that sparkled in its cleanliness as far as could be seen.

When Wright made his initial appearance in the state legislature he declared his platform: "Anti-child labor, prison reform, prohibition, anti-bucket shop, pure food, and all legislation looking toward the development and protection of man, so as to make a clean, incorruptible citizenship." This has remained his platform, and in order to promote it he has appealed to the voters as a Democrat, a Populist, a Prohibitionist and an Independent. When he ran for governor with the backing of the Prohibitionists and the Populists prohibition of strong drink and leasing of convicts was his battlecry. Today Wright is a Democrat, and it is interesting to note that the Democratic party has made Georgia a "dry" state and is striking the deathblow to the convict lease system. The platform on which Wright ran for governor was the first one in Georgia to declare for the abolition of the whiskey and the convict traffic.

"It is all over, Seab," said a friend, when it became known that Wright was a defeated gubernatorial candidate.

"What is all over?" asked Wright, from his seat on an old lumber wagon.

"Your election for governor," was the answer.

"This election may be over, but the fight is not," responded Wright.

Wright is still fighting, and, like the Rev. "Billy" Sunday, who also is arousing prohibition fervor wherever he speaks, he is a man who is not adverse to fighting physically, if necessary, to defend himself. In the fight for prohibition in his state he was the leader of the "drys" in the lower house. During the thirteen-hour filibuster that was followed by the passage of the bill, a leader of the opposition and Wright engaged in a personal encounter that set the house on fire and out of which Wright did not come with the lesser honors.

It was as a lawyer that Wright discovered of a surety that he possessed the weapon he has used so effectively in the cause of prohibition. His speech won the first case he took, and through his eloquence he has won numerous cases since. It is rather curious to note that he has never taken a case except as a lawyer for the defense. His law practice and his peach groves and his farms, by the way, have received from him but a little personal attention during the last two years. But then he has plenty of this world's dollars with which to hire competent help—and his peach crop this year was exceptionally fine.

The Man Behind The Anti-Saloon League.

Howard H. Russell, organizer of and chairman of the headquarters committee of the Anti-Saloon league, and as such one of the big personal forces, arrived at his present eminence by the farm, a clerkship in a government arsenal, a cattle herder's saddle, a school teacher's certificate, a country newspaper editor's chair, a lawyer's license, political defeat and the ministry.

His failure, to secure re-election as county superintendent of schools out in Iowa proved, in the early eighties, the first turning point in Russell's career. For several years before the voters declined the call to return him to office, Russell's wife had been begging him to go into the ministry, his father's profession. When his political disappointment came to him he acquiesced in his wife's desire, threw up his lucrative law practice, went to Oberlin with his wife and daughter and, at 29, began to equip himself to begin life all over again.

It was while he was in the seminary that he made his initial assaults on the "demon" rum, becoming interested in the work through the influence of the late Francis Murphy.

The organizer of the movement that routed the saloons from Berea, Ohio, which has kept them out ever since, he was rather badly beaten up by a saloon keeper in a street assault. To the sympathy that this attack upon him aroused for his cause Dr. Russell attributes the success of his first anti-saloon movement by just half a dozen votes. Later on, when the Berea saloonkeepers took to selling liquor illicitly, Student Russell, calling his legal evidence against the law breakers, conducted the resultant trials and obtained such heavy penalties that the liquor laws were rigorously observed as long as he remained in town.

Two years later Russell led the Ohio state fight for a township local option bill. He was put in charge of this work by a temperance alliance. His first move was to open a headquarters in Columbus, the state capital. Then he organized the pastors and churches of the state into a compact body for circulating petitions for and literature and other arguments in behalf of the local option bill. The signatures thus obtained were sent to bear on the house caused it to pass the bill by a small majority. Several days before the vote was to be taken on the bill in the senate a poll showed a majority of one for it. Just before the eleventh hour arrived one of the senators, yielding to pressure from the other side, confessed to Russell that he could not stand by his first pledge and vote for the bill. No sooner said than Russell got busy, and the senator was flooded with personal letters and telegrams demanding that he vote for the bill. Which he did, and saved the day for local option.

The lesson of organized, systematic appeal in behalf of temperance that Russell learned while conducting this campaign ultimately led to the organization of the Anti-Saloon league on much the same lines of this local option organization. But before he became the father of the league he went first to Kansas City, where he began preaching in a tent on a vacant lot, later moving his big congregation into a fine building; and, second, to Chicago, at the solicitation of the late Philip D. Armour, where he directed the work of the famous Armour Mission.

It was while he was on a sickbed that Russell determined to give all his time to promoting the cause of temperance, and when he was in full health again he quit the active ministry, once more sought out Oberlin, and here practically began his career all over for the second time.

This was in 1893. He started his new work by calling a union meeting of the ministers and explaining his object and soliciting their aid. Some gave him the desired assistance; others held aloof for various reasons. It was a struggle—often a seemingly hopeless one, for a time—but the turn came at last, and today the Anti-Saloon league is a power to be reckoned with over the country, as the objects of its crusade know better, perhaps, than any of the rest of us. Before Russell decided to organize the league, he and his family enjoyed all the material comforts and quite a few of the more ordinary luxuries. For months after the league was started the Russells lived in a coop of a house. Mrs. Russell did all her own work, and the word all along the line was strict economy. The league began work with $1,000 pledged to its support for each of the first three years of its existence. Today it is supported financially to about the extent of a quarter of a million dollars annually. Though Dr. Russell is neither its president nor its general superintendent, he is looked upon as the real power behind the organization and its workings. His right-hand man is Rev. Dr. P. A. Baker, the general superintendent with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio.

Gubernatorial Temperance Workers.

Among the political leaders, big and little, of the country who have identified themselves more or less prominently with the temperance movement, J. Frank Hanly, governor of Indiana since 1905, is looked upon by Prohibitionists generally as one of its most earnest and forceful advocates. Largely through his instrumentality, the question of local option will play an unusually important part in the approaching state campaign in Hoosierdom, and it may have a direct influence on the state's presidential predilections. Big, jovial "Bob" Glenn, the six-foot-and-over occupant of the North Carolina executive mansion, won his gubernatorial honors by his telling prohibition speeches delivered before the farmer population of the Tarheel commonwealth. Singularly enough, he and Jeter C. Pritchard, the federal judge and quandam federal senator from North Carolina who upset Glenn's plan of warfare on the state railroads by his injunctions, were head and front of the movement which caused the legislature to place North Carolina in the "dry" column in May of this year.

South Carolina, too, has a gubernatorial champion of prohibition—Martin F. Ansel, who led the fight against the retention of "Ben" Tillman's pet state institution, the dispensary, with the result that the nether Carolina has a local option law, and county after county is voting out the saloon. In the meantime, it fares badly with the traditional remark that the governor of North Carolina once made to his fellow executive immediately to the south of him.

Edward K. Koch, whose second term as governor of Sunflower state is drawing to a close, has been a big card of the temperance workers for a number of years, and he always tries to arrange public and private business so that he can respond to any call that is made upon him in the name of temperance. A more recent arrival in the lists against "demon rum" is that former senator from Tennessee whose flaming poll has been a godsend to the newspaper paragraphers—Edward W. Carmack. A few weeks ago, with the "dry" element of the state at his back, he strove to secure the gubernatorial nomination at the primaries held to indicate the people's choice for governor. His defeat is the first big blow that the prohibitionists have received in the South since the present temperance wave got well under way.

It will be noticed that four governors are prominent temperance advocates and workers. There are other state chief executives whose names have been identified more or less prominently with the temperance movement. There is Hoke Smith, of Georgia, for example, but though he signed the bill that put the Cracker commonwealth in the "dry" column and made his gubernatorial campaign on the prohibition issue, largely, he cannot be classified as a temperance worker. Broward of Florida, who has said that he would sign a state prohibition bill, if one should ever be put up to him, is, likewise, in the Hoke Smith class of governors as regards temperance enthusiasm. Florida, by the way, has been one of Seaborn Wright's more recent fields of endeavor.

Hanly, Hoch, Glenn, Carmack and Pritchard are all men who deserve much credit for their preservance in climbing up that ladder which eventually brings a man into the public eye in a more or less reputable manner. Richard Lloyd tell you from actual experience what a printer's apprentice in a country newspaper office does to earn the few dollars a week that are placed in his weekly pay envelope; he, like Ansel of South Carolina, received only a common school education, and not any too much of that. The Civil war left the Glenn fortunes impoverished and not until several years after his marriage did "Bob" possess enough money at any one time to make an appreciable jingle; indeed, the law was mighty hard picking for him until his neighbors began slowly to recognize his legal ability.

Hoch Was a Printer.

Hoch was a printer in Kentucky, his birth state. He emigrated to Kansas, took up a claim, and lived in a 12x14 shack until his itching to "stick type" caused him to take a job with the little weekly newspaper published in the town nearest to his claim. In the course of time his employer became indebted $250 to Hoch for labor done. He couldn't pay Hoch, and offered to sell the paper to him for $1,000. Hoch didn't have the money, but he bought out his boss, dismissed the staff of employes and got out the paper single handed until he had saved sufficient money to pay the paper's purchase price. Hoch still runs this paper—the Marion News—and through it he largely gained the state prominence that led to his first nomination as governor. When he was struggling to pay for the paper he frequently worked steadily sixteen and eighteen hours a day for days at a stretch, and slept in the office.

Carmack, of the famed flaming poll, who also made his first hit in newspaper work, incidentally being challenged numerous times to fight pistol duels, was the son of a minister, and so, when the father died, his widow and his boy had very little of this world's goods from him. Carmack, however, did inherit a few good books, and through these he became insatiated with a desire for an education. He sought out the principal of an academy, stated that he wanted an education, frankly added that he had no money and was ready to work his way through.

"That's all right," responded the kind hearted man, "and don't mind about the work. You can pay me when you do have the money."

The first money that Carmack managed to save from his earnings as a lawyer, his initial profession, went to square his debt to his educational benefactor.

Hanly, perhaps, had a stiffer climb up the traditional ladder than many of his politico-temperance colleagues. He is among the comparatively few men prominent in public life today who were born in log cabins. Heavy responsibilities came to him early. When he was scarcely more than a child his father became an invalid. His mother was stricken totally blind when he was 11, at which age most boys are just beginning to have the time of their lives; and from then on until his parents died, years later, he was their refuge and support.

As the family's provider, the boy became a ditch digger and a wood cutter for the farmers of Champaigne county, Ill., his birthplace. He walked barefoot ten miles to hear his first Fourth of July oration. He got his schooling in short snatches between his hiring out to neighbors. He walked to Warren county, Ind., to attend normal school for a few weeks, earning the necessary money by doing such jobs as sawing wood. Then he became a school teacher and followed that profession for nine years. Five years later he was one of "the gentlemen from Indiana" in the national house of representatives—the youngest man that Indiana had sent to Washington in forty years. In the meantime, he had become a lawyer, by studying at nights, and served in the state senate.

One of the old-time formulae of success Hanly observed closely, though unconsciously, as a boy. About the only books that the family library boasted were the Bible and a history of the civil war. The child pored over these books time and time again until he knew them exceedingly well. The history of the war shaped his political beliefs; the Bible training that he thus gave himself had been pretty much in evidence all through his later life, and especially since he became politically prominent. It was his strong sense of duty that study of the good book undoubtedly gave to him which caused him to force the resignation of a personal friend from the office of state auditor for a serious breach of trust; he has waged war on Sabbath breaking and race track and other forms of more or less public gambling, and he has not hesitated to remove officials for neglecting to enforce the laws against illegal liquor dealing. Like Hoch of Kansas, he is a devout Methodist; and like him, too, he is one of the ablest speakers of today in the cause of prohibition. Indeed, of the politico-temperance champions he probably is the most gifted all-round speaker, with "Bob" Glenn easily the most oratorical, not even excepting Carmack, whose periods are frequently as glowing as his thatch.

Among the thousands of churchmen who are now systematically engaged in championing the cause of temperance under the guidance of the Anti-saloon league, Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden is best known nationally. He, you may recall, was responsible for the "tainted money" discussion that convulsed the country two or three years ago, following his denunciation of the acceptance of a Rockefeller gift by the Congregational church's foreign missions body. Dr. Gladden is one of the Anti-saloon league's vice presidents.

Titled Temperance Advocates.

Two famous champions abroad of temperance wear titles—Prince Bernadotte of Sweden and the picturesque countess of Carlisle.

Bernadotte, you may recall, is that son of the late King Oscar who forswore the Swedish throne and all rights thereto that he might wed the lady of his heart, Ebba Munck, a lady-in-waiting to his own mother, Queen Sophia, when she finally realized that her son was bent on marrying as he had planned, became his ardent advocate before the king, gaining his reluctant consent to the marriage just before she placed herself in the hands of the court surgeons for a serious operation. The queen was the only member of the groom's family at the wedding festivities.

Bernadotte, perhaps, is the most ardent temperance advocate today in the north countries of Europe, where, of late years, the temperance movement has gained great headway, especially in Finland. With an income not that of an American multimillionaire, he still is most comfortably situated, financially, and his purse is continually being used to advance the cause of prohobition. He also writes and makes speeches on this subject, which now seems to possess him as thoroughly as did his old idea of a few years ago of

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Duluth, who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint, will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. M. McGillivray of 1228 Superior street, Duluth, Minn., says: "As I told in my former statement, I was troubled with my kidneys a good deal for a year or two, and had heavy, dull pains through my loins. My back tired easily, especially if I reclined or sat long in one position. In the morning I felt tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were unnatural, and I was troubled with persistent headaches. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Duluth Drug Company's store, and began to use the preparation. I received wonderful benefit from this remedy. It imparted strength to different organs, and banished the backaches and headaches. I am glad to reindorse such a valuable remedy for backache and kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price. 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

COURT RULES ON IMPORTANT POINT

Adverse Possession of Surface Does Not Extend to Minerals.

Marquette, Wis., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—In deciding the case of the Mitchell estate against the Breitung interests and the Arctic Iron company, Judge J. W. Stone holds that adverse possession of the surface of unwrought mineral lands can not establish titles to the mineral values beneath the sruface.

The case was instituted by the heirs of the late George Mitchell and by Capt. Samuel Mitchell of Negaunee, since deceased, and the decree stands against the heirs of both George Mitchell and Samuel Mitchell. The decree marks a victory for the Breitung interests and Arctic Iron company.

Suit was brought by the Mitchells to establish their title to mineral land of proved great value. The defendants, the Breitung interests and the Arctic company, filed a cross bill asking that their title to one-half of the mineral beneath the surface of the lots be established by court. The late Capt. Samuel Mitchell at the hearing testified that they were underlaid, as far as proved, by over 1,000,000 tons of ore.

Full title to the lands in question lay prior to Feb. 19, 1857, with James L. Reynolds, who in that year deeded the surface and one-half of the mineral right to Charles T. Harvey, a Lake Superior pioneer, who is still living. Jan. 15, 1867, Harvey, by warranty deed, deeded parcels to individuals, from whom title ultimately found its way into the hands of the Mitchels. In 1882 James L. Reynolds deeded to Edward Breitung the one-half interest in the mineral rights, which he reserved at the time of the sale to Harvey. Breitung subsequently sold part of these rights to the Arctic company, retaining the remainder.

RICH ALASKAN DISAPPEARS.

Brother Living Near Crookston Believes He Was Murdered.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Halvor Steenerson has been asked to investigate the disappearance of Oscar Sall of Valdez, Alaska, a wealthy miner who has spent the past ten years at Alaska and who had recently sold his share in a rich mine for $75,000. Charles Sall, brother of the missing man, who resides in Garner township, northwest of this city, has started the inquiry. C. G. Wulff, a close friend of the missing man, and who believes he has been murdered, wrote Charles Sall of the disappearance. He was last seen at the Miners' hotel, Valdez, July 25, and had a large sum of money in his possession at that time.

Wulff writes that Oscar Sall had been ill and came in from his mines, 200 miles west of Valdez, two months ago, and entered a hospital from which he was discharged about six weeks ago. Congressman Steenerson will start an investigation at once and a trip to Alaska will be made soon. Sall had several other mines and is supposed to have been worth between $200,000 and $300,000. He visited here last fall and was expected back this fall.

CONFIRMS SUICIDE THEORY.

Witnesses Saw Upson Scooping Water Into His Boat.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. Malmberg, a local attorney who was at Lake Bemidji when young Arthur Upson, the Minneapolis poet, went on the lake presumably for the purpose of committing suicide, and saw enough of the fellow's actions to confirm the suicide theory.

On Friday morning young Upson took out one of these boats and when he brought it back shortly before noon it was found that the anchor was gone. This is something quite unusual and Upson did not attempt to give and explanation, simply paying for the anchor.

That evening Upson hired another boat and during the evening Mr. Malmberg and his friend while rowing on the lake passed Upson and Mr. Malmberg states that the young poet was at that time going through some very peculiar actions. He had the oars lying in the bottom of the boat and he was using both his hands to scoop up the water and evidently intending to fill the boat in that manner. Mr. Malmberg and his friend commented on these actions after they had gotten out of Upson's hearing. They did not think until later, however, that the actions of the young man were the deliberate

KITTSON COUNTY MUSIC-MAKERS

HALLOCK ENTERPRISE ORCHESTRA.
Hallock, the County Seat of Kittson County, the Most Northwesterly County in Minnesota, Boasts of a Fine Musical Organization Called the Hallock Enterprise Orchestra, of Which E. W. Dahl is Leader. attempt of a man with suicidal intents.

The next morning Upson's boat was found on the beach near the boathouse with one of the ores missing and even then it was not believed that the young man was dead. The owner of the boat thought that Upson had simply stayed out too late to get into the boathouse and he went over to the Hotel Markham, where young Upson was staying, to collect the rent for the boat.

It was then found that the young man had not returned from his boat ride the night before and a search was instituted, but it was not until Monday morning that the body was found.

WRECK ON M. & I. ROAD

Caused by Rail Spreading, But No One is Injured.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 22.—The northbound train on the Minnesota & International railway was wrecked Thursday night about two and a half miles north of Mizpah. The engine and two cars were derailed, but no one was severely injured.

The train, which was over an hour late, was running rapidly in an endeavor to make up some of the lost time and pulled out of Mizpah at a good rate of speed, when a rail spread, the engine, baggage car and smoking car going over on their sides.

The first class passenger coach was not injured in the least, although the passengers were given a severe shaking up.

The private car belonging to the state game and fish commission and which was attached to the rear of the first class coach and occupied by the members of the state game and fish commission, was in no wise injured.

The wrecker was sent out from Bemidji and the cars were put back on the track and the train went to International Falls.

VALLEY CITY ELKS LODGE

Planning to Build Substantial Elks' Home, Costing $50,000.

Valley City, N. D., Aug. 22.—At a meeting of the Elks' lodge this week it was decided to build a home on West Main street, just east of the footbridge entrance to the park. The committee reported the purchase of the site. It is triangular shaped, 150 by 130. It has a frontage on Main street of 130 feet.

A company will be incorporated for $50,000 to be known as the Building Association of Lodge No. 1110, B. P. O. E., Valley City, N. D. Five thousand shares of $10 each will be issued. As soon as there are enough shares sold to erect the building the contract will be let and it will be finished within ninety days. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent is guaranteed on the shares and they will be payable to the estate of any member who dies holding shares.

The building will be 40x65, according to plans submitted yesterday evening, but it will probably be found necessary to make the building longer. There will be two stories above the basement. The basement will be used for store room, billiard tables, etc. The first floor will be devoted to the lodge rooms. The structure will cost $15,000 exclusive of the furniture and will probably be built in the spring.

CRANBERRY CROP IS SAFE.

Joy for Lovers of Turkey Side Dish.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Aug. 22.—Prompt action on the part of the weather bureau has saved the cranberry crop of Wisconsin, and the first frost of the season Thursday night failed in its apparent effort to ruin an important part of the Thanksgiving dinner.

Maj. Hersey, who is temporarily in charge of the Chicago office, has been at the Milwaukee station several seasons and during that time has learned the importance of the Wisconsin cranberry crop.

Accordingly, when the temperature dropped off up in the Dakotas night before last he began to watch things closely. Yesterday morning it became evident that the cold weather was spreading down into Wisconsin.

Warnings accordingly were sent out to the marshes, and this morning, though there has been a distinct frost across the belt, it was announced that the crop was safe.

In all the marshes floodgates are kept ready for just such a warning, and the moment word was received of the approaching frost, water began to run out over the acres and acres of berry land.

LIKED SUPERIOR AFFAIR.

Milwaukee Masons Pleased With Treatment They Received.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—The party of Masons who left here last week to attend the ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Masonic temple in Superior have returned home.

According to W. W. Perry, grand secretary of the order, the dedication ceremonies were the most impressive of any he has ever attended. The ceremonies were marked by a parade over a mile long. Every prominent member from the northern part of the state attended the ceremonies.

The Milwaukee party consisted of W. W. Perry, John B. Cromwell, Walter Allen and William J. Armstrong. James E. Durgin, grand master of the grand lodge, and Robert B. Lang, deputy grand master, Racine, made the trip with the Milwaukeeans. The party spent Monday with members of the order in Ashland and on Tuesday attended the dedication of the Episcopal church at Antigo.

COLIN McLOUGHLIN DEAD.

Well-Known East Grand Forks K. of P. Called.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Colin McLoughlin died at his residence here early Thursday, after a brief illness. He was born in Scotland sixty-nine years ago and came to this section in 1872 from Canada, settling on a farm seven miles north of Grand Forks on the North Dakota side.

He was one of the charter members of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Grand Forks, being one of the first to place his name on the charter roll, long before the state of North Dakota was formed from the territory. This order has been the one idol of his life outside his family and his friends, and in late years he has taken as much interest in the work of the lodge room as the younger members.

The funeral will be held from the First Baptist church of Grand Forks this afternoon at 2:30. The funeral services will be in charge of the Knights of Pythias lodge.

LUMBERMEN GO FREE.

Indicted Eau Claire Men Get Favorable Decision.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 22.—S. G. Moon and J. T. Barber, the two Eau Claire millionaire lumbermen, who were indicted in Idaho for alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States government out of valuable timber lands, are scot free so far as the United States court for the western district of Wisconsin is concerned.

Judge J. V. Quarles has rendered a decision declaring that the indictment "does not state facts sufficient to constitute an offense." C. T. Bundy of the firm of Bundy & Wilcox, attorneys for the defendants, drew the orders as directed by the court, and the record was completed so far as this tribunal is concerned.

WADENA HAS BIG FIRE.

Wadena, Minn., Aug. 22.—The Minnesota & Dakota Produce company's plant was burned to the ground Thursday evening. The fire started from some unknown cause and resulted in a total loss. The company carried $18,000 insurance, but the loss is estimated to be between $25,000 and $30,000. All records and papers of the company which were in the building were lost. Pipes in the main building burst and the escaping steam filled the building. A large tank of ammonia exploded, but a southwest wind carried the fumes away from the firemen.

POSTOFFICE BURGLARIZED.

Warwick, N. D., Aug. 22.—The postoffice here was burglarized Wednesday night and money, stamps and registered mail was taken. The robbers have made their escape but notification has been sent to all corners of the state in an effort to locate the robbers. No identification at all can be placed on the men who did the deed and the exact amount that has been taken has not been calculated but will probably reach something over $100.

Postmaster Disappears.

Osceola, Wis., Aug. 22.—Charles F. Nelson, postmaster and geenral merchant, has disappeared from his home at Dresser Junction, and it is feared that he has committed suicide. All the residents of the village responded to a call and searched the surrounding country, but without avail.

Blames Hepburn Law.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—In Minneapolis and St. Louis rate hearing yesterday, Traffic Manager Tittemore stated that the Hepburn bill prevents his road from competing with stronger lines.

"The Hepburn bill, as applied to the Minneapolis & St. Louis traffic has absolutely knocked out its power to compete against the stronger lines," declared Mr. Tittemore.

Mr. Tittemore said that he did not like such a fixed condition as is prescribed by the laws, but that a railroad official should be given authority by a railroad commission to make a quick rate to suit a condition.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Ada—A special train bearing a big Great Northern car-repair crew was in Ada Monday fixing up all the 33-foot box cars, which have been out of commission, as they are all to be used again for the fall business. The crew is visiting all the stations up this way overhauling the cars of that size.

SOCIALISM AND POLITICS

The question will soon be asked by all thoughtful workers, what are your politics and where do you stand regarding the intercsts of labor? What rights are you willing to grant to labor? Do you recognize that labor is the main factor in wealth production? These are questions that will be asked of the Republican, Democratic and Socialistic candidates, who will aspire to become the servants of the people at the coming election.

The workingmen at least will raise some questions, that will be hard nuts to crack for the nominees, who stand upon the platforms that do not recognize that there are classes, and who make the claim that the interests of all are alike. The man seeking office can no longer turn upon them with that old hackneyed phrase, that the good capitalist and the laborer are brothers, and must not allow quarrels to come up between them, for the reason they are brothers; such things may have had their effect, some time ago, but are not believed to a great extent today.

The man who seeks office today on the Republican ticket, seeks it at the expense of the workers, and that has been shown very clearly in our strikes and lockouts; we begin to see in some measure that there lies a something between what we get in wages, and what our labor produces, that builds up a position of society from which we are barred, which is used as a lever to wrest away a great portion of that which we have produced.

The Republicans stand firmly upon the right to live upon that portion of the labor they have wrested away from us, that they may place us in the position that we are compelled to sell unto them the whole force of our labor power, at a price named by them, and this difference is known as profit, and is the process which divides humanity into classes, and therefore is the basis upon which our system of exploitation is founded.

It makes no difference to us workingmen whether the man who is seeking office is a Republican or a Democrat. They stand firmly upon that right, and are patted upon the back by the whole force of capitalism, and we by law are compelled to work in their interest; we must abide by their rules and work in their interests or become traitors to either the interests of the working class or the capitalists. There is no middle ground, for if they are given the right to live off labor they have not produced, then they have the right to get all they can out of labor, and we may as well remember that the horse works ten hours and gets his feed, and are we wage workers any better off, as we only get a bare living?

When the Socialist is accosted and asked, "Where do you stand upon the question of the rights of all the people," he will answer: "We do recognize class distinctions which exist in our society, and we do recognize that labor is the greatest factor in the production of wealth, and as such should enjoy its work."

The Socialists claim that no man should be allowed to own more than his own labor. It is impossible for us to see any difference in men, as far as some should be compelled to labor hard all their lives and gain nothing, while those that do nothing amass large fortunes which they have no use for.

We Socialists stand for economic equality, the collective ownership of the means of production, democratically managed in the interests of the workers. As the workers have made the tools, the workers alone can use them, and therefore the workers must own them. We are the only party organized in the interests of the workers, as our fundamental is the full product of our toil.

ROAD TO MAMMOTH MINES

Calumet & Arizona Company Said to Be Surveying for Railroad to Connect Its New Property With the Smelter at Douglas.

Benson, Ariz., Aug. 22.—A gentleman coming up from down the river the fore part of the week stated that an engineering corps is in the field down the river, and it is the general opinion in that section that they are headed for Benson with a new proposed road for the Calumet & Arizona people.

This information is in line with a report gleaned from the Florence Blade about a month ago, and noted in these columns at that time, that "The company is now making a survey for a railroad to Mammoth."

The Calumet & Arizona recently made the final payment on a group of thirty claims sixteen miles northeast of Mammoth, and Col. Powell made a statement thereafter that the claims were the best property the company owned outside of their holdings in the Warren district. It is the intention of the company so it is reported, to thoroughly develop these claims and put them into a producing condition. As the company's reduction works are located at Douglas, it is reasonable to presume that rail transportation will be provided between the mines and the smelter over the shortest route, and that is up the San Pedro valley via Benson, where connection could be made with the El Paso & Southwestern.

The sensation of the week in mining circles of Benson is the ore strike in the working shaft which was started three or four weeks ago by Supt. F. H. Mitchell of the Johnson Copper company. This company's property is situated at Johnson between the old Peabody mine and the Copper Chief, which belongs to a group owned by the Arizona & Michigan Development company, whose headquarters are in Benson. The property where the latest strike was made had already been proven by prospect openings which had penetrated ore bodies which, in the judgment of the management justified sinking a working shaft, and last week Supt. Mitchell communicated to James T. Gregg of Benson the news that they had cut a ledge of fine ore 18 inches thick.

PICTURE VALUE ORE IS FOUND

Colorado Springs, Aug. 22.—Picture value ore has been encountered in the 300 foot level of Stratton's Independence mine, Cripple Creek. The vein is three feet wide. Values in free gold and sylvanit average $60 to $80.

The Portland mine is leading all Cripple Creek properties in production with a monthly record of 9,000 tons. The bullion value is approximately $200,000. Several new shoots which carry smelting grade ore. The vein recently cut in the 1,500 foot level carries values of $50 to $100 per ton. The product is treated at the company's mill at Colorado Springs. An experimental mill may be erected on the mine to treat dump and low grade ores.

The Isabella Mines company, Cripple Creek, produced thirty-five cars of ore in July, the average values being $40 to $60 per ton.

The Gold King mine at Silverton, Colo., has recovered from the recent fire, the tramway from the mine to the mill will soon be rebuilt. The average value of the ore at the mill is $18 to $20. About 300 tons daily is handled. The mine is one of San Juan county's biggest producers and employs 250 men.

At 1,000 feet depth the Dillon mine, Cripple Creek, is in a three foot vein of high grade ore. The mine is yielding shipping ore in three lessees. The Monument mine adjoining is in good ore in five lessees.

The Golden Sun tunnel on South Boulder creek, at Central City, now in 1,350 feet, will be driven on indefinitely. A vein showing considerable copper and iron has been cut.

The Pearl-Tatum mine company, made up of Denver and St. Louis capitalists, is working in the 1,100 foot level of Sleepy Hollow mine near Black Hawk, where improved conditions are apparent.

An important tungsten dike on the west slopes of Araphoe peak, near Eldorado, has been made. An eighty foot vein of mineral carrying $80 a ton values was discovered at 11,000 feet altitude. Sam Conger, who discovered the Caribou mine near by, also the tungsten deposits in Boulder county, says the strike is the biggest yet made in Colorado.

E. J. Short, president of the Union Mining & Development company, which recently bought the Hugo ranch near Nederland for $20,000, has been conferring with directors in Chicago as to a policy of development. It is favorably located in the tungsten field and is crossed by several well defined veins, which will be developed.

The Boulder county tungsten mines yielded $500,000 last year. The slump in the market seriously checked the 1908 product. As the field has enlarged to include the Grand county discovery on Arapahoe peak, the outlook for this year is good.

Newcastle, the scene of a new gold strike, is drawing Leadville prospectors. The strike was made at the head of Elk creek. Gold has been found in a dozen different claims in that section. Assays show 6 to 10 ounces per ton gold values.

construction of a wagon road is necessary to the successful working of the mine and the fact that Sweeny has decided to build the road will undoubtedly be responsible for renewed activity in the Hump country. The Crackerjack property is said to be valuable, although it was sold at sheriff's sale to Sweeny a short time ago and, so far, no effort has been made to redeem the property, which was owned by Lewiston and Grangaville men.

August Schultz, manager of the Del Rio mine in the Buffalo Hump district, anounces that $100 ore is being milled at the Jumbo plant. The ore is bein gtaken from a shoot fifteen feet in width. The hanging wall has not yet been reached. The new body is in No. 1 tunnel, 900 feet from the portal, and at a depth of 400 feet. The Del Rio mine and the Jumbo mine join. The ore now being milled is for a test run, the Del Rio interests looking to a lease of the Jumbo mill if such arrangements can be made with the owners of the Jumbo property.

The new mill atthe Meadow Creek mine in Newsome district, has been completed and is now running day and night. It has a capacity for twenty-ve tons in twelve hours. The property is owned principally by Buffalo people. William N. Luther, late of Colorado, is in charge.

Several loads of machinery for the Frisco Mines company arrived the first of the week and is being installed. The new machinery includes air drills, gasoline engines and saw mill.

Reports of a rich strike in the Four-Mile district have reached Spokane, one stating that the new strike is richer than any yet discovered in the new district. The discovery is across Four-Mile creek from the Howard and Lackie strike, the first strike made in the district last spring.

M. Painter of Colorado, who has been in Central Idaho camps two months, has returned from the Four-Mile district, where he took a bond on the property discovered by Howard and Lackie last spring. Mr. Painter goes from here to Denver and Salt Lake.

again attracting attention. A new ore body has been located. The body was struck at grass roots while assessment work was in progress. It appears to be between twenty-five and thirty-five feet wide. It is of the vertical formation and yields free gold in the pan.

The Mogul Mining company is making arrangements to mine ore from the Hardscrabble mine and is having the track from that property to the mill at Pluma repaired. Miners also are on the Luelle ground preparing for active mining and shipping from that point within a few weeks. The Golden Reward company is repairing its track to the Las Animas mine.

The Golden Reward Mining company has re-elected the old board of directors, who are E. H. Harriman, August Belmont, O. H. Kahn, Harris Franklin, Charles C. Tegethoff, Robert W. Goelet, George G. DeWitt, Henry W. DeForest and W. B. Devereaux. Harriman owns a controlling interest in the property. The company in the last year has conducted interesting experiments in the crushing process. The present daily capacity of the mill is 400 tons.

The Copper Eagle Mining & Smelting company has resumed operations, work being confined to the Eagle claim, upon which there is a shaft 265 feet deep, with 300 feet of drifts at the 200 and 250 levels. From this superficial development the company has shipped 423 tons of ore from the 200 level, having a net value of $8,353, and 656 tons from the 250-foot level, having a value of $23,000. The company is sinking the shaft 100 feet deeper, and mining is also being done on the ore shoot on the 250 level.

Work has been resumed by the Cable Consolidated Mining company on its property sixteen miles west of Anaconda, which was closed last fall because of the failure of Fort Pitt National bank of Pittsburg, in which the company's funds were deposited.

Robert H. Gross, the new president and manager of the East Butte company, has completed his examinations of the property and the affairs of the company and says that he soon will order a resumption of work.

The electric plant to operate the machinery at the Robert Emmett Copper company's property south of Heela in Jefferson county has been installed. The company will secure 250 horsepower from the Helena-Butte line of the Missouri River Power company. The cost of the installation has been given the right to live off labor they have not produced, then they have the right to get all they can out of labor, and we may as well remember that the horse works ten hours and gets his feed, and are we wage workers any better off, as we only get a bare living?

When the Socialist is accosted and asked, "Where do you stand upon the question of the rights of all the people," he will answer: "We do recognize class distinctions which exist in our society, and we do recognize that labor is the greatest factor in the production of wealth, and as such should enjoy its work." ing to equip the battery of five big boilers with mechanical stokers, fuel economizers and induced drafts, together with machinery for automatically handling the coal and ashes. Similar improvements have been made at other Marquette range properties of the Cleveland Cliffs interests, and it has been found that the money spent was well invested. Fuel has been saved, he labor expense reduced and the efficiency of the steam plants increased.

The Cleveland Cliffs company, which it was recently stated had decided to extend the scope of its operations to the Menominee range, has taken options on a considerable acreage in the Iron River district, and has already started exploratory work on the Selden tract, adjoining Oglebay, Norton & Co.'s Chatham mine. It is the understanding that included among the options is one for the lease of the old Iron River mine, surrendered a short time ago by the Steel corporation. The Iron River was in the hands of Tod, Stambaugh & Co. of Cleveland and Perdimand Schlesinger of Milwaukee at different times in the early days. It was taken over by the Steel interests in 1899, and was combined with the Isabella, since which time the two properties, nearly a mile apart, have been operated under the name of Riverton. The total product from the lands has been 1,750,000 tons, of which the larger portion has come from the Iron River tract. An interesting work carried on at the Riverton was the shifting of the channel of Iron river in order to take the stream away from the mine workings. This was done in 1900, at a cost of $50,000. It has been said that the ore body at the Iron River is exhausted, but the owners of the fee still have confidence that other deposits exist, and it is sure that with the Cleveland Cliffs company doing the work, the property will be thoroughly tested.

The Sheridan Changes Hands.

Another old-time property optioned in the Iron River district is the Sheridan mine. This has been taken over by J. E. Sutton, who is understood to be the representative of English interests. Exploratory and development work will be started shortly. The Sheridan was formerly known as the Stegmiller; it adjoins the Riverton and lies in the village of Iron River. It has shipped 120,000 tons of ore, the last of which went out in 1900. The Sheridan has one shaft down upwards of 300 feet, and it is recalled that when last operated, this by Pickands, Mather & Co., it was mining a thirty-foot vein. The ore is of non-Bessemer grade. Pickands, Mather & Co., who have latterly been engaged in opening the Swanson property, at Stambaugh, and the McColman tract, at the old village of Atkinson, have temporarily suspended work at the former exploration and are shipping the equipment to the McColman. The latter is developing well and there is little question that it will give the big independent ore-producing concern still another shipper.

Oglebay, Norton & Co., who a short time ago resumed work at the Chatham properties at Iron River, have now put the big Bristol mine at Crystal Falls, Menominee range, in commission again. The Bristol has been idle for four months, and because only 25,000 tons of ore had been shipped from the stockpile it was feared there would be no resumption of operations this season. It is understood, however, that good-sized sales have now been made. A force of 150 men is being taken on. The Traders mine, at Iron Mountain, of which Oglebay, Norton & Co. also are the operators, continues on the inactive list. The Florence Iron company's mine at Florence is now working double shift and has increased its force of employes to 150. Orders for some 75,000 to 100,000 tons of ore were received recently, and present shipments are at the rate of 600 tons daily.

Waterpower to Be Increased.

A very material enlargement of its waterpower plant at Quinnesee falls of the Menominee river is planned bythe Steel corporation. Air compressed at the station is used to operate a very large proportion of the machinery at the big Chapin mine at Iron Mountain, it being transmitted the distance of three miles through a steel flume, and it is now proposed to utilize the waterpower for the operation of machinery at the Aragon property at Norway also. Whether the present hydraulic works shall be increased in capacity, or whether there shall be installed a hydro-electric plant, such as the Cambria Steel company has put in at the Sturgeon falls, is a question yet to be determined. In the meantime, surveys are being made by hydraulic engineers. It is estimated that there is available approximately 11,000 horsepower, and only about 4,500 of this is now being utilized. The project contemplated is one involving an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, which recently extended its service to the Norway-Vulcan district, at the eastern end of the Menominee range, is now handling all the ore from the Cambria Steel company's Penn group of mines. It is expected that it will transport to its dock at North Escanaba a considerable tonnage from the Steel corporation's Aragon mine also. Shipments over the Chicago & Northwestern road to Escanaba are increasing, and it has recently been necessary to put the No. 1 dock in commission for the first time this season. Ore from both the Menominee and Marquette ranges is transported to Escanaba by the Northwestern, and the road as well gets much traffic from the Gogebic district, this latter being handled at Ashland. The shipments from Ashland have been exceptionally slow to date this season, however, amounting in all to not much more than three-quarters of a million tons.

A new shipper on the Mesaba next year will be the property, the development of which Tod, Stambaugh & Co. of Cleveland are starting in Section 11, 57-21, two miles southwest of Hibbing. The mine will be an underground proposition, the overburden being of unusual depth, and it will be a concrete shaft, the contract for sinking which has been given the Foundation company of New York. The tract consists of eighty acres. It is owned by the state, and is understood to contain a considerable body of Bessemer ore.

Other new producers on the Mesaba will be M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Sliver property at Virginia, and Hanna, near Mountain Iron. Both will be open pits, and both are now in progress of development. One shovel is engaged in stripping at the Hanna, and two at the Sliver. The latter two are being operated day and night, and the overburden has already been removed from a portion of the ore deposit. A force of almost 400 men is employed.

CHAMPIONS OF THE WORLD-WIDE PROHIBITION MOVEMENT

going to Africa as a missionary. The prince has been influenced greatly in his religious and temperance views by his wife, and in his fight against the liquor traffic she is his chief ally.

The Countess of Carlisle is loyally supported by her husband in her battle against "demon rum," and both being assisted by their half dozen children, now all grown and full of their mother's fiery enthusiasm for the work. The enthusiasm of the countess in the cause of temperance has caused her to do a number of rather unusual things, but her most picturesque move by far was her destruction, in cold blood, of the famous ancestral wine cellars of the earldom and their still more famous contents, down to the very last drop. The earl, then but shortly came into his title, and not then, as now, in the prohibition camp, looked with horror upon his wife's proposition to pour into the ground the precious vintages in Castle Howard's vaults; but his wife's desires prevailed —the countess is a strong-minded, though very agreeable person—and the earl himself, that he might not be present when the wanton act was committed, traveled to London and stayed there until he learned that his ancestors' priceless collection of wines was no more.

About the only matter that the earl and the countess agree on is that of prohibition, and on this head both are about equally radical, holding that strong drink has done more to cause physical and moral degeneration in England than any other one thing. In politics husband and wife are at loggerheads; the earl is an aristocrat of the aristocracy; the countess is so thoroughly democratic in her ways that she frequently has a shop girls as her guests in one or the other of her three country seats. But though the earl and the countess view the world through widely different spectacles they get along famously together—and they have been married since 1864, when the earl was 21 and the bride three years his junior.

For her lifelong devotion to the cause of prohibition the countess two years ago was chosen president of the world's white ribboners, succeeding Lady Henry Somerset, still an ardent temperance worker, but somewhat handicapped by advancing years. The political astuteness of the countess has been acknowledged by such great politicians as Gladstone and Balfour, and the helping hand she has extended to numerous poor children and others of the slums bespeak her love for humanity and her philanthropy. Altogether, she is one of England's most remarkable, versatile and influential women.

The countess' two sons occupy seats in parliament and are among that body's most earnest prohibition advocates. Of the four daughters, two of whom are single, Lady Dorothy has inherited her mother's gift of speech-making, devoting it largely to attacks on the "demon rum."

A Faithful Friend.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. T. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by all drugists.

No one is apt to think more highly of a store than its owner does—hence his advertising should be so big that it will reflect his belief in his store's importance—and so continuous that it will have the force of iteration.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF FOREIGN WILL.
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. In Probate Court.

Certain instruments purporting to be authenticated copies of the last will and testament of Elmer Yoeman, and of the probate thereof in the County Court in and for the County of Eau Claire, State of Wisconsin, having been presented to this court, and the petition of Bertha Yoeman being filed herein, representing, among other things, that said decedent, then being a resident of the County of Eau Claire, State of Wisconsin, died intestate in the County of Eau Claire, State of Wisconsin, on the 1st day of July, 1907, leaving estate in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and that said instrument has been allowed and admitted to probate as his will in the Court above named, and praying that said will be allowed and admitted to probate in this state, and that letters testamentary be issued thereon to Bertha Yoeman.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said County, on Tuesday, the 8th day of September, 1908, at ten o'clock a. m., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required, at said time and place, to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not later than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

"HOME" MOVEMEMT IN DULUTH REAL ESTATE

Citizens Are Looking for Bargains in Houses, But Prices Hold Firm—Fashionable Residence District is Extending Eastward—Work on Transfer Railway is Arousing Interest.

The "home" movement in real estate which Duluth real estate men have been looking forward to all summer to break up to some extent the dullness of the summer, has begun to show signs of activity. All the Superior street offices report a healthy and increasing tide of inquiries as to homes for sale. Earnest money is up on a number of deals. Most of the would-be buyers are looking for a little better bargains than the realty men wish to offer, however, and prices are holding up with a steadiness which speaks well for the confidence of owners and agents. Sept. 1, with the fall moving has always succeeded in breaking up the summer dullness and it looks as if, in spite of election suspense, it would not fall the market this year.

Signs are plentiful of an extension of Duluth's fashionable residence district farther eastward. Twenty-fourth avenue has been practically the eastern limit of the finest section up to this time, but this week there has been an increasing interest in lots farther east. Dr. M. B. Cullum is said to have sold two lots, a 100-foot corner, at Twenty-sixth avenue east and Superior street, to J. L. Norman. Mr. Norman will erect a residence on them in the near future. It is rumored that Dr. Cullum will build a residence for himself at the corner of Twenty-eighth avenue east and Superior street.

W. J. Holmes during the week purchased four lots in Gordon & Ferguson's addition, on the lower side of Superior street, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues east, from Alex Gordon of Baltimore.

The rumors of immediate work on the steel plant aroused considerable interest in realty circles during the week. The commencement of work on the railroad on the Wisconsin side is regarded as a most hopeful sign. If there are unquestionable signs of the early commencement of work on the big plant this fall, the real estate men look for a market which will more than make up for the dullness of the spring and summer.

Real estate men throughout the city are enthusiastic over the prompt and decisive action taken by the county board in the assessment question. Praise for Auditor Halden and the men who perfected the change from Assessor Jackson's figures is heard on all sides, and the new assessment is regarded as fair and just throughout.

George H. Ebert during the week completed the sale of the old Thompson ranch on the Cloquet river to outside parties. The name of the owner and the purchase price are not announced as yet. Mr. Ebert states, however, that it will be converted into a farm and summer resort. The place is quite well known in Duluth. It has a frontage of about half a mile on the Cloquet river and embraces a trout stream and a number of fine springs. It includes in all about 205 acres.

COMFORTABLE HOME WHICH WOULD COST $6,500 IN DULUTH.

No attempt was made to suggest any particular historic style or epoch; and since the program has called for a comfortable home, the rooms are in accordance—all of fairly good size, with no wasted space.

Almost any kind of furniture could be used—in fact the interior is designed with this view in mind—that it should be composed of odd pieces scattered here and there, as if in a careless manner, suggestive of a quiet and peaceful home life. As a matter of course—the decorations should be in accordance, the motive to be taken from some nearby shrub or tree or any conspicuous flower upon the premises, and modestly applied to the walls.

To build a house well requires the willing compromise and collaboration of three people, the owner, the architect, and the builder. In the end this means much to the owner, whose plans should be carefully studied from the beginning, every detail carefully carried out by the builder, and when he steps into his completed home, he does so with a feeling of complete satisfaction.

The exterior of this design is treated with stucco, finished smooth and left in its natural color. The little wood-work employed is given a dark stain to give a sharp contrast to the white plaster.

The porch is large and attractive and properly called the "living porch." The large fireplace in the living room may be either tile or brick to suit the individual taste, likewise in the second story chamber. This chamber may, also be used as a sitting room and since it has a view over the lake, the windows are large and placed on the southeast corner.

Off the rear hall is the servants' bath room. In the attic there is one large room and a store room. The basement is fitted with boiler room, fuel room, laundry, and cool cellar.

To return to the first floor there is an entrance from the grade level at the rear, which is accessible from the front hall, kitchen and basement.

The combination stairway will prove to be very convenient. On this grade landing will be found the lavatory and coat room.

With oak in the living room; Oregon fir in the dining room and pine for the finish of the rest of the rooms, and hardware floors throughout, and hot water heat, this house would cost $6,500 to build in Duluth.

ANTHONY PUCK, architect.

DOES NOT WANT TOLL CHARGED

Commercial Club Committee Wants Council to Refuse Request.

The public affairs committee of the Commercial club sat down on the Zenith Telephone company's Superior toll proposition with the decisiveness at the meeting last night. About twenty-five members of the committee were present, and when a resolution moving that the request for the granting of the toll right be turned down, was proposed, it was passed unanimously with but little discussion. The members of the committee have been looking up facts and figures during the week and they all were of the opinion that this source of revenue was not needed by the telephone company, and would inflict a needless hardship on the citizens of the two cities. The club committee did not consider the raising of the price of unlimited service by the company.

The resolution adopted last evening will be submitted to the city council Monday night when the toll question comes up again.

WILL RAISE FINE HORSES

Capt. Sullivan Adds to His Farm Near Barker, Minn.

Capt. James Sullivan of the Board of Trade livery will go into the business of breeding fine horses and cows. Last week the captain bought from the Boston & Duluth Farm Land company 120 acres to adjoin the 280 he already owns. This week work on a monster barn was started, and as soon as it is finished the captain will go into the breeding business on a large scale.

The land is a beautiful piece near Barker, Minn., near to the site of the old barns belonging to the Alger & Smith Lumber company.

Mr. Sullivan has had in the past great success raising horses. He loves the work and the farm is his principal recreation.

DUTCH ACKNOWLEDGE

To Venezuela Through German Minister the Expulsion of de Reus.

The Hague, Aug. 22.—Pending the arrival here of M. de Reus, the minister of the Netherlands to Venezuela, who recently was sent out of that republic by President Castro, the Netherlands government has dispatched to Caracas, through the intermediary of the German minister, Baron von Seckendorff, a preliminary acknowledgment of the notification of the foreign office that M. de Reus had been handed his passport.

In previous communications to the Venezuelan government, Holland has insisted in the most energetic terms that the decree prohibiting the transshipment of cargo for Venezuela at Curacao, which has proved so disastrous to the Curacao shipping, must be withdrawn.

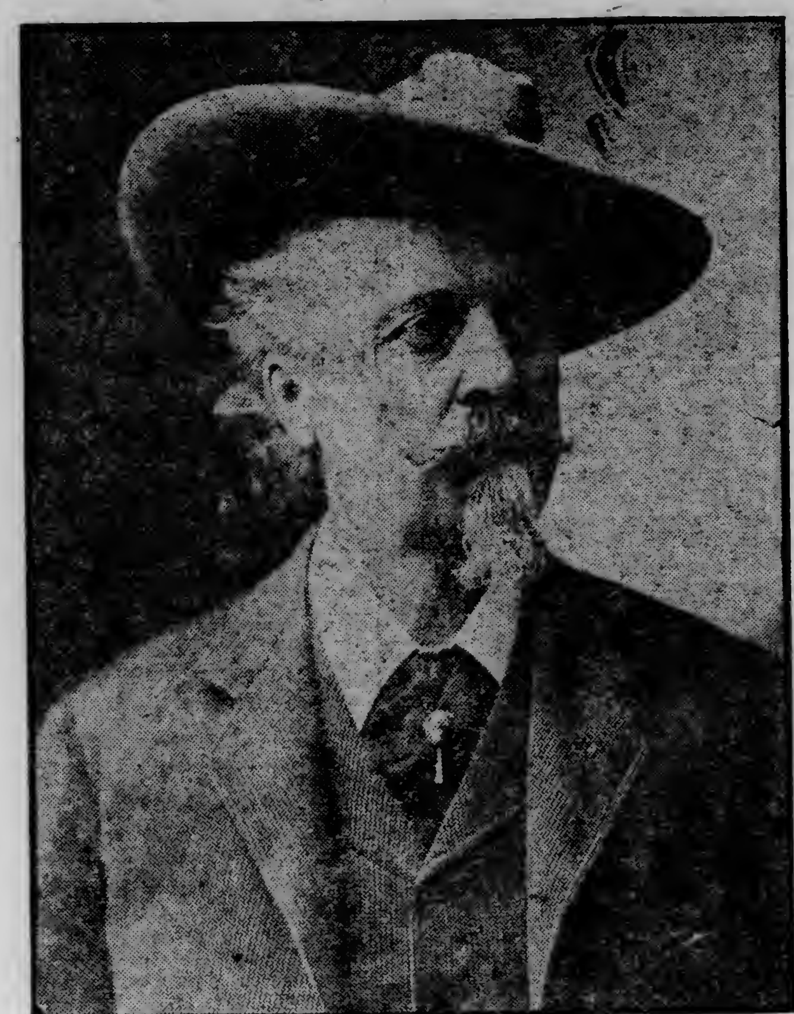
M. de Reus is expected to reach here in about three days.

THIRTY FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Thirty families were made homeless today by a fire which threatened the residence district in the neighborhood of West Van Buren street and Campbell avenue, and damaged a three-story apartment building to the extent of $50,000.

Many of the occupants of the building at 1024-34 West Van Buren street, where the fire started, were compelled to flee from the flames in their night garments. Mrs. Mary Kuhns, 65 years old, an invalid, was carried down a ladder from her rooms on the second floor of the building, and others were assisted by the firemen in escaping from the flames.

"BUFFALO BILL" AND HIS FAMOUS SHOW IN DULUTH



"BUFFALO BILL."

Upright as a dart, his long white hair caught in the breeze, driving a splendid pair of white horses, Col. William F. Cody, this morning looked around the city of Duluth.

When he had been about a quarter way round the principal streets, the Western exclamation of "By Gosh" escaped his lips. Then came a flow of panegyrics for Duluth. Cody said that when he last saw the city it was "improving," but he asserted that at the rate it was going along, New York had better take care and get a widening on the little Manhattan island, as Duluth took no notice of mountains, hills, or anything else, but went straight along expanding.

"Truly, it is remarkable," said the colonel to a Herald reporter. "I have seen a good many towns in my time, but they have not shown the strenuousness that Duluth has, and to show you that this is not hot air or whatever you like to call it, I will tell you young men that I invested money in property several years ago, because I had a hunch that Duluth was going to hit the trail of success hard. I ran a paper here once. Now I own good real estate and houses here and you can bet your last dollar that I am glad that I got that stuff before the boom started in reality. I have seen your boulevard, your aerial bridge, and many other wonderful things here. It does me good to go around a city like this and see places that were once wilt spots, built up.

"Now there seems to be a misunderstanding about my show. I want it understood that I have absolutely nothing to do with any circus on the road. Buffalo Bill's Wild West is owned by the Bailey Estate and myself. It is too good a property to sell out to any circus man living. I am the only man that is a performer, so to speak, and manager

"I have not missed a show for twenty-five years. That's going some, eh?" Here the colonel stretched his legs and gave a satisfied smile, which made the snow-white goatee shake on his chin.

Cody looks as spry as any man with his show. He trots here and there, and there is not the slightest sign of old age. The suppleness of his limbs is wonderful.

"Yes," said Buffalo Bill. "I am 63 years old and don't feel half my age. That's because I work and do not let the moss grow on my back. If I did not work mentally and physically I would soon be going around bending on a stick or a pair of crutches. Madame Patti never will have made the number of farewell tours that I will make. There will be about a hundred of 'em. By that time I shall have been seen by every Tom, Dick and Harry in the United States apart from the hundreds of thousands of persons I met over in Europe.

"The show? Why yes. It's larger than it was before. There are 800 people with it, and nearly 600 head of horses.

"It's the best thing that I have ever had out on the road. But I have still the old atmosphere. One has to conserve that you know and every effort has been made by Johnny Baker, my stage manager, to make every idea that I have had a success. He is a wonder. There was never another manager like him. Taft ought to get him to run a campaign. He would run it like a marvel, for he gets the best of the roughest element and makes them truly artistic and graceful. He has been with me since the show started and that is twenty-five years. We have never done a better business than this season. In Milwaukee, we could have filled two tents, and you know we seat 15,000 persons. Still we had to turn them away. That looks as if business were picking up, doesn't it?"

The colonel has comfortable quarters under canvas. In fact it is a small apartment. There is a valet. That must not be forgotten. Then there is a dressing room, a sitting room with arm chairs for visitors, and a writing desk—the colonel is writing several books and his strenuousness would make Teddy Roosevelt look like a mere pretender. And he has about ten visitors per hour. They are coming all the time. There is the man who met Cody twenty years ago, and the man who thinks that Cody ought to know him because he once visited his town.

The show is at the fair grounds, and there will be nothing cut out of the night's performance.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express company, Chicago, writes: "Our general superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier, who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the Twenty-third Ohio regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by all druggists.

TO TOUCH BUTTON FOR PRESIDENT.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 22.—President Roosevelt today sent this telegram:

"Col. R. A. Phillips, president Lackawanna Druid Society, Scranton, Pa.: I shall be glad to have you act for me, and hereby authorize you to act for me, at the proper time, to touch the button officially to open the national Welsh convention at Scranton today. Will you also be good enough to express to those who have the convention in charge, and to all who may be present, my sincere regret at my inability to attend, and my very earnest good wishes for the success of this memorable occasion.

GOLD COIN DISAPPEARS FROM ST. PIERRE VAULTS.

St. Pierre, Miquelon, Aug. 22.—The government officials are investigating the mysterious disappearance of $7,000 in gold coin from the colonial treasury here.

The metal money at the treasury building is kept in feather bags. When the vault was inspected by an official of the department of finance at Paris recently it developed that a dozen bags were short of the amount they were supposed to contain. The seals were intact and the shortage has not been satisfactorily explained.

It is understood that a former government official is under suspicion.

Building Contract Awarded.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 22.—Special to The Herald.)—The contract for the construction of the Widlund block on Third street between DeMers avenue and Kittson avenue, has been let to the firm of W. J. Hoy & Co., St. Paul. The successful bidders for the big job have already placed a crew of men at work in excavating for the basement and laying the foundations.

SUED AGAIN.

Holman Brothers Are Defendants in Another Action to Recover.

Another suit was filed in the district court against Holman Bros. company yesterday. Walter W. Carr is the plaintiff in this action and he wants $901 and interest on $6,901 from Jan. 29 of this year to date. This money is due him, he alleges in the complaint, on a business transaction between them prior to Jan. 29. The complaint states that a contract for the payment of interest was made and that the $901 was due July 1 of this year. Nothing has been paid.

Sues For Divorce.

MARINE NEWS

PREDICT A BUSY FALL

Both Railroads and Steamship Lines Will be Rushed.

Agents Expect Great Activity During Next Few Months.

That the shipping trade of this fall will be brisk, is generally conceded both by the railroads and the boat companies, which are looking forward to the increased activities as the only real rush of the season.

Shipping trade on the Great Lakes this summer has been dull, deadly dull, and the boat concerns and the men who are indebted to them for their living think they have a big kick coming. No other branch of trade has suffered as has the shipping industry. The only branch of the lake shipping trade there has been no kick from is the package freight lines. Local agents say this trade has been all that could be desired, and the boats have been on the move since early last spring as fast as they could be loaded.

It is estimated that only half of the larger boats have been employed up to this time. Large fleets of idle ore boats up to this time have been anchored at Duluth, Buffalo and Detroit. The large owners have now given orders for full crews, and the work of fitting out is going on at every port on the Great Lakes. The frost scare that was thrown into grain dealers is all over. The frost came too late to do much harm, and the work of carrying the golden harvest on both the railroads and boats will employ a host of men this fall.

Wild boats have been asked to fit out and report for business. The Steel company plans on getting as much ore down the lakes before freezing up time as is possible, and now it is a case of rush until the shipping season is over.

With the increased ore trade and the great amount of grain to be shipped, this coming fall bids fair to rival any preceding fall rush up to date.

Sailors Win Strike.

Cleveland, Aug. 22.—Sailors on Standard Oil company's barge No. 6 struck yesterday when notified of a cut in wages of $10 a month. The barge was held all day, and when the captain could not get another crew he was instructed to pay the old scale, which was $50 a month. The barge left for Sarnia last night.

Ore Shipments Heavy.

Ore is coming down to the Missabe docks with a rush. The steel corporation has put more men at work in the mines on the range so that the shipments are coming down much faster than a week ago. The high winds on the lake have delayed somewhat the incoming fleet so that there are few boats loading at the docks. The steamers Wolvin and Heffelfinger are at the docks loading with full crews and they will get away as soon as their boilers are inspected.

Marine Notes.

The steam yacht Phoenix lost her rudder in the Northern Pacific slip last night. She was towed over to the boat club by one of the Patterson launches.

The boilers of the Augustus B. Wolvin and the Heffelfinger will be inspected today by the United States inspectors. The Samuel Mather and the Ella G. Stone were inspected yesterday.

Repairs to the roof of the Northern Pacific freight shed No. 4 are being made.

FUND GROWS VERY SLOWLY

One Contribution of $25 for the Clinton Sufferers.

The Duluth Herald	$25.00
G. A. Fay	2.00
H. C.	1.00
Cash	1.00
Cash	1.50
Total	$55.50

The Herald's repeated appeals for financial aid for the Clinton, Minn., fire sufferers are still far from meeting with any great success. Only $55 has been contributed thus far. The fund was swelled $25 today by a contribution from a Duluth business man, who sent in this amount, with a short note explaining that he wished his name kept out of the papers.

Despite all the publicity given the matter, Duluth has contributed only about $125 towards the relief fund raised for Clinton, where a cyclone devastated the town, killing many and rendering hundreds destitute.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Park Falls, Wis., Aug. 22.—The boiler in the small sawmill of W. A. and A. L. Behnke exploded yesterday. Engineer William Punkett of LaCrosse was killed instantly, being crushed to a pulp. The mill was totally wrecked. Two horses were killed. The boiler and debris were carried hundreds of feet. Loss, $3,000; no insurance.

NEW SCHOOL IN EAST END

Jefferson and Endion Buildings Are Now Badly Crowded.

Course for Irving Industrial High School is Discussed.

A new schoolhouse, to be located between Eleventh and Twentieth avenues east, will be considered by the board of education as soon as the Ensign school is completed.

For a long time the Jefferson and Endion schools have been crowded from cellar to roof, and the new building is for the purpose of relieving the crowded condition of these two schools. The resolution for the new building was introduced by J. L. Washburn, and was carried.

Supt. Denfeld submitted a tentative outline of the course of study at the new Industrial high school. It is divided into four divisions: Mathematics, history, English and science. The board will talk over this course and consider it Tuesday night.

Mr. Washburn asked Mr. Denfeld how many pupils in the new school took French. Mr. Denfeld replied about twenty. Mr. Washburn said that he wouldn't give four cents a bushel for all the French taught, and asked the other members of the school board to think carefully over this course, so that it can be discussed Tuesday night, with the idea in mind of cutting out all the stuff that is not needed.

"I am opposed to a ticket wagon in the kindergarten that sells through tickets on the university band wagon. Half the students fall off before they reach Minneapolis. We can only have one industrial school. Let us make that a good one, by preparing a boy or girl to earn his or her own living. Let us keep away from them all those things that are unnecessary, and feel that everything we teach will help them to live. It's the best school we have and if I decided to go to school again, that's where I'd go."

Director E. R. Cobb said that the time is near when a large building must be erected near the site of the Central High. Both this building and the Washington are overcrowded. The old Washington school will, when the new school is built, be made over into a manual training shop.

Director Moe wanted to pay for a small platform he had borrowed from a West Duluth school to use as a pulpit in a small church. Mr. Washburn said he thought he was going to ask for a mourners' bench, and another director hinted that he thought a collection was what the West end man was after. The president told Mr. Moe to "forget it."

The opening of the bids for the construction of the new Ensign school was put over until Tuesday evening.

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him, and he has not suffered for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and, although 60 years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

Expensive Prairie Chicken.

Markets Lower in Face of Frost Reports From Dakota.

Trading Shows Some Activity—Flax Quiet, But Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 22.—Wheat was off again today in all the American markets, dropping away while the traders waited for the delivery of new wheat. Reports from the Northwest continues satisfactory, the slight frost in the Dakotas last night having no effect on the crops, which are too far advanced for it to damage them. In the Canadian wheat fields, the frost is said to have damaged small sections in the Northern Saskatchewan valley, but the injury is slight and has little effect of the general situation.

The delivery of new wheat will begin in Duluth next week and it is being bid in at 10½c over September. Several cars of new wheat were received in Minneapolis during the past week and also in Chicago.

The September option closed 1c off in Duluth today, ⅜@½c off in Chicago, 1⅜c off in Minneapolis, ½c off in New York, ½c off in St. Louis, ½c off in Kansas City and 2⅝c off in Winnipeg. The December option closed ⅜c off in Duluth, ½c off in Chicago, ⅜@½c off in Minneapolis, ⅛c off in New York, ⅜@½c off in St. Louis, ½@⅝c off in Kansas City and 1c off in Winnipeg.

Wheat closed ⅝d to ½d lower in Liverpool and corn ¼d lower. Paris wheat closed ¼c lower to ¼c higher.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "There was a quiet undertone to the speculative market at the opening and values were ¼d lower. At this time offerings were larger, stimulated by the late break in America yesterday, favorable Canadian crop advices and larger Russian clearances. The market further declined during the early trading, but toward the close some steadiness developed as leading longs supported and part of the decline was recovered. At the close the market was steady but ⅜d to ½d lower than Friday.

"Corn was quiet at the opening and ⅛d lower and further declined ½d during the morning. Pressure was the result of a poor demand for spot and no demand for LaPlata cargoes."

Car receipts of wheat were 5 against 8 last year, and at Minneapolis 201 against 82 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 206 against 90 last year. Chicago received 100 against 189 last year. Winnipeg received 15 against 190 last year.

Shipments were 572,000 bus., last year 494,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 415,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 351,000 bus., last year 404,000 bus.

Trading was a little more active during the short session on the floor of the Duluth board of trade today than for several days past. Wheat had a fairly good bulge early in the session, but broke toward the close to below yesterday's closing prices. September wheat opened ¼c up at $1.01½, went to $1.01¾, dropped back to $1.00⅜, advanced to $1.01⅛, fell off to $1 and rallied at the close to $1.00¼. December wheat opened ⅛c up at 97⅝c, went up to 97¾c, dropped off to 97¼c, rallied to 97½c, declined to 97c and rallied at the close to 97¼c.

Flax was rather quiet, with little coming out, and made a slight advance. September flax opened unchanged at $1.29½ bid, went to $1.30½ and fell back to $1.30 at the close. October flax opened unchanged at $1.27¼ bid, went to $1.28 and closed at that figure. November flax opened ¼c up at $1.27¼, went to $1.27½, then to $1.28 and fell off at the close to $1.27¾. December flax opened 1c up at $1.25 bid, closing at $1.26.

Cash spring wheat sold at 17¾c over September and 7½c over new wheat to arrive in August. Durum wheat was 1c off, oats ⅜c off and rye and barley unchanged.

Following were the closing prices: Wheat—No. 1 hard, on track, $1.19; on track, No. 1 northern, $1.18B, No. 1 northern to arrive August, $1.10½B; September, $1.00¼B; December, 97¼cB; durum on track, No. 1, 93c; No. 2, 91c; September, 88cB, October, 87¾cB. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Effect of Frost on Wheat Was Slight, Opening Being Steady.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The predicted frost for the Northwest materialized last night, but the effect on the wheat market here today was very slight, the opening being steady with prices from ⅛c lower to ¼@⅜c higher. Foreign markets were weak and this, together with liberal receipts in the Northwest, induced general selling which soon resulted in a slump of 1c in the September and December deliveries. May held comparatively steady. September opened a shade to ¼@⅜c higher at 93½c to 93¾c and sold off to 92¾c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 306 cars against 247 cars last week and 279 cars a year ago.

The market was dull and easy during the last half of the day, weakness of the Minneapolis market having a depressing effect. The low point for September was 92⅝c. The close was easy, with September ⅜@½c lower at 93c.

The corn market opened firm owing to the low temperatures which prevailed last night over a large portion of the corn belt, but trade lacked the snap generally incident to a frost scare. The break in wheat soon caused an easier feeling, particularly in the September delivery which declined to 77c after opening ⅛c to ¼c higher at 77⅝c to 77½c. Local receipts were 185 cars with 41 of contract grade.

Sentiment in the pit was bearish all day. September sold off to 76¾c. The close was steady, with September off ¼c at 77c.

Oats were steady despite the weakness of wheat, a slight demand being sufficient to maintain prices at a moderate advance compared with yesterday's closing firmness. September opened ⅛@¼c to ¼@⅜c higher at 49¾@49½c, but dropped back to 49¼c. Local receipts were 122 cars.

Renewed liquidation of the September and October deliveries caused weakness in provisions. Pork showed the greatest losses, the break in that product being from 20@30c. September pork opened 2½c higher at $14.47½ and sold off to $14.17½. Lard opened a shade to 2½@5c higher at $9.15@9.17½ and declined to $9.12½. Ribs dropped to $8.57½ after opening unchanged at $8.65.

Close: Wheat—September, 93c; December, 94c; May, 98¼c. Corn—September, 77c; December, 65⅝@65¾c; May, 64⅜c. Oats—September, 49¼c; December, 48¾c; May, 50⅝@50¾c. Pork—September, $14.10; October, $14.20; January, $15.37½. Lard—September, $9.12½; October, $9.20; January, $9.02½; May, $9.10. Ribs—September, $8.55, October, $8.65; January, $8.02½. Rye—Cash, 776c; September, 76@77c. Barley—Cash, 63@68c. Timothy, $11.00. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 94½@95½c; No. 3 red, 93½@94¾c; No. 2 hard, 94½@97¾c; No. 3 hard, 93½@96¾c; No. 1 northern, $1.20@1.24; No. 2 northern, $1.15@1.18; No. 3 spring, $1.02@1.12. Corn—No. 2, 78½c; No. 2 white, 79c; No. 2 yellow, 80c; No. 3 white, 78½c; No. 3 yellow, 79¼c; No. 3, 78½c. Oats—No. 3 white, 49½@50c; No. 4 white, 49@50½c; standard, 50¼@51c.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

A Number of Factors Caused a Depression in Price of Wheat.

Minneapolis, Aug. 22.—Following yesterday's closing decline, wheat opened today with a number of factors for price depression, notably receipts here of 201 cars against 82 a year ago. In Duluth there were but 5 against 8, and Chicago could only show 100 against 189, so that the effect was local rather than general. The elevator stocks, predicted to lose 200,000 bushels, actually decreased 197,632 bushels, bringing down the total to 617,570 bushels, out of which must come another 50,000 for the day. This is the main incentive to strength in futures here. A year ago at this time the Minneapolis elevators held 10,240,000 bushels, and the contrast is striking. North Dakota and the Canadian West had heavy frosts, but the trade concluded that it was too late for material damage, although the quality may be lowered somewhat. Heavy selling began near the close, and prices declined all around, rallying fractionally at times, but closing weak in tone. September opened $1.01½; high, $1.01¾; low, 99⅝c; close, 99⅞c. Old September opened $1.02¼; high, $1.02⅝; low, 99¾c; close, $1.00¼. December opened 98⅜c; high, 98¾c; low, 97⅜@½c; close, 97¾c. Old December closed 98¼c.

Cash wheat broke open in a sensational decline of 8 to 10c above. The market again felt the effect of the presence of velvet chaff which the millers did not want. Yesterday's sales on a range of 9 to 14c below regular spring wheat found repetition today. Ordinary No. 1 Northern that sold yesterday at $1.24 fell to $1.20 then to $1.18. Later it was offered at $1.13 then $1.14, selling finally at $1.12. No. 2 sold from $1.17 down to $1.09. Velvet chaff, in the No. 2 grade sold at $1.05 and $1.02 for some, but later it was unsalable at those prices. No. 1 Northern, velvet chaff sold later at $1.06. Close No. 1 Northern $1.10@1.12 spot; New, $1.03⅝ to arrive; No. 2 Northern, $1.07 spot; new, $1.00⅝ to arrive; No. 3 wheat, $1.05@1.06. No. 3 yellow corn, 76¼@77¼.

No. 3 white oats, 47c.

No. 2 rye, 73¾@74¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 82 cars. Trade is quiet and business lighter. Prices are about steady with yesterday at first, but about 1c lower for the low grades. Close, 54@61c.

Flax—Receipts, 2 cars. Duluth September price was bid and 1c over asked, but there was practically nothing in to sell. Close, $1.30¾.

Millstuffs lower, and quotable at $19.00@19.50 for bran in bulk.

Flour prices are quotable 20c lower for patents, in line with the break in cash wheat, and the market is weak as quoted. No change was made in clears. Shipments, 38,815 barrels. First patents, $5.95@6.05; second patents, $5.80@5.90; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Aug. 22.—Close: Wheat—Spot quiet; No. 2 red, western winter, 7s 6½d; No. 1 California, 7s 10½d, futures quiet; September, 7s 4¾d; December, 7s 5¼d. Corn—Spot firm; American mixed, 7s 4d; futures quiet; September, 5s 8½d.

LARGE BUYING ORDERS CAUSED RISE IN STOCKS

Blocks of 2,000 to 9,000 Shares Changed Hands Frequently.

New York, Aug. 22.—Today's stock market was the most exciting for months, and sales of stocks in the two hours of trading reached 1,019,300, the largest Saturday business since the Harriman boom of August, 1906.

Apparently an effort was made to take the "bear party" by surprise and force them to buy in their large outstanding contracts on a rising market. At the end of the first hour this maneuver seemed to be meeting with success. In the stocks which were most active during the recent declines, purchases were of an unusually large block—2,000 to 9,000 shares—in many cases were made in rapid succession, and on these purchases prices ran up 1 to 3 points in the most active speculative shares. Amalgamated Copper, Rock Island, common and preferred, New York Central, St. Louis & San Francisco and Smelting were the leaders in the advance. At the height of this movement came a sudden selling pressure, under which declines of a point or more occurred within the compass of a few minutes. Speculation soon became lively and stocks sold higher in the second hour than in the first. Just before the close, heavy sales to take profits for the day wiped out the earlier gains, and the market closed feverish and unsettled.

New York, Aug. 22.—The opening prices of stocks today were practically unaltered from yesterday's closing figures. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred and Norfolk & Western gained a point, and there were some other leading issues which scored trivial fractional advances.

Large orders for stocks were poured into the market and the shorts made a rush to cover, forcing prices upward at a lively rate. Amalgamated Copper bounded up 2¼, New York Central, Rock Island preferred, St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred and American Smelting 2, Rock Island 1¾, and Northern Pacific 1½. Speculation became feverish at the top level, the rapid rise arousing misgivings. Realizing and bear selling soon combined to break prices badly. Amalgamated Copper, Reading and the Harriman stocks yielded to below yesterday's closing, the Hill stocks lost their rise and the advance in other cases was reduced to fractions. Another jump in New York Central, which carried it up 3⅛, had a moneteary steadying effect on the market, but when it relapsed abruptly 2 points, the list became feverish again.

Closing prices are bid.

Bank Statement.

New York, Aug. 22.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $63,147,975 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is an increase of $5,529,250 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows: Loans, $1,286,591,300; decrease, $3,422,300. Deposits, $1,388,134,900; increase, $2,206,600. Circulation, $55,175,600; decrease, $5,210,000. Legal tenders, $58,915,000; decrease, $549,800. Specie, $331,266,700, increase, 6,630,800. Reserve, $410,181,700; increase, $6,630,800. Reserve required, $347,033,725; increase, 550,750. Surplus, $63,147,975; increase, $5,529,350. Ex-United States deposits, $65,461,525; increase, $5,537,000.

The percentage of actual reserve of the clearing house banks at the close of business yesterday was 29.80. The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York not members of the clearing house shows that these institutions have aggregate deposits of $1,036,729,000; total cash on hand, $103,089,900 and loans amounting to $930,383,000.

St. Paul Live Stock.

St. Paul, Aug. 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,000, steady and unchanged. Hogs—Receipts, 400, steady, range $5.50@6.45; bulk, $6.25@6.40. Sheep—Receipts, 100, steady and unchanged; lambs, steady and unchanged.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 22.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 5@6 points in response to lower Liverpool cables, bad trade accounts from Manchester and continued good weather in the South. After the early decline the market ruled a little steadier, although the demand seemed to be mostly a matter of covering for over the week end after a rally to within 2@3 points of last night's fina. The market was nervous and irregular.

Futures closed barely steady. Closing bids: August, 9.52; September, 8.72; October, 8.67; November, 8.53; December, 8.55; January, 8.47; February, 8.51; March, 8.52. Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 10.00; middling gulf, 10.25; sales, none.

New York Money.

New York, Aug. 22.—Close: Money on call nominal. Time loans easier and very dull; 60 days, 2 per cent, and 90 days, 2½@2¾ per cent; six months, 3½@3¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3¾@4½ per cent; sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.50@4.84.05 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86@4.86.05 for demand; commercial bills, $4.83½@4.84¼; bar silver, 51¾c; Mexican dollars, 45c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds steady.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Cattle—Receipts, about 500; market steady; beeves, $3.75@7.65; Texans, $3.50@5.20; westerners, $3.50@6.00; stockers and feeders, $2.65@4.50; cows and heifers, $1.85@6.00; calves, $5.50@7.20. Hogs—Receipts, about 9,000; market 5@10c lower; light, $6.00@6.70; heavy, $6.10@6.80; mixed, $6.10@6.85; rough, $6.10@6.40; good to choice, heavy, $6.40@6.80; pigs, $5.00@6.00; bulk of sales, $6.40@6.6.75. Sheep—Receipts, about 1,500; market steady; native, $2.25@4.25; western, $2.75@4.25; yearlings, $4.25@5.00; lambs, $3.50@6.25; western, $3.75@6.25.

MARTIN ROSENDAHL,

Copper Stock Broker.

414 WEST SUPERIOR STREET. 102-103 MANHATTAN BLDG.

My own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

AUGUST 22, 1908.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR—Getting harder to buy every day. Only a few days more and the big Black Rock vein will be opened up on the 1,200 foot level. If they open up big copper deposits on this level it will place this mine amongst the biggest copper mines in this country. They have about 146 acres of land in the best district in the world. The possibilities of this mine are so big that big owners of stock may stand by and wonder where they were when the shares were selling at so low a price. Only about again as much stock as the North Butte, and the equipment about the same. The Butte & Superior mine is ready to do business from the minute they strike the ore. If you ever stood to double your money fast, it is on this one from now on.

SHATTUCK and BALLAKLAVA—Both act about the same, only that the B. & B. has not started to advance. But you are only a few days away from the 1,000 foot level. I honestly believe that this mine will be one of the richest producers of high-grade ore in this country. It is an absolute certainty and is without question one of the most sure things on the board.

CALUMET & SONORA—Located alongside of the Greene, is an honest and true proposition. They have the ore and also good management.

DENN closed $4.25 bid and they may drive this one up a point or two.

CARMAN holds well at $3.00 to $3.25.

COPPER QUEEN should do better very soon. Everything is going along fine at this mine. Stock is $1.25 to $1.37.

This Gull Had a Memory.

Milwaukee Sentinel: "I notice the gulls have left you to go out into the lake," said D. A. Witter at the Plankinton house. "When I was here before they filled the river. You may not know it, but they are amenable to kind treatment and will become exceedingly tame, remaining about the yard most of the time. Years ago when I was a boy we had a gull that my brother had made friends with through feeding him whenever he came around. Finally he made our place his home every winter and most of the summer. After being around there for a year or more he suddenly disappeared and that was the last we saw of him. My brother, however, met him once afterward, and the meeting shows that the gull had a good memory. My brother was up the state, along the lake shore, when one day he saw a flock of gulls flying up high overhead as though they were coming from their breeding grounds. As he watched them, one of the gulls sailed a little lower, swinging around in a circle. He kept this up until he had come down close to the ground and the circles narrowed until they were not 100 feet across. All this time the bird was looking at my brother keenly. At length he flopped down to the ground and with his wings and beak extended, hopped along the beach toward my brother. Then he saw it was our tame gull. The bird kept up a peculiar call, which he always used whenever he was begging for food, and came closer. Unfortunately my brother did not have a particle of anything to eat with him. The gull hopped around in a puzzled sort of fashion, looking up at my brother as though saying, 'Well, why don't you give me something to eat?' My brother petted him for a time and then the gull, finding he was getting no food, raised his wings and went sailing off after the flock and that was the last we ever heard of him. But it goes to show that they will make fine pets if properly handled."

STRONG LIST OF TEACHERS

Superintendent Says Duluth is Very Fortunate This Year.

There are about 350 teaching positions in the Duluth public schools, and every place has been filled. Superintendent Denfeld says that he has had less trouble in getting competent teachers this year than for a number of years past.

"We are unusually fortunate in being able to get hold of the best educators in the country this year," he said. "I don't know of a single weak spot in the lineup."

The fact that Duluth has only a nine months' school is known now all over the country, and, of course, teachers prefer to go where they can work longest Then, among teachers, Duluth has the name of being a very expensive place to live, and up to this year a great many have steered clear of the Zenith City.

Three-fourths of the teachers are well known to Duluth people, but the other fourth are strangers who will see Duluth for the first time in September. Duluth schools have the reputation of being the best in the country, and if it were not for the high living, teachers would be scrambling for places.

To advertise your real estate twice as much as another man advertises his does not indicate that you are twice as anxious to sell as he is—but that you know twice as much as he does about how to sell.

BIG LIST OF CANDIDATES OUT FOR COUNTY OFFICES

Political Situation Begins to Show Signs of Activity.

The Latest News and Gossip in Political Circles.

County and legislative candidates who have filed:

County attorney — John H. Norton and Charles E. Adams.

County treasurer—W. A. Holgate.

County auditor—Odin Halden.

Register of deeds — O. N. Lundberg, Walter B. Butchart, M. C. Palmer.

County coroner—J. A. McCuen.

Judge of probate — A. E. Pfriemmer of Hibbing, J. B. Middlecoff.

County commissioners—First district—W. C. Wright, Hugh Fawcett, Alex Fraser.

Third district — James W. Cumming, David Nelson, John Sundeen.

Seventh district—James Butchart, P. J. Ryan.

County surveyor — Lional Ayres.

County school superintendent —S. W. Gilpin.

Representatives, Forty-ninth district—David Graham, Joseph Austin of Hibbing, Elwood L. Raah of Sparta.

Fiftieth district—John McGillivray, John R. Randall, Richard Grant, Andrew Miller.

Fifty-first district — N. P. Hugo, G. W. Buck, Chester A. Congdon, Dennis Hayes of Two Harbors and D. H. Lawrence of Two Harbors.

Where no party is mentioned the candidates in the above list are Republicans.

The impression seems to have gained ground, or at least statements have been uttered by one of the papers outside of the city, that "Duluth was, as usual, hogging the legislative candidates for office."

The condition that inspired this statement was the filing from the Fifty-first legislative district of Chester A. Congdon and George W. Buck.

In the past it has been the custom for Duluth to have the candidate for the state senate and one representative from the Fifty-first district. Lake and Cook counties, with the First, Second and Fourth wards of this city, the eastern portion of St. Louis county and Ely, compose the Fifty-first district. In the past it was also considered good politics for the people of Lake and Cook counties to unite upon one candidate and support him.

This year this has not been the case. Judge D. H. Lawrence and Dennis J. Hayes from Two Harbors have both filed as candidates. Today Judge Lawrence stated that Mr. Hayes would not make the race, but would throw his strength to the Lawrence campaign. Nevertheless, Mr. Hayes name will remain on the legislative ticket, and it is probable that he will secure enough votes to injure the chances of his fellow-townsman.

Judge Lawrence stated that it was through a mistake that Mr. Hayes filed. Now the law prevents him from removing his name from the contest.

It is probable that had there been one candidate from Cook and Lake counties, Mr. Congdon and Mr. Buck would not have both filed. It was a realization of the fact that with two candidates from Lake and Cook counties it would be almost impossible to elect either of them, that led to the filing of both Mr. Congdon and Mr. Buck.

Duluth men consider the interests of Lake and Cook counties identical with the interests of this city. It makes little difference to them where a legislator comes from, providing he is an able man.

There is need for a reapportionment of the Fifty-first district, it is claimed, and if Cook and Lake counties were made a separate district, it would do away with much that is unpleasant. Any attempt to reapportion the district would meet with the cordial support of the Duluth representatives.

There is at the present time an imposing list of county, legislative and congressional candidates in the field. Aside from some of the Democratic recommendations made by the convention at Hibbing, it is unlikely that any more candidates will file for office. It is now known that Charles Jesmore ex-mayor of Eveleth, will be a candidate for sheriff. All doubts were dispelled by Mr. Jesmore filing during the past week.

Joseph Ward Reynolds will also be a candidate for the legislature from the Fiftieth district.

Emil Tessman has announced that he will be a candidate for county commissioner from the Third district. John Lowe will also be a candidate from the Fifth district, having filed. The indorsement of P. H. Nelson for state treasurer by the state convention of course eliminates him as a candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Charles d'Autremont will not be a congressional candidate. The withdrawal from the race of Candidate Taylor of Aitkin has left the field clear to Congressman J. Adam Bede and Clarence B. Miller.

Mr. Miller is covering the Eighth congressional district in a thorough and systemaic manner. He has gone at the work with more system than Mr. Bede. He has a good organization in this and outlying counties and reports that come from various parts of the district are to the effect that he is making good progress.

Mr. Bede is waging his usually active campaign. He has opened his headquarters in the Manhattan building, and has two stenographers at work mailing literature. No grass has been allowed to gather under the feet of either candidate. An unprejudiced view would be that up to the present time Miller has shown the most strength. Mr. Bede has not succeeded in making any great inroads into the sentiment that Mr. Miller succeeded in forming early in the campaign. It was thought that the return of the congressman from Washington would greatly change the situation, but according to the best information obtainable this has not occurred. The campaign thus far waged has been one of the cleanest ever fought out in the Eighth district. Many people were led to expect entirely the reverse. Nothing even approaching the unpleasant has come up in the campaign.

Returning to a discussion of the field in the Fifty-first legislative district, it may be said that both the Democrats and Republicans are apparently satisfied with the filing of Mr. Congdon and Mr. Buck. Both are business men of recognized ability. Both of them have the interest of not only Duluth, but also of the range and the remainder of the legislative district, at heart.

One of the most important sessions in the history of the legislature will be held next winter.

It is for this reason that the candidacy of Mr. Congdon and Mr. Buck meets with the approval of all fair minded citizens, both of this city and the remainder of the district.

There has been a general stirring on the part of the candidates during the past week. Every candidate for county office has been out among the voters. Charles E. Adams, candidate for county attorney on the Republican ticket, is reported to have made considerable progress with his campaign, during the week just closing. Mr. Adams is not only meeting the voters personally, but he is also sending out literature.

John H. Norton, the present county attorney, and candidate for re-election, has not been idle. The race for this office promises to be one of the closest in the county campaign. Andrew Nelson has not given his final decision as to whether he will become a candidate on the Democratic ticket.

Charles Jesmore, the latest candidate for sheriff, was in Duluth Thursday and reports favorable progress in the county. Mr. Jesmore is a hustler, a good politician and well liked in the county. He will prove a strong contender for the office.

Edward Blackwood, who is a candidate for the office of sheriff on the Public Ownership ticket, reports that there is a surprising sentiment for Public Ownership, along certain lines, in this county.

William J. Bates, the present sheriff and a candidate for re-election upon the Republican ticket, is making a thorough canvas of the county and says things are looking favorable. Mr. Bates says that he has not alienated the laboring vote, as the result of his duties during the strike.

William McCumber, candidate for county commissioner from the Fifth district, is reported to have dropped out of the race. Mr. McCumber intends to move from the district, it is said, and this is given as the reason for his withdrawing from the race. The race for county commissioner from the Fifth district appears to be between Al Overton of Spirit Lake, J. W. New of Floodwood and Charles Kauppi.

O. N. Lundberg, Republican candidate for register of deeds, reports that things "just couldn't look brighter." Mr. Lundberg has already been pretty well over the city and suburban districts, and some time this month will cover the ranges. M. C. Palmer is showing progress in his campaign for this same office.

Richard Grant, a young attorney who is a member of the law firm of Sullivan & Grant, filed for the legislature from the Fiftieth district, the past week. Mr. Grant is a young man of pronounced ability and one who can be depended upon to make a hustling fight for the nomination.

Of course the dramatic state convention at Minneapolis was the feature of the week, politically. Harmony seems to have resulted from the convention. The Bryan men, according to their statements, are going to loyally work for Johnson, and they express no doubt of his election.

T. T. Hudson, a loyal and ardent Bryan worker, said today: "I have no doubt but that Johnson will be elected. We are going out and work for him. I think that the placing of the name of Johnson upon the state ticket will help the national campaign of Bryan in Minnesota."

Mr. Hudson's statement, may be said to be an epitome of similar statements made by Bryan workers at the close of the convention.

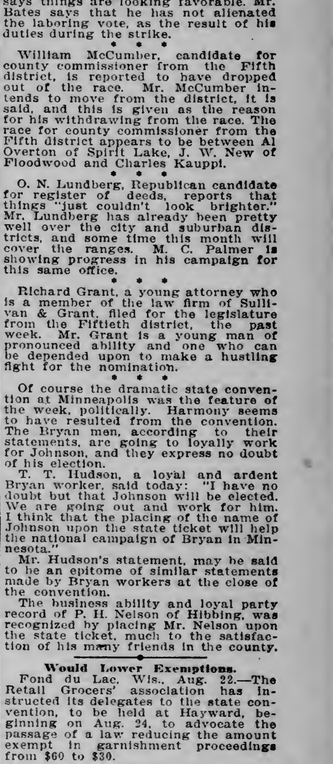
The business ability and loyal party record of P. H. Nelson of Hibbing, was recognized by placing Mr. Nelson upon the state ticket, much to the satisfaction of his many friends in the county.

Would Lower Exemptions.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 22.—The Retail Grocers' association has instructed its delegates to the state convention, to be held at Hayward, beginning on Aug. 24, to advocate the passage of a law reducing the amount exempt in garnishment proceedings from $60 to $30.

Meet After Many Years.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Louise Glass and daughter of Los Angeles, Cal., arrived Thursday night to visit at the home of Milton McFadden. Mrs. Glass is a sister of Mr. McFadden, and they have not met for thirty-five years until last night. Mr. McFadden's only other sister is also here on a visit and they are having a family reunion.



MRS. ELIZABETH B. GRANNIS
Is One of the Delegates Now on Their Way to Attend the Meeting of the International Council of Women, Which Will Be Held in Geneva, Switzerland, the First Week in September. Other Delegates Include Mrs. Kate W. Barrett, Mrs. Anna H. Shaw and Mrs. Ida Harper.

Your Wife Her Favorite Newspaper.

IT IS a fair assumption that nearly every woman in Duluth reads The Herald every night. Being an evening newspaper, The Herald arrives at a time when the women have leisure for reading. The Herald, too, has for years published a class of news appealing particularly to women. In addition The Herald's advertising columns have attracted thousands of women readers. In The Herald they have learned to expect all the best announcements of the big and little advertisers at home and from abroad. Any advertiser who wishes to reach the women of Duluth, can do so completely by using The Herald and only by so doing.

KILLING OF HIGHWAYMAN MAY HAVE ENDED REIGN OF BANDITS IN MINNEAPOLIS

Shot Down While Trying to Escape by Detectives.

Believed to Have Made His Headquarters in St. Paul.

Victim's Body Identified by Two Men He Held Up.

Minneapolis, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The killing of highwayman Walter Bryant in Minneapolis Saturday night is believed to have ended the reign of bandits in that city. There were no hold-ups Sunday night.

That the highwaymen who have been terrorizing Minneapolis with almost nightly depredations for the past few weeks probably made their headquarters in St. Paul, journeying to the Mill city to commit their depredations, is the latest theory of the Minneapolis police.

It is founded on the fact that the man who was shot by Detective Hayes and Crummey Saturday night, wore a suit recently purchased at the Boston clothing house in that city, as well as a cap, which he secured at the same place and evidently used for "get-a-way" purposes.

In consequence of this, the St. Paul police have been asked to join in an effort to ascertain his identity, which has not yet been definitely determined. Many of the Minneapolis police believe that the name of Walter Bryant, given by the dead bandit after he was taken to the hospital is the correct one, and that he formerly lived in South Minneapolis, but as yet no one has identified him positively. There is some reason to believe that his name was Walter Miller, as several letters and postal cards addressed to a man of that name were found in the pockets of his clothing. One of these was from Frances Kildoo of Ashton, Mo.; another from Valley City, N. D., was signed M.; a third letter signed "Marsh," was written from Aberdeen, while "Alice" wrote him from Wahpeton.

Identified by Two.

Charles Hedwell and G. H. Markham positively identified the dead man as one of the two men who held them up at Ninth avenue south and Twenty-sixth street last Tuesday night. Other victims of recent hold-ups, while not so positive, thought he had helped to rob them.

After the post-mortem examination the morgue was thronged with curiosity-seekers, hundreds of whom looked upon the dead man, but no friend or relative appeared to identify him, and none has been heard from, so that the body is yet unclaimed. The post-mortem showed that two bullets had been put through the head of the desperado, one through his neck, one through his body and one through both of his legs.

The second highwayman, who participated in the desperate revolver battle with Detectives Hayes and Crummey, has disappeared completely. Though every detective and uniformed officer in Minneapolis has been working steadily on the case, they have been unable to find any trace of him.

MULAI HAFID,
Brother of the Sultan of Morocco, Who Has Defeated the Ruler and Assumed the Scepter of the Country.

THRONE OF MOROCCO

Seized by Mulai Hafid After Battle With Brother.

Abdul Aziz, a Fugitive, Seeking Protection of French.

Paris, Aug. 24.—His army crushed by the forces of his brother, he himself barely escaping capture and today a refugee, seeking protection under the French flag, Abdul Aziz, sultan of Morocco, has lost his throne to Mulai Hafid, the pretender.

The overthrow of the sultan's army, news of which has surprised all France, occurred fifty miles from Morocco city, and was the bloodiest battle in the campaign which Mulai Hafid, the sultan's elder brother, has conducted for the sultanship.

It is reported that thousands fell in the engagement, and that the sultan's force was put to utter rout. The bursting of several of the sultan's cannon, due to ineffective gunnery, threw the soldiers into a panic.

Sultan in French Zone.

It was at first reported that the sultan had fallen into his brother's hands, but a message from the French commander at Casablanca says that Abdul Aziz escaped with a remnant of his army and is now a refugee somewhere within the French zone.

The news of the overthrow of the sultan has thrown the war office into a quandary, as news from Morocco early in the week indicated the complete defeat of the pretender.

The latest news indicates either that the pretender's forces were heavily recruited, particularly by the Algerians,

NOTED ONES ARE GOING TO SPEAK

Bryan, Chafin and Gilhouse Will Liven Up Things Political.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota politics have been dull since the primary election, but from now till election night the indications are that there will be something doing. The chief interest in the state is centered in the senatorial and the gubernatorial contests.

The cause of the present activity is the presence between this evening and Tuesday afternoon of next week of three presidential nominees. Bryan, who will be here Sept. 1, attracts the greatest attention. He spoke here twelve and eight years ago, and has a lot of admirers in the state.

It is expected that 20,000 people will be in Fargo to hear him. He will arrive at 7 o'clock, breakfast at one of the hotels at 8 and there will be a reception in which the leading Democrats of the state will participate. The party will then go to the fairgrounds, where, from 10 to 12, a public reception will be held in the administration building. At noon there will be a barbecue in the women's building and at 1 o'clock he makes his address in front of the grand stand, leaving at 3:30 for Grand Forks, where he speaks in the evening.

The presence of Chafin, the Prohibitionist nominee, here tonight is attracting some attention, because of the fact that the cold water people have called a mass meeting and a convention. Presidential electors will be named, but there is a difference of opinion as to future action. One element thinks that no further action should be taken. There are some who want to endorse Burke, the Democratic nominee, for re-election and still others who think that Johnson should receive the Prohibition O. K.

Gilhouse, the nominee of the Labor-Socialists, will speak here this evening and every possible effort is being made to get out a large audience of working men, unionists and others. Labor temple has been secured.

BURNS WINS ONCE MORE

Heavyweight Champion Puts Squires Out in Thirteenth Round.

Australian Fights Gamely, But is No Match for American.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 24.—Tommy Burns, the champion heavyweight pugilist, again defeated "Bill" Squires, the Australian, here today, knocking him out in the thirteenth round of a fast battle which was witnessed by 20,000 people, among them hundreds of sailors from the American battleships now in the harbor.

VILLAGERS ARE HOSTILE

Would Attack American Who Ran Over Boy at Dresden.

Dresden, Aug. 24.—A. C. Bartlett of Chicago, accompanied by his wife and daughter, was automobiling from Karlsbad to Dresden last Saturday, when the car ran over and killed a boy 8 years old, in the village of Schniederberg, thirty miles from here. It appears that the boy ran suddenly in front of the machine from behind a car. Although the automobile was being driven slowly at the time, it was impossible to avoid the fatal accident.

When it became known that the child was dead, the villagers made a hostile demonstration against the Bartlett party, the members of which took refuge in a nearby hotel. From Schmiederberg Mr. Bartlett telephoned Consul General Gaffney at Dresden, who, with Deputy Consul General Bywater, went down to Schiederberg. They found the police and village authorities in session taking testimony. It was decided, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, that the chauffeur, a man named Cummings, was blameless. Mr. Bartlett said immediately that he would indemnify the family of the boy.

The Saxon authorities were extremely considerate towards the Bartletts under these trying circumstances. Notwithstanding their innocence, they might have been subjected to great inconvenience.

STORM BRINGS WEDDING.

Leads to Betrothal of Chicago Lecturer and Cincinnati Woman.

Marysville, Mo., Aug. 24.—A chance meeting in the opera house at Bartlesville, Okla., where both were detained by a rainstorm, soon will culminate in the wedding of John Francis O'Donnell of Chicago, lecturer and actor, and Miss Anna E. Mallaun of Cincinnati.

Miss Mallaun took part last winter in an entertainment given under the direction of Father John of Bartlesville Roman Catholic church. Mr. O'Donnell was also on the program.

"Oh, my, how shall I ever get to my hotel!" cried Miss Mallaun as she heard the rain falling.

O'Donnell's answer was to order a cab. They met formally a few days later at the priest's home and were soon deeply in love.

It was planned to have Father John perform the wedding ceremony in time for them to go on the lecture platform together Sept. 1, but Father John is in Europe.

They will be married at Conception abbey, in Nodaway county, as a dispensation has been granted by the bishop of this diocese, this being necessary owing to the lack of time to publish the banns, as required by the new rule of the church.

BODY IN MOUSE RIVER.

Two Visitors Make Gruesome Find Near Minot.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—While walking along the Mouse river bank Saturday afternoon, W. H. Hatton of Seattle, Wash., and Charles Hemming of Youngstown, Ohio, saw a human foot sticking out of the water and on further investigation the body of a man with both arms, a foot, and the head missing, was brought to view. Coroner Larson was immediately notified and the body was brought to the city. From all appearances the body had been in the water for some time and as the head is missing it may be almost impossible to identify the unfortunate man. Sheriff Lee says that there has been no one reported missing for some time and it is therefore believed that the dead man may have been a stranger to these parts.

BARON VON STERNBERG, GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO UNITED STATES, IS DEAD

BARON SPECK VON STERNBERG,
German Ambassador to the United States, Who Is Dead.

Passed Away at Heidelberg Where He Consulted Specialist.

One of President Roosevelt's Most Intimate Friends.

Official Circles at Washington Greatly Shocked at His Death.

Heidelberg, Germany, Aug. 24.—Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador to the United States, died in the Hotel Victoria in this city, about midnight last night. The baroness, who was Miss Lillian May Langham of Louisville, Ky., was with her husband at the end.

The baron and the baroness came here from Hamburg the end of last month to consult with Prof. Vincenz Czerny, a skin specialist, concerning a malady from which the ambassador has been suffering for some time. After a prolonged examination of the diseased part on the left side of Baron Von Sternberg's head, Prof. Czerny affirmed that the trouble was not cancer but a lupus, and that he could cure it. Both the ambassador and his wife were immensely cheered at this opinion.

Thought He Would Soon Be Well.

Baron von Ssternberg is described as having felt that his long agony was nearly over and that soon he would be a well man again. His wife also shared that hope.

It had been arranged that Baron Von Sternberg should go to Berlin the middle of September to be received in audience by Emperor William previous to his return to Washington. It was thought desirable that the ambassador be at his post during the concluding weeks of the presidential campaign.

No arrangements yet have been made for the funeral of the ambassador. The baron's father, who is 80 years old, lives on the family estate near Dresden and it is possible that the burial will take place there. Baron Von Sternberg left New York for Germany on May 16 last.

Question of Successor.

Berlin, Aug. 24.—The reign of office, upon receiving a telegram from Heidelberg announcing the death there of Baron von Sternberg, the German ambassador to the United States, sent a cablegram to Count Hermann von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, the German charge at Washington, instructing him to inform President Roosevelt that the question of a successor to the baron probably would not be settled until Prince von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, saw the emperor, which might not be until the second week in September. Various diplomatic changes in prospect are to be gazetted in October, and among them probably will be a successor to the baron at Washington.

Some of the diplomats under consid-

COL. GEORGE W. GOETHALS,
Chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, Who Is Praised by the President for the Work Already Done There.

Not Believed Government Will Take Hand in the Matter.

May Let the Case Lie in State Attorney's Office.

Ex-Teller is Arraigned and Released on Bail.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—G. W. Fitzgerald, arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing $173,000 of United States funds from Assistant United States Treasurer William Boldenweck on Feb. 20, 1907, was admitted to bail today by Judge Chetlain. Counsel for the defendant pleaded for an immediate hearing, but the court postponed the examination until Aug. 31, to allow the state's attorney to collect further evidence. "I have not a nickel that doesn't belong to me," exclaimed Fitzgerald to reporters.

Explains to Attorneys.

He gave his attorneys an elaborate explanation of the money he had used in speculation. When he was discharged from the government employ he declared he had $2,600, his wife possessed about 2,300, and later he inherited between $4,000 and $5,000. His egg speculation began with an investment of only $200, he asserted, as he had only to put up sufficient margins to cover probable fluctuations of prices. This deal netted him $700. He then interested several others and together they made up a pool of $5,000 by the use of which they made some profit. As to the house he purchased, he said that it was offered for $4,500 with a $4,000 mortgage. He and Mrs. Fitzgerald secured the property by paying down $5,300.

The evidence against Fitzgerald, was worked up by a private detective agency, and no move was made by the government authorities in court today. A representative of the United States district attorney's office, however, was present.

SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—George W. Fitzgerald, asserting teller of the Chicago sub-treasury at the time of the theft of $173,000 in government money, eighteen months ago and who was arrested yesterday charged with the crime, spent last night in the county jail. His attorney, Edward R. Litzinger, had endeavored vainly to obtain his release on a $50,000 bail bond, fixed by Judge Chetlain, who set the arraignment of Fitzgerald for today. It was announced by Mr. Litzinger that his client would plead not guilty and demand an immediate hearing on the charge against him.

The men interested in the arrest of Fitzgerald say that they have a strong

STATE CAN COLLECT

Back Taxes to Amount of $40,000 From Western Union.

Judge Hallam Hands Down Decision in Favor of State.

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state of Minnesota can collect $40,000 from the Western Union Telegraph company for back taxes from 1902 to 1905, inclusive.

Judge Hallam in the Ramsey county district court today handed down a decision in the suit brought by the state ordering judgment in its favor for $40,564.07.

The company paid part of the tax assessed against it, but refused to pay a considerable amount each year, claiming the valuation fixed was excessive. The company's claim is demolished by Judge Hallam's decision.

OLD OFFICER ENDS HIS LIFE

Thomas Collins of Minneapolis Cuts Throat With Razor.

Minneapolis, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas L. Collins, for nearly a quarter of a century one of the most efficient patrolmen of the Minneapolis police department, committed suicide at his home Sunday morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

Collins had been despondent since the loss of his position several weeks ago, and this fact coupled with that of failing health is believed to have prompted him to end his life while his family was attending church.

BRYAN CANCELS HIS ENGAGEMENT

To Speak at Syracuse Fair Because of Admission Fee.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—William J. Bryan today cancelled his engagement to speak at the state fair at Syracuse, N. Y., on Sept. 18, for the reason, he states, that the fair managers insisted on charging an admission fee.

Mr. Bryan recently followed up his acceptance of the invitation to speak at the fair with a stipulation that no charge should be made for admission. Today National Chairman Mack received a telegram from W. P. Baker, secretary of the Syracuse chamber of commerce, declaring that an admission fee must be charged, and quoting a member of the fair commission to the effect that the reason for inviting prominent men to the exhibition is to increase the gate receipts. The cancellation of the date followed promptly.

THE COMMISSION WILL HEAR RATE CASE SEPT. 28.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The interstate commerce commission has assigned the cases of the chamber of commerce of Milwaukee against the Illinois Central and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroads, involving the question of through rates and routes on grain from Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota to Milwaukee, for a hearing at Milwaukee on Sept. 28. The railroads had refused to establish joint rates.

BRYAN OFF TO INDIANAPOLIS

Many People at Chicago Station to See Candidate.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Cheered by scores who thronged around his train, William J. Bryan, accompanied by National Chairman Mack, Senator Charles A. Culberson and members of the Democratic national committee, departed from Chicago at noon today on the Monon railroad for Indianapolis to attend the notification of John W. Kern for vice president. Mr. Bryan and his party occupied a private car, which was attached to the regular train, and before his departure Mr. Bryan shook hands with many who pressed about the rear platform to greet the candidate. Mr. Bryan said:

"I am greatly pleased with the progress of Democratic events, and from what I have learned from the national committee within the last forty-eight hours I feel assured of Democratic success in November."

Chairman Mack said today that he expected to announce shortly Mr. Bryan's itinerary, as has been arranged for the next month. The itinerary will carry the Democratic candidate through the Middle West, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and New York. Senator Culberson, who is head of the advisory committee, is being pressed to accept the chairmanship of the Eastern sub-committee, which will be announced within a few days. Senator Culberson does not feel that he should accept, as his other duties will prevent him from giving his full time to the work of managing the Eastern campaign.

FIRE DESTROYS 2,000 BUILDINGS.

Constantinople, Aug. 24.—The fire which broke out in the Stamboul quarter of Constantinople, yesterday afternoon, was extinguished at midnight. The houses in the quarter were mostly built of wood and proved easy prey for the flames carried by the high wind. It is estimated that more than 2,000 buildings were destroyed.

A number of firemen and women and children are reported to have been burned to death. The homeless probably number 7,000.

MISSIONARY TALKS WITH CANDIDATE TAFT.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug 24.—Missionary work in China was the subject of a conference today between Mr. Taft and George W. Painter, an American missionary to that country. Mr. Painter came here to ask Mr. Taft's views regarding general policies touching his work, because of the familiarity of the candidate with conditions there, and the interest he is said to have manifested in missionary work in the Orient during his service in the Philippines.

FREE RINKS THIS YEAR

Mayor Haven Plans Four Such Places for Duluth.

West End and West Duluth Included in List.

Duluth will have four free skating rinks next winter, if the plans of Mayor Haven work out as expected. Last year there were two, one at Twelfth avenue east, and one at Lester park.

The mayor plans the coming winter to have one at each of these two places, and in addition one in the West end, in or near Lincoln park, and another in West Duluth. Thus young people from all parts of the city will have a rink easily available.

The matter probably will be put in the hands of the park board, and the rinks placed on park sites. It is expected, men now employed by the board will be retained during the winter to look after the new work. Thus some of the laborers will be given work the year around, instead of only during the summer months, as at present.

The rinks will answer the same purpose as the public playgrounds in summer, and after this year the sheets of ice will be made on the playground sites. The playground at Lincoln park is meeting with excellent success. It is doubtful if the ground itself will provide a place for a rink of suitable size, but a tract of land of the sort desired will be available in the near vicinity.

It is now getting late in the summer season, and little more will be done with the public playground movement this year. Next year, however, the work will be gotten under way early in the spring, and probably three or four playgrounds will be started in different parts of the city. Members of the Duluth Playground association are convinced that the movement will be a big success in Duluth, especially so if the grounds are devoted to the use of free skating rinks during the winter months.

PROCTOR MAN HELD UP.

West Duluth Police Have Description of the Highwayman.

A highwayman, armed with a revolver, confronted Charles Peterson and demanded his money shortly after midnight on the road up the hill between Bay View Heights and Proctor.

Peterson was forced at the muzzle of the gun to hold up his hands and submit to having his pockets gone through. Fortunately he had no money to speak of, nor any valuables on his person, so the hold-up man was poorly rewarded for his pains. He dodged off into the brush, leaving Peterson standing alone in the road.

When Peterson reached Proctor, he notified Marshal Murray of the incident. Although it was very dark when he met the man, he was able to give a fairly good description of him. The West Duluth police have been asked to be on the lookout for a man answering the description he gave.

Peter A. McIntyre, president of the Longshoremen's union of West Duluth, died last evening at 7 o'clock, at his residence, 5209 Ramsey street. His death was caused by heart failure.

He is survived by his widow and two children. He was 38 years old and had lived in West Duluth, where he was well known, for several years.

The Longshoremen of West Duluth will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Gilley's hall, 224 North Central avenue, to make arrangements for the funeral.

First Fall Meeting.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be held the first regular full meeting of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the West Duluth Baptist church. It will be held at the church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue. The officers of the society elected Saturday for the ensuing year are: Mrs. B. J. Rose, president; Mrs. M. E. Allen, vice president; Mrs. Fannie Erickson, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. C. W. Wallace, advisor and chairman of program committee; Miss Mable Wallace, chairman of social committee.

Will Open Sept. 8.

The opening of the fall term at the Irving school is not expected to be delayed by the fire that took place there early Saturday morning. Most of the damage was confined to the boiler room and stairways of the north wing, and the recitation rooms were not touched, except for smoke and water. Men were at work early Saturday morning cleaning up the debris, and carpenters will make the necessary reparis as soon as possible. The girl's summer sewing and cooking class has been discontinued.

West Duluth Briefs.

The 10-months-old son of M. J. Fillatrault of 5413 Ramsey street is very ill.

The Summer Resting Time.

The vacation is necessary, and the business man, or the home woman, owe it to themselves to demand this cessation from their customary duties when the summer season is at hand. If you have not planned a vacation, take it anyway. If you are planning a camping or fishing trip, be sure to include a few bottles of golden grain belt beer with your supplies. It is not only the purest of all beverages, but also the most beneficial to body and mind. Order Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing Company.

WORKINGMEN, ATTENTION!

THE SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY

will hold an open air meeting, corner of Second avenue west and Superior street. Among the speakers will be August Gullhaus, presidential nominee of the party.

ARE READY TO BEGIN GRADING

Work on Transfer Road Will be Begun This Fall.

As soon as the crossing rights of the Interstate Transfer railway are settled, work on the new road will be commenced. The money for the road has been provided, and the only thing that prevents the beginning of the work is the decision of the Wisconsin railroad and warehouse commission as to the crossing rights.

The grading for the road will be begun this year and the abutments of the bridge over the St. Louis river will be built. Awaiting the decision of the railroad commission has delayed the work, for the Steel corporation has been ready to go ahead for some time. The decision is expected within the present week and then laborers will be placed on the grading.

Clearing has been done for the portion of the line that will be graded this fall.

DANCE

Tomorrow evening at the Lincoln Park Auditorium, by the Arrah Wanna Social Club. Dance scheduled for Sept. 8 will be given next Tuesday, Sept. 1.

GIRL HEARS THAT HER FIANCE STILL LIVES.

Wooster, Ohio, Aug. 24.—Miss Lucy Warren, who was disappointed by the failure of her intended husband to be present on the night of their wedding and who now is suffering from a nervous breakdown on this account, was overjoyed to learn that her fiance Ralph W. Eddy was alive and in a sanitarium at Milwaukee.

The young woman has not yet received a message from Eddy, but her mother, upon being asked if the daughter was still willing to marry Eddy, replied:

"Why, yes. Why shouldn't she? I know Ralph Eddy too well and believe that his condition was such as to make it impossible for him to get any word to us regarding himself."

LOCKED IN HER HOUSE

Mrs. Kate Murphy Says Landlord Used Her Roughly.

West End Physician is Sued for $500 Damages.

Charging him with assaulting her and locking her in a house against her wishes, Mrs. Kate Murphy of the West end has brought suit for $500 against Dr. O. A. Oredson. Papers were filed in the municipal court Saturday afternoon.

It is understood the trouble arose over rent. According to the complaint, Mrs. Murphy was moving her household effects out of the dwelling at 122 Eighteenth avenue west, belonging to Dr. Oredson, when the latter appeared on the scene and forbade her proceeding with the work. This occurred Aug. 18.

The complaint further alleges that the irate landlord handled her very roughly, even assaulting her and forcibly detaining her from leaving the building, although she tried her best to escape to the outer air. Not only this, but Mrs. Murphy says she was humiliated before people helping her by having the doctor order them to desist and leave the house.

Finally, after what she claims was a tirade of abuse, the doctor left the house himself and locked her alone on the inside, taking the keys with him. Mrs. Murphy says she was in rather a delicate condition at the time, and that her feelings and health were damaged to the extent of $500. McMahon & Rock are her attorneys.

BOAT CLUB BALL GAME

The annual contest between the bachelors and married men will take place next Saturday afternoon.

SUPERIOR NEWS

$5,000 Per Toe.

John Gluckey and his son, Saturday filed suit against the Iron River Lumber company for $13,000 damages for personal injuries to the son, who is alleged to have lost two toes while employed in the company's mill at Iron River on June 1. Of the $13,000, $10,000 is asked for the injuries sustained, and $3,000 is sued for by the father for the loss of his son's services and doctor's bills contracted during his son's illness.

To Organize Bryan Club.

At a mass meeting to be held in the rooms of the Superior court on Friday evening, Sept. 4, the Douglas County Bryan club will be organized. At that time a constitution and bylaws will be formally adopted.

Labor Day Program.

Plans are being made by the Superior unions for their Labor day parade. Besides the parade there will be a picnic and program of sports at Nemadji park.

Young Girl is Released.

Touched by the pitiful tale of an 18-year-old girl prisoner, Acting Judge Stack in the municipal court Saturday released her from the charge of drunkenness for which she was being held.

She told a story of how she had been deceived by a traveling salesman she had met at her home in Seattle several months ago. She had come to Superior to get away from home, and to search for work. In Superior she had met with the wrong kind of people, and her arrest for intoxication followed. The judge gave some good advice and her freedom.

Grocers Go to Convention.

About thirty grocers, delegates to the grocers' state convention, left this morning at 9 o'clock in a special car for Hayward, where the convention will be held.

Germans Will Celebrate.

On Oct. 4, the Germans of Superior will celebrate in commemoration of the arrival in America of the first large body of sons and daughters of the Fatherland. It will be the two hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the settling of Germantown, Pa.

Mayor Returns.

Mayor Crumpton returned yesterday from a trip to North Dakota. He is very much pleased with the prospect of a very big crop of wheat this fall. It will surpass that of last year, according to the mayor.

Abused His Wife.

For abusing his divorced wife, Joseph Johnson was arrested Saturday night and is being held at the Central police station waiting to be arraigned. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by his wife, who claims that he tried to force his way into her home on Friday night, and that when he failed, called her abusive names. She lives at 123 Weeks avenue with her six children, the oldest of whom is 14.

Are Machines Illegal?

There seems to be some question in the minds of the Superior authorities whether the voting machines that have lately been purchased for the coming election, can legally be used in the primaries. This matter will be settled this evening at a special meeting of the city council.

Ten-Story Building.

W. G. Hathaway of Warsaw, Wis., has purchased lots for $8,200 on Tower avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, and will erect a ten story building on them in the near future.

Dock Extension.

Barnett & Record, contractors, this morning started work on the extension of the smaller of the dry docks. They will make this large enough to accommodate 600-foot boats.

FARMER MAKES GOOD.

Mora Man Says Minnesota Beats the World at Farming.

Peter Ornas, a farmer living near Mora, Minn., is in the city on a visit. Mr. Ornas went into the Mora country nine years ago, and took a claim of 160 acres. He has a comfortable home and hotel now, which proves what an energetic man can do with one of Uncle Sam's claims in the North woods. Last year he sold the timber on his place for $1,000 cash, and still has 15,000 cords of wood.

Mr. Ornas is enthusiastic about farming in Minnesota. He says that while lots of people look with disfavor on Minnesota because of the extreme cold of the winter, it is, for all that, the greatest place for a man who is not afraid of work to get ahead in the country.

ONLY ONE MORE DAY FOR FILING

Candidates for County Offices Must Delay No Longer.

Prospective candidates for county offices must act quickly if their names are to be presented to the voters at the primary election Sept. 15. Tomorrow is the last day for filing and the clerks in the county auditor's office are all ready to take care of a rush if a number of citizens suddenly decide to enter public life and trust their fato for the next two years to the tender mercies of the voters of the county.

There was one more filing this morning. R. C. Vincent shied his castor into the ring for commissioner from the First district and squared away for the Republican free-for-all in that district. He is the fourth to file for E. M. Patterson's seat on the county board. Alexander Fraser, W. C. Wright and Hugh Fawcett are already in the field and the four-cornered fight is furnishing plenty of excitement for the voters of the district.

The race for the Republican nomination for county commissioner is rather heated in several districts. The Fifth has about a half dozen candidates and they are all working hard for the nomination. Several other districts have two or three candidates and every candidate is after the votes with his full strength.

FEARS FELLOW WORKERS.

William Begotke Thinks Every Man's Hand is Against Him.

William Begotke imagines that work and death are synonymous for him. Begotke lived at the Bethel for about five years past. For several years, he worked steadily, whenever he could get a job. Of late, he has changed. He refuses to work. Time and again he started out in the morning to go to work, only to return wild-eyed and shaking with fear, to say that the other men on the job were trying to kill him.

Information of insanity was filed against Begotke in probate court this morning, and he was taken into custody. He will be given a hearing this afternoon. He is about 35 years old.

STILL MISSING.

G. B. Anderson, Advertising Swindler, Not Located by Police.

The whereabouts of G. B. Anderson, the fake advertising man who cleverly tricked scores of Duluth business men out of sums of money ranging from $5 to $100, are still unknown. It is now believed he went to the Pacific coast instead of to Winnipeg as at first believed. Every day brings to light the names of more men and business firms that he borrowed money from, and forgot to pay back. This was in addition to the money paid for fake advertising. Altogether, Anderson made a very nice cleanup in Duluth, his total haul here amounting to considerably over $2,000.

HAINS ARRAIGNMENT GOES OVER TO FRIDAY.

New York, Aug. 24.—Capt. Peter C. Hains and his brother, T. Jenkins Hains, were taken to the magistrate's court in Long Island City today, the former charged with the killing of William F. Annis at the Bayside Yacht club over a week ago and the brother charged with being an accessory to the act. By agreement with the district attorney, the arraignment was postponed until next Friday. Capt. Hains plainly showed the effects of a week's confinement, but his brother seemed unconcerned and calm. The brothers were handcuffed when brought into the court. As he sank into a seat, Capt. Hains appeared to be on the verge of a nervous collapse. He wore the uniform of a captain in the United States army when he appeared in court for arraignment.

LOSE LICENSES FOR SELLING TO GIRLS.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—Following a sensational crusade by the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the police department against cafes which were charged with selling liquor to minors and young girls, Judge Frazer today revoked the licenses of the Fulton, Heidelberg, Club, Crown and Schmidtz cafes, five of the largest places in Pittsburg.

GRAND REVIEW OF ARMY AND NAVY HELD AT SYDNEY.

Sydney, N. S. W. Aug. 24.—There was a grand review at noon today in Centennial park, in which 600 men of the royal navy, 3,000 men of the American fleet, 7,000 of the naval and military forces of New South Wales and 4,000 cadets took part. It was the largest ceremonial parade ever witnessed in Sydney. The vast natural amphitheater was filled with over 100,000 spectators. The men on parade answered the cheers of the crowd by the "eyes right" the men from the American fleet were given an ovation as they marched past. At the conclusion of the parade they were entertained at luncheon, after which they took street cars to Fort Mac Quarie and reembarked.

Politics Causes Murder.

Ironton, Ohio, Aug. 24.—Factional politics are claimed to be directly responsible for the killing today of Henry Frecka by Robert Frowine, his rival candidate for Republican central committeeman. The two men met on the street and Frowine was seen to draw his gun and commence shooting. He was arrested at his home.

Vilas Unchanged.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 24.—It is five weeks today since Col. William F. Vilas was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage and his condition is still unchanged to any great extent, although he has shown improvement in the last few days.

BURNS ONCE MORE

best of the fighting at the call of time, although Squires again drew blood with a blow to Burns' mouth.

Round 4—Burns drew blood with terrific swings to the Australian's nose and mouth and also landed other blows to head. Squires attacking strongly with swings for Burns' head.

Round 6—Burns got home two heavy blows on Squires' body, the Australian replying with hard swings to Burns' jaw. Both men were bleeding when the round ended.

Round 7—Squires opened the round with a blow to Burns' chin, quickly followed with a second to the same spot. Burns dodged and side-stepped throughout the round, Squires following up and landing frequent blows on the champion's face.

Round 9—Squires continued on the aggressive and made the fighting in the early part of the round.

Round 10—Squires attacked Burns fiercely and punished him severely with two hard blows to the head. Burns was bleeding freely, but got in a terrific right swing to Squires' head, following it with a vigorous attack on the Australian's body.

Round 11—Squires continued his attack and scored effectively with three right uppercuts, following the blows with a staggering left to Burns' nose. Burns was decidedly groggy and staggered to his seat when the gong sounded.

Round 12—Squires again forced the fighting at the beginning of the round, Burns side-stepping and dodging, and as the blows fell harmless, steadied the Australian with two lightning punches.

Round 13.—Burns came up strong and opened the fighting with a terrific right swing that grazed the Australian's chin. The men fell into a clinch, and as they broke, Burns planted a half-arm blow near the point of Squires' chin, sending him to the floor. It took the Australian nine seconds to rise, and as he arose groggy, Burns put him down again with a short uppercut. The referee had counted eight before he was able to rise, and then, swaying on his feet, he landed a light right on Burns' ribs. The American coolly awaited an opening, and when it came, clipped the Australian a right-hander on the chin that sent him down and out. The referee counted Squires out as his seconds threw up the sponge.

Harry Nathan was referee.

DOCK MEN WORK PART OF SUNDAY

Increased Business at Two Harbors Dock Necessitates Extra Work.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore business has picked up considerably in the past few days, about twenty-five crews being engaged in that service, and the receipts are about 1,500 loads per day. The force on the docks was worked Sunday until noon, being the first Sunday work this season, it being necessary to finish loading some boats.

The LaBelle mine at McKinley has resumed shipments of ore.

LUMBERMEN TO BE QUITE BUSY

Alger-Smith and Other Loggers Are Preparing for Logging.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lumbermen are looking forward to a prosperous season, and are already making preparations to start their camps, supplies being already sent by the Alger-Smith company and other loggers for camps to be operated along the line of the D. & N. M. railway and by the lumber companies who will log above Ely, and at some other points along the D. & I. R.

The Lake county Democrats have named the following committee for the next two years: Chairman, George H. Spurbeck; secretary, John Dwan; L. Ciaffy, W. B. Woodward, John Warren, M. Peterson, C. E. Anderson.

The county auditor has advertised for bids for the clearing, grubbing and grading of one and one-half miles of road in Sec. 23-56-8. Bids will be received up to Oct. 6, 10 a. m.

Torson & Hull have made application to the county commissioners for licenses to operate a saloon in Beaver Bay township.

The Herald excursion on the steamer Easton, Saturday afternoon, was again largely patronized.

The funeral of Arvid Klingberg, who died at the Two Harbors hospital Friday morning from an operation for appendicitis, was held yesterday from the Swedish Lutheran church and the remains laid to rest in Lakeview cemetery.

The Two Harbors Marine band has been reorganized with Mr. P. G. Curtis as leader.

At the last meeting of the county commissioners the contracts for clearing and grubbing of three miles of road in Sec. 19-54-10 were awarded as follows: Charles A. Wickstrom & Co., first mile, at $1.65 per running rod, and third mile at $1.20 per rod; M. Peterson and J. Elkhart, second mile, at $1.87 per rod.

Dr. Will Goldsworthy has announced his candidacy for re-election as county coroner at the coming election.

At the regular meeting of the city council tonight the sewer proposition will be the chief topic for consideration.

Miss Bertha Norman, niece of Theodore Lusch, a prominent business man at Waldo, was successfully operated on for appendicitis at a local hospital.

LOOK AT GILBERT YARDS.

Railroad Officials Inspect Recent Improvement.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Kreitter of the Missabe road was here recently with Supts. Owens and Holliday of the Iron Range road looking over the Gilbert yards which have been completed. The yards will be used soon for loading up trains as soon as loading is again started at the Gilbert, which now is suspended on account of there being no boats at Two Harbors.

Tomorrow evening the Modern Woodmen will hold a meeting at Gilbert to organize a lodge which will be in close conjunction to the lodge at Sparta.

Something very necessary at Gilbert now is a water system. It is very difficult for the residents there to secure good water, as it has to be brought quite a distance.

The Gilbert Baseball association is to have a dance for its benefit at Seigels hall the last evening in the month.

MARBLE LOTS POPULAR.

New Town is Promised a Good Hotel Soon.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new town of Marble must be popular judging by the number of applications for lots on file in the local offices of the Oliver Mining company. H. C. Damkroger has prepared plans for a fifty-room hotel in the new town.

J. M. Bartlett of Worthington, Minn., is arranging to start a cigar factory here.

Mat Prettner, chief of the fire department, fell from near the top of the new concrete monument erected on the main street of the village, and sustained injuries to his back that will lay him up temporarily.

DROWNS IN EIGHT INCHES OF WATER

Mountain Iron Boy Loses His Life in Small Stream.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter Anderson, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oakman, was drowned in a small stream near Pelican lake last Friday afternoon. Mr. Oakman is a business man of Mount Iron, and operates t small sawmill on Pelican lake, where he also has a summer home. The boy had been accustomed to play in the yard adjoining the house. Friday afternoon he had been absent only about ten minutes, when Mrs. Oakman, failing to see him in the yard, began a search and found his lifeless body in the creek near by, where there was not more than eight inches of water. She made every effort to resuscitate him, but without success, and the bereaved foster parents brought the remains here Saturday for burial, the funeral taking place yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakman have no children of their own, and adopted the boy in Minneapolis about the first of the year. He was a bright little fellow, and having become deeply attached to him, they feel his loss keenly.

BOTH IN HOSPITAL.

Two Harbors Principals in Fight Laid Up for Repairs.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Schmidt and Jack Meedham, who are employed on the construction of the new steel dock, mixed it so viciously yesterday that both are in a local hospital. They will probably be arrested for disorderly conduct as soon as they are able to leave the hospital. A long standing difference between the two men culminated in a vicious fight, during which Schmidt's jaw was broken, while Meedham's left ear was nearly beaten off with a club.

JOHN SAARI VERY ILL.

Well-Known Representative Suffering From an Operation.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jacob Saari of this place has been summoned to St. Paul by the serious illness of his brother, Hon. John Saari, representative from this district, who is critically ill in a hospital as the result of a recent operation for appendicitis.

LAKE OF WOODS SCENERY.

Recent Visitors Loud in Praise of Its Attractiveness.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—August T. Koerner, mining inspector for the state, Mrs. Koerner and daughter, B. F. Smith of the Hotel Fay, Miss Bertha Smith and her guest, Miss Reardon of Rhinelander, Wis., returned Saturday from a pleasure trip to Rat Portage, on the Lake of the Woods, via the Rainy Lake road and Rainy river boat line. Mr. Smith has traveled extensively and considers the journey on the Rainy river and Lake of the Woods as unsurpassed for beauty and interesting scenery by that of any waters in the United States.

A letter has been received from F. B. Rossom, stating that he and his family are now traveling in Germany and enjoying themselves greatly.

Mesdames Julius Shandeling, M. Shandeling and the other members of the family who attended the wedding of Miss Belle Geisenfeld and Harry Shandeling in Milwaukee on the 16th inst., returned home Saturday. The bride and groom are expected to arrive some day this week.

RED FLAG NOT TOLERATED.

Finnish Socialists Not Allowed to Flaunt Crimson Banner.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—What was almost an outbreak like last summer occurred yesterday afternoon when the Finnish Socialists of the town marched out to Ely lake where they had a picnic. They formed in marching order in front of the Urania hall and had with them a man carrying a red flag and a woman an American flag. Two policemen noticed the red flags but did not do anything until the line of march had proceeded about a block, when Pete Firdi, who is in charge of the force while Nick Kent is away, and another policeman tore away the red flag from the holder, the woman carrying the American flag throwing it down, while the Socialists kept on marching. The action of the police was most timely as the red flag was waved in defiance. The other people of the town approve very much of the action of the police and say it is one of the best things the force has done this year.

POSTOFFICE AT CALUMET.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A postoffice has been established at Calumet, the new town twenty-two miles west of Hibbing, and John C. Mick, late of the Power insurance office in this city, has been commissioned postmaster. Mr. Mick will open the office for business as soon as his supplies arrive. Applications have been made for several other postoffices in that immediate vicinity.

D. J. HAYES STILL AFTER POSITION

Two Harbors Man Has No Intention of Retiring From the Race.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dennis J. Hayes of this city, who has filed for the Republican nomination as representative from the Fifty-first district is indignant over the local political story in Saturday's Herald that he would not make the race, but on the contrary would throw his support to D. H. Dorsed candidate and have no intention of the kind. "The claim that I have withdrawn and am not seeking the nomination is absolutely false," declared Mr. Hayes today. "I am the regularily in-Lawrence, who had also, filed for the whatever of pulling out. You can say I am in the fight to the end and hope my friends will not be misled by the contrary reports."

Hold Annual Picnic.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local branch of the U. A. O. D. held their annual picnic yesterday at the Auburn grove. There was a large attendance, many people being present from other points on the range. A program of games and sports was carried out, prizes being awarded to the winners.

Preparing for School.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A teachers' meeting will be held next Saturday afternoon at the Roosevelt school to arrange for the opening of the schools, Monday, Sept. 7. The Roosevelt school has been largely repaired and renovated during the summer.

eration for this post are Count von Goetzen, the Prussian minister at Hamburg, Herr von Reichenau, the German minister to Brazil, and Dr. Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein, the ambassador to Japan. An American diplomatist, in conversation with Emperor William in January of this year, said something complimentary of Count von Goetzen. "I am glad to hear you say this," replied the emperor, "because Count von Goetzen will be the next ambassador to Washington."

Some Feeling Caused.

Although the intention of the emperor in this regard appeared definite when he spoke the report that the count had been selected to succed Baron von Sternberg was so widely grasped that there arose a certain amount of feeling in the German diplomatic service against the choice of this young minister for so desirable an embassy, and this feeling may cause a revision of the previous decision, on the part of the emperor and his chancellor.

Count von Goetzen is a brilliant and amiable man, 42 years old. He has seen a variety of service, including that post of military attache at Washington from 1896 to 1900. He was governor of German East Africa for five years. In February of this year he was appointed minister at Hamburg.

Wife an American.

Count von Goetzen's wife is an American. She was a Mrs. May Stanley Lay of Baltimore. Her maiden name was Loney.

Herr von Reicheneau was first secretary of the German embassy at Washington from 1896 to 1898. He is known as a specialist in North and South American affairs. He was German minister to Guatemala and Chili before he was sent to Brazil, and he has long been long regarded in the foreign office a smarked for promotion.

Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein, who has been described as the logical successor to Baron von Sternberg, often has said that he would rather be given the embassy at Washington than any other post in the service. He was a candidate before Baron von Sternberg for the appointment. Although he is well satisfied with Tokio, he still hopes for the Washington appointment. It was intimated today that two other names in addition to the foregoing also are among the possibilities for this position.

Sorrow at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 24.—News of the death of Ambassador von Sternberg came not as a surprise but as a great shock to his personal and official friends in Washington. By officials of the state department and by those who were so fortunate as to enjoy his confidence and friendship the death of Baron Sternberg is regarded as a distinct personal loss.

When he left Washington May 15 for his home in Germany, the ambassador himself seemed to have a premonition that he never would return.

Very Popular.

It is no detraction from any man to say that the German ambassador, personally and officially, was one of the most popular and highly esteemed members of the diplomatic corps at Washington. While a resident of the American capital he became intimately associated with a coterie of prominent men in civil and official life of whom President Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of State Adee and Gifford Pinchot, chief forester of the United States, were three. They were together much of the time. Some of them were interested enthusiastically in athletic sports. Baron von Sternberg formed an intimate relationship with Mr. Roosevelt. They had much in common. Both were fine students and erudite scholars. Baron von Sternberg, although small of stature, and seemingly delicate of physique, was an accomplished horseman, and he and Mr. Roosevelt rode a great deal together. In the long rides and walks which they took about Washington, the friendship which in later years was to be so valuable both to America and Germany were cemented.

Welcome Guest at White House.

Baron Sternberg always was a welcome guest at the White House. He was on with the president probably more intimate personal and official relations than any other diplomat accredited to Washington. During Ambassador Sternberg's official sojourn in Washington he became acquainted with Miss Lillian May Langha of Louisville, Ky., whom he afterward married.

It is recognized here that the sympathy and devotion of Baroness Sternberg contributed greatly to cheer him and to prolong his life.

Acting Secretary of State Adee expressed today his great personal sorrow at the death of Ambassador Sterberg. He cabled immediately to the baroness and also, on behalf of the state department to the German foreign office an expression of personal and official condolences.

Mr. Adee said that, in accordance with custom, the text of the cablegrams would not be made public in Washington.

among whom an uprising was fomented by Mulai, or that the reported defeat of Mulai was a clever ruse worked by the English officers who, as soldiers of fortune, joined the pretender's army under promise of valuable concessions from Mulai in the event of his ascendency to the throne.

British Hand Feared.

In the event of Mulai Hafid's complete triumph and the overthrow of the sultan, there is little doubt that France will recognize the new regime, as her policy all along has been to let Morocco work out her internal troubles alone.

There it no concealment of alarm, however, should any attempt to throw too much power to the adventurous Englishmen who have engineered his campaign. These concessions are supposed to include mines, railways and the reorganization of Morocco's financial system, which France will not willingly submit to.

Three months ago it was clearly seen that the sultan was in imminent danger of overthrow. The uprising, headed by his brother, swept the country, moslem hordes joining him by the thousand. Mulai's cry was that the sultan was southern capital, and shortly afterward he entered Fez, the northern capital, amid the acclamation of the populace and surrounding tribes. Mequinese, Morocco's third capital, was also taken by the pretender.

Thomas Marshall, Democratic candidate for governor of Indiana, will speak briefly and Mr. Bryan will deliver his speech on the trusts. The official party will be entertained at evening dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Kern at the Country club.

case against him. State's Attorney Healy and his first assistant, James J. Barbour, have known of the suspicions against the prisonor for the last month and Detective Joseph Minder, one of the veteran detectives of the state's attorney's office, was detailed weeks ago to work on the case in conjunction with the private detectives.

U. S. Government Will Not Act.

There is a strong suspicion that the government will take no hand in the prosecution of Fitzgerald, and that the case will have to lie, as it does now, in the state's attorney's office. The warrant on which Fitzgerald was arrested was sworn out by Detective Young before Judge Chetlain, and simply accuses the former sub-treasury employe of stealing the $173,000 from William Boldenweck, sub-treasurer. There is no mention made of the government.

It is believed that Chief Yilkio and Capt. Porter look askance upon the evidence in the case. A number of telegrams passed between them yesterday and while Capt. Porter refused to be quoted and would say nothing beyond generalizing, it is believed that he does not think the evidence strong and that the arrest was premature.

In his cell at the county jail, Fitzgerald was cool and confident. When seen he refused to talk.

The evidence which is asserted has been collected against Fitzgerald is of a varied nature. The private operatives who have been working on the case and Assistant Attorney Barbour, contend that it is strong enough to make out a prima facie case against the accused.

Friends of Fitzgerald, on the other hand, have rallied to his defense and explain away sategorically and to their own satisfaction every point made against him, detailing every fact in the transactions held suspicious by his accusers.

FIGHT OVER THEIR CHILD

John J. Campbell is Arrested for Beating His Wife.

John J. Campbell was arrested Saturday afternoon for wife beating. It is charged that he assaulted her at the Aerial hotel, and brutally pounded her. He wanted to take her child from her, it is claimed, and she fought hard to retain possession of it.

The couple are divorced, and the court gave Mrs. Campbell custody of the children. Saturday she visited her sister, who lives at the Aerial hotel on Lake avenue, and at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when she went out on the streets with one of the little ones, she met Campbell, who is said to have snatched the child from her. In her struggles to retain possession, she was struck several times in the face and badly bruised. A loaded revolver was found on Campbell when he was arrested, at the police station.

A charge of drunkenness was made against him and he was given until 8 o'clock to leave the city.

MOB READY TO LYNCH HUSBAND

Attracted by Screams of Wife Whom He Was Beating.

Martin Borrisen of 1021 Garfield avenue, arrested for beating his wife, narrowly escaped serious injury at the hands of a mob which gathered about his house Saturday evening, attracted there by the agonized screams of the woman.

The cries of Mrs. Borrisen could be heard for blocks, and a crowd quickly gathered. Several men rushed into the house and dragged Borrisen away. He had already pounded Mrs. Borrisen until her face was swollen and black and blue. It is said that he might have killed her had not the men interferred. Many threats were made against him by the crowd.

The woman accompanied her husband to the city jail, but when she arrived there, her fear was turned to pity, and she pleaded with the officers to release Borrisen. Needless to say, her pleadings were in vain. Judge Cutting in municipal court this morning sentenced him to serve ten days in the county jail.

Special Commission Reports Progress at the Panama Canal.

President Greatly Pleased With the Progress Being Made.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 24.—President Roosevelt yesterday made public a report made to him on Aug. 6, by a special commission, consisting of James Bronson Reynolds, Samuel Donnelly and Henry Beach Needham, regarding conditions in Panama. The commission was appointed April 25 last. "To investigate conditions and accommodations in the Isthmus of Panama."

That the president is pleased with the report is shown in a letter which he sent to each member of the commission on Friday. He expresses particular pleasure over the fact that the commission upholds the administration of Col. George W. Goethals, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission and the president has had a copy of the report mailed to Col. Goethals, requesting that the recommendations made by the commission be put into effect immediately so far as possible. The president will submit the report to congress.

Commission's Report.

In prefacing its report, the commission says:

"Work on the construction of the isthmian canal has passed through two stages, those of planning and of preparation. It is now in the third and final stage, this being construction.

"The terrible scourge of yellow fever against which the French struggled in vain, the filthy and pest-breeding state of the principal Panaman towns, the rough labor camps and other pioneer hardships of the first two years, have been eliminated. Today we find yellow fever driven from the isthmus, malaria and pneumonia greatly reduced, and a high average of health established."

Of the progress of the work, the report says: "This year over two and a third million cubic yards were excavated in each of the winter months."

The commission dwells at length on the difficulty of holding skilled workmen on the isthmus, and in this respect says that the wage rates paid on the isthmus are but ten per cent higher than the rates paid on building construction in the city of New York. It recommends that no reductions be made.

In conclusion the commission states that it desires to emphasize three striking excellencies of the canl administration. These are, first—the recognition by the government that the housing, feeding and health of its employes bear a vital relation to their economic efficiency and as a consequence the government has been able to take up and successfully carry on a work that has been abandoned by another government; second—the improved relationship between the government and the employes; third—the liberal provision that is now made for relief in cases of temporary disability.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Robbery of $173,000 From Government is Traced to Fitzgerald.

Officers Confident That Former Assistant Teller is Culprit.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The mystery of the theft of $173,000 from the United States sub-treasury a year and a half ago, one of the largest losses the government has ever suffered in this manner, is believed to have been solved by the arrest of George W. Fitzgerald. Others are believed to have been implicated in the crime which for months baffled government secret service men.

Fitzgerald was an assorting teller under Assistant United States Treasurer William Boldenweck. Suspicion at the time of the theft, Feb. 20, 1907, rested on him, but so plausible was his story and so intense his apparent interest in discovering the real culprit, that interest ceased to center in him.

Meanwhile Fitzgerald was discharged from the government's employ for culpable negligence in allowing such a theft to be consummated under his very eyes. The money stolen had been used and was tied in packages, some of them having been marked for destruction at Washington. Any of them would readily have passed anywhere, except for their large denominations. None of the bills was under $500 and some were of the $1,000 and $5,000 denominations, the $1,000 ones predominating.

Theft Created Sensation.

The theft created a sensation throughout the country, and congress at the last session was asked, and refused, to release Assistant Treasurer Boldenweck from liability, although it was promised that congress would again consider the matter at its next session.

Meanwhile Herbert F. Young, a former Chicago newspaper reporter, now head of the Young secret service agency, became interested in the case, at first without official connection with the case, but later as the agent of Mr. Boldenweck. Mr. Young's attention was redirected to Fitzgerald.

The latter upon his discharge from the sub-treasury stated that his whole fortune consisted of $600 in cash and a stock certificate for $1,000. His wife had a $700 interest in the estate of her mother, which was valued at about $4,000, and was in litigation. Fitzgerald, however, according to Mr. Young, embarked in speculation on a scale not consistent with the size of his reputed means.

Became Egg Speculator.

There was, however, no ostentation in Fitzgerald's life. Fitzgerald bought eggs for speculation and stored them. In July, 1907, he inaugurated an egg deal which ultimately, it is said, involved an expenditure of $7,000, and the following March a similar deal involving him, according to Mr. Young, to the extent of $15,000. Incidentally, the former teller had become the possessor, in his wife's name, of a brick residence in Rogers Park, a suburb of Chicago, and valued at $8,500.

Last July the scent is said to have become hot when Col. Harry C. Gano, superintendent of A. Booth & Co., a business man of prominence and public spirit, reported to Mr. Boldenweck. It is said, that Fitzgerald had approached him with a proposition to pass several $1,000 bills.

"With your big business connections," Fitzgerald is alleged to have argued, "you can easily pass them. There is $500 in it for you."

After conferring with Mr. Boldenweck, Col. Gano continued negotiations with Fitzgerald with the result that by prearrangement several witnesses were secretly present when the former teller passed two $1,000 bills to Col. Gano.

Constantly Shadowed.

From the moment of Col. Gano's first interview with the assistant United States treasurer, it is said that Mr. Young or some of his men shadowed Fitzgerald. It had not been intended to arrest Fitzgerald at this time, as further evidence was not only wanted against him, but developments were expected which would conclusively involve others. However, it is said that those under suspicion had obtained an inkling that untoward developments were going forward, and it was deemed best to waste no time in securing the man charged with being the principal.

The case being one properly under federal jurisdiction, a United States judge was first sought, but none could be found. Assistant State Attorney Barbour was next approached and shortly after midnight this morning Judge Chatland of the superior court at his house issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Fitzgerald, charging him with the larceny of $173,000 from the government vaults. Mr. Young with Detective Joseph Kinder of the state attorney's office went immediately to Rogers Park.

Appears in Night Gown.

Fitzgerald appeared at the door in his night gown and a pair of trousers. Mrs. Fitzgerald standing at the top of the stairs with white face and strained eyes, while Detective Kinder read the warrant. Fitzgerald listened to the reading with composure, kissed his two young children goodbye and left his almost hysterical wife to enter an automobile with the officers.

"They've caught him at last, they've caught him at last," is the exclamation which Detectives Kinder and Young declare came from the lips of Mrs. Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald himself merely remarked that "I suppose you want me to go to jail so I guess I'd better go along."

The detectives, it is said, were unable to satisfy Mr. Boldenweck's curiosity as to how much of the $173,000 it would be possible to recover. Aside form the speculations already mentioned, it is said that Fitzgerald was interested in other deals, and Detective Young is authority for the statement that Fitzgerald had become financially involved even before the collossal theft with which he is charged.

History of Case.

The first intimation that any of the subtreasury officials had of a shortage was on a Wednesday afternoon when Fitzgerald, who had been a government employe for seven years, walked from his cage over to the cashier, F. C. Russell and told him that he was short $173,000.

"What is that?" Short $173,000! Why man what is the matter with you?"

"I am not fooling, Mr. Russell, I tell you that I am short $173,000."

An examination of Fitzgerald's books showed that the shortage was not a matter of bookkeeping, but of actual loss. Thomas I. Porter, chief of the United States secret service in Chicago, ascertained that three previous thefts had taken place, it is alleged, in Fitzgerald's cage prior to this time. These losses were respectively $500, $600, and $900. Fitzgerald when questioned, laid suspicion upon a party of workmen who had been employed about the subtreasury the day previous. The money, Fitzgerald, said, lay in stacks upon his desk in a dark corner of the cage and might easily have been reached, under the grating. He said that at least a dozen men had access to the cage. Fitzgerald handled about $1,000,000 each day. It was his custom each night to lock the money in his own private steel box.

YOUR HOME will be healthier when you keep bottled Schlitz. The barley is food—the hops are a tonic. And the drinking of liquids flushes the system of waste.

Every doctor knows that most people drink too little. On this account, their systems become clogged with waste.

There lies the main good of watering places. They induce the drinking of water.

That is one reason why the drinking of beer is good for you. It leads you to drink more liquid than you would drink without it. And that liquid is both a food and a tonic.

BUFFALO BILL VISITS DULUTH

Wild West Show Gives Two Performances in the City.

After an absence of several seasons, spent abroad, Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders came to Duluth Saturday, entertaining two large audiences with feats of horsemanship, military evolutions, races and pictures of the sports, pastimes and tragedies of life on America's western prairies in the early days.

Ever since the show was organized Col. W. F. Cody, known all over the world as Buffalo Bill, has headed the aggregation in person and taken an active part in the program, despite his years. Col. Cody is apparently no older than he was ten years ago, and sits as straight in the saddle and speaks as clearly during his introductory speech to the audience as he did when he deserted the plains for the tented arena.

The opening number on the program brings in the entire company, the riders scurrying in by sections from the mysterious dressing room department at the far end of the arena. When Indians, Mexicans, United States cavalry, English riders, Germans, Russians, Japanese and others have assembled in front of the reserved seat section, Col. Cody gallops forth on a beautiful white horse and makes his bow to the audience in front of his vast company.

This introduction is followed by Wild West acts in profusion. Among the novel numbers on the program is a football game between Indians and cowboys on horseback. The ball is a huge affair pushed by the horses.

Another number that attracted attention here was the performance of a high school horse called "Joe Dailey." This animal does everything from an ordinary trot to Oriental dances. Another high school horse is ridden by a young woman who does not take the trouble to have her animal bridled.

The attack on the stage coach and the repulse by Buffalo Bill and his cowboys, the train robbery, the Indian village, the "battle of Willow River" and all the other acts promised by the advance announcements were given.

PRESIDENT ON ALDRICH BILL

Says No Argument Advanced Against It Was Worth Heeding.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 24.—Because of the attacks made upon the Aldrich currency bill by Senator La Follette, together with his reading of the roll calls on that bill, Senator E. J. Burkett gave out two letters from President Roosevelt commending the Aldrich law unqualifiedly. Senator Burkett received the following letter from the president:

"My dear senator—I heartily approve of the currency measure, otherwise I would not have signed the bill. In my judgment it would have been most unwise not to have passed it, and not a single argument worth heeding was advanced against it. I enclose you a copy of a letter I had already written on the subject. Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Following is a copy of the letter referred to by the president:

"My dear Mr. Willis: I have your letter of the twentieth. My motives were simply those I have in signing any good bill. Beyond all question, the emergency currency bill was a good measure, and I have not heard it attacked with any arguments which I thought even deserved an answer. It is avowedly only an emergency measure. It lasts merely the length of time to permit us to develop a permanent plan; but during that time it makes provision for the needed elasticity of currency, and it does it in an utterly unobjectionable manner.

"It does not accomplish very much, but it does accomplish something, and there is literally not one objection that has been raised to it worthy of paying the slightest heed to, while, furthermore, it makes the admirable provision for a commission to make a report on the permanent currency plank. Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

AUTOS SPEEDING ON BOULEVARD

Many Complaints Have Been Received by the Police.

Numerous complaints were made to the police yesterday in regard to automobiles exceeding the speed limit on the boulevard and several streets and avenues of the city. There probably will be some arrests as a result.

During the period recently, when the police were arresting automobilists in wholesale lots, there was a disposition to obey the speed laws, but evidently the owners and drivers of the machines think the police have relaxed their vigilance. In any event, the drivers are very reckless, and are making the boulevard and certain city streets unsafe for a man with a horse, or for pedestrians crossing the street.

Complaints are particularly numerous relative to fast driving on the boulevard. One team, yesterday, almost dashed over the cliff and down the hillside, so frightened were they at the speed of a passing automobile.

UNKNOWN ONLY MAKES HIS MARK

And Walks Out of Bank With Other People's Money.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 24.—Officials of the Farmers' bank of this city are looking for a man who comes to the bank and represents himself as being a depositor, draws out other people's money and disappears, and no trace of him can be found.

When he is arrested they will be puzzled to find a charge to place against him, for on the several occasions he has visited the bank and secured the money he has made his mark, the clerk signing the name of the depositor.

This Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde visited the bank Saturday, and, stepping up to the window of the bookkeeper, asked him how much money he had to his credit.

"I don't know who you are," said the clerk, and the man replied, "I am Babe Terrell."

He was told the amount of money to the credit of Babe Terrell, and the man said: "I want $12."

When asked to make out his check the man said: "I can't write, but will make my mark."

The check was written out, the man got the money and walked out of the bank.

This is the third time this man has played this trick on the bank.

The largest amount he has ever drawn is $20.

Young Man Held Prisoner in a Tent in Washington.

Washington, Aug. 24.—John R. Early, a leper, is held prisoner in a tent in an isolated spot in the outskirts of this city.

Early arrived in Washington ten days ago and was discovered to be suffering from the disease, while living at a Salvation army lodging house, on Friday.

The health department officers have written to the authorities of North Carolina to obtain permission to remove the leper to Lynn, N. C., his home. The public health and marine hospital services are co-operating with the local authorities.

If the North Carolina authorities refuse to take care of Early, he will be probably sent to the leper colony in Louisiana. Early has a wife and child and a mother, two sisters and a brother living in Lynn, N. C., from where he came to Washington to attend to his pension. He served in the army for nearly nine years and is supposed to have contracted the fatal disease in the Phillippines.

Early is 35 years of age, and the health officers say he has had the disease or over a year. In that time he has been employed in various states and was actively engaged in Salvation army work in numerous cities.

REFUSED TO BE HELD UP

Henry Oja Attacked Two Highwaymen and Captured One.

The Second Man Escaped Into the Wisconsin Central Yards.

Henry Oja refused to be held up this morning. Instead of allowing two highwaymen to go through his pockets, he jumped on them and gave them an awful beating. He held one of them, who gave the name of Charles Hill, until Patrolman Connors appeared on the scene.

Oja was walking along Michigan street, near Ninth avenue west, at 2 o'clock this morning, when the men pounced on him. He threw them up in up his hands. He threw them up instead, catching both assailants sound raps on the jaw. It developed they didn't have a gun, and the pair was easy meat for Oja.

The fight was a merry one, and although Oja was the best man in the bunch, the two of them might have overpowered them if a policeman had not happened along. One made his escape along the right-of-way of the Wisconsin Central, but the other was held by Oja. At the police station he refused to divulge the name of his companion. He will be given a hearing today.

BROTHERS ARE REUNITED.

Meet Here for First Time in Twenty-Eight Years.

T. A. Maxted of 1818 Dingwall street and his brother, T. W. Maxted, of Racine, Wis., met for the first time in twenty-eight years, last week. Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Maxted of Racine are visiting at the Maxted home in Dingwall street. A celebration was held Saturday in honor of the event, which was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. T. W. Maxted. The house was prettily decorated with flowers and plants and an elaborate dinner was served. Later in the day the party enjoyed a boat ride.

T. W. Maxted is a prominent hardware merchant of Racine, and has been attending a Royal League convention at Ashland, having been elected to an important office in the order in the Badger state.

DEALINGS ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Believed to be Matched Orders to be Investigated.

New York, Aug. 24.—A meeting of the governing committee of the stock exchange will be held at 3:30 this afternoon to investigatet the character of the dealings on the floor of the exchange on Saturday when eleven securities furnished total transactions in excess of 1,000,000 shares, leaving only 72,000 shares for all the remainder of the list.

The dealings created no little excitement while they were in progress and while by some the extraordinary activity for a half holiday session was believed to be due to a possible struggle for supremacy between big market factions yet by many they were ascribed to pure manipulation. This element believe they saw many evidences of matched orders or transactions in which both the broker buying and selling acted for the same operator whose design is to create the semblance of activity without running the actual risk of buying or selling.

The investigation will be of the most thorough character and if matching of orders should be found to have been the explanation of Saturday's activity, measures will be taken to prevent the repetion of such tactics on the floor of the exchange.

May Be In Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—Ralph W. Eddy of Chicago, who disappeared on the eve of his wedding at Wooster, Ohio, is believed to be in Sacred Heart sanitarium, here. The sanitarium authorities, however, deny that he is there, but the relatives say they expect to secure a definite statement from the head of the sanitarium today. Sudden illness, they believe, was the cause of his going to the sanitarium.

WEST END

THE GANG IS BROKEN UP

Police Arrest One of Band of Youthful Thieves.

He Confesses and Gives Names of His Companions.

Names of eight boys belonging to a band of youthful robbers in the West end were secured by the police yesterday through the arrest of A. Matson, one of the gang. A red cap, stolen from the Buffalo Bill show, served the police for a clue in rounding up the boys. The cap, known to have been in the possession of young Matson, was discovered at the scene of one of the robberies, and the arrest followed.

The boys have broken into several places in the West end, stealing anything of value they could lay their hands on. Saturday night they gained entrance to the home of E. Anderson of 2905 West Third street, and also got into J. Rulander's candy store, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Second street, and Ed. Akerstrom's home, 2318 West Second street. At Anderson's nothing was taken, although the house was ransacked from top to bottom in the search for money, and the place was left in a state of disorder.

Rulander lost practically everything of value in the store. The fact that the gum and cooky supply was cleaned up led the police to believe that boys were implicated. Akerstrom's house, unoccupied except for some household articles stored there, was used as a rendezvous for the gang. The boys entered through the front window Saturday afternoon and spent the remainder of the day in feasting on things they had stolen. They broke several valuable vases, besides numerous jars of preserves and smashed a number of dishes.

In his hurry to leave, the Matson boy left the red circus cap. Oscar Akerstrom found it and found the name of the boy who had lost it was Matson, living on Piedmont avenue at the intersection of Fourth street. When the police took him into custody the youth confessed to everything, and gave the names of other boys implicated. Altogether, eight names were secured. Matson confessed that he also had been in a gang that robbed the West end branch of the Scandinavian bakery. It is expected the other boys will be arrested before night.

Will Dedicate New Church.

The dedication of the new Norwegian Danish church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, will take place Sunday, Sept. 13. Arrangements for the program of the day are now being made by Rev. H. K. Madsen, the pastor, and a committee from the congregation. Bishops of the Episcopal denomination from all parts of the state will be present to help the people of the West end celebrate.

Svea Club on Outing.

The Svea Glee club of twenty-five members enjoyed a trip up the St. Louis river yesterday. Launches took the party up to Fond du Lac, and after a splendid picnic dinner spread under the trees they separated to lie in wait for the wiley bass. They didn't have much luck, but they did have fun.

The party last year was held at Cloquet river.

Vicious Dog Bites Girl.

While wheeling a baby in a go-cart Sunday morning, Pearl Hunt of 221 South Twenty-ninth avenue west was attacked and bitten by a dog. The animay first attempted to bite the baby, and when the girl attempted to interfere he set upon her.

Later in the day the same dog was reported to have bitten a man. The matter was reported to the police, and an officer was sent in search of the animal, but he was unable to find it.

Edward Mentzer, who has been in Minneapolis visiting with friends has returned home.

Carl and Edward Anderson of 2418 West Second street have gone to Bayfield, Wis., to visit their sister, Mrs W. E. Close.

The funeral of Angelina, the 13-months-old daughter of Frank Jubinski of 814 West Second street was held at 8 o'clock yesterday morning from the St. Peter's Catholic church. Interment was the Polish cemetery.

Charles Lofgren of Ada, Minn., is visiting his brother, A. Lofgren of 2622 West Second street.

M. Erickson and daughter, Esther of 1926 West Fourth street visited relative in Two Harbors Sunday.

The Ladies' Thimble Bee society of the Second Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Peter Butchart, 2631 West Second street, Wednesday afternoon.

The funeral of Charles G. Frederickson, who died Sunday of paralysis, will be held tomorrow morning from Forward's undertaking rooms. Interment will be at Forest Hill.

The funeral of Mrs. Otto Cleveland, who died Friday morning was held this afternoon from the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. Rev. Madsen read the funeral service, and the interment was at Park Hill cemetery.

The funeral of Mary, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Benson of 211 Eighteenth avenue west, who died yesterday, will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Interment at Park Hill.

MORE VIOLENCE IN ALABAMA STRIKE ZONE.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 24.—Another act of violense occurred in the strike zone early today when a white non-union miner named Clayton was shot from ambush while on his way to work in the Sayreton mines. The attack was made between Saydeton and Mary Lee, and Clayton was left lying on the ground with three bullet wounds in his body. The attempted murder took place near a camp of guards and deputies. Deputies and bloodhounds are tracking the man's assailants.

Forty Cars Demolished.

CONFERENCE IS HELD AT BOSTON

Chairman Hitchcock Meets Republican Leaders of the East.

Boston, Aug. 24.—The third of the big district conferences, which are a feature of the management of the Republican campaign by Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock, is being held here today at the Hotel Touraine. At this meeting all of the national committeemen of the New England states are present. Greater importance is attached to the gathering than to those held in Colorado Springs and Chicago, because of the early election in Vermont and Maine, and the effect that strong campaigning in those states will have on other sections.

The conference at the Touraine began at an informal luncheon at 1:30 o'clock and it was expected that it would continue throughout the afternoon.

The conference chiefly is for the purpose of arranging details of the campaign, such as the assignment of speakers, the gathering of funds to carry on the work, the distribution of literature and other routine matters. The state leaders will make known their wants in relation to speakers and literature and the national committee will meet the Democrats as far as possible.

Many strong speakers have been assigned to Vermont and Maine already and others popular in those states will be sent there as rapidly as they become available. A strong effort will be made to hold the Republican vote recorded in 1904 in order to influence voters in other parts of the country. At the opening of the conference Mr. Hitchcock made a brief statement. He explained that it had been decided to send to national headquarters, reports on the effectiveness of speakers, and he said there should be no hesitancy on the part of the directors of this branch of the work to withdraw any speakers who failed to make a good impression.

Mr. Hitchcock will spend the forenoon tomorrow in Portland, Me., and later in the day will go to Rutland, or Burlington, Vt.

HUGHES AND JOHNSON.

Governor Hughes of New York, judging from the latest developments, is going to be the Republican candidate to succeed himself. The political bosses whose attempts to sway him he had discouraged were and probably are still very much opposed to his nomination, but it is quite evident that if he has displeased the bosses he has pleased the people, and it would have been political suicide for the Republicans of New York to defeat him. Not only would it have assured the election of a Democratic governor of New York, but this new evidence of the opposition of the Republican party to progressive measures such as those for which Hughes has stood would have had an evil effect upon the fortunes of Taft in his contest before the nation.

Yet it is not going to be easy sailing for Hughes, at that. He has earned powerful opposition in his own party, and if he is elected the people will have to accomplish it. The party bosses will damn him with faint praise or more or less openly oppose him, and the Democrats, banking upon this condition, will put up a strong candidate and support him with a united party.

There is an interesting parallel between the situation in New York and that in Minnesota. Governor Johnson has incurred the displeasure of the Republican bosses and partisan newspapers by consenting to run for governor again because his party entrusted its fate to his hands in such a manner that he could not possibly evade responsibility for its care. Those who have always opposed him bitterly, actuated by a spirit of petty, narrow envy and resentment of his success, are now quoting his repeated statements that he did not wish to run again as evidence of something quite reprehensible. Had he persisted in his refusal to run after his party had showed its reliance upon him, these very politicians and newspapers would have been jeering him daily because he held himself greater than his party, and because he let his selfish interests interfere with his loyalty and gratitude to his party. This is absolutely certain, for present strictures upon his motives are inspired wholly by an earnest desire to obliterate him from the political field if possible, once for all. It was useless for him to try to please these newspapers, so he didn't try.

Yet you will hear none of these partisans complaining because Governor Hughes changed his mind. He said, as emphatically as a man could say it, that at the conclusion of his present term he would retire; that he must devote himself to his private practice, and that he could not afford to become governor again. "Under no circumstances," he said, "shall I again become a candidate for governor of New York." Yet circumstances so shaped themselves that he had to submerge his private interests in the interests of his party and his state, just as Governor Johnson has had to do in Minnesota.

But this is different. Hughes is a Republican, and he governs New York, so he is approved. Johnson is a Democrat, and he governs Minnesota, so he is condemned. From the viewpoint of petty peanut partisanship, as exemplified by the Duluth News Tribune, Johnson had no right to change his mind no matter what the pressure of circumstances, and Hughes did the perfectly right thing in changing his mind.

Which shows to what lengths narrow partisanship will lead the purblind who have no sense of their own ridiculous inconsistencies.

WELCOME TO THE EDITORS.

The freedom of the city has already been extended to the members of the National Editorial association who are spending a day "in our midst," but The Herald wishes to add its own most cordial welcome, and its assurance that the people of Duluth are pleased with and honored by their visit.

The press is a powerful force for good or evil, and no part of it wields more real influence than the country press, which forms a large portion of the membership of the National Editorial association. It is a power for good when its influence is used for the benefit of the plain people, and it is a short-lived power for evil when its utterances become tainted by the selfish interests which prey upon the people. It is short-lived then because a people wise in their generation are quick to spot the "organ," and as quick to give it the go-by. To the credit of the country press be it said that its newspapers are less susceptible to such influences than city dailies; though in the light of the new public spirit the folly of conducting newspaper organs to represent selfish interests has become so clearly apparent that that style of journalism is going out of fashion, even in the cities.

It is good that the editors have come to Minnesota, and it is better still that they have come to Duluth, the city of destiny that is just entering upon a new era as a manufacturing and distributing center. They find it already well started upon this new period, a logical fruit of its strategical position with reference to the needs of a large empire of producers and consumers.

WHAT FARM PROSPERITY MEANS.

A circular issued by the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore puts into concise language the meaning of the agricultural prosperity of the nation, and its bearing upon the immediate future of the country's industries.

It shows that the corn crop for the year is estimated at over 2,707,000,000 bushels against 2,592,000,000 bushels last year, a gain of 115,000,000 bushels.

It shows that the wheat crop is estimated at 678,000,000 bushels, which is 44,000,000 bushels more than last year.

But this is only a part of the real promise of the situation. Corn is selling today at 20 cents a bushel more than at the same time last year, so that not only will the farmers of America sell 115,000,000 bushels more corn than last year, but on all they sell they will get 20 cents more per bushel. This is a gain of $585,000,000 on this one crop alone, or about $1,920,000,000 against $1,336,000,000 in 1907.

Wheat, too, is higher. The present gain over last year's prices is about 10 cents per bushel, so that not only will the farmers sell 44,000,000 bushels more than last year, but on the total crop they will gain about $100,000,000. These two crops will bring in $675,000,000 to $700,000,000 more than last year; and even if there is a large decline, which is not expected, there would still be room for a great gain over last year.

"In view of these facts and of the general increase throughout the country in nearly all leading crops," says the Manufacturers' Record, "we believe it safe to estimate that the total value of the farm products of 1908 will approximate $8,200,000,000 as compared with $7,400,000,000 in 1907." Think of what this means! New wealth, drawn out of the soil, amounting to $8,200,000,000, or nearly a billion more than was created in 1907! That much money going into the pockets of the farmers, who are laying most of it out in wages, in farming implements, in railroad freights and in other avenues that bring it out through the country to give new life to trade in all lines!

The advice of the Manufacturers' Record, addressed to manufacturers, is to get ready for the biggest burst of industrial activity the country has ever seen; to "scrap heap" everything out of date; to put in labor-saving devices to prepare for a greater scarcity of labor than the country has ever seen before; to build such new houses or factories as are needed right now, when materials and labor are still cheap.

This advice is timely, and it holds good for anybody, including the individual who plans to build a home. The groundwork for activity must be prepared now; for when that activity comes, those who are prepared will have an obvious advantage over those who are unprepared.

And the time to prepare is NOW!

THE MARKET BUZZ SAW.

It is altogether probable that some tender inquiring fingers were nipped by the stock market buzz saw in Wall street Saturday, when some of the most brazen manipulation the market has seen in many months was perpetrated. The which is evidence again that the stock market, these days, is a poor place for the small speculator to wander into; if it ever is a good place for him, which we doubt much.

In the course of Saturday's short session the routine was disturbed by some very high playing by the big "insiders." Blocks of 2,000 to 9,000 shares were thrown upon the market or snapped up out of the market, and fluctuations were rapid and frequent enough to shake out the little fellows playing on short margins. One market report says that "a very large proportion of this business was of such a hollow and superficial character as to deceive none but the merest tyro." In the two hours of trading more shares changed hands—on the books, at least—than on any full day during the week. One theory was that a group of speculators were trying to squeeze another group of speculators and get a railroad away from them; another was that it was a prerranged plan to let some "bears" cover their short sales; a third was that it was a part of Tom Lawson's spectacular gambling operations. Any one of these theories, if true, proves again the iniquity of the stock exchange system and methods.

The whole proceeding shows the folly of the small outsider trying to get into a game too big for him. As one local student of humanity and the stock market said: "The man who thinks he can put $30 or $40 against a million and beat the million is due for a lesson." And he generally gets it.

THE TUBERCULOSIS CONGRESS.

The world is uniting to give battle to tuberculosis, the dread disease which is sapping the world's youth and strength and vitality and lessening humanity's working energy by its devastating spread, and the earnestness with which the fight is being taken up, and the manner in which the people are coming to appreciate how effective this fight can be made by general co-operation, give assurance of ultimate victory.

The most important gathering ever held upon this subject will take place in Washington Sept. 21 to Oct. 12, when the International Congress on Tuberculosis will meet and discuss the plan of campaign. The leading authorities on the subject of tuberculosis will gather from all parts of the United States and from all parts of the world, and from their deliberations and discussions much of great value will be gleaned for general distribution. At present the greatest need is the spread of knowledge about consumption. The people everywhere must be made aware of the nature of the disease, and must be taught how to prevent it, how to cure it and how finally to root it out altogether. The Washington conference will be of immense value in this work of educating the people, and it deserves the fullest co-operation of the public.

The federal government is interested, and will participate in the congress. There are separate committees in every state of the Union working to assure the success of the meeting, and in forty-four of the forty-six states the governors have expressed interest, many of them asking all municipalities and local governments and the voluntary agencies to combine for the purpose of securing to the state the utmost possible benefit from the congress. All the leading nations of the world are interested, and the following countries will send delegates: Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain (including her more important dominions), Greece, Hawaii, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Norway, Peru, Porto Rico, Roumania, Russia, San Salvador, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer of the Minnesota state board of health, is asking the citizens of Minnesota to apply for membership in the congress, because it is essential that a good showing be made for Minnesota. It is hoped that this state may have at least 400 members of the congress. If they can attend, so much the better; but if they cannot, their $5 membership fee will entitle them to receive the four large volumes that will contain the official proceedings of the congress, in the pages of which information of immense value to the world will be given. If you wish to join, send your name and fee to Dr. H. M. Bracken, State Capitol, St. Paul, Minn.

The National Editorial association Sundayed and Mondayed in our midst.

Buffalo Bill has come and gone, leaving an army of youthful Indians and cowboys in his trail.

Only three weeks more before the primary election will settle the fate of the anxious candidates.

Governor Johnson, renominated against his will because the people wanted him, will be re-elected for the same reason.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

"Virginia is playing her part in molding the destiny of the presidential race," said Stewart T. Given, at the St. Louis last evening. "She is invigorating the Republican candidate for president by feeding him upon such fried chicken and corn pone as Virginia knows how to produce. The papers have hinted that living on succulent fried chicken and corn pone is a very poor method of reducing the flesh. It won't make a person thin, that's true—but it will make a person so optimistic, so cheerful and so full of love for all humanity that that person can't help but be benefited.

"That's why I say Virginia is playing her part. I don't think that Mr. Bryan, living out there in Nebraska, where the winds sweep the prairies with alternate hot and cold winds, and where the food is more or less like the climate, can, no matter how sweet a tempered man he may be, go forth with the sweet message to the people that Mr. Taft will want to deliver after living on Virginia fried chicken and corn pone.

"I believe that the plan to send the ex-secretary of war to Hot Springs, W. Va., was a shrewd plan on the part of some of the cabinet members, who knew the exhilarating effect upon the system that is produced by Virginia's famous dish. It will make an angel out of a man that nags at his wife. Men have been known to become reconciled to their mothers-in-law, after partaking of Virginia fried chicken and corn pone for a week or two. It does wonders for the disposition, and it brings the latent optimism to the surface and honeys the lips with the milk of human kindness."

"Many men conversant with the affairs of the National league believe that there will be a big shake up in the older of the two leagues after the present pennant season," said a baseball man who was recently in Duluth on a quiet little scouting expedition.

"It is very generally believed that Garry Herman, owner of the Cincinnati club, is also the principal owner of the Chicago club. It is also known that one of the star players of the latter club is very anxious to go into business in Cincinnati. To do this it would be necessary to sever his connection with the Chicago club and join the Cincinnati club. It is believed that this deal will be brought off before next season.

"The signing of the star player would involve the trade of a number of other players to Chicago. Then, too, it is expected that Chicago will make some radical changes in its line-up next season. The fire is kind of going out of the world's champions and the backers of the Chicago club are the kind of men that will only be satisfied with the very best kind of a ball team that can be purchased. They are willing to spend any amount of money to produce another world's champion team. This is not saying that there is not a possibility for the Cubs to win the world's championship again this year. However, the chance looks rather remote.

"It is rumored that at the winter session of the National league magnates, some very large trades will be made. Magnates have discovered that players are very often good for ball players. Some of the weaker teams will make desperate efforts to strengthen themselves, and as there will be some shifting among the first division teams also, it looks to me as if there will be a few very radical changes in the personnel of the national teams next season."

"Last season the tourists never asked the price of a room until after they had engaged it, and then they never complained of the price," said a clerk at the Spalding. "This year they look the room critically over, are very careful to ask the price, and invariably say that they cannot afford it. We have noticed a great difference between the tourists of last summer and the present season."

If the statement of a traveling representative of a Southern firm, who is stopping at the Lenox hotel, is true, Kentucky is one of the states that is not exactly in love with the onward sweep of prohibition. It is said at a meeting some one made a sweeping statement regarding the impurities of Kentucky whisky. This was more than one of the numerous Kentucky colonels who were present could stand. He arose and with a fiery wrath of "Suhs," and "that's a -lie, suh," smote the "defamer of mah state's honah," right squarely in the portion of his countenance from whence the torrent of abuse regarding the health-destroying properties of whisky had been issuing.

Bryan in The Middle West.

Chicago Evening Journal (Ind.): Mr. Bryan is said to have hope of carrying four hitherto Republican states next fall—Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Ohio.

If he does so, he will have to cause an extraodinary change in public sentiment, for Mr. Roosevelt carried all four of them in 1904 by enormous pluralities.

The total vote of Illinois four years ago was 1,076,499, and Roosevelt's plurality was 116,822. Wisconsin gave him a plurality of 155,834 in a total vote of 442,549, Indiana a plurality of 93,944 in a total vote of 682,185, and Ohio a plurality of 255,421 in a total vote of 1,026,229.

A sample of the Bryan reasoning comes from Lincoln, but it is not persuasive. Mr. Bryan says there are 30,000 negro voters in Ohio, and they will all vote against Mr. Taft on account of the Brownsville incident. But, supposing that they do—which is an absurd supposition—what difference will that make if the white citizens who voted for Roosevelt, vote for Taft? Mr. Taft's plurality would still be 195,421.

Mr. Bryan will do well not to put too much faith in reports that the negro vote will be for him. If he carries any of the states named, it will be for quite another reason, that voters are determined that the tariff shall be revised and trusts prevented from robbing Western people.

THE WEATHER.

The charm of these days and nights is beyond description. The days are warm, with a mellow, harvest warmth; the nights are cool, with a soft, refreshing and sleep-compelling coolness. The skies are clear, the declining sun is softer and kindlier. That is the way it was yesterday and today, and though the wind is likely to be from the northeast, the weather man says there is no reason, except a few clouds, why the fine weather should not continue tonight and tomorrow. The highest temperature yesterday was 68 degs., and last night's lowest was 59 degs.

A year ago today splendid weather prevailed.

The sun rose this morning at 6:17 and sets tonight at 7:04, making 13 hours and 47 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Low pressure areas central over Alabama, Arizona and British Columbia caused showers during Sunday or last night in extreme Western Canada, Rocky Mountain districts, Middle and Southern states, heavy rainfall occurring at Norfolk, Asheville, Atlanta and Shreveport. Cool weather prevails over the greater part of the Northwest; elsewhere the temperature is generally moderate. The barometer is high over Lake Superior and off the Oregon coast. A continuance of pleasant weather is indicated for St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight and Tuesday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Forecasts until 7 p. m., Tuesday: Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday and in west portion tonight.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday with slowly rising temperature.

North Dakota—Probably local showers tonight or Tuesday with slowly rising temperature.

Upper Lakes—Light to fresh northerly winds tonight; becoming variable Tuesday; generally fair weather.

SUPPOSED TO BE FUNNY.

Louisville-Journal: "I started to tell my wife about a woman who made her own fall gown".

"Well?"

"She capped my story with one about a man who made a million dollars."

Washington Star: "Dar is always helpfulness in hard work," said Uncle Eben. "If you can't look on de bright side o' life, you kin put in yoh time polishin' up de side dat's turned towards you."

Baltimore American: "I want a kiss, darling," he murmured.

"What cheek!" she declared.

"Either will do," he answered.

Puck: "The automobile is rapidly dividing the public into two classes."

"Yes; the quick or the dead."

Washington Herald: "I spent some of my salary today. I think even a married man has the right to do so."

"There's a great deal to be said on that subject."

"Well, I guess my wife will be equal to saying it all."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The reason a woman is afraid of thunder is she knows it wont hurt her.

The more character a woman has the more it seems to her husband like temper.

A man can always get excited over politics unless he understands what it is about.

Its very unnatural for a man to have a good opinion of himself unless he has a mustache which he thinks is handsome.

Even when a man takes a day off to attend a funeral in the morning his wife wants to spoil it all by taking him calling with her in the afternoon.

City Comforts.

Oh, go back to the swimming hole;
Enjoy it, if you can,
But when it's hot, give me a spot
Near an electric fan.
The dear old meadow field at home
Is very nice, I guess,
But I a breeze can get with ease
When I a button press.
I'll let you have the bubbling spring
Deep in the sylvan glade.
I have no spring, but I can ring
And get a lemonade.
—Kansas City Journal.

Dining in Paris.

W. D. N., in Chicago Post: We gaze about the room and see that every one who is eating is beset by the same swarm. We wish we were well out of this, but the die is cast. Through the funeral stillness of the room we can hear the steady scratch of the cashier's pen as he puts more on our bill.

Desperately we order. Let it be said to the glory of our native land and the honor of the old flag that we make no mistake. We do not even ask for our demitasse of coffee (chicory) until after we have partaken of the angry cheese and the hard oak crackers.

But look! The cashier has given a waiter our check. He is transmitting it to a companion, who puts it on a tray and hands it to another, who is relaying it by easy stages to the man with the side-whiskers. On every face there is an air of expectancy. M'sieur has dined; he will not forget the duty of a gentleman toward those who are willing to lay down their lives in the service of his table.

Out yonder gleams the dome of Napoleon's tomb; on the street gay throngs are laughing and chattering; we can even hear the crack of the whip of the cocher as he urges his unwilling steed to help him get one more fare ere the steed goes to the abattoir.

But here—Ah, well! The check has come. Let us draw a veil over the painful scene, and study the time card for home.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••John Loman, a Yale graduate and said to be a successful teacher, will open the Duluth Yale school in a few weeks.

•••Paulison & Eberts of the North Shore Mining company have just succeeded in getting their machinery to the mines and are now ready to begin business. They hope to make as fine discoveries as Capt. Sapiding has made east of them.

•••The foot race last night at Athletic park between Crawford, the Winnipeg champion, and H. Brown of this city, resulted in the defeat of Brown, though Crawford was handicapped by a three-yards' start given the other. Crawford's time was slightly over 10 seconds.

•••Watterworth & Fee of this city have been awarded the contract for the new Catlin & Butler hotel at Old Superior, and will begin work at once. The total cost of the hotel, completed, will be about $32,000. It will be of wood, brick veneer, three stories high with a handsome tower.

•••A. F. Leopold and S. Loch left for Chicago last night, on their way to bury Mr. Leopold's 8-year-old boy, who was drowned a short time ago.

•••James H. Lynch and wife of Detroit, Mich., are in the city for a few days' visiting. Mr. Lynch, be it known, is the Western dude. He is a veritable Berry Wall in dress and competed with his dudeship at Saratoga. Nevertheless he is a jolly, genial gentleman.

•••H. S. Lord, editor of the Boston Advertiser, arrived in the city yesterday and is being shown objects of interest by his friends. Mr. Lord is a firm believer in Duluth and has given the city many kinds words in the Advertiser.

•••The Schroeder Lumber company, a concern composed of Milwaukeeans owning large tracts of pine lands near Pork bay, is about to build a sawmill there. The company owns 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 feet of white pine stumpage in that vicinity. Pork bay is about seventy miles northeast of Duluth and about twenty miles beyond Beaver Bay.

•••Fully 400 people attended the farewell reception to Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Poole at the residence of H. M. Peyton.

•••Prof. G. G. Williams, who has been principal of the public schools of Superior for the past year and a half, has accepted the principalship of the Hayward schools and will move his family there next week.

•••Rev. F. M. Green lectured at the Christian church last evening on "Some Memories of Garfield." Having a personal acquaintance with the late president, Mr. Green's lecture was very interesting.

MILLER AND BEDE.

Biwabik Times: Clarence B. Miller of Duluth, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress, is making splendid headway on the ranges. Sentiment seems to be crystalizing in his favor, and were it not for the fact that he comes from Duluth he would receive a splendid majority. But Duluth's hoggish disposition in politics should not injure Mr. Miller, who has had no connection with the ruling gang at Duluth. He is a young man who has served his party faithfully and well, and whose training particularly fits him for a congressional position.

Proctor Journal: J. Adam Bede and the News Tribune are trying to knife each other and it looks as though J. Adam had succeeded to some extent as that worthy city daily has failed to return the last fab.

Little Falls Transcript: Speaker Cannon is an issue in the Eighth district. Congressman Bede is standing by the speaker and many Republicans demand that the congressman be returned from that district he pledged to oppose Cannon's re-election. The member from the Superior, Wis., district has the same fight on his hands. Jenkins, the Wisconsin member, is chairman of the judiciary committee, and part of the Cannon machine. Lenroot, who has been prominent in state politics, is making a winning fight against Jenkins. Miller, who is opposing Bede in the Duluth district, has good prospects of success. As a rule the Republican congressmen who have opposition for nomination this year are those who were strong supporters of Cannon. Lindbergh's opposition to the Cannon system is one of the good reasons why he has no opposition for nomination.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Congressman Bede has secured more legislation for the good of his district than any other congressman who ever represented the district. All that is wrong with Mr. Bede is that he cannot be controlled by a certain gang in Duluth and that he insists upon doing things for the district outside of the Zenith City. That is the only reason why the gang is working so hard to get a member of congress that will wear a Duuluth collar all the time.

Tower News: The Ely Miner, in its last issue, says: Representative C. B. Miller of this district, is in the city looking over his chances for the congressional nomination against J. Adam Bede. Mr. Miller is one of the brightest men in the Northwest and the district will not suffer by his being elected." This taken from a paper which is a strong Bede supporter appears to us to be considerable of a boost for Mr. Miller.

Isanti News: Cards bearing the inscription: "J. Adam Bede, lecturer and humorist; also congressman for Eighth Minnesota district," will not be used after the 4th of next March.

Hibbing Tribune: A vote for J. Adam Bede is a vote to continue Joe Cannon as speaker of the house of representatives and the election of Cannon as speaker means the absolute failure of every reform which the people are demanding.

The Last Guest.

New York World: Col. Wardwell died on Saturday in Arizona, his last thought for his wife, a leper. She lies strapped to a bed in an adjoining room. For her, too, the end of the tollsome road is near.

No disease is so dreadful as leprosy. Sickness etherealizes and death conters its seal of sublime majesty. Alone the scarred and maimed leper remains an object of horror. The love which conquers death in such a form outweighs any of the "grand passions" of which poets sing. Given but a modicum of courage, and death for beauty's sake is easy. Death for beauty destroyed beyond all hope of remembrance calls for love almost superhuman. And such love Col. Wardwell had displayed. Prudence dictated and the law sought to compel the abandonment of her whom he had promised to protect "in sickness and in health." But the war-worn veteran found a higher law. Taking her with him he fled the state which would have compelled their separation. The gallant soldier, now surrendered to the mighty enemy, conquered, yet the victor.

Sociologists are bewailing the weakening of domestic ties, the courts are choked with suits for divorce and press and pulpit deplore the levity with which marriage is now regarded. The story of Col. Wardwell shows that even in these prosaic days love endures. One of Gibson's drawings portrays an old couple seated at the dining-table. Empty chairs give evidence of the departed guests. Her head rests upon his shoulder, while love invisible to both drains a toast to the days that were. For Col. Wardwell and his wife love, too, has remained the "last guest."

Betsy Ross.

Oh, say can you see by the dawn's early light
Whom so proudly we hailed by the twilight last gleaming,
An impudent vandal would crush her from sight
And say her pretensions were folly and dreaming.

He hints that she knew not a five-pointed star,
And tells us she never designed our Old Glory,
The confab with Washington, too, he would bar
As a short and an ugly, a fib and a story.

Our Betsy, he says, was a seamstress, no more,
Incapable quite of a patriot's feeling,
A mender of shirts for the soldiers galore,
And never a trait of a genius revealing.

Yet Betsy, we wager, will live through the years,
And not an attack on her luster will fade it;
Old Glory will wave for the steel of its years,
The swords that upheld and the needle that made it.
—McLANDBURGH WILSON in New York Sun.

THE CANNON ISSUE.

Kansas City Times (Rep.): It is a foregone conclusion that the Republican majority in the upper house of congress will be considerably reduced at the next election. The Cannon issue has made this result inevitable. It is improbable that this majority will be superseded by a Democratic majority, for the Republicans now have 220 members and the Democrats only 166. But it is proper, and it is sound politics, for the Democratic national and congressional committees to make a stronger union than has hitherto been made between these bodies with reference to congressional elections.

The greatest efficiency and trustworthiness of popular government, under the party system can be attained only when a controlling number of voters become broad enough to separate presidential candidates and congressional candidates, when such separation is necessary to secure for each department of the government the best results. At the present time, for example, there is no difference between the general policies of the two great parties that would justify sending to congress a member of one party, who could not be trusted by the people, when there is an opportunity to send a member of another party, who would not betray his trust. A good president would rather look for help to a truly representative senator or congressman of the opposite party than to a member of his own party, who owes his election to special interests, or has shown a disposition to serve such interests rather than the people.

The Democrats have good opportunities this year. If they have candidates who inspire public confidence; if they will urge the Cannon issue in all districts where the incumbents have manifested subserviency to the obstructive coterie in the house; if they will force these incumbents and new candidates for the Republican side to declare themselves one way or another on the Cannon issue, an especially effective line of campaign will be followed. The result of this policy will be advantageous all along the line. It will unseat some of the faithless members of the house and it will force pledges from others that will insure more opposition to Cannon rules and regulations, even if the house should be Republican and Cannon should be re-elected.

The thing to do is to elect the right kind of men to congress, regardless of party, and then insist that in all matters essential to the welfare of the nation, that welfare be placed above party considerations in house procedure. The help given President Roosevelt by Democratic members of the present house showed a hopeful breaking away from old party lines, and that assistance will be a strong factor in the congressional elections.

General Humidity.

New York Press: What is this awful thing we call General Humidity, a carpet knight, a tin soldier? Men feel as rags. Women refuse to wear corsets and much lingerie. Children are cross and unwilling. Cats stretch flat out on the floor and refuse to move. Dogs gasp and pant in the shade, refusing even to follow a butcher wagon. The piano won't play. The doors won't close. The potatoes won't boil mealy. The bread gets wet. The crisp pretzels are as dough. The shades refuse to roll up. The newspapers are damp. Horses droop. Fish and meat spoil in a few hours. The postman is late. The policeman never shows up. The windows stick. The typewriter ribbon blurs. The saws rust. All the carpenter tools rust. Nothing wants to do as nature intended it. Wherefore and why is General Humidity?

THEY HAVE NO CLOTHING

About 200 Poor Children Cannot Attend City Schools.

Bethel Asks Charitably Inclined for Cast-Off Clothing.

Two hundred or more poor children of the city will be unable to attend school this fall and winter unless people in better circumstances help them with cast-off clothing and shoes, through the medium of the Duluth Bethel society.

Jean Fraser, Bethel missionary, has been investigating the situation, and finds that a larger number of families than usual are in destitute circumstances locally. This is due to the fact of unsatisfactory conditions in the labor market and a general falling off in the amount of work.

Loving mothers, anxious to see their children receive an education, will be unable to send them to school unless they receive outside assistance. They are wondering how they are going to get the shoes and clothes necessary. In most of these cases the family is dependent upon the woman for support.

"I appeal to those who have the comforts of life to help those who are less favored," said Jean Fraser today. "School will soon begin, and there are many mothers who are working hard to make ends meet, but who cannot earn enough money to properly clothe their children, and at the same time provide them with sufficient food.

"There is plenty of good cast-off clothing in the homes of the rich and well-to-do in our city to clothe every one of these poor children. I have visited all these poor families and know them and their wants. If this cast-off clothing can be sent to the Bethel, I shall sort it over and see that it goes to homes where it is the most needed. The charity looks like a small one, but it will be productive of big results, and would mean much happiness to the poor of the city."

AMERICAN GIRL KILLS HERSELF IN PARIS.

Paris, Aug. 24.—Miss Winifred Parsons, the daughter of the late Charles Parsons, president of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg railroad, New York, was found dead with a bullet wound in her head yesterday in her apartment. It was learned that the girl had been suffering from melancholia since the death of her fiance, a young Frenchman, who died four months ago. Miss Parsons was found dead in bed at noon by a maid who entered the room with her breakfast. The girl's right hand clutched a revolver, a bullet from which had penetrated the brain.

New York, Aug. 24.—Miss Winifred Parsons, whose death from a bullet wound is reported from Paris in cable dispatches to the Associated Press, was the youngest daughter of the late Charles Parsons and had lived with her mother and others of the family at No. 99 Park avenue, this city.

STOPPED FIGHT.

Newsboys Were Ungrateful and Roy Strepp is Arrested.

Because he interfered with a street fight between newsboys on West Superior street, and slapped one of the boys later when both of them began to abuse him, Ray Strepp was taken to the police station Saturday evening. Strepp, who is 18 years old, saw Harry Ruben and Sam Levin engaged in fistic combat. One of the two was using unfair tactics, and Strepp separated them, telling them to fight on the square or not at all. He found himself in hot water right away, and the arrival of the police settled the row. All three were taken to the police station and later released. Strepp will be given a hearing this afternoon.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Mike Katzmarih Nearly Loses Head at Ore Docks.

Only thet cries of brother workmen saved Mike Katzmarich from instant death by decapitation at the Missabe ore docks Saturday. He was struck by one of the chutes, but he only received a glancing blow, for, warned by the shouts of fellow workmen, he was dodging out of the way when he received the blow.

He was rendered unconscious and quite badly bruised, and was taken to St. Mary's hospital. There was a cut several inches long across his forehead, and it was thought for a time that his skull was fractured. This was not the case, however. He was also injured about the chest and shoulders.

SCARED BY BRYCE'S BOOK.

Boy Leaves Home When Ordered to Prepare a Synopsis.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 24.—Is Bryce's "American Commonwealth" so uninteresting to read as to cause a boy to leave home?

This is the question that Mrs. Catherine Hunsche has been pondering since her oldest son, Charles, left home after having been ordered by Judge Going to read and prepare a synopsis of Ambassador Bryce's book.

"When Charlie was arraigned for disorderly conduct and ordered by the court to read this book, I thought he would do it willingly," said Mrs. Hunsche.

CONCERT FOR MUSICIAN.

Testimonial at Lyceum for Oliver Colbentson is Much Enjoyed.

The Oliver Colbentson testimonial concert presented at the Lyceum theater yesterday afternoon deserves to be classed with the principal musical events which have delighted the music lovers of Duluth for several seasons past.

Mr. Colbentson was at his best, and his rendition of the Spanische Tunz No. 8, by Sarasate, exhibited a splendid understanding of the genius of that celebrated virtuoso. His critical audience was even more delighted with the brilliant technique and tone displayed in his work with the "Souvenirs de Moscow" of that eccentric wizard of the violin, Wienlowski. In response to insistent encores, Mr. Colbentson played a mazurka by Musin and a Souvenir by Ordla, both of which was exquisitely rendered. Possessed with a resourceful technique and an artistic conception of composition and harmony, this young student will be heard from in the world of music, if the predictions of his friends come true.

His musical friends in Duluth rallied in strength to his support in this farewell concert. Clarence Evans gave a Capriccio, which was rendered in fine style and showed that his work under one of the best masters of Chicago had not been fruitless. Thomas Colbentson played an arrangement of the ever old and ever new music of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," which won loud plaudits. This young man gives promise of great things with the violin, and he will take up his brother's work in the school of violin teaching after his departure.

Miss Alice Sjoselius charmed her hearers with two selections and an encore.

The Tyler operatic quartet, composed of Misses Reynolds and Fleming and Messrs. Koneczny and Suffel, rendered a composition of Verdi in a manner that reflected great credit on themselves and their teacher. The quintet in E flat by Schumann was given by the members of the Quintet, composed of Mrs. F. G. Bradbury, piano; Mrs. Marie Gelat Erd, 'cello; F. G. Bradbury, first violin; Oliver Colbentson, second violin, and Clarence Evans, viola.

Mrs. Clarence Miller, as accompanist to the soloists, showed a sympathy of touch in full accord with the various interpretations which must have been as satisfying to the performers as it was delightful to the audience.

The lovers of violin music here will miss the artistic work of Oliver Colbentson, but they will all wish him success in the furtherance of his ambitions.

THE MURPHY-McCARREN FEUD BREAKS OUT AGAIN.

New York, Aug. 24.—The political feud between Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, and State Senator Patrick H. McCarren, for many years head of Kings county Democratic organization, was taken up anew last night by the Tammany leader in a formal statement issued from Democratic headquarters.

Mr. Murphy in his statement denies an assertion attributed to McCarren to the effect that the cause of the Murphy-McCarren disagreement was because of Tammany Hall's attempt to establish a "Red light" district in Brooklyn. The true reason for the disagreement, Mr. Murphy asserts, is Senator McCarren's anger over the frustration by Tammany of an alleged attempt to establish legalized vice in Brooklyn.

Mr. Murphy denies that Tammany Hall wants to control the Brooklyn Democracy and says:

"We want nothing of the Democracy of Kings county, except that they should send to the general councils of the party men with whom decent men from other parts of the state may associate without shame."

COFFEE THE CAUSE

Of Various Ailments.

It does not require a scientist to discover if coffee is harmful.

Plain common sense and the simple habit of looking for the cause of things, soon reveals coffee in its true light—that of a habit-forming drug.

"My family on both sides were confirmed coffee topers," writes a Penna. painter, "and we suffered from nervousness, headache, sleeplessnss, dizziness and palpitation of the heart.

"Medical treatment never seemed to do any permanent good. I thought there must be some cause for these troubles and yet did not find it was coffee until I was 41.

"Hearing of the benefit that many had derived from changing to Postum, I quit coffee and used Postum entirely. Now I am like a new man.

"I sleep well, can eat three good meals a day, have no headache nor palpitation, no nerve twitching in my face, and I don't have to pay out hard-earned money for medicines.

"I believe a good hot cup of Postum made strong, with half milk and taken before retiring at night, is the best thing to keep a painter from having lead poisoning. That's my experience anyway."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

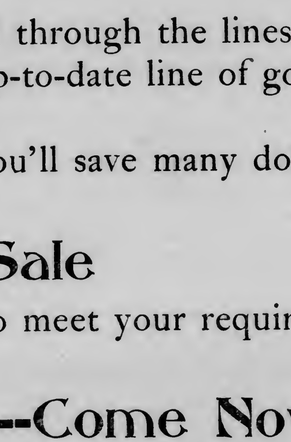
WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone players in "The Middleman."

BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

The extremely diverting musical comedy, "Coming thro' The Rye" will be the offering at the Lyceum on next Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

It was manifestly enjoyed, upon its last presentation here. Its comedy is of the wholesome, clever sort and there is plenty of it, and its musical score presents a succession of dainty, "catchy" melodies, which find ready favor and which quickly become widely popular. The organization numbers close up to the hundred mark, a circumstance which admits of impressive and spirited ensemble work. The cast of principals is made up of comedians, singers, and dancers, who not only assume the characters assigned to the with splendid effect, but who contribute "specialty" features which are thoroughly entertaining. While there is a semblance of coherency in the story of "Coming Thro' The Rye," the performance is mainly vaudeville of the higher order, with a connected comedy and musical setting, presented with elaborate stage accessories, including a large and harmonious arrangement of costuming.



FOUR PRETTY DANCERS, In "Coming Thro' the Rye."

Tom Waters heads the cast, a fact, which assures an exceedingly delightful performance of the part of "Nott, the Tailor." There are several other well and favorably known performers in the company. This season's production of "Coming Thro' The Rye" is characterized by an equipment of entirely new scenery and costumes. The sale of seats begins today.

"The Middleman."

Henry Arthur Jones' famous drama "The Middleman" will be the offering of the Mack-Leone players for their last week in Duluth, beginning with this evening's performance.

FINNISH WOMAN THREATENED

Miss Maggie Walz of Copper Country Gets Black Hand Letter.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Maggie Walz, newspaper woman, property owner, founder of the Drummond island colony and the most widely known Finnish resident of Upper Michigan, has received a letter very similar to those of the much dreaded Italian Mafia, or Black Hand.

Only $400 are demanded, to be left in a haystack, where a gluss jar awaits the deposit. The location is back of the Mineral Range depot on a farm. Unless she complies with the request her liberty and probably her life will be denied her, runs the letter. The writer asks the money to be left in bills.

It is believed that already some definite results have been attained in the search for the sender.

DEMENTED MAN IS FOUND.

Charles Posis, Who Went Crazy While Walking, is Caught.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Posio has been found by Deputy Sheriff Needlyn near Mohawk. Posio suddenly became demented while walking along the road with a friend. He picked up a club and chased his companion for miles, and then disappeared in the woods.

When found he had lost his hat, shoes and stockings. His hair was matted and he presented a pitiable sight. His brother, John, is greatly concerned over his condition. He will have an examination and will probably be committed to Newberry.

Shorthand Reporters Elect.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—With the election of officers, choosing Oscar L. Detweiler, Philadelphia, as president, the convention of the National Shorthand Reporters' association closed here. Henry D. Goodwin, Milwaukee, chairman of the entertainment committee, was elected second vice-president. Other officers elected:

Vice-president, Charles E. Weller, St. Louis; J. F. Wood, Memphis, Tenn.; W. E. McDermut, Chicago; secretary and treasurer, K. C. Hill, Trenton, N. J.; committee on legislation, S. C. Ormsby, New York; C. F. Roberts, New Haven, Conn.; E. V. Murphy, Washington, D. C.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"I wish," said the school teacher with the dimple in the left corner of her chin, "that sudden death would smite everyone—"

"If you are going to indulge in any Judaic or Hibernian cursing," said her unwilling listener, "I'm going to oover my ears."

"—that sudden death," reiterated the teacher with the dimple in her chin, "would smite and strike and lay low any and every person who between now and the first of September says to me 'Well, I suppose you'll be glad to be getting back to school.'"

"So do I," said the teacher with the eyeglasses.

"So do we all," said the one who taught the primary grade.

"I hate children," said the teacher with the dimple in her chin.

"So do I," said the one with eyeglasses.

"So do we all," chanted the one who teaches the primary.

"I could live forever and never feel badly about school not beginning," said the teacher with the dimple in her chin.

"So could I," said the one with eyeglasses.

"So could we all," responded the one who teaches the primary.

"Do people think that we haven't a ray of intelligence on any other subject under heaven but school teaching?" demanded she with the dimple in her chin. "Do they think that the only subject to which we may be expected to make sane replies is our emotion at the time of opening of school? Do they think—"

"You can search me," said the teacher with the spectacles, who was growing weary of the oratorical presentation of the subject.

"And all the rest of us," said she who taught the primary.

"During this last week I have said 497 times that yes, indeed, I had had a pleasant vacation and yes, of course, one always enjoyed getting back to one's work; that a few weeks of idleness was all right, of course, but really, without something to do, life would grow very monotonous, and that yes, of course, it was the contrast that made vacations so enjoyable, and yes, I did enjoy my work, for children are so interesting and so unexpected, and that a teacher certainly does have a wonderful opportunity and privilege in moulding nearest to the heart's desire—"

"Oh, forget it," said the one with spectacles.

"And I have said"—said the one with the dimple in her chin—.

"Please we don't care what you said," said the one with spectacles, "for haven't we said it ourselves and are threatened with the necessity of repeating it four thousand more times before the beginning of the school year?"

"Why don't you tell the truth?" asked the one who teaches the primary. "Why don't you say that no you're not glad that school is going to begin, and of course you don't care for children and the only reason you're teaching is—"

"Please don't insist upon going into that 'begged she of the spectacles.

"—is because you need the money and haven't yet found a ——"

"I refuse to listen," said the one with the dimples in her chin. "And anyhow men aren't hard to get."

"I think maybe I'll go out West and teach," said the teacher with the dimple in her chin. "Maybe there's a Virginian floating around out there. I'd like to see one."

"So would I," said the one with spectacles, fervently.

"So would we all," said the one who taught primary, solemnly. "Or even one from Missouri."

And then a pleasant lady came up graciously and said, "I suppose you folks are enjoying these last few days of vacation as the end draws near. School begins the first week in September, this year, doesn't it?"

"You can search me," said the one with the dimple in her chin.

"How should I know?" asked the one with spectacles.

"The matter doesn't interest me," said the one who teaches the primary.

"Well, did you ever?" inquired the gracious lady.

That the making of jam is not to be despised either as an accomplishment or a regular occupation is evidenced by the fact that a viscountess has gone into the business of its manufacture, and is making a great success of it. The woman is Lady Molesworth, whose fame for jam made many of her friends beg her to share what she produced, until finally she was tempted to open up a regular plant, with a corps of women working under her personal supervision. The viscountess uses an old brew house adjoining her estate as her "factory," and she has done so well that she intends next season to enlarge this plant and install equipment for the making of chutneys and sauces, as well as jam.

Governor Folk of Missouri has appointed Dr. Kathryn Standly of Brookfield a delegate from her state to the International Congress on Tuberculosis, which will be held in Washington from Sept. 21 to Oct. 12. This convention meets but once in three years, and the meeting this fall will be the first ever held in America.

A hospital with a staff composed entirely of women doctors, and for women exclusively, has recently been opened in Berlin. The house physician is Fraulein Hecker, and any woman doctor in the city may place her patients in the hospital for attendance or for surgical treatment. The institution is subsidized by the Berlin Frauenverein, the expenses of very poor patients will be paid from special funds. The erection of the hospital is due to two sisters, both physicians, Frangisk and Henrietta Thurtius, who originated the idea and worked for its fulfillment.

Artful Beauty.

In the down town shopping district recently we met a naturally pretty Chicago matron whose artfully artless art completely disguised her pristine Hibernian pulchritude, says a Chicago exchange. This sometime really pretty woman was positively, emphatically hideous because she was

THE BOAT CLUB BALL GAME

Annual Contest Will be Held at Athletic Park.

The only ball teams in Duluth that haven't been licked by Hibbing, will appear next Saturday afternoon at Athletic park when the boat club bachelors and married men will come together for the annual game.

Last year's game had a mortuary list as follows: one congressional candidate's leg broken and his political career jeopardized; one board of trade man's ankle sprained; one stiff hat beaten to a pulp by an over enthusiastic lady rooter beating it with her umbrella; eighteen pairs of very stiff legs; one tea cup broken over an umpire's head; three umpires who were never heard from again.

Those who saw the game last year can never hope to forget it, and the committee promises that it will be worse this year. The Ladies' Relief corps of Red Cross nurses will serve pink tea to the fans who are overcome by their feelings, and patch up the umpires between acts.

COUNTY BOARDS TO MEET.

Annual Convention of St. Louis County Educators in Duluth Sept. 11.

It is expected that fully 100 members of the different school boards of St. Louis county will be present in Duluth at the annual county convention, which will be held in the assembly room of the high school on Sept. 11.

In years past the members have had to stand their own expenses, so that the attendance has been light, but this year the county allows $3 a day in addition to five cents a mile for railroad fare.

The principal subjects that will come up for consideration will be the educational qualifications of teachers, and county superintendents, and agriculture. Since the county has decided to have one of these farm schools, the school boards will begin to plan for it.

GOES TO MINNEAPOLIS.

Prof. Lambert of the High School Faculty Accepts New Position.

Bernard Lambert, who has been at the head of the dramatic department of the high school for the past few years, has resigned to take charge of the oratory and dramatic art in the Johnson school of music and oratory in Minneapolis.

Mr. Lambert organized the Dramatic club last year, and coached the children in several plays, which, when put on at the close of school, were well received.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, who have been living on Park Point during the summer months, will leave at the end of the week for their new home in Minneapolis.

JACK FROST MAKES FIRST VISIT TO IOWA.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 24.—Jack Frost made his first visit of the season to Iowa last night. Early reports indicate that in the low lands of Northern Iowa, corn got more of a nipping last night than was good for the crop at this time of the year.

Just what the damage will total cannot be told at this time. Freezing temperature was reported from the lower sections of Northern Iowa.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Henry Suemicht, 16 years old, and Frank and George Elsaurr, brothers, aged 20 and 16 years respectively, were drowned while bathing in Silver creek at New Athens, Ill., Sunday afternoon when one of the three got beyond his depth and the other two tried to rescue him. The bodies were recovered.

Fire Sunday night destroyed the factory of the Jordan Shoe company and the elevator of the Crown Milling company at Belleville, Ill., entailing a loss of $150,000.

The railroad town of Hazen, forty miles east of Reno, Nev., was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. Loss, $125,000. Special trains were rushed to the scene to fight the fire and render aid to the homeless, who are being taken to Fallon.

Adam Damm Is Wanted.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police are attempting to locate Adam Damm, a baker, who formerly resided in this city. Chief Quinlivan is in receipt of a letter from Phillip Schaun, who is asking for information. It appears that Damm's father died in New York recently and his mother is left destitute. Adam is an only son and unless he is located the old lady will have to go to the poorhouse.

CLUB WOMEN

Arrange Programs for State Fair Week.

The headquarters at the state fair for the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs is always one of the interesting gathering places for the visiting club women of the state. The building is to be in the hands of the states' club women for three days and the latter part of the week the territorial pioneers will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary there.

Although three days were all that the state fair committee of the federation will have, Mrs. J. M. Underwood and Mrs. W. M. Liggett of St. Paul have arranged most attractive programs and the talks which were usually given in the six days will be crowded into three. Mrs. H. F. Baker will have charge of the household economic work and a model kitchen fitted up with the latest appliances for making housework easy, will be arranged. One day, Mrs. Baker will tell the women what to do when company comes unexpectedly, and will show how to make a tempting luncheon or dinner out of the left-overs in ice box and pantry. Another day she will demonstrate the newest dishes to serve for luncheon. Mrs. Margaret Blair will give a talk on household are each day. Miss Nellie Hope's orchestra will play from 9:30 to 10 o'clock each morning, and the demonstrations and talks will be given from 10 to 11 and from 11 to 12 o'clock when tea will be served. In the afternoon Miss Hope's orchestra will give a concert program.

The group of assisting women will not be as large as in former years. Only ten women have been invited from St. Paul, and the same number from Minneapolis, and as many more from the towns and cities through the state to act as hostesses, and extend the cordial greeting which has always made the club headquarters such a popular place at the fair grounds.

Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stone will entertain at dinner this evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Applin.

Woman's Industry.

In Idaho the state superintendent of public instruction is a woman, S. Belle Chamberlain, whose work during her term of office so far has been eminently satisfactory and has been favorably commented on by the Journal of Education. It was through her efforts that all the county superintendents of Idaho were enabled to attend the latest National Educational association convention in Cleveland, with their expenses paid.

A woman astronomer who has frequently to make balloon ascensions in order to photograph the stars, is Miss Dorothea Klumpke, who has a fine special building in the Observatory of Paris. Miss Klumpke is a California girl and was the first woman in France to win the degree of doctor of mathematics.

"How much are the pretty pumpkins?" inquired the marketer.

"Punkins?" asked the market man. "Oh, they're 15 cents."

"There isn't anything quite so nice as pumpkin pie, is there?" asked the marketer.

"Punkin pie?" asked the market man. "Oh," with a little apologetic laugh, "it's all right."

"It's more than all right," said the supporter of pumpkin pie, indignantly, "it's almost divine, good pumpkin pie."

"Ho," said the market man, who gets excited over nothing. "It's all right. The preserved peaches are good," he said tentatively.

the EVENING STORY

A FAIR WAY OUT

By Blanche Treanor Heath.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Maj. Jervis looked across the breakfast table at his daughter. "Young Vanbrugh has come back, Elinor. Shall I remind you of our compact?"

"No," answered the girl, bitterly. "You have taught me that a Jervis never breaks a promise."

"You are not to correspond with him, or receive him as a guest in my house, or make any engagement of marriage with him till you come of age," pursued the major, punctuating with his egg-spoon. "Is that correctly stated?"

"That was your side of it." The red lips set, the violet eyes darkened ominously. "Mine was that I would never give up, and that I would take any fair way out of a thoughtless promise."

The major smiled. "If you can find a way consistent with those three points I'll give you back your promise and my blessing to boot!"

He rose. "Well, my dear, I must run up to town on some business. I shall catch the midnight train home, so don't sit up for me."

Elinor understood perfectly. Her father was going to town to consult Berstow. Probably he would bring Barstow back with him.

Oh, her unwary promise, with all the heartache it meant! Her father would not give it back, and reminded her that no Jervis broke faith. She kept it perforce, while Vanbrugh angrily betook himself to adventure on the plains.

Personally, the major liked Vanbrugh better than Barstow. But Barstow was the son of an old comrade, Jack's boy must marry the major's daughter. Elinor would come round long before the two years.

That was the major's mistake. Elinor did not come round. She shunned Barstow, and even now was planning how to escape the threatened tete-a-tete. She went out and strolled through the grounds to think it over.

A figure hurried out of the shrubbery outside. Her heart gave a quick leap.

"Elinor!"

"Ray!"

And two hands met over the gate.

"You have come at last," he said, almost roughly. "I've been watching for an hour past."

He reached across. "I won't have this gate between us. If I can't come in, you must come out. Nothing in the bond against that, is there?"

"No. And I told papa I would take any fair advantage—"

"Come, then!" He caught her close, straining her against his breast. Her breath quickened and she drew away. She felt a change in him, something from the wild life of the plains, perhaps.

She watched his moody face. He was worn and thin. There was a somber fire in the eyes he fixed on her.

"You look tired," she said.

"Tired! Yes, dead tired of this waiting. Won't your father release you?"

"No. He hopes to wear me out, and—"

"Marry you to Barstow," completed Vanbrugh.

His grasp tightened. "Elinor, I'm going to end this."

"How?" she said, startled.

"Somehow," desperately. He broke into a harsh laugh. "This confounded civilization! If we were on the plains I would take you in my arms and carry you to my wigwam—"

She blushed hotly, and her eyes fell before him. Like a child playing with fire, she was half frightened, half fascinated, as again she felt the change in him.

"You said you would take any fair way out," he said, abruptly. "Would you stand to that if I found one?"

"Yes, I would. But there is no way except to wait the two years."

"Two eternities!" he burst out. "I won't wait. I've half a mind to walk up to the major now, and demand you at the pistol's point."

"Oh, you can't terrorize papa," laughed Elinor, vaguely uneasy. Ray looked desperate enough for anything. "Besides, he is in town, and won't be back till midnight."

She retreated inside the gate. His eyes devoured her hungrily. "You won't do anything rash, Ray?" she pleaded.

"I won't take any one's life," with a short laugh. "But I'm going to end this."

Elinor sat late that night, thinking it over. What could Vanbrugh do? Nothing, of course. But—

Suddenly one of the low windows opened. Vanbrugh's face appeared. He laid his finger on his lips.

"Don't be frightened, dear—"

"Oh, Ray!" She started from the couch in breathless alarm. "Why are you here—at this hour?"

"To burglarize you," he laughed, as he sprang inside. "I mean to carry you off and marry you."

"Marry me! But I promised—"

"You promised not to engage yourself to me. There was nothing about marriage in the bond. You might as well submit to the inevitable."

"If I should rouse the servants—" she began.

"It would make an awkward scene, of course," he said, unmoved. "But we are wasting time."

Bending over the couch he wrapped his overcoat round her thin negligee. The warm touch of his hand thrilled her, his eyes, tender but determined, gave her a dizzy sense of helplessness. She tried to protest.

"No, no, you must go away. I was not to receive you as a guest—"

"I am not a guest. I am a burglar. That makes just the difference," he laughed, unsteadily. "Seriously, Elinor, wouldn't your father take any advantage within the bond?"

"Yes," she admitted.

"Then, why shouldn't we? You promised me to take any fair way out. Doesn't the Jervis honor bind you to that?"

"But—" She stopped. After all, her father had recognized the possibility of an honorable evasion. Vanbrugh had found one. She had promised. And she loved him. Her hand dropped unresistingly in his, her head sank on his arm.

Vanbrugh felt her capitulation. "It's my one chance, and I can't lose it. But I don't ask consent. This is my affair, and you are not responsible for the act of a desperate man. I've an auto out here, and we shall just save the major's train."

As they flew along, Vanbrugh kept one hand on the lever, the other on the hand nestled in his. Perhaps that was why he nearly ran into a pedestrian around a curve in the dark. A quick pressure whirled the motor to one side.

"That was your father, Elinor," he laughed.

"There's a pace for you!" The unrecognizing major looked after them with a reminiscent sigh toward his own gay youth, then returned to his musings. "Confound Barstow! The fellow's cold-blooded. Previous engagement! Does he think my daughter the girl to wait till he throws the handkerchief? Now, if Vanbrugh had been poor Jack's boy! Nothing fishy about him."

And the major went to bed in a bad humor.

At breakfast Elinor's chair was empty.

"She won't come down. Expects to see Barstow," thought her father. He rang for her maid.

"Rosine came flying back, wide-eyed. "Miss Jervis isn't in her room, sir; but I found a letter."

She watched him curiously while he opened it. "Ah, I see," he nodded. "A summons to a sick friend."

Having thus guarded against gossip, the major considered the real contents.

"My Dear Major: I must apologize for burglarizing your house during your absence. But I have taken only Miss Jervis. As she would not break the promise you exacted of her, I have dispensed with an engagement and carried her off without her consent—a fair way out, you will admit. When you head this I shall have the pleasure of being your son-in-law. You will find us at Alameda, where we shall hope for your company at dinner. Elinor sends her love, to which I venture to add my own. Explanatorily, Raymond Vanbrugh."

The major's face was a study, but it finally broke up into laughter.

"Jove! The young rascal has outgeneraled me! Didn't think he could find any fair way out of that agreement. Well, it's the fortunes of war. Serves Barstow right! Now, then ,to retreat in good order."

This was the major's reply:

"Bless you, my children. I accept both explanation and invitation. Jervis."

Vanbrugh read the telegram to Elinor. "Papa takes it much better than I expected," she said with a sigh of relief.

"I suspect he is glad of a fair way out himself," laughed Vanbrugh.

Perhaps he was right. Certainly the major never seemed in better spirits than at their little dinner-party that evening.

COWBOY WAS A REAL "BAD MAN"

Arrested for Using Frontier Tactics on the Bowery.

Joseph Dolan, one of Buffalo Bill's cowboys, was arrested Saturday night on the Bowery by Patrolman Connors, because the wild man from the West insisted on beating up innocent and harmless passersby. After the rough rider had spent a night in jail, he was as quiet and docile as a lamb, and would have eaten out of a child's hand.

It is claimed that Dolan struck a man without any provocation. The victim made a complaint to Connors, and pointed out Dolan. Just then Dolan began pounding another passerby, and knocked him to the street. Connors took him promptly in tow, and saw him safely lodged behind the bars at the police station. He was fined $3 this morning.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SOX TAKE LAST GAME

Thorsen Holds Hibbing, While Sage is Pounded Freely.

Wild Game Saturday Goes to Hibbing by Large Score.

By winning yesterday, 5 to 2, the Sox grabbed off one game of the Hibbing series of six and gave a little consolation to the sorely tried fans, who had watched them take bitter pills day after day from Tom Brady's miners. Saturday's game was a combination of night-mare and delirium tremens and went to Hibbing by a score of 11 to 5.

Yesterday's game was the one Tom Brady wanted most of all. He had a crowd of enthusiastic shouters down from Hibbing on a special train and he wanted to give a demonstration of how his men had trimmed the Sox five straight games. He put Sage in the box and went after the game, but had reckoned without Dick Thorsen. Dick was on the job every minute of the ninety and at the finish the men from Mesaba had the short end of the score.

Sage was rapped right merrily by the Sox, especially in the sixth inning, when three runs were added to the total. Ness and Murray were the big swatters, with three and two respectively, and a few more of the boys chucked in a hit here and there to swell the total. Except in the sixth inning, when Hibbing coupled up two hits, they never had a chance with Thorsen.

Saturday's game was a horrible comedy of errors, pulled off Brandt pitched about as good a game as he ever did here, but the Sox pulled off eight horrible slips and gave William the harpoon between the fifth and sixth rubs.

The Sox only had one chance. In the fifth inning, Brandt and Ness both put the ball over the fence for a homer and gave the fans a little joy, but the work in the field was so wild and wierd that even home runs couldn't do any good in averting disaster.

The detailed scores of the games follows:

Brooklyn Blanked Twice.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Chicago twice blanked Brooklyn yesterday, strong pitching and fielding holding the visitors safe all the way. In the first game Brooklyn made only two hits off Overall and never had a chance to make serious trouble. Tinker scored Chicago's first run in the third inning, singling, going clear to third on Kling's grounder and scoring on Overall's out. Hits by Evers and Steinfeldt and two sacrifices scored another in the seventh. Ruelbach was wild but lucky in the second game and repeatedly got out of tight pinches. Chicago scored the only

DIXIE II AGAIN WINNER.

Covers Thirty Miles in 49 Minutes on Chippewa Bay.

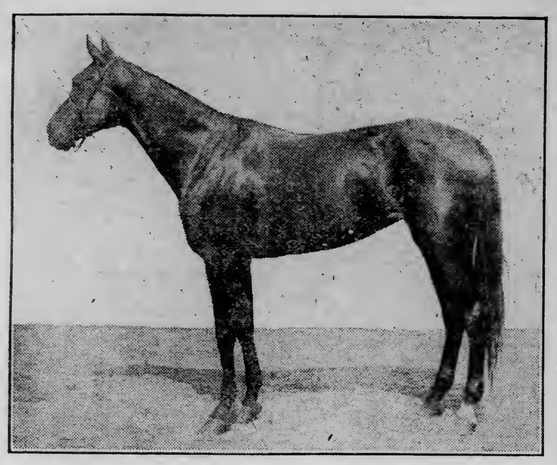
Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 24.—In a stirring race on Chippewa bay Saturday, the Dixie II, champion of motor boat racers, won the third and final contest for the gold challenge cup, defeating Chip III, the defending boat entered by the Chippewa Yacht club, in the fast time of 0:49 for the thirty miles.

Although the Dixie won three straight races she only defeated her most dangerous rival, the Chip, by six points. In each of the races the Chip has been close behind the Dixie and Saturday was only thirty-three seconds in the rear.

There was an unusually large crowd in attendance and a great demonstration greeted the winner.

The Dixie recently won the international cup at Huntington, L. I., and by winning Saturday she gains the undisputed title of champion motor boat racer. The Dixie is owned by E. J. Schroeder of New York, and was entered in the races in the name of the Thousand Islands Yacht club.

MINNEAPOLIS MARE WILL RACE AT THE STATE FAIR



BLACK LADY.

Among the several fast horses entered in the 2:12 trot in the late closing racing events of the Minnesota state fair, Aug. 31 to Sept. 5, is Black Lady, a black 12-year-old mare which won the $5,000 stake five years ago on the state fair grounds, and is the property of George Loomis of Minneapolis. The following year Mr. Loomis took the mare East over the grand circuit, with considerable success, and afterwards sold her to W. R. Tate, from whom W. E. Zimmerman of Red Wing bought her last year.

Black Lady has always been a fast mare, but has been erratic and crazy headed until within the last two years. Since the veteran trainer, E. J. McCarr has got hold of her she has tamed down considerably, and is now one of the most wenderful horses training at the Minnesota state fair track. Mr. McCarr says she has been worked out at 2:10 and as she already did 2:13½ on the Minnesota state fair track this year in the July meet of the Twin City Driving association he thinks she will make a creditable showing during the coming Minnesota state fair.

HAYES GIVEN OVATION.

Winner of Marathan Warmly Welcomed by New York Friends.

New York, Aug. 24.—John J. Hayes of the Irish-American Athletic club, winner of the Marathon race at the Olympic games, was given an ovation when he made his first appearance at the Eccentric Firemen's games at Celtic park. The 25,000 persons who were present cheered to the echo the winner of the Olympic's premier laurel wreath, and enthusiastic admirers carried him a long distance upon their shoulders. He ran an unpaced mile, but as he was not in condition, he did not make any remarkable showing.

Ralph Rose of California, another Olympic competitor, broke the world's record in the shot put, the distance being 56 feet, 2 inches, three inches better than the previous best performance, also by him. The record, however, will not stand, as the distance was measured with an ordinary tape, instead of a steel one.

MUCH BETTING ON RACE.

Louisiana Cutter Defeats That of Illinois at Sydney.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 24.—The twelve-oared cutter race yesterday morning, between crews of the battleships Illinois and Louisiana for the Battenberg cup, was won by the Louisiana men.

The distance was three and a half miles and the winners finished fifteen lengths in the lead. It is said that about $30,000 changed hands on the result of the race.

The marines have addressed a letter of thanks to the people of Sydney, in which they said: "If other places think they can surpass Sydney's welcome, they must take the ships ashore."

BACK FROM THE RACES

Yacht Club Members Return From Minnetonka Regatta.

Enthusiastic Over Treatment From the Twin City Yachtsmen.

With nothing but praises for the treatment they received at the Minnetonka races, the crew of the Young America returned last evening.

The crew that sailed the boat was composed of Joe Roth, "Sib" McDonald, Lester Phelps and C. S. Roulo. Fred Smith, the owner of the boat, also accompanied the party.

The crew did not succeed in carrying off any of the prizes in the races, but they did not expect them when they left.

"They have some very fast boats down there," said Mr. Smith last evening, in discussing the races. "Most of them are brand new boats, and those men certainly know how to sail them on the inland lakes. They don't do much else all summer there but sail. Most of the yachtsmen are sons of wealthy men and they can devote all of their time to the sport. One of the boats had two sons of J. Ogden Armour in her crew, and that boat certainly had everything that money could buy to make her go faster.

"Our boat is an old boat, and not so stiff as the new ones. She does not stand up so well, and we had to 'reef' in the first race, when the other boats did not. She had all she could carry with the reefs. Later in the race, when the wind dropped a little, we shook out the reefs, but it was too late."

In addition to the members of the crew, the following Yacht club members attended the races: Rupert Meads, James Ogle, E. A. Pierce, C. S. Haig, Commodore Horace Johnson, B. E. Baker, A. C. Le Duc, and Miss Baker and Miss Le Duc.

NEARLY RIOT AT EVELETH

Police Forced to Drive Irate Fans Off Diamond.

Eveleth, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A riot was averted by the Eveleth police yesterday afternoon, when an altercation between Pitcher Graham of Virginia and Third Baseman Boyle of Eveleth caused the crowd to rush on the field.

In rounding third base in the fifth inning, Currie bumped Boyle in the mouth with his elbow and brought blood. Boyle, believing the injury to be intentional, took after Currie with a bat and the players intervened. The crowd rushed on the field and the police, by a few minutes work, drove them back into the stands.

Eveleth was unable to hit Currie effectively, and Graham, who succeeded him, was just as strong. Virginia winning by a score of 8 to 5. Both teams played loosely in the field.

Schanze was easy for Eveleth Saturday, and they pounded him all over the lot, while Haney held Virginia safely all the way through, Eveleth winning by a score of 13 to 3. Scores:
Saturday's game— R. H. E.
Eveleth .....3 0 0 3 0 2 4 1 x—13 12 5

SUPERIOR IS BEATEN.

Cloquet Wins Well Played Game at Sawdust Town.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet defeated the Superior baseball team here Sunday in a fast game by the score of 6 to 5. Larson was on the hill for the locals and pitched fine ball, and Conley of Superior was also in good form. The batting of the Cloquet players won the game, Larson and Bonville starring at the stick. The visitors played a better game in the field, but were weak in the hitting department. Scores:
R. H. E.
Cloquet .....0 0 2 0 2 0 0 2 0—6 8 5
Superior .....0 1 1 0 1 1 0 0—5 4 4

NEW BICYCLE RECORD.

A. J. Clarke Goes Half Mile on Salt Lake Track in 50⅖ Seconds.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 24.—A. J. Clarke made a half-mile race against time at the Salt Lake track last night, and finished in :50 2-5, which is a new world's record for the distance. The record for a half-mile was formerly held by W. E. Samuelson, whose time was 51 1-5.

RECORD FOR SHERIDAN.

American Athlete Surpasses Own Mark in Discus Throw.

Dundale, Aug. 24.—At the athletic games here yesterday, Martin J. Sheridan of the Irish-American Athletic club, beat the world's record with the discus, free style, throwing it 142 feet 5 inches. The former record, which was held by Sheridan, was 136 feet, one-third inches.

TWO NO HIT GAMES.

Baseball Record Established in Game at Munising, Mich.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 24.—One of the most remarkable occurrences in the history of baseball took place at Munising yesterday afternoon, when Frost of Munising and Goulette of Ishpeming each pitched a no-hit game. So far as known this is the first time that two pitchers have done this feat in a double header.

WHITE SOX DISBANDED

No More Baseball in Duluth for This Season.

A. W. Kuehnow Declares He is Out of Baseball for Good.

The battered and beaten White Sox, who "also ran" in the Northern league race that was never finished this year, were disbanded last night, the owners of the team deciding that there was no use in carrying a losing proposition any longer.

The loss of five straight games to Hibbing effectually killed any hopes the owners of the Sox may have had of getting big enough crowds to put them even. Yesterday's turnout wasn't what it would have been, had the Sox played any kind of ball with Hibbing. Eveleth and Virginia wouldn't have drawn any more, so it was decided to call it all off and drop out of baseball for the year.

Tonight Dick Thorsen, the home boy, who starred on the Sox pitching staff this year, will leave for Sioux City to join Lucky Holmes' Western league team and Otto Koepping, the Sox shortstop, will follow just as soon as he is in condition to play. Two or three other men will be paid up to Sept. 7 in order that they may be held, and it is probable they will be disposed of to other clubs.

Incidentally, it is A. W. Kuehnow's last appearance in baseball. He said this morning:

"I have had enough of baseball in Duluth and will in the future confine myself to the land business and leave baseball to others. I have done the best I could to give Duluth winning ball teams, but was forced to go it almost alone. People do not seem to realize that a ball team is an advertising medium for a town. They figure that it is a money-making proposition and I, together with several others, am in a position to say that it is not. I have spent my own money carrying the team all this season and find myself behind in the end. I will leave it to somebody else in the future, and, if it is left to me, Duluth will have no team next year."

BREAK AT COLERAINE.

Coleraine Wins Staurday and Biwabik the Sunday Game.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coleraine won two of the series of three from Biwabik, Coleraine taking the second game Saturday and Biwabik the third Sunday. Saturday, Brady kept the hits well scattered and Brownlee was no puzzle to Coleraine. Brady attempted to repeat Sunday, but Biwabik bunched hits in the eighth and ninth and won out, while Flavin held Coleraine to three hits. Score:
Saturday game—

Ironwood Wins Twice.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ironwood defeated Hurley Saturday by a score of 9 to 7, and Sunday by a score of 4 to 1. Both games were hard fought and interesting. Scott and Lucia worked for Hurley Saturday, and Belfast, Scott and Fuerner for Ironwood. Sunday, the batteries were Rooney and Lucia for Hurley, and Seivert and Fuerner for Ironwood.

Krick Blanks Bessemer.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Krick, pitching for Ashland, let Bessemer down with two singles yesterday and shut them out by a score of 3 to 0. Schaefer of Duluth worked behind the bat for Ashland, and MacAuley of the Fitwells of that city was at shortstop. Krick's support was good and he was never in danger.
Score. R. H. E.
Bessemer .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 2 3
Ashland .....0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 x—3 5 1

Houghton Golfers Lose.

The Houghton golf team was easily defeated by the Northland players at the golf grounds Saturday by a score of 11 to 4. In the ladies' putting contest, Mrs. A. W. Hartman won the Class A prize, Mrs. H. F. Williamson the Class B prize and Mrs. Phillip Thomas the Class C prize. The Houghton visitors were entertained at dinner in the evening.

Gun Tournament.

Dr. Braum of Ashland and Charles Guptill of Aitkin tied for first place in the fourteenth annual tournament of the Central Gun club yesterday on the grounds at the foot of Sixty-third avenue west. The tie was not shot off, the men dividing first and second money. Thort of Winston was third, Davis of Brainerd fourth and Storey of Duluth fifth. Thirty-five men represented ten cities and the competition was good.

Winnipeg Wins Last.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The post-season series between Winnipeg and Brandon closed Saturday, Winnipeg winning the last game by a score of 6 to 2. Nelson and Theobald both pitched fine ball and were perfectly supported. Score:

SEVEN MILWAUKEEANS HURT.

Auto Plunges Through Barbed Wire Fence Near Richfield.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—Seven Milwaukee people were injured last evening, one perhaps fatally, when the steering gear of an automobile driven by H. R. King, general manager of the Savo company of America, broke near Richfield, Wis., and the automobile plunged through a barbed wire fence. The injured are: Henry R. King, internal injuries, probably fatal; Charles Sandberg, proprietor of the Albion hotel, cut about limbs; John Buckley, deputy game warden, deep wound under right eye, leg, hands and skull cut; Jacob Kau, restaurant proprietor, head injured; William McCann, slightly cut; Raymond and Mildred Swinburn, son and daughter of Charles Swinburn, painfully cut by wires.

All the injured were brought to Milwaukee last night.

Dr. Ashbell Parmelee,—First Vice President of the N.Y. Medical Legal Society and late Dean of the Medical Dept., U of Vermont, says:

"I am convinced that the legitimate and conservative use of lager beer is not only beneficial to the physical well being of most people, but is, from a temperance point of view, worthy of recognition and adoption."

The nourishment contained in choice barley malt and the tonic properties of selected hops combined make both food and medicine. There is, however, a difference in brews, but the best costs no more than the others.

has been brewed in Duluth for 25 years. Every appliance and every method that could in any way improve the healthfulness and insure greater purity has been installed, regardless of cost. Fitger's is the ideal home beer, delicious, refreshing, nourishing--try a small case and you will be convinced.

Drop a line or telephone your order and it will be promptly filled.

APPALLING SLAUGHTER

By Auto Speed Maniacs in New York, Demands Remedy.

President and Son Photograph Animals at the Bronx Zoo.

New York, Aug. 24.—With the deadly record of summer automobile accidents staring him in the face, Father Knickerbocker, his hair raised in horror, is taking the first steps today toward heroic remedy of this appalling slaughter. A dozen human lives have been taken here in the reckless riots of the motor-fliers within the last ten weeks. How many persons may have been maimed, fractured and disfigured in scores of other smashes, less conspicuous or secretly hushed up, no one can undertake to tell. While one suburban railroad counts 300 chauffeurs each day who dash at deadly risk over its crossings, and young Thomas is held a prisoner across the river to account for carving a carriage in two at a murderous clip, the authorities of this city are today quietly planning to take in hand an emergency situation. Before the snow again locks the main arteries of motor transit, the scurrying public may look for some check in the dizzy whirl of its horde of honking autos. While the many real motorists must suffer for the comparatively few speed maniacs, it is considered that this fatal merry-go-round must be sharply curbed.

Strenuous Signs.

Facing the most ferocious African animals with the trusty barrel of a camera lens, a man and boy who closely resemble the president and his son Kermit were seen last week up at the Bronx zoo. Though steel bars on these occasions shielded the intrepid hunters from the fury of the wild beasts, it has been remarked that neither man nor brute flinch at the click of the camer. To those in touch at Oyster Bay, this latest incident is only one of many which show the deadly earnest of the sportsmen from the White House upon their quest of big game. If anyone within the limits of this city knows anything about the ways of the dark continent which is unknown over at the summer capitol, he is likely to get a hurry call to Long Island before the summer is over. Hunters, explorers, taxidermists, ammunition and sporting outfitters have followed in constant procession to the gates of Sagamore Hill; and the end is not yet.

Chasing Crooks.

Spreading from the centers of town out to the extremes of fashionable Westchester county, the summer wave of burglary is today puzzling suburban as well as city police. Hardly a night passes without a new record of daring house-breaking among the wealthy colony just above this city. Millionaires as well as plain commuters are up in real firing arms throughout the wilds of Westchester, and it will go hard with the ringleaders of the marauding gang if they are discovered. With an automobiled posse of millionaires and men of mark at his heels, the sheriff of the disturbed district is today taking a hand at the hunt. To see Dicky Davis, Howard Willetts, Paul Thebaud and other fancy farmers take the trail as deputy sheriffs in a whirl of dust and gasoline is the only funny feature of a really trying situation.

Landmark Laid Low.

Driven back by inches under the six months' labors of a persistent wrecking crew, the familiar old train shed up at Grand Central station is at last completely demolished. For all that it had stood under wind and weather ever since the present New Yorker can remember, the veteran structure was found to be tough and stout of heart. To wreck it took almost as long as to build it, brick by brick and beam by beam. With the last dying gasp of this landmark, New Yorkers are today finding a strange and uncouth look about the terminal, and even hardened commuters trail the waste of excavation and building with uncertain foot. Some day New York will have a new depot and a train shed, perhaps, of marble, tile and artistic beams. To the older generation, however, the close associations with the grimy roof that is at last laid low will never attach to its successor.

Plenty of Play.

No summer in all the history of Gotham has seen so much of outdoor sport as is engrossing the attention of everyone today. Every tennis court, links, ball field, boat course and drive within a radius of twenty miles of the city hall is filled to overflowing these afternoons. As early as lunch time the outgoing trains and trolleys are packed with thousands of amateur athletes, intent on an afternoon of exercise. While work is slack, New Yorkers have apparently decided to revel in the play time which seems sure to be curtailed with the brisk touch of fall.

MOVING WALKS FOR THIS CITY

French Engineer Would Install the System in Duluth.

A system of shoving sidewalks up and down the hillside of Duluth is proposed by E. Roner, a French engineer, who says he is going to ask the city council for a franchise. The operating company would be backed by Belgian capital, and local people would not be asked to buy any stock in the concern.

If the franchise is secured, the company will be called the Zenith City Limited. Passengers on the sidewalks will be charged at the rate of 2½ cents a ride. Mr. Roner says that if he goes right ahead with the work, one of the rolling sidewalks will be ready for operation by the first of the year.

The sidewalk consists of two independent platforms made of separate blocks with rubber floors, and mounted by chairs. The streets would be tunneled, and an endless chain of sidewalks run underneath the surface of the streets, the sidewalk working on the principle of a bicycle chain.

The power necessary to keep the sidewalks moving would be furnished from a storage battery-power station. The moving sidewalk system has been adopted by Lomberg, Austria, and is being operated with great success there, according to the engineer. The chairs cannot be used until the necessary money has been placed in a slot for the purpose. One part of the platform, called the city express, will never stop moving, while the other part can be stopped at the will of the passenger. The city express will not move so fast but that an ordinary person can step aboard. The other platform will be for the more timid, who insist that the walk be stopped before they get on it.

Mr. Roner asks that one avenue be allowed him for experimental purposes. If the idea works out, and is received favorably by the people, he says his company will install the sidewalk system, if permitted to do so.

"COLONIAL JACK" SPEAKS.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Colonial Jack," or John Krohn, arrived in this city Saturday evening about 5.45 o'clock on his tour around the border of the United States. His presence drew crowds of people to the place where he was staying, all very much impressed by his traveling outfit, especially the baggage car, or wheelbarrow, which he calls the "Sphynx." Sunday evening he addressed a large audience at the Bijou theater, describing in full his trip so far and his plans for the future. He hit the "tie path" on the Great Northern this morning and expects to reach Floodwood, a distance of over thirty miles from here, by evening. "Jack" made a good impression among local people, and everyone hopes for his success.

Mrs. Krohn, "Jack's" wife, has been ill at the hotel here since her arrival, and it was thought yesterday that her condition was such that it would necessitate her staying here about a week. She appears to be entirely run down by her trip so far.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

When the blood is pure and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth, and free from all blemishes and eruptions; but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation, its presence is quickly manifested by some form of skin disease. The skin receives its necessary nourishment and strength from the blood. When, however, this vital fluid becomes a humor-laden stream, it can no longer preserve the healthy, natural appearance of the skin, but by its acrid, impure nature continually irritates and inflames the delicate tissues and fibres and keeps the cuticle in a diseased and disfigured condition. External applications cannot reach the blood, and therefore are beneficial only for their ability to reduce inflammation, and assist in keeping the parts clean. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be purified of the humors that are causing the trouble. S. S. S. drives out the humors from the blood so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a healthy, cooling stream. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impure matter, all acids and humors, and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby curing every form of skin disease or affection. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MANY ACRES ARE BURNING

Sod in Hammond Township is Burning Like Peat Bog.

Unique Smouldering Blaze Similar to One of the Early Days.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. A. Tofsley, a prominent farmer of Hammond township, eight miles south of this city, reports a peculiar condition of affairs in that township, portions of ten square miles of sod being ablaze. A prairie fire started last Thursday when a north wind was prevailing, and the fire swept to the big state ditch. The next day the wind switched to the south and the fire burned back north again, a distance of five miles to a county ditch, and on Saturday, the wind again turned and the fire burned back to the state ditch again, thus covering a distance two miles east and west and five miles north and south.

The peculiar part of the situation is that practically this whole territory is still smouldering and will continue to smoulder till a heavy rainfall comes, or till after the ground is covered with snow.

The ground is so dry from the hot weather and lack of rain that the roots of the grass are on fire, and as the land is low, and heavy growth of grass have covered it for years, there is a perfect mass of dry roots for the fire to feed on. Mr. Tofsley states that in the early days the same thing happened, and that the fire burned steadily for several months, till a heavy snow came and smothered it, and that great holes were left, which can be seen to this day.

ADAM BARDSLEY DEAD.

Former Northern Pacific Master Mechanic at Brainerd is Called.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Adam Bardsley, former master mechanic here for the Northern Pacific, having charge of all the system east of Fargo, is dead.

Bert Parker has been advised that he died at the home of his father at Bradford, Pa., Aug. 19, and was buried last Saturday.

WISCONSIN POSTMASTERS MEET NEXT IN MILWAUKEE.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 24.—The Wisconsin Association of Postmasters closed its sixth annual convention here by selecting Milwaukee for its meeting next year, passing resolutions indorsing the postal savings banks and electing the following officers: President, Col. George W. Burchard, Fort Atkinson; secretary-treasurer, C. Widule, Milwaukee; first vice president, C. C. Gittings, Racine; second vice president, L. H. Kimball, Neenah; third vice president, Miss Marilla Andrews, Evansville; fourth vice president, H. Aussman, Elk Mound.

GIFFORD SUPERINTENDENT.

Given Charge of Houghton Company, Succeeding J. C. Woodsome.

Houghton, Mich., Aug 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. P. Gifford, for the past four years assistant superintendent of the Houghton County Electric Light company, with headquarters in Calumet, has been named superintendent by Manager W. H. McGrath, to succeed J. C. Woodsome, former superintendent, who left here recently for Dallas, Tex. Mr. Gifford has moved to Houghton and entered upon his new duties. Herbert Nash of Boston has been appointed assistant superintendent, to succeed Mr. Gifford, and will have his headquarters at the Calumet end.

Mr. Gifford was quite well known throughout the county, having come here from the Boston offices of Stone & Webster some five or six years ago. He was first made contracting agent for the lighting company and four years ago was named assistant superintendent, being stationed at Calumet.

WHICH ONE SHALL DO THE HANGING?

Penitentiary Warden or Sheriff of County Whence Condemned Came?

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 24.—Special to The Herald.)—Shall the warden of the penitentiary or the sheriff of the county wherein a man is convicted of murder, carry out the law and hang the condemned by the neck until he is dead? This is the question which Governor Burke has put up to the supreme court under a provision of the statue long moldy with disuse.

Robert S. Noah, from Ward county, and Joe and Charles Peltier of Bottineau county, are now in the penitentiary awaiting the dates of their execution, but the step taken by the governor is of little interest to these men, inasmuch as it relates only to the question as to whether the warden or the sheriff of the above named counties shall do the hanging.

In deciding the temperance commissioner law unconstitutional, the supreme court in effect declared that county officers had certain duties inherent in their office under the constitution which could not be modified by the legislature to another official. This has aroused a question of doubt in the mind of the penitentiary warden as to whether he has the right to hang any one under the present statute, which is comparatively recent, and under which one man, John Rooney, had already paid the penalty at the state institution. Governor Burke has sent the transcript of the Noah trial to the supreme court under the provisions of section 10, 166 of the statutes, and asked an opinion on the validity of the penitentiary hanging law which decision will also affect the case of the two Peltiers.

FIFTEEN MILLION INCREASE.

Large Gain in Taxable Property of North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 24.—The state board of equalization has made the tax levy for state purposes for the ensuing year. The general fund tax will be $89,316, or three and eight-tenths mills. The other levies are:

Wolf bounty, $15,753, or two-tenths of a mill; maintenance of educational institutions, $228,767, or one mill; payment of state bonds, $22,876, or one-tenth mill; bond interest, the same amount as for payment of bonds.

The total assessed valuation of the state as equalized by the state board is $228,767,242, being an increase of $15,000,000 over last year. This is divided as follows:

Real property, $147,147,963; personal property, $47,368,847; railroads, $33,068,881; telephone property $623,237; express companies, $273,788; street railways, $29,670; telegraph companies, $255,476.

GOLD ON HIS FARM.

North Dakotan Believes He Has Mineral Galore.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 24.—Chris Sandlin, a prominent contractor of this city has received a report, which proves beyond a doubt that there is a large amount of gold and silver ore on his farm, some twenty-five miles northwest of Minot. The report was from Thomas Buggy, a well known chemist and assayist of Butte, Mont., and is in part as follows:

"Your rock is a calcarous spile, a kind of rock that is gold bearing in Chouteau county, Mont., and in many other places. I find that the specimen submitted to me is rich in both silver and gold."

Mr. Sandlin's farm is located eight miles north of Carpio and is in township 159, range 85, section 30, and his two brothers, also, have claims adjoining his. All three of the claims, as well as others in the neighborhood, contain gold bearing ore rock in considerable quanity and in some places it is present in such large quantities that the compasses fail to work, thus showing the presence of the metal in large quantities.

MOOSE LAKE SEES BRILLIANT FUTURE

Carlton County Town Expects to Become Quite a City.

Moose Lake, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the advent of the Soo railroad and the carrying on of the numerous building enterprises on foot, Moose Lake expects to become one of the best towns between Duluth and the Twin Cities.

With the large territory to draw from and the present outlook of the Soo connecting their Fredrick, Wis., branch here, Moose Lake will in a short time be a city of a couple of thousand people.

These new buildings are on foot: H. O. Herried store building, $4,000; H. T. Carlson, store building, $1,000; J. W. Lindmark & Co., addition, $500; Alvin Anderson, photo gallery, $1,000; C. J. Dodge, residence, $3,500; E. A. Ryden, residence, $2,500; Andrew Miller, residence, $500; G. Westholm, residence, $1,000; Fred Gay, residence, $2,500; G. Nevers, hotel and saloon, $1,600; J. Puzel, residence, $2,000; Col. G. W. Skelton, residence, $3,000; Fred Vanasse, residence, $1,500; Ray Osgood, residence, $1,200; Moose Lake Creamery association, creamery, $3,000; total, $29,600.

These improvements are planned: E. H. Knutila, residence, $115; M. E. church, $150; S. Swanson, residence, $100; State bank, $100; E. A. Campbell, residence, $250; C. F. Mahnke, residence, $250; E. D. Berg, photo gallery, $600; S. Johnson, residence, $500; total, $2,065.

The total amount being expended for new buildings is over $20,000 and for improvements to resorts and grounds is over $2,000. With the new Soo depot, which will be erected in the spring, together with freight warehouses and other necessary buildings, will bring the total up to about $50,000.

LIKED CROOKSTON CLAY.

Eastern Pottery Concern Made Successful Experimeat.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Crookston Commercial club members are highly elated over a report from a big pottery concern of Ohio, which has just manufactured some fine pottery from clay shipped from the beds used by the Northern Pressed Brick company within the city limits. It made a very high grade of common dishes, of a brownish color, and the report states that the clay could be used very successfully for that class of work and for the manufacture of all kinds of common pottery, such as jugs, jars, etc. Local capitalists are now behind a movement for the establishment here of a big pottery plant in the very near future. The dishes sent back took an extremely high polish.

HEADQUARTERS AT FAIR.

State Rural Carriers' Association Will Again Open Bureau.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The State Association of Rural Letter Carriers will again establish headquarters at the state fair. The location on the grounds will be the same as last year, near the Press building on Fraternity row, just to the left of the St. Paul entrance, at Snelling avenue.

All carriers from this state and neighboring states as well will be cordially welcomed. A bureau of information, a place to rest and leave packages will be arranged for.

HE DROPS OUT OF SIGHT.

Former Stearns County Man Disappears in Kansas City.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gottrad Hengel, formerly of Rockville, this county, is missing and his relatives are somewhat anxious as to his whereabouts.

The last heard of the man was about four weeks ago, when he was in Kansas City. Hengel of late has been residing at Stillwater, Oklahoma. During the latter part of July he went to Kansas City on business. While there he was held up and robbed of all his belongings. The man went to a telegraph office, where he sent word to his brother, John Hengel, of Rockville, telling of his loss. He sunk to the floor in an unconscious condition while at the place. The people in the office took care of the man and, when revived, he left the place. The missing man then went to an express office, where he called for a grip. Since then nothing has been heard from him.

START STOCK PILING.

Actual Mining on Cuyuna Iron Range Has Commenced.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The actual mining of iron ore on the Cuyuna range has at last begun. The Rogers-Brown Ore company has started the accumulation of a stock pile at its Rabbit lake shaft. According to the statements of one of the best known and best posted men on the range, who, however, did not wish his name mentioned, the shaft will be sunk 80 feet in the ore, after which they will crosscut and commence taking out the ore in large quantities. When asked as to when the Northern Pacific would have a spur built to the line, the gentleman smiled and said he "could not express an opinion."

WORE STOLEN TROUSERS.

So Others Had to be Purchased Before Thief Went to Jail.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 24.—Before Albert Kick, an Oneida Indian, could be sent to the reformatory to begin his sentence of eighteen months for stealing a pair of pants belonging to John Joachim, the court had to go out and purchase a pair of overalls for him. Kick appeared in court encased in Joachim's pants. Joachim wanted the Indian to divest himself of the stolen wearing apparel, and, finding nothing else to do, the court went out and invested county funds. Then Joachim departed, satisfied.

Capt. Hobson's Subject.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 24.—Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, representative in congress from Alabama, and the Calumet Woman's club, under whose auspices the naval hero will speak at the Calumet theater the evening of Sept. 2, have agreed upon the subject of the lecture he will give here. He will talk on "America, Mistress of the Seas," one of his favorite topics, in which he will take up the Japanese question. A discourse replete with interest is expected.

PLAY CROQUET AT NIGHT.

Milwaukeeans Are Taken Up With the Game of Kings.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Croquet by electric light! Milwaukee summer guests have developed a passionate love for this innocent outdoor game, which was once the favorite sport of Kings. It has taken such a strong hold upon them that they even refuse to allow night to drive them from it.

Those who pass Hotel Aberdeen, 909 Grand avenue, are somewhat surprised to see the guests out on the lawn playing at night.

Louis Hadfield, son of the proprietor, being somewhat of an expert electrician, has put up seven sixteen candle-power lights over the croquet course, and there is an exciting game going until 10 o'clock each night.

JOIN LIVES AND CLAIMS.

Holders of Adjoining Claims Have Been Married in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 24.—The culmination of a romance, begun on adjoining claims held by Emil Samuelson and Mabel C. Bloomquist in this county, was reached when a minister united the fortunes of these two anxious and devoted lovers, who had waited a long year for the happy day. Some months ago the ardor of the groom became so great that he wanted to give up his homestead and move out onto that of his sweetheart as her husband, but although Emil's affection was just as ardently returned, the good sense of the maiden prompted her to call a halt on any such sacrifice, and her business sagacity saved 160 acres of fine land to the now happy couple. A few days ago Miss Bloomquist proved up on her homestead and they were married and immediately went to the claim of the husband, to jointly farm the 320 acres that will be theirs at the end of two or three years, when the husband proves up.

DRUG STORES CLOSING.

Enforcement League Making It Too Interesting for Them.

Washburn, N. D., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of the efforts of the North Dakota Enforcement league, it is announced that all the drug stores at Washburn, Wilton and Underwood have surrendered their permits. The work of investigation in these cases is said to have been done by Rev. Mr. Ogden, the pastor of the M. E. church at Wheatland. Mr. Ogden's methods are not like a spotter. He sends the druggists word in advance that he is coming to investigate and on arrival introduces himself and proceeds to examine the records of the county court. If there is found to be weak spots in the druggist's records he is advised to avoid trouble and prosecution by surrendering his permit.

SOME KELSEY HAPPENINGS.

Current Events in the St. Louis County Town.

Kelsey, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ed Filiatrault was in town Saturday with his auto, accompanied by his wife.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern company has improved the town here and is working an extra gang at this place.

J. McKay is building a road and making extensive improvements as well.

William Kauppi, Albert Overton, Jean W. New, Harry Grimer and other politicians were in tow this week.

L. R. Martin of the lumber company is loading its pulp wood out of the river. John Claffy, manager, is kept busy.

The town board will commence shortly to make considerable improvements.

A. M. Tollukson, the livery man, made a flying trip up the line Saturday.

C. J. Kernan, agent at this place, and J. McKay enjoyed a drive to Cotton postoffice last Saturday. Returning home, they were caught in the great rainstorm, and they could not light a match to see the road back.

WOMAN JUMPS FROM BRIDGE AND IS HURT.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. David Betchin, wife of Fireman Betchin of the Warfield Tower company, was severely injured Saturday night while jumping from the Great Northern railway bridge over the Mississippi river.

Mrs. Betchin had been fishing from the middle of the bridge and became frightened when she saw the switch engine approaching. She jumped up and started to run down the track to the shore, but was overtaken by the engine before it could be stopped, and throwing her hands above her head, she jumped from the bridge.

She fell on her back on some logs in the water below.

Passers-by came quickly to her rescue and she was removed to her home.

MR. BERNARD RECOVERING.

Former President of National Drainage League Gaining Strength.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. G. Bernard, formerly of Cass Lake, but more recently president of the National Drainage league, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., is now rusticating at the home of W. B. Jones on Sylvan lake, Cass county, where it is hoped he will recover his wonted strength, which was greatly impaired as a result of a recent operation.

Mr. Bernard left Cass Lake some two years ago to assume the presidency of the National Drainage league.

About four or five months ago Mr. Bernard was taken violently ill and subsequently went to St. Paul, where he entered a hospital, where Dr. R. F. Whetston performed an operation on Mr. Bernard for gall stones. Since that date Mr. Bernard has improved slowly, and, although being but a shadow of his former self, he is said by the physicians to be improving.

He decided to return to the pine-laden air of Northern Minnesota, so he made arrangements with his friend, W. B. Jones, to go to Sylvan lake.

HANGS HIMSELF IN JAIL.

Aged Prisoner Cheats Law in Novel Manner.

Montello, Wis., Aug. 24.—Adam Budnik, aged 65, an old resident of Montello, committed suicide by hanging himself with a pocket handkerchief in the jail here.

During a fit of temporary insanity Budnik attempted to kill his wife and daughter, battering down the door to his home with an axe, and attacking the women with a butcher knife. He was taken into custody by Undersheriff Flynn and placed in jail. An hour later, when Flynn brought the prisoner a glass of water, he was horrified to find him dead on the floor with a handkerchief wound around his neck.

TAKEN TO ESCANABA.

Body of Sailor, Who Died From Exposure, Taken Heme.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—The body of Phillip Thompson, who died on the schooner Juniata of pneumonia after being exposed to a driving rain on Lake Michigan for thirty-six hours, and was brought into Milwaukee by the Gilchrist steamer Helena, was taken to Escanaba, Mich., for burial by a nephew, who arrived Friday night. The body was held at the county morgue for relatives. David Beebe, companion of Thompson, who was driven almost insane, accompanied the body to Escanaba.

PREDICTS GOOD HARVEST.

North Dakota Banker Takes Optimistic View of Outlook.

Fargo, N. D., Aug 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. E. McCarthy, a prominent banker of York, N. D., was in the city yesterday and said that the crops in that section of the country were much better than they were thaught to be before being harvested. "This is especially true around Devils Lake, where the crops were thought to be pretty bad. I was looking over the crops in that part of the country and find that it is shocking up very good and will thresh out much better than the estimates indicated. Crops in about York and Leeds are showing up in splendid shape, and generally there will be a good harvest in Benson county.

BONDS WILL BE READY

St. Louis County Stakes Small Sum on Supreme Court Decision.

Bonds Will be Printed in Anticipation of Favorable Ruling.

St. Louis county has taken a gambler's chance at better than 100 to 1. If it wins it will be richer by $10,000. If it loses it will lose but $85. The big odds are on a decision of the supreme court of the state, and county officials think they are taking a good chance.

County Auditor Odin Halden this morning gave the order for printing the bonds for the $600,000 bond issue, which is being held up by the supreme court. A decision was expected last Friday, but it did not come. It should certainly come next Friday, but even if it should be favorable it would be too late to have the bonds ready for delivery to the bond company by Sept. 1, the date specified in the bid of $10,000 premium for the issue, unless the bonds were printend in advance.

Consequently, the order was given this morning for the printing of the bonds, and should the court decide in favor of the county, the bonds will be ready for delivery Sept. 1 and the premium secured. Should an adverse decision be given, the county will lose the $85 to be paid for printing.

There was considerable disappointment last week over the failure of the supreme court to hand down a decision in the case, which is a friendly suit by Whitney Wall and others to determine the validity of legislative action authorizing the issuance of the bonds for the new courthouse. The bid of $10,000 premium on the 4½ per cent ten-year bonds is considered by the county officials an exceptionally good one and they do not like the idea of losing the chance to dispose of the bonds at that figure. The bonding company, being willing to take printend bonds instead of the customary engraved bonds, cuts down the risk in getting them printed and ready for delivery Sept. 1. It is expected the supreme court will certainly hand down the decision next Friday and everybody involved is on the anxious seat in the meantime.

ROADS SHUT DULUTH OUT

Discrimination Made in Matter of State Fair Rate.

If Duluth people are not given the advantage of rates to the Minnesota state fair, and at the present time all hope has been given up that any special rates will be given for the fair, the reason can be credited to the fact that the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railways were able to escape competition and can thus refuse to make special rate concessions.

Rates from Wisconsin territory will be given to the state fair, because of the competion provided by other roads. A person in this city who desires to go to the state fair will be compelled to pay the regular two-cent fare, while most of the towns that are on other roads than the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will have the advantage of special rates.

This action is taken in the face of the facts that the special rates were offered and special trains run for the Shriners' convention at St. Paul in July. At this convention it was estimated that over 1,000 people went from this city. But the attitude of the two roads toward the rate question has shut out any hope of Duluth people getting the same advantage as people in many of the smaller towns of the state.

The Chicago & Great Western road, a road doing most of its business outside the state, makes a special rate for the fare and a half for the Minnesota fair. Other roads in the southern part of the state follow the action of the Great Western. The result is that practically every town in the southern part of the state will have the advantage of special rates. Duluth has always sent large crowds to the state fair, but this year will find itself discriminated against in the matter of special rates.

Officials of Interstate Bridge "Really Do Not Know."

When a Herald reporter asked when the bridge would be open, this morning, the man yawned, rubbed his eyes, stretched himself, and answered: "Oh, a week, maybe two. Can't tell exactly when."

"Do you really think it's going to open by the first of the year?"

"Oh, yes, we're bound to get it swinging by that time. Don't know what everybody is in such a hurry about. There's lots of time. Pretty soon it'll freeze up and then it won't have to swing. We have it fixed now so that the cars can go across, but we can't allow that until the swing works."

RAILROADS

OLD FARE IS RESTORED

Three-Cent Rate Charged on Northern Minnesota Roads.

Claimed That Supreme Court Decision Permits Old Rate.

Is the 2-cent passenger fare law of this state being violated by many of the smaller roads of the state?

That question was asked this morning of R. N. Marble, an official of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway, a road that is charging 3 cents per mile for passenger fare, and Mr. Marble replied that any road that was charging 3 cents per mile for passenger fares was not violating the law.

"The United States supreme court declared that law unconstitutional," said Mr. Marble. "There are many roads in this state that are charging 3 cents a mile for passenger fare. Our road is not the first road by any means that has been charging over 2 cents a mile. We have not relied upon our own judgment as to the constitutionality of the law. We have taken the opinion of the supreme court."

Mr. Marble stated that the Duluth & Northern Minnesota had been charging 3 cents per mile since Aug. 20. He stated that the 2-cent law was never intended to apply to the smaller roads, anyway, but that as long as the supreme court had held that the law was unconstitutional, the officials of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota road felt free to go ahead and charge 3 cents per mile.

"The smaller roads could not make a profit if they charged 2 cents a mile," said Mr. Marble. "Ask the officials of the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg if they are not charging over 2 cents a mile. We are not the only road that is charging more than the state law provides for."

The decision handed down by the supreme court was in the Young habeas corpus proceedings in connection with the commodity rate law. The passenger law has never been passed upon, although it is said that the same point would apply, that the penalty was excessive.

Missabe Office.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway will open a city office in the store now occupied in the Spalding hotel building. The office will be established because of the increased city business of the Missabe road since the establishment of the route to Winnipeg via the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and the Canadian Northern lines.

Postpone Increase.

Advices received from Chicago state that a general postponement of the enforcement of increased freight rates will be made by the roads of the country. The outcome of the hearings of several rate increases before the interstate commerce commission is awaited by the roads before any action along this line is taken.

NORTH BUTTE HAS A RALLY

But the Other Coppers Have a Soft Tone.

Most of the copper stocks were easier during the session of the Boston market today, and they closed so, but North Butte led a rally which was participated by a few issues. North Butte was as weak as any of them at the outset, but during the latter part of the session developed great rallying powers, which brought the close higher than Saturday's. North Butte opened at $82.75, declined to $82, rallied to $83.50 and closed at $83.25 bid and $83.50 asked.

Amalgamated opened at $77.50, advanced to $77.62½, declined to $76.75 and closed at $76.75 bid and $77 asked. Greene-Cananea opened at $11.50, declined to $10.75 and closed at $11 bid and $11.12½ asked. Butte Coalition opened at $26.50, declined to $26.25 and closed at $26 bid and $26.25 asked, and Calumet & Arizona went off from $118 to $117 and closed at $116 bid and $117 asked. Anaconda opened at $48.12½, declined to $45.87½, rallied to $46 and closed at $46 bid.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $13.62½, declined to $13.37½ and closed at $13.25 bid and $13.37½ asked. Globe sold at $4.62½ and closed at $4.50 bid and $4.62½ asked, Copper Queen of Idaho at $1.25 and closed at $1.25 bid and $1.37½ asked, and Red Warrior at $3 and closed at $3 bid and $3.12½ asked.

Denn-Arizona sold at $4.12½ and closed at $4.12½ bid and $4.37½ asked.

Calumet & Sonora was inactive and closed at $9.62½ bid and $9.87½ asked, Butte-Ballaklava at $7 bid and $7.25 asked, Carman at $3 bid and $3.25 asked, and Mowitza at $2 bid and $2.25 asked.

Black Mountain sold at $3.75 and closed at $3.62½ bid and $3.75 asked.

Action by the Boston stock exchange is expected soon upon the application of the Superior & Pittsburg Mining company for regular enlistment on the exchange.

Application was made last week, upon the completion of the examination of the property by Dwight E. Woodbridge of this city, and the filing of his report.

Mr. Woodbridge was appointed to look over the property and compile information for the benefit of the members of the Boston exchange. Word comes from Bisbee that Mr. Woodbridge was well pleased with conditions as he found them at the Superior & Pittsburg.

Walker's Copper Letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper has had a reaction, but at this writing is stronger again. Lake is 13¾c to 13⅞c, and electrolytic is 13⅝c per pound. The asking prices of the largest producers and selling agencies are higher than those quoted, there being a quite general disposition to refuse to make sales below 14c for lake and 13⅞c for electrolytic. It is understood that lake and electrolytic could have been purchased at 13½c to 13⅝c last Monday.

"One of the strong supporting factors in the market is said to be a large short interest in copper warrants in London. It is claimed that large lines were put out by European speculators on the basis of about 13 cents per pound for refined copper. The market is now three-quarters of a cent or more against bear traders, and they are using every means in their power to depress prices.

"The relatively weak statistical position of the metal is the explanation for the bear operations. The foreign visible supply of copper is more than three times what it was a year or two ago. It is known positively that several foreign consumers have bought considerably in excess of their immediate needs, in taking advantage of the low prices ruling six or eight months ago. Producers are sold pretty well up to date, but none of them have sold their production in advance. Some producers are carrying small stocks of copper which they could and probably would like to deliver immediately for cash. In a general way, this is a summary of a fairly healthy trade condition; but in the case of copper it can hardly be so considered, as it does not reflect nearly as strong a position as the copper trade normally occupies.

"The future price of copper depends entirely on the business situation. A little further improvement in industrial conditions will cause heavy buying of copper. If the months of September and October show as great an improvement over July and August as those months did over the two preceding, the entire copper surplus will be sold, and the market position will warrant an advance to 15 or 16 cents per pound. There is good basis for the hope that the coming two months may show a greater business gain than any preceding two months of the present year. The outlook for the copper metal market, therefore, is decidedly hopeful."

MR. BRYAN IS IN FAVOR OF CLUBS

Discusses Their Formation With J. W. Tomlinson of Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Mr. Bryan's first visit this morning was to the bureau of organization, of which John W. Tomlinson is the head, where he discussed the subject of the formation of clubs. Mr. Bryan is a great believer in clubs. Following this visit the Democratic candidate made the following statement:

"There is nothing that increases a man's interest in the party's success more than the work that he himself does. When a man joins a club and enrolls himself as a worker his own enthusiasm is increased. The consciousness that he is serving the party is in itself a stimulous to greater service. Then, too, the club gives a unity of purpose and of action. When men meet together in the clubroom and exchange views they are not only better informed upon questions which are being discussed, but they concentrate their efforts and work more effectively.

"While it is necessary to give attention to the raising of money for campaign purposes, especially where the money is raised by popular subscription, the collection of money is but a small part of the campaign. The most valuable contribution that a Democrat makes to his party is in the service that he renders by co-operation with other Democrats. The larger the club, the better the impression made, the greater the amount of work done, and the more the enthusiasm.

"I am very glad to find that our work is so well started and in such good hands. Mr. Tomlinson's heart is in the club's movement and he is pushing it with all his energy."

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 24.—Word was received here today of the death at Battle Creek, Mich., yesterday of Col. Evans, C. B., in charge of the Western Canadian military district. He was a Boer war fighter and son-in-law of Governor McMillan. His death is the result of a sunstroke received on the parade grounds here a month ago.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 24.—At a general meeting of the Canadian Pacific trainmen at Fort William, Sunday, to take action relative to a strike, the men of the operating department voted by a large majority not to strike in sympathy with the mechanical trades.

BURIED BY MASONS.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of H. H. Jenkins of this city, who died suddenly last Wednesday in Duluth, was held Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the residence, 408 Ninth avenue, under the auspices of the Masons. Rev. Dr. Beard of the Congregational church conducted a short service at the home, while the Masonic ritual service was observed at the grave. Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Day of St. Paul were among the prominent out-of-town people who came here to attend the funeral.

THE STEAMER OREGON BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE.

THEY LIKE A BIG BLUFF

French Engineer Says Americans Like to Be Swindled.

Wants to Build Moving Sidewalk and Aerial Railway.

"You Americans—I like you—but you like the big bluff. I read in your paper of a man who came in here and swindled you out of $2,000, just because he makes a big bluff. Unless a man makes big statements and talks big, you do not believe him."

So spoke John E. Romer, a small, wiry, energetic Frenchman, a civil engineer who has a plan to install moving sidewalks on Duluth's side hills.

Mr. Romer has been busy all day putting his plan before the city officials, and will introduce it to the council this evening, asking for a franchise. He says he does not want the franchise unless he can also get one for an aerial railway from the top of the hill to Fond du Lac. Mr. Romer says that he proposes to build and equip a railway similar to the famous Saarbrucken road. The cars hang from a single rail on an elevated trestle.

Mr. Romer, strange to say, does not want to float a company in Duluth to carry out his projects. He claims to have all the financial backing he needs, and all he wants is the franchise, and the promise of the city to pay him what it would cost to build ordinary sidewalks where he puts in his moving walks.

The moving sidewalk is a most ingenious contrivance. There are twenty-four chairs to a block, and while these chairs are passing, platforms spring up and provide a crossing for those who wish to cross the sidewalk. The chairs go under the streets through tunnels.

Mr. Romer talks quite calmly of a bond of $50,000 or $60,000 to carry out his agreement.

"It is a matter of indifference to me," he said, "whether the council accepts or not. If the people do not want it, I shall go some place else—to Seattle. I do not want money. I have no time to raise it. The bankers who sent me out want a place to invest their money. If I approve a plan, they will invest in it. I do not ask you to pass upon my plans. They are all right. They are not an experiment. What I want to know is whether the people want what I suggest. I have no time to waste here. If the council wants it, I shall cable for a bond tomorrow. If they do not want it, I must get away."

Mr. Romer dresses like an Englishman, in gray tweeds, and is more energetic than the most enterprising of Americans, coming directly to the point in his discussion of his plans, and spending no more time than is necessary to explain them.

IMPERSONATED AN OFFICER

Stranger Said He Was Lieutenant "Under Sealed Orders."

Saturday evening a man called upon Sergt. Boyce of the local United States recruiting office and informed him that he was Lieut. Maynard A. Wells, Tenth Infantry, United States army. He invited the sergeant out to have a cigar and informed him that he came to Duluth with sealed orders.

The sergeant's suspicions began with the mysterious announcement that the man was carrying sealed orders. He knew that there was no war in prospect and he didn't believe that any sealed orders would be sent to Duluth.

Taking the man back to the recruiting room he feigned study of some army question while he turned the army register to the name of Lieut. Maynard T. Wells. Then reading from the army record of the officer, he questioned the man who claimed that he was Lieut. Maynard T. Wells, and that he carried government sealed orders.

The description of his record and the real record of Lieut. Maynard T. Wells didn't agree. The man committed himself further and Sergeant Boyce became convinced that the man was an imposter.

"I believe you are a d—d imposter," he shot forth.

The mysterious sealed orders were taken forcibly from the man, proving to be a letter with the right name of the imposter, which was W. P. Wells.

"I have a notion to have you arrested," said the sergeant. "You are going around impersonating an officer of the United States army."

"Oh, no, you won't," answered the imposter.

"Bing!" went the telephone and soon a police officer had the felow on the way to the police station.

Friday night a note was left on the sergeant's desk telling him to call at the Kitchi Gammi club and meet Lieut. Wells. The sergeant spruced up in his best bib and tucker and walked up to the club. He didn't meet Lieut. Wells, it is needless to say, and none of the club members knew anything of the lieutenant.

Sergeant Boyce stated that he thought the man was a dope fiend. He must have looked up Lieut. Wells's name in the army register, but failed to familiarize himself with the officer's record.

At the police station Wells was released.

BRYAN TO BE THE GUEST OF F. B. LYNCH.

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. J. Bryan and the new Democratic state central committee will be the guests of F. B. Lynch at luncheon next Monday noon, just before Mr. Bryan goes to the state fair grounds to deliver an address which he is scheduled to make there. The luncheon will be served at one of the St. Paul hotels.

After speaking here, Mr. Bryan will go to Fargo and other North Dakota points.

New Duluth Corporation.

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Furness Realty company of Duluth with a capital stock of $50,000, filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state today. Thomas Furness, Jennie Nixon and T. A. Merritt are the incorporators.

Brokers Fail.

New York, Aug. 24.—The failure of Meadows, Williams & Co., was announced on the New York stock exchange today. The firm has offices at 38 Wall street.

Art Forgers of France.

Harper's Weekly: It is not only in New York that people are imposed upon with spurious works of art. Only recently criminal proceedings at Limoges, in France, disclosed the fact that there is a ful developed, well-organized industry of forgery and falsification upon the continent. It has as many domains as there are categories of collections, for the forgers and falsifiers long ago became specialists, and they can serve you with any class of art that you may need.

Many of their tricks are highly ingenious. They will make two semi-original, genuine works of art out of one, for example. A piece of carved wood is sawed through, making two pieces, and in each of these the missing half is replaced by a careful reproduction of the original. An authentic but only poorly painted Sevres or Meissen cup may be richly painted after a good pattern, exactly in the style required, and reburnt. A real but plain knight's armor is damasked with all the fineness of the craftsman, chased, gilded and rendered "old" again. This necessitates cost and labor, but it pays; a thing that, genuine, was worth 500 francs may, falsified, be disposed of at 5,000. There are suds and sauces and juices and varnishes that convert entirely new productions into art masterpieces of great age. Newly fabricated pieces are carried into "historical" country castles, whose owners lend themselves to the game, and the purchaser learns—for the proofs are convincing—that the rust-covered relic has been the property of an old noble family "for centuries."

Red Parasol Stopped Train.

London Daily Mail: A curious incident has come to light in connection with the stopping of a London express train on the Caledonian main line near Rockcliffe station, a few miles north of Carlisle. The train was running at full speed when the driver observed a red object by the side of the line which he regarded as a danger signal.

The train was accordingly pulled up, when it was found that the object in question as a red parasol carried by a woman who, wishing to cross at a level crossing, was awaiting the passing of the express.

AN ARCTIC CIRCLE DOCTOR.

London Daily News: Dr. James F. Rymer, a native of Croylon, will soon gain the distinction of being the first fully qualified English medical man to carry on professional work within the Arctic circle.

A few days ago, Dr. Rymer left Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, on a lonely journey of 1,800 miles along the Athabasca and Mackenzie rivers. His destination is Fort Good Hope, which is about 100 miles within the Arctic circle. He does not propose to return to civilization for at least three years.

Dr. Rymer's patients will be Indians and Esquimaux.

WHEAT HAS HEAVY TONE

Market is Soft During the Session in Duluth.

Flax is Indifferently Traded and Closed at Lower Prices.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 24.—Bearish news from the Northwest, liberal world's shipments and lower cables combined to make a weak wheat market in America today. The soft tone started at the opening and continued with scarcely a rally during the day in Duluth and Minneapolis, although some of the other markets became a little stronger during the last hour.

Reports from North Dakota and other parts of the Northwest today seemed to indicate that the crop this year was 20 to 25 per cent larger than last year's. There are also indications of a larger movement in the very near future.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 684,000 bus, and is now 16,828,000 bus against 51,518,000 bus a year ago. The visible supply of corn increased 43,000 bus, and is now 1,773,000 bus against 8,883,000 bus a year ago.

Liverpool closed ⅜d lower and Berlin 1c lower.

The September option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, unchanged in Chicago, 1c lower for new wheat in Minneapolis, ⅛c lower in New York and Kansas City, ⅛-¼c lower in St. Louis. The October option closed 2⅛c lower in Winnipeg. The December option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth, a shade lower in Chicago and Kansas City, ¼c to ⅜c lower in Minneapolis for new wheat, unchanged in New York and ¾c lower in St. Louis and Winnipeg.

September corn closed ½c lower in Chicago and ¼d lower in Liverpool. September oats closed ½c off in Chicago.

The World's shipments of wheat and corn last week, the week previous and the corresponding week a year ago are shown as follows:

	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Last Year.
WHEAT.
America	4,056,000	3,898,000	3,568,000
Russia	552,000	536,000	1,118,000

Argentina	1,327,000	1,406,000	1,674,000
Totals	1,966,000	1,902,000	4,704,000

Car receipts at Duluth were 7 against 9 last year, and at Minneapolis 374 against 155 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 381 against 164 last year. Winnipeg received 6 against 148 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,217,00 bus, last year 998,000 bush. Shipments were 494,000 bush, last year 414,000 bush. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 615,000 bush.

Primary receipts of corn were 635,000 bush, last year 577,000 bush. Shipments were 452,000 bush, last year 290,000 bush.

Selling of September wheat was quite heavy during the session in Duluth. It opened ¼c off from Saturday at $1 asked, declined to 98⅜c, rallied to 99½c, went off to 99c, and closed at 99⅜c, a loss of ⅞c from Saturday. December wheat opened unchanged at 97¼c, declined to 96¼c, rallied to 97¼c and closed at 97c, a loss of ⅛c from Saturday.

Durum wheat closed 2c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 8⅝c over September for No. 1 northern.

Flax was indifferently traded in and closed weak. September flax opened unchanged at $1.30 asked, declined to $1.28⅛ and rallied by the close to $1.28¾, a loss of ¼c from Saturday. October flax opened unchanged, at $1.28 asked, declined to $1.26½ and rallied by the close to $1.27, a loss of 1c from Saturday. November flax opened unchanged, at $1.27¾, declined to $1.26½ and rallied by the close to $1.27, a loss of ¾c from Saturday. December flax opened 1c off, at $1.25, went off to $1.24½ and closed there, a loss of 1½c from Saturday.

Rye was off and other coarse grains unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Weak Cables and Bearish Statistics Give Wheat Easy Opening.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The wheat market opened quiet and easy with prices off ⅛@⅜c compared with Saturday's final quotations. Weak cables, bearish weekly statistics, and greatly increased receipts at Minneapolis where arrivals today were 374 cars against 140 a week ago, were the principal reasons for moderate selling by pit traders in the local market. A firmer feeling developed early in the day on covering by shorts. From 92⅝c to 92¾c the opening price, September sold up to 93⅛c and December rallied to 94⅛c, after opening at 93⅜c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 485 cars against 332 cars last week and 371 cars a year ago.

The market became weak again on selling brought out by heavy receipts of wheat at Kansas City, September declining to 92⅝c and December to 93⅜c. Nearly all the loss was later regained on buying by commission houses, the market closing steady with prices unchanged to ¼c lower. September closed at 93c and December at 93⅞@94c.

Favorable weather for the maturing of the new crop had a weakening effect on the corn market, initial quotations being ⅛c to ⅜c lower than the previous. Trade in the September delivery was almost at a standstill and that in other options was very quiet. December showed the most weakness. After opening at 63⅝c to 65½@65⅝c, it sold at 65⅝c and then dropped back to 85⅛c. Local receipts were 350 cars with 93 of contract grade.

A decline of ½c to 1c in the price of the cash grain caused additional weakness, September dropping to 76¼c and December to 64¾c. The market closed weak at declines of ¼@⅜c to ½c. Final quotations on September were at 76½c and December 65⅜c.

Trading in oats was very slow and the market was easy in sympathy with corn. Prices at the start were off a shade to ⅛@¼c, September opening at 49c and December at 48½@48⅝c. Later September touched 48⅞@49c. Local receipts were 166 cars.

Provisions were quiet and steady, the weak tone of the grain markets having a depressing influence. September pork opened 2½c lower at $14.07½. Lard was unchanged to 2½c higher at $9.12½ to $9.15. Ribs were unchanged at $8.55.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Declines at Opening, Rallies a Cent, and Becomes Irregular.

Minneapolis, Aug. 24.—Wheat declined sharply at the opening, new September going to 98⅜c and old September to 98⅞c. Both options then rallied about a cent, after which the market was irregular. The main incentive to bearishness was the posting of local receipts of 374 cars against only 155 a year ago. Taking the Duluth receipts of 7 against 26; Chicago, 104 against 207, and the figures for Kansas City and St. Louis the movement was only moderately heavy, but Minneapolis got the big end and had to stand much selling. Local elevator stocks decreased 75,000 bushels for two days. World's shipments of 7,312,000 and an increase of 1,962,000 in the quantity afloat, together with a decline of ⅜d in Liverpool, were barish, but there was strength in the visible supply decrease of 634,000 bushels. September opened at 99@99¼c; high, 99¼c; low, 98⅜c; close, 98⅞c. Old September opened at 99½c; high, 99⅞c; low, 98⅞c; close, 99⅝c. December opened at 97⅝@97⅞c; high, 98@98⅛c; low, 97c; close, 97⅝@97⅞c. Old December, 99⅞c close. Cash wheat was 2c to 4c lower in actual price, also about a cent or two lower to arrive compared with the option. No. 1 northern brought $1.08¾ to $1.10 and to arrive it brought $1.03⅞ to $1.05½ according to whether it would arrive this week or next. There was a little No. 1 hard that sold at $1.09⅝@1.10. No. 2 northern ranged from $1.03 to $1.05¼. The velvet chaff was very weak and 96c was paid for No. 1 while No. 2 brought 93@94c, these prices being 5@7c under Saturday. Close: No. 1 northern spot, $1.05⅝; new to arrive, $1.02⅜; No. 2 northern spot, $1.02⅝; new to arrive, 99⅝c. No. 3 wheat, 99⅝c@$1.00⅝.

No. 3 yellow corn, 75¾c; No. 3 white oats, 46c; No. 2 rye, 72¼@73¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 163 cars. A lively market in a range of 54c to 60c, some forty cars going from 58c to 59c. Good malting was ½c lower, medium malting unchanged, feeding grades 1c lower. Close, 58@60c.

Flax—Receipts, 5 cars. Buyers bid for it and paid 1c over Duluth September for No. 1 on spot. Close, $1.29½.

Millstuffs quoted unchanged by millers, but the market tone was weaker. Bran in bulk, $19@19.50.

Flour is unsettled, but millers quoted unchanged today at the 20c decline of Saturday. The trade is working on to a new crop price basis, and better demand is expected once it is established. Shipments 34,934 barrels. First patents, $5.95@6.05; second patents, $5.80@5.90; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

New York Grain.

New York, Aug. 24.—Close: September, $1.01; December, $1.02⅛; May, $1.04⅝. Corn—September, 86¾c; December, 76¼c; May, 72⅝c.

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, Aug. 24.—Wheat: Spot closed steady; No. 2 red western winter, 7s 5½d; No. 1 California, no stock; futures steady; September, 7s 3⅞d; December, 7s 4⅞d. Corn—Spot steady; American mixed, old, 7s 3d; futures quiet; September, 5s 8¼d.

NEW ROOM IS OPENED

Handsome Trading Floor at Board of Trade in Use.

Other News and Gossip of the Trading Floor.

The handsome new trading room in the board of trade building was used for the first time today.

Instead of going to the stuffy temporary place on the ground floor at the opening of the market, the traders took the elevators to the new top floor of the building and went to the section wherein has been constructed during the past two months or so, one of the finest trading rooms in the country.

Everything in the room is new from the quotation boards, set high on one side after the fashion of all other large exchanges now, to the highly varnished pit.

Large windows on two sides give glorious light to the new apartment, which towers two stories above the rest of the building and insures ample light for the inspection of cash grain samples.

The visitors' gallery was crowded during the morning session today. Friends and relatives of the members and other visitors went to watch the operations in the new pit and admire the improvements.

The directors of the board are thinking of opening the room to the public some evening in the near future, when the members will hold a reception for their friends.

The first car of new spring wheat to be received in the Duluth market came this morning. It was a fine car of No. 1 northern and was consigned to Ely-Salyards & Co.

This grain came from North Dakota and its appearance and quality showed that it had not suffered from the unfavorable weather which struck the growing crop at one time during the season.

The car was promptly bought by the Duluth Universal Milling company, selling at $1.09½ a bushel.

W. A. Prince of New York, representing Wilcox, Breck & Hughes, marine insurance agents, was on the new floor during the session today. Mr. Prince is being entertained while in the city by G. A. Tomlinson.

Mr. Prince is well known in marine insurance and vessel circles, his firm handling most of the marine insurance, both as cargoes and hulls,in the world. He is in Duluth on business for his company.

Harvey H. Brown of Cleveland and C. W. Synder of Pittsburg, both of whom are interested in vessels on the Great Lakes, are also in the city and were visitors on the floor during the morning.

Charles H. Thornton received reports this morning from Bottineau and other points in North Dakota, to the effect that there was a frost there Saturday night.

The reports stated, however, that it was so light that even the late potato vines and corn was uninjured by it and no apprehension over the results of the snap is felt by the trade.

Charles T. Nolan, manager of the flax department of the National Lead company, has been in Duluth for the past few days. He is looking into the flax situation in the Northwest. Mr. Nolan is well satisfied with the crop, as indications are now, and thinks that prices are about right. The National Lead company is a big buyer of flax in the local market.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

But Closed Near the Highest Point of the Session.

Considerable Pressure Against Certain Stocks Had Bearish Effect.

New York, Aug. 24.—The stock market opened under pressure but there was an absence of the exciting speculation of Saturday. Severe pressure was noted only against a few stocks such as Northern Pacific, which lost 2⅜, Reading 2 and Great Northern preferred, and Amalgamated Copper 1. The Harriman stocks, Rock Island, St. Paul and Pennsylvania were well supported. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred gained 1½.

Buying by the short interest caused a quick rally and Reading recovered 1½ and American Smelting sold 1 above Saturday's closing. Renewed liquidation in Amalgamated Copper and other recently weak stocks caused another sharp decline, and there was considerable pressure against stocks which had been supported at the opening, such as St. Paul and the Harrimans. Amalgamated Copper fell 2⅛ below last week's closing, Great Northern preferred 1⅝, New York Central 1½, St. Paul 1⅜, Louisville & Nashville 1¼ and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, American Smelting preferred, Anaconda, National Lead, United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric and Republic Steel preferred 1. American Snuff sold 20 points below its previous sale. The market rallied a fraction before 11 o'clock and became very dull.

Some belated declines reaching a point occurred in some of the specialties, but the general market was inert and devoid of special movement. Prices ruled about ½ above the low figure of the morning. Bonds were irregular.

The absence of any sustained pressure enabled prices to harden slowly so that a considerable portion of the morning declines was made up. The Harriman stocks were in good demand again and sold slightly above Saturday's closing.

Liquidation of Rock Island stocks and bonds, caused another setback in prices, but the general market afterwards recovered its lost ground when Southern Pacific was pushed above 99. Rock Island lost 1⅝, the 4 per cent bonds 1 and the 5s 1½. Lackawanna sold at 500 compared with 518, the previous sale. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie preferred gained 4½. The close was steady. The advance in the market was maintained until well into the final hour. Southern Pacific improving 1⅜. Pressed Steel Car 1½, and Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific 1; other stocks scored fractional advances, including New York Central, which touched $1.04¾ and then reacted a point, dragging down the rest of the list with it. Union Pacific lost its gain, but near the end the rise was in progress again all around.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 24.—The cotton market opened easy with August unchanged with later months 9 to 14 points lower, owing to poor cables, good weather and fear of spot weakness. Trading was fairly active at the decline, which carried months later than October to a new low level for the movement. During the middle of the morning there was a rally of 5 or 6 points from the lowest on covering of shorts and a moderate demand from reactionists. The very unfavorable trade accounts frob abroad were among the depressing influences.

Is there any stock on the board that equals Butte & Superior for strength at the present time. It sold up to $1.62 today and at the close we have orders on file for something like 16,000 shares. It is going much higher. Buy it to a standstill. Only two weeks and the big Black Rock vein will be opened on the 1,000 and 1,200-foot levels. The big fellows have now started to take on this one.

BALLAKLAVA will soon do a few things that will open up the eyes of many of our big mining men. We have been able to pick some of the best winners on the board and this one will pass anything put on in the last several years.

SHATTUCK is a dandy for big advance.

GREENE-CANANEA. I think will stop at $11.00 and should be good from there for a couple of points.

SUPERIOR & PITTSBURG looks very good to me at $13.50, and think it is a buy.

Don't worry! North Butte is the leader of them all and the big showing on the 2,200 will make this one sell through $100 later on.

CARMAN strong at $3 to $3.25.

RED WARRIOR and MOWITZA very firm at bid prices.

WOMEN FOR PARAGUAY.

Boston Transcript: Paraguay is rich in local color. The picturesque character of the native population with their quaint Indian features and habits of everyday life are interesting to anybody fond of observing strange phases of human life. By nature these people are patient and gentle, seldom complaining, chattering and laughing from sunrise to sunset and taking small thought of what the morrow may have in store for them.

It is hard to imagine how Lopez could have drilled them into fighting material of strength enough to keep in check the combined forces of Argentina, Brazil and Uraguay for five long weary years, and it speaks volumes for the indemitable energy of the man that he was able to sustain his position for so protracted a time.

Clothing is very much of a superfluity in Paraguay. The attire of the women is a cotton chemise with a long sheetlike shawl, or manta, passed over the head and around the body in Moorish fashion. The dress of the men is equally simple, consisting only of cotton shirt and trousers. Both sexes are guiltless of foot covering. At times an almost uncanny feeling rises when a group of these white robed, dark haired maidens pass suddenly with the silent tread of unshod feet.

Of a morning in the market places the women folk flock to sell their wares, carrying on their heads the baskets containing the few cents worth of native produce they have been able to gather together for disposal in the towns. The soft Guarani language, the common tongue of the Paraguayans, adds further charm to the scene.

WOMAN BUILT A BUNGALOW.

Los Angeles Times: A neat little bungalow located in the outskirts of Long Beach, built by a pretty little woman, is attracting attention. The builder is Mrs. Frank Nottingham, who is a prominent worker in the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Gertrude Gilbert, matron for the Y. W. C. A., wanted a home, owned a lot and had about $120 with which to erect a house. She knew this would be impossible if she were compelled to hire carpenters at $3 a day. Mrs. Nottingham talked the matter over with her and finally said she would undertake to build it and would not charge her a penny for her labor.

Though she had never built so much as a chicken house before, the plucky woman was confident. Armed with a rusty saw, hatchet, plane and level, she started to work. She devoted exactly 100 hours to the undertaking, and a short time ago turned the house over to its owner. The bungalow is 18 by 20 feet in dimensions and contains seven windows and two doors. Mrs. Nottingham had no assistance, placing the big heavy rafters alone and performing feats a carpenter would shun.

"My mother was handy with a hammer," said Mrs. Nottingham, "but other than this I cannot explain my ability to drive a nail."

No one is apt to think more highly of a store than its owner does—hence his advertising should be so big that it will reflect his belief in his store's importance—and so continuous that it will have the force of iteration.

NO TRACE OF POISON.

Charges Against Woman of Poisoning Stepdaughter Weakened.

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 24.—The pathological examination of the stomach and esophagus of Beulah Wright of Derrick, N. D., for whose arrest Mrs. Mary Wright is in the county jail here, showed no trace of poison, Prof. Babcock of the University of North Dakota has reported to State's Attorney Serumgaard, after an examination. The stomach and esophagus have been forwarded to Minneapolis, and it is thought possible that something may be found there. There was absolutely no indication of death by poisoning, and there is no possibility that the girl swallowed carbolic acid, with which her lips had been burned.

It is claimed that the girl had complained of her heart, but an examination after the death of the girl showed her heart, brains, lungs, kidneys, liver and other organs to be in a normal condition. There was no evidence, it is stated, of poisoning, strangulation or infection.

OF INTEREST TO FISHERMEN

Many Streams Will be Stocked With Roosevelt Golden Trout.

Washington, Aug. 24.—A promise is held out by the United States fish commission that within a few years one of the gamiest and showiest species of the fish kingdom probably will be caught out of a thousand streams in all parts of the country whereas it now is to be found in but one and that most remote brook.

This rare fish has been named the Roosevelt golden trout (salme Roosevelti Evermann) because of President Roosevelt's efforts to preserve it from threatened extermination. The Roosevelt golden trout at present is the product solely of Wolcano creek, a turbulent water course of sixteen miles in length on the slopes of Mount Whitney, Cal.

About two years ago some of President Roosevelt's friends in California knowing his great interest in the preservation of game and fish appealed to him to save from extermination this most beautiful of the fish family. Responding to the appeal, President Roosevelt took up the matter with the United States fish commission. After repeated efforts the commission obtained a number of the trout to be sent to the fish cultural stations at Bozeman, Mont., and Leadville, Colo., for propagation. Encouraging news has been received from these stations to the effect that a sufficient quantity of eggs has been obtained for hatching to stock trout streams in different parts of the country.

WILL NOT LAST MUCH LONGER

Take Advantage of The Heralds' Popular Priced Excursions.

The opportunity of enjoying one of The Herald's excursions up the St. Louis river to Fond du Lac, or down the lake thirty miles to Two Harbors, will not be afforded much longer. The excursion season will soon end and you will have cause for regret if you do not enjoy thes final trips.

The next excursions to be run by The Herald occur tomorrow. The steamer Newsboy will leave Fifth avenue dock at 9 a. m. for Fond du Lac, and the steamer Mascotte will leave the same dock for the same destination at 2 a. m. The fare is only 25 cents.

The steamer America will leave Booth's dock at 4 p. m., for a thirty-mile run down the lake, including an hour's stop at Two Harbors and a return by moonlight. The fare is only 30 cents.

Tickets are now on sale at The Herald office. Buy early, as the sale will be limited. Give your family and your company a delightful outing before the season ends.

Norwegian Steamer Sinks.

Bergen, Norway, Aug. 24.—The Norwegian steamer Folge Donden, from Bergen to Haugesund, on the west coast of Norway, was wrecked Saturday night near Skoneviks and sank in three minutes. The steamer carried seventy passengers, and it is believed that forty of them were drowned. Fifteen bodies have been recovered. The captain of the steamer was among those saved.

Has Ugly Fall.

Gust Mahlen, an employe of the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, was taken suddenly ill last night while walking along First street, near Third avenue east. He fell from the sidewalk and plunged head foremost into a hollow several feet deep. It was some time before he was discovered lying there unconscious. The police took him in charge and he remained at the central station over night. His mind seemed to be partly blank as a result of the fall, and he could not tell where he lived. This morning he had recovered, and was released.

Croker a Burgess.

Dublin, Aug. 24.—Richard Croker today became an honorary burgess of Dublin. He signed the roll and received a lord mayor's certificate granting him the freedom of the city.

EDITORS ARE IN THE CITY

They Enjoy Boat Ride, and Drive Around the Boulevard.

President Mayes Says the Trip is an Eye-Opener.

Refreshed by a good night's slumber, such as enly Duluth people enjoy during the hot summer months, the members of the National Editorial association were on hand bright and early this morning for their ride up the river on the steamer Newsboy.

They arrived in the city last evening in a special train over the Northern Pacific road, and have already caught the Duluth fever. They will be entertained while here by the Commercial club, which arranged the river ride this morning, the dinner at the branch boat club at noon and the drive around the boulevard this afternoon. They will leave this evening at 9 o'clock for Winnipeg, where they will spend one day, and then the majority of them will pass through the city Wednesday on their way home.

With the members of their families there are more than 300 on the trip, which they say has been the most enjoyable of any yet undertaken.

They are on a sightseeing and educational trip, and they don't fail to show it. They want to know about eevrything, and they throw the questions at any one they meet. A Herald reporter who visited the dock this morning, and who was just as busy as could be watching for William H. Mayes, the president of the organization, in the hope of getting an interview, was made to forget what he was there for and made the victim of about six interested editors, who were bound to know all he knew.

They thought it quite appropriate that they should take a trip on a boat called the Newsboy, and a great many wondered if it were named especially for the occasion.

When asked for a talk, Mr. Mayes said: "I have been so busy taking in everything about your city that I haven't had time to say a word yet; it's all such a wonderful place. You know we have all heard a great deal about Duluth, but we have never had impressed on our minds that Duluth is as great as she is. It's an eye-opener to most of us, and we are mighty glad we came.

"There are so many fine things about your city that it is almost impossible to talk of them all. Last night we enjoyed the finest night's sleep that we have had since we left home. Your cool evenings are great. No wonder your people are such a hustling, bustling, energetic lot. Then your water, that's the best thing of all. They say it's the best drinking water in the world, and I believe it.

"I live way down in Texas, so you see the change of climate is very noticeable. Your great shipping business, elevators, aerial bridge, are all very great. The only thing that does not impress me favorably is your country as a farming community. Of course if I moved here I suppose it wouldn't be long until I was the biggest booster in the country; but from the first glance it does not strike me as very much along this line.

"Our trip? Oh, yes, it has been the best ever. We have done a lot of sight seeing; in fact, that's all we have done. We had very little business to transact, so that most of the time has been pleasure. Next year we intend to visit Seattle, and maybe Alaska."

The editors will leave tonight for International Falls, Fort Frances and Winnipeg, going over the tracks of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg and the Canadian Northern roads.

The officers of the association are: President, William H. Mayes, Brownwood, Texas; first vice president, A. N. Pomeroy, Cammerlin, Pa.; second vice president, R. E. Dowdell, Artesian, S. D.; third vice president, F. B. Call, Jamestown, Penn.; corresponding secretary, W. F. Parrott, Waterloo, Iowa; recording secretary, R. H. Walker, Athens, Ala.; treasurer, Will Curtis, Keewaunee, Ill.

The association is thirty-three years old and was promoted by a Minnesota man, B. B. Herbert of Red Wing. Last Sunday a new building was dedicated to the newspaper business on the site of the old newspaper shop that Mr. Herbert conducted at the time he planned the editorial association.

The main meeting place this year was St. Paul.

Why James Lee Got Well.

Everybody in Zanesville, O., knows Mrs. Mary Lee, of rural route 8. She writes: "My husband, James Lee, firmly believes he owes his life to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery. His lungs were so severely affected that consumption seemed inevitable, when a friend recommended New Discovery. We tried it, and its use has restored him to perfect health." Dr. King's New Discovery is the King of throat and lung remedies. For coughs and colds it has no equal. The first dose gives relief. Try it! Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

SHIPLOAD OF ACTORS.

Many Theatrical Stars Return From Vacations in Europe.

New York, Aug. 24.—Actors and actresses thronged the decks and cabins of the Philadelphia of the American line, which arrived here Saturday from Europe by way of Cherbourg, Southampton and Plymouth, and as they filed onto the pier from the liner the scene was suggestive of the Broadway rialto.

Among those arriving were William Faversham and Mrs. Faversham, who is known as Julie Opp on the stage; "Ted" Marks, who will take the Majestic theatter for his Sunday night concerts; Miss Rose Melville, known more widely as "Sis" Hopkins; Marcus Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Barnes, who have just finished an engagement at the Empire music hall, London; Harold Enthwistle, a playwright; Miss Beatrice Forbes Robertson, a niece of Forbes Robertson, the actor, who will appear here in "The Mollusk."

Capt. Lionel Walsh, an English actor who wears a Victoria cross which he won for gallantry in the Boer war, and who wants to play a distinctively American character, was also on the liner with Frank Goldsmith, who will be in John Drew's company; Frank Wilstach, Mrs. Leslie Carter's business representative, who, with his wife, has been on an extended automobile tour in Europe with Rose Melville; Miss Belle Davis, whose pickanninies won a success in Europe and who will replace several who left her there; Miss Blanche Garbett, a violinist, and the Langweed sisters.

Mr. Faversham, who has been spending several months at his country place in Surrey, brought with him several new plays which he says he will produce here during the coming season. He will produce them first at Daly's theater, which he has sublet from the Shuberts for the season.

Your Wife Her Favorite Newspaper.

IT IS a fair assumption that nearly every woman in Duluth reads The Herald every night. Being an evening newspaper, The Herald arrives at a time when the women have leisure for reading. The Herald, too, has for years published a class of news appealing particularly to women. In addition The Herald's advertising columns have attracted thousands of women readers. In The Herald they have learned to expect all the best announcements of the big and little advertisers at home and from abroad. Any advertiser who wishes to reach the women of Duluth, can do so completely by using The Herald and only by so doing.

COMMISSIONER FINDS NO NEGLECT BY JEROME IN PERFORMING HIS DUTIES

Reports to Governor Exonerating District Attorney in Every Point.

Recommends That the Charges Against Him be Dismissed.

Governor Will Consider Matter and Render His Decision.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Richard L. Hand of Elizabethtown, who was appointed by Governor Hughes to take testimony and report his findings upon the charges filed against District Attorney William Travers Jerome of New York county, by a minority stockholder's committee of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, in a report submitted to the governor, finds that not one of the series of charges is proved, but that all are disproved upon the evidence. He recommends the dismissal of the charges. A request was made for Mr. Jerome's removal.

"My conviction upon the whole case," says Mr. Hand in his report, "is that the respondent has been shown to have discharged the onerous duties of his office with zeal and ability, having the public good as his motive and that no incapacity, indifference or neglect of duty has been shown in any case."

Twenty-three charges were filed against District Attorney Jerome on April 16 last, and three additional charges on June 16. Later ten of the charges were withdrawn.

The commissioner sustains the contentions of District Attorney Jerome in every charge, stating at the conclusion of many of them that he could find no neglect on the part of the district attorney or any good reason for other or further action than that which was taken by him. The charges in the main accused the district attorney of alleged neglect of duty in not sufficiently prosecuting alleged fraudulent acts of the Metropolitan street and other railway companies of New York, and also of the

WILL ACCEPT THIRTY YEARS

As New Lease of Life for Duluth Street Railway.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Officials of the Duluth Street Railway company yesterday noon withdrew their amendment to articles of incorporation. Several days ago an amendment was offered extending the life of the corporation for fifty years from date. Secretary of State Schmahl refused to receive the papers, as all corporations, except those having the right of eminent domain, can be incorporated for only thirty years. He referred the matter to the attorney general, and it is expected that George Simpson, the assistant attorney general, will decide the question in a few days.

The company originally incorporated for fifty years and the statute says that a company can be incorporated for the time mentioned in the first incorporation. This fifty-year period has twenty-three years yet to run, but the company comes in and asks for new articles for fifty years from date. It is expressed about the attorney general's office that the legal life of the present corporation is only thirty years, or three more years. It is also figured that the railway company realizes this and is asking for a long life at this time to avoid any questions at the termination of the first thirty years. Their withdrawal of the amendment is taken to mean that the officers of the company will accept an additional thirty years rather than have an adverse ruling by the attorney general.

MAY NOT JOIN HIS PARENTS

Boy Who Stayed in Holland Held Up in New York.

New York, Aug. 25.—After staying behind in Holland to take care of his grandmother, Jacob Trass, 17 years old, whose parents settled in Sheboygan, Wis., three years ago, now finds himself liable to be deported from the land his father adopted as his own. The boy got here on the Statendam. He passed the marine doctors all right, but was held up by an immigration inspector for a medical examination because of defective speech.

Three years ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Trass came to this country, it was necessary for some one to stay behind in Newmansdorf, Holland, and take care of the grandmother. Jacob and another brother volunteered to remain. Recently conditions changed, and Jacob was able to get away. He embarked on the Statendam with some friends of the family.

A VICTORY FOR WHISKY

Imitation Goods Can No Longer Masquerade as Real Stuff.

Government Wins Important Decision on Branding Spirits.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 25.—By the decision of Judge Thompson in the United States court yesterday afternoon, the government wins the contest it has been waging with the local distilleries in order to compel them to brand as imitation whisky the rapid process product, which for many years has been on the market under the name of whiskey.

The action of the government has been the outcome of the new pure food law and the determination to make it effective.

The decision is rendered in the suit of the Union Distilling company for an injunction of restraining orders to stop Internal Revenue Collector Bettmann and the revenue employes here from carrying into effect here the new rules regulating the branding of distilled spirits.

STATE INSURANCE COMMISSIONERS

Meet for Thirty-Ninth Convention at Detroit, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 25.—The thirty-ninth annual convention of the National Association of State Insurance Commissioners opened here today with twenty-five states represented. Mayor William B. Thompson and Former Mayor William C. Maybury, delivered addresses of welcome, and Commissioner J. A. Hartingan of Minnesota, responded. Prominent on the first day's program were addresses by the president of the association, Rean T. Folk of Tennessee, and Commissioner Thomas B. Love of Texas. Mr. Love spoke on the Texas investment law.

In his annual address as president, Commissioner Folk favored state supervision of insurance as against national supervision, on the ground that the latter would be too centralizing in its tendency and would be further removed from direct contact with the people. He said: Federal supervision could not be adopted without an amendment of the Federal Constitution, the supreme court having held that insurance is not commerce.

MRS. GOULD SUES N. Y. TRADESMAN

Alleges She Was Damaged $50,000 by a Process Server.

New York, Aug. 25—It was learned today that Mrs. Howard Gould has brought suit for $50,000 against Frank A. McLaughlin, a Fifth avenue tradesman, who, she alleges, through a process server, injured her to that extent. Failing to collect a bill from Mrs. Gould, for various articles he had made for her, McLaughlin began suit to recover the amount he said was due him. On July 31, last the process server, attempted to serve a summons on Mrs. Gould, and in her complaint, Mrs. Gould alleges that he wantonly, maliciously and cruelly insulted her as a result of which she says she sustained severe nervous shock and injury to the extent of the damages asked in her suit.

ONE OF CANDIDATE TAFT'S "CANNED" SPEECHES DEALS WITH FOREIGN MISSIONS

Record is Called a "Little Sermon in a Phonograph."

Speaks of Missions From Standpoint of Political Advancement.

Minneapolis Polish Club Promises Taft Its Support.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 25.—"A little sermon in a phonograph," is what one of the phonographic records recently made by Judge Taft is called. The generally expressed curiosity to know what the Republican candidate said into the talking machine was gratified today by this reproduction:

"I have known a good many people who were opposed to foreign missions. I have known a good many regular attendants at church—consistent members—that religiously, if you choose to use that term, refused to contribute to foreign missions. I confess that there was a time when I was enjoying a smug provincialism that I hope has left me now when I rather sympathized with that view. Until I went to the Orient, until there was thrust upon me the responsibilities with reference to the extension of civilization in those far distant lands, I did not realize the immense importance of foreign missions. The truth is, we have got to wake up in this country. We are not all there is in the world. There are lots besides us and there are lots of people besides us that are entitled to our effort and our money and our sacrifice to help them on in the world. No man can study the movement of modern civilization from an impartial standpoint and not realize that christianity and the spread of christianity are the only basis for hope of modern civilization in the growth of popular

ROBBED ARE INDIGNANT

Victims of Hold-Up in Yellowstone Park Pass Resolutions.

Ask Government Why Citizens Are Not Protected There.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 25.—One highwayman, wearing a black mask, held up and robbed the passengers of seven stage coaches in Yellowstone Park, at a point only a few miles distant from the Old Faithful Inn, near the upper basin, according to telephonic advices received yesterday afternoon. The coaches left the hotel in the usual order, at intervals of a few minutes, and were held up one after the other, as fast as they came in sight. The highwayman was stationed at a bend in the road, where he was invisible from either direction. At the point of a rifle he lined up the passengers and, after releaving them of money and valuables, allowed them to enter the stage and resume the journey. This performance the bandit enacted seven times. It is understood that he collected in all more than $1,000. The fact that tourists in the park are not permitted to carry weapons made it impossible for any of the passengers or drivers to render resistance. The rob-

THE GUESTS OF AMBASSADOR

Senators and Representatives Are Entertained by White.

Paris, Aug. 25.—Ambassador White gave a luncheon today to Senator Daniel of Virginia, Representatives Vreeland of New York and Overstreet of Indiana, members of the sub-committee of the national monetary commission, who have come over here from London to study the monetary systems of France.

M. Pallian, governor of the Bank of Frange, and Baron Brincard, administrator of the Credit Lyonnais, were also guests at the luncheon. The members of the sub-committee spent the afternoon in the two institutions named, examining the French system of finance. They gained extensive and hopeful information.

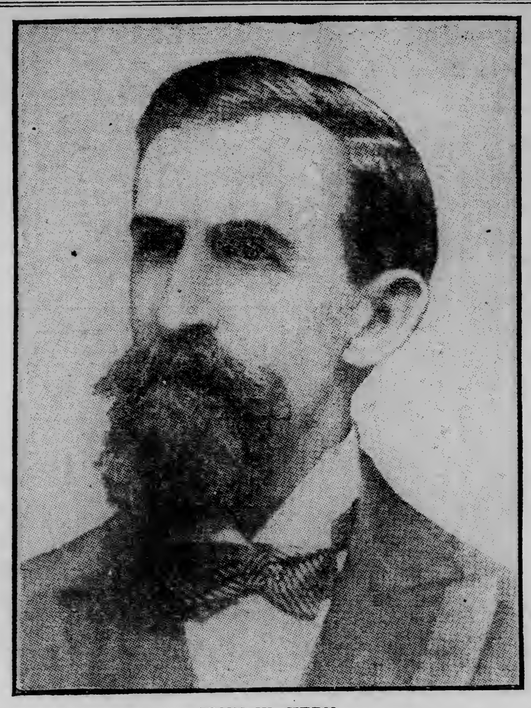
Ambassador White is about to leave for Scotland, for ten days' outing in the highlands.

DEAD FROM STARVATION

Colored Murderer at Chicago Refused to Eat and Expires.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—C. W. Williams, colored, who murdered Mrs. L. B. Briggs, recently by beating her over the head with a chair, died of starvation and exhaustion in the county jail today. Williams' mind already impaired, gave way under the excitment of reports of the race war at Springfield, Ill., and the murder of Mrs. Briggs followed. At the jail he raved continuously, refusing food and fighting his guards. His death ensued.

KERN ACCEPTS NOMINATION AND DEPRECATES POWER OF SPEAKER ON LEGISLATION



JOHN W. KERN,
Notified of His Selection by the Denver Convention as Candidate for the Vice Presidency.

Will of People Thwarted by Arbitrary Tactics of House Ruler.

Republicans Determined That People Shall Not Rule.

Great Crowds Attend Notification Ceremonies at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Aug. 25.—John Worth Kern, Democratic candidate for vice president, was notified formally today of his nomination. The meeting was held in the elaborately decorated coliseum at the state fair grounds, and was attended by many thousands of people regardless of party, attracted by the distinguished speakers on the program. The weather was ideal, clear and cool, with a pleasant breeze that swept over the grounds.

Ten traction lines and fourteen railroads brought the people on regular and special trains. Five hundred cars transported the crowd from the city to the fair grounds and back. The coliseum recently built of brick and steel accommodates 15,000 people, and arrangements were made early in the day to hold overflow meetings, if necessary. William J. Bryan and other speakers, members of the notification committee appointed at the Denver convention, members of the national committee headed by Norman E. Mack and others of the official party, arrived last night and on early morning trains. At a conference held last night in which Mr. Bryan, Mr. Mack, Mr. Kern and members of the national and congressional committees and others participated, campaign matters were discussed.

Morning Conferences.

The morning hours today were devoted to conferences by party leaders, while a band concert at the Denison hotel assisted in amusing the crowds that poured through the corridors. Later a reception was held by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Kern in the hotel parlors.

The program for the day included luncheon at the hotel by the speakers and members of the national and notification committees, after which the official party was driven to the state fair grounds in automobiles, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Kern and Chairman Bell of the

REPUBLICANS INDIFFERENT TO REFORMS, SAYS BRYAN

Nebraskan Exposes Dominant Party's Neglect on Trust Questions.

Indianapolis, Aug. 25.—William J. Bryan in his speech at the notification of J. W. Kern today spoke as follows:

Nowhere does the Republican party show its indifference to real reform more than in its treatment of the trust question.

The Sherman anti-trust law was passed eighteen years ago; it has a criminal clause which provides a penitentiary punishment for those who conspire together in restraint of trade. Most of the trusts have never been disturbed, and those that have been prosecuted have not had their business seriously interrupted. The president has done something toward the enforcement of the law, but not nearly enough, and the Republican leaders have thwarted him at every point. Finally the president became so exasperated that he sent to congress a message which shocked Republican leaders by the fierceness of its denunciation of the predatory interests. The very convention that spoke in its platform of the administration as "a wise and fearless one," was composed largely of the senators and members of congress who boldly opposed every effort to free the

HOLDING HIS OWN.

ALL PARTIES ARE PRESENT

The City of Topeka, Kan., Is Full of Politicians.

Republicans, Democrats, Prohibitionists and Socialists Gather.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 25.—Topeka is full of politicians today. Leaders of the Republican, Democratic, Prohibition and Socialist parties are here to organize for the campaign and formulate their platforms and to ratify the nominations made at the recent primaries.

While the various parties will not have their labors completed before evening, the chairmen and secretaries of the central committees were agreed upon, and the platforms were practically written in over-night caucuses. The Republicans named J. N. Dolly of Maple Hill for chairman of the state central committee, and William Beck of Holton secretary. The platform will strongly indorse the present administration, state and national. A plank will be included pledging the party to the enactment of a guaranty deposit law.

Senator C. I. Long will speak at the Republican meeting this afternoon in opposition to the bank deposit guaranty deposit plank. He takes the ground that it is a Populistic doctrine and opposed by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft.

The Democrats have selected Henderson Marton of Marion for chairman of the state central committee, and W. H. T. Pepperill of Concordia, secretary.

Magoon Visits President.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 25.—Charles E. Magoon, governor of Cuba, and D. L. Cease of New York, visited the president today. Governor Magoon came he said, to make a detailed report to Mr. Roosevelt on Cuban affairs and the process of the work preliminary to the withdrawal of American control from the island and the turning over of the government to the Cubans on the first of next February.

PIRATICAL CRAFT TAKEN BY POLICE

Little Boat From Escanaba Caught With Stolen Goods.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 25.—When the little steamer Monroe of Escanaba made port late Sunday afternoon with Capt. Frank Schilenberg and John Cummings aboard, a party of local officers were waiting for her and after the craft had been moored, the boat was taken possession of by the officers and the men held for larceny.

The seizure was made on the complaint of Escanaba officers that the boat was engaged in piratical work along the shore. The officers claimed that the craft would be run in at a port and everything of value within sight would be loaded aboard while dock hands were not looking and the boat would then steam out again. At Eagle Island, the last port where the boat stopped, the iron work from a wreck which had been gathered as salvage, was loaded aboard and the boat headed for Menominee. When searched the boat had articles of every description aboard, including new axes, ax handles and other tools, parts of marine engines and equipment and a lot of scrap brass and iron. Several loaded rifles were also aboard. The men were taken to Escanaba.

ENTERTAINED WITH SPORTS

Australians Furnish Exhibitions for Fleet's Officers and Men.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 25.—Although it was cold and showery this morning, 400 American officers and men were entertained at an excursion, going in two special trains to the Illawarra district. Lake Illawarra, a beautiful land locked coastal lake, fifty miles from Sydney, was visited and the excursionists were given an opportunity to view the delightful rural surroundings and the splendid coal-bearing territory. Another party of 300 was entertained at a public picnic in the great national park, which lies seventeen miles from Sydney, and contains 36,000 acres, and is noted for its beautiful scenery. At the agricultural show grounds hundreds of officers and men and great crowds from Sydney, headed by Admiral Sir Harry Rawson, the lieutenant governor, attended a gymkana, made up of distinctly Australian sports.

There were exhibitions of boomerang throwing by six Queensland Aborginlees, who previously had performed privately before Lord Northcote, the governor general and senior officers of the fleet, and contests in wood chopping, buck jumping, bullock riding and other sports of the country.

The Brazilian consul general today held a reception for the officers of the fleet and officials and prominent people of Sydney.

RAILROADS

MOVEMENT IS HEAVIER

Big Ore Shipments Are Being Made By the Missabe Road.

The Record For Last Week Was 325,000 Tons.

Heavy ore shipments are being made every day over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad.

Last week the record was approximately 325,000 tons. Last month the total shipments reached 1,625,000 tons. At the present time the ore is being hauled over the road just as fast as the boats can handle it. It is a question of how many boats are up here to take the ore, for the officials of the road will send all the ore that can be handled at the docks.

There is an increased demand for ore at the lower end of the lakes. The demand is regulated by the increased demand for iron in the industrial world. It is believed that the ore movement will be heavy this fall.

GOVERNMENT WINS.

Safety Appliance Railroad Law is Declared Constitutional.

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—Two sweeping opinions, noteworthy in that the decisions of the lower courts were reversed in full in each case, were handed down by the United States court of appeals here today, sustaining the positions of the government against the railroads in the matter of the safety appliance law of congress. The cases decided were those of the government against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad company, and of the government against the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company.

By these decisions the court of appeals abrogates the common law rules of "Reasonable care," that have heretofore governed, and behind which the railroads sought shelter, and upholds in full the acts of congress which, the opinions hold, now totally supplant the common law rules.

In the two cases decided, different grounds of defense were tried, that the railroads might contest against the safety appliance acts from every possible point. The Denver & Rio Grande case was argued before the lower courts on demurrers, while the Santa Fe case was tried by a jury. The railroads won both decisions in the lower courts.

The syllabus in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe case lays down the new rules of law under the acts of congress, as follows:

"The safety appliance law of congress imposes upon a railway company, in the situations in which it is applicable, and absolute duty to maintain the prescribed coupling appliances in operative condition, and is not satisfied by reasonable care to that end."

It is believed the decisions will have a wide effect on railroad suits at law in the future.

Test Case.

New York, Aug. 25.—Four suits in which the interstate commerce commission is made defendant were filed by railroad companies in the United States circuit court here yesterday. The suits are to test the constitutionality of the order issued by the commission on March 4 last putting into effect the provisions of the employes' hours of service law. They are brought by the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. The plaintiffs claim that the order in question was adopted without their being given the hearing which they requested, that the sworn reports which they are required to give place them liable to a penalty and virtually compels them to furnish evidence against themselves. They further claim that the commission is not vested with authority to order sworn reports.

Will Have Boat Ride.

The boat ride of the Northern Railway club, which was scheduled to be held last Saturday evening, but which was postponed, will be held Saturday evening, Aug. 29. The members of the club will leave on the steamer America for Two Harbors and return. Specials will be run from Proctor and the secretary of the club has requested that the Two Harbor's members of of the club come down on the special and take the ride from here to Two Harbors and return.

Directors' Meeting.

A meeting of the directors of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad is being held in Marquette today. The election of officers will be held.

Railroad Notes.

Harry Wyand, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago Great Western railroad is in the city today.

Arnold B. Hill, general agent of the passenger department of the Lehigh Valley railroad is in Duluth today.

DONS THREE ARMY UNIFORMS DAILY

Capt. Hains Keeps Up His Daily Routine in Jail.

New York, Aug. 25.—Capt. P. C. Hains, Jr., who shot and killed William E. Annis, is keeping up the order of his life in the army as much as possible in the Queens county jail, according to a statement made today by one of his counsel. The attorney said that the captain had three of his army uniforms in his cell and makes his changes of uniform daily as he would at Fort Hancock. He dons his service uniform in the morning, the fatigue uniform after lunch and about dress parade time changes to his dress uniform, and walks up and down the corridor in front of his cell. He retires at "taps."

The testimony of only two witnesses will be offered by the prosecution when the Hains brothers are arraigned before a magistrate for a preliminary hearing on Friday, if District Attorney Darrin carries out his present plans. They will be Dr. Walter G. Frey, the coroner's physician who performed the autopsy on Annis' body, and Charles N. Roberts, a close friend of Annis, who declared that T. Jenkins Hains prevented him from going to Annis' aid when Capt. Hains shot Annis.

Mr. Darrin said he would oppose acceptance of bail for the prisoner.

NORTH DAKOTA JOBBERS AIR THEIR COMPLAINTS.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—To determine whether the railroads entering into North Dakota discriminate against the wholesalers and jobbers, the state railway commission met here today at the request of the commercial bodies of this city and other places in the state. The wholesalers claim that the roads discriminate on the distance tariffs to this state in favor of the Twin Cities. The chief complaint is made by the wholesalers and jobbers, though other interests are represented. The commission will take up the hearing this afternoon and after the North Dakota merchants have stated their case, representatives of the railroads will be given a chance to state the other side.

The Commercial club filed the rates in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois to show that the North Dakota jobbers are discriminated against. The commission will call a later meeting and serve notice on the railroads to show cause why such reductions should not be made effective.

Men Past Sixty In Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." HORSE STRUCK BY STREET CAR

J. E. Rocklin Injured in Accident and Sues Street Railway Company.

J. E. Rocklin filed suit in district court this morning against the Duluth Street Railway company for $1,918 for injuries alleged to have been sustained through the carelessness and recklessness of a motorman of one of the company's cars.

Rocklin says that he was acting as driver of a delivery wagon April 14 last and his wagon and horse were standing between the track and the curb on Fourth street, between Lake avenue and First avenue east. He says a car, being driven at a reckless and unlawful rate of speed, frightened his horse while the car was still some distance away. He says he held the horse by the head in an effort to quiet him and motioned to the motorman to check speed, but he failed to do so. He says the horse jumped on the track in his fright and the car was not checked, so that it ran into the horse and wagon, throwing them against him.

Rocklin claims that he was severely injured, especially about the right leg and ankle and was unable to work for some time. He demands $1,500 for his injuries, $18 for doctor's bills and $400 for the loss of time.

APPEAL TO DISTRICT COURT.

Executors of Singer Estate Dissatisfied With Action of Probate Judge.

The will of Capt. W. H. Singer, which caused a rather warm legal conflict before Judge of Probate Middlecoff last spring, will come before the district court at the coming September term. Papers were filed this morning with the clerk of the district court, placing the appeal on the calendar.

The appeal is taken by the executors of the estate from the order of the probate court allowing the claim of David Hood against the estate. Hood's claim was vigorously fought before Judge Middlecoff, but he allowed it, and the executors will now submit it to the district court for judgment.

Fast Time From Cherbourg.

New York, Aug. 25.—The fastest time from Cherbourg to this port over the short course of 3,049 miles, was made by the steamer Kron Prinzessin Cecille, which arrived here today. The time of the passage was 5 days, 11 hours, 9 minutes, with an average speed of 23.25 knots an hour.

SUSPECTED OF SENDING THE INFERNAL MACHINE

More Serious Charge May be Brought Against Suspected Forger.

Two Express Messengers Said to Have Identified Him.

George Hamilton may never be brought to trial on the fourteen or more charges of forgery on which he was arrested and is being held at the county jail to await the next action of the grand jury. If the suspicions of officers and others are found to have sufficient foundation, he may be brought to trial in the circuit court of Houghton county, Mich., on a charge of sending the infernal machine which was prevented only by the veriest miracle from blowing up Sheriff August Beck and the entire courthouse and jail of the Michigan county.

The belief that Hamilton was implicated in sending the deadly contrivance to the Houghton sheriff is said to be founded on better ground than mere conjecture. He is known to have had a grievance against Beck and his corps of jail officers. Two express messengers have with reasonable certainty identified him as the man who expressed the box containing the infernal machine to Sheriff Beck at Iron River, Wis. When the subject is broached to him, Hamilton is vehement in his denials—a little too much so, in the opinion of those who have heard him.

The receipt of the infernal machine by Sheriff Beck last spring caused a sensation in upper Michigan. The machine was enclosed in a plain wooden box, with a handle on the cover, which was screwed down. Specific directions were given to remove the cover in opening the box, and when the sheriff received it he started to comply. As the cover was being lifted a grating sound aroused suspicions. The box was taken out in the jail yard and the bottom instead of the cover removed. An investigation showed that the box contained explosives in sufficient quantity to have blown up the courthouse, jail and everybody contained in them.

Hamilton's connection has not been entirely established. He conducted a livery stable at Calumet some years ago, when Sheriff Beck was marshal of Calumet, and he may have had some grievance at that time, but that has not been established. It is claimed, however, that he was sent up in Houghton county once for sixty days for stealing a load of hay, and while in jail engineered a successful jail delivery. He was caught, however, it is said, and served out his sentence. Later still, he is said to have cashed several bogus checks in the Copper country just before his alleged operations on the range, and a trial for forgery awaits him in Houghton, after the Minnesota courts have finished with him, or possibly before.

It is said that after Hamilton left the Copper country the last time, when the Houghton officers were after him for forgery, the infernal machine was sent. The plan, as figured out by the officers is, that the man who sent the machine boarded a Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic train at Duluth, bound for Iron River, and carried the box in a gunny sack. At Iron River, he is said to have alighted, expressed the box and taken the next train back to Duluth.

Hamilton has made threats against the officers at the county jail here several times, it is said, and has become unruly at times, although in general he is a model prisoner, playing the part of wronged innocence. If the charge of sending the infernal machine can be established, the charges of forgery here will probably be dropped for a time and Hamilton turned over to the Houghton authorities for trial in the court there.

Hamilton's operations on the ranges are said to have been on a wholesale scale, the total amount of the checks cashed amounting to several hundred dollars.

TO BE OPENED TO SETTLEMENT

President Issues Proclamation for the Rosebud Reservation.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The president has issued a proclamation for the opening to settlement of the surplus lands of the Rosebud Indian reservation in South Dakota. The area covered comprises about 80,000 acres and includes all the land in the Tripp county of that state. According to the terms of the proclamation, the lands will be selected by the lottery process and the drawing will take place at Dallas, S. D., Oct. 19 next, and will be under the direction of James W. Whitten, chief land clerk of the general land office. The minimum price fixed on the land is $6 per acre and the homestead laws are made applicable to all entries. Registration will begin Oct. 17, and applicants can register either at Dallas, Chamberlain, Gregory or Presho, S. D., or at O'Neil or Valentine, Neb.

FARMING TOPICS BEING DISCUSSED

Important Gathering Begins Three Days' Session in Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting which is regarded by its promoters as the most important ever held in the state commenced a three days' session this morning. It is a meeting of the Dry Land Experiment association. Delegates are present from Canada to Texas. The membership includes both the Dakotas, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Montana. J. H. Worst, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college made the welcoming speech and the response was by E. A. Burnett of Nebraska. A. M. Teneyck, president of the association delivered the address. He was formerly of this city and is now at the head of the Kansas Agricultural college work.

This afternoon J. A. Leclere and J. F. Breazael discussed the amount of plant food removed from plants by rain and dew. J. D. Belz spoke on "Physical Environments affecting Plant Growth," G. A. Jensen on "Seasonal Changes in Nitrates in Soils." Tonight Governor Burke will make an address.

GLAD SHE HAS STITCHES.

Minneapolis Girl Proud of Laceration in Her Scalp.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Myrtle Krek, 9 years of age, 2118 Sheridan avenue, north, was severely injured about her head when the coaster brake on a bicycle she was riding broke and dashed her into a barb wire fence at the foot of a hill near her home Monday evening.

The child was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to police headquarters when police Surgeon Gast took fifteen stitches in a laceration in her scalp.

After the police surgeon had completed his dressing of the little lady's wounds, she uttered a sigh and said: "My I am glad I got all those stitches in my head, cause George Lasser, the boy who lives next door to us, has three in his leg and he is always bragging about them."

Extra Guards For Trains.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 25.—The Union Pacific has again placed extra guards on its overland trains for their protection in events of hold-ups. Several reports of train robbery in the Northwest is said to be the reason for this precaution.

Strikers Attack Train.

Montreal, Aug. 25.—A crowd of 200 strikers, attacked a train of seven cars of strike breakers, returning from work breaking every window and injuring two men. The police arrived too late to make arrests.

Happenings at the Duluth Business University.

Located at 105-7 West Superior street, Duluth, Minn.

The college closed last Friday for a two weeks' vacation; day and night classes will begin again on Tuesday, Sept. 8, the school's eighteenth annual opening day. The college office will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. each week day until that date.

The following young people have left the college during the past week to act as office assistants for the following firms:

Fred Johnson, chief of police.
F. Deselli, city of Duluth.
Rose Feldmuth, Gilfillan Commission company.
Theresa Long, Stone-Ordean-Wells company.
Frances Coakley, Duluth Iron & Metal company.
Margaret Nordal, National Candy company.
Harry Whitford, Deetz & Co.
Delia Felix, Boston Land company.
Lucile Bradley, Stone-Ordean-Wells company.
Helen Mee, Stone-Ordean-Wells company.

The school's eighteenth annual opening promises to be by far the largest in its history. Applications are already being received from Duluth, Superior and all parts of the Northwest. The college office will be open for the enrollment of day and night students from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. each week day until Sept. 8.

A special actual business system will offer the student the best possible opportunities for getting in touch with modern methods of doing business in the shortest time and at the smallest outlay. The course covers every possible kind of business transaction, and will be so practical and simple that it will appeal strongly to the student. Ten teachers will be in charge of the night school this year, thus insuring to all students the necessary individual attention.

WEST END

HE DENIES THE CHARGE

West End Physician Says He Is Victim of Blackmail.

Claims He Did Not Lock Tenant in Or Abuse Her.

"A Diplomatic Tangle in the West End."

Dr. O. A. Oredson, the West end physician who is being sued by his tenant, Mrs. Kate Murphy, says it is a case of blackmail, and gives an altogether different version of the story than was contained in the woman's complaint.

The doctor says that the Murphy family rented his house early last May, and that they did not seem to care much whether they paid their rent or not. The house rented for $24 a month, and Dr. Oredson made vain efforts to collect the last month's rent at regular intervals, he claims.

Last Monday morning as the doctor was passing the house on his way to his office he saw a moving van in front of the house, and went up to the door to inquire about the matter. He noticed that the house had been badly used, the doors being scratched. He claims Mrs. Murphy came to the door, and commenced to swear, and call him vile names. He claims that he did not talk back to her further than to say that Mr. Murphy's wages would be garnisheed, which was done later. He says that he never locked her in the house, that he was never in the same room with her, and that he was never closer than six feet to her. He says also that before the papers in the case were filed, the Murphys came to him and offered not to file the case if he would call all things off, rent included. The doctor refused to do this and the case was filed.

In her complaint, Mrs. Murphy says that the doctor abused, assaulted and locked her in the house against her wishes.

'MORE COPS,' CRIES WEST END

People Say Present Force Can Not Cover the Ground.

"More police protection" is the cry of West end residents. The many petty crimes reported in the West end lately are not going to be allowed to happen again. Bad boys throw stones through windows, stores are broken into, gangs of loud talking young men whose language is not always very choice, hang around the lighted street corners at night and keep people from peaceful sleep, unthinking persons allow their cows to run at large over other people's lawns, and a host of other things are happening every day that makes the West end man peevish when he gets home at night.

"It keeps our part of the city from growing. People won't live here. Something has got to be done, and we are bound to remedy it in some way," said a West end man yesterday afternoon.

"We have some good clubs, and we have good men who are willing to fight for better police protection, and we are bound to have it."

West End Shortrails.

Rev. Anthony F. Elmquist of Minneapolis is visiting friends in the city for a week. Mr. Elmquist was formerly pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church in this city and is well known here. He is now pastor of St. John's English Lutheran church of Minneapolis.

Mrs. R. A. Wallace of 2407 West Third street entertained Miss Hulda Lindman and Miss Hazel Wallin on the Herald excursion to Two Harbors this afternoon.

Miss Selma Anderson of 2718 West Huron street has returned from St. Paul, where she spent an enjoyable two weeks' visit with friends.

The annual picnic of the United Order of Foresters will be held at Lincoln park Aug. 26. The Superior lodge will this year join the Duluth lodge in making merry, and a tug of war has been arranged between the two cities. There will be dancing in the evening, at which LaBrosse's orchestra will furnish the music.

This evening in the parlors of the Ebenezer Baptist church Miss Laurine Rakke of Eau Claire will deliver her talk on the "Drink Question, under the auspices of the West End Temperance society.

Mrs. E. H. Howe of Pillsbury, N. D., is visiting her cousin, J. J. Moe.

Henry Pfordresher has returned to his home in Chicago after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Miller.

The funeral of Peter Nordeen, who committed suicide last Wednesday, was held from the undertaking rooms of J. J. Forward this afternoon. Rev. J. A. Anderson read the services and interment was at Lutheran cemetery.

SUPERIOR NEWS

Long List of Cases.

Yesterday was the last day to file cases with superior court for the September term. The court convenes a week from today with the heaviest calendar it has had in several years. The calendar, which consists of seventy-five civil cases and twenty-two criminal, has been prepared by Clerk of the Courts Sequin and Deputy Marley, and will go to the printers today.

Will Not Use Machines.

Fear that confusion would arise among a certain class of voters by the use of the machine, and that the injunction process would be resorted to in preventing the voters casting their ballots, led the common council last night to reverse its decision concerning the voting machines, and decide in favor of the old system of balloting for the primary election. The Australian system will be used at the primaries and the voting machine at the final election. The former resolution that the voting machine should hereafter be used at all elections was laid on the table and the new resolution adopted.

Must Keep Out of Politics.

Owing to complaints made by Congressman Jenkins that certain factory inspectors are working hard to defeat him, J. D. Beck of Madison, state labor commissioner, spent some time in Superior yesterday investigating to ascertain whether the inspectors are taking a hand in the congressional fight. Just what information he secured is not known.

ABOUT DRESSING YOUR GIRL!

School days will soon be here, and whether girls are going away to school or are going to remain at home, mothers know that the ravishes of vacation have depleted the wardrobe to such an extent that replenishing is a necessity. This naturally gives rise to the question:—

"What is the most serviceable, sensible and stylish outfit for the school girl?

*We answer that question and stand ready to make good the answer—a neat, well-cut and well-made tailored suit is the most jaunty and serviceable thing for the girl. It looks well at all times and places and gives more service for the money invested than any other garment or garments. Furthermore, its wearability does not end with the season for which it is bought. Prices range from $16.50 to $30.00.

BANDITS ARE AGAIN AT WORK IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—In spite of the killing of one bandit and the supposed wounding of another by Detectives Hayes and Crummy, in a pistol battle, Saturday night, highwaymen, after a brief cessation of activity, have resumed operations, in Minneapolis.

Four of them last night, took John Harder, a Richfield farmer, to a secluded spot in Northeast Minneapolis, and after beating him, appropriated $30, which they found in his pockets.

ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED.

Gidding's

WOMAN, it is a matter of vital importance to you that you be well-dressed; for the consciousness of a doubt on this score is demoralizing, in that it dispels the good feeling and grace of movement that make you appear at your best.

Well-Dressed does not necessarily mean conspicuously dressed. —For it is not so much a matter of how much you spend, as how well you spend it.

We are devoting all our time to this business —the business of dressing women and girls correctly.

True, Gidding Wearables may cost more than some other wearables—But never more than is asked elsewhere for similar quality.

Our Garments are made exclusively for us; and are the best obtainable. Thus the wearing of a coat, suit, dress or other article of attire bearing a Gidding label is the sure satisfaction of correctness as to style, quality and make.

OLD LIVING MAN.

Negro Minister Claims to be 138 Years Old.

New York, Aug. 25.—In a sermon delivered Sunday at Zion African Methodist church, in Somerville, N. J., the Rev. Mason Brooks, a negro clergyman, said that he is 138 years of age, and that he remembers having held Gen. George Washington's horse on the road between Somerville and Raritan.

The clergyman said he was born in Cuba in 1770, and was brought to Somerset county, New Jersey, when a child. He said that he was ten years old when he held Gen. Washington's horse. He illustrated this part of his narrative by walking out along the road toward Raritan and locating the exact spot at which he said he had held the horse. The spot is near an old tree that has been a landmark out of mind.

WOULDN'T ROB JEROME.

Burglar Only Spread Attorney's Poker Dice on His Bed.

New York, Aug. 25.—Some man who had his nerve right with him went a burglarizing last night and selected, of all places, District Attorney Jerome's flat.

He didn't, so far as is known, take anything out of the flat with im, although he did rifle carefully a packed traveling bag belonging to Mr. Jerome, took from it a set of nice new poker dice, which he left on Jerome's bed for subsequent investigation.

Police opinion is divided as to whether some man did the trick on a bet, whether some one really went to the flat to rob it, or whether the sole intention was to find out what Jerome had in his grip.

CASHIER MAY BE HEIRESS.

Worker in Restaurant to Share in $50,000,000 Estate.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Miss Flossie E. Singleton, cashier in a restaurant on Pennsylvania avenue, has received word that she is one of the heirs of Joseph Ball, a revolutionary soldier, whose estate is said to have accumulated until it amounts to $50,000,000.

"This seems altogether too good to be true, of course," said Miss Singleton. "In fact, I do not even know my great-grandmother's name. What would I do with a few million dollars? Well, it is time enough to talk about that when I find some evidence that the money is coming my way."

DRINKS OIL OF CEDAR, ENDING HER TROUBLES.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Ellie Erickson, wife of Peter Erickson, a farmer living on a farm near White Earth took her life by drinking oil of cedar. She had been despondent for some time because of ill-health.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

She had fluffy golden hair and the person who was most jealous of it would never have accused her of having a "Purpose" in life. Could anything be more damaging to the hope of a giddy butterfly than to be designated as a "Person with a Purpose? Nobody had accused her of it, her hair was so misleading. She might discourse learnedly of the synthetic theory of evolution or of the esoteric reasoning of philosophy, but nobody paid any attention to her because her hair curled so nicely and was always well coiffed. In spite of the fact that people looked at her instead of listening to her, she pursued, not of course with singleness of purpose, but with desultory earnestness a course of improvement.

Anyone who has read through thus far is entitled to know what is being talked about.

The "Person with a Purpose" and fluffy hair decided to read "The Servant in the House," a thing about which many women are willing to speak, but about which only one man has written. The "Person with a Purpose" smiled at the man at the book counter.

"Have you 'The Servant in the House?'" she inquired gently.

"No; hang it," said he, "she left yesterday, and of all the ungrateful performances I ever heard of, it beat them all. She knew that my wife—"

"Oh, please," said the Purposeful Person, "it's a book."

"What?" said the book store man. "It's a book, you know. 'The Servant in the House.'"

"I'll see," said the book store man, and he rummaged among the shelves of books, and he looked among the dusty and old ones, and he prowled around the top shelves and he unearthed a yellow backed, dusty, soft paper book and flapped the dust off it. "Maybe this will do," he said, and he whacked the book along the side of his trousers and looked again at the title. "The Disappointed Waitress!" looked back at him in large type. "Is that it?" he wanted to know.

"It is in many cases," said she of the Purpose and golden hair. "And I'm sure this would be very interesting, but it isn't quite what I'm looking for," and she smiled again and departed.

"That's all right, said the book man, "but nothing these fellows can write, can come up to the real condition of things. Why, my wife—"

But nobody was listening.

Luncheon at Club.

Mrs. Gibson L. Douglas was hostess at a luncheon today at the Spirit lake branch of the Boat club. Covers were laid for ten.

Granite Shower.

Miss Pearl Tresise entertained at a blue and white granite shower last evening in honor of Miss Florence Mae Beatty, whose wedding to Louis G. Paulson will take place tomorrow. The rooms were prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and garden flowers and the hostess was assisted by Misses Laura and Irene Beatty. Twenty-six guests were entertained.

For Miss Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. French entertained at a delightful dancing party last evening at the Spirit Lake branch of the Boat club, in honor of Miss Esther Adams. The paths about the grounds and the dancing pavilion were decorated with lighted lanterns and La Brosse's orchestra played a delightful program of dancing music.

Honor Miss Barry.

Mrs. George Martin of 1415 East First street entertained at an informal afternoon today in honor of Miss Barry of Chicago, who is the guest of Mrs. J. L. Mullin. The rooms were bright with the decoration of the autumn flowers and thirty guests were entertained.

Mrs. C. W. Elston and Mrs. A. D. Goodman will entertain tomorrow at a launch ride and picnic luncheon in honor of Miss Barry.

For Visiting Guests.

Mrs. H. F. Salyards was hostess at an afternoon at bridge yesterday at her home, 1429 East Superior street, in honor of several of the out-of-town visitors. The honored guests were Mrs. McDonald of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Jack Hoessler of Terre Haute, Ind.; Mrs. Mitchell of Cleveland, Miss Mildred Clark of Ashland and Miss Mustard of Maryland. The game was played at four tables, and the card favor was won by Mrs. H. H. Johnstown. Guest favors were presented the honored guests.

Dance at Club.

Mrs. James E. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Richard Sellwood will entertain at a dancing party Thursday evening at the Country club, in honor of Miss Martin of Boston, who has been the guest of Mrs. Fitzgerald during the summer. Miss Martin will leave next week for her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lachmund have returned from a several months' wedding trip abroad and are with Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Holmes of Fifteenth avenue east for a time.

Mrs. C. H. Emmons and children of Ontonagon, Mich., who were the guests of Mrs. E. G. Shepard for a month, have returned to their home.

Mrs. James Brownlee of Deerwood is visiting Mrs. Robert Ferguson of 1021 East Third street. Miss May Ferguson will return tomorrow from Scotland, where she has been spending the summer visiting relatives.

Peach Cream.

Peach cream is a tempting and simple dessert, which may be prepared with any seasonable fruit instead of peaches.

Place a layer of sliced peaches in a glass dish, sprinkle with sugar, and then add a layer of maple flake, and so on until the dish is filled.

A few minutes before serving pour over the whole one-half pint of rich cream. This may be made with bananas or strawberries, instead of peaches, in the same way.

Autumn Frocks.

The very straight lines which both coats and frocks have taken on this summer may or may not endure. Who shall say before next month brings definite tidings of the great designers' intentions?

But apparently there are women ready to gamble on the chance, for already several early fall frocks in light weight wool have been carried out along the straight, shortwaisted directoire lines so popular in summer materials. A one-piece frock of this sort, plain and clinging of skirt, simple of bodice, scarcely girdled, made with gulmpe and long, close sleeves of self color and with buttons covered with satin or the frock material and liberally used in long lines, is a useful thing in fine serge or India cachemire or chifton broadcloth, and with a directoire coat en suite would tide one over the early autumn successfully.

WALKING FOR WOMEN

Cross-Country Walks the Ideal Exercise.

Walking—healthy, regular walking—is a difficult undertaking for women. It is because most of them have little ambition to do anything that has no special attraction. Pastimes that please and amuse are preferred.

The city streets are not the place for the right kind of walking. The jarring pavements, the noise, the dust, the heat, the ugliness, are not surroundings in which to practice a bracing exercise.

The most delightful walk of all is in those wild, lovely places, those stretches of valley, hill and mountain totally undisturbed by cultivation or industry of any kind.

But that certainly is not possible for all.

However, all that is really needed is a path through fresh, green, growing things, where the sky can be seen and where the air flows sweet. Now that the many are going to suburbs for the summer this task is easier.

The disagreeable system in this case means only a regulation of time and dress, the former principally to agree with one's convenience and both to enhance one's comfort.

The time should be in early morning or early evening. Even in country places the summer sun is hot from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The length should never be less than a half hour, and better an hour if one loiters much and plays with outdoor things—flowers, birds, streams—that happen along.

Aimless wandering through fields and woods, by hedgerows, thickets and streams is the best way to deceive one's self into a healthy exercise.

The clothes to wear on these walks are a most important factor. They should be light in weight and comfortable. The neck, and arms below the elbow, should be free.

Tight wristbands and collars can make one very miserable. The shoes should be of stout tan leather, and high if the walk be through rough places.

The hat should have a broad brim, for the glare of the sky on a bright morning, even early, is unpleasant. The skirt should be no less than 4 inches from the ground.

These rules are simple and may be adapted easily to one's individual needs.

Of all the various exercises that are prescribed for physical deficiencies none is so natural as walking.

Often a special series of gymnastics, with paraphernalia, clothes, instructor, etc., will be adhered to patiently by a woman when the habit of moderate, pleasant walking, faithfully acquired, would work more strongly for her health.

Perhaps the fact that the former circumstances are "special" is what prods her with power.

Notable Women.

Jane Addams, Dr. Cornelia De Bey and Mrs. Emmons Blaine whose terms on the Chicago school board have just expired, have not been reappointed.

Dr. Kathryn Standly of Brookfield, Mo., has been appointed by Governor Folk a delegate from Missouri to the international congress on tuberculosis to be held in Washington this fall.

Miss Dorothea Klumpke of California, the astronomer, who was the first woman to win the degree of doctor of mathematics in France, has a special building for her exclusive use in the great observatory garden of Paris. One of her duties is to photograph the stars in that section of the heavens known as the Paris belt. For this purpose she has made frequent balloon ascensions.

Mrs. Bertha Ayrton has succeeded in ascertaining the cause of the refractory behavior of the searchlight in certain respects and in devising a remedy. The British admiralty called in Prof. Ayrton to investigate the trouble some time ago. After making many investigations he turned the problem over to his wife, who is the only woman member of the Institue of Electrical Engineers and who received the only medal ever awarded to a woman by the Royal society of London for original, unaided work.

Digital Details.

Fashions change even in finger nails, and the pointed nails of a few years ago are looked upon as almost barbaric at present. It also seems that women are becoming sensible in another digital detail. High polishing is no longer the rule, as, of course, it never was practiced by women of fine tastes. The pointed nails and high polish have passed out, and the chances are historians in future days will look back and rank them with crinoline as evidence of a crude and undiscriminating age. In caring for the finger nails women now try to follow nature, instead of opposing or distorting it. The natural contour of the nail is preserved as far as possible, and the manicure is not permitted to pursue any of her sometimes costly hobbies.

THE EVENING STORY

THE DOWNFALL OF A SOUL

By Harold Dean.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

"No, George," said Miss Brisbane, decidedly. "It is no use. We could never be happy together. It is better—far, far better that we break it off now than to let it run on until one, if not both, of our lives is broken."

"What in thunder is the matter now, Grace?" responded George, bluntly, and in a discouraged voice.

"Nothing is the matter now," replied the young woman, severely, "any more than is the matter all the time. You are too frightfully material and earthly to understand me at all, and I cannot contemplate going through life weighed down by such a load of materialism. My soul aspires to great things, and I cannot hitch it to a mere bundle of flesh."

"Whew, but ain't that a trifle tough?" suggested George. "I had hoped—"

"Oh, yes, and so had I," replied Miss Brisbane. "But I can delude myself no longer. You are wedded to your club, your pagan philosophy and your selfishness. You never would aspire to walk with me in the ethereal realms where soul thought gives the supreme ecstasy."

"Go way; I would walk through any old place with you, and you know it, if you will only give me a chance."

The girl looked at him with supreme contempt.

"I do not even understand your words," she said. "You see, George, it is really of no use. I do not understand you nor you me. A marriage under such circumstances would be worse than sacrilege—it would be a profanation."

George Hamilton looked keenly at the girl for a moment; then he squared back his splendid shoulders and lifted himself to his full height of six feet two, while the vexed and bewildered expression in his gray eyes gave place to a stern and dominant gaze, before which Miss Brisbane's eyes dropped, even as the eyes of business associates and competitors had dropped many times under the same gaze.

"Grace," he said, in low, tense tones, which vibrated through her being long after he left her, "I have loved you as truly and tenderly and honestly as man ever loved woman—I have, I said—I mean I do so love you. Such a love from an honest man cannot be naught else but an honor to any woman, whether she accepts or rejects it. To play with it and fiddle around with psychology, or any 'ology in the world is an insult, not only to the man offering you the sort of love I do, but it is an insult to the very name and spirit of love, and a reflection on your own sincerity. With this great love still as strong in my heart as it ever has been, I release you from your promise—I withdraw from the field. And while it wrings my heart to the last chord and fiber, I tell you now that with your mind bound and tied with the fool notions which have present possession, I would not marry you under any circumstances. Good day."

He picked up his hat and strode to the door.

"George," she said, softly, and he turned with a gesture of courtesy to listen.

She went toward him with outstretched hand, which he advanced to grasp.

"Don't you see, dear," she said, that it is impossible. It is bad enough now, but after marriage such things as this would be terrible. Please, George, I love you dearly, in a way, but I cannot venture my higher nature for the lower."

He lifted her hand reverently to his lips. "I will love you always in every way," he said. "And I know of no higher law or thing than love."

He opened the door and swung down the walk to the gate. When it clicked the girl gave a little groan of pain, and before the echoes of his departing footsteps had faded she was sitting on the floor—a poor little huddled bundle of tears and sobs.

"What is the matter with George?" inquired Mrs. Brisbane of Grace a week later. "I haven't seen him for a week."

"The engagement is off," replied Grace, with dignity.

"Off!" exclaimed the mother, in surprise. "When, why, how—for what?"

"We decided a week ago that our ideas of life were so far apart we never could be happy."

"Nonsense," thought Mrs. Brisbane, but she did not say it. Instead, she drew the girl out and learned the whole story. Now, Mrs. Brisbane was a very sensible woman, and she knew among other things that sons-in-law with a business and a future assured do not grow on every bush. Also did she know that young girls given to soul culture and theosophy are not to be opposed and driven. So she comforted Grace and kissed her and went away to take counsel with herself.

In the meantime Grace plunged the harder into the development of her spiritual nature. She gave up society entirely, and spent all her time and energy cultivating those higher ideals in which, she assured herself, lay the only real happiness. Sunday and Wednesday afternoons she attended the meetings of the Theosophical society. Monday evenings she gave to the Society of Ethical Research; Tuesday all day she did social settlement work; Thursday morning she attended the class of Prof. Harish, who taught that deep breathing and healthfood diet were the true means to absolute soul perfection. Friday afternoons she devoted to the class of an Indian sage with long hair, dusky skin and an unpronounceable name, who taught the great truths regarding the transmigration of souls. Saturday mornings she gave to Dr. Kinoka, a be-spectacled little Japanese, whose mission it was to lift the pagan west into some sort of appreciation of the uplifting effect of the doctrines of Confucius. Saturday evenings she studied the Presbyterian Sunday school lesson, and Sunday morning found her always in the family pew at Dr. Grigg's church, and at noon time she took charge of her Sunday school class.

So it will be seen that Miss Brisbane found her time pretty well filled. And yet as the weeks rolled by her soul did not seem to be lightened much, nor to roam through the ethereal regions as she thought it should, with all the cultivation she was giving it. In fact, it seemed to grow rather more leaden and heavy. And—most provoking of all—in the most soulful crisis of the Indian sage's discourse, she would find her vagrant brain comparing his effeminate figure and unwholesome face and inkish hair to George with his splendid physique, his ruddy cheeks, his whole atmosphere pregnant with normal animal health and strength. It angered her so that she did severe penance, but the vision appeared again and again, even interrupting her in moments when Prof. Harish was at the very height of his power. She even recalled with a delightful little blush which tingled all over her, the way George held her in his strong arms and kissed her when they were first engaged—and she recalled that his kisses were not at all ethereal or spiritual, but burned with passion—almost hurt her with their strength. And the terrible, lifeless thing about it was that she liked to think about them.

Things were at this stage when she began to pine and grow ill and took to her room. One evening she sat struggling with her baser nature, which persisted in yearning for George, and feeling so altogether wretched, that she decided to yield just a little on account of her exceeding weakness, and write a long letter to George—and then tear it up. So she sat down at her dainty little cabinet and wrote this:

"My Dear, Dear, Dear George: Please come back to me, and forget me. I love you. I love you even better than my own soul. I cannot help it. Always your own darling. Grace."

She blushed as she read it, and took it in her hands to tear it up. Then she hesitated and read it again, and kissed it, and then she went off into a long delightful reverie. Finally her head sank forward on her arm, and she relaxed into a restful slumber.

And who but Cupid, the little rogue, should have sent Mrs. Brisbane into Grace's boudoir at this particular moment? But it so happened, and Mrs. Brisbane, as she leaned over her daughter in some alarm, could not fail to see the note. Now what would any mother do when she has a sick daughter, and finds that the daughter has written a letter, and is exhausted over the task, except send the letter? But Mrs. Brisbane did not mail the letter. She rang up George's hotel and found he was there, and she sent John posthaste with the letter. How could she tell but it was a matter of pressing importance?

So it happened that Grace was aroused by the ringing of the bell, and a moment later she heard her mother's voice saying:

"She is in her room. Walk right up."

Then there was a sound of a heavy tread taking the stairs three steps at a clip, a rush through the hall, a heavy pummeling at her dainty door, and an instant later she found herself in a bear-like embrace with a great physical man reading over to her the letter she had written only in play. And what was a poor girl to do, caught in that sort of a situation—especially when she liked the situation? What this girl did was to turn her lips up for his kisses.

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—Mack-Leone players in "The Middleman," (see notice below.)
BIJOU—Vaudeville. (see notice below.)

A PERSONAL TRIUMPH.

Jay Quigley Gives Splendid Interpretation of Difficult Role.

It is seldom that a stock actor, aside from the matinee idols with the emotional tributes paid them, scores such a personal triumph as did Jay Quigley in the role of Cyrus Blenkarn, the old potter of Henry Arthur Jones' "Middleman" at the Lyceum last evening.

It takes ability to play such a role—ability to understand the picture of the character in the mind of the author, and to present that picture to the audience—and no stage settings, costuming, or good stage presence will cover up the lack of it. Mr. Quigley's interpretation of the role, even with the hurried preparation necessary in a stock company, was a treat. The play was last seen here with E. S. Willard, the famous English actor in the role of the old potter. Comparisons are largely a matter of personal taste, but Mr. Quigley certainly need not fear to heve his work compared with the superb rendition of the part given by Mr. Willard.

Miss Holmes has an emotional role, as Mary the wronged daughter of the old potter. Her work needs no comment. It is up to her usual high standard.

Mr. Mack is not in the cast this week. His place was filled at twenty-four hours' notice by Earl Metcalfe, who plays the role of Capt. Chandler. Mr. Mack will return to the city Thursday, from New York and will probably finish the week with the company.

The other members of the company give Mr. Quigley adequate support. Mr. Farnum has a difficult role, but he and Miss Meade, who plays opposite him, appear to good advantage. Mr. Chapman draws the part of the rascally old hypocrite.

The play is splendidly mounted, and the last week of the Mack-Leones in Duluth should be one of the most notable of their engagement here.

VENTRILOQUIST.

Hugh Emmett is Feature of Good Bill at Bijou.

Ventriloquism has an important place on the Bijou's bill for the week, the instigator being Hugh Emmett, who with two puppets furnishes an amusing fifteen minutes.

His act is the first of the kind that has been seen at the Bijou in many months, but judging from the continuous laughter which greeted Mr. Emmett and his droll marinettes, the Bijou patrons would willingly stand for more of such acts. Mr. Emmett is an exceptionally clever performer in his line, and the audience last night was not slow to express its approval of his work, as well as of the other acts on a well balanced bill.

The four Ylierom sisters do some acrabatic stunts which are about as difficult as their names are for the ordinary mortal to pronounce. The sisters are young girls, full of vim, and they go through with their globe rolling and other feats with enthusiasm.

The Durand Trio is composed of three commendable voices, which are heard in many well chosen numbers. The blending of the voices in the different airs is exceptionally good.

The Kramers have the "comedy sketch' of the bill. A feature of their offering is the dancing of Miss Maude Kramer, who chooses to enact a character known as "Flap Jack Sal."

Miss Kramer claims to be the "champion buck dancer," and has a medal to prove it. Everybody in the audience last evening was satisfied to let it go at that, for Miss Kramer certainly has a pair of "conversational feet" and tears off a number of difficult steps in very snappy style.

Al Coleman is conventional enough as a monologuist, but he has a few new ones and extracts many laughs from his audiences.

Isadore Silver touches a patriotic chord with his illustrated song, "Dreaming of the U. S. A."

The moving pictures are called "In Fairyland with the Water Sprite."

"Coming Thro' the Rye."

There is a beautiful white pony used in the production of "Coming Thro' The Rye." It is ridden by Isabelle Lowe, a pretty miss who is dressed in the fashion of a cowboy, but the costume is all white, the jacket, boots and gauntlets being of kid, as are the saddle and bridle. Seated upon the horses, Miss Lowe sings a song called "My Broncho Boy," assisted by a dozen girls, one half of whom are dressed to resemble white ponies, with mane, tail, papier-mache heads and other accoutrements to carry out the idea. Coming Thro' The Rye" will be at the Lyceum next Monday and Tuesday.

This is Farewell Week

For Mack-Leone troupe. Dont' miss them, in "The Middleman."

HEARST ASKED TO RESIGN.

Replies to Request of Democratic Club in Facetious Manner.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—William Randolph Hearst last night gave out the contents of a letter he addressed to the Iroquois Club of San Francisco, a Democratic organization, replying to the request of the club that he tender his resignation as a member. Mr. Hearst says in his letter that he is both pleased and surprised to receive the letter from the club—pleased that he has been asked to resign, and surprised to learn that the club is still in existence.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PRAISES RED RIVER LANDS

Illinois Man Lauds Possibilities of That Section for Farming.

Better Field for Investment Than to be Found Elsewhere.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I have traveled all over Colorado, Texas, New Mexico, and several of the Western states and Wisconsin, in fact I have been traveling more than doing anything else the past few years, and after looking the conditions and possibilities over everywhere, I believe Minnesota land the best investment I know of at present prices," said C. H. Wallace of Homer, Ill. "No where that I know of will the land stand such excessive moisture or excessive dry weather during the growing season and still produce such crops as this state. Despite the exceedingly dry weather that has prevailed in this section this summer, I have seen some of as fine wheat crops as ever grew. Red River valley soil if properly cultivated, and with proper conservation of soil energy will produce a good crop every year. The drainage system is rapidly nearing completion and will take care of all moisture during years of abnormal rainfall, and cultivation will produce crops be it ever so dry."

Mr. Wallace is a land owner and many land buyers who has been here for the past few days looking after 400 acres of the Sykes farm in Farley township, which he purchased a few years ago. He is expending $2,000 on improvements this year and says land which he bought at $30 per acre will sell for $100 per acre before he is an old man.

HOGAN IS MENTALLY SOUND.

Man Who Tramps About, Having Duluth Bank Account, Released.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Hogan, the man arrested here last Thursday morning, while prowling about an alley, and who, upon being searched at the police station was found to have $300 in gold on his person, has been released. The board of county insanity commissioners considered his case and have discharged him.

Hogan is the man who has an account in a bank at Duluth, having resided in that city at one time.

He was first suspected as being implicated in recent South Dakota postoffice robberies, and gives a rather peculiar reason for carrying his cash about the country on his person. He stated that at the time of the panic last fall he became frightened, and withdrew his money from the bank. Since that time he has been fearful lest the banks of the country become unsafe, and has preferred on this account to carry his money with him.

Hogan has been traveling around the country considerably of late, in regular tramp style, but so far has never been touched for any part of the "roll" he carries.

GRAND FORKS TO GREET COMMONER

Bryan-Burke Club to Give Candidate a Warm Reception.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Bryan-Burke club of Grand Forks last evening plans for the entertainment of William Jennings Bryan on his visit here next Tuesday afternoon were arranged. It was the decision of the club to give him a great reception on his visit, and the organization will be assisted in its efforts by the citizens generally.

The reception will be more of a nonpartisan affair than any of his previous visits to Grand Forks have been. On account of the short time that Bryan will be in the city, his address will be delivered immediately upon his arrival. Following this, the Bryan-Burke club will give a big banquet.

The Bryan-Johnson club of East Grand Forks will also take a hand in the celebration, as the Minnesota governor, John A. Johnson, will be here, accompanying William Jennings Bryan from Minneapolis. Governor John Burke of North Dakota will be in attendance also, so that Sept. 1 will be a big Democratic day in Grand Forks.

The Great Northern has taken up the matter of running excursion trains to Grand Forks, and several lines will be thus supplied.

SOCIALISTS VERY ACTIVE.

Public Ownership Party to Prosecute Canvass in Polk County.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Public Ownership Socialist party is making the most active campaign in the history of its existence in Polk county. They have nearly a full county ticket and will make a hustle for votes at the primaries as well as at the general election. There are no contests on for any of the positions but they have already opened headquarters in one of the DuFour buildings on Third street, where they are dishing out campaign literature and making a consistent effort in their campaign of education. The candidates are: Representative, W. B. Mellang, Climax; auditor, August Lindblad, Climax; register of deeds, Hans Sampson, Fosston; sheriff, Hans Holmvik, Beltrami; judge of probate, Arthur Erwin, Beltrami; commissioners, Fifth district, C. W. Barth, Liberty; First district, D. D. Bodahl, Fertile; Third district, C. P. Whitesel, Fanny.

ACCUSED DOCTOR INJURED.

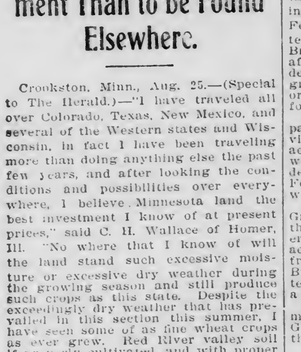
Grand Forks Physician May Never be Tried Again.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. John A. Fawcett, for many years a prominent practitioner in this city, and who recently stood trial in the district court on a charge of abortion, may never again be obliged to face a jury. Word has been received in Grand Forks announcing that he has been seriously injured in a runaway accident at Dixon, Ill., and was in the hospital of that city with small hopes of recovery. His family has gone to the bedside.

Dr. Fawcett was arrested last spring on a charge of performing an illegal operation on Lillian Schmoschel. She died shortly after the operation, and an investigation resulted in Fawcett's arrest. He stood trial in the district court and the jury disagreed, thus necessitating a second trial.

Since this case was up, Dr. Fawcett has gone to Illinois, and it was there that he met with the accident which may cost him his life.

YOUNG MOTHERS



A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her child the blessing of a good constitution; sickly, ailing mothers, the reverse.

The tiny babe brings to her a living responsibility. At such a time too great care cannot be taken to build up the mother's general constitution, and restore her feminine system to a healthy, normal condition. The greatest assistance that any woman can have in accomplishing this all-important work is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. M. Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"I was greatly run down in health, suffering from a weakness peculiar to my sex. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was not only restored to health but am the proud mother of a fine baby girl. I wish every sick and ailing woman would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. Paul Oliver, of St. Martinville, La., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I suffered from the worst form of female troubles, and the doctor said I could not get well without an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I have the sweetest little baby girl. I will never cease to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with the worst forms. Why don't you try it?

TWO TOWNS BURNED.

Work Believed to be That of Incendiaries.

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 25.—Lowry and Akaska, two new towns on the Minneapolis & St. Louis road, in Southern Walworth county, were partially destroyed by fire of an incendiary origin early Monday morning.

The buildings burned in Lowry were the Farmers' State bank, a general store of G. J. Sherman and a pool hall. The total loss is $8,000 and is mostly covered by insurance.

At Akaska a building lately occupied by a bank, the plant of the Akaska News, a poolroom, a butcher shop and a hardware store were destroyed. The total loss is $16,000, partly covered by insurance.

Great excitement was shown, owing to the report of a Lowry person who arrived early on the scene of the fire, to the effect that he had seen six horsemen leaving the town. It is believed that the same gang went to Akaska and started the fire there.

Sheriff Houven investigated and he reported that he would be able to apprehend the guilty in a short time. It is hard to get accurate reports, as the telephone connections are entirely those of farmers' lines, and messages to this city have to be relayed.

THE FIRST TYPEWRITER

Claimed to Have Been Conceived on Farm in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The modern typewriter was conceived on a Dodge county farm, according to Asa D. Barnes, president of the Wisconsin Oil & Gas company, Neenah.

Mr. Barnes takes exception to the paper read by C. E. Weller, at the recent national convention here of shorthand reporters. In that paper, Mr. Weller accredited the invention to C. Lathan Sholes, Milwaukee. Mr. Barnes claims that the original typewriter was the conception of a cousin, born and raised on a farm near Le Roy, Dodge county, Wis. He argues that the original model was perfected on this farm and that the first machaine was patented as the Soles-Sholes machine. The cousin and first inventor, according to Mr. Barnes, was Samuel W. Soles.

But this claim conflicts not only with statements made by C. E. Weller, but with the original documents at present in Milwaukee and with the history of typewriter evolution as preserved here.

"C. Latham Sholes did not invent the typewriter," says Mr. Barnes. "But he did usurp the name and by hook or crook procured the original model. The real inventor was Samuel W. Soles, Le Roy, Dodge county, Wis., my cousin.

"The first model was constructed and completed on a farm on which I was born. The inventor was a poor man. He had not the necessary cash to get the patent nor did he have faith in his invention at the time. So Mr. Soles went to Milwaukee and managed to have the machine patented as the Soles-Sholes typewriter. C. Latham Sholes doing the corresponding and furnishing the cash for the patent. Then Mr. Sholes claimed that the name, Soles-Sholes, was too complicated and finally succeeded in eliminating the Soles section of it."

MANY HEAR CHAFIN.

Prohibition Candidate for Presidency Speaks in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—Eugene W. Chafin, Prohibition candidate for president of the United States, addressed 5,000 people from the steps of the old capitol building here last evening. He stated that 109,000 deaths every year can be traced directly to the liquor traffic, while it claims over 400,000 victims.

Mr. Chafin spoke against local option and prophesied the closing of all breweries and distilleries and the stopping of the liquor traffic throughout the United States within five years.

Mr. Chafin left later in the evening for Fargo, N. D., where he will speak today.

MANY HUNTING LICENSES.

Expected About 5,000 Will be Issued in Ward County, N. D.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 25.—Five thousand licenses to hunt game will be issued in Ward county this fall, according to county officials. To date this season there have been issued by the county auditor 750 licenses and with this unusual start, it is thought that there will be fully a thousand more issued this year than last. The 1907 business from shooters amounted to some four thousand licenses at 75 cents per.

The pursuer of the festive prairie chicken is assured the best sport this year that has been enjoyed in the past seven or eight years.

This year the harvest started exceptionally early and by the first of September practically every field will be cut and thousands of acres threshed. The dogs will have splendid running and there is an abundance of birds reported in all directions. The farmers state that not in many years have they seen the number of chickens.

This means that the hunters from the city will get all the best of it this year, and will return with full game bags.

FALLS DOWN SHAFT.

Quincy Miner Drops 100 Feet and Will Probably Die.

Hancock, Mich., Aug. 25.—Arvid Huuskonen sustained internal injuries Saturday by falling 100 feet down a shaft in the Quincy mine. He was removed to St. Joseph's hospital. He is a married man about 26 years of age. Slight hopes are held out for his recovery.

HANGS HIMSELF BECAUSE DEPRIVED OF HIS PET DOG.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 25.—Andrew Lang, aged 71, committed suicide by hanging because his son, Joseph, it is said, would not permit him to keep a dog to which he had become greatly attached.

Joseph Lang bought the dog some weeks ago. The old man at once conceived a warm friendship for the beast. The dog became troublesome and destructive and the son, it is said, told him he could not keep it.

Andrew Lang disappeared, first saying good-bye to his daughter-in-law and telling her she would not see him again.

The aged man was sought everywhere. The river was dragged for his corpse. His body was found Sunday afternoon hanging in the woods two miles west of Appleton.

BEAUTIFYING GRAND FORKS.

Wires Are Being Put Underground and the Poles Removed.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northwestern Telephone company has a force of twenty men at work putting all wires underground in the Grand Forks fire district. Some years ago the telephone company put a portion of the wires under ground and this year the work will be completed in the fire district. The wires to be put underground are on part of De Mers, Kittson, Walnut and South Fourth. Laterals will be put in from the main cables in the streets to connect with the alleys.

The improvement will cost $5,000. Manager Blakely stated yesterday that the changes will be made without inconveniencing patrons. The company will have the work completed before the paving contractor catches up with his work.

The Western Union will get a force of men at work removing poles from third street, shortly. This work will be completed by the time the paving is done on Third street.

The Tri-State Telephone company put its wires underground in the fire district when the local exchange was constructed four years ago and so will not have to make any changes.

The Grand Forks Gas & Electric company will also remove its poles from the streets before the new paving is laid, it is announced.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Duluth.

Results tell the tale.

All doubt is removed.

The testimony of a Duluth citizen Can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had?

James Root, railroad engineer, formerly living at the corner of Michigan street and Twentieth avenue, Duluth, Minn., says: "I cannot do otherwise than indorse and recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit I derived from the use of this remedy several years ago has proved satisfactory and lasting. When I got my first box I was in a bad shape. I was suffering from severe pains and soreness in the small of my back and through the hips. The kidney secretions were unnatural and contained a heavy sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills brought relief promptly, and as I have stated, this relief has been permanent. I also used Doan's Ointment for itching hemorrhoids, and the relief was prompt and effective. This remedy brought just as prompt and lasting relief as did Doan's Kidney Pills. I told of my case in a testimonial given over six years ago, and I am glad to confirm that statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ENGINEER IS BLAMED.

Soo Throttle-Puller is Considered Responsible for Death.

Litchfield, Minn., Aug. 25.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of John Weber, killed at Eden Valley by a Soo train last week, returned a verdict that he came to his death through the criminal carelessness of John Dae, the engineer. It was developed at the hearing that the engineer failed to ring the bell or give any signal at the crossing where the team was struck. County Attorney Sexton of this city has been retained by the heirs, and a suit for $5,000 damages is to be brought against the railroad company. John Ludwig, who was also seriously injured at the same time, is expected to recover.

ANOTHER AUTO VICTIM.

Mrs. G. O. Hart of Minneapolis Dies of Her Injuries.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. George O. Hart of 1388 Central avenue died yesterday at Wayzata. Death resulted from injuries sustained Sunday evening in an automobile accident on Superior boulevard, a mile and a half east of Wayzata. She sustained a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain—just how is not quite clear—and was taken to the home of Dr. J. I. Tibbits in Wayzata, where all possible attention was given, but without avail, for she died at 9 a. m. Monday.

Mr. Hart and Mr. and Mrs. William Erickson, who were also in the car, were painfully cut and bruised, but not severely injured, though Mr. Hart is quite unnerved.

FARMERS FORM EXCHANGE.

To Have Place to Sell Products for Best Prices.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the American Society of Equity have formed an equity exchange. They will incorporate as a branch of the International Equity Exchange.

The object in organizing is to form an exchange which will sell produce at a regulated price.

The following officers were elected: President, James Brown, Truax; vice president, C. N. Luce, Union; secretary and treasurer, W. W. Winters, Brunswick; directors, James Brown, Truax; C. N. Luce, Union; W. W. Winters, Brunswick; E. E. Tobey, Union; C. H. Hinterberg, Fall Creek; John Conley, Brunswick, and Harvey Ganong, Truax.

FRIED CHICKEN GALORE.

Broilers Perish in Fargo Fire With Lot of Grain.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two hundred chickens, eight tons of hay, 300 bushels of oats, five sets of harness and a number of bob sleds were consumed in a fire Sunday that totally destroyed a barn belonging to C. F. Eggert, situated in the rear of Mr. Eggert's meat market, 412 Front street.

When the fire was discovered there were six horses and a cow, besides a number of hogs in the barn, and it was with difficulty that they were gotten out. Mr. Eggert places his loss at $1,500, which is only partially covered by insurance. The barn was practically new, as it burned about a year ago this time and was built new at that time.

Perished By Drowning.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—After an investigation, Coroner Rounsvell has decided that George E. McEllis, whose body was picked up in the Red river a week since, came to his death by drowning. McEllis' body was found at a point three miles from Manvel, entirely naked. Sunday morning his clothes were discovered on the banks of the river on the Gus Barlow farm, several miles above the point where the body was discovered. Identification was thus established, and the officials have communicated with his relatives near Peoria, Ill. Burial took place in potters' field.

Judge Stanton to Speak.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton of this city has been invited to deliver the oration of the day at Brainerd on Labor day, Monday, Sept. 7.

Labor day at Brainerd is always one of the biggest holidays of that community.

Invited To Speak.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry Funkley of this city, who is a Republican candidate for the nomination of representative to the legislature from this district, has been invited to deliver an address at the fair, which will be held at Spooner early in September.

Fire Near Menominee.

Menominee, Mich., Aug. 25.—The residence and barns of Patrick Hayes near Falthorn were destroyed by fire originating from an unknown source. A large number of stock was burned, also 300 tons of hay. Loss $6,000; no insurance.

Say Buttermilk Killed Him.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 25.—Poisoned from a glass of buttermilk which he drank in a downtown restaurant Friday at lunch, A. G. Hoy, 700 Jewett Place, died suddenly. Dr. Charles Kistler, who attended Mr. Hoy is of the opinion the death was due from the buttermilk. No explanation can be offered as to how the milk became tainted.

Boys' Bravery Rewarded.

Watertown, S. D., Aug. 25.—Mayor J. W. Martin of Watertown, presented little Darrel Bancroft, a 9-year-old boy, who saved the life of A. Ainsworth on Lake Kampeska, with a handsome gold watch as a public appreciation of the lad's bravery and presence of mind. What Mr. Ainsworth himself will do for the boy is not made public as yet, but as he is a wealthy merchant, he will doubtless reward the boy handsomely for saving him from the fate that overtook his companion, Deputy Postmaster Thomas Wille.

To Print La Follette's Paper.

Baraboo, Wis., Aug. 25.—Mrs. G. J. Koppke of Baraboo and others have purchased the land opposite the Ringland farm as a site for the Hill Crest Graphic Arts company of Chicago. High class printing from Chicago and other cities will be done. Arrangements are now being made to do the printing for Senator La Follette's paper.

Tax Only Idle Machines.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 25.—William Busselmann of this city is suggesting placing machinery on the assessment rolls only when not in actual use, but making it exempt when running. He desires to have industries placed on the same foting as schools and churches in the matter of taxation, holding that they are of benefit to the community when in operation.

Lincoln County Fair.

Merrill, Wis., Aug. 25.—The twelfth annual fair of the Lincoln County Agricultural society began today, to continue four days. Three thousand dollars is hung up in purses and as a result there are a great many entries for the races.

The special features include daily balloon ascensions and parachute jumps and an extensive fireworks display.

Uncle Sam Objects.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—The United States government, through the internal revenue office of St. Paul, has forbidden Prof. Harry Snyder of the Minnesota experiment station to manufacture denatured alcohol on the state fair grounds during the state fair next week, and Prof. Snyder is somewhat in doubt whether he is the victim of red tape or an object of official suspicion.

Devils Lake, N. D.—National Bank Examiner J. Smith of Topeka, Kan., is in North Dakota checking up the banks, looking after the work formerly cared for by F. B. Chapman of Williams county, who resigned.

Fargo, N. D.—A. R. Watkins has returned from Des Moines, Iowa, where he attende the second annual convention of the American Association of Title Men as a delegate from the Abstracters' association of North Dakota. Mr. Watkins reports a most enjoyable trip and a splendid convention.

Minot, N. D.—George Robinson of Kenmare was fined $10 and costs by Judge Davis for having some game in his possession out of season. Robinson was arrested by the game warden and it was claimed that he had twelve ducks in his possession. The state let him off, however, by the payment of the fine for having one duck in his possession out of season.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Abner Brown, the piano tuner, accused of criminal assault, waived examination at the preliminary hearing and was held in the sum of $1,000 for trial in the district court in December. He was unable to furnish a bond and went to jail. The complainant is Priscilla Frazier, aged 15 years, of East Grand Forks.

Bismarck, N. D.—The "Dakota Farmers' Song," written by Mrs. Minnie C. Budlong of this city, has been set to music by Thomas C. Rice, the musical composer, and copies of the song will be printed by Commissioner Gilbreath and distributed at the fairs, where the exhibits from North Dakota will be displayed.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—Allan F. Rees of Houghton has been advised that his brother, Maj. Thomas H. Rees, has been appointed chief engineer of the department of the lakes, U. S. army. His headquarters will be at Chicago.

Hancock—A reunion took place at the home of Edward Cuff Saturday evening, the event being the meeting of Mr. Cuff and his youngest sister who resides in New York city. The two had not met in over twenty years.

Calumet—Secretary George Williams of the Laurium Park association has arranged for a big racing meeting to be held at the new Laurium park three days, Sept. 17, 18 and 19, when purses amounting to $2,000 will be offered.

Houghton—James J. Byers & Co. will complete, early this week, the contract for the construction of the spur from the Atlantic railroad to the Superior mine at Section 15. The firm will complete this job in much quicker time than was expected, as the grading was done over a pretty rough country and at the start was thought to be a very difficult piece of work.

Hancock—It is expected that the work of installing the new exchange at the Quincy will be completed the latter part of the week. Miss Anna Sullivan, an operator from the Houghton exchange, will be operator at the Quincy.

Laurium—John Foills, formerly in the local offices of Paine, Webber & Co., Calumet, but lately of Detroit, has arrived in Laurium to take a temporary position on relief work in the brokerage offices of J. A. Minnear & Co.

Menominee—Since Wednesday night, when the warning was given the Menominee authorities and the dog owners of the city of Menominee, fourteen animals running about the city streets without muzzles have fallen victims to the revolvers of the officials.

Calumet—It is stated that an athletic association will be organized here in the near future, or that the old Calumet Athletic club will be reorganized for the purpose of arranging wrestling and other sporting events during the coming fall and winter.

Crystal Falls—The Amasa train was wrecked on its return trip last Wednesday afternoon, just south of the high trestle over Holmes creek. The wreck was as bad a sample as has ever been seen in this locality, but the passengers came out of it with no serious injury.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Gillette—Sparks from the fire of the village hall, which was burned down to the ground Saturday, ignited the hardware store of G. Bocher and the barns of H. Sorenson and J. Simpson. Sam Bush, fireman, was hit by the nozzle of a hose. By hard fighting the village was saved from destruction.

Chippewa Falls—Behnke Bros., whose sawmill at Park Falls blew up Thursday and killed one man, were the owners of a sawmill near Holcombe, Chippewa county, which blew up Jan. 22, 1906 and killed seven men and injured a number of others. Following this, Behnke Bros. moved to Flambeau, where their holdings burned up. They then went to Park Falls.

Green Bay—The Bankers' Supply company of Denver will locate a manufacturing branch at this city with S. B. Linton, its secretary, in charge of the lithographing department. About a score of skilled mechanics will be put to work.

Sanborn—Elmer Dusault died Friday afternoon of diabitis. He was 16 years of age, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dusault. He had been ailing for some time, but his death was sudden and unexpected. He was buried Monday from the Catholic church.

Ashland—United States Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota was visiting old friends in the city Saturday and was tendered an informal banquet at the Knight hotel. Senator Clapp was a resident of Wisconsin for about seventeen years, having resided at Hudson, and began his political career as county attorney of St. Croix county.

Sheboygan—William Schlicht, a well-known resident of Sheboygan, died very suddenly Saturday. He had just returned to his home from a ride when he was stricken. Mr. Schlicht was 50 years of age.

Ashland—Frank Allis of Chicago was killed while trying to board a Wisconsin Central train at White River. A card in his pocket gave his mother's address.

About sixty guests were present, among them relatives from out of town, and the aged couple received many hearty congratulations.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Carlton—Earl, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Sheils, was severely kicked by a horse Friday. His nose is broken, though his condition is not considered critical. It is thought that the boy will be disfigured for life.

St. Cloud—Fire destroyed the large stock barn and two smaller barns of J. H. Dahler of the town of Le Sauk Friday, entailing a loss of over $1,000. All the harnesses, a large amount of hay, a number of chickens and one calf were burned up. It was only fortunate that the wind was in the right direction or else the dwelling house, as well as the grain stacks would also have fallen a prey to the blaze.

Omaha—Mr. and Mrs. J. Love have given a contract to H. E. Barton for the erection of a large new building on the site where their restaurant now stands. The building to be erected will be 24 by 40 feet, two stories high, and will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The present building will be moved to the rear end of the new structure and will be used as a kitchen.

Mr. Olen has lived here a number of years, ever since he came from Norway in 1882, except nine years at Perley, so was one of the old-timers in this part of the country. He was section foreman for the Great Northern.

Badger—Andrew Johnson of Stafford was crossing the bridge over Roseau river, near his place, and the bridge collapsed precipitating both him, his team and a load of lumber into the water, a distance of sixteen feet. Mr. Johnson came out of the accident with a broken rib and a few minor bruises, but the team was practically uninjured.

Barnesville—Train crews of No. 548, a local freight between here and Crookston, report the killing of Bob Woods, a merchant of Felton, who was struck by the Winnipeg limited.

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him, and he has not suffered for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and, although 60 years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

EAST OMAHA HAS A $100,000 BLAZE.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 25.—Damage approximating $100,000 was caused by a fire which started at 1 o'clock this morning in the coal chutes of the Omaha Wagon works at East Omaha. The building was filled with wood and much inflammable material, and it was but a few minutes before it was completely enveloped in flames.— Eight cars of lumber attached to a switch engine were standing on a side track near by, but the progress of the flames was so rapid that it was not possible to move the cars out of range before the sparks settled in the lumber, and the cars and their contents were consumed. The loss to the wagon works company is from $60,000 to $70,000. The plant of the Omaha Saddle Tree company was damaged to the extent of $15,000 to $20,000.

MARINE NEWS

TOURIST TRADE LIVELY.

Passenger Agents Say This Has Been a Bumper Year.

It's been a great tourist season on the Great Lakes. There has been by far more passenger travel on the freighters, and passengers than for some years past. With the decreased rates aboard ship it has been almost cheaper to travel than stay at home, and this fact has been taken advantage of by a great many Eastern people to see Duluth and vicinity.

Then there has hardly been two weeks since the opening of navigation that there hasn't been one or more private yachts in the harbor. The dullness of the summer season has lessened the amount of work, and the rich men of the country have been able to get away, sometimes the first chance they have had in some years.

One striking fact that amazes Eastern people is that in the Duluth harbor there are not more private yachts. In almost every other harbor of the Great Lakes there are a great many of these pretty little boats. The fact is that Duluth as a whole goes in more for the small fast motor boat style of craft rather than the large comfortable lounging style of boat. Then again most Duluth people are afraid to trust themselves in a small boat on Lake Superior, and confine themselves mostly to the harbor and river and therefore do not feel the need of private yachts.

Duluth people, too, have been traveling more this year than ever before. Every departing boat of every kind carried with it a crowd of tourists from this city. Passenger agents of the city have expressed their surprise from time to time as the outlook in the beginning was for a very dull season. "We haven't had to give any rates, or scatter flaming advertisements throughout the city this year to make people travel," said a passenger agent this morning. "It's just seemed to come natural, and the boat companies have enjoyed the best season in years."

The Degraff Aground.

Buffalo, Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The big freighter, Lemrand S. Degraff, ran aground at Windmill Point near Crystal Beach about 3 o'clock this morning. She is loaded with ore for Buffalo. The lighter Olga and two tugs of the Great Lakes Towing company have gone to her. It is not known how hard aground the vessel is, but it is expected that several hundred tons will have to be lightered.

ARE WILLING TO REMOVE SWITCH

Traction Company Afraid Theater Patrons Will Object, However.

The Duluth Street Railway company, in a communication to the council last night, said it was perfectly willing to take out the switch in front of the Lyceum theater, as requested by business men in the block, provided the aldermen would guarantee that the company would not be asked to replace the switch a little later, on a petition signed by theater-goers.

The company says it is quite an expense to maintain the switch, but that from the theater patrons' standpoint it is quite necessary, as being the only means by which the cars can be held to await the theater crowds. Without the switch there could be only two extra cars, and they would have to be kept at Eighth avenue west, necessitating a delay in getting them to Fifth avenue. Aside from these, the patrons would have to depend on the regular cars, a great inconvenience in the winter time, it is argued. The street car people say the switch is maintained only as an accommodation to the general public, and that if the patrons are willing, they will be glad to remove it.

It is requested, however, that the council take immediate action, for the reason that new switches have been ordered, at an expense ranging upwards of $1,000. These will be ready for delivery shortly, unless the order is canceled. If the change is to be made, the traction company wants an opportunity to head off the order, and thus not be put to the needless expense of getting switches which they cannot use. The matter has been referred to the railroad committee of the council for further investigation.

Whist Club Scores.

Twelve players, forming three tables, took part in the seventh game of the present tournament at the rooms of the Duluth Whist club last night. The variations North-South were 23, while East-West they were but 10. The score:

North-South.

Kennedy-Becher	160+ 4.67
Mather-Lardner	156+ .67
Logan-R. D. Bradley	150- 5.33
Total	466
Average	155.33

East-West.

Bradley-Buchanan	171+14.33
Edson-McCreary	151- 5.67
Cleveland-Hallock	148- 8.67
Total	470
Average	156.67

One more game remains to be played. When it is finished the first fall tournament will begin and all players intending to take part are requested to be present. Players intending to join the club are invited to be present next Monday night, so that they can get an idea of the system of play.

Just What the Young Fellows Want

That is what we think about the stylish suits we are ready to show you for Fall wear.

They are cut to please the young man's fancy.

There are sizes large enough to fit older men who like something out of the ordinary.

Browns are to be popular and we have them in many shades and patterns.

You'll like the way the coats are cut.

You'll like the peg-top trousers, with wide hems for cuffs, if you want them.

You'll like the sleeve cuffs and the initial vests.

In fact you can't help but admire everything about these suits, and we invite your early inspection of them.

THE COLUMBIA

COMMITTEE IS MEETING

Necessary Appropriations Being Considered by Departments.

Reductions in Amounts Asked for in Every Instance.

The city conference committee is holding a meeting this afternoon at the city hall. The matter of appropriations for the several city departments for next year will come up, but no definite action will be taken at this meeting. The committee will meet again, Sept. 19, when the matter of appropriations for next year will come up for final passage.

The appropriations for next year are the most important things for the committee to consider just now. Every department has asked for more than it will be likely to get, and the head of every department stands ready to put up strong arguments showing why their requests should be allowed to the full amounts asked for.

Last year none of the appropriations made for 1908 was as large as asked for, and it is expected the same will hold true of the present year in deciding upon the size of the appropriations for 1909. City Comptroller McCormick has given out a table of figures, published in The Herald two or three weeks ago, showing how low the appropriations probably will be. Heads of departments interested say the city comptroller has no right to decide on the figures. The session of Sept. 19 probably will be a lively one. Everyone will be trying to convince the committee that a larger appropriation is needed for his department.

It is altogether likely that there will be an increase in the appropriation for the police department. Eight new patrolmen are needed to make a good show at policing the city. The present force is entirely inadequate to meet the demands made upon it. The West end police station will be built next year, and other improvements are needed in the department. There will be a recommendation that a police patrol wagon be purchased, and that an automobile for hurry calls be bought for the detective force. Such a machine often could be used to good advantage. The murder of Mrs. Ada Loos, on the Pike Lake road not long ago, was a good example of this.

PICKED OUT BEST HORSES

Did Two Thieves in Northern Cass County, N. D.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Stealing a pair of fine work horses from a barn near which the harvest hands slept, two thieves made their escape with their plunder undetected. The animals were taken from the Staples farm in the northern part of Cass county, and the men are thought to have gone north. The animals stolen were the pick of the horses, and the thieves also took harness and a buggy.

WANTS $7,500 FOR USELESS ARM

Albert J. Weber Brings Suit Against Consumers' Iron Company.

Valuing the use of his right arm for the remainder of his life at $7,500 Albert J. Weber, aged 22 years, this morning filed suit against the Consumers' Ore company for that sum.

Weber was employed as a steam shovel crane man at the company's property at Mountain Iron and was engaged Dec. 22 last in cleaning a steam shovel. He charges that a blast was set off in the frozen ground about fifty feet from him, without proper warning or proper protection to him.

He says he was struck on the right shoulder by a piece of frozen earth, knocked unconscious and was laid up for some time. He claims that he will never be able to use his right arm again and asks the judgment of the court for redress.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express company, Chicago, writes: "Our general superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier, who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the Twenty-third Ohio regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by all druggists.

BROKERS SUE FOR STOCK LOSSES

Gay & Sturgis Claim That Clients Refused to Make Good.

Claiming that Michael F. Kelly refused to foot his losses in stock market operations carried on through his agent, Samuel Uren, the stock brokerage firm of Gay & Sturgis this morning filed suit in district court against Uren and Kelly for $509.25 and interest from April 1, 1907, at the rate of 6 per cent, claimed to be due as the balance on three deals.

The company alleges that about Aug. 1, 1907, Uren, without disclosing his agency for Kelly, requested the company to purchase 500 shares of Cliff stock at $2.50 per share, which was done, the amount due from Uren for the stock being $1,231.25, including commissions. It is claimed that Uren refused to accept the certificate or pay for the stock and told the company to sell it again. It brought in the market $731.25 and $31.25 more in commissions due. The balance in favor of the brokers was then $581.25, but Uren again refused to pay it.

It is claimed that afterwards Uren requested the brokers to sell 100 shares of National, which brought $72 less the commissions, which were deducted from the balance due, leaving $509.25 still due the brokers. The relationship between Uren and Kelly was brought out later it is claimed and they were made co-defendants in the suit.

These Prices Talk.

Men's up-to-date suits, $25, $22.50 at $16.85; $20 and $18 suits at $12.85; $15 and $12 at only $8.85. Dark shades, still a good assortment of sizes, C. W. Ericson, 219 West Superior street.

NEBRASKAN IS NEW MAN

Campaign Managers Surprised at Complete Change in Bryan.

Has Learned His Lesson and is Now Making War.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Walter Wellman says in the Record-Herald: He is the new Bryan, indeed. He has learned the game in the bitterly good school of experience, and is playing it to the queen's taste.

Such is the judgment of the Democratic campaign managers who for two days now have been in consultation with their candidate in this city. He has both delighted and amazed them. Those of them who were associated with him in his former battles for the presidency are utterly surprised at the change that has come over the man. They had heard that he was a "new Bryan." Now they know it. Any they like the metamorphosis.

The Bryan of years ago was all aggressiveness, always combative, always argumentative, always declamatory, always eager to discuss every question under the sun, offhand, at the drop of a hat. Organization he cared little about. Ideas were the things, and man was given speech to make his ideas known. There was something magnificent about the Bryan of those earlier days—his beautiful self-confidence, his calm assurance that he could go forth in the land with that agile brain, that nimble tongue, that splendid voice of his, and capture the people, charm away their prejudices and their fears, rally them in sheer fascination to his side, and conquer the earth. It was magnificent—the dream of youth, of the idealist, of the preacher, of the proselyter, of the man of brains and eloquence and the fine self-assurance of a glorious strength. No one more doubts that all the world should agree with him than that he can compel it to do so. It was magnificent, but it was not war. It won no victories.

The new Bryan is making war. He has learned his lesson. No longer is he the armed and plumed knight, riding full tilt, with a serene smile upon his face, against the prejudices of the multitude. No longer is he trying to carry the country by assault. No longer is his motto, "I'll make them believe as I do and vote for me." Now he is trying to find the way they are inclined to go on their own account, and thither he is graciously and gracefully willing to lead them. He has taken a leaf out of the book of the most successful statesman-politician of our day and generation, Mr. Roosevelt, with whom it has ever been a favorite maxim that if you see a crowd running or just getting ready to run put yourself at their head and beckon them on.

The old Bryan was always talking about "principles" and "rights" and other big sounding things. The new Bryan sits for six hours in a conference with his lieutenants going painstakingly over all the details of organization—how to raise the money, how to spend it, how to get results. "Above all, organization, right down to the precincts." Mr. Bryan believes he was beaten in 1896 and 1900 because his party was not properly organized; and now that he has put his mind to this sort of thing, he astonishes his aids with his skill and suggestiveness and understanding and resourcefulness.

Our knight errant of the earlier campaigns, eager to break a lance with all comers in a polemic joust, has become caution itself—a prosperous, sedate, sharp witted man with a fine smile and a keen eye to the main chance. Now, instead of raiding the people, storming them, overwhelming them with his valor and voice, he is eager not to offend them, not to rasp upon their prejudices, not to rouse their latent fears. Instead of the mad charge we now find him tiptoeing his way carefully upon the field of discussion. All his important speeches he writes beforehand. He even reads them, with spectacles across his nose. What a sad fall is here, my countrymen! The "greater orator than Demosthenes or Cicero," as Governor Glenn said of him in the altitudes of Denver, the very flower of the chivalry of eloquence, the man who won a party and once upon a time set out to win a kingdom with the magic of his tongue, now reading his speeches from a printed page, with spectacles on his nose, just like Roosevelt or Taft!

When a Bryan thus comes down from the heights where stood the cross of gold and grew the crown of thorns we may as well conclude, once for all, that these be prosaic, matter-of-fact, commonplace, bread-and-butter days we have fallen upon.

If further proof is wanted, we find it in the determination of the once militant Bryan to be as mild and inoffensive as new cheese, in his general policy of caution and organization and avoidance of stepping on any one's toes, in his already well known because oft-used formula for warding off the awkward inquiries of men who want to know how he stands on this or that—"It is not in the Denver platform and I cannot discuss it."

Yes, the chiefs at Democratic headquarters have a right to feel amazed as well as pleased. He is the new Bryan, for sure. The silver-armored knight of the glorious days of '96, riding with leveled lance at every man that crossed his path, is now studying how not to step upon any exposed toes, how to extend the glad hand to every man with a vote. And when the missiles of pertinent or impertinent questions are seen flying in the air he retires to the little cyclone celler which he ever carries with him, bearing this sign on its outer wall: "You can't touch me; it is not in the Denver platform."

We can well understand why the chiefs at Democratic headquarters are happy over this new Bryan. He is a steadier, stronger candidate than he was in '96 or 1900. He is more helpful to them. He is a more effective general. He has learned his lesson. He has discovered that whilst hundreds of thousands of people will jostle one another in their eagerness to see and hear a real crusader, not many of them will vote for him. He has tempered his method till it is less romantic and more timely, and in true sympathy with the spirit of our people. He rouses less curiosity, but wins more confidence. He is less the cavalier, but more the hard-headed thinker, capable of making an impression upon the minds of a business people with plain talks on such business questions as tariff, trusts, bank deposits.

And what the Democratic chiefs like best of all about their old-new candidates is that in their eyes he looks and acts like a winner and has inspired them all with his own sublime confidence of success.

REAPPORTIONMENT.

After quoting a recent article from these columns concerning the need of a legislative reapportionment that will give Northern Minnesota a justly proportionate representation in the state legislature, the Rochester Bulletin says: "So far as the decrease in population in Southern Minnesota spoken of by The Herald is concerned, there is a big chance for a mistake. It may be true of a single county, as instanced—Fillmore county—but it is not true of the southern part of the state as a whole. The per cent of gain in population is no doubt in favor of the northern part of the state, and justice may demand a reapportionment, but we do not believe that such reapportionment would lessen the representation from Southern Minnesota as suggested by The Herald's article."

The Rochester paper is in error in two respects. In the first place, if "justice demands a reapportionment," as the Bulletin rather grudgingly admits, Northern Minnesota, with its larger increase in population, would certainly gain from the reapportionment. If Northern Minnesota gained, Southern Minnesota would have to lose, unless the membership of the legislature is greatly increased, which is not desirable since both branches are now very much larger than the average throughout the country, and are quite as large as is necessary. Therefore if Northern Minnesota gained by a reapportionment, some part of the state would lose; and it would have to be that part of the state where in many instances a representative is elected by 8,000 or 10,000 people, while in the northern part of the state there are several instances where members are elected by 50,000 to 60,000 people.

It is not true that Southern Minnesota as a whole has decreased in population since the last apportionment, and The Herald did not say so. But it is true that more than one county in Southern Minnesota decreased in the decade from 1895 to 1905, between the last two state censuses. In fact, nine counties showed decreases, as follows: Houston, Winona, La Sueur, Fillmore, Rice, Blue Earth, Waseca, Goodhue and Sibley. Nine counties in Southern Minnesota, including the one in which the Rochester paper is published, showed gains of less than 5 per cent, as follows: Nicollet, Mower, Faribault, McLeod, Carver, Wabasha, Olmsted, Dodge and Scott. These eighteen counties have the same representation that they had in 1889, the only reapportionment since that time consisting simply of adding new members to both houses. The same thing is true of Steele, Freeborn and Dakota counties, which increased between 1895 and 1905 only 5 to 10 per cent; and of Brown, Rock, Watonwan, Jackson and Cottonwood counties, which increased 10 to 25 per cent.

On the other hand Northern Minnesota counties that have increased 50 to 1406 per cent between 1895 and 1905, and from 50 to 3434 per cent between 1900 and 1905, still have the same representation that they had before these increases were registered; which is manifestly an injustice the righting of which no portion of the state should oppose for a moment.

A SAD CONDITION.

The mere statement that there are more than two hundred children of school age in Duluth who will be unable to attend school this fall because they have not suitable clothing is enough to appeal to the generous people of Duluth without further argument or pleading; for the fact itself is so pathetically eloquent that the response to the story published in The Herald last evening should be prompt and adequate.

Jean Fraser, Bethel missionary, has been investigating the situation, and she finds that a larger number of families than usual are in destitute circumstances in this city. This is not hard to understand, for the demand for labor has not been up to the normal during the past year, and many families, in Duluth as well as elsewhere, have been put upon very short commons.

Miss Fraser said: "I appeal to those who have the comforts of life to help those who are less favored. School will soon begin, and there are many mothers who are working hard to make both ends meet, but who cannot earn enough money properly to clothe their children and at the same time provide them with sufficient food. There is plenty of good cast-off clothing in the homes of the rich and well-to-do in our city to clothe every one of these poor children. I have visited every one of these poor families and know them and their wants. If this cast-off clothing can be sent to the Bethel, I shall see that it goes to the homes where it is most needed."

There should be an abundant response to this most touching and most timely appeal.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

Both parties profess to be experiencing great difficulty in getting enough campaign money to make the fight they wish to make for their respective candidates for president.

In the past the lavish contributions of the corporations have provided ample campaign funds. The Republican party, being the party in power and the party most to the liking of special privilege, got the most money, but there were corporations which had in mind the possibility of Democratic victory, and which hoped to safeguard themselves by contributing to both parties. Both parties, therefore, have been guilty of taking corporation contributions; but in reality it is the people who are guilty. If they would take enough interest in their parties to contribute a dollar apiece, both would be amply supplied with funds without calling upon the corporations. The corporations have supplied the money and have got the results. If the people had supplied the money they might have had the results themselves. The Socialist party, which has no hope of corporation contributions, is plentifully supplied with campaign money because its members contribute 25 cents apiece monthly; and Republicans and Democrats could, if they would, learn a valuable lesson from the partisanship of the Socialists.

But what if it should come about that neither of the two great parties is able to accumulate a campaign fund? The federal law explicitly prohibits corporation contributions under heavy penalties, and the people have not yet learned to support their parties. What would happen if neither party received a dollar except what the candidates themselves contributed?

The chances are that the United States would elect a president just the same, and that all of the offices from the presidency down to poundmaster would be filled. There is no reason to fear, either, that the people's choice would be any poorer when uninfluenced by an expensive campaign than it is when the fight is a contest as to which party can spend the most money. Indeed, the chances are the other way, for the influence of large campaign funds is likely to be corruptive rather than beneficial.

A certain amount of campaign expenditure is perfectly legitimate. Speakers, meetings, literature and advertising are proper, and in a measure necessary. Brass bands, torchlight parades, and other artificial methods of spurring enthusiasm are less necessary, and are rather going out of fashion. But the amount of money that can be spent in these ways is limited. Half a million dollars ought to provide all the essentials of a campaign of education, espcially since the newspapers, by their free discussion of the issues, by their reports of public speeches and by the admission to their columns of communications relating to the campaign, furnish an adequate medium for the spread of campaign education.

On the whole, it is better to have too little campaign money than too much. It may hamper the politicians to have a scarcity of money, but it has never yet been shown that it tends to cloud the people's minds or to make their choice more difficult or less careful.

THE TWO-CENT FARE LAW.

Several of the smaller and less prosperous railroads of Northern Minnesota have, as shown by a local article in The Herald last night, gone back to the old 3-cent passenger rate basis, after continuing for some time upon the 2-cent basis provided by the famous 2-cent fare law passed by the last Minnesota legislature. The larger roads are still maintaining the lower rate, and it is improbable that any of them will change back.

Properly, the legislature should have excepted such roads as those that have restored the higher rate from the operation of the law. While 2 cents per mile is an ample rate in a thickly settled region like Central and Southern Minnesota, it is probably too low a rate for new railroads engaged in opening up new and sparsely settled territory. The legislature would have shown better faith in the passage of this act if it had made provision accordingly, for it would probably be easy for the weaker roads to show that the 2-cent rate is confiscatory as to them.

However, the law still stands, and in it is a provision that officers or agents of railroad companies charging more than 2 cents per mile are liable to fines of $5,000 or imprisonment in the state penitentiary for five years. This includes ticket agents and conductors. However, the companies that are violating the law have pretty fair assurance that these penalties will not be visited upon them, for by inference, though not directly, the supreme court of the United States has ruled that the law is unconstitutional. It should be amended into proper form by the next legislature.

MR. PAYNE'S TARIFF ENTHUSIASM.

Being honored with casual mention as a possible Republican candidate for governor of New York, Congressman Sereno Elisha Payne, Republican floor leader of the national house of representatives, crisply said: "I am not and shall not be a candidate for governor. My present ambition is to be re-elected to congress and help revise the tariff."

We can imagine the boiling enthusiasm with which Mr. Payne, the arch-standpatter who is only a little less arch than Speaker Cannon, contemplates the pleasant task of tariff revision which lies before him. He is undoubtedly stimulated in his ambition by the alluring phrase of the Republican platforms upon the principle of protection, to the effect that the tariff should, besides taking care of the difference in labor cost of production, "provide a reasonable profit to the manufacturer." That phrase, indeed, is very much more alluring to the standpatter than it is to the humble citizen crying for real relief from the exactions of the tariff robbery.

Mr. Payne is crazy to get back to congress to help revise the tariff; so is Mr. Cannon of Illinois; so is Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania; so is Mr. Tawney of Minnesota. And Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is going to be there, too, because his term does not expire; and Mr. McCleary of Minnesota is trying for a re-election after one idle term during which a Democrat who does not believe in tariff thievery has occupied his place.

But whatever else is the outcome of the election, we hope that not a single one of these anxious tariff revisionists gets back to have a finger in the pie. It would help most if Speaker Cannon failed to get back, though he will probably be elected representative, and if he is put out of power it must be through the election of a house composed of enough independent Republicans to vote him down and put a fair man in his place; or, failing in that, through the election of a Democratic house that will do what the Republican house has not yet dared to do: restore that body to its old position as a popular forum in which the people's interests are not crowded out of the field by the more powerful interests of special privilege.

The idea of Payne, Cannon, Dalzell, McCleary and the rest returning to congress to help revise the tariff is sinister and menacing. If they are as powerful in the next house as they are in the present one, it means that tariff revision "by the friends of the tariff" will be the gloomiest and most expensive joke ever perpetrated upon the American people.

Let's hope that it will not turn out that way. Let's hope that these men will either be defeated or turned out of power by a new force in congress. It matters not a whit to the people whether that force is composed of anti-Cannon and anti-standpat and anti-selfish privilege Republicans, or of Democrats. The main thing is to have a house cleaning, and to bring about the re-establishment of the old-time prestige of the house as an independent and unshackled forum.

Legislative reapportionment is another "square deal" which Minnesota owes to Northern Minnesota.

The nation will have to pardon Minnesota if it does not give proper heed to national politics until after the primary election is out of the way.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

It would make a Duluthian puff up with pride to hear the nice things the visiting editors had to say about the city. Most of the members of the National Editorial association were gathered at the Spalding last night, and they couldn't say too much for the hospitality shown them while guests of this city. The boulevard drive was the sight that took the eye of every one of the visitors, Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, Ohio, stating that there was a more beautiful view from the boulevard than from Mount Royale, Montreal.

"You have a wonderful city," said Congressman Ashbrook. "The buildings are substantial and you have every sign of prosperity. The people here have certainly given us a good time, and we have enjoyed seeing the many interesting sights this city has to show."

When asked about the political situation in Ohio, Congressman Ashbrook, who is a candidate for renomination upon the Democratic ticket, and has no opposition, by the way, stated that things were looking exceedingly bright for the Democratic national ticket in his state. He gave as cause for this the fight between Foraker and the Taft forces; the fact that Judson Harmon, the Democratic nominee for governor, is a candidate who is apparently suited to both the liberals and the radical voters who are in favor of prohibition, and also to the fact that there is little enthusiasm for the Republican ticket.

"I predict that there will be eight additional Democratic congressmen from Ohio in the Sixty-first congress," said Congressman Ashbrook. "There is a lot of dissatisfaction with the Republican party in Ohio. Times are not any too good, and the farmers are not satisfied with the record of the party in power. I believe that in the approaching election the Democratic party stands the best chance it has ever had to carry the state of Ohoo."

Hon. A. B. White, former governor of West Virginia and ex-president of the editorial association, is another member of the association who thinks Duluth is one of the most promising cities in the entire country. The first thing that Mr. White saw in Duluth that reminded him of home was a piece of West Virginia coal. "You know you get lots of the Virginia coal up here," said Mr. White, who recognized the home product immediately and told his friends that it was from "Ole Virginny."

Governor White was here in 1892, when the boom prices were on all real estate. The next year the panic struck Duluth and prosperity took wings of the night. Governor White was almost dumfounded by the change he saw in the city. He had heard that Duluth had grown and developed, but he didn't expect to find such a transformation as he beheld when he alighted from the train.

Governor White says that prosperity is returning to the South, and that in his opinion normal conditions will have been resumed within a very short time. He says the South is expanding commercially and is making progress in the solving of the race problem. Governor White says there is really no race problem in West Virginia, although the last state Democratic platform contained a plank recommending the providing of "Jim Crow" cars for the negroes, and also recommending their disenfranchisement.

J. A. Richardson, better known as "Joe," is editor of the Sunflower Torsin," at Indianola, Miss. It was at this little town that President Roosevelt attempted to force a colored postmistress on the people. The citizens of Indianola informed the president that they did not wish a colored woman for postmistress. The woman did not want to serve, either, for that matter. However, the president insisted, telling the citizens that they would either accept the colored woman, or the office would be closed. The office was closed until the Federal authorities were ready to reopen it with a white postmistress.

"Joe" Richardson once got out his paper in a boat. The floods had been conditions in the South are improving. He town up to it's armpits. "Joe's little print shop looked like an Atlantic City bathhouse when high tide is in. He skirmished around for a boat and rowed out to the home of the Sunflower Torsin. Tying the painter to the handle of the door, he collected his thoughts, also some type, and oiling the wet and discouraged printing press, proceeded to get out the weekly edition of the Sunflower. There wasn't a dry line in the paper that day.

Miss Maud Thomas of Beaver, Okla., is the only woman editor with the party. Miss Thomas says that there are more papers in Oklahoma than one would imagine would be the case in such a new state. There is so much public printing to do, for they are rushing public affairs out in the newest state, that papers have sprung into existence over night. They are not all making money, according to Miss Thomas ,but a good many of them are.

Miss Thomas says that people are still coming in great numbers to Oklahoma, but that most of the government land has been taken up. However, she says that there are many lines that are opening up in the new state, and that no one need be idle in Oklahoma.

John Dymond, editor of the Sugar Planter, one of the best known trade papers in the United States, is from New Orleans. Mr. Dymond says that the present cotton crop will be very heavy, but at the present time the price is not very high. He says that conditions in the South are improvign and that the industrial situation will assume a normal tone before very long.

"I want to thank the people of Duluth for the good time they have extended to us," said Mr. Dymond, who is the typical Southerner in his old school politeness. "They have certainly treated us royally. I was most interested in seeing your city. It is one of the busiest cities I have seen for a long time. You have every natural resource here, and if I mistake not, some day Duluth will be a great city. From your boulevard drive you get one of the finest views in the country."

J. H. Simms, editor of the Morning Tribune of East Liverpool, Ohio, is a former Minnesotan, who has not been within the state for thirty-three years. When he got off the Huronic at Duluth, the other day, it was the first time he had set foot within the state for that long span of years. He was formerly an employe of the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Editor Simms is another man who says some kind things about Duluth. "Duluth is all right," he said. "All of us want to say to the good people of this city they gave us one of the best times we have enjoyed during the entire trip. Not only that, but Duluth is a coming city, and some day the people up here, who don't realize it now, will wake up to the fact that they are living in one of the most remarkable cities in the entire country. I don't think the people living in Duluth quite appreciate it. But one coming here from another city is struck by this fact. Some day Duluth will not only be a great mineral shipping point, but it will also be a great manufacturing center."

THE WEATHER.

A northeast breeze, which is to be expected about this time of the year, kept it cool yesterday and today, and it is the weather man's opinion that before it changes to southerly, which will be tomorrow, it will bring local showers. This morning it was cloudy and threatening, as well as cool. Last night's lowest temperature was 48 degs. and yesterday's highest was 58 degs. A year ago today fine weather prevailed.

The sun rose this morning at 5:18 and sets tonight at 7:02, making 13 hours and 44 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "The distribution of barometric pressure remains about the same as Monday morning, highs central over Lake Superior and off the Oregon coast and lows central over Alabama and Alberta, the principal difference being a fall in pressure throughout most of the Northwest during the past twenty-four hours, this fall being attended by warmer weather from Colorado and Nebraska northward. Those conditions caused further rains in Kansas, the Gulf and South Atlantic states and Western Canada, and the development of showers in North Dakota and the Red River valley. Cooler temperatures prevail in the plateau region, British Columbia and Alberta, as result of the Oregon high pressure."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

Upper Lakes—Fresh to brisk variable winds tonight and Wednesday; generally fair except possibly local showers on Michigan and Superior.

The Little Sister.

The sighing trees—they all stood round—
Their friendly arms around me cast;
The brook with mingled shadow-sound
Of laughter and of sobbing passed;
The bank whereon I lay was spread
With small soft mosses, thick and deep;
The faint breeze stooped above my bed . . .
These spoke with one accord, and said,
"Our Little Sister—let her weep—
Hush, let her weep!"

Their voices all afar withdrew
What time the tears ran free and fain . . .
Those tears the mosses drank as dew,
Those tears the brook received as rain,
For tears the trees their balsam shed.
Then shook my heart, my grief, to keep,
And gave their griefless calm instead,
And once again all spake, and said:
"Our Little Sister—let her sleep—Hush, let her sleep!"

—EDITH M. THOMAS.

Corporation Contributions.

New York Sun: Having learned at last of the law prohibiting the contribution of money to campaign funds by corporations, George B. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, has been returning such illegal gifts as have been forwarded to the party strong box. As he addressed the envelopes in which these needed, longed for but unpayallable sums went back to the givers, he pondered the new law, with this result:

"This law is foolish and should be repealed. A corporation should be permitted to contribute funds to aid the election of any candidate which thinks will be instrumental in conserving its interests. The notion that there is a string attached to every such contribution is foolish."

"Foolish" the notion may be, but it is held with absolute conviction of its truth by so great a number of voters that the passage of an act repealing the law is not to be discussed seriously at this time, if ever. The English and Canadian statutes on the subject of campaign expenditures and contributions are more drastic than any now in force in this country, yet political campaigns are still conducted and funds are found to pay the expenses.

Lost.

From Paradise, one day, an angel brought
A radiant gem and placed it in the hand
Of one who waited. "Cherish it. Let naught
Its luster mar; forget it not," he said.
"Its light, now flashing, it will steadfast shed
As you are loyal to your love, and true.
It is the only one will shine for you.

The mortal looked upon the glowing thing
Exultingly. A great joy filled his heart.
Like a bright dewdrop, where the sunbeams fling
Light shafts reflected, it lay glistening there
White in its purity, surpassing fair —
The very kernel of all life, all truth,
The center of the harvest of love—of youth.

As time went on the mortal's wonder died.
That such a priceless gift should be his own
He tossed it high in foolish, boyish pride,
To watch its splendid rays flame in the sun;
He felt himself of gods the favored one.
Till once, in careless mood—a fatal day—
He put it down; forgetting, let it stay.

Then did he miss the light in two gray eyes,
That he was used to see, complacently,
The light that beams with Love's sublime surprise,
That touches earth with heaven's divinity.
The jewel! Vain the search. Swift penalty!
The angel's warning words remembered,
Told him the gem was gone, that Love was dead.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••Messrs. Sutphin, Hartley, Pressnell, Sherwood and Frank Burke have issued a card asking the aid of the citizens generally for Walker's Military band. Six months ago they employed Mr. Walker, a fine leader, guaranteeing him $55 per month, and he undertook the organization and leadership of a band. The entire cost of organizing and equipping this band, together with the leader's salary for the first six months, will not fall short of $1,200.

•••Miss Johanna Ryan and Michael Cleary of Ishpeming were married at the Benedictine priory last evening.

•••The body of Lyman Morey, formerly of The Herald's editorial staff, who was drowned in Burt lake, in Michigan, was buried at Lima, N. Y., where his mother resides.

•••G. Q. Moon of Binghamton, a well known and influential flour miller of New York state, is looking over Duluth. He regards Duluth's prospects as a flour milling center as the best in the entire West.

•••Peter C. New of the Furst, Jacobs & Co. Portage quarry, is in the city. His company and the one other at Portage Entry expect to ship 70,000 yards of stone to Duluth during the year.

•••Luke Cohn, a workman at Hubbard & Vincent's mill, was seriously injured yesterday by being struck by a falling tree, but no bones were broken. He was standing near the steam log roller, when the log became loosened and fell, striking one of his legs.

•••The third annual ball of the Polish society, Progress, will be given at Turner hall tonight. Frank Hoar's orchestra will furnish the music.

•••The government thermometer registered 80 degs. in the shade yesterday afternoon, making it by two or three degs. the hottest day of the year.

•••Ground was broken on the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern railroad at Red Wing yesterday. Ninety miles to Albert Lea will be built at once.

•••Leading officials of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic are expected in Duluth in a few days. Henry & Balch are already beginning work on the contract for the extension from Iron River junction to Duluth.

•••Bank clearings for the week are $2,813,878, an increase of nearly 300 per cent over the clearings of the corresponding week last year.

•••Against the $40,000 raised this year by the new issue of county bonds for road purposes, there is now work to the amount of $25,000 under construction. It is intended to spend $40,000 more next year on the roads.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Perham Enterprise: If Jacobson, Mills and Elmquist are elected, the corporations will be satisfied.

Anoka Free Press: Already Jacobson has grown greater, in his own estimation, than the powers that secured for him his nomination. Already he is reported to be apologizing for Bob Dunn's connection with his campaign, and at the very first opportunity presented turned down a very modest request by Mr. Dunn for a position for a competent lady friend on the clerical force of the central committee. This shows what other supporters of Jacobson would have to expect in case he were to become governor—which fortunately he never will.

Elk River Star-News: And still the political campaigns are languishing. We are told that things will be doing after the primary election but it will take something more than is apparent to the naked eye at present to get the people excited this fall.

Anoka Union: A well-defined rumor has it that the Jacobson crowd have given Bob Dunn the dirty shake. A diabolical outrage, if true.

Rochester Bulletin: That there is a unanimity of sentiment throughout the state in favor of Governor Johnson for a third term is evident, and the Bulletin is warranted in saying that our own county is in accord with this sentiment. It believes that it hazards nothing in the statement that if John A. Johnson is a candidate for re-election he will carry Olmsted county by as large a vote as he did two years ago.

Le Sueur News: Congressman Sereno E. Payne says it is his heart's desire to be elected to congress for another term so that he can assist in revising the tariff. Now we are more confident than ever that the Chicago platform means a revision upwards of the tariff.

Austin Transcript: It is far better to defeat an objectionable candidate at the primaries than have him defeated at the polls at the expense of the party.

Warroad Plaindealer: J. F. Jacobson used to do an abnormal amount of radical talking, and the interests didn't like him, and he couldn't get to be nominated nor governor at all. But for over a year Jacobson hasn't said a word, has been mum as an oyster, and is nominated for governor by the old-time Republican machine of Minnesota; and never was politics conducted so quiet. He who used always to be bawling his notions everywhere cannot now be heard by the people to whisper a single view. What is the reason?

St. Cloud Times: "Jake" made quite a lengthy speech at Duluth the other day, the first time for months that he has opened his mouth. If "Jake" wants to make a winning run for election he will do well to let the other fellows do most of the talking.—Sauk Center Herald.

Just so, especially as he "put his foot in it" by holding Governor Johnson responsible for increased taxation, appropriations, etc., for all of which the Republican legislature is responsible.

Eveleth News: It is to be hoped that the "big guns" who may stump the state for the Republican ticket this year will not damn Mr. Jacobson with faint praise in public and knock him incessantly in the barrooms of hotels at the close of each meeting.—Princeton Union (R. C. Dunn).

And in the interests of the ticket it is to be hoped Mr. Jacobson will not damn himself with faint speeches.

Governor Johnson's Acceptance.

Calumet, Mich., News (Rep.): Governor Johnson of Minnesota has accepted the nomination tendered him by the Democrats of that state for a third term. There are two good reasons for his acceptance. One is that his candidacy will add strength to the Democratic national ticket, a fact which Governor Johnson realizes as well as any one else, and the other that the people of Minnesota want Johnson. It is not often that a man who has served two terms as governor is tendered a renomination in the manner Johnson was. The delegates were a unit for his candidacy, county after county having been instructed for him, and no clearer case of a spontaneous expression of the popular wishes has ever been recorded in a political convention. Johnson did not want to run again and expressed himself emphatically on that point but under the circumstances he could not refuse. Quite a contrast to the situation in Michigan, where Governor Warner desires and is fighting for renomination for a third term and the Republicans have two other candidates up against him. In Minnesota there is no question how the Democrats, independent voters and many Republicans feel about Johnson, but in Michigan there is pronounced opposition to Warner, so much so that it is extremely doubtful if he will be renamed.

Not Decided Yet.

Springfield Republican (Ind.): John R. McLean's Cincinnati paper, the Enquirer, has abandoned hope entirely that Mr. Bryan can make gains in the West. It scans the field, fails to note a bolt of his party by any important radical Republican, and concludes that the Republican radicals in mass are well satisfied with their party and its present and prospective leadership. This conclusion coincides pretty closely with our own view of the probabilities, as they are at present defined. It should be pointed out, however, that Mr. McLean is very unfriendly to Mr. Bryan and that his Washington paper, the Post, which denies that ours is a government of the people or was ever intended to be, has at no time shown him any consideration. On this account, the Enquirer's testimony by itself is of the prejudiced sort that requires confirmation from other sources. It is too early to say that the Republican fight in the West is already won; and it is certain that Mr. Hitchcock is not proceeding on that assumption.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY.

Puck: Hope is not only cheap and comforting, but plentiful, and furthermore can be constructed right at home by oneself out of almost any old thing.

Cleveland Leader: "I'm all played out."

"I believe it; you never hurt yourself working."

"What is the height of your ambition?"

"Don't know exactly. About five feet three, I should say at a guess."

Baltimore American: Guest—I want to send a message upstairs.

Clerk—Have to wait, madam, till "Front's" back.

While considering the subject of uplifting life that's rural
Why not make it somewhat broader—let the uplift be made plural?
Why not ring the urban changes clear from attic unto cellar,
That life holds naught unpleasant for the harassed city dweller?

Why not penalize the neighbor who, with nerve that's nickle plated,
Throws her windows wide, wide open when her voice is cultivated?
Why not fine the talkman noisy who persists in tin can rattling
When for precious beauty slumber at the dawning you are battling?

Why not class as crime unpard'nable the crowing of the rooster,
Eke the loud and raucous throating of the rooting baseball booster?
Check the noises phonographic—make the book agents less active—
And the life of the city dweller will be slightly more attractive. —Denver Republican.

Waist-Line Shows Prosperity.

Providence Journal: There are certain evidences of prosperity that are not to be disputed. A prominent Boston manufacturer of clothing who "turns out 750,000 cheap suits of clothing annually" has discovered that the human waist-line is the barometer of public welfare. To a newspaper representative he said the other day:

"I have made a study of our business for a number of years and have drawn some very interesting economic lessons from it. Perhaps the most interesting is that ten years ago the principal call for our clothing, which goes largely to the West and South, was for waist measurements of 33 and 34 inches, 34 in the West and 33 in the South. Now the call is largely for 35 and 36-inch waist measurements to the same class of people. This means better methods in American ways of living."

That ought to settle it for some time. So long as the waist-line is expanding, what is the use of all this talk about the iniquitous trusts, the tariff, forest despoliation and the high price of putty?

Gathering Roses.

Emporia Gazette: I've gathered roses and the like in many glad and golden Junes; but now, as down the world I hike, my weary hands are filled with prunes. I've gathered roses o'er and o'er, and some were white, and some were red; but when I took them to the store the grocer wanted eggs instead. I gathered roses long ago, in other days, in other scenes, and people said: "You ought to go and dig the weeds out of your beans." A million roses bloomed and died, a million more will die today; that man is wise who lets them slide and gathers up the bales of hay.

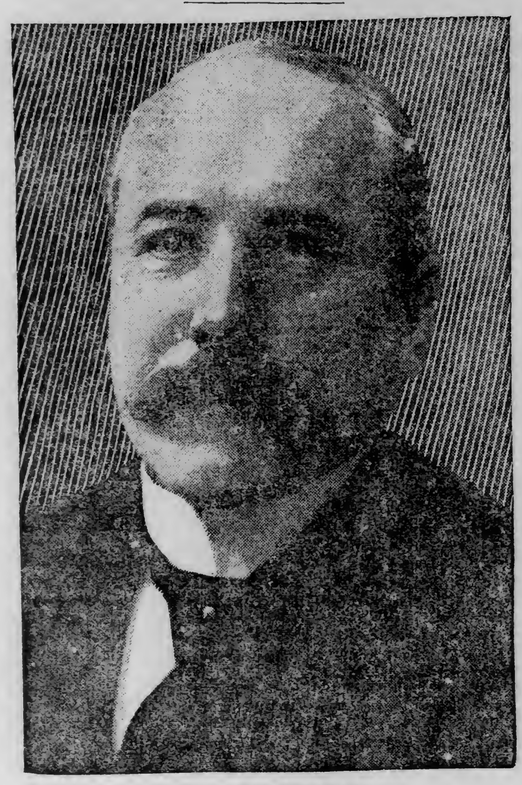
"TAKE CARE OF JOHNSON; WILL WANT HIM SOME DAY"



JUDGE ALTON B. PARKER.

"The voters of Minnesota should take good care of Governor Johnson. The eyes of the country are upon him. He is one of the big men of the country. His nomination has attracted attention all over the United States, and the Democratic voters of this country will watch the outcome of the approaching campaign. The voters of Minnesota should take good care of him, for some day Minnesota will want to use him.

Looking tanned and healthy, Judge Alton B. Parker reached Duluth last night, returning from a vacation trip spent in California, the Yosemite valley, the big tree country, Washington, Wyoming and Oregon. In a good part of this territory Judge Parker delivered speeches for the Democratic party. Many of the speeches were of an impromptu nature. But everywhere Judge Parker says that Democratic sentiment is alive, keen and confident that victory is coming to the Democratic standards.

"The Democratic sentiment in the West is remarkable," said Judge Parker. "Everywhere we went we found a strong sentiment in favor of the principles of Democracy. In many places when they learned that we were in the town or city they would insist that we address them. We met and addressed many people on the trip and if opinions and promises made before elections are of any value in determining the way the sentiment of the people lies, then the people of the West are for the Democratic ticket.

"The trend of thought in the country is towards Democracy. The workers of the party must take up this work. The chances of the Democratic party look very bright. It remains for the party workers to go in and take advantage of this opportunity. Everywhere you find evidences of the growth of Democratic sentiment. It is remarkable in the West, and I believe that the sentiment will continue to grow."

Judge Parker was asked if he believed that the country would be benefited by a Democratic administration.

"I certainly do," was his reply.

"One of the most important pieces of legislation that would be the outcome of a Democratic administration, for I believe that the election of a Democratic president would result in a Democratic majority in congress, would be the enactment of a law making it a criminal offense for a presidential candidate, congressman or candidate for the United States senate to accept a contribution from a corporation. This would result in cleansing politics of one of its worst evils; it would also result in the enactment of legislation in favor of the people, for when parties permit corporations to contribute to them they obligate themselves and their elected candidates to the interests of these corporations.

"If congress passed such a law the United States senate would not dare to fail to concur in its action. The contributing by corporations is one of the greatest evils in politics. It is the main cause of trust abuse and special privilege legislation. Let campaign contributions and contributions to the candidate be done away with and you have struck at the root of one of the greatest evils in American politics. Outside of the tariff revision, this is one of the greatest benefits that would result to the country under a Democratic administration."

To read of the sage of Esopus, one would imagine that he was a man cold and reserved. Judge Parker has a dignified reserve about him, but there is nothing in his manner of bearing that would lead one to think that he was cold or the least bit distant. In fact, he has a cordial and pleasant manner.

DeLancey Nicoll, one of the most prominent members of the New York bar, district attorney of New York city, when the famous aldermanic boodle cases were prosecuted and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee in 1904, is with Judge Parker.

Judge Parker and Mr. Nicoll will leave on the North West tonight Judge Parker will speak for the national ticket in New York state. He stated that although he hadn't been in New York state since July, and wasn't very well acquainted with the sentiment there at the present time, there were a good many Republicans in New York before he left who were saying that they were going to vote the Democratic ticket this fall.

Judge Parker and Mr. Nicoll were met at the 6:55 train by Andrew Nelson, chairman of the Democratic county committee; Fred L. Ryan, member of the state central committee; T. B. McManus of the state board of grain appeals, and other prominent local Democrats, and escorted to the Spalding hotel. In the lobby of the hotel Judge Parker held a short reception to a few friends who were introduced by Mr. Nelson and Mr. Ryan. Mr. Ryan gave an informal dinner in honor of Judge Parker and Mr. Nicoll.

WILL IS THROWN OUT.

Mrs. Mueller Will be Beneficiary of Charles Vought.

After a hearing before Judge Middlecoff of the probate court yesterday, an order was issued vacating the will of Charles Vouyth dated July 8, 1907, and admitting to probate the will dated April 27, 1907. Mr. Vouyth died last winter at the age of 84 years.

In the will dated April 27, most of the property, valued at about $5,000 was bequeathed to Miss Caroline Bush, now Mrs. Caroline Mueller. The later will bequeathed the property to Mrs. H. Halvorson of Hermantown. Mrs. Mueller made the motion to have the later will set aside on the ground that undue influence was brought to bear on Mr. Vouyth when he made it. She claimed that she cared for him for eight years and received no compensation, but that he promised to remember her in his will. Shortly before he died, she said, he moved to Hermantown and became a neighbor of the Halvorsens and she claims that Mrs. Halvorsen induced him to draw up the later will.

FUNERAL OF STERNBURG TO OCCUR ON FRIDAY.

Heidelberg, Aug. 25.—Announcement is made that the funeral service and the burial of the late Baron Speck von Sternburg, German ambassador to the United States, will be held at Lutzcena, the family estate near Liepsic, next Friday at 3 p. m.

The Baroness von Sternburg has received telegraphic messages of condolence from friends in all parts of the United States and Europe.

Floating Mill on Danube River.

One of the curious features along the upper Danube river is an old floating mill that is anchored out in the stream. The wheel is sunk deep enough in the water to secure a strong impetus from the current. The use of a dam is thus obviated. One of the most important things to be considered when ordering a beverage for the home table is purity, which you will find to the highest degree in golden grain belt beer. This beverage is brewed from the best of nature's products in a better way than other beers and deserves a place on your home table. Order Duluth Branch Minneapolis Brewing Co.

NELSON GETS OFF WITH FINE.

Land Locator, Convicted of Deception, Pays $100 and is Free.

N. M. Nelson, a land locator, who was convicted at the last term of district court of grand larceny in the second degree in having victimized several ministers and temperance lecturers of Duluth in a land deal, was fined $100 and costs, with the alternative of ninety days in the county jail, by Judge Ensign yesterday. The fine was paid.

According to the evidence given in court, Mr. Nelson induced Rev. F. O. Kling, Rev. J. Bloom, Rev. Osterberg and others to file on land in St. Louis county charging them $100 each for locating them. It is claimed that Nelson showed them sections of land, which was good for agricultural purposes, and then gave them descriptions of other lands, which were worthless, upon which to file.

Killed Blasting Stumps.

Prentice, Wis., Aug. 25.—By the premature explosion of dynamite at Brantwood, Elnard Kivi, aged 20, was killed, and Carl Kivi, aged 14, badly injured. They were blasting out stumps.

KILLING AT ROCHESTER.

Italian Slays One Man and Wounds Another.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Franzo Goule, an Italian, who has been employed as a workman about St. Mary's hospital here, is lodged in the county jail, charged with having killed one man and dangerously assaulted another in the Mayo public park. A little boy, who witnessed the attack Goule made upon the two men, gave the alarm and Goule was arrested four miles from the scene of the tragedy. He had thrown the pistol away. Goule and the two others, who were strangers in the city, were playing pool yesterday morning in a saloon. They had played Saturday night and Goule claimed to have lost some money. Monday morning the two strangers went away over to the park. Goule evidently followed them.

A little boy, 4 or 5 years old, was sitting in a swing on the island, when he saw the Italian come up behind the two men. The boy saw the man take a revolver, crouch down with his back to the others and load the weapon. Then the boy became frightened and hid behind a tree. Peeping out he saw the Italian come up in front of the two strangers, heard him demand money, and say he would kill them. Then he fired five shots. The two men fell, and the would-be murderer ran east across the island and disappeared under the footbridge.

The little witness ran to a man who was at work in the park and gave the alarm.

The New Corset for Fat Women

The new corset coerces fat ladies into the fashionable form-fitting gowns now so popular by means of three sets of strings. Think of that and shudder.

To escape this fate fat ladies should get some Marmola Prescription Tablets and take off a pound or so a day for the next few weeks. Radical as this sounds it has and can be done by these tablets alone without help from either exercise or dieting.

The reduction produced is uniform, wrinkleless and thorough. It is also a cheap process (an effective quantity costing only 75 cents) and, likewise, a harmless one. These tablets have no bad after effect. Their being made with the consent of the Marmola Co., Detroit, Mich., in strict accordance with the famous ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 2½ ounces Sirup Simplex prescription which any druggist can fill and will guarantee—is assurance enough of that.

MOORHEAD GETTING GOOD.

Town on Minnesota Side of Red River Feels the Lid.

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 25.—That the lid is on in Moorhead is becoming more evident every day, and that the saloonkeepers also realize the fact is very apparent. At the stroke of 11 the bartenders quit taking orders for anything more in the liquid line, and even the lunch counters and restaurants, in connection with some of the big saloons, close up.

At about a quarter past the hour, a policeman makes the rounds and inspects each place. If he finds any loafers about they are immediately ordered out, and should they have any drinks before them the fact is reported immediately to headquarters.

Recently the following sign appeared over a bar in one of the better class of Moorhead's saloons:

No grafting.
No card playing.
No dice shaking.
No women.
No taking of treats by bartenders allowed in this place.

WILL WELCOME TILL.

Somerset, Wis., to Give Plaster "Doctor" Glad Hand.

Somerset, Wis., Aug. 25.—When "Dr." Till, the plasterer "physician," returns here from his European trip about Sept. 1, he will certainly get a warm reception. Plans are on foot to make it a gala day. There will be a reception, brass bands, fireworks, enthusiasm, and then some. Hank Farmer says they have engaged eight of his gray horses to be attached to the best chariot he owns, which is to be used to convey Till from the depot to his abode. It is expected that the driver will be arrayed in the most artistic, up-to-date dress that can be secured, and the lines that are to be drawn over the fiery steeds will be of the purest white.

Till says he is feeling fine, has grown fat and spent a lot of the money he gathered in, but as he knows where there is plenty more of the same kind, he doesn't give a rap for expenses.

Farm Buildings Burned.

Lakeville, Minn., Aug. 25.—The farm buildings belonging to Mike Murphy, two miles from this place, were destroyed by fire Sunday. Mr. Murphy lost seven stacks of grain, four horses, a big barn and other outbuildings, nothing being saved but the family residence. The fire department and citizens responded to the alarm, but the flames could not be stayed.

Horses Burned to Crisp.

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 25.—A terrific fire of unknown origin completely destroyed a large barn on the Wiseman Bros.' farm, near Melville, and fourteen valuable work horses were burned to a crisp. Joe Mather discovered the fire and rushed into the barn to save the stock. He unloosened five and got them out of the burning building. Returning to save the rest he was followed by a large black stallion that was completely terrorized and ran him down. He escaped from the barn almost overcome with smoke.

Ten Years in Bed.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P. of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." Sold by all druggists.

Eveleth School Board Planning to Rush New Building Ahead.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school board will hold a meeting Saturday morning when the bids for the construction of a new high school building will be opened. The contract will then be awarded so that work on the new building can be started about the first of September.

Despite the burning down of the high school, the school board has gone ahead with its plan of installing a commercial course in the high school and room will be made for the course in the Fayal building. Elma Boyd has been engaged as instructor in this branch of the school work, and all the various subjects that usually make up a commercial course will be taught.

Chemistry will not be taught this year, as the apparatus was all burned and the school board decided that apparatus should be secured for a physics laboratory at present, as the instruments needed are more easily moved around than those used for chemistry.

A teachers' meeting will be held in the Fayal school on Labor day, when definite arrangements will be made in regard to the school work for the coming term. The teachers will begin to come here about the 6th of next month, to be ready for the fall term, which will commence Tuesday, Sept. 8.

The library, which has been placed on the first floor of the Fayal school right after the burning of the high school, has been moved to the second floor and placed in the same room with the superintendent's office. All the text books for the graded and high school have been received and library books will begin to come in as soon as the school work commences.

ONE MAN KILLED, ANOTHER HURT

Miner Blown to Pieces and Wiper Loses a Leg.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday was an unlucky day in the nearby mines, a miner being killed in the Shenango mine while another employe lost a leg.

Carl Seddlemeyer, a miner working in the Shenango mine was blown up by dynamite. Although frightfully mangled he lived several hours. He was single, about 25, and so far as known has no relatives here.

An Austrian by the name of George Mecnik, employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company, as wiper, while working under an engine which for some unknown reason started moving, had one leg cut off and received internal injuries. The injured man is being cared for at the Hood hospital, and is reported to be in a critical condition.

Andrew Diva, a laborer on a steam shovel at the Hull pit, was struck by a chain on the forehead and badly bruised. He was taken to the hospital and will recover.

Calumet, a new town about twenty miles from Hibbing, is now equipped with telephone accommodations.

T. E. Lister, district superintendent of the Mesaba Telephone company, was a local visitor, Monday.

Invitations are out announcing the marriage of William Elliott and Eliza Champion, both popular young people, who have resided here for a number of years.

IMPROVEMENTS AT ADAMS.

Ditches Being Dug and Other Work Prosecuted.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ditches are being dug at the Adams location to drain off the water into the ditch at the lower end of the location. Other improvements are also being made.

A ditch will soon be built to carry water clear of the No. 1 and 4 caves. The ones that are now being built will prevent an overflow of water into the caves at the No. 1 shaft. Caves will be cut through this fall at the No. 1 and No. 4 shafts so that there will be stripping from the No. 1 to the No. 4 shaft which will connect with the open pit. The No. 4 shaft will be abandoned this winter.

The foremen at the Adams have been given lessons by two local doctors as to what to do in cases of injury. Practice splints were put on a few men by the doctors, so that the foremen could see the practical application of the lessons. Similar lessons will be given in the future by the doctors.

BRUTAL FATHER FINED.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Angelo Zwally, upon complaint of Chief Wring, was found guilty in municipal court of abusing his 8-year-old child. A fine of $1 and costs was imposed. The fine and costs being paid, defendant was released.

Her Mind Unbalanced.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Peterson, living on Hayes street was taken to the police station last night as she has been acting in a crazy manner of late. In the police station she shouted very violently.

Joseph Nickola, who accused a policeman of taking some money away from him when he was being arrested was fined $10. All the policemen testified that the man was drunk when arrested and had no money as he had been making a time of it in a disorderly house.

Odd Fellows Picnic.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Half Moon lodge of the Odd Fellows, has decided to have a picnic here in about two weeksu, when all the range lodges will be invited. It will be on the picnic grounds between Cedar Island lake and St. Mary's lake.

Two Harbors Library.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The plans and specifications for the $15,000 Carnegie library are nearly completed and olds will be advertised for in a few days. The building will be located at the corner of Second avenue and Poplar street, the site having already been purchased.

insurance companies as developed by the so-called Armstrong legislative insurance investigation.

Shaking Dice Not a Crime.

One of the charges alleged misconduct on the part of the district attorney in shaking dice in gambling rooms in New Uork city. On this charge, the commissioner says that although the act itself is not criminal, permitting it on part of the person licensed, that is the proprietor of the restaurant, is a crime. The commissioner holds that there was no evidence that the proprietor knew that the act was committed and that to hold him criminally liable would be an absurd perversion of the object of the law and straining of its language.

In his general conclusions, Commissioner Hand says, in part:

"What information this committee may claim to have as to the conduct of the district attorney, upon which they have assumed to make these serious charges of improper motive, abject veneration of mere money, and the possessor of money, neglect of duty, official misconduct, conspiring with criminals, throttling prosecutions and defeating justice, we can only infer from the fact that its chairman and secretary concede their utter ignorance and seem to have signed such charges as the counsel saw fit to prepare without real knowledge even of the contents of such charges, and in absolute ignorance as to their truth or falsehood, and the counsel himself is forced to admit that he had no greater knowledge or information than they.

Governor Hughes will examine the testimony and Commissioner Hand's report before taking any action.

KERN ACCEPTS NOMINATION

notification committee riding together.

The ride through the city to the fair grounds was through the principal business streets and past the Kern residence. The doors of the coliseum were thrown open to the public several hours before the exercises began.

Thomas Taggart, national committeeman from Indiana, had been selected to call the meeting to order. He immediately handed the gavel to National Chairman Mack, who introduced Theodore A. Bell of California, chairman of the notification committee, who formally notified Mr. Kern that he had been selected by the Democratic party to go on the national ticket with Mr. Bryan.

"Shall the People Rule?"

Mr. Kern, in his speech of acceptance, devoted some time to the question, "Shall the People Rule?" He deprecated what he claimed is excessive power in the hands of the speaker of the house of representatives and denied that the people have ruled because, he said, their will had not been given effect. He cited the demand for a reduction in the tariff on white paper and wood pulp and the failure of the Babcock tariff bill of 1902. Mr. Kern charged that there is a power within the Republican party determined that the people shall not rule, which power had manifested itself whenever effort has been made to check the destructive work of unlawful combinations reduce the tariff or equalize burdens by legislation. The Democratic party, he said, would draw a sharp line between lawful business, lawfully conducted and unlawful business.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Father Gavisk of St. John's Roman Catholic church, this city; music separating the speeches. Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic candidate for governor of Indiana, followed Mr. Kern, and Mr. Bryan's speech on trusts followed Mr. Marshall.

Speech By Kern.

Candidate Kern spoke in part as follows:

It is pleasing to me to be associated in this campaign with the distinguished gentleman to whom the standard of the party has been committed. For years we have been friends. I recognize in him a man of spotless character and high ideals, always actuated by patriotic motives and an earnest desire to promote the welfare, the honor, and the glory of his country. He became your candidate because his nomination was demanded by the rank and file of the party, which demand was emphasized by a popular movement in his favor, which, as it proceeded, so grew in volume and force as to become irresistible.

He entered upon this campaign unpledged to any special interests, under no obligations to any unlawful or other combination of capital, looking to no corporation for campaign contributions —absolutely free to serve the people by carrying out the pledges of his party's platform. While he is the foe of unlawful monopoly, and is prepared to lay a heavy hand upon the lawless, whether rich or poor, without fear or favor, and to combat the encroachments of greed upon honest endeavor, he is the friend of every legitimate business enterprise, whether conducted by individual or corporation, and will sympathize with the promotion of every movement which makes for the welfare and prosperity of the country.

Bryan's Power.

A distinguished Republican, the other day referred to his influence with his party as a One Man Power. If by that he meant to say that Mr. Bryan possessed the power, in a marked degree, to influence the thought and arouse the conscience of the republic as no other man of his time, or if he meant that by his upright life his consistent course, his appeals for right living, and patriotic action, he has earned the confidence and personal affection of millions of his countrymen, and gained the respect and admiration of all the people of the world who love liberty and humanity—then the distinguished gentleman was right, with respect to the One Man Power of William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Bryan has exerted no other power. He has had no subordinates to command, no officeholders to direct. I think it may be safely said that there were no postmasters nor other federal officeholders or employes in the Denver convention. Every delegate to that convention "carried his sovereignty under his own hat," and as an independent American freeman, owing no allegiance save to country and flag, cast his vote for Bryan because in his heart he believed that the nomination and election of such a man were demanded by the best interests of the republic.

The Republican nominee for vice president in his recent speech of acceptance affected the belief that the question, "Shall the people rule" implied a charge of venality against the American electorate. He affirmed, with great emphasis, that under recent Republican administration the people have ruled without let or hindrance. It is passing strange that in a republic like this there should be occasion for a discussion of this question. It is a government of the people and by the people. They presumably govern themselves through their servants whom they send to represent them in congress. Their will, when known, ought to be supreme, and should be given immediate effect.

> And if the will of the people, once known, is not given effect, then the people do not rule.

The Paper Trust.

Will any intelligent man claim that there is or has been any substantial diversity of opinion in this country on the question as to whether the tariff duty on wood pulp used in the manufacture of paper should be reduced or removed? In this case the tariff tax operated for the benefit of the paper trust alone, allowing that combine to levy millions of tribute each year upon the newspapers of the country and their readers. The press of the country, without regard to party united in demanding relief. The people of the republic unanimously seconded the demand. The president of the United States threw the influence of his great office in favor of the demand of the press and the people. But all without avail. The dominant forces within the Republican party had established in the lower house of congress a parliamentary condition, in the interest of monopoly, under which the sole power to determine whether a measure should be allowed to become a law or not was lodged in the speaker of that body and his committee on rules, and by the fiat of that one man the will of the press, the people and the president was set at naught. Behold the spectacle! On one side eighty millions of free people demanding legislation to right an admitted wrong. On the other side, a few men engaged in public plunder, aided by the dominating power within the Republican party, represented by the presiding officer of the once popular branch of congress. And the plunderers and these unfaithful public servants prevail over the people of this great republic. In this instance did the people rule?

On Feb. 4, 1902, Congressman Babcock of Wisconsin, then chairman of the Republican congressional committee, in speaking of a bill he had introduced to reduce the tariff on iron and steel, and after showing conclusively that the interests of farmers, laborers, builders, and other classes would be conserved by the passage of the bill, said:

"I am going to push the bill to revise the tariff at every possible opportunity. If it goes before the house it will pass by three to one."

Struggled by the Speaker.

But under the rules of the house, the friends of this bill were unable to get it before that body. Three-fourths of the representatives of the people in that branch of congress were held without power to free themselves from the "strangle hold" under which this modernized system of popular government, devised by the present Republican leadership, the speaker has upon the American public. This power to subvert the popular will is exerted by this Republican leadership in many ways, notably in the appointments of the speaker of the house of committees which are in many instances so consituted as to quietly kill in the committee room measures designed for the relief of the people. To illustrate, I quote from a petition presented to congress by the great labor leaders of this country, constituting the executive council of the American Federation of Labor:

"The comittee on labor of the house of representatives was instituted at the demand of labor to voice its sentiments, to advocate its rights, and to protect its interests.

"In the past two congresses this committee has been so oranized as to make ineffectual any attempt labor has made for redress. This being the fact, in the last congress labor requested the speaker to appoint on the committee of labor members who from their experience, knowledge and sympathy would render in this congress such service as the committee was originally designed to perform. Not only was labor's request ignored, but the hostile make-up of the committee was accentuated."

Hon. L. White Busby is the private secretary of Speaker Cannon. In a magazine article, discussing the powers of the speaker, Mr. Busby relates the circumstances of a bill having been prepared and three-fourths of the members of the house having signed a request to the speaker asking that the rules committee, of which he is chairman, bring in a special rule for the consideration of the bill. The speaker refused the request. The chairman of the committee pleaded and urged. Continuing, Mr. Busby says:

"As a final stroke, the chairman said, 'Then, Mr. Speaker, this bill is to fall by the will of one man who is in the chair by our votes. We have no redress from this one man power.' 'Yes, you have,' replied, the speaker, 'you have a way to pass your bill. You placed me in the chair to shoulder the responsibility of the legislation here enacted. In my view I cannot assume the responsibility for this bill. You can elect a new speaker today and pass your bill, if you can find one who will accept that responsibility, but if you leave me in the chair that bill will not become a law.'"

What Cannon Said.

The genial and accomplished speaker had spoken for himself on this subject. In an interview printed on August 20, in the St. Louis Globe Democrat, a stalwart Republican newspaper, he points out the only remedy left to the people other than that of the ballot box, for the wrongs complained of. The interviewer said:

"Mr. Speaker, you are also called a czar, and an element of the public press holds you up as the one all powerful influence in the house, who thwarts the will of the people, and arbitrarily decides what legislation shall be considered and passed in the great popular branch of the national congress."

Mr. Cannon replied as follows:

"Under the Constitution of the United States, the house of representatives organizes itself, and any member of the house of any party or no party, on any day, at any time, can halt any business before the house, and as a question of highest privilege offer a resolution and secure a vote on it to displace the speaker of the house of representatives and put some other member in his place."

> In other words, the remedy is to disgrace, and destroy one of the highest officers in the government—to cast him figuratively from a political Tarpean Rock, to be erected by the members with his consent, for that purpose.

I have suggested the other way by which American voters can regain their right to self government, and that is by the assertion of their manhood on election day, by rebuking with their ballots the party which has brought about such an intolerable condition.

Time forbids the multiplication of instances where the popular will has been defied by the real Republican leadership—sometimes by the one man power of the house—and sometimes by the few representatives of monopoly who dominate the senate.

Measure after measure, scores of them, favored by the people of all parties, in many instances advocated strenuously by the president, either failed of passage, or were so emasculated by amendment as to utterly fail to register the popular will.

Shall the People Rule?

The question "Shall the people rule" is the one which demands the serious and earnest consideration of all men who are interested in the perpetuation of our institutions. It must be apparent to all who have followed the course of legislation during the past few years that there is a power within the Republican party determined that the people shall not rule. That power has manifested itself whenever effort has been made to check the destructive work of unlawful combination, reduce the oppressive tariff tax, or enact any legislation looking towards the equalization or lightening of the burdens resting upon the people.

Gentlemen, we enter upon this campaign with every prospect of success. Never has a political platform been received with such favor by all classes of people, and never has a candidate been presented by any party, who was closer to the hearts of the people than our matchless standard bearer, William J. Bryan.

There is a movement amongst the people for better government which is growing in force day by day. It is confined to no one party, but men of all parties, all trades and occupations are coming together and making common cause in behalf of a restoration of a government of the people, for the people and by the people.

We must and will win this battle without the use of money, or the aid of corporate power. If our adversaries so desire, let them pursue that course. But there are times in the life of a nation like this when money and coercive influences are of no avail.

There comes a time, when the quickened consciences of an enlightened people impel action, which neither money nor influence can check.

That time, in my judgment is here. Let every man from this hour forward perform this duty in a manly and honorable way.

Let this be a campaign of education and argument. Let our appeals be to the reason and patriotism of the American people. Let us be vigilant and unceasing in honest work for a righteous cause, and a glorious victory in November will crown our efforts.

No Remedies Proposed.

The Republican platform says that experience has shown that the effectiveness of the anti-trust law could be strengthened by amendments which will give the Federal government greater supervision and control over, and greater publicity as to, the management of those interstate commerce corporations which have the power and opportunity to affect monopolies. That is all. No pointing out of remedies; no outlining of a plan for more effective legislation—simply a general statement that promises nothing in particular. And Mr. Taft's speech of acceptance is even weaker than the platform. He gives no evidence of having studied the question or of comprehending the iniquities of a monopoly. You look in vain in his notification speech for any sign of indignation at what the trusts have been doing or for evidence of zeal in their prosecution. He has, for several years, been the intimate official companion of the president, but he has caught none of the fire which the president manifested in his message of last January.

If, in the presence of an aroused people, and in the heat of a campaign, the Republican party contents itself with a colorless platform on this subject, what can we expect in the way of activity when the exigencies of the campaign are passed? If, when Mr. Taft is appealing to the Roosevelt Republicans, his discussion of the subject is so lifeless and his manner so apologetic and apathetic, what reason have we to expect either vigor in the enforcement of the law or earnestness in the search for additional remedies?

The Democratic Plan.

Now let me contrast the Democratic platform with the Republican platform. I have, in discussing the tariff question, presented one of our remedies, namely, the removal of the tariff from imports which compete with trust made goods. This, we believe, would greatly lessen the extortion practiced by the trusts and bring about the dissolution of many monopolistic combines. But we are not satisfied merely with the lessening of extortion or with the dissolution of some of the trusts.

Because the private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable, the Democratic party favors its extermination. It pledges itself to the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against trust magnates and officials. It is impossible for the Republican party to enforce the present criminal law against trust officials; these officials are intimately connected with the Republican party in the present campaign. Take, for instance, the chairman of the Republican speakers' committee, Mr. Dupont of Delaware. He is the defendant in a suit, which the government brought and is now prosecuting. Mr. Dupont is charedg with violation of the anti-trust law. Why should he be put on the executive committee and then be given control of the speaking part of the campaign?

Our platform does not stop with the enforcement of the law; it demands the enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States.

The Democratic party does not content itself with a definition of the wrong or with a denunciation of it. It proceeds to outline remedies. The first is a law preventing a duplication of directors among competing corporations.

Licensing Corporations.

The second remedy is a license system, which will, without abridging the right of each state to create corporations, or its right to regulate as it will foreign corporations doing business within its limits, make it necessary for a manufacturing or trading corporation engaged in interstate commerce to take out a federal license before it shall be permitted to control as much as twenty-five per cent of the product in which it deals, the license to protect the public from the watered stock and to prohibit the control by such corporation of more than 50 per cent of the total amount of any product consumed in the United States.

Mr. Bryan discussed the remedy at length, contending that it is simple, complete and easily enforced.

The Democratic party is the defender of competition and the only great party which is seeking to restore competition. Mr. Taft has, in the discussion of this question, employed harsh words instead of argument. The word "Socialistic" is hurled at the Democratic party and the Democratic platform. Now, as a matter of fact, it is Mr. Taft's party and not the Democratic party which has given encouragement to Socialism. While professing to abhor Socialism, the Republican party has gone half way toward Socialism in indorsing its fundamental principle. The Socialist bases his contention on the theory that competition is bad, and that an economic advance is to be found in monopoly. The Socialist, however wants the public to have the benefit of the monopoly and, therefore, favors government ownership and operation of all the means of production and distribution.

The Republican party has gone almost as far as the Socialist party in the economic defense of the monopoly, but it permits the benefits of monopoly to be enjoyed by a comparatively few men, who have secured a dominant influence in the government.

Remedial Legislation Needed.

The Republican leaders have been in the habit of sneering at the Socialists, while blindly indifferent to the causes that have contributed to the growth of Socialism. The Democrats recognize that Socialists are honestly seeking a remedy for the "known abuses" admitted by Secretary Taft. Democrats dissent from the remedy proposed by the Socialists, believing that Socialists are mistaken and that the Democratic remedy is better, but it is time for thoughtful people to recognize that individualism can only be retained and defended by remedial legislation which will remove the abuses which have been allowed to fasten themselves upon the country. The Democratic party, believing in individualism, addresses itself earnestly to these abuses, and, instead of ridiculing and maligning the Socialists, invites them, as it does Republicans, to examine the Democratic platform and the remedies proposed therein. It submits its plans to the honest citizenship of the country, without regard to section or party.

Industrial independence is necessary to political independence. The free exercise of the rights of citizenship is impossible when a few men control the industries in which millions are employed. God forbid that we should compel the wage-earners of the nation to address their petitions to trust magnates and ask for their daily bread. Already we have seen how prone the monopolist is to make employment dependent upon the willingness of the employe to prostitute his ballot to the service of his corporate master.

Must Be Settled Now.

This question should be settled now; we cannot afford to bequeath it as a legacy of woe to a succeeding generation. The conscience of the people is already awakened, and the conscience is the most potent force which man has knowledge. Where law makes one righteous, conscience controls a hundred; where one is kept from wrongdoing by fear of punishment, a thousand are restrained by those invisible walls which conscience rears about us —barriers which are stronger than walls of granite. It is upon the conscience that human institutions rest, and without a stirring of the conscience no great reform is possible. To a national conscience already aroused we appeal, with the pledge that a Democratic victory will mean the ringing out of industrial despotism and the ringing in of a new era in which business will be built upon its merits, and in which men will succeed, not in proportion to the coercion they may be able to practice, but in proportion to their industry, their ability and their fidelity.

Ends Life By Hanging.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 25.—Despondent because of his poor health, Godfrey Wolfgram, aged 60, a farmer living near Butternut, took his life by hanging himself to a rafter in his barn. A wife and several grown children survive him.

ROBBED ARE INDIGNANT

ber was a man about 55 years of age, weighing about 140 pounds. After holding up the last coach, he disappeared into the hills, and it was afterwards found that he had made his escape on a horse belonging to the transportation company.

Soldiers Notified.

All haste was made back to Old Faithful Inn to give the alarm. The soldiers encamped at the Thumb station were immediately notified, and a messenger was dispatched to the camp of soldiers on the West Gallatin river, at the west boundary of the park. The soldiers from Fort Yellowstone were on the road to take up the trail within ten minutes after news was received.

It is thought almost certain that the bandit is heading for a point between Big Spring and Ashton, on the Oregon Short Line, north of Idaho Springs. There are a number of settlers and forest rangers in the upper and lower basins, and if he continues, after reaching the main road, he cannot escape observation. On the West Gallatin trail a squad of soldiers is posted near the line.

As the first of the coaches came along the highwayman stepped from the bushes and ordered the driver to halt. He did not molest the driver nor any of the drivers following.

On the first seat sat B. Drew of Orlando, Fla., and his stepson, H. Gaskin. Mr. Drew was ordered to "hand over," which he did to the extent of $90. Young Gaskin was ordered to dismount and hold the man's sack. This he did, at the point of a gun. Every driver was warned not to start his team or he would be shot.

In one of the other coaches, Forest Steens of Wilkesbarre, Pa., gave a nervous laugh, which seemed to enrage the bandit, and he was ordered to dismount and, also, accompany the highwayman. He started to go round the rig, but was summarily ordered to come back and got a whack over the head with the barrel of the rifle for his pains.

When the last of the coaches was reached, both men were ordered back to their rig and the drivers ordered to move on. M. L. Walker, an Omaha banker, had $10,000 in drafts in his pocket book and tried to conceal this under the seat. The robber saw him and ordered him to bring it forward. Mr. Walker asked for his drafts and transportation back, but they were contemptuously thrown into the bushes with the remark that he would not have done so, if he had not tried to hide his money.

The last coach contained five young ladies. The highwayman obtained very little from them, but stopped long enough to appropriate some candy.

In all 125 Were Held Up.

In all about 125 people were held up, but not all of these sufferd losses. When he ordered the drivers to move on the bandit stood a few minutes with the gun pointed toward them and then walked down the road. As quickly as possible, after a telephone was reached at Thumb station, word was sent to the soldiers and a detail started after him. At a meeting last night of the victims, held in the Lake hotel, the following resolutions were passed with the request that they be sent to the Associated Press:

"On the morning of Aug. 24 in Yellowstone park, on the road between Old Faithful Inn and the Thumb of the Lake, several coaches of the Yellowstone Park Transportation company and other vehicles containing men, women and children were held up and robbed by a highwayman. These travelers were utterly defenseless, as by the rules of the park tourists and visitors are not permitted to carry weapons of offense or defense.

"They were insulted, struck, robbed of money and valuables to the extent of about $2,100.

"As this reservation has been taken from the public domain and placed in the sphere of the interior department and is professedly patrolled and governed by the United States authorities and soldiers, citizens of the United States have a special claim for protection and defense in their peaceable passage through the park or transient residence therein.

"The undersigned citizens and guests of the United States do therefore, respectfully request the Hon. James A. Garfield, secretary of the interior to make a public investigation of the facts set forth above, with a view to ascertaining whether there has been neglect of duty on the part of any guardians of the park, whether the aggrieved citizens have any suitable means of redress and compensation from the government, and what steps are necessary to insure greater safety and defense in the future in the Yellowstone National park.

self-government. The spirit of christianity is pure democracy. It is the equality of man before God—the equality of man before the law, which is, as I understand it, the most God-like manifestation that man has been able to make.

Reason He Speaks of Missions.

"I speak not of foreign missions from a purely religious standpoint. That has been and will be done. I speak of them from the standpoint of political government advancement, the advancement of modern civilization, and I think I have had some opportunity to know how dependent we are on the spread of christianity for any hope we may have of uplifting the peoples whom providence has thrust upon us for our guidance.

"It is said that there is nothing in the Constitution of the United States that authorizes national altruism of that sort. Well, of course, there is not; but there is nothing in the Constitution of the United States that forbids it. What there is in the Constitution of the United States is a breathing spirit that we are a nation with all the responsibilities that any nation ever had, and therefore when it becomes the Christian duty of a nation to assist another nation, the Constitution authorizes it because it is part of national wellbeing."

Taft Hears From Poles.

Judge Taft was informed today of the formation of the first Polish Taft club organized in this country. Its home is in Minneapolis. George T. Kozlewski, the chairman, writes:

"We feel confident that we can promise you the almost unanimous vote of the Polish-American citizens of Minnesota."

Senators Hopkins of Illinois and McCumber of North Dakota and National Committeeman James Kennedy, also of North Dakota, were political pilgrims here today. Senator Hopkins has been in Washington in connection with the tariff commission work and came here on his way to Chicago "just to pay my respects to the next president of the United States, and to make it plain to Mr. Taft that should he make any speeches outside of Cincinnati, that Illinois wants him," said Mr. Hopkins.

The visit of the North Dakota Republicans was explained to be for the purpose of having a comprehensive discussion with the candidate on political conditions in that section.

EAGLE STEALS FISH.

Swoops Down on Lone Fisherman and Takes Big Fish.

Winsted, Conn., Aug. 25.—A large baldheaded eagle, which makes its home in the mountains near Highland lake, and which is frequently seen flying high over those waters with a full grown chicken in its talons, swooped down on a lone fisherman, John Hall, yesterday, as he was battling with a large black bass, in an effort to land the big fish.

The huge bird, Hall says, did not attack him, but deliberately picked up from the bottom of the anchored boat the largest of seven bass he had caught and carried it away.

The head of the eagle, Hall asserted, was nearly as large as a baby's and its wings overlapped the side of the boat. He said he will hereafter take a gun with him when he goes fishing at Highland lake.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide. She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her cheek. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not read how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three-quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it increases the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Ongar Place, Brentwood, Essex, England, Mar. 8, 1907."

DULUTHIANS ARE INVITED

Several Local Democrats Bidden to Dinner at St. Paul.

Several prominent Duluth Democrats have received invitations to the dinner which F. B. Lynch, Minnesota's member of the Democratic national committe, will give in St. Paul next Monday noon in honor of William Jennings Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, and the members of the new Democratic state central committee.

Democrats from several of the Northwestern states will be present, following the dinner, Mr. Bryan will deliver an address at the Minnesota state fair.

A full attendance of the Democratic state central committee is expected at the banquet, as it will in all probability be followed by an important meeting, at which plans for the campaign in the state will be laid.

After leaving the Twin Cities, Mr. Bryan will speak at Fargo and Grand Forks and the Flickertail committeemen have been in St. Paul in efforts to have Governor Johnson and members of Minnesota's committee accompany the presidential candidate to North Dakota.

WAR ON HAMMERSTEIN.

Felix Isman Says He Has Bought Two Theaters.

New York, Aug. 25.—Felix Isman, the Philadelphia real estate operator who has been acquiring theaters in many cities, who has had large real estate interests in Milwaukee and whose deals have aroused comment on Broadway frequently during the past year, sprang a lively surprise yesterday with the announcement that he had purchased the land at the corner of Seventh avenue and Forty-second street, on which Hammerstein's Victoria and the Belasco theaters are located.

Mr. Isman said last night:

"It is true that I have obtained control of the properties occupied by the Belasco and Victoria theaters—the one by outright purchase, the other by lease. Oscar Hammerstein has violated conditions of his lease.

"I had no intention of disturbing him at first, for it was purely a business proposition with me, but Mr. Hammerstein, when he got an inkling, too late to be of use, that he was likely to lose his interest in the properties, wrote me an insolent letter, in which he freely made use of the term 'blackmailer,' and warned me to have nothing to do with the operation. Mr. Hammerstein is a genius and a great man, whom I always have admired, but his greatness cannot mitigate his offense. I intend beginning proceedings to evict him at once."

Council Listens to Protests Against Powder Storehouse.

Refuses to Renew Saloon License of Esmond Hotel.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Listened to plans of Parisian engineer for moving sidewalks in Duluth, and an aerial railway to Fond du Lac.

Listened to reading of communications from public affairs committee and mass meeting of the citizens protesting against amendment to Zenith Telephone company's franchise, allowing the charging of a toll on Duluth-Superior lines.

Took no action on location of Du Pont company's powder house on old Pike Lake road.

Special committee recommended that city lease other quarters for municipal court rooms.

Refused liquor license to Andrew Wilson, for conducting a saloon in New Duluth, and to the Esmond hotel on Twentieth avenue west.

Referred to proper committee communication asking that Swan Lake road be repaired within the city limits.

A discussion of whether or not the Du Pont Powder company should be allowed to maintain a powderhouse on the old Pike Lake road, within less than a mile of the city limits, took up considerable time of the council meeting last night. No definite action was taken, but it seemed to be the general opinion that the request of the company should be granted.

A special committee of aldermen visited the site recently, and in a verbal report last evening it was evident that the majority of members rather favored the project, although they did not exactly recommend that the request be granted. It seemed to be agreed that there would be kicks, no matter where the house was located, and that the site proposed was as isolated as any that could be chosen, and at the same time be easily accessible. All were agreed that the house was a necessity.

Samuel H. Irvine, a resident of Pine Grove, near where the house is to be located, entered a strong protest against the granting of the request. He said all the settlers in the neighborhood were strongly against it, and expressed the fear that a stray bullet from a hunter's rifle might explode the dynamite and cause a great loss of life and property. It was shown, however, that the nearest house was 1,300 feet from the storehouse, and the powder company claims that there is no instance on record where an explosion of dynamite or powder, no matter how great, had done damage outside a radius of 500 feet. It was further pointed out that on three sides of the storehouse there are hills, while the fourth is protected by a forest.

The committee on city property reported favorably on the proposition made to the council some time ago by John A. Stephenson, to rent a floor in a building to be erected next the police station for municipal court purposes. The present quarters of the court are inadequate and insanitary. Mr. Stephenson agrees to lease the quarters for a period of ten years, with the privilege reserved by the city to cancel the lease on six months' notice. The city attorney was instructed to negotiate with Mr. Stephenson in regard to the amount of rental to be charged.

A communication was received asking that the city take steps to repair the Swan Lake road inside the city limits. The road runs for five miles in the limits o fthe city, and the claim is made that this road is used more than any other leading out of the city. The communication stated that from Palmetto street to the city limits, a distance of one and a half miles, the road needs ditching and general repairs, and that when these were completed it would be in good condition for its whole length. The petition was referred to the proper committee.

Resolutions were received from the mass meeting of citizens held in the city hall last week, and from the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, protesting against allowing the Zenith Telephone company to charge toll on its lines between Duluth and Superior. The public affairs committee recommended that the company be allowed an indefinite stay of time to make improvements in the way of putting its Duluth wires in underground conduits. It was to pay for these improvements, ordered by the city, that the company asked the privilege of charging toll.

WANTS BIG DAMAGES.

Gust Anderson Claims More Than $20,000 for Injuries.

Alleging carelessness on the part of Peter Johnson of the firm of Johnson & Nordgren, Gust Anderson filed suit yesterday for $20,775 damages for injuries received while working in a ditch in the employ of the defendants.

Anderson alleges that last January while employed by the defendant firm on a contract to build a sewer in Greysolon road, between Twenty-eighth and Thirty-first avenues east, he was severely injured by a blast set off by Mr. Johnson near the spot where he was working. Johnson was acting as foreman of the work.

He claims that as a result of his injuries, he was unconscious for several days, was in the hospital for weeks, and when removed last April was a cripple with hearing, sight and memory impaired.

THE NEW ROOSEVELT

A Sketch From Life From an Unpublished Letter.

From the September American Magazine: We are taking the liberty of printing parts of an extraordinary letter written by one who recently visited Ing, and gives such a fresh and altoling, and gives such a fresh and altogether engaging picture of our president, that we feel that we must share it with our readers. The unusual quality of the portrait forms our justification for publishing this letter without formal permission.—The Editor.

We didn't get to a discussion of his plans until very late—nearly midnight. For the first time in my experience of meeting him (President Roosevelt) he seemed tired. He said several times: "Well, I'm through now. I've done my work." His chief idea seemed to be that he wanted to get away—out of the country. "I want to get away so that when the new administration comes in my opinion will not be asked, nor my advice sought. If I talk, people will say that I am interfering where I have no right to interfere. If I refuse to talk, they will say that my silence is disapproval. The best thing I can do is to go entirely away for a year or more—out of reach of everything here; and that is what I am going to do." He said it was the last thing he would care to do; to repeat Grant's adventure. He had had enough of public affairs; he wanted to be alone and quiet.

To Get Acquainted With Kermit.

He said he would like to meet William of Germany if he could do it man to man, but he could not think of attempting the ceremonies incidental to a formal meeting. The thing that attracted him most in Europe was the invitations of the king of Italy and the emperor of Austria to go hunting with them. He said he would like to see how they did it in the old countries of Europe, but he felt that he could not do this without attracting too much attention. He had concluded, therefore, to go to the wilds of Africa, a thing he had really long wanted to do, and to hunt big game. He would sail as soon after March 4 as possible, going from here to Italy, there transhipping for the Suez and Italian East Africa. Here he would take the railroad which runs inland and jump from the end of it into the wilderness. His son Kermit will go with him, and, as I gathered, no one else, save, perhaps, a secretary. He said he was looking forward to the recreation of the voyage and to getting acquainted with his son. "All that country beyond Italy," he said, "will be new to us both, and I look for great pleasure in seeing it with a boy's eyes. Kermit will have his book of poetry and I'll have my hunting books. We shall have a great time!"

Looking Ahead to Future Elections.

I have never seen him in a more human mood; nor have I ever been more impressed with his bigness and breadth. Once when he said, "Well, I'm through," I suggested that the people might not be through with him, that four years hence they might be clamoring for him more insistently than they are today.

"No," he said, with a curious finality, a sort of sadness, a note which I never before heard him strike, "revolutions don't go backwards. New issues are coming up. I see them. People are going to discuss economic questions more and more; the tariff, currency, banks. They are hard questions, and I am not deeply interested in them; my problems are moral problems, and my teaching has been plain morality."

He is certainly a very extraordinary character—about the greatest of our time. He has the curious flashes of genius, in which he sees himself truly—more truly than anyone else does. And I believe more than ever before that he put aside a third-term nomination, which he could have had at the turn of his hand, from the highest conception of his moral obligations. I know, from my talk with him last winter, that he was tempted almost to the point of yielding, that the pressure had been tremendous (far more than any ordinary man could have resisted), but that he has asked himself simply, "What is right in this matter?"—and the thing he thought right he has done.

WIVES ASK DIVORCE.

Josephine Johnson Alleges Cruelty and Marie Mason, Desertion.

That drink broke up a happy home is the claim made by Josephine Johnson, who filed suit for divorce against her husband, Fred Johnson, in district court yesterday. They were married Jan. 6, 1900, she says, and at the time, Johnson was sober and industrious. Shortly after their marriage, she claims, he began to drink and has since treated her cruelly. A little over a year ago, she says, he went to Canada and remained away seven months. Further abuse is alleged on his return. He is at present in Seattle and the two children, which were born to them, are in her charge.

Catherine Marie Mason, aged 20 years, filed suit for divorce yesterday against her husband, Charles Morris Mason, 24 years old. They were married in Superior, March 28, 1907, and she alleges he deserted her May 1, 1907. She wants an absolute divorce and the right to resume her maiden name, Catherine Marie Mealey.

CONTRACT LET FOR ELEVATOR

New Consolidated Plant is to Cost Half a Million.

The Consolidated Elevator company's new grain warehouse on Rice's Point, to replace Elevator D, which was destroyed by fire, will be erected by the Barnett & Record company, the contract having already been let. The structure will cost something like $500,000 and concrete and tile will be the materials used.

The new elevator will have a storage capacity of 1,400,000 bushels, which is 400,000 bushels greater than the capacity of the burned building. The working section's capacity will be 600,000 bushels and the storage tanks will hold about 800,000 bushels.

The contracts call for the completion of the working house by June 1, 1909, and the entire plant will be in readiness by Aug. 1. The work of clearing away the ruins of the old building has started, and the construction of the plant will furnish employment to many men from now on.

The plant will be entirely fire-proof, and is to be one of the finest grain storage places in the country.

MAXIM'S GUN SILENCER GIVEN OFFICIAL TEST.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25.—The official test of Hiram Maxim's gun silencer was made by officials stationed at the United States armory here yesterday. The test, it is said, proved the claim of the inventor. The device was attached to the regular army rifle.

It was found that while the discharge of the unecuipped rifle is audible 7,700 yards, with the silencer this distance was cut down to 1,509 yards.

Methodists to Build.

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 25.—Methodists from all over the United States, in attendance on the Winona Bible conference, met yesterday afternoon and voted to incorporate the Methodist Building association with a capital of $50,000, divided into shares of $50 each, and to erect a pretentious denominational building costing $50,000 at Winona Lake next spring.

GETS HANDFUL OF LOOSE CHANGE

Thief Picks Pocket of Peanut and Popcorn Vendor.

An unknown man thrust his hand into the coat pocket of William Blotch, peanut vender at the corner of First avenue east and Superior street, last night, and extracted a handful of coins, because Blotch refused to lend him a quarter. The thief ran quickly away, and the police have been unable to locate him as yet.

Blotch says the man approached him and first asked for a dollar. This was refused, and the unknown cut his request down to 50 cents. This was also turned down, and the man asked for a quarter, quickly following the demand up by thrusting his hand into the vender's pocket. He grabbed a handful of change and made off down the street. Blotch ran to the police station and pounded on the windows until several officers ran out and followed him down the street. The thief had disappeared when they arrived at the corner of First avenue.

MONTANA CHILD KILLS SELF WHILE PIQUED.

Ekalaka, Mont., Aug. 25.—Piqued because he was refused a trivial request by his parents, John, the 4-year-old son of John Karkins, committed suicide. The boy wished to go fishing, and when his mother said no he went to his room and put a bullet in his brain.

MEMBERS OF THE BAR IN SESSION AT SEATTLE.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 25.—With nearly 400 delegates in the city, and others arriving on every incoming train, the annual meeting of the American Bar association held its opening session at the new Washington hotel today. It is the first meeting of the association to be held in the Pacific Northwest, and delegates are present from every section of the country. The feature of the morning session was the address of President J. M. Dickinson of Chicago, on recent changes in statutes of the various states and congress.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SEASON TO CLOSE NEXT SATURDAY

Commercial League Will Wind Up a Fast Game.

With what is expected to be the fastest game of the season between the Wolvin and the Board of Trade teams Saturday, the Commercial league will wind up the season.

These two teams are tied for first place, the rivalry is intense, and a pretty contest should result. Each of the teams has won five games and lost one. The First National Bank team, and the F. A. Patricks have already disbanded, the bank team having been awarded third place, and the Patrick team last.

Earl Lowe, the well known local twirler will be on the hill for the Wolvin team, and either Murphy or Hanson for the Brokers.

New York Takes Lead.

Pittsburg, Aug. 25.—New York assumed the leadership in the race for the pennant of the National league yesterday by taking two games from Pitsburg by scores of 4 to 1 and 5 to 1 before a crowd of nearly 17,000 baseball enthusiasts.

In the first contest neither side could score until the seventh inning, when Pittsburg made a run, when Wagner got to first and went to second on an error by Tenney, and scored on Abbattico's single. Ground rules kept Pittsburg from scoring in the first inning, when Wagner knocked what would have been a good three-bagger with Leach on first. In the eighth, New York got a home run, a triple, a double and two singles, thereby placing four runs to their credit.

In the second game New York got one run in the first inning on a hit, an error, a base on balls and a sacrifice. The home team scored in the fifth on a triple and an infield out, but the visitors came back in the same inning with two runs on two singles and an eror. Leifeld was taken out in the seventh inning. Camnitz in the eighth inning and Leever finished the game, allowing but one hit.

Wiltse was hit freely in the first game, but was given splendid support. Willis was strong with men on bases. Mathewson pitched a splendid game and was invincible with men on bases. Scores:

First game— R. H. E.
Pitsburg .....00000100—1 4 1
New York .....00000040—4 7 1
Batteries—Willis and Gibson; Wiltse and Bresnahan. Umpires—O'Day and Rigler.

Pitsburg .....00001000—1 6 2
New York .....10002020—5 8 1
Batteries—Leever, Camnitz and Leifield and Phelps; Mathewson and Bresnahan. Umpires—Rigler and O'Day.

Cubs Win in Seventh.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—A grouping of four hits, a double steal by Kling and Hofman, gave the locals yesterday's game in the seventh inning. Brooklyn bunched a double and three singles on Pfeister, scoring their two. The fielding of both teams was very brilliant, especially that of Lewis, his knocking down of two wide ones stopping runs, and almost certain two-baggers. Score:

R. H. E.
Chicago .....00010030x—4 9 0
Brooklyn .....00020000—2 8 1
Batteries—Pfeister, Fraser, Overall and Kling; Wilhelm and Bergen. Umpires—Emslie and Rudderham.

Cardinals Bunch Hits.

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—St. Louis took yesterday's game from Boston, 3 to 2. Shaw's two-base hit in the seventh and Charles' single scored the winning run. Score: R. H. E.

CZAREVNA WINS FEATURE.

Moran Entry Takes the American Horse Breeder Futurity.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 25.—Czarevna, owned by D. Comyn Moran of New York, won the American horse-breeder futurity for trotting foals of 1906, the feature race of the opening day of the Grand Circuit meeting at Readville track yesterday, and his second heat in 2:15¾ lowered the previous record of the stake of 2:17, made last year by the Leading Lady. She was far superior in speed to the rest in the field.

Lou McDonald was very successful in the three other events on the card, winning easily with Leslie Waterman, the 2:15 pace, though in a couple of heats he drew the finish close with Arrow.

Ward was a handy winner of two heats in the 2:21 trot, but in the third was nipped by Kidd McGregor right at the wire. Ed Geers having slipped through next to the pole.

McDonald's third win was the horse-breeder futurity for 3-year-old pacers, with Master McKerron. It was simply a big job for the son of John A. McKerron, it being only in the generosity of McDonald that he did not distance the other starters. Clover Patch, the Buffalo entry, was off her form through having torn off a portion of a forward foot while being jogged yesterday forenoon.

Old time oarsmen in the Duluth Boat club have made up their minds that it is time they returned to the game and took some interest in it, if the Duluth club is to turn out a winning crew.

One evening last week B. M. Peyton gave a dinner to about a dozen of the members of former crews, and plans were talked over for getting together a senior eight to row during the fall months.

The men were all enthusiastic regarding it, and decided to do a little preliminary work this fall and be in shape to go after the senior event next spring. Among the seniors who agreed to row were B. M. Peyton, H. H. Peyton, W. L'Estrange, A. W. Puck, A. R. Skelton and H. B. Haroldson, all of whom have been members of winning eight-oared crews in the past. The eight will be filled up with some old college oarsmen who are in the city, or failing them, with some of the juniors who were not members of this year's eight.

The seniors have no desire to interfere with the junior eight, and will take no recruits from it, but will fill up with men who are not eligible to row as juniors.

The activity of the seniors has reawakened the interest of the juniors in rowing, and there will probably be a junior crew reorganized to do some fall rowing. The club is in favor of it, long preached the desirability of fall rowing, and are satisfied that it is necessary to turn out a winning crew, owing to the short time allowed for training in the spring.

The organization of the senior eight will have the further beneficial effect of giving the juniors somebody to race against. The St. Paul and Winnipeg clubs have two eights in training each spring and fall, and their crews are experienced in racing, whereas the Duluth crews have always entered the regattas green in this respect.

If the interest keeps up for the next month, and the two crews put in three or four rows a week during that time, the coaches will have a splendid start toward two winning crews next spring.

SOME OLD TIME COLLEGE STARS

Boat Club Ball Game Will Bring Out Rare Talent.

The ball game between the bachelors and the married men of the Duluth Boat club next Saturday, will bring out some old time diamond stars.

There are many players in the club who were formerly stars of college diamonds and they will get back into the game for the first time in years, next Saturday.

The annual ball game is the most informal and most enjoyable reunion held by the boat club members during the year, and last year it furnished more hilarity than any event pulled off during the season.

TWO JOYNER ENTRIES.

Golden Pearl and Hessian Finish in Order at Empire City.

Empire City, N. Y., Aug. 25.—A. J. Joyner's entry, Golden Pearl and Hessian, ran first and second in the Whirl stakes, one mile, the feature of the card at Empire City yesterday. Mr. Joyner had declared to win with Golden Pearl and the race was run very nicely to orders. Magazine went out to make the pace, followed by Golden Pearl. Magazine continued to show the way to the far turn, where Hessian moved up from last to first place. Here he took a two length lead and could have won by many lengths, but when his stablemate Golden Pearl came through on the rail, E. Dugan on Hessian began to ease him up and Golden Pearl won by 1½ lengths, with Hessian a couple of lengths before Prizette.

Acting District Attorney Elder of Kings county was a visitor at the track yesterday, but gave no statement. He was followed about the course by a big crowd.

AMERICAN TROTTING DERBY.

Fast Horses Will be Put Under Handicaps at Readville.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 25.—The great harness event of the year, the American trotting derby, with a purse of $50,000 as an incentive, will be held today on the Readville track, in connection with the second day of the Grand Circuit, with conditions which make the event unique in the history of horse racing in this country. Forty-four harness horses are entered for the event, and will compete, not on equal terms, but on a system of handicaps.

The slowest horses will start from the three-quarter mile post, or a quarter of a mile behind the wire, and the fastest horses 500 feet in the rear, all the horses leaving their marks at the sound of a big bell from practically a standstill. As the field is believed to be too large to send away eight horses to qualify for the final, which will be held in the afternoon. The heaviest handicapped horses in the race are Sweet Marie and Sonoma Girl. The fastest horses will have large fields through which they must push their way, while the distances are all new and the starting unusual. It is believed that if the race proves a success, it may revolutionize the sport in this country.

FOUR REMAIN IN TENNIS PLAY

Wright, Clothier, Alexander and Emerson to Play for Title.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25.—Two former holders of the national title and two other highly ranked players will compete in the semi-finals of the national lawn tennis tournament in singles today as the result of the contests in the sixth round, which was played yesterday. The former champions are William J. Clothier of Philadelphia and Beals C. Wright of Boston. The other survivors are F. B. Alexander of New York, and Nat Emerson of Chicago. All the winners in yesterday's play except Emerson had an easy time disposing of their opponents in straight sets.

Emerson, however, had the hardest kind of a contest with Jones, sixty-three games being played before he could win. The men were evenly matched and both were on their game from the outset. Jones took the first set after it had twice gone to deuce, and Emerson captured the second, which was still longer drawn out, and which required eighteen games to decide. Jones at this point seemed wearied by the strain and he took but one game in the third set, but in the fourth he evened matters up by allowing Emerson only two games.

Both men played with great determination in the final set, although they were very tired. At one time Jones came within two points of winning the set and match. Emerson, however, made a strong rally and won the game. Twice more the match was even, but at last Emerson won the deciding game and the match. Clothier will meet Alexander today, while Wright will play against Emerson.

WELCOME BY PRESIDENT.

Roosevelt Will Receive the Olympic Winners Next Monday.

New York, Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt yesterday advised the local committee in charge of the reception to the American team of Olympic athletes that he would be glad to have the members of the team visit him at Sagamore Hill on Monday next, Aug. 31. He also notified the committee that he had requested the navy department to arrange for the participation of contingents from the naval service and marine corps in the parade of Saturday, Aug. 29, in this city. The telegram to Secretary McLaughlin of the committee was as follows:

"Telegram received. The president has requested the secretary of the navy to send out the marines and blue-jackets Saturday. He will gladly see the athletes on Monday. Please let me know what hour will be most convenient for them to arrive and how many will be in the party.

LASKER WINS ONE MORE.

American Champion Defeats Tarrasch in the Fourth Game..

Duesseldorf, Aug. 25.—Dr. Emmanuel Lasker scored another victory last night in the series against Dr. Tarrasch of Neuremburg for the chess championship of the world, after forty-two moves. Dr. Lasker has now won three games and Dr. Tarrasch one.

In the game yesterday the Neuremburg master opened with a ruy lopez. A large number of exchanges followed, which left his position a most favorable one. Lasker brought his castle too early into play and Tarrasch endeavored to capture it, but played his own pawns in danger.

Dr. Tarrasch showed an extremely pretty combination which, however, owing to insufficient development, brought about a strong attack on the part of Dr. Lasker, who eventually overwhelmed his opponent. The next series of games will be played at Munich.

RACES ARE CALLED OFF.

Entries for Dover Grand Circuit Meet Are Insufficient.

Readsville, Mass., Aug. 25.—Walter R. Cox, lessee of the Granite state track at Dover, N. H., who is here attending the races, announced last night that owing to lack of entries the Grand Circuit meet, advertised for next week in that city has been declared off. Many of the horses here will go direct to Hartford, Conn., where the circuit will be resumed Labor day week.

THE RAGPICKERS OF PARIS FORM A UNION.

Paris, Aug. 25.—The labor unionist has taken another step forward. In Paris and all cities the ragpickers have formed a union to defend their interests and ameliorate the conditions of their work.

They complain that the people have grown so economical owing to hard times that out of five tons of household refuse it is only pesible to rake sufficient old iron, rags and bones to fetch in open market a dollar or a dollar and a half.

The ragpickers have had enough of this situation, so have unfurled the banner of revolt.

It is not yet known whetner they intend to demand legislation to force the householders to be more extravagant.

Are You on Good Terms With Your Stomach?

Treat it right—its your best friend. Abuse it—and you'll find there's a limit. When the limit is reached, the stomach must rest. Kodol rests it.

That is what Kodol is for. The stomach cannot stop work; if it did you would stop existing. It cannot even take a vacation and "rest up"—except when it has Kodol to assist it.

Very likely you never gave a thought to how hard your stomach works. Most people don't until they have to. Sometimes, though, it cost less to do a little thinking before one has to.

Even the galley-slave of the ancients rested—at intervals. But the stomach of modern man works harder than the galley-slave, and it never rests—of itself.

Kodol, of course, will rest the stomach, but that is something nature didn't provide for. If people now-a-days lived the way nature intended, it wouldn't have been necessary to provide for it. But they don't that's the trouble.

Better keep on good terms with your stomach, if you can. Your health depends absolutely upon the perfect performance of the stomach's functions. Ever think of that—or why it is true?

The human body is composed of certain chemical elements. These are combined to form substances such as fat, protein, carbohydrates, mineral matter and water.

The food we eat is composed of exactly these elements. The stomach must disintegrate this food and correctly apportion it to the needs of the system. Looks like a lot of work for the stomach, doesn't it? No wonder it occasionally needs Kodol to help it do this.

The person who has the kind of a stomach that can do its own work continuously, without assistance has a good deal to be thankful for. Most people haven't that kind. That is why they require Kodol.

Kodol will do all the stomach's work for it, when necessary—giving it a period of complete rest. The rest that restores health. That's how Kodol cures indigestion—which is merely a good digestion "gone wrong."

People used to think that when they had indigestion they should stop eating or limit themselves to a prescribed diet. Others commenced purging with catharties. All that is very disagreeable and unpleasant. Also, it isn't necessary.

Starvation or purging doesn't cure anything. Kodol doesn't cure anything either—but shows nature the right road, in short order. Kodol merely establishes complete and perfect digestion. It does this by digesting every particle of the food. The stomach then rests and cures itself. That is what was intended when Kodol was made. It couldn't be any other way.

Kodol is quite indispensable to a good many persons. To all, in fact, who haven't time in their daily lives for a careful selection of foods and diet. It very quickly enables nature to rectify any disagreeable effects of wrong eating.

TELLS PLAN TO COUNCIL

Engineer Promises Trip to Fond du Lac in Seven Minutes.

Gets Permission to Make Survey of the Avenues.

Central Duluth will be one big scenic railway, and the flying swings at Wonderland in Minneapolis will be out of the running altogether when compared with an aerial railway between Duluth and Fond du Lac, if John Edward Roemer, French engineer, has his way.

Mr. Roemer of Paris, Societe des Ingenieniers Civils, and of Villa Linda, Stresa, Logo Maggiores, appeared before the council last night and asked permission to make a preliminary survey of different avenues of the city with a view to finding which would be the most suitable to construct his system of moving sidewalks, provided a franchise is extended him. The permission was granted, but this covers the survey part alone. The advisability of allowing a franchise will be considered this afternoon at a special meeting of the committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks, to be attended also by the mayor, city engineer and city attorney.

As explained in an interview with Mr. Roemer in The Herald last night, he proposes to construct an aerial railway from the top of the hill to Fond du Lac, similar to the famous Saarbrucken road. The cars hang from a single rail on an elevated trestle, and Mr. Roemer says the trip from Duluth to Fond du Lac could be made in one of them in seven minutes. He does not want the sidewalk franchise unless he also has a franchise for the railway. It is understood the principal object of the moving sidewalks will be to feed the railway. Mr. Roemer says the road would result in the whole territory between Duluth and the river town being quickly settled up.

The engineer submitted a drawing of the sidewalks proposed, showing how the moving sidewalks pass under the streets through tunnels provided for the purpose, and how platforms are provided for persons wishing to cross the walks. There would be two walks, one moving continually for persons who were alert enough to jump on and off, while the other could be stopped at any point by the passenger. The passenger would be charged at the rate of 2½ cents a ride, and would deposit his metal check in a slot provided for the purpose, such action opening up a chair for him to sit in. There would be twenty-four chairs to the block.

Mr. Roemer does not want to float a company in Duluth to carry out his projects. He claims to have all the financial backing he needs, and all he wants is the franchise, and the promise of the city to pay him what it would cost to build ordinary sidewalks where he puts in his moving walks. He told the aldermen that he was prepared to place in the hands of the city within a few hours a bond for any amount that would insure the city against any damage that the company might do to the streets or avenues, and said all necessary safety appliances for passengers and for people crossing the walks would be provided.

The aldermen showed a good deal of interest in the project, and may conclude to grant the franchise. Mr. Roemer is a business-like looking individual, with a business-like way about him, and it did not take him long to explain his proposition. He will appear before the committee and other officials this afternoon and go farther into details. Permission for the preliminary survey does not put the city under any obligation in this way of allowing further favors. The moving sidewalk plan has already been tried with success in Europe, so it has passed the experimental stage.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

From out the busy throng of traffic on Eads bridge, at St. Louis Monday afternoon, an unidentified man, well dressed, suddenly vaulted the rail and plunged into the Mississippi river, ninety feet below. Horror-stricken spectators saw him come to the surface, struggle a few moments in the current and then sink. His body was not seen again.

Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, was a visitor in Detroit and Windsor Monday. A luncheon was given on board the excursion steamer Brittania for the distinguished visitor.

The new battleship North Dakota is nearly 50 per cent completed, according to an announcement made at the Fore River shipyards Monday. It was stated that the craft would probably be completed by the middle of July, 1910. She will be launched on Nov. 9 next, when 56 per cent will be finished.

The Boston board of immigration inspectors held a special session Monday and further investigated the cases of about one hundred Normon women converts, who arrived on board the steamship Republican. As a result of the examination, forty girls were held for further inquiry, and two will be sent back to Liverpool, Eng.

The first serious break in the ranks of the striking C. P. R. mechanics occurred Monday, when seven strikers applied for their old positions at the West Toronto shops and were taken back.

Four persons were killed near Eugene, Or., Sunday, when the Cottage Grove local train, on the Southern Pacific struck a bull on the track and was piled up in the ditch. The dead: John Nichols, Portland, engineer; Frank Bolter, Portland, fireman; Ray Swartz, Junction City, Or.; George Bailey, Eugene, Or.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

Finding of Woman's Leg Shows Missionary Committed Suicide.

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—The mystery of the disappearance of Miss Elizabeth Hansen, a Presbyterian church missionary, who disappeared from her home in this city April 17 last, is believed to have been solved by the finding of a leg of a woman in the sandbar in the river at the foot of Bridge street Sunday. The rest of the body has not been recovered. The limb was found protruding from the sandbar, which has been left high and dry by the extreme low water in the river. It was badly decomposed, and from appearances had been torn away from the socket at the hip, evidently by the waters, after time had done its work. On the foot was a shoe and a part of a black stocking. The shoe has been identified by a brother and sister of the girl as resembling one worn by Miss Hansen when she disappeared.

Miss Hansen's family has suspected from the first that she committed suicide by throwing herself in the river, and the positive identification of the shoe seems to bear out this suspicion.

TO THE PUBLIC:

Our New York buyer has just written us that one of Duluth's big high priced clothing stores has threatened to cancel a fall order with one of New York's leading clothing firms if they persist in selling us, claiming that we sell too cheap, and that we are demoralizing the clothing business in Duluth.

Too bad—we really feel sorry for the boys, for maybe they need the big profits to buy automobiles, yachts, golf balls, etc., but as we are going to end the days of big clothing profits in Duluth, we have instructed our New York representative to have the order shipped or place the matter in the hands of an attorney, as we do not intend to be bulldozed by a competitor.

LAST DAY FOR FILING

Anton Borgen in Field for Representative From Fiftieth District.

One Lone Prohibitionist Files in the Forty-Ninth District.

One Democrat, one Prohibitionist and one Republican appeared at the county auditor's office this morning and filed as candidates for their party nominations for office at the primary election Sept. 15. Anton N. Thompson, Democrat, wants to oppose J. P. Johnson for clerk of the district court. Oscar Stierna is the lone Prohibitionist candidate for office. He is a candidate for representative to the legislature from the Forty-ninth district. Both men are from Virginia. Anton Borgen filed for representative from the Fiftieth district on the Republican ticket.

The entrance of Mr. Borgen makes up a field of five in the Republican race for the nomination for representative from the Fiftieth district. They are Richard Grant, Andrew Miller, J. R. Randall, J. H. McGillivray and Mr. Borgen. Mr. Borgen is a pioneer of Duluth and was for many years in the grocery business on First street. He is now retired.

Dr. Margaret Ryan, giving her residence as Proctor, filed yesterday for county superintendent of schools, exercising her right to run for the only office one of her sex may hold. She has held a similar position at Ashland, being in office six years, and says she will make that run on her record and qualifications.

Today is the last day for filing and every prospective candidate must get his name into the county auditor by 5 o'clock this evening. There are still several prospective candidates, but they will probably get around before closing time this afternoon. Emil A. Tessman is said to have declared his intention of filing for the nomination on the Democratic ticket for commissioner from the First district and Dr. O. A. Erickson says he will file on the Democratic ticket for representative from the Fiftieth district.

R. C. Vincent, a member of the firm of Hurlburt & Vincent, filed yesterday afternoon on the Republican ticket for county commissioner from the First district he being the fourth Republican candidate. He has lived in Duluth twenty-five years and has a wide acquaintance among the voters.

NORTH DAKOTA "DRYS" DO LITTLE INDORSING.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state Prohibitionists today refused to indorse Governor Burke for re-election and sentiment was expressed against the indorsement of the Republican ticket, though that was not placed in the vote. The convention heartily indorsed L. B. Hanna of Fargo, the Republican nominee for congress. The convention selected M. F. Kiff, Tower City; A. G. Covel, Sykeston; J. A. Siverson, Church's Ferry, and N. A. Colby, Gardner, as presidential electors. They think they can get these men on the ballot by petition and ignore the primary law. E. W. Chubb, Prohibition nominee for president, made a short address before the convention and delivered a formal address in Island park this afternoon.

FALLING BRICK WALL KILLS FIVE WORKMEN.

Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 25.—A thirty-foot brick wall, which was being erected for a building on the sito of one burned last April, collapsed today and buried more than a score of workmen. Five bodies were taken out in the first half hour, and fifteen men, more or less injured, were removed to the United States Marine hospital, where it was reported that several would not recover from their hurts. Nearly all the workmen were foreigners.

WAITED TOO LONG.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Injured by a falling tree, William Palidor, a woodsman, employed in Delta county, paid little attention to the occurrence until finally, arriving at Rapid River, he became unconscious. RECEPTION FOR PARKER

Duluth Business Men Meet the "Sage of Esopus."

Says Citizens' Highest Duty is to Guard Nation's Heritage.

Duluth business men were given an opportunity to meet Judge Alton B. Parker at a public reception given this noon in the reception rooms of the Commercial club. Judge Parker was introduced to the business men by Andrew Nelson, Fred L. Ryan and A. C. Weiss. The reception lasted from 11:30 o'clock to 1, when luncheon was served.

After the informal luncheon John Jenswold introduced Judge Parker in a speech in which he said that the citizens of Duluth were honored in entertaining such a distinguished man.

"We have carefully observed your record in civic and political life," said the speaker, "and we take pride in your career. I welcome you to Duluth on behalf of its citizens."

Judge Parker said in part:

"My good friends, for I feel that you are my friends, though I have not known you very long, and you have a way of shaking hands that makes a man feel like you were his friends. Mr. Nicoll and I have been traveling over this country and I have been impressed with the magnificent men that are to be found in all parts of it. I have been impressed with the destiny that lies before this country. Have you ever thought of the great and glorious heritage that was left to us by our fathers?

"Our fathers struggled for this and their fathers struggled centuries before them. It should be preserved with alertness and watchfulness. Eternal vigilance should be the watchword of every citizen, for only through the utmost vigilance can we preserve this heritage that has been left to us.

"In this matter every citizen should do his duty. There was one thing that our fathers didn't anticipate. That was the party strength that was to come. Allegiance, however, should not always follow party lines. Higher principles should sometimes govern—that is the love of country. That is the highest duty that any citizen can follow.

"It seems to have been quite easy in Minnesota—not to follow party lines, Minnesota knew how to elect a governor, or when things were not going right. You elected a man that at the present time is distinguished throughout the nation. Before I leave you gentlemen, I would suggest that you save this asset—Governor Johnson. Three years ago in my part of the country very little was known of him. Today he is known throughout the United States. New York knows a great deal about him, and he stands very high in my state. I suggest that for the good of the state, for the good of Minnesota, that you keep Governor Johnson for some day the nation may call upon him for public office."

The following gentlemen were guests at the informal luncheon: Andrew Nelson, A. C. Weiss, Fred L. Ryan, John Jenswold, Emil A. Tessman, T. T. Hudson, Alfred Jacques, P. D. McDonnell, S. F. Snively, C. C. Loveett, Dr. O. A. Oredson, W. B. Getchell, H. W. Cheadle, Judge W. A. Cant, Frank Crasswelller, Judge Frank Cutting and W. F. Bailey.

De Lacey Nicoll made a few remarks after Judge Parker's address.

This afternoon Judge Parker and Mr. Nicoll were taken around the boulevard in automobiles.

COPPER STOCKS ACT VERY WELL

Prices Rule Higher at the Close of the Session.

Despite an important failure in New York, that of A. O. Brown & Co., the copper stocks acted well after the opening hours of the session today and the closing prices ruled higher.

North Butte opened at $83, declined to $82.75, rallied to $83.62½ and closed lower than yesterday at $82.75 bid and $83.25 asked. Amalgamated opened at $76.50, advanced to $77.87½ and closed strong at $77.50 bid and $77.75 asked.

Greene-Cananea advanced from $11 to $11.37½ and closed firm at $11.25 bid and $11.37½ asked. Calumet & Arizona opened at $118 and advanced by the close to $117.50 bid and $118 asked. Butte Coalition opened at $26.37½, declined to $26, rallied to $26.50 and closed at $26.25 bid and $26.50 asked. Anaconda opened at $46, advanced to $46.87½ and closed at $46.12½ bid.

SUES TO COLLECT INSURANCE

Mrs. Leland Seeks to Recover on $2,000 Policy.

Suit was this afternoon filed in the district court court by Cora G. Leland against the Modern Samaritans for ,000, which she claims is due her for the life insurance of her husband, Charles F. Leland, deceased.

She claims that her husband was admitted to the order in July, 1897, and continued in good standing up to the time of his death, April 14, 1908. She also submitted proof of his death. Though she claims all this, the Modern Samaritans have failed to pay the insurance which her husband took out with them.

The Modern Samaritans in their answer state that Mr. Leland failed to pay his dues for March, 1908, which amounted to $3.15, which, according to their rules, should be paid the first of each month, and that for this reason he was suspended from membership April 1, just thirteen days before the time of his death thus forfeiting any right to the insurance.

THE FILM MYSTERY.

J. J. Frey Has More Than His Share of Troubles With Moving Pictures.

Suit was started yesterday in the district court by Charles Ellison, one of the proprietors of the Elco theater, against John J. Frey, for $500. Ellison claims that on May 31, 1908, he borrowed $15 from Mr. Frey, giving as security some moving picture films, which he alleges were valued at $500. He further claims that he attempted to pay back the money to Mr. Frey on June 16, but that Mr. Frey refused to accept money in payment, and kept the films. Ellison is suing to recover the cost of the films.

According to J. J. Frey, the suit is a piece of trickery that he himself does not understand.

Mr. Frey states that Ellison came to him and borrowed $15, leaving with him some moving picture films as security. Later Ellison gave up the Elco and left for the range, but before doing so he came and paid Mr. Frey $5 on what he owed him. Later Mrs. Ellison called on him, asking that the films be sent to the range town where her husband was in the show business, and promised that the remaining $10 would be forthcoming. Mr. Frey refused to do this, unless he received the money owed him. She then said that she intended to go to the range herself in a few days, and before she went would bring him the money or send it, and get the films.

In a few days a man came to Frey, it is claimed by him, and gave him $10 and an order for the films. Frey gave him the films. It was not long after that that Ellison called up Frey and asked him for the films. Frey told him what had occurred, and the show man threatened him with a suit unless he produced the films. Frey claims that he was at a loss to know what it was all about. Suit was filed against him, and he, of course, took steps to answer it.

Shortly after that Weiss, who was a partner of Ellison in the Elco theater, telephoned Frey from Superior. He said that he heard that Frey was in difficulties with Ellison, and that he, Weiss, would do all in his power to locate the missing films. The man who had brought the order for the films showed up again and promised, if Frey would pay him for his trouble, he would get the films back for him, as he claimed to have a pretty good idea where they were. Frey claims that he told him that he would only give him the $10 which the stranger had originally paid him for the moving picture outfit. The man argued for more, but finally agreed to come to Frey's terms. He brought Frey the films. Frey claims that he then notified Ellison that he could have his films on paying the remainder of what he owed him, $10. But Ellison said that he no longer cared for the films, but would continue his suit against Frey for a $500 judgment. Frey still has the films in his possession, and, according to his story, cannot return them.

RETURNED TO CANADA

Three Women of Doubtful Reputation Sent Back From Duluth.

Feminine beauty, tears, entreaties, threats, curses, and cash bribes all failed to make an impression on Inspector in Charge William H. Dean of the local United States immigration office yesterday, and three women of doubtful reputation, said to be coming to Duluth to enter houses of ill fame, were ordered returned to Canada on the steamship Huronic, the same vessel they arrived on.

Dorothy Dodd, Fanny Williams and Pearl St. Engles were the names given by the girls. Laws regarding the importation of women for immoral purposes are very strict, and when Inspector Dean found ground for suspicion as to the character of the trio in question, he put them through a cross examination that soon forced them to admit their occupation, and the fact that they were citizens of Canada, and not of the United States. It is understood that they were coming direct from a disorderly house at Fort William to a Duluth house. If it could be proven that any person in Duluth had contracted to give the girls a place at their occupation in Duluth, such persons would be subject to a $5,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

In all his varied experience in the immigration service, Inspector Dean never saw such a lurid, startling display of feminine wrath as was heaped upon him yesterday when he told the Canadians they would have to go back home. The women were mad, very, very mad.

All this came after tears and entreaties failed. There were also offers of cash bribes, but these had no more effect than the tears. Finally tiring of the tirade of abuse, Inspector Dean turned the three over to the ship's officers and returned to his office in the Federal building. Then the women sent for a hack, and had the hack get one of Duluth's attorney's, and take him to the inspector's office. It didn't take the attorney long to find there was no way out of the difficulty for the girls. Not satisfied with this, they secured the services of another attorney, with the same result.

Next some young men entered Inspector Dean's office and one poses as the husband of the woman who was "dressed in black silk." She had already admitted that her reputation was not all that could be desired, and the man frankly admitted that she spent a good deal of her time in a house of ill fame. He made a big bluff and bluster, but about one minute's heart to heart talk with Inspector Dean was sufficient to take him back out of the office with an apology, wearing a scared expression on his pallid countenance. It developed that he was not a citizen of the United States, and in view of his admission that he was the husband of the woman, and that she was coming here for immoral purposes, he was subject to a fine of $5,000 and in addition to that a term of five years in prison. As a matter of fact, he probably was not her husband, it is said, but in any event, if he had anything to do with her coming here, he would still be subject to the punishment provided by the United States immigration laws.

From the immigration office the men went to the Huronic, Northern Pacific dock No. 4, but when Capt. Foote learned their mission he would not permit them to remain in conversation with the women. There were several men, and it was feared they would attempt to take the trio from the boat by force. The men seemed determined to hang around, however, and finally the assistance of the police was asked for, and officers were sent to the dock. If the girls had escaped the boat company would have been subject to a fine of $1,000 in each case, or a toal fine of $3,000.

Charged With Theft.

Frank Sidon was arrested this afternoon on complaint of Oscar Wick, of 119 East First street. Wick claims that Sidon entered his home Aug. 10, and stole a watch valued at $25 and cash to the amount of $15.

WHEAT HAS FIRM TONE

September Option Fraction Off Here—Market Generally Strong.

Flax is Quiet and Closes With an Easier Undertone.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 25.—September wheat went off slightly during the last hour in the Duluth market today, but the distant option continued firm until the close and the other markets closed higher. The general tone of wheat was stronger than yesterday, largely on reports that rains in the Northwest were delaying threshing and retarding the movement.

Prices were firmer here until the latter part of the session, when a break came in September, which was not recovered by the end of the session.

Cables were stronger. Liverpool closed ½d higher, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ⅛c higher, Budapest ⅞c lower and Paris ⅛c to ¼c lower.

The September option closed ⅛c lower in Duluth, ½-⅝c higher in Chicago and Kansas City, unchanged in Minneapolis for new wheat, ⅜c higher in New York and ⅛-¼c higher in St. Louis. The October option closed ½c higher in Winnipeg. The December option closed ½c higher in Duluth, New York and Kansas City, ⅝c up in Chicago and St. Louis, ¼-⅜c higher for new December in Minneapolis and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg.

September corn closed ⅝c higher in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. September oats closed ⅛c higher in Chicago.

Car receipts at Duluth were 51 against 33 last year, and at Minneapolis 250 against 94 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 301 against 127 last year. Chicago received 143 against 353 last year. Winnipeg received 20 against 105 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 716,000 bus, last year 750,000 bus. Shipments 687,000 bus, last year 573,000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 345,000 bus.

Bradstreet's reports an increase of 1,161,000 bus in the world's visible supply of wheat. There was an increase of 61,000 bus in the United States and an increase of 1,100,000 bus in Europe and afloat.

Primary receipts of corn were 738,000 bus, last year 429,000 bus. Shipments 319,000 bus, last year 406,000 bus.

The world's visible supply of corn decreased 78,000 bus.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market during most of the session. September wheat opened ⅛c higher, at 99½c bid, advanced to 99⅝c, declined to 99¼c, rallied to 99⅜@⅝c, declined too 99¼c and closed at that price, a loss of ⅛c from yesterday. December wheat opened unchanged, at 97c bid, advanced to 97⅞c, declined to 97½c and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 4½c over September for No. 1 Northern.

Flax was active during the earlier hours of the session but trading became indifferent and so did prices later on. September flax opened unchanged at $1.28⅝ asked, declined to $1.28½, rallied to $1.28⅝ and closed at $1.28¼, a loss of ½c from yesterday. October flax opened unchanged at $1.27, advanced to $1.27½ and closed at $1.27, unchanged from yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.27, went to $1.27½ and closed at $1.27¼. December flax opened ½c up at $1.25 bid and closed at $1.24½ bid, unchanged from yesterday.

Oats closed ¼c higher, rye ½c off and barley unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Dull, But Firm With Prices Above Monday's Closing Figures.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The wheat market opened dull but firm, initial quotations today being from ⅛c to ⅜@½c above yesterday's final figures. Wet weather in the Canadian Northwest where harvesting is under way, was the chief bullish influence, although firm cables and light stocks here helped to inspire some confidence in higher prices. For a time after the opening prices held almost stationary. December opened at 94⅛@94⅜c and sold at 94⅜@½c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 444 cars against 393 cars last week and 480 cars a year ago.

Demand became more active later in the day, but offerings continued small, and in consequence the market became strong. September advanced to 94c and December to 94⅞c. The close was strong with September ½@⅝c higher at 93½@93⅝c and December up ⅝c at 94½@94⅝c.

Local receipts of corn were considerably more than what had been estimated, and this, together with continued favorable weather for the new crop, caused an easy tone in the market for that cereal. Trade was very quiet. Prices at the opening were a shade to ¼@⅜c lower. December opened at 65@⅛c to 65⅛c and advanced to 65⅝c. Local receipts were 590 cars with 193 of contract grade.

Reports of smaller acceptances from the country imparted additional firmness later in the session, September advancing to 77¼c and December to 66⅛c. The close was strong with prices almost at the top final quotations on September being at 77⅛c and December at 66@66⅛c.

Oats opened easy in sympathy with other grain, but became firmer owing to a scarcity of offerings in the pit. September and December each opened at the same mark, 48½c, and each advanced ¼c in early trading. Local receipts were 288 cars.

Local packers were moderate purchasers of provisions owing to smaller receipts of live hogs, and, as a result, the market was firm, prices at the opening being up from 5@12½c. Trading is gradually shifting to the January products.

Close: Wheat—September, 93½@93⅝c; December, 94½@94⅝c; May, 93⅜@93½c. Corn—September, 77⅛c; December, 66@66⅛c; May, 64½c. Oats—September, 48¾c; December, 48¾c; May, 50¾c. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Shows Better Tone at Opening, But Later Has Recession.

Minneapolis, Aug. 25.—Cables coming in firmer gave the wheat market a better tone at the opening, although the receipts here of 250 cars, against only 94 cars a year ago, caused considerable selling. The fact that Chicago got only 143 cars, against 353 last year, was a partial effect. Duluth received 51 against 33, and the Kansas and St. Louis figures were moderate. Minneapolis elevator stocks decreased 100,000 bushels for three days. A forecast for probable showers tonight in Minneapolis and the Dakotas suggested possible harvest delay. The tone was firm until near the close, when prices receded, but the range was narrow, the market being without decided trend for the day. September opened 99¼c; high, 99⅜c; low, 98½@⅝c; close, 98⅞c. Old September opened 99¾c; high, $1.00¼; low, 99⅛c; close, 99¾c. December opened 97¾c; high, 98¼c; low, 97⅝c; close, 97¾c. Old December closed 98¼c.

Cash wheat was lower again. Early sales of No. 1 were 5c over the September option, but later it could not be sold at 4c over. No. 2 sold from 99¼@$1.00 for 35 cars, the bulk of it. Velvet chaff, in the No. 1 northern grade was lower, ranging from 98¾c down to 95c. In the No. 2 northern grade it was 93c and 92½c, and some No. 3 wheat of velvet chaff variety sold at 90c. Millers bought early, but pulled out with wants satisfied before all the wheat was sold and the remainder dragged. Close, No. 1 northern spot, $1.01⅝; new to arrive, $1.01⅝; No. 2 northern, spot, 98⅝c; new to arrive, 98⅝c. No. 3 wheat, 96⅝c.

No. 3 yellow corn, 75¾c.

No. 3 white oats, 46⅜@46⅝c.

No. 2 rye, 71¾@72¾c.

Barley—Receipts, 79 cars. The market was steady and abroad general demand cleaned it up. Twenty cars sold from 58c to 58½c, 19 cars from 57c to 57½c, and six cars at 59½c and the early range was from 60½c to 55½c. Close, 53@60c.

Flax—Receipts 1 car. No. 1 was quoted 1c over Duluth September, but with little in there was only a nominal market. Close $1.28.

Millstuffs quoted on basis $19.00 @19.50 for bran in bulk, miller's figures.

Flour was reduced 20c a barrel for patents making 40c decline since the close of last week. Clears, which did not change when the big advance was on some time ago are now stationary against the decline. Business was light today, but there is an increased interest, on the part of buyers. Shipments, 33,263 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.85; second patents, $5.60@5.70; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

FINISHED IN THIRTY DAYS

Board of Trade Improvements Will Be Completed Then.

Although the new trading floor is now occupied, it will be another thirty days before all of the improvements in the board of trade building are completed.

Many of the offices in the new part are yet to be finished and a number of the suites in the old part of the building are to be altered, enlarged or improved to suit the tenants.

When all the work on the building is completed, the firms doing business in the structure will have to enlarge quarters they have been long waiting for. There will be room enough within the walls of the building to house all the concerns whose business makes it almost imperative that their offices be located there. Before the addition was built, there was not room enough in the building to take care of all the companies holding memberships.

Out of a total of fifty-one cars of wheat, reported in the local inspection today, four cars are new spring wheat and ten are new durum wheat. The total of spring wheat was four, while the total of durum was forty cars.

Hans Simons of Liverpool, England, has arrived in the city and established an office in the building. He is a wheat man and will probably remain here until after the holidays.

Newton Owen of Toledo, connected with the S. M. Jones company of that city, spent the morning on the floor. He is a brother of Charles M. Owen and John E. Owen of the H. Poehler company.

Copper Gossip.

New York to Paine, Webber & Co.: The failure of A. O. Brown & Co., in New York, made the market very nervous today. The local stocks were dull and without change. North Butte was in good demand at $83. Greene-Cananea and Miami were active. Calumet & Arizona was stronger and will do better as the selling seems to be over. Wyandotte was active, but it was caused by the operations of a floor trader.

AMBASSADOR RUN DOWN BY BICYCLIST.

Mexico City, Aug. 25.—David E. Thompson, American ambassador to Mexico, was run down by a bicyclist in the center of the city today and suffered a fracture of one arm and contusion of the face. An X-ray examination was made to ascertain if he had suffered any other injuries. His condition was not considered to be serious.

HEAVINESS IN STOCKS

At Close Due to the Suspension of Prominent Brokers.

Market Displayed Strong Tone and Advanced Early in Session.

New York, Aug. 25.—Trading was in small volume at the opening of business on the stock exchange, and although the tone of the market was easy, the recessions were of little consequence. Missouri Pacific advanced a point and the general tendency also became upward after the first five minutes of business.

Southern Pacific was irregular within a range of ½ which affected the rest of the list. Eventually the general tone became more staple, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific Reading and New York Central gaining ½ to ¾ and Rock Island preferred, American Smelting and Canadian Pacific 1.

Bull operations in American Smelting advanced it 2¼ and helped the balance of the list to a higher level. The volume of business was unusually small and largely restricted ao a half dozen speculative favorites. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred improved 2 and Union Pacific, Reading, Great Northern preferred, Colorado & Southern second preferred, National Lead and Westinghouse Electric 1. Bonds were steady.

Trading broadened and became more active when several stocks were pushed up in a buoyant manner. Purchases by the short interest increased the rapidity of the rise and the general undertone of the market was strong and confident. Missouri Pacific jumped 3¾; American Smelting, 3¼; Rock Island preferred, 2⅝; National Lead, 1⅝; Interborough-Metropolitan preferred, 1½; Rock Island and Amalgamater Copper, 1¼, and Southern Pacific, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Anaconda, 1.

The rise in the stock market made further headway before the announcement of the suspension of A. O. Brown & Co. brought about a heavy selling movement which carried the leaders down from 1 to 1½ below the top prices, with American Smelting reacting 2⅝. The market was quiet again at 2 o'clock and was steadying at a fractional rally.

The closing was heavy. The market displayed feverishness at intervals and gradually worked lower on light offerings. St. Paul and the Harriman and metal stocks were prominent in the decline.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 25.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 6 points on August, which was wanted by two or three belated shorts, while later positions were 2@6 points lower, in response to easy cables. After the opening, August dropped back to about last night's figures, but the new crop positions worked higher on report of heavy rains and covering by shorts, with prices during the middle of the morning about 3@4 points above last night. Trading was moderately active, and while Liverpool was slow in responding to the local advance, New Orleans appeared to be buying October here.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: August, 9:40; September, 8:59; October, 8.54; November, 8.42; December, 8.45; January, 8.36; February, 8.40; March, 8.44. Spot closed quiet, 10 points decline. Middling uplands, 9.80; middling gulf, 10.05. Sales, none.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR looking fine and many of the people who should know are talking $5 stock before the snow flies. Inside of the next two weeks you should see some fireworks in this one. It is a cinch for $3.00 easy, and that is doubling your money.

GREENE-CANANEA would have to sell at $22.00 and Superior & Pittsburg at $27.00. Much more money is made on the low price stocks than on the others. Our customers have made thousands while many of those who are in on the heavy stocks stand about where they were months ago.

Buy—BALLAKLAVA—is without question the greatest chance you ever had for a very big turn. It has got to come, for this mine has the same ore as the North Butte.

CARMAN is strong at $3.00 to $3.25, and is ripe for big bulge very soon.

CALUMET & SONORA is hard to find at $9.87 and looks much higher.

Remember we are only in the month of August and have only started toward the road that leads to higher prices all along the line. In thirty days you will see some changes in many of the stocks that will make you wonder why you did not take on some at these low prices. We see it every year.

BROKERS SUSPEND.

Firm of A. O. Brown & Co. of New York in Financial Trouble.

New York, Aug. 25.—A. O. Brown & Co., one of the largest brokerage houses in this city, announced their suspension on the stock exchange this afternoon. The transactions of the firm in the remarkable stock market of last Saturday have been under investigation by the authorities of the stock exchange, and today it was announced that transactions had been made for the firm's account under the rule which provides that where a firm is unable to deliver stock sold to another broker the purchaser may buy in the stock at the expense of the firm failing to make delivery.

At the height of the boom markets of several years ago, A. O. Brown & Co. did an enormous business, said to have been larger than any other brokerage house at one time. There were five branch offices in this city and many others throughout the country, but after the panic of last fall, many of the out-of-town branches were closed. At the present time, however, the firm had offices in Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Erie, Utica and Toronto and Paterson, N. J. The firm was organized in 1902. Its members are A. O. Brown, G. Lee Stout, E. F. Buchanan, Samuel C. Brown and W. Rhea Whitman.

The effect of the suspension upon the stock market was not so violent as anticipated by those who know how large an amount of stocks A. O. Brown & Co. owed to other firms. The volume of trading increased rapidly, but prices vacillated and there was no general movement in either direction. Houses to whom the suspended firm had failed to deliver stocks sold were left short of stock to fill their own contracts, and the buying in of such stocks to satisfy their contracts ordinarily would cause an advance in prices. In this case there was apparently considerable selling of stocks because of the unusual occurrences of the past few days, and the uncertainty as to what might be involved in the suspension.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Eggs are off a cent in the local produce market, but the price of hens in the poultry market is higher. Butter has a stiffer tone. Lemons and apples are cheaper. An easier tone prevails in the meat market.

THREE RAILROAD MEN KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 25.—Alex Milton, paymaster of the Eastern section of double tracking operations on the Canadian Pacific railway, with his two assistants, were killed by a train last night, sixty-five miles east of Kenora. The train came along unexpectedly and struck them.

More Coatmakers Strike.

New York, Aug. 25.—About 2,000 more coatmakers and pressers struck today, making a total of 7,000 workers in the clothing trade out. From Brooklyn reports were received at the headquarters that several thousand are on strike there.

ACTORS WIN BY SCORE OF 29 TO 12

Limelight Artists Take City Police Force Into Camp.

In the biggest slugging match held at Athletic park this year the actors from the Bijou theater put it on the "cops" this morning by a score of 29 to 12.

Never did the White Sox hit the ball, run bases, pull down flies, and grab hot grounders as did those actors. They went out to show how the national game ought to be played, and they certainly opened the eyes of the fans.

The game was played for the benefit of the children's home and more than 400 people paid admission to see the game. Most of the city officials were there to cheer on the wearers of the blue, and the little mahogany billy, but it was of no use. The mighty cops have fallen, and there was no Casey to win in the ninth.

A WYOMING STAGE HELD UP AND ROBBED.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 25.—A special to the Record from Cody, Wyo., states that the stage running between that place and Meeteetse, Wyo., was held up today by a robber, and passengers robbed to the extent of $1,500.

Because of the distance separating the places, this robbery evidently was not committed by the highwayman who held up the stage in Yellowstone Park yesterday.

Street Cars

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

This company operates a street railway line in the city of Duluth between Third avenue east and the end of Rice's Point and another street railway line in the city of Superior between Twenty-first street and the end of Connor's Point. These lines are separated by the waters of St. Louis bay, and are operated as two distinct and separate lines.

The fare for a continuous ride in one direction between any two points on either one of these lines it 5c.

The public is hereby notified that this company does not, by undertaking to carry any passenger, or by accepting fare for such carriage, assume any responsibility beyond that of carrying such passengers safely between points on the above mentioned lines.

This company is not responsible for close connections, nor safe transportation, between the above mentioned lines by any ferryboat or other means of transportation. While the employes of this company have been instructed to keep themselves posted and give upon request all the information they can as to the probability of connections being made with other transportation lines, the company has not better means of foreseeing unexpected interruptions in the service of such lines, nor of telling how long such interruptions will continue, than the public has, and therefore, cannot be responsible for notice of such interruptions.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS—

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That School District No. 18, in St. Louis County, Minnesota, by its school board and by election duly held, has duly authorized the issuance and sale of bonds of said district to the amount of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000.00); the money from said bonds to be used for the purpose of erecting a schoolhouse in said district, and for the purpose of furnishing the same with apparatus and other school furniture, said bonds to be sixty-five (65) in number, and in denominations of one thousand dollars each, numbered and payable as follows:

Bonds numbered 1 to 6 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1909.
Bonds numbered 7 to 12 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1910.
Bonds numbered 13 to 18 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1911.
Bonds numbered 19 to 24 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1912.
Bonds numbered 25 to 30 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1913.
Bonds numbered 31 to 36 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1914.
Bonds numbered 37 to 42 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1915.
Bonds numbered 43 to 48 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1916.
Bonds numbered 49 to 54 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1917.
Bonds numbered 55 to 60 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1918.
Bonds numbered 61 to 65 inclusive, due and payable January 1, 1919.

The same to draw interest at the rate of five per cent (5 per cent) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year, which said interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to said bonds. Said bonds shall be sold for cash at not less than par with accrued interest.

The School Board District will meet at McKinley Schoolhouse, situated on the road to the Elba Mine location, in the Village of McKinley, St. Louis County, Minnesota, upon the 5th day of September, 1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of opening and considering bids for said bonds. Said School Board reserves the right to reject any and all offers.

Sealed bids for said bonds may be mailed to W. P. Chinn, Clerk of said School District, prior to said date, or may be delivered to said meeting at the time of the holding thereof.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL—
State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. In Probate Court.

In the matter of the estate of Eliza B. Withrow, Decedent.

A certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of Eliza B. Withrow, having been presented to this court and the petition of Maggie J. Forgy, being duly filed herein, representing, among other things, that said decedent, then being a resident of the county of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, died testate in the county of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, on the 17th day of August, 1908, and that said petitioner is the executrix named in the will of deceased and praying that said instrument be allowed and admitted to probate as the last will and testament of said decedent, and that letters testamentary be issued thereon.

IT IS ORDERED, That said petition be heard before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in Duluth, in said county, on Monday, the 21st day of September, 1908 at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter, are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald, according to law, and that a copy of this order be served on the County Treasurer of St. Louis County not less than ten days prior to said day of hearing.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., Aug 24, 1908.
By the Court,
J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.
(Seal, Probate Court, St. Louis County, Minn.)

SEVENTY CASES ARE CONTINUED

September Term of Circuit Court Will Be Long One.

The calendar for the September term of district court, which opens next Tuesday, Sept. 2, is in process of compilation, and it promises to furnish an exceptionally long term. There were 210 cases on the calendar for the May term, and the list for the September term will not fall far short of that. A number of the cases promise to be long drawn out, and court officers are looking forward to a long session of hard work.

The list of continued cases is heavier than for a good many terms past. There are 70 of them, 45 jury cases, 16 court cases and 9 divorce cases. For the May term there were but 55 continued cases, and the number usually falls below that figure.

The number of filings for the coming term is increasing daily as the limit of time approaches. The criminal calendar will not be exceptionally heavy, and there are no cases on it which will drag out very far, but what the criminal calendar lacks will be made up by the civil calendar, which is heavy enough to consume the time of all three judges for several weeks.

ESCAPED FROM CHAIN GANG.

Matt Anderson and Herman Lappi, two "plain drunk" prisoners at the county jail, laid down their picks and shovels, climbed out of the ditch and walked away, leaving the chain gang behind yesterday afternoon. They have not yet been retaken.

The men were employed with the gang on some city work at Second street and Third avenue east. They were in charge of the city foremen, and, catching the latter with their backs turned, made good their escape.

Anderson is 57 years old and was sent up for thirty days from Biwabik. Kappi is 54 years old and drew a similar term as a common drunk at Aurora.

Hay Fever and Summer Colds.

Victims of hay fever will experience great benefit by taking Foley's Honey and Tar, as it stops difficult breathing immediately and heals the inflamed air passages, and even if it should fail to cure you it will give instant relief." The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

CHANGES IN PRECINCTS

Boundaries of Many Election Districts Have Been Altered.

Principal Changes in East End and West Duluth.

At the primary election, Sept. 15, the new boundaries of the election precincts of Duluth will be noted by the voters of the city for the first time. Several changes were made in these boundaries by the city council recently.

The Colbyville precinct has been done away with entirely, and the territory comprised in it has gone to the Lakeside precinct for the most part. The Woodland precinct has been changed to the fourth and fifth precincts of the First ward, and the old third and fourth precincts, east of Eleventh avenue east, have been changed to the third, fifth and sixth precincts. The third comprises all that part of the East end south of Superior street; the fifth all that part of the East end north of Superior street and East of Fifteenth avenue, and the sixth all that part of the East end north of Superior street and west of Fifteenth avenue east.

In the Second ward, above Fourth street, there have been several changes. The third and fourth precincts have been made into the third, fourth and fifth precincts. The third takes in the district lying between Eighth and Eleventh streets, on the hillside, and the fourth precinct from Fifth to Eighth streets. The fifth extends from Third to Fifth streets.

The next change is in the Sixth ward. The two Garfield avenue precincts have been consolidated into one.

In the Eighth ward the first precinct is the same except for an addition of a three-cornered piece south of Grand avenue, west of Central and north of Ramsey street.

The second precinct of the Eight ward is the same except that it takes in the territory between Ramsey and Roosevelt streets east of Grand avenue.

The old third precinct is the same except that Bay View Heights has been cut out. That part of the Fourth precinct between Roosevelt and Raleight streets has been consolidated with the old fifth precinct, now known as the fourth. Bay View Heights and the new dwellings in the vicinity of Proctor, but not Proctor itself, are now known as the Fifth precinct of the Eighth ward. Proctor is a village by itself, outside the city limits.

ACCUSE MURGALL OF FOUL CRIME

Alleged He Shoved Joe White Bird to Death Under Train.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.) — If the sensational charges by a couple of Chippewa Indians living on the Fond du Lac reservation, near here, preferred against Louis Murgall, a half breed, who works in the Northern Lumber company's mill, are substantiated at the latter's preliminary hearing, being held today, he will face a charge of murder.

They allege that Murgall is responsible for the death of Joe White Bird, the Chippewa Indian who was killed by a Great Northern train near here early on the morning of July 4, claiming that he deliberately pushed his victim on the track as a train was passing, and then threatened to kill either one of them if they told of it.

Murgall was arrested Saturday for a minor offense, and since he has been in jail the two Indians told of the alleged murder of White Bird. County Attorney Dodge of Carlton is holding a hearing today before Judge Skemp, and some damaging evidence against the accused is being uncovered. It is the claim of the complaining witnesses that there is a woman in the case, the wife of Murgall, who separated from her husband several months ago. It is said Murgall blamed White Bird for his marital troubles, making threats against his life and finally carrying them out by pushing him in front of the train to his death.

The hearing was not concluded at noon and was taken up again at 2 p. m.

COLORED ELKS MEET.

Two Factions of the Order May be United at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ninth annual convention of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, an organization of colored people, began here today at the old capitol building with a welcome meeting. The most important business before the convention is the unification of the two factions of the order. Two years ago when the "Colored Elks' met in Brooklyn, N. Y., dissention split the organization into two factions known as the Howard and Atkins factions, because of an attempt to extend the term of office of exalted ruler to ten years. On Aug. 4, a harmony committee made up of representatives of both sides met in Chicago and agreed on a compromise, which, it is said, is likely to be ratified at the present convention.

NOTE FROM VENEZUELA IS NOT CONCILIATORY.

The Hague, Aug. 25.—The Netherlands government today received an unofficial copy of the second note sent to it by Jose de Jesus Paul, the foreign minister of Venezuela, in connection with the difficulty which has arisen in the West Indies between the two states. The original of this communication has not yet come to hand.

The cabinet met this morning and considered the note at length. The general tenor of it does not give the Netherlands government much encouragement to persevere in its attempts to reach a peaceful settlement with Venezuela.

Waukegan Postoffice Robbed.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The postoffice at Waukegan, a north shore suburb, was entered by robbers last night, the safe blown open by the use of dynamite, and stamps and cash to the value of $3,000 obtained.

Sons of Veterans Meet.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The national socley of the Sons of Veterans, opened its annual convention here today. The ritual of the odrer is to be entirely changed. The convention will be in session four days.

ASK YOUR WIFE HER FAVORITE NEWSPAPER

IT IS a fair assumption that nearly every woman in Duluth reads The Herald every night. Being an evening newspaper, The Herald arrives at a time when the women have leisure for reading. The Herald, too, has for years published a class of news appealing particularly to women. In addition The Herald's advertising columns have attracted thousands of women readers. In The Herald they have learned to expect all the best announcements of the big and little advertisers at home and from abroad. Any advertiser who wishes to reach the women of Duluth, can do so completely by using The Herald and only by so doing.

JAPS WANT MORE TIME

Think International Exposition Should be Postponed Until 1917.

Not Time Enough Before 1912 for the Preparatory Work.

Tokio, Aug. 26.—The postponement of the Tokio international exposition, which is now scheduled for 1912, is being agitated in government circles here and seriously discussed, on the ground that the appropriation set aside for this purpose is inadequate and that the time intervening is insufficient for the amount of preparatory work that must be done. No decision has been reached, however, pending the opinion of Count Koruma, the new minister of foreign affairs, who returned from London tonight. The members of the home department of the cabinet are urging the appropriation of about $15,000,000 for the exposition, and also that the date of the opening be postponed until 1917. In supporting their contentions the officials point to the fact that the Chicago and the Paris expositions were both postponed beyond the original time set for their opening.

Other members of the cabinet insist that, in view of the present financial situation in Japan and of the avowed determination of the present ministry to economize, the appropriation of 30,000,000 yen will be inconsistent unless the exposition is postponed.

MORE MEN HIRED BY STEEL MILLS

Five Hundred Workmen Employed by South Chicago Plant.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—A forerunner of the revival of good times in the steel industry was seen Monday when the Illinois Steel company employed 500 men at its South Chicago plant. The taking on of the new men was necessitated by the reopening of plate mill No. 2. In former years when this mill was opened in the fall it has been the custom to close down plate mill No. 1. This year this will not be done and the officials expect to put 500 more men at work the beginning of next week. Of the 7,000 men normally employed in the mill only 4,000 have been working the past few months. The mills are now rushed for orders and will increase the force through the winter. The new shift put to work Monday is the first large employment made since the beginning of this year.

BLONDE MAN WITH EDDY

Searchers for Missing Man Hope to Hear From Him.

Milwaukee, Aug. 26.—Hoping to hear from a blonde young man said to have been seen in the Plankinton hotel on Saturday, Aug. 15, with Ralph W. Eddy of Wooster, Ohio, the mysteriously missing traveling man, N. B. Everson, has decided to defer his search in Chicago two days. Eddy dictated letters to the public stenographer in the hotel while his blonde male companion awaited the completion of his task. The man seemed to be on intimate terms with Eddy, addressing him as "Ralph" and urged him to hurry his correspondence. None of the business letters have been received by parties to whom addressed. One letter is said to have contained Eddy's traveling route. The companion has not been seen since Eddy's disappearance.

VAGRANT HEIR TO A LARGE SUM

St. Paul Man Says He Has $12,000 Claim on Estate.

St. Paul, Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arrested as a vagrant in the hay mow of fire engine house No. 2, on Wacouta street, Otto K. Sauer, son of a former well known attorney of St. Paul, told a hard luck story in police court today very much out of the ordinary. The police asserted that young Sauer had come to be a nuisance around the engine house, and finally it was decided to lock him up last night on a charge of vagrancy.

In court this morning, Sauer told Judge Hanft that he was worth between $10,000 and $12,000 by inheritance from his father's estate. He claimed a two-ninth's interest in the estate, but said that he could not realize on it because the estate is tied up in litigation that shows no sign of ending. He had attempted to borrow money on his interest in the estate and had failed.

Sauer claimed that he practices law, that he is a number of cases in justice court, and that his reason for hanging around the fire engine houses was because he had no money to pay for lodgings.

The case was continued to give Sauer opportunity to produce witnesses in his behalf.

Steamer Oriole Tested.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new steamer Oriole was given a short test Sunday evening and was found to be all right. She will be put in spick and span shape in time to make the first run tomorrow from Aitkin to Sandy Lake and will probably make the Grand Rapids run the last of the week. It is a splendid passenger and freight boat and will make the river trips much more popular than ever before.

CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE REPLIES TO CRITICISM ON STANDARD DECISION

GEORGE C. PERKINS
Of California, Who Will Succeed Senator Hale as Chairman of the Naval Committee, Senator Hale Becoming Head of the Committee on Appropriations.

Says Reversal of Fine Was Strictly According to Law.

Courts of Country Not Swayed by Any Other Influence.

Every Corporation Has Exactly Same Rights as Individual.

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 26.—Judge Francis E. Baker of the United States circuit court of appeals, which reversed the decision of Judge Landis fining the Standard Oil company $29,000,000, replied yesterday to the critics of his court.

"In the first place," he said, "it was not the Standard Oil company incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, the parent concern, that was on trial, but the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, an offspring, undoubtedly, but a much smaller and weaker organization.

"But when it came to pass judgment, it was on the offenses of the parent company that the Indiana offspring was found guilty, and it was in accordance with the property and revenues of the parent company that the fine of the offspring was gauged. If it was the desire and purpose of the court to punish the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, that concern should have been indicted either jointly or separately and have been brought into court.

"Every corporation has exactly the same rights as an individual, no more, no less. The parent company is, of course, more or less responsible for the acts of the Indiana company. The people will sooner or later realize that the courts are not swayed by any other influence than law and precedent. What any one man may say in regard to the decision of a court counts for no more than his opinion. All I know in reality about the case is that a common thing has occurred—a motion for a rehearing has been filed."

THE LAND LOTTERY

Plans Adopted for Drawings for the Indian Reservation.

Objectionable Features of Previous Events to be Eliminated.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The Rosebud Indian reservation lands which under the proclamation of the president are to be disposed of by lottery Oct. 19 are located on the south side of the state of South Dakota and adjoin the lands in Gregory county, which were opened in 1904. They are said to be very desirable for farming and stock raising purposes, and similar lands in adjoining counties are selling for good prices. The plan adopted for this registration and drawing is similar to that used in the Gregory opening, but certain objectionable features which imposed hardships on applicants for registration have been eliminated. At the Gregory and former openings, applicants were required to appear in person and stand in line, often for a considerable length of time, until officers of the government examined them, while, at this opening no line will be formed, and the people will be permitted to send in their applications by mail, or otherwise, to the superintendent, after they have been sworn to in Dallas, Chamberlain, Gregory or Presho, S. D., or at O'Neill, or Valentine, Neb.

Soldiers Are Favored.

Soldiers who served for three months during the Civil war, the Spanish-American war or the Philippine insurrection, will not be required to visit the towns mentioned for the purpose of registering, but may register through an agent.

Persons who are successful in the drawing will be permited to make entry of one quarter section or less, under the homestead laws, at some date after March 1, 1909, and may obtain title by making the required residence and cultivation and the payment of $6 an acre for all lands entered prior to June 1, 1909, or $4.50 an acre for lands entered under the president's proclamation after that date. There are no settlements on any of these lands, and several townsites will be located in suitable places and reserved for homestead entry, before March 1, 1909.

THREE BOYS HURT IN AUTO WRECK

Machine Plunges Auto an Unprotected Ditch in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In an automobile accident which occurred at Twenty-fourth avenue south and Lake street at 10 o'clock last night, three Minneapolis high school boys suffered serious injuries.

Joe Evers, the 18-year-old son of Herman C. Evers, 1730 Irving avenue south, was so badly injured that it was found necessary to remove him to a hospital, while Kenneth Way, the 17-year-old son of C. M. Way, 960 Fifteenth avenue southeast, and Lac Stafford, nephew of Lac Stafford of the Syndicate Opera House company and residing at 417 Fourth avenue southeast received numerous bruises about their bodies.

It is feared also that young Way is internally injured. The machine in which the boys were riding, and which belonged to C. M. Way, was badly wrecked.

At the time of the accident the trio were bowling along Lake street at a good rate of speed. Near the point where the St. Paul railroad tracks cross Lake street some construction work is being done on the sewer, and workmen had carelessly left a trench six or eight feet deep, which intersects the street, unprotected and without danger signals.

NORTH DAKOTA BANK ROBBED

Yeggmen Take $2,200 From the State Bank of Geneseo.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The State bank of Geneseo, Sargent county, was robbed last night of $2,200. It was evidently the work of clever yeggmen. It is the first bank robbery of the fall season. The town has no police protection, and the men left no clue of any kind.

LAST DAY AT SYDNEY

Battleships Will Leave for Melbourne on Thursday.

Remarkable Demonstrations Mark the Final Hours in Port.

Sydney, Aug. 26.—The American battleship fleet is to leave tomorrow for Melbourne, and today saw the last of the entertainments that have kept the people of Sydney busy and happy for the past week. The public school demonstration took up a part of the morning and the afternoon, and in the afternoon Admiral Sir Harry Rawson, the governor of New South Wales, gave a brilliant garden party to a large number of guests, including Admiral Sperry and the senior officers of the fleet.

At noon today the government gave a luncheon to the visiting and local journalists, at which Admiral Sperry also was a guest. The admiral made a brief address and received an ovation. Nothing could have been more gracious or acceptable than the welcome given his fleet by the people of Sydney, he said, and nothing could be more significant of the continued good relations, based on common political aspirations, of the American people and the people of Australia. The admiral prophesied many generations of concord. The published reports of the welcome to the fleet and everything done to entertain visitors were beyond praise, he said, and he was personally indebted for the absolute reproduction of the sentiments expressed by himself. BRYAN VISITS PLACE OF BIRTH

Salem, Ill., Aug. 26.—Upon his arrival here today for a brief visit to the place of his birth, William J. Bryan was accorded an ovation. Although the train pulled in at the early hour of 6:30, almost the entire population of the city turned out to greet him. At the station he was met by Mayor Vaters and a reception committee of 200, over half of whom were mounted. A brass band played "Home, Sweet Home." During the parade through the streets the sidewalks, from the station to the courthouse were lined with people who cheered themselves hoarse. After the route of the parade had been covered, Mr. Bryan was conveyed to the home of some relatives, where he took breakfast and later held a reception. Preparations are made for the presence of several thousand persons here this afternoon, when Mr. Bryan will speak from the courthouse steps. Special trains are expected from St. Louis and nearby points in Indiana, bringing large numbers. Accompanying Mr. Bryan here from Indianapolis was Theodore A. Bell, who also will make an address. Mr. Bryan immediatley after speaking will leave for Topeka, via St. Louis and Kansas City.

SOUTHEASTERN LIMITED TRAIN JUMPS THE TRACK NEAR BRANDSVILLE, MO.

Fireman Killed and the Engineer Receives Fatal Scalds.

Mail Clerk Mortally Hurt and Several Passengers Injured.

Accident Said to Have Resulted From Defect in the Rails.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 26.—Northbound passenger train No. 206 on the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad known as the Southeastern limited, running between Birmingham, Memphis and Kansas City was partially derailed at 7:15 this morning two miles north of Brandsville, Mo., twenty miles from the Arkansas state line. James S. O'Neil, the fireman, from Springfield, was killed; H. B. Colvin, the engineer of Springfield, was fatally scalded; a mail clerk was probably mortally hurt, and several passengers were more or less seriously injured.

The engine and the mail and baggage cars turned over and were badly damaged.

The smoker left the tracks, but remained upright. The chair car and the two Pullmans remained on the tracks. A telephone message from the scene says the accident resulted from a defect in the rails. The dead and injured were transferred to another train and taken to Springfield. The train was due in Kansas City at 10 o'clock this morning and carried a heavy list of passengers.

REVOLTING TALE OF CANNIBALISM

Russian Native Devours Bodies of Woman and Four Children.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—Details are given in Yakutsk newspapers of a revolting case of cannibalism among the Nomadic tribe of Lamuts, living on the river Korkodin, in extreme Northwestern Siberia. One of the Nomads, driven desperate by hunger, devoured the bodies of his brother's wife and four children. A party of hunters came upon the deserted encampment, found the remains of the bodies and reported the case. There was no vestige of food on the premises. The brother's body was not found and it is not known whether he was eaten or wandered away and perished in the snow. The Nomad tribes of this region pass a precarious existence and similar instances of hardships and cannibalism are often brought to light when the melting of the Siberian snows make travel possible.

CLEARING UP THE TANGLE

Affairs of Brown & Co., Brokers, in Hands of Experts.

Will Be Several Days Before Statement Can Be Made.

New York, Aug. 26.—The work of clearing up the tangled affairs of the stock exchange firm of A. O. Brown & Co., whose suspension was announced yesterday after one of the most extraordinary bursts of speculation ever known on the New York exchange, began today. It was expected also that the appointment of a special investigating committee of five members of the board of governors of the exchange to inquire into the remarkable transactions on the floor of the exchange on Saturday last would be announced today. The governors of the stock exchange plan to make this investigation a very thorough one.

So involved are the accounts of the suspended firm that it is believed by the members of the exchange that several days' work will be required before the assignee can estimate the liabilities and assets. These accounts were greatly complicated by the saving for the account of the suspended firm of stock which they had sold to other brokers and were unable to deliver. The losses which the firm suffered under this process will swell its total liabilities and add greatly to the work of the assignee.

The stock market opened today with a small volume of trading and with prices only fractionally changed from those of the closing yesterday. The failure of A. O. Brown & Co. had much less effect on the market than might have been anticipated, in view of the magnitude of the firm's transactions. There was a feeling of uneasiness, however, among the traders today, who fear that the real circumstances back of the Brown suspension and the transactions of Saturday are yet to be ascertained.

OVERCHARGES ARE ALLEGED

Complaint Made by Duluth Log Company Against Railroads.

Washington, Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth Log company, engaged in the business of handling lumber and various manufactured products of the forest, today entered complaint with the interstate commerce commission against the Minnesota & International, the Northern Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Iowa Central, the Chicago & Alton, and the Southern Railway companies alleging certain overcharges by the defendant railroad companies, and asking reparation.

CHELSEA DEATH LIST REMAINS AT EIGHT.

Chelsea, Mass., Aug. 26.—No additional deaths were recorded early today at the Marine and Naval hospitals among the persons who are at these hospitals as a result of injuries received in the collapse of building walls yesterday, by which eight persons were known to be dead and a dozen wounded. Several of the injured had been hurt so seriously as to have but faint hopes of life. The officials were busy today preparing for a comprehensive investigation of the accident.

Troops Leave Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—Seventh infantry, I. N. G., the last complete regiment to remain on riot duty here, left for Chicago this morning. No excitement attended their departure.

Drowned While Fishing.

Twin Falls, Idaho, Aug. 26.—I. F. Tupper and his 6-year-old son were drowned in the Snake river near here yesterday while fishing. A fish drew the boy into the water and the father leaped in after him.

ITINERARY FOR TAFT

Following His Departure From Hot Springs is Completed.

Will Make Speeches on Way to Middle Bass Island.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 26.—Arrangements for the departure of Judge W. H. Taft and party from Hot Springs were practically completed today. The party will leave the Virginia Hot Springs at 8:30 Friday evening, in a special car which is to be attached to the regular train. The newspaper men will accompany Judge Taft in the special car, the cost of which is borne by the party in common. The first stop will be at Gauley, at 2:17 Saturday morning. There the Taft party car will be sidetracked until 6:35 a. m. A three-minute stop will be made at 8:30 at Gallipolis, Ohio. Athens will be reached at 10:40 a. m., and the arrangements covering the stay there are in the hands of Gen. Grosvenor and a committee. Judge Taft will deliver a non-political address to the veterans there.

The departure from Athens will be at 3:28 p. m., and the arrival at Toledo will be after 10 o'clock Saturday night. In order to avoid Sunday travel the party will start at once for Middle Bass Island, where Judge Taft will devote a week or so to fishing, and some of his time may be given to political conferences. His chief of staff, A. I. Vorys, will join him at Athens, but will not go directly with the party to Middle Bass Island. He will rejoin Judge Taft there at a later date next week. The only excursion from Middle Bass now on the program is scheduled for Sept. 2, when Judge Taft will attend the G. A. R. reunion at Toledo. Although the date is not definitley fixed, the party probably will leave for Cincinnati on Sept. 7.

Judge Taft is receiving a number of reports, indicating that the support of the colored voters has not been withdrawn from him. Copies were received today by the candidate of resolutions on indorsement, adopted by the Republican Colored club of New Rochelle, N. Y., and the Charles E. Hughes Afro-American Republican club of Rochester, N. Y.

WOULD CURB MIDDLEMEN

Wool Growers Desire to Control Sale of Products.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 26.—The movement to curb the operations of the middleman on the wool market by restoring to the sheepmen of the West absolute control of the product, received its strongest impetus yesterday from the executive committee of the Wool Growers' association, at its opening session in this city. This body has undertaken the solution of the larger problem of national storage for Western wools, and to this end discussion was invited on the points of difference, which hitherto have kept sentiment among sheepmen divided.

Representatives from Chicago, Omaha, St. Joseph, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Denver were present at yesterday's session, their mission being to emphasize the advantages offered by their respective cities for the establishment of a permanent national wool market. In each case the claim was made that a great central market would have the support of allied interests. Before deciding upon action of any definite character, the national executive committee announced the appointment of a sub-committee, headed by Fred W. Gooding, president of the National Growers' association, whose function it will be to visit the cities which have become active bidders for the favor of the wool growers, reporting later to the national executive committee.

The committee will leave here the second week in September, and it is understood that further discussion on the question of national storage will be deferred until their report has been submitted. Another meeting of the executive committee is announced for today.

SIXTY BETRAYED FOR $17 A HEAD

Chinese General Gets Traitors Through Villagers' Treachery.

Hong, Kong, Aug. 26.—Admiral Li, of the Chinese navy with his flagship and several gunboats, sailed from Wu Chow today for Canton taking with him as passengers sixty of the mutinous soldiers from Konghaw, where a thousand men revolted on Aug. 12, killing their commander and several others, routing a force of loyal soldiers from a nearby town, looting the village of Konowha and finally withdrawing to the mountains of Taiking, where they joined forces with the wild tribes of the hills.

Admiral Li's prisoners were taken by means of villagers at Konghaw who betrayed them into the hands of the government forces for twenty-five taels (about $17) a head. The rebellious soldiers spoke a strange dialect and their detention and subsequent betrayal to the authorities was an easy matter.

At Wu Chow the gates of the city, which have stood open for weeks past have been closed owing to the disturbed condition of the country, following the mutiny at Konghaw.

Consider Strike Ended.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—At the Canadian Pacific office yesterday the statement was made that the company regards the strike as ended so far as the Eastern and Ontario divisions are concerned. They claim that they have a sufficient force of workmen to meet all requirements on these divisions. On the Western divisions they are not so well equipped, but expect that in a few days the situation will be equally satisfactory there.

MINERS CUT OFF BY FIRE

McAllister, Okla., Aug. 26.—One of the worst mine disasters in the history of this part of the Southwest occurred at Halleyville, fifteen miles east of here today, when between twenty-five and thirty miners were entombed in the Halley-Oklahoma coal mine No. 1, the result of a fierce fire, which, it is believed has shut off all means of escape.

At noon a telephone message from the scene stated that the fire was burning so fiercely that it was impossible for the rescuers to enter the shaft, and it was then believed the entombed men must surely be burned to death.

Guardian of Her Father.
Mrs. Laura Smith of Portland, Or., was appointed guardian of her father, O. W. Saunders, a former Duluth lumberman, by Judge Biddlecoff in probate court yesterday. She has been notified of her appointment and will be in Duluth in a few days. Mr. Saunders was once a wealthy lumberman, but has failed mentally and physically and was recently moved to the county poor farm to be cared for. His daughter will probably remove him to a hospital on her arrival.

Looks for Dead Horse.
While temporarily out of his mind, Joseph Nekels, 20 years old, yesterday afternoon tore up several feet of sidewalk at the corner of Third street and Sixth avenue east. When arrested by Patrolman Rothie he said he was trying to find a dead horse. At the city jail Nekels tried to dig into the cement floor with his finger nails, and scratched until the blood came. He was finally removed to the county jail and placed in a cell where he could not harm himself.

SUPERIOR NEWS

NEARLY KILLED; DIDN'T KNOW IT

After having had his brain laid bare by being struck by a Northern Pacific train, early yesterday morning, John Karl, a farmer residing near Maples, spent part of the morning in a saloon on Fourth street, Superior, apparently ignorant of the fact that he was in any danger of death.

The accident occurred near Maples. The man was found lying later beside the tracks in an unconscious condition. He was given stimulants and sent to Superior on a passenger train. At Superior he was directed to the hospital, but instead of following the directions, visited a saloon, where he was found by Officer Harry Pounder, who took him to the station house. The man's clothes were soaked with the blood that oozed from his skull. Dr. P. G. Gill, who was summoned to care for the man, expressed surprise that a man could sustain such a shock and still be able to get about. While his wounds were being dressed Karl laughed and talked to the doctor and the officer. He was taken to the St. Mary's hospital, where he lies in a serious condition.

It is claimed that Karl was asleep on the tracks when the train struck him.

TRIED TO KILL HERSELF.

A girl known as Stella, an inmate of May Adams' disorderly house at 102 Hammond avenue, last night attempted to commit suicide by drinking carbolic acid. Only the prompt arrival of a physician saved her life. She is now at St. Mary's hospital. Her attempt to take her life is said to have been actuated by love for a Duluth young man, and her jealousy of another admirer of his.

Hearing Postponed.
The preliminary hearing of Matt Kramer, charged with the murder of Eric Young, will be continued for one week. It was to have taken place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, but owing to the petition of H. W. Deitrich, attorney for the defense, asking for more time to consult his client, it was postponed. District Attorney Foley is still gathering evidence for the state.

BEGIN WORK ON YARDS.

Work will be started tomorrow on the Wisconsin Central yards on Hill street and Thirty-fourth avenue.

Schmidt Bros. & Hill have the job and are today advertising for men to do the work. They have engaged a large force already and still need fifty more. The work consists of building a roundhouse, a machine shop, a repair shop, cinder pit, store house and turntable. It is a $100,000 job. When it will be completed is not known.

Schmidt Bros. & Hill are just finishing the erection of a passenger depot and freight station between John avenue and Hughitt avenue, and will take on the new job tomorrow.

New Grain Firms.

The Dakota Grain company, Greenfield & Crumpton, and Turney Bros. are among the new firms that will start business on the Superior board of trade, when it opens Sept. 1. The Dakota grain firm filed articles of incorporation yesterday at Madison. They are capitalized at $20,000.

Never Go to School.

According to statements made by Superintendent Maddock to the board of education, there are a dozen or more children between the ages of 7 and 11, living on Wisconsin Point, who have never attended school. It was urged by Mr. Maddock that a cottage be rented on the Point and a teacher engaged to teach these little ones.

Old Indian Cemetery.

While grading on the Soo right-of-way yesterday, one of the workmen unearthed a human skull and bones. The exuming took place at the foot of Connor's Point, which is said to have been an old Indian burying ground. The cheek bones of the skull and the few remaining strands of hair were black, so it was judged that the bones were those of an Indian.

We Direct the Attention of Prudent Women

To the Economy of Buying Gidding Wearables in Preference to Other Ready-Made Lines.

Whenever you are tempted to "Get Along With a 'Cheap' Garment for this season," just take these points into consideration, and you will decide not to do any such thing!—

—If the parts that should be kneaded into permanent shape by fine hand stitching, are run off on a basting machine—If the linings are cheap, poor satin—If the stiffenings are starchy instead of close woven—If the cutting of the garment was carelessly done, and if the materials shoddy—then you are just a few weeks away from the time when that garment will look like a "Rag," and no amount of pressing will redeem it. But, if the tailoring is carefully done—the quality of details visible and invisible are "A" number one, and the "Lines" of the garment correct—Then it is a garment that will withstand more than one season's wear, and a little sponging and pressing now and then brings it out as fresh as a daisy. It is this lasting quality of appearance that marks the economy of buying Gidding garments. At the same time, prices are moderate—$25 or $35 buys a well-tailored suit, which bears the Gidding Label—your assurance of satisfaction.

Junior Suits

Do Much to Eliminate "That Awkward Age."

"The Awkward Age"—the years between child and debutante, have long been the despair of mothers. Designers never seemed to invent just the right thing, until the Junior Misses' Tailor-Made Suit was happened upon.

Now, it's the greatest blessing of girlhood's dress offerings. Our Juvenile department is the development of intelligent consideration of all girlish needs. Dresses Coats, Guimps, Peter Thompsons and Tailored Suits are all ready for the coming school term. Those coat-suits in the long semi-fitted styles are very smart this season. The prices range from $16.50 up.

RAN OVER DOG.

Last evening the large Thomas Detroit touring car belonging to William Burgess was thrown from its course by running into a dog at Fifteenth avenue east and First street, and crashed into a water hydrant, breaking the hydrant, and flooded the whole street. Besides a badly bent front axle the car was little damaged.

The dog which was struck by the machine, was killed. It belonged to Charles Schiller, 1420 East Second street, and was a setter of some value.

THE KNIGHTS OF KHORASSAN

The Dramatic Order of the Knights of Khorassan, which is to the Knights of Pythias order what the Shriners are to the Masons, will hold a ceremonial in Duluth the evening of Tuesday, Sept. 8, under the auspices of Al-Sirat Temple No. 135. Members will be in attendance from all parts of the state, and more particularly from the Twin Cities and the ranges. A class of about twenty-five candidates will be admitted. The following order has been sent to members of the temple:

"His royal highness has commanded that all votaries of Al-Sirat Temple No. 135 assemble in the oasis of Duluth, plain of St. Louis, desert of Minnesota, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 8, 1908. Many Tyros are desiring to cross the sands, and have requested the temple to properly (?) escort them and see that their pilgrimage is pleasant. Can we do it? Well, watch us. So be present and help. Loosen your clothes for a laugh and the best time of your life. Remember, you will be a long time dead. Bring your appetites."

There follows many picturesque inducements for a good time to those attending.

RAILROAD MEN HERE

Members of G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. Make Merry in Duluth.

Boat Ride and Dance Included in the Program.

One hundred and fifty members of the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. association are in Duluth today.

It is the fourth annual gathering of the association, the object of which is to get the railroad men together for business and then give them an outing. Today some of the best known traffic men in the country are here. Frank M. Jolly traveling passenger agent of the Penninsular & Occidental Steamship company of Jacksonville, Fla., came all the way from Jacksonville to attend the meeting of the association.

"The passenger business between the United States and Cuba is increasing rapidly," said Mr. Jolly. "Our line is now running a daily passenger service between this country and her ward, Cuba. It is an ideal place to spend the winter, the clime is most equitable and there are many other attractions that make it one of the finest winter resorts in the world. I believe that the people of this country are just beginning to realize what an ideal place Cuba is to spend the winter and that in the future the winter travel to that country will be greatly increased."

T. E. BLANCHE,
President of the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. Association.

William J. Leahy, first assistant general passenger agent of the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific railway, is another prominent traffic man, who is at the meeting.

"The roads of the country are not earning as much as they were before the enactment of the two cent passenger fare law," said Mr. Leahy. "In the first place the cost of material has advanced, the price of labor has advanced and on top of this the railroads are forced to carry people for a reduced fare. Under these circumstances it is only natural that the net earnings of the railroads should show a decrease."

The morning was spent in a trolley ride around the city. Lunch was served at the St. Louis hotel at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The election of officers was held after the luncheon. At 4 o'clock the members of the association made the trip to Two Harbors. A planked whitefish dinner was served on the boat. This evening there will be a dance at the Yacht club.

C. E. Blanche is president of the organization, and Mart Adson is said to be slated for election to the office.

TO BE MAGNIFICENT STRUCTURE

Its Novelty Attracts Many.

Every day sees crowds of spectators at 118 Fourth avenue west interested in the novel process used in building the first reinforced concrete structure at the Head of the Lakes. The way the work is being done is so entirely different to anything ever seen here that to one unfamiliar with it, it is indeed an education to look on.

The building, which will be a seven-story one, will cost about $100,000, and will be a magnificent structure. The three top floors, we believe, will be occupied by the Duluth Business college, which is now located at 105 West Superior street. The Modern Samaritans will occupy one floor, the Christie Lithograph company two floors for their printing establishment and one floor as a store for office furniture and modern office devices. The keys of the building are to be delivered not later than Dec. 1.

APPEAL IN AKIN CASE

Oliver Mining Company Seeks to Have Big Verdict Set Aside.

A personal injury suit, which has aroused considerable interest in St. Louis county on account of the amount of the verdict and the stubbornness with which it was fought, will go before the supreme court of the state. The Oliver Iron Mining company this morning filed notice of appeal in the case of Peter F. Akin, a miner, by Peter Akin, his father, vs. the Oliver Iron Mining company, a corporation, and the Roberts-Kingston company, formerly known as the Wallace Contracting company.

The case had two trials in district court and both times the verdict was for the plaintiff. The first verdict was $10,000 and the defendants secured a new trial. In the second trial, the jury returned a verdict of $14,000. Another motion for a new trial was made, but was denied by the court and the appeal is being taken on the decision of the court in denying the motion.

Peter F. Akin, a boy 15 or 16 years of age, fell down a 60-foot shaft of the Oliver Iron Mining company on the range and was severely injured. The amount of the verdict has aroused the company to greater effort than usual to have it set aside and it will be strongly argued before the supreme court of the state.

RAILROADS

RAILROAD CONDITIONS

George T. Slade Says Roads Have Had Hard Times.

General Manager of Northern Pacific Passes Through City.

George T. Slade, general manager of the Northern Pacific railway, was in Duluth last night en route to St. Paul. A special car was attached to the regular Northern Pacific train for the use of Mr. Slade and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Slade came in on the North West last night.

When asked regarding the general railroad situation, Mr. Slade stated that it was showing some improvement. From the manner in which he spoke and the conservative statements he made regarding the improvement of conditions it was plain Mr. Slade does not think that railroad conditions have improved a great deal.

"To ascertain how much the railroads have suffered from the money stringency it is only necessary to read their financial statements," said Mr. Slade. "It has been a hard ten months for the railroads. I suppose there has been a gradual improvement in conditions, and that conditions will continue to improve, but at the present time the railroads are facing many hardships."

Mr. Slade stated that he was not posted upon grain situation, for the reason that he had been away from his office for the past week or ten days. However, he said that from what he had heard, the grain crop was one of the biggest that had been harvested for years.

Reaches Butte.

A telegram received this morning by C. L. Kennedy, commercial agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul at Duluth, stated that the Pacific coast extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is now in a position to handle all freight to Butte, Mont., and to stations on the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railroad.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has been built into Butte for some time, but it has not attempted to handle freight into Butte until the present time. The handling of freight to stations on the B. A. & P. R. R. means that shippers on the line of the new Pacific coast extension will have the Montana field opened up to them.

Roads Consolidate.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 26.—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company has been called for Thursday, Sept. 1 in this city to authorize a $150,000,000 bond issue, to consider the purchase of about fourteen small railroads in this state and Utah, and to provide for the raising of $15,000,000 at once by the issuance of short term gold notes. The meeting is to complete the financial arrangements connected with the consolidation of the Gould lines in Colorado and Utah. The bonds will be dated Aug. 1, 1908, and will mature on Aug. 1, 1955.

Earnings Decrease.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—An increase of 12 per cent in the number of passengers carried and a decrease of 6 per cent in earnings are the net result to the Chicago & Alton railroad of twelve months operation under the 2-cent fare law, according to figures made public today by Walter Ross, traffic manager of the road.

SITE STILL IS LACKING

Mayor and Health Commissioner Looking for Hospital Location.

Mayor Roland D. Haven and Health Commissioner Patton are again on a still hunt for a city hospital site. A variety of sites have been offered, in all sorts of locations and at all sorts of prices, but the city authorities have as yet been unable to determine upon a spot for erecting the proposed hospital.

For a while it looked as if the city had decided upon a plot of ground and building that could be secured for $15,000, but now it is said there is no certainty that this will be secured. The location was never made public, for the reason that there will in all probability be objections on the part of people living near the place where the institution is put, and the authorities say there is no use raising a row over a location that may not be selected after all.

Everybody is agreed as to the desirability and necessity of a contagious ward and city hospital, but nobody wants it located in his immediate neighborhood, despite the fact that the best physicians say there is absolutely no danger in having such a place in the midst of a thickly populated community, and point to St. Mary's hospital as an example. There is a contagious ward at the hospital, but there is no instance on record where a contagious case has broken out anywhere in its vicinity, although a thickly settled portion of the city surrounds the hospital.

The question is considered important enough to be deserving of the most careful consideration, and the mayor and health commissioner wish to consider every available location before a final decision is announced, thus being in a position to decide which is the most suitable. Some action will have to be taken in the very near future, for the general public is thoroughly aroused to the necessity of a contagious ward, and considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon the city authorities.

STUDENTS FILLING POSITIONS

Improvement in Business Conditions Increases Demand for Bookkeepers and Stenographers.

One of the indications of the improvement in business conditions is seen in the increased demand for young people to fill positions as stenographers and bookkeepers during the past few days the Central Business College, located at 30 East Superior street, has placed the following named students in excellent positions with the following:

Mr. Ernest Beaton, bookkeeper for Frank E. Blodgett, shoe dealer.

Miss Rose Wiegel, stenographer for Leithhead Drug Co.

Mr. Ray Batley, stenographer for L. A. Larsen & Co., real estate.

Miss Marie Nicholson, stenographer for Republican Headquarters.

Miss Agnes Nelson, stenographer for Marshall-Wells Hardware Co.

Mr. Wilbur Magnussen, stenographer and bookkeeper for George M. McGurrin Plumbing Co.

Miss Irma Bogan, stenographer for J. De LaMotte, attorney.

Cholera Morbus and Bowel Complaints

"Over 95 cases in every hundred of summer complaints could be avoided," says a leading specialist, "if every one was careful to keep his system toned up with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It's the most effective germ destroyer known to the medical profession."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a malt essence, which is the most effective tonic stimulant and invigorator known to science; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It cures nervousness, typhoid malaria, every form of stomach trouble, disease of the throat and lungs, and all run-down and weakened conditions of the body, brain, and nerves. It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as the world's greatest family medicine everywhere.

(Dose):—One teaspoonful in each glass of drinking water during the hot weather will kill all germs.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 per bottle.

If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case carefully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a handsome illustrated, medical booklet containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters from people in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the World's greatest medicine.

OFFERS REWARD,

But Government Says It is Not Responsible for Park Robbery.

Washington, Aug. 26.—A telegram giving merely an outline of the facts regarding the stage hold-up in Yellowstone Park was received by the department of the interior yesterday from General Young, superintendent of the park. It was stated it was the first hold-up in the park in eighteen years. No surprise was manifested by the officials here at the fact that no one in the coaches appeared to have had a gun, as the regulations do not permit firearms except on written permission from the superintendent. Secretary Garfield is away. His secretary, Judge Parker, pointed out that the victims of the robbery could not hold the government responsible in any way. At the instance of the interior department, the department of justice has offered a reward of $3,000 for the apprehension of the robber.

TUGMAN WHO IS FAMOUS

Capt. Hiram Ames Holds the Record for Long Tows.

His Father Sailed the Lakes and So Do His Sons.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—Ask any of the older captains along this chain of lakes who is the most famous tugman on the inland waters. It's dollars to hair pins he will answer "Capt. Hi Ames" of Algonac. It is claimed for Capt. Ames that he handled more and bigger tows than any other in his time. Ten vessels in the string behind his panting tug, bound down the lakes, was not an unusual sight and five steamers and seven barges in an upbound tow is claimed as a record established by him.

This hardy upshore skipper sailed for forty years, but not all of the sailing records established by the Ames family are to his credit. His father before him was a lake sailor, his brothers, like him, became masters, and sons and grandsons have followed in their footsteps until today, with fifteen sailors, nine masters, four mates and two stewards, the Ames family ranks first of all on the lakes. Even the Harsen's island Stewarts are eclipsed.

Hiram Ames, born in 1834 at St. Thomas, Ont., was the son of Capt. John Ames, a Yankee, who came to Canada from Pennsylvania in 1830. The family moved back to Oswego, N. Y., soon after the birth of Hiram, and then after residing again in Canada and on the Ohio shore finally landed in Algonac, Mich.

Capt. John Ames followed the lakes for many years. He was master and owner of the boat that carried the stone for construction of Fort Meigs, now Fort Wayne.

Four Sons All Captains.

John Ames had five sons; one died in infancy; the other four followed in their father's footsteps. All four are now living as retired lake captains—Washington and William T. Ames in Algonac. Hiram on Harsen's Island, and Elisha in Denver, Colo. Washington Ames began sailing in 1839, as a boy of 9 years, aboard the schooner Pilot. His duty was that of cabin boy, but he rose rapidly to a watchman and wheelman and pilot, always on sailing vessels, until, still a young man, he became the master of the schooner Lady Jane. Later he also made a record as a tug captain, commanding in turn the Champion, Quayle, E. M. Peck, Dobbins and Mocking Bird. Washington Ames had been sailing forty years when he retired from the lakes, and never in all of his career did he have a serious accident on any of his boats.

This Ames left his place well supplied on the lakes. Eight daughters and three sons were born to him and his good wife during these forty years. Two of the sons are today sailors. James N. Ames, now 51 years old and master of the steamer Marsala, began sailing at 14 as deck hand on the Trader. He served in every capacity on the lake stream freighters until he was finally given charge of the steamer Norman, and he has commanded a ship ever since. George W. Ames, brother of James, is five years younger. He began as deckhand on a steam barge. He first became master of the Stratton. Now he resides in Cleveland and is master of the big steel steamer Corona.

William T. Ames, second son of John and brother to Washington, began his sailor career as cook on the scow Bronson, under an uncle, Capt. Elisha Ames. He sailed the lakes forty-two years, finishing as captain of the tug Seattle in 1885.

William's was a more checkered career than that of his brother Washington. Unlike him, he has been through many disastrous storms, and many have been his hairbreadth escapes during years of sailing.

On one occasion the skipper started from Detroit to Au Sable during a storm, searching for a schooner reported lost. All night long he stood at the wheel, while his crew were kept busy bailing to keep the tug afloat. The missing schooner was never found.

Once again William went to give succor, with better results. In the tug E. M. Peck he went to Lake Erie in search of the crew of a schooner sunk in collision with the Narragansett. Small boats had taken off the entire crew but one man. He was clinging to the masthead, apparently out of reach. Capt. Ames ran the Peck right into the rigging of the schooner, in serious danger of going fast, and the stranded man was able to jump to the deck.

William, as well as his brother Hiram, has a record for big tows. He was accustomed to take seven or eight vessels through the Detroit and St. Clair river channels at one time, and the task was much more ticklish then, without lights or buoys maintained by the government to guide, than it is today.

Six Sailor Boys.

Six sons were born to William T Ames and every one has become a sailor. Robert and Dallas E. became stewards, but graduated into other professions. Four of the sons are still sailing. Augustus is master of the steamer Flora. Augustus himself is father of two strapping boys. Byron, 13 years of age, is still in school, but looks to the lakes as his future profession. Claude, at 30, has already followed in the footsteps of his father. He was mate under his father on the steamer Colonel for three years. Today he is mate on the big freighter Caldera. He is representative of the fourth generation of this remarkable sailor family.

The third of Capt. Ames' sons, Hiram, famous as tugboat master, began sailing as cook on the steamer Eagle. He became master of the schooner Lady Jane at 22. His first steamer was the Franklin Moore, owned by William Wiles of Detroit. The Cliff, Beldon, Clifton, Peck, W. B. Castle, Satellite, Sweepstakes, Champion, Mocking Bird, William A. Moore and Baltze were among the tugs he sailed in turn.

Hiram placed the cofferdam in the Niagara river, one of the most dangerous and delicate tasks ever accomplished on the lakes. He towed out from Scammon's harbor and placed the foundation for the lighthouse at Spectacle Reef, most exposed of all Uncle Sam's aids to navigation on the Great Lakes.

As a master of the Moore, in 1886, Capt. Ames picked out of the water the crew of the schooner Case, which floundered off Port Colborne. A fearful storm was blowing at the time. With every gust of wind the water came near to the grates on the tug, and when the task was done she was so torn by the waves that her deck was split for thirty-five feet. Capt. Ames could have run for shelter. Instead he remained to try the almost impossible feat of saving the Case's crew. The schooner was already sunk. One man clung to the masthead, the others floated on bits of wreckage. Again and again the Moore rushed toward the wreck, sometimes getting one man at a time, more often swept far away. It was long before the last of the floating men was aboard the tug, and the little boat was barely able to limp into port with her precious burden of human lives. The captain, cook and one sailor of the Case were drowned before the arrival of Capt. Ames and his tug.

Ames brought in the crew of the Lily Dancer, wrecked on Lake St. Clair. The small craft had capsized and the crew, clinging to her bottom, had succeeded in turning her again right side up. Two of the men were sitting in the boat, filled level full of water, when Capt. Ames arrived. Another rescue to his credit was the crew of the steamer Miami, sunk at the lower end of Long Point. The crew, as on the Case, were clinging to spars and crosstrees, all that remained above the water of their craft, when Ames arrived. Capt. Joseph Nickerson was with Ames on the tug, and the two skippers, with volunteers from the crew, manned a small boat and rescued every man from the sunken craft.

Storm and Fire Together.

On the day when the Chicago fire broke out in 1872, Ames, in the Champion, lay off Cove Island in Lake Huron riding out one of the biggest storms that ever swept the Great Lakes. Swept from clear across the state of Michigan, the smoke was so dense off the island as to make landing impossible. The tug was forced to lie head to all night, while passengers aboard wrung their hands, sure that they were lost. It was on this night that the steamer Coburn, hitherto by the smoke, foundered seventy-five miles to windward of where the Champion lay.

Capt. Hiram Ames possesses a watch and chain which he values highly. On the timepiece is engraved "Presented to Capt. Hiram Ames for faithful discharge of duties, by John R. Gillet." Gillet was agent for H. N. Stone of Detroit for whom Ames sailed for fourteen years. The chain is one presented to Ames by employes of the Mackinac division of the Michigan Central railroad, for kindness shown them while the skipper commanded the Algoma ferry, running between Mackinac Island, Mackinac City and St. Ignace.

Ames has two sons and two daughters living. The eldest son, William D., was born March 5, 1860, and is now one of the prominent vessel masters of Buffalo. This year he is master of the Lyman Smith, and besides this is owner of an interest in a large fishing plant at Fairport.

Elisha is the fourth son of Capt. John Ames, a brother to the skippers, Washington, Hiram and William T. At 18 he was before the mast on a sailing vessel and rose rapidly until he became master of the Dunford and other vessels. He left the lakes fifteen years ago to take a government position at Denver, Colo. He is now 72 years old, and forty-four years of his life were spent as a lake sailor.

INSANE WHEN HE MADE SALE.

Stephen R. Harding Says He Was Crazy When Land Went for Trifle.

Claiming that while he lacked proper control of his mental faculties he sold land valued at $2,250 to Bernard F. Forrestal and wife for $100, Stephen R. Harding of Superior, has filed suit in district court to recover possession. The sale was made Aug. 18, 1902, and he claims that a few days later he was examined in the probate court of Douglas county and confined in the state insane asylum until July, 1903. He claims that undue influence was brought to bear on him while he was insane and the sale was made on that account.

Harding asks the court for a return of the property, subject to a lien of $100, the purchase price, with interest and the amount of taxes paid and improvements made since Mr. and Mrs. Forrestal came into possession. The property, in which he claims an undivided three-fourths interest is described as lot 9, section 14, NE¼ of NE¼, and Lot 1, Section 23, all in town 62 north, range 12 west.

EDISON ON VACATION

Worker of Wonders Passes Through Duluth on Pleasure Trip.

Says Concrete Discoveries Will Make Revolution in Building.

"How did you catch on to it?"

This was the question Thomas A. Edison, the wizard of Menlo, shot back at the newspaper men last night when he was asked if he was not Mr. Edison. "Didn't know anyone knew I was in town," said Mr. Edison, and he laughed heartily that he had been discovered just as he was about to board the train.

Mr. Edison, his wife, daughter and son came in on the North West last night. They are going to the Pacific coast. A stop will be made at Yellowstone Park on the way to the coast. The trip is merely for pleasure. Mr. Edison says he has been promising his family this trip for a long time, but has never found time to fulfill his promise.

The wizard of Menlo, the worker of wonders, the genius who some great men say is the brainiest man in the United States, is one of the most pleasant men imaginable, to meet. The enthusiasm of the searcher burns in his eyes, his movements are quick and decisive, and behind the eyes that look so keenly into yours, you can imagine a mind that works with lightning rapidity.

"What do you want me to talk about?" asked Mr. Edison, with a beaming smile. He was asked if he was working on any new inventions at the present time. He replied that he was not. Then Mr. Edison was asked about the model for concrete houses that he has invented?

"All you have to do is to pour in the concrete," he replied. "The model is built in sectional forms. You put it up and pour in the concrete. In a short time you have a little palace, walls, rooms, stairs, bathroom, all that is necessary in a house. And this house can be built for $1,500. Twelve men can build thirty houses a month. It will revolutionize the building of houses for the poorer people."

When asked whether he believed that electricity would become generally used by the railroads, Mr. Edison replied that it was only a question of time. He stated that experiments had proved successful, and that in the course of time the railroads of the country would substitute electricity for steam.

Mr. Edison laughingly stated that he was going out to Yellowstone Park to get held up.

"How do they do it up in this country?" he asked. "Do they use a gun, or do they have other methods?" Mr. Edison had in mind the hold-up that recently occurred in the National park.

Mr. Edison looks very much like his pictures. He dresses like the average professional man, but when you talk with him you become aware of the restless ennthusiasm of the man; of the capacity for work and investigation that has driven him on to wonderful inventions. He accompanies his remarks with quick, snappy gestures, talks quickly and decisively and impresses his listener more than anything else with the quickness of his mind and the energy that seems to assert itself with his most trivial remark.

Mr. Edison left on the Northern Pacific last night. He spent a short time in an automobile ride over the boulevard, between the landing of the boat and departure of the train.

SUES FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH.

Adeli Lozekar Claims Man Was Not Warned of His Danger.

Adeli Lozekar, administratrix of the estate of Matevz Lozekar, her late husband, has filed suit in district court against Butler Bros., stripping contractors, for $5,000 damages for the death of Lozekar at the Letonia mine, near Hibbing, last October.

According to the complaint, Losekar was working on a track on the second level and the noise of trains on the first level, above, drowned all other sounds to him. He was struck by a train and killed. Negligence is charged in not providing suitable warnings for the men.

$100,000 TO KILL THE FLY.

Massachusetts Board of Health Starts Crusade Against Insect.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—The fly is doomed in Massachusetts. Within a year there will not be one within the confines of the state if the board of health has its way. Half a dozen scientists are to give their whole time to the crusade, which will begin immediately. An appropriation of $100,000 is available for the first year's work, and if more is needed it is believed the legislature will not be niggardly. It is proposed to clean every marsh, bay, pond, lake and swamp in the state, and every possible breeding place of the fly is to be exterminated.

"HEADACHE" POWDERS KILL.

Minneapolis Attorney Dies From Taking Some of Them.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Henry M. Troy, an attorney of Minneapolis, died at Asbury hospital yesterday from acetanlid poisoning. The drug was taken in headache powders. Troy was found unconscious in his room on East Fifteenth street Monday morning, and it was first thought he had suffered a stroke of paralysis. He was removed to the hospital at noon Tuesday. In the examination of his room a box of powders intended as a remedy for headache was found under the pillow. Eight powders were gone.

Each powder is supposed to contain five grains of acetanlid, so, according to the physician who attended him, Mr. Troy must have taken eight powders within a few hours, if he had followed the directions on the box to take one every twnety minutes. Forty grains, says the physician, would be enough to kill a horse.

WEST END

POLITICS THE TOPIC

West End Republican Club Holds an Enthusiastic Meeting.

Many Local Candidates for Office Give Short Talks.

Speakers urged the West enders to stand up for the principles of the Republican party, both as to the state and national situation, in the coming campaign, at a well attended meeting of the West End Republican club, held in Sloan's hall last evening.

A number of candidates for office were present and delivered short talks. Clarence B. Miller, Republican candidate for congress from the Eighth district of this state, said this campaign was the most interesting and vital since 1896.

"Our government is the best in the world," said Mr. Miller, "and will continue to be so as long as the people take the interest in the public affairs of the nation. But just as soon as they drop interest in these affairs and let a few men control everything, then we will have a decaying government. It is an easy matter to change this magnificent government of ours into a most degenerate and rotten one."

He urged his hearers to do all in their power to obtain a continuation of Republican supremacy at the head of the nation.

County Attorney J. H. Norton, who is a candidate for re-election, urged the election of Taft and Jacobson. Charles E. Adams, who is also a candidate for county attorney, spoke of the principles of the Republican party.

In his talk, George J. Mallory said that it was up to the Republicans to elect J. F. Jacobson to the gubernatorial chair this year.

Other speakers were Warren E. Greene, Sam H. Owens, John McGillivry, John Sundeen, James Cummings and Mayor Haven. George M. Jensen, president of the club, presided.

WILL LEAVE NEXT WEEK.

Rev. F. O. Kling to Preach Farewell Sermon Here.

Rev. F. O. Kling will preach his last sermons as pastor of the First Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, next Sunday, as next week he will remove with his family to Minneapolis, where he becomes the pastor of the Swedish Mission church of Northeast Minneapolis.

Rev. Kling accepted the call to the Minneapolis church last spring, considerations of health impelling him to seek another climate than that of Duluth. Members of the Mission church here are loath to see him go, but Mr. Kling decided that circumstances demand his acceptance of the Minneapolis offer.

Sunday, Mr. Kling will preach at both the morning and evening services in the Mission church.

Upon the resignation of Mr. Kling, an Illinois clergyman was elected to the pastorate, but his flock in the corn-belt prevailed upon him to remain another year before removing to Duluth. He will come next year and in the meantime, the pulpit of the West End Mission church will be filled by Rev. C. O. Nelson of Minneapolis. Mr. Nelson has been heard here several times.

DULUTH WOMAN CURES FEMALE TROUBLES

Mrs. John Lheureux, 2302 West Michigan St., Performs Wonderful Cures, After Given Up By Doctors. Read This Letter:

Clarksburg, Mich.,
Marquette county.

I hereby certify that Mrs. John Lheureux of Duluth, Minn., has has cured my daughter, Leona, who was ailing in bed with female trouble for four years, unable to walk.

My daughter, Leona, was treated by the best physicians of the country, but they have failed to do her any good. They pronounced her case as incurable. I was advised by a friend to write to Mrs. Lheureux of Duluth, which I did, and my daughter had one treatment from her, and she is now well and able to walk. So many thanks to Mrs. John Lheureux, for the recovery of my daughter's health.

So, I recommend Mrs. John Lheureux to every suffering woman of that disease. Your respectfully,

MRS. MAGOLIRE THIBERT,
Humboldt, P. O.
Marquette Co., Mich.

DONOVAN FUNERAL.

Last Rites for Pioneer Resident of Duluth Thursday.

The funeral of Daniel Donovan, the pioneer resident of Duluth and former member of the police force, who died yesterday will be held tomorrow morning at St. Clements's Catholic church in the West end. It will be under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and a platoon of police will march from the residence, 1113 West First street, to the church with the remains. Members of the Hibernians will meet at the residence at 8:30 and the funeral will be held at 9.

Mr. Donovan was born in New Brunswick and first came to Duluth in 1879. He joined the police force in 1883 and in the riot of '89 won a gold medal for bravery. He was shot twice. He also, was one of the first rescuers on the scene of the Hinckley fire. In 1900, he left the police force and has been engaged in the saloon business since.

CONTRACT IS LET.

Jacobson Brothers Will Build the New Ensign School.

The contract for the erecting of the new Ensign school was let to Jacobson Bros., of this city, at the meeting of the board last evening, for $25,263. An addition of $1,800 goes for iron stair railings. There were eleven bidders and the figures ranged from $25,263 to $30,915.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Freida Borge left yesterday for Watertown, S. D., where she will teach school during the coming winter.

Harry Burnside and Christ Osten leave today for Chicago, where they will spend several days. They will return by way of the Twin Cities and take in the state fair.

Miss Bertha Haugen of Princeton, Ill., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. Peterson of Twenty-ninth avenue west.

Lloyd Tvedt and G. Herman Peterson have returned from Minneapolis, where they have been visiting for the past week.

Mrs. A. Swanson has returned to her home at Moose Lake, after a visit with friends and relatives in the West end.

The improvements on the Adams school building, which have been made this summer, have been completed and the structure is ready for the opening of the fall term next month.

MARINE NEWS

BUSINESS GOOD ON GREAT LAKES

Coal and Ore Coming and Going at a Great Rate.

Everything is moving nicely at present on the Great Lakes.

During the past few days even the casual observer would agree, after looking over the port arrivals and departures that the ore and coal trade have improved greatly.

Coal is coming into port in great quantities, and the coal docks have begun to creak and groan under their heavy load. Coal shipping out from Duluth, however, has been slow up to this time, and if the companies in Dakota and other Western points do not get busy and do their ordering soon, the coal carrying industry will have to stop and the vessels confine themselves to one way cargoes.

Ore has been going down the lakes at a great rate. Shipments to both the Great Northern docks at Allouez, and the Missabe docks have been increased. Things are so rushed that captains will not wait for loads, but pull out and take no cargoes at Two Harbors and Ashland, rather than hang around waiting for a dock. A great many wild boats are engaged in the ore and coal trade, and since they started, about a week ago, every one has been successful in landing cargoes.

ONE MORE TRIP.

Rush for Reservations on Last Trip of the North West.

Two hundred and fifty tourists came in on the North West last night from lower lake ports. The big white ship was as usual on time.

There will be only one more round trip of this popular boat, and reservations are at premium. Many Duluth people are included on the down trip, and many more are disappointed at not being able to secure passage.

Every trip since the big boat started in June there has been a rush for reservations. The boat has always made port with a full passenger list, and left with as many more. Never in the history of the Northern Steamship company has the tourist traffic of this summer been equalled.

ORDERS TWO NEW STEAMERS.

Pittsburg Company Will Spend $900,000 for New Ore Boats.

Cleveland, Aug. 26.—The Pittsburg Steamship company yesterday placed an order with the American Shipbuilding company for two steamers to cost over $900,000. The new boats will be practically duplicates of the last eight steamers built by the Steel corporation. They will come at the opening of next season and will trade to Gary, the new ore port on Lake Michigan. The steamers will be 600 feet long, 580-foot keel, 58-foot beam and 32 feet deep. They will have triple expansion engines and two Scotch boilers each. The new boats will be built at Lorain.

Creditors Lose Out.

Milwaukee, Aug. 26.—To be compelled to pay more for the collection of a debt than the amount of debt itself, is the experience of creditors of the tug Kate Williams. The tug was attached as the result of claims against it, but before it could be seized it ran ashore on Washington island. While United States Marshal H. A. Well was trying to get the tug off it broke in two and was finally sold for $1,300. Creditors' claims amounted to $2,000 and fees and expenses of the marshal and clerk of courts in litigation, amounted to $1,700 and Judge Quarles decreed that these must be paid first.

A number of gilt-edged values—at much lessened prices, are exploited below. Read the items carefully. They make interesting reading to all "home economists," from the fact that there is no misrepresentation here. We offer you Fresh, Reliable, Trustworthy Merchandise—Honest Goods at Honest Prices.

LADIES' SUIT DEPARTMENT

Our display of the new Ladies' Tailored Suits for Fall—although possibly the largest and most varied in Duluth, is still far from complete. We mention, however, three lots, the assortment in each of these is large, in varied materials, styles and trimmings. We particularly pride ouselves on the quality shown, for the price asked, and we are confident that an inspection will convince you, more so than a lengthy talk, of the absolute superiority of our showing.

For $17.50 We are showing a large assortment of the new suits in 36-inch coat, semi-fitted styles—materials used are Cheviots and fancy striped woolen Suitings. Jackets are satin-lined throughout and button trimmed. Skirts have folds of self cloth, cut full and generous—all are of the newest fall models and are particularly good values at $17.50.

For $29.50 A large variety of Cheviot, Broadcloth, Serge and Chevron Suits, with jackets from 34 to 38-inch lengths—some are trimmed with tailor braids, others have plain tailored strappings—all are lined throughout with satin; skirts are full in cut, perfect in hang and come in either the pleated or gored models. There are all staple colors, and a good variety to select from at $29.50.

For $37.50 A particularly fine, choice lot of Suits—Suits upon which all the handicraft of the tailor's art has been used—made of fine Worsteds, Cheviots and Serges—tastily trimmed with tailored braids, satin and button trimmings. There are also many plain tailored styles in the lot, garments which derive their charm and beauty, their individuality, from the perfection of tailoring and materials alone. All the popular shades of blue, brown, gray, wine and smoke—in fancy striped or two-toned materials—$37.50.

New Fall Skirts

We mention in particular one lot, a lot consisting of dozens of new fall models, made of all-wool Panamas, Cheviots and Serges, made up in new pleated effects or plain gored styles. In this assortment will be found the perfectly plain tailored garments with folds of self cloth and other styles with braid or silk trimmings—taken altogether, they are a particularly attractive lot of skirts and are very special values at..... $5.98

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

OPEN SEASON NEARLY HERE

Nimrods Can Begin Their Annual Slaughter of Birds Tuesday.

Fifteen for One Hunter Per Day is Law's Limit.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The open season for hunting ducks, geese and all other aquatic fowls, turtle dove, snipe, prairie chicken, pinnated, white-breasted or short-tailed grouse, woodcock, upland plover and golden plover, begins next Tuesday, September 1, when it will be lawful to kill fifteen in number of any of the birds or fowls mentioned.

The law relative to licensing hunters provides that no license is necessary for a hunter to shoot small game in the county in which he resides, but if he desires to hunt outside of his own county he must procure a license costing $1 from the county auditor. A license permits a hunter to shoot all kinds of game, in season, and confers shipping privileges.

The funds derived from the sale of licenses go into the game and fish commission's general fund to be used for protection and propagation of game and fish.

It is well, however, for every person who hunts either large or small game, to secure a license from the auditor before going into the field.

As licenses are now issued they are good for both big and small game, and the fee remains the same, being $1, so that hunters who get licenses for the small game season get a license for big game as well as birds. The season for big game, however, does not open until November 10, and closes November 30.

For small game—birds and fowls—a one day's bag must not exceed fifteen birds. The number of birds allowed in a hunter's possession at any time is fifty aquatic fowls and forty-five other game birds.

Every non-resident hunter is required to secure a non-resident license before shooting game of any character within the state of Minnesota. The fee for small game license is $10, and that for large game is $25. Only one license can be issued to one person, and it is not transferable. It is also the duty of every hunter to exhibit his license to any person on request.

There does not appear to be any ducks in the immediate vicinity of Bemidji, although hunters report a good supply on the Mississippi river between Bemidji and Wolke lake, and on the rice beds—from there on to Cass lake.

In former years but few prairie chicken have made their appearance near Bemidji, although there were a few coveys last year near the city, there being one near the Blakeslee farm that was the pride of every resident of the vicinity. However, there are quite a few coveys at the present time.

Most of the hunters who hunt prairie chicken near Bemidji go to Solway, Shevlin and Bagley.

Several local hunters intend going to Hallock and other parts of the Red River valley to hunt chickens and ducks, and no doubt there will be a great scramble in the county auditor's office within the next few days.

MURGALL GETS HIS FREEDOM

No Evidence Connecting Him With Killing Joe White Bird.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Murgall, who was charged with the murder of Joseph White Bird on the morning of July 4, was dismissed by Municipal Judge Skemp yesterday afternoon. There was not sufficient evidence against him to assure his indictment by a grand jury. The story told by the two Indians, who said they saw the murder committed, appears to be unfounded, as a number of different parties testified that Murgall was in bed at an early hour the evening previous to the accident.

TAPS FOR G. A. R. VETERAN.

George W. Healy, Commandant of Brainerd Post, Laid to Rest.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Taps were sounded at the cemetery Monday afternoon over the grave of George W. Healy, the commandant of Pap Thomas Post G. A. R., who died Saturday afternoon after an illness of several weeks. Services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Allen.

A unique feature of the services was the singing of an original tribute prepared by Mrs. Theviot and sung by a number of young women under her instruction.

George W. Healy was born in Raymond, N. H., Jan. 10, 1844. When merely a boy he responded to one of the first calls for troops in the civil war and enlisted in the Third New Hamphshire Volunteer Infantry, serving four years. Shortly after returning to his home he came West settling in North Prairie, Minn., over forty years ago. He had been a resident of Brainerd for nearly or quite a quarter of a century. He was an enthusiast in Grand army matters and was several times commander of Pap Thomas Post, and held that position at the time of his death.

Mr. Healy leaves a mother, two brothers and one sister, all of whom lived in New Hampshire, which place he never revisited after coming West.

NOTED MEDICOS ARE CALLED IN

Stars in Surgery Consult and Conduct Operation at Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some of the state's best known physicians and surgeons, some of whom have world-wide fame, are doing everything possible to save the life of Miss Maud O'Brien, who was thrown from a wagon Sunday evening while on her way home from the O'Brien cottage at Clearwater lake to the O'Brien residence in this city, a wheel passing over her abdomen, inflicting serious internal injuries.

Never in the history of Brainerd has such a noted array of medical talent been called in as gathered about the young woman at St. Joseph's hospital, Monday evening, when she was operated upon by Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., assisted by Dr. J. A. Thables. Other doctors present who participated in the consultation and decided the operation was the only thing that could save her life, were: Dr. Vaughn, dean of the medical department of the University of Michigan, Dr. Walter Courtney, Dr. J. L. Camp, Dr. O. T. Batchellor, Dr. Ide, chief assistant at the Northern Pacific hospital, all of this city, and Dr. Colter of Wadena.

The operation showed bruises on the kidney and a laceration of the intestines, also clotted blood in the cavity which would have caused peritonitis. The appendix is also said to have been affected.

The operation relieved her very much and she rested easily during the night, and while by no means out of danger, she has a chance of recovery and is getting along as well as could be possibly expected.

The presence of Doctors Mayo and Vaughn, who came down from International Falls Monday noon, was a fortunate circumstance, although the local surgeons could have performed the operation probably equally well. They, however, as well as the family, were glad that a surgeon of world-wide fame like Dr. Mayo, was at hand to give them the benefit of his wide experience.

LITTLE GIRL BURNED.

Trying to Light Magic Lantern, Her Dress Takes Fire...

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 26.—A fatal accident occurred here Sunday afternoon when the 6-year-old daughter of I. W. Healey, county auditor of Burleigh county, was burned to death. With some other children, the girl was playing in the yard with a magic latern, which she tried to light with matches, igniting her dress. She became frightened and started to run and before assistance could reach her, all of her clothing was burned and the child was frightfully burned about the body and head. Death ensued in less than two hours. The mother was home at the time, but was unable to get to the child in time to save her.

CAPT. McKELVY DEAD.

Former St. Cloud Man Passes Away in Seattle.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. E. McKelvey, a native of St. Cloud, aged 43, who served in the regular army cavalry and later served in the Spanish-American war, then went to Manitoba and afterwards to Seattle, where he was employed in the navy yard, is dead in Seattle. The body will be brought here for interment. He is survived by his aged mother in this city. Dr. W. H. McKelvey and Miss Daisy McKelvey of St. Cloud, Jesse McKelvey of Paynesville and three married sisters.

DON'T WRITE IT ASHAWA.

Postoffice in Northern St. Louis County Changed to Cook.

Ashawa, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fred Lemoine has been appointed postmaster in place of James A. Field, who resigned and the name of the postoffice has been changed to "Cook" as Ashawa conflicted very much with an office called Oshwa in Nicollet county. It will take considerable time to get accustomed to the change, but it is probably a good thing for the future.

East Grand Forker Hurt.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Powell of this city has been confined to his home since Sunday, due to an accident as a result of which he was severely injured. Mr. Powell was out driving Sunday and made a short turn, his buggy upsetting. He was thrown against the curbing and his knee cap was badly bruised while a severe gash was cut across his face.

CARRIES HER DEAD CHILD.

Plight of Mother Who Lived Distance From Undertaker.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 26.—With the dead body of her 2-year-old boy in her arms, Carrie Peterson stepped from a La Crosse & Southeastern train yesterday. She laid the body on a seat in the waiting room and disappeared. The body was seen by persons in the room who notified the police. A murder story was started and detectives began a search for the woman who had left the child.

Later the woman appeared from across the street, where she had gone to telephone her parents at West Salem. With tears in her eyes she told a story of how the child had died in her arms last evening while she was on her way from Coon Valley, where she had visited a doctor, to the farm of Jens Lunke, where she had been working. There being no undertaker within twelve miles of the farm, and desiring to get to West Salem, she prepared the body as best she could, wrapped it in a blanket and took a train for LaCrosse.

The remains were properly prepared here and placed in a coffin, and the woman proceeded to West Salem.

COPPER COUNTRY FATALITIES

Two Lives Snuffed Out Among Delvers After Red Metal.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 26.—John Bois, aged 21, single, was killed by falling rock in No. 5 shaft of the Tamarack mine.

Anton Carlvitch, aged 68, was caught between the skip and side of the shaft in No. 1 shaft of the Kearsarge branch of the Osceola consolidated mine Tuesday morning, being instantly killed. He leaves a wife and child.

MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS SEEKING OUTSIDE HELP.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Republican national committeeman from Minnesota and special counsel for the government in the Standard Oil prosecution, left last evening for the East for the purpose of personally requesting President Roosevelt to speak in Minnesota during the present campaign. If the president takes the stump at all, Minnesota Republicans are anxious to secure his presence here. Mr. Kellogg, while in the East, will make arrangements to secure several speakers of national repute for Minnesota during the campaign.

GRAND FORKS CARNIVAL.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans for the big carnival week, Sept. 29 to Oct. 3, are being perfected as rapidly as possible. Today it is expected that final arrangements will be made for the various carnival attractions, such as tent shows and free acts, and Mr. Hart, who has charge of the matter, promises something decidedly good in every department. The shows will be of a very high-class, while the free acts will be a lift out of the ordinary from start to finish.

GRAND FORKS TAILORS HAVE FORMED UNION.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Journeymen Tailors of America have organized a union in Grand Forks. D. G. Biggs was the organizer. The union has 350 locals in America. The following officers were elected:

President, Jacob Vikoren; vice president, Gustave Malstrom; treasurer, P. Anderson; secretary, M. Thorson.

A rapid growth of the union is anticipated. The officers and members propose to make the union a success, and it undoubtedly will be.

HIBERNIANS AT ASHLAND.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Burt Williams extended a warm welcome yesterday to the biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Wisconsin which is holding a two days' session here. The first day was devoted to business, concluding with a banquet and ball at the Knight music hall last night. All of the subordinate lodges of the state are represented. The officers of the state organization are also present, as follows: President, M. S. Sheridan of Milwaukee, Secretary J. P. Hefferman of Janesville, Treasurer J. R. Powers of Racine, and Chaplain Rev. E. J. Blackwell of Milwaukee.

ULCER OF THE STOMACH ATTACKS CROOKSTON MAN.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. L. Brennan, ex-chief of the Crookston fire department and formerly of St. Paul, where he was a member of the famous Picket baseball team in the early days, was taken to St. Vincent hospital yesterday afternoon and operated on for an ulcer of the stomach, which broke just before noon, leaving a puncture about the size of the end of a lead pencil at the lower opening. His physicians state that he has just a fighting chance for recovery.

MANY CANDIDATES FILE.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ernest W. Woodrich of St. Paul filed yesterday for congress in the Fourth district, on the Public Ownership ticket, and the following affidavits were filed by legislative candidates:

N. H. Hanson, Anoka, Forty-fifth district, Republican.

William T. Lobb, Nashville, Thirteenth district, Prohibitionist.

Ernest H. Dosey, Pine City, Thirty-second district, Democrat.

Thomas K. Haslbrouck, St. Cloud, Forty-seventh district, Democrat.

C. R. Alsaker, Benson, Fifty-sixth district, Democrat.

One judicial candidate filed yesterday. A. R. Pfau of Mankato, who was appointed judge in the Sixth district upon the resignation of Judge Cray, filed for the Democratic nomination.

Meet After Many Years.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—John L. Olson arrived Tuesday from St. Paul and left on the Duluth train for Fosston, where he will visit his brother, Anton Olson, who farms ten miles east of Fosston, near Cross Hill postoffice, whom he has not seen for thirty-six years, and will later visit his brother, Otto Olson, who farms near Climax, neither of whom know he is in this part of the country.

Sort of a White Elephant.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city officials of Crookston and the board of commissioners of Polk county are up against a proposition that, singly or combined, they have been unable to solve thus far: what to do with Silver Cliffgaard, a victim of St. Vitus dance with kleptomaniac attachments.

Work on Bemidji's Sewers.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work of constructing the new city sewer on Dewey avenue, north from the St. Anthony hospital, will be commenced and rushed to completion, according to H. F. Bosworth of Ada, of the firm of Bosworth Bros., the contractors. He stated that the material for the sewer was beginning to arrive and is being placed on the ground, and that a gang of men would be put to work as soon as enough of the material was on hand to work expeditiously. There is approximately 1,700 feet of sewer to lay.

Reported Denth Untrue.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 26.—The report that one of the men in Monday morning's tragedy is dead is not true. The victims are Archie Larabee of Chicago and O. J. Velts of Lake Benton, Minn. The doctors say both men may recover.

Come Here to Live.

Ashawa, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles W. Edln and family, who have made their home here the past five years, have moved to Duluth to reside permanently. They were a popular young couple who will be missed socially by a host of friends.

Woman May Have Clue.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 26.—Maggie Walz, the local Finnish leader and philanthropist, who with friends have been working on the case of a black hand letter received by her recently demanding $400 on penalty of death, has certain clues, and an arrest is expected at any time. She holds signed letters, the writing of which is identical with that of the "black hand" order Miss Walz received.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison—Felix J. Kramer, Republican candidate for the assembly in the four-cornered fight in the Madison district, withdrew Monday in favor of Ernest M. Warner, the La Follette candidate.

Milwaukee—Screaming in nervous hysteria that she would drown herself, Nettie Vanayden, a young woman living in the Fourth ward, ran wildly towards the lake Sunday afternoon and would have plunged blindly into the deep water but for the efforts of employes of the North Western road, who intercepted her and turned her back.

Ashland—Ed Henry and Raymond Coleman left Monday morning in Mr. Henry's automobile on a trip to Minneapolis. There they will meet with Dr. Morley and travel overland in the auto to Crookston, Minn.

Janesville—Thieves robbed the St. Paul depot at Bradhead Monday noon of $50. The cash drawer was broken open with a file. The thieves escaped.

Oconomowoc—Workmen digging on the Spence farm in Concord discovered another skeleton, this being the second one found there this year. This one was found within three feet of earth and was in a good state of preservation. No clew as to the identity of the skeleton was found.

Wautoma—August Brown, a farmer residing at Saxville, shot his wife on Sunday and then in the nearby wood hanged himself. About a week ago his wife started proceedings for divorce. Mrs. Braun was 52 years of age.

Appleton—During the last few days snakes have been killed in every corner of the city ,and even in the downtown sections have they been seen. The low, swampy lands of the rural districts are dried up as a result of a lack of rain and the reptiles sought the wells and watering troughs of the city.

Sheboygan—While attempting to dance the Merry Widow waltz, Mrs. F. H. Mattoon, wife of Postmaster F. H. Mattoon, slipped and fell heavily on the hardwood dance floor at the Schwartz hotel at Elkhart lake, sustaining injuries which it was at first feared would prove serious.

Beche—Gustave F. Reth lies at his home, his skull fractured, unconsolous, and with little chance of recovery, and the police departments of this city, Milwaukee, Kenosha and other places are looking for Owen McCarthy, 19 years old, on a charge of assault.

Madison—The state railroad commission has resumed regular work this week after a short vacation. Chairman Meyer returned Saturday and J. H. Roemer reached Madison today. Halford Erickson will be back in a day or two.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Marquette—John H. McLean of Duluth, right hand man of T. F. Cole, president of the Oliver Iron company, was in Marquette Saturday. Mr. McLean has charge of the ore shipments of his company, and was here on business connected with them.

Calumet—Enough testimony was produced in the case against Alfred Wilkinson, charged with breaking into and entering the Kunnari barber shop on Fifth street, to warrant his being bound over by Judge Fisher to the circut court of Houghton county in the sum of $1,000 bail.

Hancock—O. R. Morse, district agent of the National Cash Register company, left last evening for a business trip to Ashland and other points in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Houghton—The huckleberry season is now at its full height and hundreds of pails are being brought here almost daily. This morning a crowd of Indians arrived in two sailboats and a gasoline launch with about 100 pail, valued, at retail, at $1 per pail, making a cargo worth about $400.

Hancock—The suit for damages brought by Poundmaster Isaac Wenitala against Michael Rourke, tried Saturday afternoon before Justice Olivier and a jury resulted in a verdict of $5 for the plaintiff. The amount asked was $100.

Ontonagon—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul station at Ontonagon was damaged to some extent by fire Friday forenoon. The fire started on the roof and is attributed to a spark from a passing locomotive.

Calumet—Miss Jessie Jankowiak and John Tobals, employes of the North Western postoffice, were united in marriage last Saturday and left following the ceremony for a wedding trip, which will include a visit to New York and Buffalo.

Negaunee—Encouraging news is being received from Mrs. H. W. Sheldon, who submitted to a surgical operation for appendicitis one day last week at Augustans hospital, Chicago. Her husband, Dr. Sheldon, is still with her. He reports that she is getting along full as well, if not better, than he expected.

Ishpeming—Ground has been broken for the foundation of the new two-story brick block to be erected by Richard Quayle of this city at Gwinn, the new Swanzey range town. The Foster Construction company of Milwaukee, which recently started work on the new high school building at Gwinn, has the contract.

Marquette—Miss Annie Hardlug left Tuesday morning for London, Eng., where she will be married. She will take the steamer Virginian at Montreal and will return next spring to America with her husband.

Menominee—Samuel Peltier, one of the pioneer residents of the city, is dead here. His demise was due to pneumonia. The deceased was born some sixty-six years ago in Ealphany, Can. He arrived at Menominee directly from Canada in 1864 and for several years was employed by the Kirby-Carpenter company.

Ishpeming—Thomas Stevens and Miss Minnie Drake, both of this city, were married Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 141 Excelsior street.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Red Wing—The laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist church was held Sunday. Rev. E. H. Goodell, the pastor, had charge of the exercises and remarks were made by Hon. B. B. Herlert and W. C. Rice. Both spoke of the grand old men who had laid the foundations of Methodism here.

Stillwater—In the probate court final distribution has been ordered of the estate of the late Henry Wickerman. Rev. E. C. Teachout has been appointed administrator of the estate of the photographer. Frederick Fisher, who was drowned in Lily lake. License to sell lands of Catherine Brennan has been granted to her guardian, C. A. Lammers.

Mankato—The hearing on the charges filed by Mayor J. W. Andrews against his appointee, City Engineer M. B. Haynes, in impeachment proceedings, has been ordered before the city council sitting as a court. A large crowd was present, and the case is absorbing local interest.

Crookston—E. A. Burnett of Lincoln, Neb., and W. P. Snyder of North Platte, Neb., were in the city Monday spending their time in investigating the methods prevailing at the experimental station and the Crookston school of Agriculture.

St. Cloud—A horse and buggy, valued at $350, were stolen from Dr. Hewitt Sunday night. Dr. Hewitt was called to Albany on a sick call and while in the house left his horse tied to a hitching post on the street. When he returned the animal was gone.

Little Falls—The French Catholic church was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday morning when Henry J. Richard married Miss Lucy Bourassa, Rev. Father Lamothe officiating. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bourassa and has always lived in this city.

International Falls—The new car built for the accommodation of the state game and fish commission, arrived Friday morning, accompanied by members of the commission and others.

Beaver Bay—The Misses Helen, Gertrude and Ethel Wood have returned from a visit to Buffalo and other Eastern points, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Young and daughter, Margaret, of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Wieland and son of Duluth spent last week at Beaver Bay.

Brainerd—J. R. Smith and son returned Sunday night from Duluth, where they had stopped for a few days on their way home from a visit of several weeks in Canada.

St. Cloud—There was a frost over this section of Minnesota Saturday night. It was not a severe one and did not do any damage to speak about, but in some places it curled the corn leaves badly.

Spooner—Sellers, W. H. Fuller and A. M. Christy, superintendent and chief millwright at the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company's sawmill the past year, are about to change their place of residence from here, expecting to move their families to the coast, where they have prospects of an engagement with a mill company.

Moorhead—Work upon ditch No. 3, which runs through the M. J. Miller farm, and action upon which was delayed by an injunction order secured by Mr. Miller, has now been finished, the ditch having been completed through the Miller farm on Saturday.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—The work of repairing the Florence Crittenton home on Thirteenth street south is progressing rapidly and the institution will soon be put in first class shape for the work it is intended for and being the only institution of its kind in the state, is much in demand.

Grand Forks, N. D.—J. A. Canniff of Fargo has been in the city the past few days making the final preparations for the removal of his family to Fargo, where they will reside. Mr. Canniff, who has been engaged in the painting and decorating business in Grand Forks for a number of years, has entered the Fargo Decorating company.

Pembina, N. D.—A party of Pembina people has just returned from an interesting auto trip through the far famed lake and park region of Northern Minnesota. The tour was a very successful and pleasant one, the party going through some of the most beautiful of Minnesota's scenic country.

Fargo, N. D.—Mrs. Elizabeth R. Robbins, an old resident of this city, died at the home of her son, C. E. Robbins, Saturday and was buried Monday afternoon. Mrs. Robbins was 85 years of age and has lived in Fargo for the past twenty years and since the death of her husband in 1905, has made her home with her son, C. E. Robbins.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A Mr. Bisson, claiming to have come from the state of Maine, arrived in Grand Forks Sunday with his family in straightened circumstances. He says he was enroute to the Pacific coast, and that while at Walpeton, this state, was robbed of his cash. The chief of police and county commissioners are taking the case up for investigation.

Oakes, N. D.—The Methodists have broken ground for a new edifice, to cost about $11,000. The new Catholic school will be opened in September. Bishop John Shanley of Fargo dedicated the new school. The building is of brick and cost over $11,000.

Devils Lake, N. D.—A movement is on foot among the Chatauqua summer residents to form a mutual fire insurance company so that insurance may be secured for the cottages at a reasonable rate.

Valley City, N. D.—Carl Forgerstrom, who has been assisting in building an elevator on the Mason farm at Rogers, met with an accident which may cost him his life. He was at work on the cupola of the elevator when he missed his footing and fell, striking the roof, off of which he rolled and slid, falling twenty-four feet striking his hip on a foundation wall and rebounding to another wall and striking on his stomach and head.

ON THE IRON RANGES

JUDGE WILL GET SALARY

By Establishment of a Municipal Court System in Virginia.

Council Asked to Establish Such Court—Fix Amusement Licenses.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Five members of the Virginia bar, Messrs. R. C. Pickering, L. M. Osborn, John M. Martin, Otto A. Poirier and Frank E. McGray, joined in a petition to the council last night asking that the act of the legislature of 1905, governing the precedure of municipal courts be adopted for Virginia, and they claim that this would greatly improve the procedure. This would also, place the judge's compensation on a salary, instead of a fee basis. It requires five members of the council to pass such a resolution and as there were but four present last night the matter was laid over until next week.

The clerk read a formal notification from the clerk of the district court that a commission had been appointed to formulate a home rule charter for Virginia. The council instructed the clerk to call a meeting of the members of the commission to be held next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the council chamber for the purpose of organization.

Recently a request was made on the Great Northern Railway company to build sidewalk between its tracks to connect with the sidewalk to the cemetery, recently constructed by the city. The clerk read a reply from the local agent of the road, which stated that the company was sorry, but it could not build the sidewalk this year, as it had already undertaken more improvements than could be finished this season. The clerk reported that the Rainy Lake road had already constructed the necessary sidewalk between its tracks. The city attorney was instructed to look up the law and advise the council what steps would be necessary in order to compel the Great Northern to build the desired sidewalk.

The terms of the members of the library board appointed by ex-Mayor Fay having expired, Mayor Hawkinson appointed a new board, as follows: Three year term, D. W. Freeman, M. E. Fanning, E. M. Tredway. Two years, J. D. Lamont, N. A. Holmer, C. C. Butler. One year, Peter Savolainen, were confirmed.

Petitions for sidewalks on the north side of Elm street between Mesaba and Railroad avenues and on the north side of Hemlock street between Cleveland and Wyoming avenues were referred to the committee on streets, alleys and sewers.

The W. T. Bailey Lumber company petitioned for extension of the water mains on Wyoming avenue from Magnolia street to Balsam street so that they could make connections for their mill and this was referred to the committee on light and water.

Mark Eddy was awarded tthe contract to furnish the city with 100 tons of soft coal, more or less, at $4.95 per ton. J.W. Murphy put in a bid at $5.35 per ton.

Circuses $100 per Day.

The ordinance fixing the licenses for circuses, theaters, etc, received its third reading and was passed. Theaters that charge no more than 25 cents admission will be licensed at $40 per annum, others will pay $100 per annum, while circuses will pay $100 per day.

The ordinance enlarging the powers and defining the duties of the park board received its second reading.

The clerk was instructed to write to P. McDonnell, the Duluth contractor who constructed the Chestnut street pavement, and ask him to fill in the depressions in the pavement and repair some breaks in the gutter.

The application of W. H. Bonds for a position on the fire department was referred to the chief of the department.

President Osborn made the statement that cows were not being properly taken care of and Mayor Hawkinson was asked if he could not see that better service is rendered by the poundmaster in the future. The mayor in reply was inclined to the opinion that he had already had trouble enough over the cows in listening to the complaints of people, whose cattle were impounded.

CLUBHOUSE FOR EMPLOYES.

Oliver Mining Company Shows True Spirit Towards Men.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An appropriation of $20,000 has been secured by Supt. W. J. West of the Oliver Iron Mining company for the erection of a clubhouse. The building will be complete and modern in every particular and of a size ample for the employes of the Hibbing district, which embraces a wide territory. The building will be a two-story frame structure.

A petition for the erection of the building was presented to the council last evening.

The site is right in the business portion of town and the building will be a substantial municipal improvement. It will be a complete clubhouse in every modern particular and will be a great comfort to the hundreds of employes of the Steel corporation in the Hibbing district.

FRIENDLY TIP

Restored Hope and Confidence.

After several years of indigestion and its attendant evil influence on the mind, it is not very surprising that one finally loses faith in things generally.

A New York woman writes an interesting letter. She says:

"Three years ago I suffered from an attack of peritonitis which left me in a most miserable condition. For over two years I suffered from nervousness, weak heart, shortness of breath, could not sleep, etc.

"My appetite was ravenous, but I felt starved all the time. I had plenty of food, but it did not nourish me because of intestinal indigestion. Medical treatment did not seem to help, I got discouraged, stopped medicine and did not care much whether I lived or died.

"One day a friend asked me why I didn't try Grape-Nuts, stop drinking coffee and use Postum. I had lost faith in everything, but to please my friends I began to use both and soon became very fond of them.

"It wasn't long before I got some strength, felt a decided change in my system, hope sprung up in my heart and slowly but surely I got better. I could sleep very well, the constant craving for food ceased and I have better health now than before the attack of peritonitis.

"My husband and I are still using Grape-Nuts and Postum." There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville" in packages.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CITY'S FINANCES ARE FIRST CLASS

Keeping Up Eveleth Levy and Creating Funds is Beneficial.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—In spite of the new improvements that the city will make in the near future, the city is in good financial condition, the best it has been in for some time. Until about two and a half years ago the city was in a bad way financially, as the administrations up till then had been lax in keeping the tax levy up to the needs of the city. At that time the city orders amounted to about $50,000 and were increasing.

Those in control saw that something had to be done, so when City Attorney Arnold in the fall of 1905 suggested to the aldermen that the city's money should be divided into funds, the suggestion was acted on favorably.

At the beginning of this year the outlook was very good, as there was only $40,000 of orders to pay off, and money was coming in to pay most of that off. So far the city treasurer has paid off $30,000 of the orders, and the rest will be taken care of when he gets the money due the city from the county treasurer. The interest fund takes care of the bonds as they mature and of the interest when it is due. The city clerk has issued an order this week for $960 to meet the interest on the old water and sewer bonds due Sept. 1. On Sept. 15 five of the new waterworks bonds will mature, amounting to $2,500, which will be met promptly. On that date also the semi-annual interest on the new waterworks bonds, amounting to $1,062.50, will be taken care of. After that date the bonded indebtedness of the city will only be $58,500, less than half the amount the city can legally be allowed to bond.

The tax levy ought not to be larger this year than that of last year, when the $40,000 levy was made for old orders. This $40,000 will be used to make up the levy of $20,000 to $25,000 which shall be made for a new water tank and the necessary mains, and for a revolving fund of $10,000, to which the street and sidewalk improvements may be charged. The regular expenses for next year will be about the same as this year.

SPARTA WOMEN LUCKY.

Horse Falls Into Virginia Trench, But They Escape.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two women, who drove here from Sparta last evening to attend a lodge meeting, had a narrow escape from serious injury, as a result of driving their horse into an open trench in Central avenue. The horse fell into the deep and narrow trench, landing on his back, but was rescued apparently without injury. Fortunately the women were unhurt, but one of them, Anna Locke, was so unnerved by the shock that she fainted repeatedly and was carried to the Lenont hospital. The horse belonged to the McHale & Hogan livery in Sparta.

The trench was dug by Axel Lund, for the purpose of laying water pipes, and had been opened from both sides of the street, leaving but a narrow passageway in the center of the street. A lantern was placed on one side, but it was alleged there was no protection on the other, and the lady who was driving pulled the horse too far to the right, thinking to avoid danger.

FIRE FOLLOWS TRANSFER.

Suspicious Circumstances Surround Hibbing Fire.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—While there is no direct evidence of incendiarism, there are rather suspicious circumstances surrounding the fire which destroyed a house in the Rust location, half a mile east of town, Monday night, as the fire followed right after the former owners, three men who were badly in debt to Louis Nachek, a Hibbing merchant, had turned over the property for the debt. The ink was hardly dry on the transfer papers when the building caught fire and was reduced to ruins.

ELECT NEW PRESIDENT.

Departure of Mrs. Hendricks Necessitates Selecting Another Head.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. T. Hurley, formerly a clerk at the Hotel Fay, now traveling for a Duluth fruit house, was in the city today.

H. T. Kendall, manager of mines for the New York State Steel company, came over from Hibbing yesterday.

F. J. Dacey of Duluth was in the city yesterday.

At a meeting of the local branch of the National Protective Legion held last evening at the home of Mrs. Ransome Metcalfe, Mrs. M. E. Hendricks resigned the presidency owing to the fact that she is going to Chicago for an extended visit with her sister. Mrs. William Moore was elected to serve in her place for the remainder of the term. The members of the legion present were entertained with music and refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mitchell, who have been members of the order for five years, will draw their dividends next month.

Mr. and Mrs. James Laviollette returned Monday evening from Seattle, where Mr. Laviollette attended the national convention of the Eagles.

Mrs. M. Baylan and daughter will depart next Monday for a visit with Mr. Baylan's relatives at Kalamazoo, Mich.

Miss Anna Anderson, who is taking a course as trained nurse at St. Luke's hospital in Duluth, visited friends in the city this week.

START ON BUILDING.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work was started on the three-story building to be erected on the site of the former Miles hotel burned last spring.

The site was purchased from C. H. Miles by local people, including P. M. Bardesona, W. C. Barrett, E. C. Kieffman, J. J. Cox and Peter McHardy, about two months ago. The building which will be erected by these men at this time will have a frontage on Third avenue of seventy-five feet. The lower floor will be used for store purposes, and the rest of the building will be a hotel.

CIRCUS EMPLOYES GET FORTY DAYS' SENTENCE.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two of the three employes of the Norris & Rowe circus, who were arrested here on a charge of robbery, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and were sent to the county jail to serve forty days each. Lou Bernstein, who was supposed to have been the chief participant, was liberated, the complaining witnesses failing to identify him. A letter received here from the manager of the circus, stated that the real instigator of the robbery escaped, but had rejoined the show out in Montana, and offered to have the man arrested if the authorities here desired him to do so.

ENGINE INJURES PEDDLER.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joe Theany, 35, a peddler, is at a local hospital, being treated for injuries sustained near Clark station, when he was knocked off a bridge by an Alger-Smith locomotive, receiving a fractured hip bone and several body bruises.

Mrs. John A. Barton has filed as the Republican candidate for county superintendent of schools, to succeed Mrs. W. B. Woodward, who has also filed.

Charles Carlson is also at the hospital being treated for a broken arm, received in an unusual manner. He was shaking hands with a friend last night, and the latter twisted him about so strenuously that the bone in his arm snapped.

HIBBING IN BRIEF.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson have returned after an extended visit in Europe.

Mrs. Judge Brady, Mrs. R. L. Gieselman have left for St. Paul to attend the state fair.

Archie McFayden is spending his vacation at the Twin Cities.

The Club roller rink will open up shortly under the direction of Charles Grant.

A. H. Konze, proprietor of Close's billiard hall has announced Thursday afternoons as Ladies day.

William Kitz & Co., yesterday sold out their entire business in this city to Joseph Orokosky of Duluth and Charles Hallock of this city.

ITASCA COUNTY FILINGS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The latest filings for office yesterday were those of F. E. Reusswig for director, Charles E. Aiken for treasurer and James D. Dornan for clerk of school board of District No. 1. These men run as Republicans and constitute the present board.

DULUTH PHYSICIAN PERFORMS OPERATION.

Nashwauk, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Lepiste has returned from Duluth, where she was successfully operated upon recently by a Zenith City surgeon for tumor after two surgeons in her native town, Maeborg, Finland, during the recent visit, refused to operate upon her, because they feared many complications. She naturally feels grateful to the Duluth physician.

To Shoot at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Friday of this week the local gun club will hold a trap shooting tournament when all the range gun clubs from Aurora, Chisholm, Virginia, Hibbing, Ely, Two Harbors and Duluth will compete for prizes put up by local merchants, amounting to about $200.

To Give Entertainment.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Scandinavian Good Templars lodge will give a musical and literary entertainment at their hall tomorrow evening. A musical program will be rendered by Axel Enna, tenor; Rudolph Erieson, baritone, and Mrs. Esther Dahlquist, pianist. Rev. J. A. Anderson of Duluth will deliver an address.

Hibbing After Peddlers.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mesaba Range Credit Men's association last night petitioned the city council to pass an ordinance regulating hawking and peddling.

The petition was referred to the mayor.

Permission was granted to John A. Healy to erect a three story brick addition, 30 by 20 feet to the Hibbing hotel and to the Oliver Iron Mining company to erect a clubhouse.

Preliminary steps were taken to extend the water and sewer systems to the new additions recently platted by the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Coleraine Teachers.

Coleraine, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Coleraine schools will open Sept. 8 and be again under the superintendency of J. A. Vandyke with Miss Ruth P. Cole as principal of the high school.

The other teachers will be Florence A. Braastad, A. Myrtle Brinton, Mayranda Evien, B. W. Spaulding, Agnes C. Moffatt, Anna E. Canfield, Minnie E. Corbett, Jessie E. Huntchins, Hedwig Stahlbusch, Lillian Carson, L. Louise Spencer and Elizabeth McDonald for the Greenway building; Willietta E. Dolan, Anna R. Jones, Margaret A. Maloney, Rosabelle Carlson and Mary E. Somerville for the Bovey building; Alice Dolan, Ellen M. Boer and Mary Edith Bagan for the Taconite school.

Eveleth Shows Begin.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local theatrical season was opened here last night with the appearance at the opera house of Mahara's minstrel troupe.

The Bijou, the local Sullivan-Considine house, will reopen for the winter season next Monday.

The Lyceum will open in a few days

Bede Shaking Hands.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Adam Bede, candidate for congressman from this district came here yesterday morning and shook hands with a large number of his friends. He left in the afternoon on the Duluth & Iron Range for the smaller towns around here.

Dyspepsia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitters is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes, promotes flow of digestive juices, purifies the blood, builds you up.

Folk Dancers Coming.

Folk dances of old Sweden are to hold sway at Lester park pavilion for a week, commencing Saturday evening, Aug. 29, when the Swedish national dancers of Skansen, Stockholm, will play an engagement there.

They come direct from the historical and ethnographical gardens of Skansen an adjunct of the Northern museum of ethnography and folk lore. The dancers are sons and daughters of the people, selected to revive and help preserve the quaint folk dances of their rspective home provinces.

POLICE CAPTURE BAND OF RUSSIAN SWINDLERS.

Warsaw, Aug. 26.—The police have captured a band of swindlers, who have carried on an extensive and lucrative business in the sale of surplus government bonds of the so-called lottery issues. A certain number of these bonds which are quoted at a premium of from 250 to 400 per cent are drawn by lot annually and retired at their face value the holders commonly insuring themselves against loss by the drawing. The swindlers purchased bonds to be retired, altered the series numbers and re-sold them at the market prices, pocketing the profit. In making the arrests the chief of the detective police was wounded in the hand by one of the criminals.

10,000,000 BUSHELS

Of New Grain Crop of Pacific Northwest Already Sold.

Portland, Or., Aug. 26.—Grain men estimate that about 10,000,000 bushels of the new crop in the Pacific northwest have been sold to date. Practically all this wheat has been bought by a few larger exporters, the smaller dealers not being able to operate to any great extent because of the extreme prices offered by the exporters. Prices in many instances have been several cents above the export value of wheat. A good part of the purchases are said to have been on the export basis, but where competition has been encountered bids have been made considerably higher.

To Advance the Price of Coal.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 26.—Hocking Valley operators have announced that the price of coal on board cars at the mines will be advanced fifteen cents a ton on September 1.

DRUNKEN MAN'S LUCK.

Struck by Northern Pacific Train, Will Pull Through.

Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—While in an intoxicated condition Paul Iverson of Comstock was struck by a west-bound Northern Pacific train shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night. He was walking on the tracks just back of the Jung Brewing company office.

Officer Pete Bergstrom found Iverson lying upon the east-bound track shortly after the accident occurred. Iverson was picked up and taken to the police station and later transferred to the Darrow hospital.

The wounded man is all right today except for a bruised and cut face. He appears to have suffered no internal injuries.

health of the American journalists was drunk with enthusiasm.

School Demonstration a Success.

The public schools demonstration was a great success. The weather was bright and warm. Forty thousand persons, including Lord Northcote, governor general of Australia, and Lady Northcote; Sir Harry Rawson and his wife, many officers and men from the fleet and a large proportion of the people of Sydney gathered at the cricket grounds and witnessed the evolutions of the school children. The spectacle was exceedingly pretty. Eight thousand children in vari-colored dresses participated in living tableaux which represented, among other things, the words "Hail, Columbia," in living columns. The children, in dresses giving the proper color, formed a huge shield of the flags of the United States and Australia intertwined, and this evolution evoked storms of applause. The American national anthem was snug by a large chorus, and there was also May pole dancing, flag and club drills and marches.

At the stadium this afternoon Bauer defeated Frederick for the featherweight championship of the fleet. The stake won by "Tommy" Burns in his fight with Squiers last Monday was paid today.

The Hon. T. Bent, premier of Victoria, has sent a telegram to Admiral Sperry assuring him of the whole-hearted welcome that will be given the American visitors at Melbourne, where the fleet is due Aug. 29. Melbourne is busy with preparations suitable to receive the visitors.

THE EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY LAW.

England has adopted a law making all employers liable for injuries and accidents incident to employment, and in doing so it has gone further than any measure yet proposed in this country, though no further than the United States will go before it is through with the question. This country has adopted a liability law covering government employes, and the aim of President Roosevelt in urging its adoption was to have the government set an example that all private employers should follow.

The New York Sun, very much opposed to this as it is to any other measure in behalf of humanity which treads in the slightest degree upon the toes of property and special privilege, recently printed a long editorial explaining why the law is bad, and why it should never be adopted in this country. Its main reliance, apparently, was upon the case of a British family in ordinary circumstances, who found themselves compelled to take care of a charwoman who was permanently injured while in their employ. The Sun asked the average American citizen how he would like to have a law that would make him pay damages every time a servant in temporary or permanent employ in his home was injured, and that would make him take care of that servant for life if the injury was permanent. The argument looked like a clincher, and no doubt pretty nearly everybody that read it decided promptly that he was against such a law being adopted in this country.

The next day, however, the Sun was answered, and the answer was more complete and more crushing than the original argument. Said a correspondent: "I have read with much interest the article in the Sun entitled 'Liability of Employers in England.' By way of comment on the instance you cite you say: 'The enactment of a similar statute in the various states of the Union would be followed by equally unfortunate results.' As a matter of fact the results as regards the employers in the case cited could have been obviated by the payment of about 60 cents per annum. You can hardly mean that the results are unfortunate as regards the poor woman who has been deprived by accident of the means of earning a livelihood. The married couple who have been adjudged liable to pay seven shillings a week are really no more to be commiserated than if their house had been burned down and they had neglected to take out fire insurance."

In other words, for a slight premium the accident insurance companies are quite willing to take over the liability of any employer. The amount of the premium, in the case of a family employing a servant or two, is very small; no more, in fact, than the taxes paid by the average householder to meet the cost of personal injury litigation. The adoption of a reasonable employers' liability law providing definite payments for injuries in the course of employment would eliminate the costly personal injury business that now takes up so much of the time of the courts, and that yields results so thoroughly unsatisfactory to either party to the litigation.

DO THE PEOPLE RULE?

When Mr. Bryan said, in accepting the nomination for the presidency, that the chief issue in this campaign is whether or not the people shall rule this country, the servants of special privilege laughed in derision, and many innocent citizens, misled by the merriment, joined in it. What absurdity, they said, to say that the people do not rule in this great, glorious and free republic!

Yet many other voters of all parties, mindful of last winter's spectacle when the popular branch of congress, swayed by the will of a single man who holds allegiance to selfish interests, throttled legislation demanded by a Republican president and by eighty millions of people, failed to see the joke.

Mr. Kern, the Democratic nominee for vice president, in his speech of acceptance yesterday, devoted much of his time to the Cannon speakership autocracy which stands on guard to prevent the people's will from being made effective; and he spoke a vital truth, as a citizen and not as a partisan, when he said that if the will of the people, once known, is not given effect, then the people do not rule.

And so long as congress is made up of members who will submit to the dictation of Cannon and who will permit him to block all progressive legislation with their help, it cannot be said that the people rule. They do not rule; even the president, backed by all the people, is less powerful than Cannon, backed by the special interests and supported by his subservient slaves who are paid to represent the people but who have betrayed them.

DEPOSIT GUARANTY SPREADING.

When Oklahoma boldly launched out upon a thorough experiment with the bank deposit guaranty plan it was freely predicted that one effect would be to force adjoining states to follow suit, and that prediction seems about to be fulfilled. The first result is likely to be produced in Kansas, where the bankers are already beginning to agitate for a state bank deposit guaranty law.

When Oklahoma became a state its banks were loosely regulated, and there was much popular suspicion of their safety. Many depositors, living near the Kansas line, therefore, put their savings into Kansas banks. The new code of laws under which Oklahoma set up business as a state provided not only a rigid and thorough bank regulation plan, but a scheme for guaranteeing bank deposits. These measures so appealed to the Oklahomans that Oklahoma money, deposited in Kansas banks, quickly returned home, and now the Kansas banks retain very little of it.

Beyond that, the Oklahoma money, returning to the Oklahoma banks, carried Kansas money with it; for Kansas has no guaranty law, and many Kansas depositors, with last fall's panic fresh in their memories, concluded that they would sleep better of nights if they had their money where its return was guaranteed.

That is why Kansas bankers are asking for the deposit guaranty law. John W. Breidenthal, formerly bank commissioner of Kansas and now president of a national bank in Kansas City, Kan., has addressed letters to all of the Kansas bankers asking their views on the question. Up to date 137 bankers have sent in replies, and of these eighty-eight, or three-fourths, expressed themselves unqualifiedly in favor of the enactment of a guaranty deposit law. Only thirty-five opposed the plan, while seventeen bankers were non-committal. Of the bankers favoring the plan seventy-one were state bankers and seventeen were national bankers. Of those opposed fifteen were national bankers and twenty were state bankers.

Bankers favoring the plan are very anxious to prevent its being made a political issue, and as the Democratic state platform already includes a declaration in favor of the scheme, the Republican platform makers will be asked to include it in their declaration also. The question has no place in politics. There is no more reason why a Republican should be on one side of it and a Democrat on the other than there is why partisans should divide on the need of safe methods in banking. It has happened that Mr. Bryan has declared for the plan and that Mr. Taft has not, and that the Democratic national platform indorses it while the Republican national platform does not. But these circumstances should not make it a political issue, because it is a question of public policy which cannot be made an issue between Republicanism and Democracy.

It is good to have bankers favor the plan, but it should not be forgotten that its aim is quite as much to help the public as it is to help the bankers.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

The common sense of the plain people will heartily approve the stand taken by J. L. Washburn and other members of the school board for a practical course of study in the industrial high school at West Duluth. If the city cannot have practical courses in every school, at least such concessions to the people's needs should be made in this particular school, designed to provide a practical and effective training for those who must work with their hands as well as their brains.

The introduction of languages into the proposed course of study was particularly opposed by Mr. Washburn, who said: "The futility of teaching these languages as an aid to a child's practical life is demonstrated by the high school graduates themselves. When they get out of school they are about as capable of speaking French as they are of talking Hottentot." That this is putting it none too strongly everybody who has enjoyed personal acquaintance with the fruits of public school language training will readily admit.

Those who agree with Mr. Washburn will perforce disagree most heartily with Supt. Denfeld's statement that since education is merely a matter of mind training —evidently not, therefore, a matter of learning at all—"it does not matter very much what the pupil is studying." "It is more or less immaterial," he added, "whether the subjects are called Sanskrit or sociology." With this, too, it is necessary to disagree. Even if education is merely mind training, might it not be as well to select subjects that will be of practical benefit to the pupils in after life as deliberately to avoid such subjects and pick those that will be of very little value or of no value whatever?

ELIMINATING LUXURIES.

A wholesale grocery house of New York which does business in all parts of the United States recently instituted an inquiry to ascertain the comparative condition of business during the first six months of 1907 and of 1908. The result is instructive, because it shows that while there was a falling off in the consumption of staple articles—which are mostly necessaries—the reduction in the consumption of fancy goods—which are almost entirely luxuries—was considerably greater.

The inquiries addressed to correspondents in the several states covered groceries, biscuits and confectionery. The greatest decline in demand was shown in the Southern states, though the difference was not great between the North and the South. The falling off in consumption of staples no doubt involved some deprivation, but it is more thoroughly to be accounted for by the theory that greater economy was exercised; and if this country learned the lesson of economy by the panic of last fall, it was worth the cost, for that lesson the American people needed very much.

In the states south of Pennsylvania and Ohio the results were as follows:

Grocery articles—Falling off in staples, 11 per cent; falling off in luxuries, 18 per cent.

Biscuits and bakers' articles—Falling off in staples, 10 per cent; falling off in luxuries, 15½ per cent.

Confectioners' articles—Falling off in staples, 9½ per cent; falling off in high-priced confectionery, 18½ per cent.

Collections were about 8 per cent slower, with quite a number of extensions required. Coming west, the investigation showed considerably improved conditions, particularly a better demand for staples. The falling off in the demand for luxuries was about the same as it was in the South.

In the territory between the Mississippi and the Pacific coast there was little falling off at all. In fact, there were many places where business even improved over last year, especially as to staples. The average returns showed an improvement of 2½ per cent in staple grocery articles and a reduction of about 7 per cent in luxuries, which is a thoroughly wholesome record. The same thing was found to be true of bakers' articles and confectionery. Confections were about normal. Altogether, this is a very good showing for the West, and indicates that the depression following the panic had as little effect here as it did anywhere.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good; and it is an ill wind indeed that brings no good to accompany the bad. The bright side of hard times is that they teach people the lesson of economy, and that the elimination of luxuries makes for more wholesome living and therefore for better morals and better health. However, even with these advantages, nobody will ever welcome hard times.

The boys are contemplating with rueful visage and disconsolate hearts the imminent opening of another school year and the ending of the vacation season.

The man that held up half a dozen stage coaches in the Yellowstone park showed more courage than Rockefeller ever did, but he did not get nearly so much money.

Those who have been watching the notifications of the presidential and vice presidential candidates to see if any of them would refuse have been disappointed; for not a single offer of a nomination has been rejected.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

T. H. Chambers of New York, who was at the Lenox yesterday, was telling of the shipping of the race horses from New York to South America. New York, was the clear quill in the racing line until the little anti-gambling law of Governor Hughes was placed in effect. Racing without betting would be something like chicken salad with the chicken left out of the cast, or like a comic opera with all the fiddlers playing about three strings shy and the flute and piccolo boys in the last throes of pulmonary trouble. Betting is quite necessary to make racing an artistic and financial success.

Governor Hughes is the one man, who is responsible for the anti-gambling law. He has spoiled a lot of Brighton Beach fun and has made Saratoga as quiet as Lester Park on Christmas day—but he has stopped the ribbon clerk and the rest of the boys from handing their weekly stipend over to the bookmakers. But he has done something else; he has sent a lot of beautiful horses out of the state. And here's where it is seen that people are very funny at times, according to Mr. Chambers.

It seems, according to Mr. Chambers, at least, that the women were with the governor in his fight against gambling. Many evenings Harold or perchance Archibald, failed to bring home the bacon and then when the agitation over race track gambling came up and all of the pathetic stories were told of weeping wives and hungry children, mother knew that Harold or perchance Archibald, had not been out with the boys, but had been trying to dope the ponies. So mother and the rest of the women were with the governor in his fight to save the money of the foolish boys. But when the women found that many beautiful horses were being sent to that hot and breathless country of South America, they revolted and the pendulum of feminine opinion, or at least some of it, swung the other way.

The sight of those pretty horses, looking wistfully back Coney Island way, as they were led up the gang plank to the steamer that was to bear them southward, stirred latent depths and aroused memories of Black Beauty.

One hundred horses were shipped on one boat the other day, says Mr. Chambers, and there are others to go. And so if the betting law were to come up for discussion again, the support of some of the women might be lost. Harold and perchance Archibald, might fling their work souvenirs right into the strong box of the fat and jolly bookmaker, but those beautiful horses must not be sent to a hot and torrid country.

Chicago people are still loyal to their baseball team. Many people believe that the Chicago Nationals have shot their bolt, and the race is between New York and Pittsburg. Not so, says Nels Dueholm, a Chicago lumber representative, who makes Duluth his quiet retreat. Mr. Dueholm has been watching some of the recent gomes in the big league, and he believes that the Cubs are still there with all the spangles and that from now on they will pull up on the Pirates and the Gianits.

"They have only been playing off," he states and gives it as his opinion that from now on until the finish of the season the people of the country will find out just how good a team they have in the city by Lake Michigan.

Several tourists at the Spalding hotel last night were telling of meeting Thomas A. Edison on the boat. Every one seemed to be surprised at the geniality of the man.

"He is as nice a man to talk to as you could find," said one man to his friend." The opinion seems to be extant that most geniuses are cranks. When it became known that Mr. Edison was in the city there was a great curiosity to see him. However, he only made one appearance at the hotel and few who were so anxious to catch a glimpse of the wizard were satisfied in this respect.

Last Monday O. A. Hagen of St. Louis, a representative of the Brown Shoe company, had an advertising medium with him at the St. Louis hotel. The medium was no less a one than a man 48 years old, a trifle over three feet in height, who was dressed in the Buster Brown getup. At first glance one would think that the middle aged man was a child. One of the girls of the dining room was about to tuck his napkin under his chin when "Buster" gave the girl a stern glance and informed her in fine voice of a country parson that he was perfectly capable of going through with the performance. But the most ludicrous sight of all was to see the "mere infant," with his yellow locks trailing behind, standing in the lobby of the hotel puffing enjoyably on a large black cigar. Several ladies were severely shocked. "The naughty child," declared one lady, who was about to ask the "child" if its mother was about, when she was told that the "child" she referred to, was a man in everything but size.

THE WEATHER.

The expected showers had not arrived up to this writing, but they are still expected, and the weather man holds the promise of them out over tomorrow. The winds, still easterly, may become southerly later. This morning it was slightly cloudy, cool and pleasant. Yesterday's highest temperature was 58 degs., and last night's lowest was 50 degs. A year ago today it was cool and cloudy, with a small northeaster in progress.

The sun rose this morning at 5:39 and sets tonight at 7, making 13 hours and 41 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "Showery weather prevailed Tuesday or last night in the Atlantic states, Ohio valley, Western Canada, Western Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska and New Mexico as a result of barometric depressions central off the South Atlantic coast and over Saskatchewan. The Saskatchewan disturbance has also caused warmer weather in Western Ontario, Northern Michigan, Kansas, Colorado and Utah. High pressure areas over the St. Lawrence valley and the plateau region have caused cooler weather in the North Atlantic states, Wyoming, Idaho, the Dakotas and Saskatchewan. Light frost occurred this morning in Wyoming."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

The Old Love Song.

Play it slowly, sing it lowly,
Old familiar tune!
Once it may be dance and dimple,
Like a brook in June;
Now it sobs along the measures
With a sound of tears;
Dear old voices echo through it,
Vanished with the years.

Play it slowly—it is holy
As an evening hymn;
Morning gladness hushed to sadness
Fills it to the brim.
Memories home within the music,
Stealing through the bars,
Thoughts within its quiet spaces
Rise and set like stars.

Ripple, ripple, goes the love-song
Till in slowing time,
Early sweetness grown completeness
Floods its every rhyme;
Who together learn the music
Life and death unfold.
Know that love is but beginning
Until love is old.

Singing, singing through the roses
Went our lovers twain—
Was there ever such a rose time,
Could there be again?
Now they tell us "Five-and-twenty
Junes we've seen them blow;
Every June's coupleter, sweeter—
Well we lovers know!"

Minnesota's Gift.

The Minnesota State Agricultural society has presented William J. Bryan with an educated mule.—News item.

Now it comes that Minnesota
After philosophic pause
Hast contributed its quota
To the Democratic cause.
Not in lucre predatory,
But a dappled, equine Jew'l
Soon to shine in song and story—
'Tis an educated mule.
And so pleased was W. J. B.
At the blind legs of his gift
That he saw some chances, maybe,
For Democracy's uplift.
As the boy who lauds in duty
Presents sent around at Yule,
So the Peerless praised the beauty
Of that educated mule.

Not the glorious Alexander
On Bucephalus astride
Could present a picture grander
To the country far and wide,
Than the candidate whose motto
Is "The People Got to Rule"—
And you ought to hear the sotto
Voce comment of the mule.

Life, they say, has honors plenty
If you only know the game;
Millionaires have more than twenty
Thousand ways of reaching fame.
Give the plutocrat his greed bag,
My ambition's not so "crool"—
'Tis to hold the classic feed bag
Of that educated mule.

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1888.

•••At a meeting of the school board yesterday, bids were opened for school supplies and coal for the year. Albertson & Chappel of Superior were given the contract for supplies, and the Ohio Coal company that for coal.

•••A map "showing territory, especially the grain area, tributary to Duluth and to Chicago," and published by George A. Wheeler, a civil engineer of New York, has just been received in Duluth. The peculiarity of this map is that it shows graphically the great Northwestern and Western grain sections in their relation to the two cities of Duluth and Chicago. As may be supposed, it makes a wonderful showing for Duluth and its tributary country, and is a particularly valuable document to silence the cry of "no back country."

•••The expected visit of high officials of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and the Canadian Pacific roads was made to Duluth yesterday. Among those here were President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific; Gen. Thomas and George I. Seney, directors of the South Shore; J. A. Latcha, chief engineer; W. A. McEwen, treasurer, and George T. Jarvis, superintendent, all of the South Shore road. The special train of the party came through direct from Montreal, and made the run to Duluth at an average speed of forty miles an hour, showing the excellent state of the roadbed of Duluth's new Eastern line. It was the first train over the line through from the St. Lawrence and the ocean to the head of navigation in the center of the continent, and as such, if for no other reason, is worthy of special notice. If running arrangements can be made with the Northern Pacific, the South Shore trains will run over the latter's road from Iron River to Duluth.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON'S RENOMINATION

FROM THE NATION.

Milwaukee Sentinel (Rep.): The Minnesota Democrats evidently do not believe that there can be such a thing as "too much Johnson."

Chicago Journal (Ind.): Congratulations are pouring in to Governor Johnson of Minnesota on his renomination. This will be interesting to the man who eats pie with his knife.

New York World (Ind. Dem.): Governor Johnson could not decline the renomination conferred upon him with so much enthusiasm by the Democrats of Minnesota. He wished to retire, but the mandate of his party was imperative.

It has been said that Mr. Johnson's disinclination to be a candidate this year was due to his fear of defeat and the belief that failure now would militate against his presidential aspirations. No doubt this does him an injustice.

A Democrat who can carry Minnesota twice in succession, who has a fine record of genuine public service, who has been content to advocate and to practice true Democracy, and whose fellow-citizens will not permit him to abandon public life, will be heard from again, whether he wins at the polls this year or not.

Boston Globe (Dem.) Governor Johnson's renomination in Minnesota points to a condition of Democratic harmony in striking contrast to the Republican situation in New York, where Governor Hughes is so bitterly opposed by the machine.

Utica, N. Y., Press (Ind. Rep.): Johnson and Roosevelt have carried Minnesota at the same time and in all human probability is what will happen this year, substituting Taft for Roosevelt. Johnson is a splendid specimen of an upright honorable man in politics and public life. There is every reason for saying that he deserves the confidence and support accorded him.

Springfield Republican (Ind.): Governor Johnson's renomination in Minnesota was the last thing that he desired, but his quick acceptance shows that he proposes to make the best of the situation. He has had two terms already. Elected first in 1904, and again in 1906 by an increased plurality, he has only to demonstrate his power to carry Minnesota as a Democratic candidate for governor; in two successive presidential years to augment his prestige in the field of national politics. Defeat, probably, would injure the governor's availability as a presidential candidate in 1912; but renewed success must make him more formidable than ever.

Milwaukee Sentinel (Rep.): Governor Johnson shows he is not afraid to run against a man who is bold enough to eat pie with a knife and then brag about it.

Kansas City Star (Rep.): There are the best of reasons why the Democrats of Minnesota should insist on the renomination of Governor Johnson in spite of his declaration that he did not desire to serve another term. When a public official has achieved such a record as Governor Johnson has made, he should be continued in office, regardless of the party to which he belongs, unless the law limits its tenure. Besides, there are good political reasons involved. The election of Mr. Johnson is practically inevitable, but it is improbable that any other Democrat could have carried the state.

As for the governor himself, whatever his aspirations may be, he can hardly hope to promote them more successfully, more to his credit or more to the honor and welfare of his state and his party than by continuing the kind of service he has given to the great commonwealth of Minnesota.

Kansas City Times (Rep.): Governor Johnson does well to accept another nomination from the Democrats of Minnesota. The state needs him, and the governorship will keep him in training as a presidential candidate for 1912. It must be borne in mind that accidents may happen, even to Mr. Bryan.

Utica, N. Y., Press (Ind. Rep.): There could be no better evidence of John A. Johnson's popularity in Minnesota than his enthusiastic nomination for a third time to be governor of that state. He had declared beforehand that he did not want it and substantially that he would not take it if offered to him. The scene at the mention of his name was tumultuous and the reports differ as to the precise period of time, but they all agree that the cheering lasted about an hour. That applause was much more spontaneous and genuine than the worked up tumult which lasted longer at Denver. Out in Colorado there was a determination to exceed the limit of cheering for Roosevelt and it was taken up in relays and worked out systematically and successfully.

Washington Star (Rep.): Governor Johnson submits. And very properly. There was nothing else in reason for him to do. His declaration against a third term was doubtless sincere, but such things are subject to change. He will meet it in the campaign, and will reply to it after the fashion of politics. He is not the first leader to be overruled by his party about a matter like that. Nor will he be the last.

Los Angeles Times (Rep.): The news from Minnesoa looks more than ever like John A. Johnson in 1912. And we are free to say that the Republican party will then have a real fight on its hands.

That Was His Trouble.

Everybody's Magazine: The best man noticed that one of the wedding guests, a gloomy-looking young man, did not seem to be enjoying himself. He was wandering about as though he had lost his last friend. The best man took it upon himself to cheer him up.

"Er—have you kissed the bride?" he asked by way of introduction.

"Not lately," replied the gloomy one with a faraway expression.

FROM MINNESOTA.

Madison Independent Press (Rep.): It now becomes those Republicans who made Mr. Johnson the political power that he is by helping him in defeating Dunn in 1904 and Cole in 1906 to undo their work. If they think the task is going to be an easy one they are making the mistake of their lives. John A. Johnson's 75,000 lead of Cole will have to be overcome, and that in the face of the fact that he has been given a nomination that he did not seek, and a nomination that has no taint of the "interests" clinging to it. These are plain words, but they are true, and it is time for the Republican party leaders to get busy and shake off the lethargy which is everywhere too plainly apparent.

Crookston Times (Rep.): We have heard that Mr. Jacobson has some very strong friends in the territory commonly specified as the "interests." Mr. Jacobson has been asked in regard to this matter, and so far he has not deemed it of sufficient importance to deign a reply. There is no doubt but that in politics as in every other line of activity, every little bit helps, and if Jacobson has the masses, his position will be all the stronger, if he also secures the backing of the "interests," and he can confidently await the verdict of the November ballot. Notwithstanding Jacobson's popularity with the masses, and his newly acquired ability to stand in with the "interests," we have an impression, of course it may be entirely without any foundation, that the nominee of the Democratic convention will cut some figure in the coming campaign, not on account of his party principles, but on his personality and for the reason that nine-tenths of the people of the state want a representative man in the person of their state executive, a man who can show the people of other sections that we have passed the period of infancy, and in education, resources and civilization can take our place with the leading states of the nation.

Two Harbors Trade Journal (Rep.): Governor John A. Johnson has been nominated for the third time by the Democrats of the state. A perfect tornado of enthusiasm followed the mention of his name, and despite the fact that he had friends present urging against his name being brought forward, he was made the unanimous choice of the convention. The convention decided that Johnson was the only man available who could again lead the party to a glorious victory, and there was no stemming the Johnson tide. This move means a sure defeat for the Republican nominee, for Johnson is the ideal man and candidate of the entire state.

Moorhead Independent: Some authorities claim that Governor Johnson was elected two years ago by the Republicans. The Independent is of the belief that the independent vote of the state elected Johnson. The independent vote of Minnesota is the tail that wags the dog, and is going to be a large factor in the coming election. Long may she wave—the tail.

St. Cloud Times: Johnson was unable to keep himself from being nominated, and Jake will be unable to keep himself from being defeated.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): There can be no denying the fact that Mr. Johnson is just as popular with the people of Minnesota as he ever was, and with him at the head of the Democratic ticket, the Republicans will have the same old fight on their hands.

Virginia Enterprise (Rep.): The Democratic state convention did what was expected of the body by the people of the state of Minnesota in the renomination of Governor John A. Johnson, despite his protests, and Governor Johnson did what was expected of him by laying aside his personal interests to again serve the people of the state in the capacity of chief executive. For of his election there can be no reasonable doubt. The spontaneous combustion is by no means confined to the Democratic party, and the people of the state as a whole will lend their endorsement to the convention's action at the polls.

Breckenridge Gazette (Rep.): Some people think that we are politically cross-eyed, but just the same we believe that the name of the next governor of Minnesota will be Johnson, just as it has been for the four years last past.

Willmar Journal: Jake will get run over by the people's steam roller next November if he keeps on trying to lay the extravagances of the late lamented Republican legislature onto Governor Johnson.

WILL HAVE NEW HOME

New Building to be Erected for Commercial Club.

Will Cost $80,000—Seven-Story Block on Fifth Avenue.

N. J. Upham & Co., have received plans for a new home for the Duluth Commercial club, to be erected on the lot at the southwest corner of Fourth avenue west and First street. Just as soon as matters so shape themselves work will be begun and the building will be rushed to completion, so that the club may occupy it within a year.

A 99-year lease has been secured upon the property, which is one of the finest pieces of business property on First street, now unoccupied. The new building will be of steel and solid fireproof construction, and will have three stories on First street and four stories on the alley. The basement and first floor will be fitted out for business purposes and the second and third floors will be given over to the Commercial club.

The building will cost in the neighborhood of $80,000 when completed and will be modern and substantial in every detail. Plans for the construction are not entirely settled, but it was announced this morning that work will be begun as soon as the details can be arranged.

S. I. Levin, owner of the property on the northwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street, now occupied by a frame building, is contemplating the erection of a seven story business block within the next year or two. He is now considering the ordering of plans, but leases now in force will prevent any move toward construction for at least a year.

SLASH IN BEEF PRICES EXPECTED

An Independent Packing Company, With $25,000,000 Formed.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Competition—the genuine sort, that is said to mean cuts in prices of meat—is scheduled to make its appearance in the beef trade about Oct. 1.

An independent concern has been incorporated under the name of the "Chicago Stockyards & Transit company," as a rival of the Union Stock Yards & Transit company. The independent concern has purchased twenty acres of land at Thirty-ninth street and Forty-eighth avenue and is building great cattle pens and a packing house. It has capital stock amounting to $2,500,000, of which $1,500,000 is to be spent for the packing house and other structures.

Real competition is announced to begin Oct. 1, although the concern is doing a small business now, but has no downtown distributing point. According to H. W. Rockwell, one of the incorporators, the benefits of competition will be enjoyed by the cattle-raiser, the butcher and the consumer.

This, he said, would result from the fact that the new company intends to cut under the regular schedule of prices maintained by the Union stock yards in every particular. Instead of being compelled to pay 25 cents a day for each head of stock kept in the yards while awaiting a purchaser, said he, the stockmen would pay an initial cost of but 15 cents. Instead of paying a uniform price of $1 a bushel for corn used in feeding, the market price will be charged.

Moreover, the new concern says that the stockman may purchase feed elsewhere instead of being compelled to take that offered by the packers, as now is the case.

REMAINS OF STERNBURG ARE TAKEN TO LEIPSIC.

Heidelberg, Aug. 26.—A funeral train bearing the body of the late Baron Speck von Sternberg, the ambassador of Germany to the United States, who died here last Sunday night, left at 10 o'clock this morning for Leipsic, where it is due at 8 o'clock this evening.

Emperor William will be represented at the funeral of the baron by a distinguished member of his household, Chief Master of the Hunt Baron von Heintze-Weissenrode. The foreign office will be represented by Baron von Dem Bussche-Haddenhausen.

Fire at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 26.—Fire early today destroyed the building of the Overbrook Carpet company, on the outskirts of this city. About a dozen firemen were injured when a wall fell. Only one was seriously hurt, however. District Engineer Vollinger being taken to a hospital with a broken leg. The loss is estimated at $350,000.

POSITION IS EXPLAINED

French Engineer Tells of Methods of European Bankers.

Says He Has Ordered Drills for Duluth Enterprise.

"If the First National Bank of Duluth should set aside half a dozen rooms for civil engineers, Duluth people would think it very funny," said John A. Roemer, the Parisian civil engineer who is pushing the moving sidewalk and aerial railway scheme.

"Yet that is what French and Belgian bankers do, and in fact all of the large European banks. They have a department to investigate all schemes which are laid before the bank from an engineering standpoint, and so successful has this plan proved that there have been no large losses for many years.

"The Credit Lyonnaise, for instance, has seventy-two civil engineers in its employ. They are scattered all over the world, investigating schemes on which financiers are trying to borrow money, and looking up new places to invest the bank's funds. The plans for the Siberian railroad passed through this department. I was formerly employed by it, but am now connected with the Grand Industrielle de Belgique of Liege, Brussels.

"Siemes & Halsks, for another example, have their engineers in South Africa, Peru, Mexico, and many other countries, looking up good investments. That is why I am in Duluth. I am employed to do this kind of work. It is my business to investigate engineering projects which promise a good return in the investment. This Duluth project is one that has attracted their attention . . . have a similar project for Seattle. The bankers who employ me have ample money to finance the project without any assistance, but they will not go into it unless I advise in favor of it, and I will not so advise unless I am satisfied the people want it and that I will get fair treatment from the city, which the aldermen are apparently inclined to give."

Mr. Roemer stated that there would be no delay in beginning work as soon as he got the franchise, and said that he had already ordered drills.

CANDIDATES ARE READY FOR FRAY

Aspirants for County Offices Have All Filed With Auditor.

Yesterday was the last day for filing for nominations for county offices at the coming primary election and the last two hours of business in the county auditor's office yesterday brought six filings. All are now in and today the real battle for the votes will begin. Three officers will have no opposition either at the primary election or the general election. They are Odin Halden, county auditor; W. A. Holgate, county treasurer, and Lionel Ayres, county surveyor. The offices, for which Democrats have filed are register of deeds, clerk of the district court, sheriff, coroner, county superintendent of schools, representatives to the state legislature from the Fiftieth district, and county commissioners from the First, Third and Fifth districts.

Ole G. Larson filed yesterday for the nomination for sheriff on the Republican ticket. Mr. Larson's filing was no surprise, as politicians had expected the action. Dr. O. A. Oredson and J. W. Reynolds, Democrats, filed for representative from the Fiftieth district. John Cashin of West Duluth filed for register of deeds on the Democratic ticket. E. A. Tessman, alderman from the Third ward, filed for county commissioner for the First district and J. J. O'Brien of West Duluth filed for county commissioner for the Third district.

ATTEMPTED BLACKMAIL.

Two Men Alleged to Have Demanded "Hush" Money.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 26.—A blackmail charge resulting from a case with a most unusual chain of circumstances has been brought here against F. L. Meukel, a prominent lawyer of Dubuque, and P. Yunker, once a hotel proprietor here, but now located at Prairie du Chien.

The two men were brought into court, but on arrangements with the district attorney, the arraignment was postponed until Friday.

The two men are charged with threatening B. F. Fry, local organizer of the Yeomen and a well known man locally with prosecution for malpractice and thereby inducing him to sign notes for $2,000. Fry, acording to his story, sold a colored woman a small quantity of medicine, left from a supply which his wife had taken for a cancer treatment. The colored woman, whose name was Lizzie Wood, also had a cancer some time later. She died at Dubuque from peritonitis. According to the prosecution Yunker, who was a friend of the woman, was appointed her administrator, and Meukel, his attorney, are alleged then to have threatened Fry with prosecution for causing the woman's death by giving her medicine and treatment he had no lawful authority to give, and Fry was induced to sign notes for $2,000.

Later he came to the conclusion that something was wrong, and laid his case before District Attorney Bosshard, who caused warrants to be issued for Yunker and Meukel. The two men are now in jail here.

WANT $50,000 DAMAGES.

Lawyer Brings Action Against Leader of Chicago French Colony.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—In a bill for $50,000 damages which has been filed in the superior court, Attorney J. H. Migneron sets forth his list of grievances against Z. P. Brossseau, a leader of the French colony in Chicago and a member of the board of trade. The list is long and brimming with French phrases. If the proof sustains the allegations made against the wealthy board of trade man, Migeron has been sadly abused.

In the spring of 1905, Migneron declares, he was lured from Montreal by false promises on the part of Brosseau. Brosseau promised to establish him in a good law practice and help him in every way.

He then goes on to state:

"Since June, 1907, the defendant, for the purpose of villainously obtaining Dame Denaulut (Mrs. Migeron) under his nefarious influence and possession, has used all kinds of occult and diabolical means to hurt the plaintiff in his reputation and to lower his character."

CAN PROTECT MELON PATCH.

Judge So Decides in Dismissing Man Accused of Shooting.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—"A man has the right to protect his own property."

Such was the comment with which Judge Hanft of the police court discharged from custody Louis Rothmann, aged 17 years, charged with violating the law prohibiting the discharge of firearms within the city limits.

On the night of Aug. 19, young Rothmann, who had been set by his father to guard the latter's melon patch, near Fort Snelling, noticing what he took to be a crowd of young fellows in the act of robbing the melon patch, emptied the contents of a shotgun into the air. The crowd scattered. A moment later Patrolman John McNierney, who had heard the sound of the gun, ran to the place where young Rothmann stood and placed him under arrest.

The boy's father testified that he had had a great deal of trouble of late with young fellows getting into the melon patch and stealing the fruit. He had warned them away again and again. The boy had done as the father instructed him.

"TALLEST CORN SEASON" ON.

Stalks Sixteen Feet and Three Inches Long, Grown in Iowa.

Webster City, Iowa, Aug. 26.—The "snake story" is now about closed and the "tallest corn" story season is just beginning, at least in Iowa. This city comes forward with what is believed to be the best corn story Iowa will bring forth this season, the stalk of corn being sixteen feet and three inches in length.

This remarkable growth of corn was found on a farm in Fremont township, northwest of Webster City. Its length is 195 inches, and on it are two ears of corn. It would take a gang of corn husking giant to husk a field of this corn. No ordinary man could do it without first cutting down the stalks. Mr. Campbell has a whole field of corn, all of which is nearly as tall as this giant and the method he must use to husk it is giving him serious concern.

BARB WIRE GUARDS MONEY.

Farmer Seals $600 in Baking Powder Can for Shipment.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 26.—Murray G. Haskell, cashier of the Guarantee state bank of Muskogee and a son of Governor Haskell, has received the prize-winning freak deposit. It came from a farmer in Missouri. The farmer took a baking powder can and, lining it with cloth, put $600 in it. He sealed the can, placed in in another can, which he also, sealed and wrapped tightly with barbed wire. This suspicious-looking bundle he turned over to the Wells-Fargo Express company for shipment.

When it was delivered at the bank, Mr. Haskell was confident he was up against an infernal machine, and carefully laid it away in a tub of water to soak.

Yesterday he received a letter from the farmer, telling him what the package was. He rushed to the tub and took the bundle out, expecting the water had ruined the bills. Fortunately the sealed cans had been made waterproof and the money was safe.

STATE PRISON MACHINES

To be Exhibited at the State Fair.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An exhibition of reapers, mowers and binder twine with samples of fibre used in making various kinds of twine at the state prison, will be made at the state fair during the week beginning Aug. 31. These show the operations in manufacture at the prison under direction of the state but do not show the work done under contract in the shoe factory.

The exhibition will be under the management of J. H. Downing, superintendent of the manufacture of farm machinery of the prison. He is busy loading a car with materials for the display and it will be taken to the fair grounds and the exhibit ready for inspection on the opening day.

MINING CONDITIONS

Especially Regarding Great Number of Fatalities, Subject of Meet.

Pittsburg, Aug. 26.—A conference dealing with mining conditions existing in the United States, and the great number of fatalities resulting from mine accidents, is being held here. Victor Watteyne, chief of the Belgian department of mines, is conferring with Clarence Hall of the United States geological survey, and J. W. Paul, chief of the department of mines of West Virginia.

About Sept. 1 Capt. Desborrough of England and Herr Meisner of Germany, both expert mining engineers, will join Mr. Watteyne in the investigation, for which congress has appropriated $150,000.

The abandoned mine at Hanna, Wyo., where seventy miners met death, will also be visited, and about eight weeks will be spent in the investigation in this country.

GOVERNOR IS INVITED.

Aitkin County Fair Expecting Distinguished Visitor.

Aitkin, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson may attend the Aitkin county fair Sept. 18 and 19.

Secretary Warner has invited him and has received a reply from the governor's executive clerk, H. W. Grimmer, that indicates that an appointment may be arranged for him upon his return home this week.

The county fair is going to be a hummer this year and the prizes to be offered will aggregate about $800. No entrance fee will be charged exhibitors and no admission charge will be made at the gate. Every farmer in the county that has something good to show should not hesitate to bring it in. He is not only invited to do so but is urged to help make the fair a success.

"RAFFLES" ADMITS THEFTS.

Prominent Paterson Man Gives Up $6,000 Worth of Stolen Jewels.

New York, Aug. 26.—Giving up more than $6,000 worth of stolen jewels, Harry Hill, brother of Former Congressman George Hill of Paterson, N. J., and grandson of Henry King, a wealthy silk manufacturer of that city, confessed to the police in Paterson that he was a burglar.

Hill, well dressed, prominent in Paterson, known as an all-around good fellow, who has lived like a lord all the twenty-five years of his life, was arrested by New York detectives early Sunday.

Because of the prominence of Hill's family and the desire to keep his arrest quiet until there could be no doubt of his being the right man, nothing was known of the case until yesterday, when he was held in $10,000 bail.

ADVERTISING MEN IN SESSION AT KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—Advertising men, many of them of national reputation, were present by the hundreds here this morning at the opening of the fourth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. The gathering will continue in session throughout Friday and subjects of importance will be discussed by men well known in the newspaper and other advertising lines.

The Smell of New Paint.

To get rid of a bad smell in a room newly painted, place a vessel full of lighted charcoal in the middle of the room and throw in it two or three handfuls of juniper berries. To promote good health try a reliable malt tonic such as golden grain belt beer. Taken regularly at meal time it will aid your digestion, steady your nerves and make rich, red blood. Order of Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company.

Sleeps on Track; Is Killed.

Munroe, Wis., Aug. 26.—Andrew Reichardt, a farmer west of here, was killed by a freight train on the Milwaukee road while asleep along the track.

Chippewa Falls Fire.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 26.—The lumber shed owned by the F. G. & C. A. Stanley company was burned Monday evening about 8:30. An automobile stored in the shed was also destroyed by the fire. The damage will amount to $3,000.

Chase Abandoned.

Livingston, Mont., Aug. 26.—The chase after "Kid" Royal, the outlaw, has been abandoned, after a pursuit by posses for more than 300 miles. The trail of the bandit was lost at Two Dot, where Royal is believed to have crossed into the Snowy mountains.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Many Duluthians, and particularly those among the early settlers, are greatly interested in the Chandler School for Girls at Los Altos, Cal., of which Mrs. Mary Fraser Chandler, who was for many years a resident of Duluth and who was the guest here last summer of Mrs. G. G. Barnum and other friends in the city, will be principal. Her friends here are much interested in the school, which is situated in one of the most charming spots in Santa Clara county, Cal. Mrs. Chandler was registrar of Mills college for seven years.

The grounds cover six acres. Large pepper trees, oaks, wild cherries, fruit trees, vines, flowers and shrubs make the place home-like and attractive, and the fine old trees give a setting for the school that few spots can equal. In these beautiful grounds there will be study nooks, and class work in the fresh air and under the blue skies.

Gardening will be a feature of the school life, and any pupil may begin the cultivation and study of flowers, trees or vegetables.

Sleeping out of doors will be an interesting feature of the school life. Safe and practical arrangements for this have been made on porches opening from the hall and rooms on the second floor, and because of the absence of fog, pupils will be able to sleep out much of the school year.

Informal At Home.

Mrs. Henry J. Kohling was hostess at an informal at-home this afternoon at her residence, 1125 East Second street. The guest of honor was Mrs. Strassburger of Milwaukee, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Wright of the Kohagen flats. The hostess was assisted by her sisters, Mrs. Anthony Fuck and Miss Georgia Evans. Golden glow and sweet peas were the decorations used throughout the rooms, and twenty guests were entertained.

To Present Play.

The final meeting of the season of the Dramatic Literature class will be held Friday evening, Sept. 4, at the home of Leo L. Schmied of 2218 East First street. A play will be presented for which the members have been preparing during the summer and the evening promises to be a delightful one.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Charlotte Davis and William Forsythe of Grand Marais took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother on Duluth Heights. Only a few relatives were present for the ceremony. The service was read by Rev. J. L. Murphy of St. John's English Lutheran church. Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe left for a wedding trip to Port Arthur and will later return to Duluth, where they will be at home.

Engagement.

Mrs. C. C. Kreidler has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Delia L. Kreidler to Merrill H. Seaman of this city. The wedding will take place in September.

Theater Party.

Mrs. Edward D. Devaney and Mrs. Charles B. Nunan will entertain at a theater party tomorrow afternoon at the Lyceum in honor of a number of friends at the benefit performance for St. James orphanage.

Old Time Dance.

An innovation will be introduced at the party to be held at Joyland pavilion Friday night, when an old-time barn dance will be given in a real old-fashioned way. The ladies attending will be attired in gingham aprons or calico dresses and sunbonnets and the men in overalls, linen dusters and straw hats or anything to represent the real or stage countryman. The hall will be lighted with barn lanterns and many country barn decorations. Every third dance will be a barn dance and old-fashioned music will be played. The old-time Virginia reel will be part of the program.

Aid Society.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. C. L. Rakowsky of 213 West Fifth street.

Informal Afternoon.

Mrs. W. W. Walker of 1621 East First street entertained informally this afternoon in honor of Mrs. George C. Howe.

What Retail Markets Offer.

Purple cabbage, 4 cents a lb.
Sickle pears, 80 cents a peck.
Pickling cucumbers, 80 cents a peck.
Head lettuce, 8 and 10 cents a head.
Parsnips, 8 cents a bunch.
Frogs' legs, 20 cents a dozen.
Smoked whitefish, 15 cents a lb.
Lake Superior trout.
Lake Superior whitefish.

Purple cabbage, from which is made pickles of a kind, or some German dishes of good taste, is in the market. The necessary ingredients for many kinds of pickle are to be had, and the housewife at most any time of the day is surcharged with an appetizing odor of spiced vinegar that is very delicious smelling. Pickling cucumbers are to be had, and the kinds of spice which are grown in the garden are tied up in clusters in the market window.

Very grand Malaga grapes are a nice feature of the market, and they cost only 50 cents for a square basket. The Concord grapes are getting better, and there are more of them.

the EVENING STORY

NANA'S DEVIL MUSIC

By Nora Linder.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

After three months on board the recruiting ship, now lying at anchor in the little West Indian harbor, Lieut. Gray sat on the white veranda of the American club, greeting old friends and making new ones.

Suddenly a burst of music, ravishingly sweet, sense-absorbing, thrilled the heavy air. It came from a thicket of young palms, near the beach.

Gray raised his head and looked inquiringly at his companions.

"Better sit still, old man," said young Graham, a note of real warning in his tones. "Don't start hunting for trouble."

"I was only trying to locate the music," said Gray, his eyes still on the swaying palms.

"Same thing. The musician's a woman."

"'Tis Nana, senor," said the white-clad, soft-voiced creole, passing with a tray of glasses; but pausing long enough to cross himself, at mention of the name.

"Who the deuce is Nana? Great Scott! Who ever heard such music?" Tossing away his cigar, he walked over to the railing and stood looking off toward the heaving sea. "Who or what is she?"

Graham came over and laid his hand on Gray's shoulder. They had played together as boys; fought over marbles and birds' nests, and joined forces against all outsiders. The friendship had been cemented by separation and the passing years. And now, on the ragged edge of civilization, they stood together, facing a new danger; but only one was threatened; the other was standing guard.

"Jimmie, you remember little Stokes? Came down here with the sugar people, you know." The music among the palms had sunk to a low wailing, like the sobs of unborn babes crying out against fate, and the cruelty of the life to come. It breathed of the slow, soft patter of midnight rain on forgotten graves; the moaning of breaking hearts, and an indifferent nod was Gray's only answer.

"Young Ferguson, too, Scrappy Ferguson, pulled with the Yale our last year; and Billy Davidson, of our own class. Well, that devil music has sent two of them across the divide and Billy to the madhouse. Now, Jim, don't be a fool—and follow them."

"So the fair lady's been raising sand; must be a beauty as well as a genius."

"A she-devil—"

"Lots of the same sort up home, Graham. Don't be too hard on the lady. Some men are born to make fools of themselves. But I am surprised at Billy."

"—homely as sin, and just about as dangerous," ignoring the interruption. "As soon as she sees a ship in the harbor she takes to haunting that thicket, with her snake and flute."

"A snake! That settles it. She's worth meeting. I think I'll go down and investigate."

"Jim, for heaven's sake! listen to common sense." Ashley Graham's lips were white. "The other boys began the same way. What spell she weaves I can't say, but—it holds its victims."

"You've been listening to ghost stories," cried Gray, with a ringing boyish laugh. "Just listen to that music, and stop croaking." With a wave of his hand to the astonished group on the veranda, Jimmie Gray ran lightly down the steps, and made straight for the thicket.

The wild, thrilling notes of the flute rose and fell; now high, now low, but always jubilant, triumphant, caressing.

Day after day found Gray haunting the thicket, worn and haggard, but Nana's flute always roused him. It was like wine to his brain. He avoided Graham, but one morning his friend found him asleep on the beach near the thicket, his face ghastly.

"Jimmie, the Regent sails for New York at noon; I am going to send you home," the voice was firm, but full of love and fear.

Gray sprang to his feet like a hunted animal at the sound of Graham's voice.

"Go home? Not me, Ash. I'm going to Rio first."

"You are going home, Jim. Stewart is going with you. This thing's gone far enough.

"You fellows seem mightily interested in my affairs," stormed Gray. I'm no kid to be bossed by you fellows; and the quicker you realize it the better."

"Stop, Jim Gray! I know where you are drifting, if you don't. I have tried to save three of your predecessors. If it wasn't for your mother and Clare, I wouldn't give a hang where you went, since you are so bull-headed."

"Then mind your own business." A rippling cascade of sweet, tender notes came from the young palm grove, and Gray's face twitched as from physical pain.

Looking at him, Graham's anger and impatience vanished. His heart sank. He was so near the shoal. Was he strong enough to stand the final struggle? The years slipped away, and they were boys again—and chums. Going up to the slouching figure, Graham threw his arm over Gray's shoulder in the old boyish way.

"Jimmie, I remember one night when I followed Ferguson for hours, but he gave me the slip at last; hours later I found him just here—with a bullet through his brain. Come up to the club, Jim, and let's get a cup of coffee." He had made a last effort; staked all on a single throw—and lost.

"What do I care for your tales of horror? If you don't mind your own business—or at least, leave me to mind mine, I'll put a bullet through your brain, if you have one, you impudent meddler." Shaking off the restraining arm, he turned to join a swarthy, blazing-eyed girl, with a flute in her hands—Nana, the devil of the island.

"I've done my best, Clare. When you turned me down for Jim Gray, I thought you had chosen the better man. But did you, dear?" Graham walked slowly towards the club. Suddenly his face brightened. "I'll try it, anyway. It's a rav of hope, and can't make matters worse than they are."

Soon a cry for help was on its way to Miss Clara Sibley, far away amid the green New England mountains.

Days passed under burning sun and silver moon. Gray could be seen roaming the country with Nana, the stalwart figure stooped and slouching; the pale, haggard face lit by burning eyes that seemed to be gazing into the flames of hell. And with them always went Nana's one companion, a scaly water snake; as loathsome as poisonous. Captain, brother officers, friends and natives had tried to break the spell; but with each successive day it grew stronger, strangling reason; sapping life. The third week was drawing to a close, and Ashley Graham, worn from watching, weary from anxiety, paced the shining sands, hoping for sight of a sail.

From amid the tender green of the young palms came a soft, wailing cry, full of throaty notes; tender and compelling. On the club veranda sat Graham, a revolver in his hand, and desperate determination stamped on his face. In a hammock beside him lay Jimmie Gray—sleeping; utterly prostrated. Nana's call kept him restless, but Graham had kept him prisoner since sunrise; and he swore, that come what might, he should not escape, if he had to do violence.

"I'll shoot that nigger if I can't keep her off any other way," muttered Graham, fingering the revolver and glancing at the haggard face in the hammock, with its hollow, circled eyes and twitching mouth. "I'll shoot her, if I hang for it. She's caused enough trouble.

The wailing notes still trembled on the heavy air; sweeter, richer than Graham had ever heard them.

"Confound that music. I'd love to get close to it, though, and see what that fiend looks like while playing," and ere he was aware of his actions he had started down the steps. "Ashley Graham, you blamed idiot! What are you about? You've kept away from that devil for a good many years, and you had better keep it up." Resuming his seat by the hammock. "That's the first time I ever had the slightest desire to see Nana—and God knows, I hope it's the last." Beads of perspiration stood on his forehead and his hands trembled.

Looking off to the north, Graham sprang to his feet, then sank to the floor and crouched there with his eyes fixed on a thin, blue line of smoke. Slowly from over the rim of the shining sea a ship sailed straight for the little harbor—and Ashley Graham knew his vigil was almost over.

Nana's flute had never ceased its tender calling. Now high, now low, it came clear, tender, compelling; and her victim heard the call, again and again, even through the sleep of exhaustion. Heard and would have answered, but for the white-faced, desperate man crouched beside him. The calls grew louder, more imperative; and through the sweetness ran a sinister note, a hint of savage cruelty.

Gray was growing more restless every moment, and in spite of his determination Graham doubted his ability to hold him much longer.

Suddenly the music ceased. How it happened, Ashley Graham never knew, as he stood over Gray holding him down, a voice, tender as a mother's, true as only a woman's can be, came to him from the door.

"Ashley! Ashley! What is it?" and Clare bent over the hammock with a look in her eyes he would have given his life to win.

Stepping back, he stood frozen with horror. Coiled, with its gaping jaws ready to send the poisonous fangs into Gray's hand, Nana's snake swayed to and fro. A moment, and Graham sent the ball prepared for the mistress through the head of the reptile. A shriek from the thicket; a fall on the veranda, and Nana lay dead and Ashley Graham in a faint—but Jimmie Gray was safe.

HEAVY RAINS IN SOUTH CAROLINA ARE OVER.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 25.—Apparently the heavy rains of yesterday and last night which washed out bridges in South Carolina, caused some loss of life, damaging crops, and were the source of a great deal of alarm, have ceased their destructive work. Today reports from Spartanberg and Camden, S. C., and other places where last night the situation seemed to be serious, show that apparently all danger of further trouble has passed. At Camden the situation is critical, and two lives were reported lost there. The rain was the heaviest in years throughout South Carolina.

EDDY WITNESSED MURDER.

Missing Man Saw Killing and This Adds to Mystery.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 26.—While considering the various theories as to the cause of his disappearance, it is developed that Ralph W. Eddy, the Wooster, Ohio, banking man who disappeared here, was a witness to a murder in New York city last winter, just before Christmas, and related his experience on that occasion to his Ohio friends. While returning from a business tour through the city, and walking in the vicinity of the Alberene Stone company's place in New York city, Eddy saw two men attack an old man. The latter fell, and when the police arrived, was dead. Eddy meantime had kept an eye on the slayers of the man, and pointed them out to the police, giving his own name and address. It is said the men were indicted and awaiting trial in New York, although Eddy was never called upon to testify.

N. B. Everson of Wooster, life-long friend of Eddy, confirms the above statement, although he would not venture any opinion as to whether this incident might have any connection with Eddy's mysterious disappearance here on Aug. 15.

AFTER ELECTIONS.

More Promises by the Party of Unfulfilled Promises.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Taft says he will call a special session of congress immediately after the 4th of March to "correct the inequalities" of the tariff. The Fifty-ninth congress has just adjourned without touching the tariff. If the same gang are returned to the Sixtieth congress, and they "organize the house as they will if returned, it will be a case of the "friends of the tariff" reforming it, or "correcting its inequalities." Now the campaign funds for the election of protective tariff members must come from the tariff beneficiaries, whose contributions to the Republican campaign fund will be published "after election." Now, here are two after election promises that could both have been performed before election. Now, why take empty promises when the power to fulfill has been for years lodged with these making the promises? Republicans gave the people the McKinley bill and the 1893 panic under it. The Republicans gave the people the Dingley bill with the past years' experience under it.

"Sound money," "protection" and "prosperity." "sound money and protection" we have, but the crop of prosperity seems to have gotten frost-bitten or mildewed, or is the truth, as Bryan says, that the masses under Republican policies are to be content with the crumbs that fall from the rich man's table—the prosperity that leaks through from above? Is it possible that Americans will take empty promises when already they have empty dinner pails, ready to take empty promises with factory closed? Four years and eight years ago you were told to "let well enough alone;" you were told to "stand pat." You did. What now? A promise to "fix things" in the future if you will help them out this "one time" more.

Lincoln said: "You could fool all the people part of the time, part of the people all the time, but not all the people all the time." Must the laboring man, the real producer of all good things in this world, look to the special interests, corporations, trusts and Wall street for his share of production? Must the dollar be considered first and the man last? If the banker is asked to give the "poor widow," the "orphan" or the laboring man security for their bank deposits—hard-earned and carefully saved dollars—they are told that they do not properly understand finance. "Throw in your money and we give you a promise." For sixteen years Bryan at all time has fought the special interests. For all that time he has never doubted the "people." He has faith in them. Mr. Bryan makes no great promise; Mr. Johnson makes no great promises. They have faith in the people, and the people have faith in them, each towers above his political opponent like a mountain above a mole hill, and the people can have them "after election," instead of unfulfilled promises.

AKELEY ENJOYED OPERA.

"The Mikado," by Home Talent, Was Successfully Rendered.

Akeley, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most unique and successful musical affairs ever given in Akeley was presented recently at the Grand opera house under the auspices of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal church for the building fund. "The Mikado," Gilbert & Sullivan's comic opera was played by prominent professional and business men and society women of Akeley, under the general management of R. F. Pray. So intricate was the music and the various parts that it took several weeks of training of the several difficult parts before its final appearance before the public. The house was crowded and the whole affair voted a magnificent success, both from the musical and the splendid costume effects, Miss Maud Welder was the pianist. The whole performance went off without a hitch and helped to put a nice sum in the treasurer's hands for the new building.

NEWBERRY SHIPPING CELERY

Much of the Vegetable Being Sent Out at Present.

Newberry, Mich., July 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Opening several weeks ago, the celery shipping season here is now at its height. Hundreds of boxes are being sent out daily, consigned principally to points in Upper Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois. The crop is the largest yet grown in the Upper Peninsula's only celery center, and it is of exceptionally fine quality. The celery industry at Newberry is limited to two gardens at present. These are extensive, however, one grower having put in 350,000 plants this season, and the industry is gradually taking on bigger proportions. There are hundreds of acres suitable to the cultivation of the delectable plant and that eventually will be devoted to it.

RAINS QUENCHED FIRES.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is no question that timely and heavy rains have saved much valuable timber from destruction by forest fires. Extensive fires have been reported the past two weeks in Marquette, Delta and Alger counties, and while some of valuable wooded lands have been attacked and hunting camps have been burned, the flames have for the most part confined their havoc to jack pine plains and slashings.

The Tariff and Trusts.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Ex-Governor Douglas of Massachusetts has this to say about the high tariff wall: "If we prohibit foreign competition, we invite the competitors in any industry inside that wall to get together to sustain prices and bleed the penned up consumers. We should not be surprised that we have too many trusts and that they put prices up so high. It is not surprising that we have graft and corruption in public and private life. It would be strange if our present tariff system did not result in trusts and graft. It is equivalent to a license to form combinations and trusts to graft of the public. Trust busting that leaves the trusts entrenched as strongly as ever and permits constant increase in the cost of living is an utter and absolute failure."

This whole trust busting as conducted at Washington is farcical. The real remedy lies in the removal of the duties that shelter and protect the trusts. All other grafts combined do not equal the annual graft of the tariff, the continuous robbery of the people under the cover of a protective law which permits the taking unnecessarily of an average of not less than $50 a year a family from their pockets and turns the proceeds over to trusts. Every article of food, clothing and shelter is tariff fixed. If any article is not taxed directly, it is indirectly. It is shipped over tariff-taxed railroads or stored in tariff-taxed buildings.

OLD CLOTHES BRING JOY

Salvation Army Supply Store Stocked by House Cleaners.

Work is Now in Charge of Capt. John Haynes.

The days of spring and fall house cleaning bring joy into the hearts of the Salvation Army workers at their supply store at 913 West Michigan street, for it means, that their diminished stock of old clothing, shoes, furniture, etc., will be replenished from the attic storerooms of the good housewife.

The summer season is one of much going out and little coming in at the Army's supply store. Adj. Peter James, who has been in charge of the store for two years, explained this by saying: "In the summer it is too hot for the ladies to go into their attics to sort out the old laid aside clothing. But in the spring and fall when they house clean, then are our harvest times, and we fill our shelves to overflowing. Our store looks bare now at the close of the season."

Very seldom is there an article for sale in the Army's store for more than $2. The needy can buy clothing and furniture there for from 5 cents to $2. A suit of clothes, repaired and in good shape, once worn by a well dressed man, sells for $1.50. But the bargains are only for those who are in need. Often clothing is given away, when the officers feel that charity is justified.

Last week closed a rummage sale that has been going on at the store. It was a general cleaning up in readiness for the expected fresh stock of old goods gleaned from fall house cleaning days. Last week also ended the superintendency at the store of Adj. Peter James, who after a short vacation at his home in Calumet, expects to return to Duluth to take up gospel work. He is succeeded by Capt. John Haynes and wife, who arrived to take charge of the Duluth store, from Escanaba, last Friday.

In figuring up his sales so far this month, until Aug. 25, Adj. James found that he had sold 579 pieces of clothing and furniture. For the month of July, he disposed of 724 pieces. The proceeds for the week amounted to $55, and after paying up all back debts, amounting to $44.74, there remained a profit of $10.26, which will be applied to some less profitable week.

The cost of running the place consists of two salaries, one of $10 a week for the man in charge, and the other $6 a week, for the driver, who delivers the goods that are sold at the store, and collects from donators. There is also the rent of the building, feed for the horse, electric light and telephone bills. These are barely paid for out of the store's earning. If there should be a surplus, it is contributed to other more needy branches of the Army's work.

IOWA REPUBLICANS TO PATCH UP STRIFE.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 26.—Nearly a thousand Republicans were in conference here yesterday in an effort to allay the factional strife which has torn the party during the past few years, and which was believed by many to menace the success of the Republican ticket in this state. The feature of the occasion was Governor Cummins' announcement that he had decided to call a special session of the legislature to dispose of the senatorial matter. This special session will be asked to amend the state primary law, to permit the Republican voters to select the senatorial succession at the regular election in November, instead of leaving it to the legislative caucus.

ELLIS MAY SUCCEED PURDY AS ATTORNEY.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 26.—While the announcement cannot be definitely made, Mr. Taft yesterday gave it as his belief that Wade H. Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, will accept the position of assistant to the attorney general, to succeed M. D. Purdy, who has been promoted to a federal judgeship in Minnesota. This opinion was expressed after a conference between Mr. Ellis and Mr. Taft here yesterday. Mr. Ellis preferred not to make a statement at this time. He came here after a conference with Attorney General Bonaparte, at Lenox, Mass., and said that he had entirely recovered his health. He was offered the position shortly after the Chicago convention, and it was stated at that time that his decision in the matter would rest largely on the condition of his health.

THE PLIGHT OF CANNON

Is Have a Withering Effect on Congressional Booms.

Some of the Big House Leaders Marked for Defeat.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The Cannon blight is playing havoc with a large part of the crop of Republican candidates for re-election to the Sixty-first congress. Although symptoms of the devastating taint are found in all parts of the country, they are especially marked in the Middle Western states, where radicalism is popular, and as a consequence some of the big house leaders, who have been prominently identified with the Cannon "machine, are marked for defeat.

The anti-Cannon movement is one of the remarkable political developments of the day. And it can all be traced to Theodore Roosevelt. He stamped the word reactionary on the broad brow of the thoughty speaker during the days when the latter was fighting tooth and nail to beat the clean meat law, the pure food law and other reform measures. The president took pains to let newspaper correspondents, magazine writers and other publicity agents know just what influence he thought Cannon was exerting to stifle progressive legislation. There was no doubt at the White House about where Cannon stood on the president's various radical bills.

Soon the report was sent abroad that the man with the gavel at the other end of Pennsylvania avenue was blocking the president's plans for the uplift of the plain people; that Cannon was holding in check the big stick that would pound the wicked trusts into submission, and that generally the speaker was acting like the paid man of a powerful corporation. It is astonishing to learn how widely this idea has percolated through the country. The president's work has been well done, for there are mighty few voters who have not read the label on the speaker's forehead placed there by the man in the White House.

Now there is a small sized army of disappointed lobbyists and agitators on the trail of Speaker Cannon and the latter's faithful followers. Press dispatches from different parts of the country tell of the troubles this man and that man are having in getting a renomination. The labor leaders are out solidly against Cannon, because he killed the eight-hour law, smothered to death all the anti-injunction bills and otherwise turned down the legislative demands of Mr. Gompers. The newspaper publishers in many parts of the country are telling how good Cannon has been to the paper trust by his refusal to pass the bill to repeal the duty on wood pulp.

The temperance agitators want Cannon's scalp, because he juggled with their bills to restrict the liquor traffic, finally sending them to his well trained judiciary committee, which promptly declared the bills to be unconstitutional. Then there are a lot of other reformers and leaders in such movements as the further regulation of railroads, to wipe out the bucket shops, to broaden the forest reserve policy and like matters, all of whom are banded together to "do" the speaker and his floor lieutenants.

Two years ago the labor leaders badly scared Cannon by making a most formidable campaign against him for re-election. The speaker called in his ablest friends to orate in his behalf, and on election day won out by a reduced plurality. Doubtless, he will get through all right in November, but anything like a big Republican slump will wipe out "Uncle Joe."

Cannon, if elected again, will, in all probability, succeed himself as speaker of the Sixty-first congress. It will be surprising, though, if a stubborn fight is not made against him. It will naturally be a difficult thing to overturn the power of the great machine the speaker has at his command, but such things have happened in the past and may be repeated.

The extent of the feeling against old "Uncle Joe" in certain sections may be appreciated when it is stated that pledges are being exacted from candidates for re-election that they will not support Cannon for speaker again. "Down with Speaker Cannon" is the cry all through Kansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin and those other states where the ultra-Roosevelt-La Follette spirit prevails.

The speaker's unpopularity is threatening with political extinction some of his stanchest supporters. "Too much Cannon" is a mighty dangerous complaint these days. The roughest thing the Democratic spellbinders can say about "Jim" Sherman, who wants Mr. Fairbanks' job, is that for years Sherman has been a member of that iniquitous institution which carries out the autocratic speaker's mandates—the committee on rules. When the czar of the house decides to put through in twenty-six minutes a $20,000,000 bill or a new Federal code, he tells one of the members of the committee on rules to break the news to the minority.

"Jim" Tawney, chairman of the committee on appropriations and the speaker's right-hand man, is having a tough time trying to convince the people up in Minnesota that he ought to be sent back to congress for another two years. The indictment against Tawney is that he has been sleeping too close to the reactionary Mr. Cannon. This has so prejudiced the Republicans in Tawney's district that they seem inclined to let him give up the important work of holding the Federal purse strings.

Another "Jim"—"Jim" Watson—is suffering from the Cannon blight. Watson is the Republican candidate for governor of Indiana, after having been Cannon's faithful messenger boy for twelve years in the house. The folks out there are just beginning to learn, in fact, how very close were the relations between the two.

"He's one of the fellows who tried to kill the president's trust bills down at Washington," is what the Democratic orators of Wisconsin are saying about John J. Jenkins, Republican representative from the Eleventh district of that state. Jenkins is the chairman of the house committee on judiciary, more generally known as the morgue. It got this name from the wonderful facility developed by Mr. Jenkins in killing and burrying out of sight any bill sent to him without Cannon's O. K. Many a measure designed to strike the hand of the greedy trusts from the throat of the "pee-pul" has found a peaceful resting place in Jenkins' committee, and now the voters up in Wisconsin are trying to decide whether they shall keep Jenkins at home.

J. Adam Bede is one of the funniest men in the house. Adam tells so many good stories that plenty of organizations about the country are willing to pay him money to perform. Cannon likes him, and the two are much together. One day a few weeks ago somebody in Adam's district, the Eighth Minnesota, remarked in public: "Yes, it's true that Adam is a funny story teller. But it strikes me that he has been sticking mighty close to this Cannon person, and besides, what has Adam done for our district?"

Since this question was asked Bede has been running around making more explanatory speeches (without pay) than he ever made during the busiest days of the Chatauqua period.

They take the anti-Cannon crusade seriously out in Nebraska. Representative Hinshaw of the Fourth district and Representative Ernest M. Pollard, of the First district, are learning to their sorrow that being a faithful member of the house machine has its disadvantages. Both are talking night and day to prove that they believe in everything advocated by the Big Stick, in spite of their loyalty to the speaker. The voters seem to be doubtful, and are thinking it over, while two youngsters are hot after the seats of Messrs. Hinshaw and Pollard.

On the other hand, see what has happened to Representative George W. Norris, of an adjoining district, just because he had the nerve to get up and tell the speaker in public that he was a cruel tyrant. Norris put in a resolution one day, proposing to dehorn the speaker and draft a set of rules that would make it possible for the ordinary member to get the speaker's eye once in a while. Norris never caught "Uncle Joe's" optic after that, but the people of his district have unanimously renominated him for another term, which will help some.

Representative Sidney Murdock of Kansas, wrote a fine piece for one of the monthly magazines a short time since on the uselessness of being a lawmaker when your influence is exhausted with the drafting and introduction of bills. Now his folks want to promote him to the senate so that he can have the chair of the half-Indian, Senator Charley Curtis, who is suspected of being tainted with reactionairsm.

Mr. Stafford of the Milwaukee district helped Cannon to kill off the free wood pulp agitators, and now it is a toss up whether Stafford will come back or whether his place will be taken by a famous football player named Cochems. Chairman Smith of the house committee on District of Columbia is charged with being a prominent factor in the Cannon machine, and it is hurting him. There are a lot of others.

From all of this it would seem that last year's chockens are coming home to roost. The Democrats are alive to the situation. Chairman Lloyd of the Democratic congressional campaign committee says that one of the chief topics of his spellbinders this fall will be the Republican house opposition to the Roosevelt policies. The president's burning words in his various messages demanding the legislation which the reactionary forces withheld, will be reproduced, with the names of the men responsible for non-action, so that everybody that runs may read.

MUST RIDE OR RETIRE

Col. Stewart Ordered to Undergo the Latest Army Test.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Orders were issued by the war department yesterday directing Col. William F. Stewart of the coast artillery, who several months ago was sent to the abandoned military post of Fort Grant, Ariz., on account of "temperance incapacity," to proceed to Fort Huachuca, Ariz., to take the riding test prescribed for field officers. At the conclusion of the test he is directed to return to Fort Grant. Col. Stewart was asked to retire last year and refused. As a result he was sent to Fort Grant "without command," his only associates being two caretakers. Fort Grant is twenty-six miles from the nearest railroad. Fort Huachuca is about 100 miles from Fort Grant on the Mexican border. Col. Stewart has the option of riding on horseback thirty miles a day or of walking fifty miles in the same period. If the medical board before which he will undergo the test should report him physically incapable, he will then be ordered before a retiring board. It will be recalled that the case of Col. Stewart caused a good deal of comment in the senate last winter, when an effort was made to secure for him a board of inquiry. The resolution was not reached by the military affairs committee, notwithstanding the insistance of Senator Rayner of Maryland and some of his colleagues.

FORMER PASTOR ENDS LIFE.

Rev. Albert H. Trick Leaves Letter Criticising the Church.

New York, Aug. 26.—Ill, half blind, criticising the church on the score of untruthfulness and insincerity, and declaring that he could not worship "America's trinity—success, pleasure and gold"—Rev. Albert H. Trick shot and killed himself in a room in Mills hotel yesterday. He was once pastor of a Presbyterian church in Chicago, and later had a charge at Saratoga, N. Y., but had no regular pastorate for several years, obtaining an insecure livelihood as an insurance agent.

In a remarkable letter, which he left to Charles N. Dowd of this city, who had befriended him, the former pastor declared that he was lonely even in the church when he attempted to "square his soul by the teachings of Jesus," and asserted that the modern church more nearly follows the example of Robert Ingersoll than those of Jesus.

PLANS BEING FORMULATED FOR LEASING ELEVATORS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 26.—Plans for leasing the ninety Minnesota and North Dakota elevators of the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company, a subsidiary company of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills company, are being formulated in the federal court.

C. M. Amsden and Henry F. Douglas, receivers, appeared before Judge C. F. Amidon for North Dakota and Judge Milton D. Purdy for Minnesota, with a petition for allowing the receivers to lease the elevators in order to continue the operation of the same.

Having been unsuccessful in obtaining $1,500,000 from the banks, which amount the receivers claim is necessary to run the elevators for the next thirty days, the plan for leasing the elevators was proposed.

RESINOL SOAP

Will do more for your complexion than any amount of cold cream and "beauty-preparations." The reason is that RESINOL SOAP is at once a Skin-Cleanser, Healer and Nutrient. It first thoroughly removes all dirt and foreign matter, then antiseptically heals every little cut and abrasion, and finally feeds and nourishes the skin as nothing else can. This is largely owing to the fact that instead of containing harmful alkalies—as many toilet soaps do—it is medicated with "RESINOL," the great skin-specific. Add to this the refreshing and comforting effects of the pure vegetable oils used, and you can understand why it is—as thousands have testified—that the best aid to a good complexion is

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

DEER LIKE THE TOWNS

Best Hunting is Found Near the City Limits.

Cruiser Says Animals Are Seldom in Moose Country.

"It seems rather odd, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that the best deer hunting in Northern Minnesota is within ten or fifteen miles of the limits of cities, towns and villages in this section of the state," said S. T. Austin of Bemidji, a timber cruiser in the employ of the Crookston Lumber company, who passed through Duluth yesterday on his way home.

"The farther one gets from civilization, the better moose hunting he finds, and the fewer deer. In what I consider the best moose districts of the state there are no deer at all. In some sections where there were none of these animals five or six years ago, the hunting is now good. The deer seem to have gone in with the settlers. I don't know how to explain this, unless by saying that the deer are attracted by the gardens of the settlers. There is nothing dearer to a deer's heart than a turnip patch, and he will travel miles, and take all kinds of risks, to get into one. I know men who make it a practice every spring to plant turnips out in the woods, or somewhere in a burning, so they may hunt deer there in the fall. All they have to do is to watch along about dusk, and the animals come in to be fed.

"I have been over practically all the timbered regions of the state pretty thoroughly, and find it to be almost a universal rule that where the moose hunting is best the deer are fewest. Moose are seldom found anywhere near a town, unless it is the tiniest of backwoods villages. But get in near the boundaries of civilization, and you find venison in plenty, while the moose are almost an unknown quantity.

"Despite the vigilance of the game wardens, a good deal of big game is killed out of season. I find proof of this right along. The Northern Minnesota territory is so big, and the region is so wild, that wardens cannot thoroughly cover the ground. Settlers are supposed to have a right to what meat they need, but the big trouble comes with men from the city, either camping or taking canoe trips.

"When in a game country it seems as if they cannot resist the temptation to pot deer and moose, and they shoot animal after animal and take nothing but a few steaks from each one, leaving the carcass to the wolves. That is not right. The practice is becoming more common every year, though, as the number of campers and pleasure seekers increase. In twenty-five years from now, or even less, it will be difficult to realize what a hunters' paradise Northern Minnesota once was."

Phillies Win in the Tenth.

Cincinnati, Aug. 26.—Poor base-running handicapped both teams in yesterday's game, which was won in the tenth inning by the Philadelphians on two hits and an error, netting two runs. Gleason of the visitors was indefinitely suspended yesterday by President Pulliam for using unbecoming language in Sunday's game. Score:

Chisholm Wins From Hartley.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local ball team defeated the Hartley team by a score of 6 to 2 in an exciting game. A feature of the game was a home run by Rupp of the locals with a man on base. Both teams played good ball, but were ineffective with the stick at critical times, while pitcher Vogts of the local team was invincible in pinches. Score: R. H.

BOSTON TWIRLER HAS NEW CURVE

"Cy" Morgan Discovers Freak Bender Which Beats Spit Ball.

Boston, Aug. 26.—"Cy" Morgan, the redsox pitcher, has discovered a freak bender which it is expected will in time supplant the famous spit ball. Morgan's new ball is called the "follow ball," and from all reports it has all other curves beaten to a frazzle.

Morgan has controlled the ball so well that he now has two curves working from practically the same delivery, and while more benders might be discovered, the Boston pitcher will devote his time in perfecting what he has on hand. His first discovery was the "follow ball," which dropped. The ball is held like a straight drop, which goes off the end of the fingers, but in the delivery the pitcher, with a side-arm motion, snaps the second finger as in the manner of throwing an in curve. The ball twirls around like a floater, but carries with considerably more speed, and when it reaches the plate it takes a tremendous drop.

Morgan's second "follow ball" discovery is even more mystifying than the drop ball. This ball is of the in-drop variety and has a two-foot break at the plate. The only time Morgan used the ball in a game was on Detroit's last visit here. With the bases full and Crawford and Cobb coming up, Morgan faced a situation that would have sent most twirlers on an aerial flight. But he struck out both men with the new curve.

GLEANS in the SPORTING FOG.

Frank Gotch, champion wrestler of the world, is a real actor man now. Yes, Frank started in at Jackson, Mich., Monday night on a vaudeville circuit. Of course he has been on the stage before, but not where he was the whole thing, you'll understand. There were always lots of girls, who wore pink tights, and sang catchy songs to the strains of catchy airs piped up from the orchestra below.

But all this has been left behind now, and Frank comes out and makes one of those horrible stage hisses, and says "Ah, Ha, he's here." Then there's nothing to it. The other fellow was picked out to resemble Hack, and of course Gotch throws him, and the gallery whistles and the more reserved down in front applaud.

He will play the Eastern circuit the first part of the year, and after that he will travel west.

Joe Gans is training hard in San Francisco for his bout with Battling Nelson Sept. 9. He is not taking any chances this time and is working hard to be at his best. A great number of people come to watch him work out each day. All doubts as to his being weak, all in, or in bad physical condition have been set aside, and those who have watched him work out say his speed is the same, his cleverness unchanged, and that he hits with a force as terrific as ever. The colored boy still has many admirers who believe he is the beter man and who will stake their money on him.

BADGER FOOTBALL OUTLOOK IS DARK

Conditions Will Keep Sixteen Candidates From Making the Team.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 26.—On the heels of the return of Coaches Hutchins and Ten Eyck from the East has come a more than healthy rumor that no less than sixteen prospective candidates for the Wisconsin football team, including many of the most likely players, will not be allowed to join in the early practice this fall because of conditions. The rumor emanates from the vicinity of Assistant Coach Barry, but the names of the unfortunates cannot be learned at this time. Barry is said by several resident students to have admitted the truth of the rumor in private, but he will not talk for publication.

If it is true that so many candidates are "conned," prospects for a winning football team this fall are even darker than they were when it became evident that a coterie of professors on the faculty are determined to limit the activities of the university in an athletic way to more gentle sports. Locally, the interest in the football team is waning rapidly, and while the development of one or two stars, like "Keckie" Moll, may arouse temporary and individual interest, it will take nothing less than recrudescence of the old-time sentiment to give the team the support that it needs.

Contrary to reports, "Keckie" Moll, the last year freshman who has been heralded as a second Eckersall, has recovered from his illness and expects to participate in practice this fall. Moll is a Madison boy and is easily the most promising youngster that has ever entered university athletics, and if it should be decided to build a team around him, and he is strong enough to hold the place, the cardinal may yet be heard from.

WILL NOT BE BARRED.

Joe Ziehr Will Wrestle at the Marquette County Fair.

Marquete, Mich., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reports to the effect that Joe Ziehr of Calumet will be barred from the Cornish wrestling tournament, which is to be a feature of the Marquette county fair next month are unfounded. The bouts will be open to all comers. This decision in all probability means that Ziehr will get first money. He is the classiest Cornish wrestler in Upper Michigan, if not in the whole country, and because of this it is usually the custom to shut him out in order that home exponents of the game of the jackets may have a chance at the principal prize. However, all who come will be permitted to enter the Marquette tournament. It is hoped that Former Champion John Rowett of Bessemer, who has been out of the game since he injured a leg a few years ago, will be here to contest with Ziehr, but whether either he or the veteran Jack Carkeek, who still lays claim to the world's championship, will be found in the ring is as still problematical. Neither of the men has been definitely heard from.

SALE OF PLAYERS IS HANGING FIRE

Thorsen and Koepping May Not Go to Sioux City.

The management of the Duluth ball team will not fare so badly after all, if the sale of Pitcher Thorsen and Shortstop Koepping goes through. It is now certain that these two men will not play with Sioux City this year, but it is possible that the management of the Iowa team will want them in next year's lineup. If the price agreed upon is paid it will bring the losses of the Duluth team down to $350.

Unless the purchase money is forthcoming within a few days Manager Knehnow will open negotiations with other clubs for the sale of the two men.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Duluth team to be called within a few days, officers for the coming year will be elected, and business for the season of 1908 will be formally wound up. A number of men have been suggested for manager next year, among them Dr. J. A. McCuen, who is being boosted from every side.

Mr. Kuehnow said yesterday that Dr. McCuen would be a good man for the place. "He is a fine fellow, knows a likely youngster when he sees him, and I have no doubt he would be well liked by the fans," he said.

The scattering of players began yesterday. Catcher Pratt left for his home in Peoria, Ill., where he will spend the winter. "Toot" Thompson has joined the Menasha team. Shortstop Koepping left for Chicago this morning, and Dick Thorsen left for Minneapolis for a visit of several months. "Darby" O'Brien, captain of the White Sox, will take charge of the Colleraine team.

RACING MATINEE SATURDAY.

Duluth and Superior Horses Included in Good Program.

A good racing card has been arranged for next Saturday afternoon at the Driving park by the followers of this sport. The fastest horses at the head of the lakes have been entered, and it is said that not a little rivalry lies between the owners as to who owns the speediest animal.

Tomang, owned by C. R. Rust; Kitty D., owned by Lawrence Duplais, and Ole Boy, owned by Martin Thorpe of Superior, are the horses that will start.

Each of these horses has a large following among sportsmen of both Duluth and Superior, and the best matinee of the season is being looked forward to.

DETROIT FIGHTER HERE.

Tom McCune Would Meet Austin for Championship of Canada.

Tom McCune, the Detroit middleweight fighter, drifted into town last night looking for Vernon Austin, the middleweight champion of Canada, who is reported to be in Duluth.

These two men met in Port Arthur last winter, and Austin was given the decision. McCune believes he had the better of the fight all the way through, and the decision was given Austin on the "native son" idea. He believes he can reverse the decision should a fight be arranged on American soil, and is anxious to get a line on Austin.

Since his battle last fall with McGoorty last spring at Hibbing, McCune has been traveling all over the Northwest, fighting as he went. He is in first-class shape, and has not lost a battle.

BRANDON BUNCH HERE.

Artie O'Dea Will Try to Clean Up Range Towns.

Artie O'Dea and his bunch of ball tossers from the land of King Edward arrived in the city last night. They will rest here for several days, picking up what is left of the White Sox, and then go on to the range, where they are scheduled to play Virginia, Eveleth and Coleraine.

A number of the Brandon players are laid up with "bum" knees, sore arms, and the like. Their places will be taken by as many of the scattered White Sox players as can be found.

Because the game was not paying up north Brandon and Winnipeg quit last Saturday instead of playing until Sept. 7 as was at first planned.

NEW SUITS ARE HERE.

The High School Uniforms Differ Greatly From Those of Last Year.

The High school football uniforms have arrived, and are on display at the store of the Northern Hardware company. They differ greatly from the uniforms worn last year. In the first place they are very much lighter, are all in one piece, and almost without the padding that was so noticeable in the suits of other years.

Every part of the football equipment has been made this year for speed. The shoes are no longer the heavy cleated affairs, but are now light, made of soft material, and with only one cleat.

The jersies to be worn beneath the suits are red and white, the school colors, and the stocklings are red. The Duluth team will present a pretty sight as they trot out on the field in the event of their first game this year.

The head gears are of soft pliable material, the stiff affairs of last year being barred by this year's rules.

BEGIN FOOTBALL PRACTICE.

Annapolis Candidates Will Get Busy on Sept. 10.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—The football team that will represent the Navy on the gridiron this fall will commence practice in earnest the third of September. The twenty-six members were allowed to go on their vacation this year a week ahead of the other students so that football practice can begin immediately on their return. They will return a week in advance of the others. Max S. Denot, the star end of last year's team is ill with typhoid fever, and it is doubtful if he can play this year.

ST. CLOUD WILL BE STRONG.

Six Veterans Back With a Wealth of New Material.

St. Cloud, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—With six of the old men back, and Coach Griebenow at the helm, this town will be represented by one of the strongest high school football teams in the state.

The report given out some time ago that only two of the last years men would be back is untrue. With the opening of the fall school term, only one week away, and the weather of just the kind to tickle the football men to death, prospects never looked so bright in the history of the school.

Manager Walsh is already working on the schedule, and the best teams in the state will be taken on. Of the old men to be in the lineup this year are: Robertson, Wire, Markely, Macgregor, Naegell, Pinault and Ross. Games with Minneapolis Central, St. Paul Central and Duluth are already booked.

Play by Electric Light.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 26.—Announcement was made yesterday by the management of the Argenta team, of the Arkansas State league, that arrangements had been completed for the playing of a game of baseball by electric light on next Saturday night at the Argenta Park, across the river from Little Rock. The Cherokee Indian team will be the opponents. If the innovation is successful, other games will be arranged.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut avenue, Altoona, Pa.

BALLOU WILL GO TO ROCHESTER

Duluth Man Made General Secretary of Y. M. C. A. There.

H. Chase Ballou, secretary in charge of the building fund of the local Y. M. C. A. has been appointed general secretary in the new Y. M. C. A. building at Rochester, Minn. His resignation has been presented to Secretary Phil Bevis of the local association, to become effective Sept. 15.

Mr. Ballou has been in Duluth for the past three years, and has made many close friends here. He first became connected with the association in the capacity of employe in Brooklyn, N. Y., as social director, and later he acted as general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Charlottesville, Va. His successor in Duluth has not yet been named.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

The National Editorial association of the United States reached Winnipeg late Tuesday night, being delayed several hours by a freight wreck.

Half of the Union Stock Yards at West Toronto was wiped out Tuesday night by fire. The loss is estimated at $150,000. Seven houses on Keele street were also destroyed.

John H. Atwood, chairman of the Democratic national speakers' committee, said Tuesday that he had 327 speakers on his list to take part in the campaign and that only seven wanted pay above expenses.

The Seventh regiment, I. N. G., has been ordered to withdraw from the city of Springfield. It was decided that the further presence of the armed men was unnecessary.

Louis Coxey, 11 years old was arrested Tuesday, charged with wrecking the Southwestern Limited near Buford, Va., Sunday, in which Engineer Dewberry and his colored fireman were killed. The boy admits placing a bolt upon the track, but says another boy persuaded him to do it. He said his companion told him that he had wrecked several trains.

Bridge Washed Away.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 26.—A special from Camden, S. C., last night tells of the washing away of the Wateree bridge at that place during the day. There were a number of people on the bridge, but the majority of them were rescued. George Rabon, a farmer, and a boy named Hinson were swept away by the current and have not been seen since.

PLANS ARE APPROVED

Moving Sidewalks and Aerial Railway May Become Reality.

John Roemer Explains Detailed Plans to Council Committee.

The plan of John Edward Roemer, Parisian engineer, to install a system of moving sidewalks in Duluth, met with the approval of members of the council committee on streets, alleys and sidewalks at a meeting held in the city hall yesterday afternoon. Mayor Haven, City Attorney Wilson and City Engineer McGilvray also attended the gathering and listened to the detailed plans of Mr. Roemer.

Those who have listened to Mr. Roemer's explanations of the sidewalk proposition, and the plan to establish a single-track aerial railway between Duluth and Fond du Lac, seem to be of the opinion that the schemes are entirely feasible, and it is quite likely that he will be granted the use of at least one avenue to carry on his experiments, provided the objections of property owners to having one end of their alleys blocked to team traffic, can be overcome. It is hardly proper to call it an experiment, for the same system has been worked out successfully in Europe.

One problem to be overcome locally is the crossing of alleys in the middle of every block without damaging the property adjacent. The plans as presented by the engineer would necessitate the closing up of alleys to wagon traffic at one end, as the rollers of the sidewalks could not be passed over by heavy wagons, although small platforms would be placed for pedestrians to cross.

Mr. Roemer says his company will not pay heavy damages to cross the alleys, and that it would abandon the scheme altogether rather than go to such an expense. He will appear before the council again next Monday night, and will pay particular attention to the alley proposition. Mayor Haven suggested a rolling sidewalk in the middle of the street, and Mr. Roemer will have a plan showing how it would operate in that position.

If the consent of property owners to cross the alleys is obtained, Mr. Roemer plans on building his first walk along First avenue east, from Superior street to Twelfth street, provided the city gives its consent. At Twelfth street a pavilion would be erected, and the aerial railway to Fond du Lac would start there. The railway would also have stations at West end, West Duluth, New Duluth, Ironton and Fond du Lac. It is proposed to charge 5 cents between stations on this line and 2½ cents on the moving sidewalks.

Robbery Prompts Killing.

Huron, S. D., Aug. 26.—James Stewart, a resident of Brookings, S. D., was murdered Monday night in a mill at Wolsey, twelve miles west of Huron. Robbery appears to have been the motive. One arrest has been made and an inquest is being held.

S.S.S. FOR BAD BLOOD

When bad blood is caused from an infection of the circulation by the virus of Contagious Blood Poison, it usually shows in the form of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored splotches on the body, swollen glands in the groin, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. These general symptoms, affecting all parts of the body, show how deeply poisoned the blood becomes, and emphasizes the dangerous character of the trouble. If allowed to remain in the system the disease will finally wreck the health and break down the strongest constitution. No medicine can cure Contagious Blood Poison which does not rid the circulation of every particle of the virus. S. S. S. is the one real and certain cure; it goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, and by removing every trace of the poison, and adding rich, healthful qualities to the blood, forever cures this powerful disorder. S. S. S. is the most reliable of all blood purifiers, and its concentrated ingredients of healthful vegetable extracts and juices especially adapt it to curing this insidious trouble. Write for our home treatment book, which is a valuable aid in the treatment of the different stages of the disease, and ask for any medical advice you wish. No charge for either.

THE TONE IS STRONGER

Rains, Delaying Threshing, Cause a Bulge in Wheat.

Flax Is Firm and Closes Higher in Duluth Market.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 26.—Wheat bulged in the American markets today. Scarcely any pressure was brought to bear on the market during the entire session and the bulls had everything their own way.

The rains in Canada and the American Northwest sustained the feeling that threshing was being retarded and the movement would therefore be held up. This was about the only difference on a quiet, but firm market.

Liverpool closed ⅜d higher, Paris ½c lower to ¼c higher, Antwerp unchanged, Berlin ¼c higher and Budapest ½c lower.

The September option closed 1c higher in Duluth, ⅝c higher in Chicago and New York, 1⅛-¼d higher for new wheat in Minneapolis, ⅜c higher in St. Louis and ⅝-¾c higher in Kansas City. The October option closed ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The December option closed ½c higher in Duluth and St. Louis, ⅝c higher in Chicago, 1⅛c higher for new wheat in Minneapolis, and ¾c higher in New York, Kansas City and Winnipeg.

September corn closed ⅛c higher in Chicago and ½d higher in Liverpool. September oats closed ½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—Dullness characterized the early trading in wheat, although the undertone was steady and after showing advance of ⅛d at the opening, the market was without further change. Offerings were light as a result of the better American cables, firmer Manitoba offerings and few sellers, but the demand was slow. At midday, the market was dull but steady and ⅛d higher than Tuesday.

"Corn was steady and ⅛d higher at the opening and further gained ⅛d during the morning. The strength in American cables yesterday, and a fair demand for La Plata parcels prompted light offerings."

Car receipts at Duluth were 71 against 18 last year, and at Minneapolis 310 against 67 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 381 against 85 last year. Chicago received 70 against 213 last year. Winnipeg received 7 against 116 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 794,000 bus, last year 725,000 bus. Shipments 481,000 bus, last year .000 bus. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 650,000 bus.

Primary receipts of corn were 608,000 bus, last year 437,000 bus. Shipments 289,000 bus, last year 435,000 bus. Clearances of corn were 500 bus.

Wheat was fairly active during the early part of the session in Duluth but became quiet toward the close, although prices remained steady. September wheat opened ¼c higher at 99½c, advanced to $1.00⅜, declined to 99⅞c reacted to $1.00⅜, then went off to $1.00 rallied to $1.00¼ and closed there, a gain of 1c over yesterday. December wheat was inactive and closed ½c higher than yesterday at 98c.

Durum wheat closed unchanged and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 5¼c over September for No. 1 northern.

Flax was quiet but the tone was firmer than yesterday, closing prices showing fractional bulges in the nearby months. September flax opened ¼c higher at $1.28½, advanced to $1.29 and closed at that price, a gain of ¾c over yesterday. October flax opened ¼c higher at $1.27¼, declined to $1.27, rallied to $1.27½ and closed there, a gain of ½c over yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.27 and closed there. December flax closed ½c higher at $1.25.

Oats closed ⅝c higher and barley 2c up for the lower grades. Rye was unchanged.

Following were the closing prices:

Wheat—To arrive: No. 1 northern, $1.02¼. On track: No. 1 northern, $1.05½; No. 2 northern, $1.05½; September, $1.00¼; December, 98c. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Additional Rain, Which May Delay Crops, Give Wheat Strength.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Additional rain in the Canadian Northwest and in Minnesota and the Dakotas which will further delay the harvesting and movement of the new crop of wheat was the chief reason for a firm tone in the local market today. An advance of nearly 1c at Minneapolis and Winnipeg also helped to strengthen the position of the bulls. Several of the leading commission houses were active bidders but offerings were not large. Prices at the opening were ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c above yesterday's close, September being at 93¾c to 94c and December at 94¾c to 94⅞c. Later September sold at 94⅛@¼c while December rose to 95⅛c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 451 cars against 281 cars last week and 298 cars a year ago.

The market was strong all day. A resumption of export business here and at Kansas City and the seaboard was an important factor. The close was firm with prices ⅜ and ½ to⅝c higher than yesterday's final quotations. September closed at 94 ⅛ @ ¼c, and December at 98⅛ @ ¼c.

The corn market opened easy with prices unchanged to ⅛c lower chiefly as the result of continued favorable weather for the new crop. There was very little selling pressure and owing to the strength of wheat the market soon became firmer, the December and May deliveries showing the greatest strength. December opened at 66c to 66@⅛c and advanced to 66½c. Local receipts were 234 cars with 60 of contract grade.

The strength of wheat held the corn market steady despite liberal realizing sales. At the close prices were unchanged to ¼ @ ⅜c higher. Final quotations on September were at 77¼, and on December at 66⅜c.

The wet weather in the Northwest helped to create a firm market for oats, there being a general demand in evidence by commission houses. There was considerable covering by shorts in the September delivery and that option showed the greatest gains. Opening prices were ⅛c to ½c higher than the previous close, September opening at 49c to 49¼c and December at 49c to 49⅛c. Later September sold at 49¼ @⅜c and December at 49⅜c. Local receipts were 159 cars.

Provisions were firm but of an active demand for cash lard by exporters. Smaller receipts of live hogs at all Western packing centers also was a bullish factor. Prices at the opening were 2½c to 10c above yesterday's final figures.

Close: Wheat—September, 94⅛@¼c; December, 95⅛@¼c; May, 98⅞c. Corn—September, 77¼c; December, 66⅜c; May, 64½c. Oats—September, 49¼c; December, 49⅜c; May, 51⅛c. THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Advances, Settles Back a Little, and Holds in Narrow Range.

Minneapolis, Aug. 26.—Dullness in foreign markets was the early showing in wheat, Liverpool standing ⅛@¼d higher from the opening to the middle of the session. The trade was startled by the posting of only 70 cars of wheat received in Chicago against 213 last year. On the other hand, Minneapolis got 310 cars against 67, Duluth 71 against 18, and the total was 143 cars over for the three markets. Stocks here decreased again, and for the week so far have lost 150,000 bus. The weather was showery Northwest, with more rain predicted. The market advanced 1⅜c to 1½c early, then settled back a little and held in narrow range, new September hugging the dollar line. September opened 99@⅛c, high $1.00⅜@½, low 99c, close $1.00@⅛; old September opened $1.00¼, high $1.00⅞, low $1.00⅛, close $1.00½; December opened 98⅛c, high 99c; low 98⅛c, close 98⅞c; old December closed 99⅜c.

Cash wheat did better. No. 1 northern, at 3c over the new September and No. 2 northern at September price to 1c over were easier relatively than yesterday, but actual prices were better and the demand excellent. Velvet chaff improved and in the No. 1 northern grade that variety sold on a range from 94c to $1.00½. Close: No. 1 northern spot and to arrive, $1.02¾; No. 2 northern spot or to arrive, 99¾c; No. 3 wheat, 96¾c; No. 3 yellow corn, 75¾c; No. 3 white oats, 47⅛c; No. 2 rye, 70½@71¾c. Barley, receipts 121 cars. The big runs of three days have had only moderate effect. Prices today average about 1c off with demand good at the easier range.

Most of the receipts grade well. Feed men, elevator and malsters all bought. Range, 54@59c.

Flax receipts 4 cars. Prices nominal in Duluth September 1c over No. 1 northern on spot. Close, $1.28¾.

Millstuffs lower and weak. Millers quote bran in bulk $19.50@19.75.

Flour demand ran a little for foreign business but millers said the only sales were a small lot or two of low grades and that export sales are hard to make. After the two 20c declines in patents since last week, quotations now stand unchanged on the 40c lower range. Shipments, 39,599 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.85; second patents, $5.60@5.70; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

FAT TRADERS ARE GRIEVED

Do Not Like Spiral Staircase—Gossip of the Pit.

Fat traders on the floor of the board of trade have a grievance against the man who designed a part of the new trading room.

That fixture of the handsome new pit room at the board with which the corpulent ones are dissatisfied is the spiral staircase which leads from the trading room to the smoking room, located on the balcony.

The serpentine staircase is built of iron and is intended as a rapid transit route from the smoking place and checker game headquarters to the actual scene of activities in the pit. But the stairs are very narrow and there are many turns. In fact, the stairs seem to have wrapped themselves tightly about the iron post in the center and it is necessary to make an ascent or a descent without haste to avoid a giddiness in the head. Men of considerable girth find progress on the stairs difficult.

"If a fellow took a glass of beer before going up these stairs he would have a nice jag when he got to the top," said one trader as he whirled out of sight, en route to the cigar parlor.

"The Duluth board should certainly be proud of its new trading room," said Percy King of Minneapolis, who was a visitor on 'change today. "This is the first time I was ever here so I cannot tell how much of an improvement this room is over the old one, but the members certainly have a fine place to do business in now."

Mr. King says receipts in Minneapolis are showing a good increase every day and that a good movement this fall is expected by the Minneapolis trade. He is connected with the Minneapolis office of the Barnum Grain company.

Eugene Dougherty of the John Miller company's Minneapolis forces spent the morning on the floor.

A. L. Timms of Minneapolis and Dr. Irwin of Detroit were visitors on the floor during the session. They arrived this morning on a freighter after a lake trip.

AUGUSTA, GA., IS FLOODED

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 26.—Reports from Augusta at 1:45 p. m. are that the city is entirely flooded. Broad street, the principal business street, is four feet under water. Merchants and occupants of all residences are making desperate efforts to remove goods to upper floors. Telephone and telegraphic communicationzs interrupted at this hour.

G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. Officers.

Officers elected by the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. association this afternoon are as follows: Mart Adson, president; A. M. Fenton, vice president; C. A. Sherwood, second vice president; F. C. Buckley, secretary; Fred Ober, treasurer.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Heavy Buying of Rock Island Preferred and Southern Pacific.

New York, Aug. 26.—The majority of stocks opened at slight advances above yesterday's closing prices. Southern Pacific was the most important exception, but its loss of ½ was immediately made up when the rest of the list began to display an advancing tendency. Rock Island advanced a point and Union Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting about half as much.

The volume of business shrank steadily until the trading became purely nominal. Operators seemed more disposed to discuss the tangled affairs of the suspended firm rather than to engage in market commitments. The tone, however, was decidedly firm, and there was an improvement of 1½ in Missouri Pacific and 1 in Canadian Pacific and American Smelting. Pittsburg Coal preferred yielded 2.

Prices of the active stocks underwent little change towards the second hour of business. Southern Pacific advanced to 100, which was about the most important incident of the trading. Erie first preferred sagged 1¾. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, American Cotton Oil and the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks moved up 1 and Westinghouse Electric 2. Bonds were steady.

Stocks for which there was any demand sold at a higher level, particularly Canadian Pacific, which gained 2¼, and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel preferred 1. Otherwise prces were not altered apprecably and a number of stocks were not dealt in at all.

A higher level of prices was established in the latter part of the day and a large portion of the list ruled a point or more above last night. Very little stock changed hands, but the apparent scarcity of stock at various levels made it necessary to bid up prices sharply to obtain stocks. St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred got up 2¼, Central Railroad of New Jersey 1½ and Great Northern preferred, the Ore Certificates, Reading and Ontario & Western 1 to 1¼.

The closing was strong. The advance in prices was continued to the close. A feature of the final hour's dealings was the heavy accumulation of Rock Island preferred and Southern Pacific, both gaining about t2 points and the latter establishing a new high record price of $1.01½. Central Railroad of New Jersey also improved 3¾, Northwestern 1¾, and St. Paul, American Sugar and National Lead 1. Prices increased considerable toward the end and the market showed much greater breadth.

New York stock quotations furnished by Fred H. Merritt, 328 West Superior street.

Closing prices are bid.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 26.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 22 points on August, which was bad upon the call by reactionists, and 10 to 13 points higher on the later months, which was better than due on the cables, as a result of covering and buying for a rally on the reports of storm damage from the Eastern belt. There was some heavy selling on the advance, but offerings were well taken, and the market ruled around the initial figures during the middle of the morning, with bears less aggressive, as a result of the crop damage talk and the review of the third week in August by a Georgia expert, estimating a reduction of at least a million bales in the yield as a result of drought and other unfavorable conditions of late, and claiming that there was no longer any promise of a record breaking crop.

Futures closed steady; closing bid: August, 9.35; September, 8.73; October, 8.73; November, 8.60; December, 8.63; January, 8.57; February, 8.60; March, 8.64; May, 8.70.

BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA is without question the greatest chance the people of Duluth have had since North Butte was put on. Butte & Superior quiet at $3.37 to $3.50, any news from the mine should send this one along fast. Much more money can be made on the good low price issues such as this one. In the first place, this mine is almost developed and you do not have to wait any length of time before big showing is made. I believe it is one of the safest buys on the board.

CARMAN holds well at $3.00 to $3.25 and is tipped for a big advance, when the market on the higher-priced issues takes on more strength.

CALUMET & SONORA, located alongside of the Greene, looks very good. They have a vast amount of territory and big showings at the mine. Only a few thousand shares issued. It looks very good and should sell at $20 this fall.

SHATTUCK, in the Bisbee district, a big and valuable mine, with unlimited ore blocked out, and is safe as government bonds, at $16.75.

The general market had a little set back on account of the Brown failures in New York, but this will be forgotten in a couple of days and become history. Such things happen often in this mad rush for wealth.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Market quiet. Several shipments arrived on the market during the day, among them being two loads of big finished young drafters of extra quality. Dealers are looking for a broad demand during fair week. THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles F. Shanley, freight claim agent of the Omaha road for more than twenty years and well known throughout the Northwest, died at St. Joseph's hospital at 9:30 o'clock last evening. Death was due to heart trouble. Mr. Shanley had been at the hospital for some time.

St. Louis, Aug. 26.—Wolfe F. Falk, 56 years old, at different times manager of the Lillian Russell, David Warfield and Edna May theatrical companies, died here last night of congestion of the lungs.

LEARNING TO KNIT.

Various are the brands of work and play, brought into action by the would-be settlers, camping in the halls of the federal building, waiting for the opening of the Fond du Lac reservation lands on Sept. 15.

It remained, however, for one farseeing settler to start a unique method of whiling away the hours. He was tired of reading, tired of smoking, and tired of waiting for Sep.t 15. He was seventeenth in the line, and just at that moment everything on earth seemed terribly far away, and he was almost tempted to let the whole affair slide. Then he saw one of the women knitting.

"Will you teach me to knit?" he was heard asking the woman a few minutes later. "I haven't any wife you know and it might come in handy, besides it would help while away part of the time."

The women promised and a boy was dispatched for the necessary needles and yarn.

He's doing nicely now, and he expects to have his first "sock" ready by the last of next week.

THREE HUNDRED HORSES IN DANGER.

Amsterdam, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Sanfords "Hurricana" farm, near this city, is reported to be burning. Over 300 horses, including many well known runners are quartered at t he farm.

Serious Fire at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 26.—Fifty persons narrowly escaped death, half a dozen were overcome by smoke, one woman was injured and a child seriously burned as a result of a fire in a three-story tenement building on Woodland avenue early today. The flames started in a quantity of hay stored in an adjoining building, and quickly spread to the tenement before being discovered.

All Debts Are Paid.

The final report of E. P. Towne, assignee for the Duluth Amusement company, has been filed with the clerk of the district court.

The Interstate Traction company paid all debts, which amounted to $12,000, and turned over $1,000 in cash to Mr. Towne, who paid all legal expenses, and has $361.84 left.

ANOTHER ATTACK MADE ON STRIKE BREAKERS.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—Another attack was made upon the Canadian Pacific train carrying strike-breakers from the Angus shops last evening, but it was not nearly so serious as that of the previous evening, the presence of a strong force of special constables having a good effect. Warrants were issued later for the arrest of five men who are alleged to have been concerned in the attack of the train on Monday evening.

To Deport Fifteen.

Boston, Aug. 26.—Immigration authorities have been investigating the cases of fifty-four young women converts to the Mormon faith, who reached Boston on the steamer Republic last Sunday, and have decided to deport fifteen of them. There are yet twenty-five cases to be decided upon.

Heavy Rain and Some Hail.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—A heavy rain began at 3 a. m. today and threshing operations will be suspended for several days. Along the Halstead line some hail fell, which damaged the few standing fields and broke some windows. It was the first heavy rain in two months.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION ---OF--- FURNISS REALTY COMPANY.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, the undersigned, do hereby associate ourselves together and agree upon the following articles of incorporation for the purpose of forming a corporation under and by virtue of the Revised Laws of 1905 of Minnesota and the acts amendatory thereof.

I.

The name of this corporation shall be "FURNISS REALTY COMPANY."

II.

The period of duration of this corporation shall be thirty (30) years.

III.

The general nature of the business to be carried on by said corporation shall be the buying, selling, leasing, owning, improving and dealing in lands, tenements and hereditaments, real and mixed property, bonds, stocks, notes, mortgages and all other kinds of personal property, and for constructing, leasing or operating docks, wharfs, public halls, elevators or hotels and for improving, erecting and constructing dwelling houses and other buildings and structures, and borrowing and loaning money with or without security.

IV.

The principal place of transacting the business of said corporation shall be the City of Duluth in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota.

V.

The names and places of residence of the persons so associating to form said corporation are as follows, to-wit:
Thomas, Furniss, Duluth, Minn.
Jennie Nixon, Duluth, Minn.
Thomas A. Merritt, Duluth, Minn.

VI.

The management of the affairs of this corporation shall be vested in a board of directors of three (3) persons who shall be stockholders in the corporation, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum to do business. Until the first annual election, the following persons shall compose the board of directors, to-wit:
Thomas Furniss, Duluth, Minn.
Jennie Nixon, Duluth, Minn.
Thomas A. Merritt, Duluth, Minn.

The annual meeting for the election of directors of said corporation shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January of each year at the office of the corporation in Duluth, Minnesota, at such hour of the day as shall be fixed by the by-laws or by order of the board of directors.

VII.

The officers of said corporation shall be a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. The office of president and treasurer or the office of vice president and treasurer may be held by one and the same person if the board of directors so elect. Until the first annual election and until their successors are elected and qualified, the following persons shall be the officers of said corporation, viz:
Thomas Furniss, President and Treasurer.
Thomas A. Merritt, Vice President.
Jennie Nixon, Secretary.

VIII.

The amount of the capital stock of said corporation shall be ten thousand ($10,000) Dollars divided into One Hundred (100) shares of One Hundred ($100) Dollars each. The capital shall be paid either in cash or property acceptable to the board of directors and in such amounts and at such times as the board of directors may determine and designate.

IX.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subjected shall be two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000) Dollars.

X.

In case of the death, resignation or disqualification to serve, of any officer or director of this corporation the vacancy so caused may be filled by the remaining members of the board of directors.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals in duplicate at Duluth, Minnesota, this 22nd day of August, A. D. 1908.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT,

DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA,

FOURTH DIVISION.

Albert C. Loring, Charles S. Pillsbury and Albert C. Cobb, as Receivers of the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills Company, Limited, Complainants, vs.
Minneapolis & Northern Elevator Company.

NOTICE OF RECEIVING BIDS FOR LEASE OF ELEVATORS AND WAREHOUSES OF THE MINNEAPOLIS & NORTHERN ELEVATOR COMPANY.—

The undersigned, Receivers of the property of the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company, under appointment of the United States Circuit Court for the District of Minnesota and also for the District of North Dakota hereby give notice that under an order of the Court filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on the 25th of August, 1908, and filed in the office of the clerk of the United States Court at Fargo, N. D., on August 26th, 1908, they will receive written bids at the office of the clerk of said United States Circuit Court at Minneapolis, Minnesota, up to 10 o'clock A. M., on August 31st, 1908, for the lease of 33 elevators and warehouses situated in the state of Minnesota, and 47 elevators and warehouses situated in the state of North Dakota, all on the line of the Great Northern Railway company in said states, for the present crop season and up to August 1st, 1909. The property leased is to be returned at the expiration of the lease in as good condition as when received, ordinary wear and tear and damage by the elements alone excepted. The lessee will also be requird to make good all damage and injuries suffered or inflicted in consequence of any lack of proper care on his part or that of his servants or agents in the use of the property.

All propositions to lease must be made in the alternative, each bid stating the price per bushel which will be paid, based upon the entire amount of grain purchased or handled through or in connection with operation of said elevators and warehouses, and also the amount of cash offered as rental for the elevators and warehouses for the entire period. A list of said elevators and warehouses is attached to the petition herein on file in said Courts. For further information in relation to said matter all persons interested are referred to the order above described and to the petition and other papers on file in said action in the office of the Clerk of each of said courts. The receivers will also furnish any further information upon request.

Dated August 26th, 1908.

CHARLES M. AMSDEN AND HENRY F. DOUGLAS, Receivers for Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company.

SHOULD BE PRACTICAL

Directors Oppose Study of Languages in Industrial School.

Course Was Not Intended to Include the "Trimmings."

The most important matter that came up before the school board directors last evening, at their special meeting, was the discussion of "Higher Education" in the new Industrial high school.

Director Washburn, true to his attitude to this school from the beginning, maintained that the useful things, things that would be of help to the students to earn their living, were the things to be taught, and the "trimmings," such as languages, were of no use and should be left out.

Supt. Denfeld, in the course of study he has mapped out, suggested courses in French, German, history and science. Mr. Washburn took exception to the languages, and insisted that more practical, every day subjects should be taught.

"I don't want to see those children of the Industrial school manufactured into literary geniuses," he said. "I want to see them moulded into the highest type of practical, every day American citizens, and I don't believe that the learning of languages will help them any. We want those boys and girls to be able to earn their own living. I consider that the purpose of that school and I am opposed to any other plan."

Mr. Washburn was upheld by D. E. Stevens and E. R. Cobb.

The course of study received no final disposition last night, but was left in the hands of the committee to report at the next meeting.

FIRM'S STOCK SEIZED.

Nusbaum & Bateman Sue for Value of Goods Attached.

The Rialto hotel, at 5217 Ramsey street, West Duluth, which has figured in municipal and district courts a good many times during the past two years, is brought in the limelight again by a suit filed this morning by Theodore Nusbaum and Simon Bateman, co-partners, as Nusbaum & Bateman, against M. Kamerer and J. J. Frey, for $1,700 damages, claimed to be due as a result of an alleged unlawful seizure of property.

Nusbaum & Bateman claim that on Oct. 2, 1907, Kamerer secured judgment against Theodore Nusbaum, in municipal court in Duluth, for $275.79. Despite the fact that the judgment was personal against Nusbaum, they claim that the court officer seized their stock of goods in the Rialto hotel and held them until Oct. 18, when Nusbaum's interest was sold to Frey, acting for Kamerer. They claim that Kamerer and Frey took possession of the entire stock of the firm and held it.

They want judgment for the full value of the stock, $1,700, with legal interest from Oct. 26, 1907.

WILL SUPPORT WIFE.

Thomas Shrove Furnishes Bond to Provide for Her.

Last evening, in the West Duluth justice court, Thomas Shrove agreed, under bonds of $100, to furnish his wife, Mrs. Laura Shrove, for one year with $20 per month towards her support.

A complaint was brought against him by his wife, who claimed that her husband had not furnished her with proper food and clothing for nearly a year, and that she had been forced to live with her mother part of that time to avoid suffering from want. She also claimed that she especially was in need of support from her husband now and would be in the future, as she is in delicate health.

Shrove pleaded guilty to the complaint, and stated that it was through no inclination of his that he had not cared for his wife, but that it had been the fault of his mother-in-law whom, he alleged, had made life very disagreeable for him at his home. At one time, he claims, that the mother-in-law struck him, and since that time he has lived little with his wife.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM.—Mack-Leone Playes in "The Middlenan."

"Coming Thro' the Rye."

A. Baldwin Sloane, composer of the "Coming Thro' the Rye" score, achieved his first success in this line of endeavor in the city of Boston. In 1895, or thereabouts, the cadet corps of that city produced a burletta or extravaganza called "Jack and the Beanstalk," of which R. A. Barnet wrote the libretto and Mr. Sloane the music. He was then not over 20 years of age, but his music caught the popular fancy strongly, and he was instantly sought by the producers of musical comedy and kindred works. In the intervening years he has composed the music of numerous successful pieces, including "The Gingerbread Man," "Lady Teazle," "The Mocking Bird," "Sergent Kitty," "Broadway to Tokio," and "Excelsior Jr." Many of his "Coming Thro' the Rye" score bears the thumbmarks of genius which gives promise of admirable work to come. In the position in which his successes have placed him it was but natural that he should be disuaded from attempting anything requiring serious, prolonged and, for the time, unremunerative effort and application because his composition has been large and quickly earned. It is known that when Oscar Hammerstein conceived the idea of having an American compose a grand opera for presentation at his Manhattan opera house he conferred first with Mr. Sloane. But Mr. Sloane had at that time contracted to supply the music for several librettists who were engaged in preparing light operas, and Mr. Hammerstein's proposal was impossible of acceptance. Thereupon Victor Herbert was assigned the task of carrying out Mr. Hammerstein's idea.

LANDLORD SAYS RENT IS EXEMPT

Virginia Man Seeks to Be Protected From Garnishment.

Claiming garnishment proceedings instituted by Joseph Kail are illegal, Fred Engle of Virginia this morning filed suit in district court for $1,000. He sets forth that he is the owner of Lot 29, Block 20, in the city of Virginia, which he claims as his homestead. The lower floor is leased to Macbeth & Gardner and he lives on the upper floor with his wife and five children, whose only support is the $70 per month derived as rental of the lower floor.

Last August, Kail obtained a judgment against Engle in the municipal court of Virginia and in December started garnishment proceedings, seizing $287 due Engle from Macbeth & Gardner. Two days previously, Engle had assigned the rent for the approaching three months to Elliott & Co., of Virginia and he was forced to fight the garnishment to protect the assignment. The municipal court decided for Elliott and Kail carried it to district court, where it is now pending.

Engle claims that Kail also attached the quarter's rent March 5 of $210. He says the rental was exempt from all such proceedings, as the property is his homestead, and Kail knew it. He asks judgment for $1,000.

NEW TRIAL IS ASKED.

Virginia Lumber Company Not Satisfied With Ylonen Verdict.

Notice of a motion for judgment, notwithstanding verdict, or a new trial was filed with the clerk of the district court today in the case of Victor Ylonen vs. Virginia Lumber company. The motion will be made at the special term next Saturday.

The man was injured by having his arm thrown against a saw while adjusting a belt in the mill of the company at Virginia. The suit was for $15,000 and the jury rendered a verdict of $6,500. The new motion is on the grounds that the evidence did not justify the verdict and that the court erred in its charge to the jury.

ASK YOUR WIFE HER FAVORITE NEWSPAPER

IT IS a fair assumption that nearly every woman in Duluth reads The Herald every night. Being an evening newspaper, The Herald arrives at a time when the women have leisure for reading. The Herald, too, has for years published a class of news appealing particularly to women. In addition The Herald's advertising columns have attracted thousands of women readers. In The Herald they have learned to expect all the best announcements of the big and little advertisers at home and from abroad. Any advertiser who wishes to reach the women of Duluth, can do so completely by using The Herald and only by so doing.

FLOOD AND FIRES PLACE THE CITY OF AUGUSTA, GA., IN A CHAOTIC CONDITION

Business Houses Surrounded by Water Nine Feet in Depth.

Disastrous Fires Caused by Lime Add to the Terrors.

Damage to Stocks and Homes Will Reach High Figures.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 27.—Via Harrisonville, Ga., Aug. 28.—Augusta yesterday was visited by one of the worst floods in its history.

The Savannah river began rising rapidly early Tuesday, continuing through the day up to a late hour last night. Water from the river and the canal surged down the city until a depth of from six to eight feet had been reached in a territory bounded by Fifteenth street on the west to the extreme eastern boundary of the city. So far as known three persons have been drowned, but their identity has not been learned at an early hour this morning. Reports of capsizing boats in the swift current have been received but have not been verified, because of the utter chaos the city was thrown into by the sudden rise of the water and resulting confusion. Two fires were reported in the flooded district. Lime stored in warehouses coming in contact with the water were said to have been the cause of explosions which destroyed the warehouses of the Nixon Wholesale Grocery company's warehouse and the Nixon & Danforth cotton warehouse. This cannot be confirmed, as the fire was in the direction of these two concerns and as the fire department nor no one else could get to them it is only by conjecture that the firm names are given. The fires were spectacular from the fact that devastation was rife and the flames adding new horror, the people were compelled to stand idly by and watch the new feature of destruction.

Flood Warning Issued.

The local weather bureau issued a flood warning Tuesday morning, saying that the river would reach a height of between thirty-five and thirty-seven feet by 66 o'clock Wednesday evening, at which time it was predicted the

TONY PASTOR,
Dean of Vaudeville, Who Is Dead at the Age of 71.

TONY PASTOR IS NO MORE

Dean of Vaudeville Passes Away at the Age of 71.

Brought Out Lillian Russell, Denman Thompson and Others.

Elmhurst, Long Island, Aug. 27.—Antonio (Tony) Pastor, the theatrical manager, died last night after an illness of several weeks.

Antonio Pastor was 71 years old and led an active and successful life. Mrs. Pastor said that his breakdown was due directly to the wear and tear and worry of his troubles during the last theatrical year. His Fourteenth street theater in New York, which he has managed for many years, has recently felt the effects of the general uptown trend of theaters, together with a loss of patronage due to nickleodeons and cheap moving picture shows.

"Tony lost $100,000 during the last season," said Mrs. Pastor, "and the strain brought him to his death. He refused a five-year renewal of the lease a few days ago, and the thought that he is now for the first time in sixty years without employment was too much for him."

Mrs. Pastor is the second wife of the great song and dance man, having

SHIPS LEAVE EIGHTY SHORT

That Number of Stragglers Left at Sydney, N. S. W.

Sydney, Aug. 27.—Before the American battleship fleet left Sydney at 8 o'clock for Melbourne, its next stopping place, Admiral Sperry, the commander-in-chief, sent a letter to Charles G. Wade, premier of New South Wales, thanking him for the cordial reception and magnificent hospitality extended, and saying that the welcome given the Americans would draw closer the bonds of sympathy and friendship between the United States and the Australian commonwealth.

After the vessels had cleared the harbor it was found that about eighty stragglers had failed to join their ships. These men will not be posted as deserters, as it is thought that the non-appearance of many of them was accidental. Fifty of the stragglers were embarked later in the day on the Yankton and sailed to rejoin their ships at Melbourne.

CAMPAIGN IN THE EAST

Will Be Inaugurated at Once by Chairman Mack.

Absolutely Confident of the Election of Bryan and Kern.

New York, Aug. 27.—With the Democratic campaign west of the Alleghenies in full swing, Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, returned here from the West today to establish headquarters and inaugurate the campaign in the East. The New York headquarters will be formally opened on Saturday and in the meantime Mr. Mack will arrange for the Eastern organization. He will confer with several of the national committeemen of the Eastern states and with local Democratic leaders on the selection of a chairman of the sub-committee to direct the Democratic fight in the East. Mr. Mack believes that a New York man will be selected as Eastern campaign manager. On his arrival here today Chairman Mack was met by National Committeeman Tomlinson and other members of the national committee, who reached here early in the week.

"The elements of doubt in the coming election are being rapidly swept away by the strong drift of the coun-

CLAIMS ACTRESS AS HER DAUGHTER

California Woman Says She is the Mother of Marie Doro.

San Rafael, Cal., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Douglas Saunders, widow of a former superintendent of schools of this county, declared yesterday to several friends that Marie Doro, the well known actress now playing in London, is her long lost daughter who ran away from home to go on the stage fourteen years ago. Mrs. Saunders, who has lived for many years in this city recently attracted the notice of a librarin at the public library owing to the great interest she took in theatrical magazines. In explanation of this the woman stated that the magazines held accounts of the successes of her daughter on the stage. In support of her assertion Mrs. Saunders exhibitted pictures taken years ago that bear a striking resemblance to Marie Doro and Mrs. Saunders also intimated that she received remittances from her daughter.

OBEYED THE PRESIDENT

Internal Revenue Collector Was Too Promiscuous in Politics.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 27.—A special from Batavia gives the following as the text of the telegram received by Archie D. Sanders, internal revenue collector, from Oyster Bay on Monday last:

"Am informed that, notwithstanding my telegram on Aug. 20, you are still actively engaged in manipulating local politics. I wish you to understand distinctly that this you cannot do, as I shall retain no one in the service who does not comply with the strict rules of the department and my orders with regard to factional contests in the party. If you will not comply with these orders, wire your resignation at once. Wire answer immediately."

To this telegram Mr. Sanders is said to have replied as follows: "Telegram received. Conditions complied with."

ORIGINAL REFORMER

Bryan Tells Why Roosevelt Republicans Should Support Him.

The Times Are Ripe for Change in Administration.

Salem, Ill., Aug. 27.—No crowd of equal size or enthusiasm ever turned out in this city, the birthplace of W. J. Bryan, as did that of yesterday, when the Democratic candidate stopped over to greet his old friends and neighbors. The whole population was up and on hand early to extend a hearty welcome, and they were augmented later in the day by thousands who came in on special trains.

The principal event of the day was a speech by Mr. Bryan from a platform in the courthouse grounds, in which he appealed to the "Roosevelt Republicans" to support the Democratic ticket, because, he said, they could not hope for a realization of the promised re-

MUST LOOK TO THE DEMOCRATS

Bryan Comments on Kansans' Action on Guaranty Deposits.

Kansas City, Aug. 27.—William J. Bryan and his party, including Theodore A. Bell, arrived in this city from St. Louis this morning. Mr. Bryan was greeted at the station by T. T. Crittendon, mayor of Kansas City; William S. Cowherd, and many other prominent democrats of the city, and escorted to the Hotel Baltimore.

The trip from St. Louis was without incident, the candidate and members of his party retiring to their berths soon after boarding the train.

The party will leave for Topeka at 10:40 a. m. via the Union Pacific railroad, where Mr. Bryan will speak tonight on "Guaranty of Bank Deposits."

In view of the action of the Republican state convention of Kansas in indorsing the guaranty of bank deposits, Mr. Bryan announced shortly after his arrival that it would be necessary for him to make some additions to his speech at Topeka tonight. Mr. Bryan, without outlining his remarks on this subject to be delivered tonight, was willing to say this in advance:

"The action of the Republican state convention of Kansas is a rebuke to the republican candidate for president who has been assailing the guaranty of depositors. No only is he opposed to the system as a national system, but the attorney-general has made a ruling which prevents national banks from taking advantage of the state systems. I am very glad to have the issue drawn so clearly. The action of the Republican state convention in Kansas makes it impossible for the Republicans of that state to oppose our plan while the action of Mr. Taft and Attorney-General Bonaparte shuts off all hope of favorable action by the Republican party. Those who favor the guaranty of bank deposits therefore will find their only hope in a Democratic victory."

NEW JERSEY'S GOVERNOR MAY CALL OUT TROOPS TO STOP SATURNALIA OF VICE

Executive Issues a Startling Proclamation From Summer Capital.

Says Lid Must be Put on Sundays at Atlantic City.

If Not He Will Put the Resort Under Martial Law.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 27.—In a startling public proclamation, issued today from the summer capital, Governor Fort declares that unless the excise law is observed in Atlantic City, which he calls a "saturnalia of vice," next Sunday, and all saloons and cafes closed tightly, he will call an extraordinary session of the legislature and may send the New Jersey troops to the famous resort, declaring the city to be under martial law.

This is the most drastic action which has been taken to enforce a general law in New Jersey.

Governor Fort, in his proclamation, ridicules the fiasco of ten days ago, when a grand jury, at May's Landing, the county seat, refused to find indictments, and says that the action was a burlesque, that three members of the grand jury were owners of saloons in

WILLIAM F. VILAS, FORMER MEMBER OF CLEVELAND'S CABINET, PASSES AWAY

Dies at His Home in Madison on Thursday Forenoon.

Was 68 Years of Age and Served in the Civil War.

Long Prominent in Wisconsin and National Politics.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—Col. William F. Vilas died at 10:45 o'clock this morning, following five weeks of illness. When Dr. Philip Fox called upon the colonel this morning he found him unusually cheerful and bright, and believed he showed signs of remarkable improvement.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, while the nurses were administering a bath to the patient, they noticed that he weakened very quickly. An attempt was made to reach the doctor, but Col. Vilas died before he could be reached.

Dr. Charles H. Vilas of New York, who has been staying at the home, was not present at the time of death.

Dr. Fox believes that the immediate cause of death was a second stroke of paralysis.

Col. William F. Vilas suffered a cerebral hemorrhage early on the morning of July 20, at his home in Madison. His condition was so serious that his brother, E. P. Vilas of Milwaukee, was summoned to the bedside, and for two days the physicians were unable to offer any hope of recovery. On the third day, Col. Vilas' condition was slightly improved.

Since then his condition had remained practically unchanged, although he had moments of seeming rallies and on occasions would answer questions by "yes" and "no."

Mr. Vilas was 68 years of age, and for the last few years he has been living in retirement. He has, indeed, been little in the public eye since his term as United States senator came to an end in 1897. He was elected for a six years' term in 1891, following distinguished service in the first Cleveland cabinet.

Mr. Vilas was born July 9, 1840, at Chelsea, Vt., and came to Wisconsin with his parents when a boy. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1860. In 1862 he raised a company and went to the front in the Civil war. He saw much service, ending the war as lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-third Wisconsin regiment.

After returning home Mr. Vilas took a prominent part in Democratic politics in Wisconsin. He took the stump in many campaigns. He was very popular as a speaker, particularly after he made himself oratorically famous by his speech in Chicago in 1879, when he responded to the toast in honor of Gen. Grant, "Our First Commander," at the banquet of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee.

Four Years in Cabinet.

So prominent had Mr. Vilas been in Wisconsin and national politics, a prominence in large measure due to his ability as an orator, that Mr. Cleveland invited him to enter the cabinet

THAW SAYS IT'S CORRECT

Gives His Indorsement of Commissioner's Decision on Jerome.

Says Hand is Mistaken on One or Two Opinions.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Harry K. Thaw made the following statement today, after reading the opinion of Commissioner Hand in the proceedings for the removal of District Attorney Jerome, who is opposing Thaw's fight for liberty:

"I agree with Mr. Hand's decision in favor of Jerome, and think that on the whole public sentiment will support it.

"In his decision Mr. Hand expresses certain opinions which seem to me mistaken, but two remarks that appear regrettable do not affect the district attorney.

"Mr. Hand might condone throwing dice for money, but his comment that to rebuke that deed, 'is to indict a very large portion of the community, including all who take part in common games of billiards, bridge whist, golf, baseball and every other popular recreation known to the people of every civilized land,' will surely shock the best part of the community.

Do Not Bet On Games.

"I have many friends who play billiards, and I know that they do not bet upon the game; that they indulge in it purely as a recreation with no thought of gambling. Bridge whist is never played in public for money. If my own experience over many links counts for anything, not one man in a

FUSILADE OF SHOTS

In Battle Between Robbers and Officers in North Dakota.

Attempt to Rob Store is Frustrated by Burglar Alarm.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—After a battle with local officials and citizens, two robbers escaped at Tower City, this county, this morning. One of the men is believed to have been hit by the posse.

M. W. King, head of a mercantile company there, recently had a burglar alarm system installed in his store and connected with his house. He was aroused by that at 2 o'clock and got the officers and several neighbors to help him surround the store. Two men appeared at the door and ran in different directions, after firing a fusillade of revolver shots. The officers think they hit and wounded one of the robbers, but evidently not seriously. The men got little money and had tied up several hundred dollars' worth of goods preparatory to removal before they were surprised.

BABY ENDS PLEA OF AN EXHORTER

Meeting Breaks Up When Mother Presents the Infant.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—John N. Hutcherson stood before a crowd of penitents in the Union Mission at 1920 Franklin avenue Monday night exhorting those who had sinned to come forward and lay their burden of sin at his feet and confess their waywardness and they would be forgiven.

He was impassioned in his plea to the sinners, and more than one listener on the benches stirred uneasily. A sob or two shook the stilled audience.

There were solemn murmurs of "Amen" from those in the front rows. A woman in the back seats began to sing softly:

"Come to me, all ye who are heavy laden."

Woman Brings Baby In.

A slender, girlish woman burst through the door and started down the aisle toward the gray-haired man who stood with uplifted arms inviting all who had sinned to bring their burden forward. His eyes were closed and he did not see the young woman, nor did he hear.

"Here is your little burden of sin," she said to the man who had coaxed the repentant to come forward. A wail came from the blanket she left at his feet. It was the wail of an infant.

The man dropped his arms and looked at the bundle on the floor with eyes from which the light of ecstasy had fled. Terror had taken its place.

"Here is your child," the woman said. "You would not support it. I cannot support any longer."

Instantly there was an uproar.

"It isn't mine," said the man; "I will have nothing to do with it."

Meeting Breaks Up.

The meeting broke up without any others coming to the front, and the baby was left on the floor until a motherly woman pushed through the crowd and picked it up. She was a Jewess.

To the baby's dress was pinned a letter which told that it was 24 days old and that its father was John H. Hutcherson and its mother Cora Thompson. It was taken to St. Ann's orphanage by a policeman and left there. In the confusion the girl-mother disappeared.

Hutcherson, the man at whose feet the baby was laid, and whom the mother accused of being its father, has been for five years a "worker" in the missions of the city.

"The woman tempted me, and I fell," he quoted, when he was asked if the woman's accusation that he was the father of the child were true.

"How did you reconcile your conduct with Cora Thompson and your preaching in the mission?" he was asked.

"I did not reconcile it at all," was the answer. "I was a backslider. I had been led off and had fallen from grace."

MRS. COREY RETURNS.

Tells About Her Plans for Building a New Theater.

New York, Aug. 27.—Mrs. William Ellis Corey, who was Mabelle Gilman, got back from Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecelle and told how plans were practically completed for building a theater that will give amateurs a chance that they have been denied and the proceeds of which will be devoted to charity.

"I have not selected a site yet," she said "but the plans have been prepared in outline. The proceeds will go to help needy members of the theatrical profession. The theater will be operated to encourage young actors and authors.

"I shall play in it, of course. A young and at present unknown author is now engaged in writing a one-act play for me. And of course I will give opera. My course of vocal study with Jean de Rezke has just been completed. He is kind enough to say that I need only to study the roles in opera. He says my voice is quite in training.

"Plays by native dramatists will be produced without any risk or cost to them. This is an opportunity that they have heretofore not enjoyed. There are any number of such dramatists, as I know. The theater will be in the nature of a private theater."

Help Beltrami Fair.

RAILROADS MAY FIGHT

Indications Point to an Effort of Officials to Repeal Low Rates.

Report of Alton Shows Decreased Earnings Under Two-Cent Fare.

Are the railroads of the country going to revive the fight on the 2-cent fare?

Conditions that would point to such an action on the part of the roads are not lacking. The Alton road led the way by loudly pointing to the fact that, though its annual report showed that 12 per cent more passengers rode on the road under the regime of the 2cent fare law, the gross earnings were 6 per cent less under the reduced fare law.

Now other roads are pointing to the record of the Alton and saying that the publication of other fiscal records will show the same condition of affairs. They say further that they are losing money under the present conditions, and that passenger rates are too low.

Right here in Minnesota, as shown by a story in The Herald, some of the roads are charging 3 cents a mile for passenger fares. The officials of these roads claim that the law is unconstitutional.

The fiscal record of the Alton is the first yearly record to be published for a year's operation under the new 2-cent fare. Railroad men say that many other roads have fared the same under the reduced passenger fare. If the railroads can show that they are losing money under the operation of the reduced fare, they will make a strong fight before the courts to have the law declared unconstitutional.

Railroad men say that they did not admit they were making money when they made special rates to conventions. They say that the roads were endeavoring to secure increased business, which they needed to make up the loss caused by operating under a reduced fare.

Under the new fare the roads must haul 50 per cent more passengers than they did under the 3-cent law, to take in as much money. The railroad men say they cannot do this under the increased cost of operation. They admit that passenger business has increased under the reduced rate, but say that operating expenses have also increasd.

PUSHING WORK.

Wisconsin Central Officials Hope to Run Trains Early Next Spring.

C. N. Kalk, chief engineer of the Wisconsin Central, was in Duluth today. "We are going ahead with the work on the tunnel just as fast as possible," he said. "We are making about twenty feet a day. The work on the excavation is not going along as fast as we thought it would some time ago, but we are plugging away at that. Some back rock formations have been struck and as a result the work has been retarded. All of the main track on the Superior side has been laid and ballasting will begin in the near future. Work on the depot will begin just as soon as the excavating is finished, but when that will be I can't say."

According to Mr. Falk trains will be running some time next summer. He says work was pushed all last winter on the road and he sees no reason why it won't be continued through this winter. He says it is possible to excavate in the winter, although it is very expensive. It is probable that if the excavating on the depot is not finished this fall the work will be continued throughout the winter.

The officials of the Wisconsin Central are determined to have trains running from Chicago to Duluth early in the summer, and with that idea in view the officials have planned to do everything possible to have the Duluth terminals completed early in the spring. It is possible that trains may be operated between Chicago and Superior before the completion of the Duluth terminals. No through trains will be operated before the road is throughly ballasted.

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him, and he has not suffered for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and, although 60 years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

FORSNAR HEIR TO A FORTUNE

Missing Man Has $10,000 Cash Awaiting Him in Sweden.

Peter Forsnar, last heard of in Duluth, is heir to a fortune of between $8,000 and $10,000 in Sweden. He also falls heir to a valuable farm in his native land, through the death of an uncle.

The local police today received a communication from J. A. Jackson of St. Paul, vice Swedish consul, asking their assistance in locating the missing man. According to the letter, he came to this country in 1892, and two years later took up his residence in Duluth. Since that time friends and relatives have heard nothing concerning his whereabouts.

The letter states that in coming to America Forsnar deserted his wife and family, leaving them to shift for themselves. It is thought this may have something to do with the fact that he has kept his whereabouts a secret from friends in Sweden. The woman and children are now living in Finland.

Forsnar is 53 years old.

CAS-KA'S GREAT RUN.

No Other Remedy Ever Had Such a Phenomenal Sale in Fargo and Moorhead as Cas-Ka.

The Fargo Forum of late date says of Cas-Ka:

F. J. McMillan, the popular manager of the Cas-Ka company, who has superintended the sales of his company in this city and Moorhead for the past three months, left yesterday for Chicago. The Cas-Ka campaign closed in Fargo last Saturday, and when Fout & Porterfield's drug store closed Saturday evening, Mr. McMillan had disposed of 919 bottles of his excellent medicine, which has almost become a household word in this territory during its sale here.

In speaking of the unprecedented sale of Cas-Ka, Mr. McMillan took occasion to speak of the excellent results which he has obtained from his extensive advertising in the Forum. From every Northwestern state and from various parts of Canada, Mr. McMillan received orders for his medicine, and in nearly every case the purchaser stated that he or she had seen the ad in the Forum. During his stay in North Dakota Mr. McMillan states he secured by far the best results from the columns of the Forum.

Mr. McMillan left behind him many friends, who will wish him success in whatever field he may continue to dispose of Cas-Ka. He proved himself an upright man, both in a business and social manner, and Fargo will welcome the return of the Cas-Ka man.

PART HEIR TO BIG ESTATE.

Widow Sues for Share of Sister's Estate in Ireland.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Heir to a fortune of more than $100,000 in Ireland, which she claims is being wrongfully withheld from her, Mrs. Anna Langan, yesterday began proceedings through Acting Consul Thomas Erskine of the British embassy, to recover the estate.

Mrs. Langan lives with her two children, a son and a daughter, in a little frame dwelling in Halsted street.

It is the estate of her sister, Mrs. Margaret Cronin, that Mrs. Langan is battling to obtain. Mrs. Cronin died on Feb. 12, 1875, at Casterling, in the County Clare. The fortune consists of about £16,000 English currency, in the bank at that place, and a large amount of real estate.

When Mrs. Langan's father, Charles McCarthy, died some years ago, he left his large estate to the care of the sister, to be distributed to such various heirs at the time of her death. Directly after his death Mrs. Cronin conducted his business, and, it is said, added considerable to the fortune.

In January, 1908, Mrs. Cronin was taken ill. She sent word to her sister to come to her bedside. Mrs. Langan, on account of her distressed financial circumstances, was unable to do so. In a few weeks the sister died, without leaving a will.

"TAMA JIM" UNTIRING

In His Work as Head of Department of Agriculture.

Takes Few Vacations and at His Desk in Midsummer.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Take 'em year in and year out, no employe of the government sticks to his job with more effective fidelity than a certain cabinet officer whom you may know by the familiar sobriquet of "Tama Jim." This is James Wilson of Iowa, secretary of the department of agriculture. He is the dean of the cabinet. He is the only member of the cabinet of the McKinley administration from its start, having been confirmed March 5, 1897. It is very likely, if the Republicans continue in power, that Mr. Wilson, if he pleases, will remain at the head of the agricultural department. His administration of his department has been so singularly void of offenses and pregnant of far-reaching usefulness to the country, that there are many Democrats who, in the event of the success of their party next November, would ask that Mr. Wilson be urged and permitted to stay where he is, so long as he is not weary of the well-doing which has distinguished him the dozen years he will have spent in his present office. Mr. Wilson takes but few vacations. He is often the highest officer of the government remaining in Washington. Midsummer finds him at his desk. It is because he has his heart in his vast work, and because he is enjoying the fruition of wonderfully varied tests and experiments in the vitalizing acts of husbandry that keeps him loth to leave his official quarters, to which continually come reports from field and farm of absorbing interest to him because they are almost invariably stories of local achievement contributing to a great national progress.

Born in Scotland.

James Wilson, the secretary, was born within a few miles of the birthplace of Robert Burns, the matchless farmer poet, in Ayrshire, Scotland, just seventy-three years ago, or Aug. 16, 1835. He came to America when he was 17 years old, stopped with his parents a while in Connecticut, and removed to his present home in Tama county, Iowa, in 1855. He has always been an enthusiastic farmer, and at the same time has been actively concerned in all legislation affecting agricultural interests. He was that as a member of the Iowa legislature, in which he served several terms, and continued so as a member of congress, in which he served three terms as a member of the house. He served on the Iowa railway commission four years, and for six years before he accepted a place in President McKinley's cabinet was director of the agricultural experiment station and professor of agriculture at the Iowa agricultural college at Ames.

Mr. Wilson has all of the Scotsman's cleavage to the practical things of wellbeing and all of the Caledonian's enthusiasm over the triumph of shrewdly directed industry. He is one of the most interesting men who ever held office in the government. Simple and unaffected in conversation, he has a store of experience and a ripe, fertile memory for practical things worth remembering, which combine to convince all who know him of a staunch superiority of mind and character devoted to the general welfare, exceedingly scarce among men who hold high political office.

His department is, indeed, less inoculated with partisan bias than any in the government. There are not a few Democrats who hold responsible positions in the department, but Mr. Wilson talks to them about their work and not about their politics. It is said that he does not know the party affiliations of a dozen men under him. Some of his most zealous supporters are Democratic members of congress. Still, Mr. Wilson, if Bryan should be elected president, has said he would expect a Democratic president to choose all the members of his cabinet from his own political party.

Elated Over the Crops.

Just before Secretary Wilson left for a short vacation at his Western farm, he was elated over the assurance of a great year for farm production throughout the country.

"The crops this season," he said, "will be the largest and best in our history, unless all signs fail. All reports indicate that the farmers throughout the country are preparing for an unprecedented harvest. Farm hands will be in great demand, the railroads will have few empty cars, and the cotton crop of the South will be great. Why shouldn't we farmers smile?"

While "Tama Jim," like Bobby Burns' cotter, is ready to hymn his Creator's praise for generous sunshine and vitalizing rains, and for the energy and intelligence of American farmers, he takes a natural pride in the widespread fruitful aid given by the department of agriculture in vastly diversified directions, which have made many a farm, but recently neglected as scarcely worth the labor given it, bloom and ripen into such varied harvests as to rejoice the heart of its owner.

Especially gratified is the secretary with good results achieved through the operations of the bureau of soils under Prof. Milton Whitney. This is the branch of the department which is in closest relation to the farmer. It is the foundation of his wellbeing. In the language of a soil expert who has reason himself for pride in the work of the science of agriculture, it has no middlemen, and it speaks what the soil tiller can understand, so that few have wondered when the powerful opposition of the appropriations committee was overthrown at the last session of the house of representatives, and an increased sum was voted to be put into the hands of Prof. Whitney for the acceleration of soil surveys. Although still but in its initiative, the results obtained by the bureau of soils have already closely interwoven themselves with the daily work of the farmer and have solved planting problems in a way which harvests have strikingly illuminated. The latest phase of soil study which has been taken up will, in the opinion of the student workers, prove the greatest boon yet enjoyed by the tillers of the ground.

Problem of Fertilization.

In nothing connected with the revelations of tests founded upon the chemical knowledge has more light been shed than upon the old problem of fertilization. From the earliest days fertilization of the soil has been one of the most important and absorbing questions with the farmer.

It is certain, according to the erudite department authorities, that ancient agricultural people worried over it, and that maybe Cincinnatus, when called from his plow handles to the helm of state, was pondering this very question. It is likewise held that in all old-time discussions and experiments there was a vital part of the problem which remained undiscovered.

The bureau of soils has found that plants often kill off succeeding generations in the same soil, not by exhausting it and extracting all the nutrition, but by depositing toxic or poisonous substances which always hamper and frequently prevent the growth of the succeeding plants. So, instead of devoting all its time to replenishing the ground with these elements and substances which have been given off during the growth of the plant, the bureau has pursued its experiments of the theory of isolating and removing the poisonous matter. The discovery of these hurtful substances disclosed that with all the necessary mineral or nutrient elements native to the soil the plant would not flourish. After a series of experiments the character of the toxic elements was chemically identified and there immediately began the revolution in soil treatment by the bureau which continued until it has uncovered the poisonous excetra of all the most useful plants. The evil has been counteracted successfully by the discriminating use of chemicals and fertilizers and the farmer, it is claimed, has been freed from a presence more baleful a thousand times than the boll weevil to cotton or the natural exhaustion of the land.

Thus far the toxic properties have been removed in many instances by a number of simple operations. The experiments are proceeding with all possible expedition, the object being to afford the farmer a cheap and convenient method of making his land yield the greatest possible uniformity of profitable production year in and year out. The farmers of the country are as a rule co-operating cheerfully and intelligently with the department, and the chief of the bureau of soils, Prof. Whitney, is greatly encouraged, feeling that the importance of the work is properly appreciated by those whom it most concerns.

Experiments are constantly going on with commercial fertilizers also, with the view of supplying a particular fertilizer for each type, which will replace all the nourishing elements taken from the plant in the course of its life. As there are more than 460 different kinds of soil in the United States this will be no easy task, but great progress has been made, and already a number of sections have been advised by the bureau just what elements the soil requires to be tickled to yield a maximum harvest.

Commercial fertilizer is used chiefly in the Atlantic and Gulf states, and since 1899 its use has doubled in this country, until now $100,000,000 is annually spent for this kind of soil improvement.

Ten Years in Bed.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P. of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." Sold by all druggists.

BEGIN SCORING BUTTER.

Preparing for Great Butter Show at the State Fair.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Scoring of butter samples in the state fair competition for the butter-makers of Minnesota was begun yesterday at the cold storage plant of A. Booth & Co. St. Paul. Four hundred samples of butter have been received, and it is expected that a few more will arrive within the next day or two. The official scores are H. J. Credicott of Chicago and John C. Johnson of Mankato, both of whom are inspectors in the employ of the United States government. The critic is H. G. Sondegaard of Litchfield, who is one of the inspectors of the state dairy and food department.

ONAMIA LUMBERMAN DEAD.

Orin J. Smith, a Native of Maine, is Summoned.

Onamia, Minn., Aug. 27.—Friday Orin Smith died at his home here after a lingering illness from heart trouble. Deceased was 63 years of age. He was born in Maine and came to Minnesota at an early age with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Smith. He was married twice.

He has been actively engaged in the lumber business and up to about fifteen years ago made Anoka his home. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

MINOT MAN KILLED.

Was Trying to Pull Pet Dog Onto Moving Train.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tom Curran, for many years a resident of Minot, met death at Great Falls, Mont., Sunday afternoon, by falling between the platforms and under the wheels of a moving Great Northern passenger train.

Mr. Curran, along with Mr. Devereaux of Minot were engaged in construction work on the Billings & Montana road for the past week and had just completed the contract and during the pending of other contract work which the two Minot men had in view Mr. Curran had started for his home in Minot, where it was his intention of spending a few days.

Mr. Curran possessed a pet dog, which in some way or other got away and jumped from the moving train. Mr. Curran immediately ran to the platform and as the dog was running along at the side of the car he endeavored to lift it from the ground back onto the platform and in so doing lost his balance and fell between the platforms of the two cars and was crushed by the wheels.

Indictments Against Four.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 27.—The grand jury which has been investigating the failure of the Owensboro Savings Bank & Trust company and the Davies County Bank & Trust company returned indictments against four officials of the banks today.

WEEK END TRAINS WILL BE RUN IN SEPTEMBER.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The officials of the Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International Railway companies have decided to continue their week-end passenger train from St. Paul to International Falls during the month of September.

This train leaves St. Paul every Saturday evening at 7:30 and goes to International Falls via the Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International railways. The train was first put on May 29, as an experiment for one month. The results were gratifying to railway officials and the train has been continued each month, with a growing business.

NEW WHEAT WORTHLESS.

Professor Elliott Says "Alaska Wheat" is No Good.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 27.—The fields of Alaska wheat, on the Abraham Adams farm, near Julietta, Idaho, have been examined thoroughly by Prof. E. E. Elliot, head of the department of agriculture at Washington state college, who is one of the highest authorities in the United States on wheat, and he pronounces the so-called Alaskan wheat of no value.

Prof. Elliot says the fields he examined would not yield over 35 bushels per acre. Twenty-five per cent of the wheat in Adams' field, the professor says, is not Alaska wheat, it being mixed with other varieties.

The head droops heavily and the grain will lodge badly.

The heads are not of uniform size.

Prof. Elliot says that wheat is never found growing wild, and the highest recorded yield for any wheat is 100 bushels per acre. He predicts that within three years Alaska wheat will be but a memory.

It is also stated that the wheat has no milling value, and that it is no good for stock food.

The grain appears to be an old variety, which has appeared under various names at different times during the past fifty years, but those who experimented with it always found it worthless.

To Succeed Komura.

Tokio, Aug. 27.—It is believed that the successor to Count Komura as Japanese ambassador at London will be Baron Makino Nobuakia, former minister of education.

Blind Pigs Raided.

Garrison, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a surprise for the alleged blind piggers here when Sheriff Beck and deputies of Washburn arrived and raided five of the local pool rooms. Three of the men in charge were arrested, but the other two made their escape.

Among the New Things

New Waists

The pretty nets take renewed prominence among the semi-dressy type, and the new ones are beauties; tasteful bits of color, new mousquetaire sleeves and other new season touches will cause them to be very much worn by the best dressed women. The Tailored Waists, of course, hold first place for trim street wear. Lingerie Waists take their usual place for general wear, as there seems to be naught which can exactly displace them.

Dainty Messalines, Chiffon and Lace Waists for afternoon and evening wear, and Tailored Taffetas or Woolens for general utility or to carry out the three-piece idea with tailored suits—are all favorites of Dame Fashion.

Fall Gloves

Glove arrivals show eight-button gusset styles, trimmed with straps and buttons, at $3.50 and $5.75.

Gauntlet and Slip-Wrist Gloves have been called to general service by style authorities and will be very generally worn. The prices are from $1.50 to $2.50. Short street gloves and the 16-button lengths still hold their respective places and are as good for the coming season as for the season past.

Neckwear

New ideas in high lace stocks, topped by wide ruches —The Gretchen Collar and Bow, the Pierrot Ruffs and all manner of refreshing ideas in Jabots, Collars and Ties, make the new showing a triumphant one.

Autumn Suits

Each season brings two distinct classes—the Conservative, changing but little from year to year, except in length of coat, size of sleeves, length or fullness of skirt and a few trimming touches; and the Ornate models, which exploit the more pronounced changes. This year they have the influence of the Directorate and Empire written all over them. It crops out in the large revers, high neck bands, raised waist lines, big, low cut pockets, button trimming, Persian vesting and other Frenchy touches.

The Girls' Suits

Are ready for Autumn school days. Shapely little tailor-mades, designed with an idea to service. The prices are from $16.50 up.

We are pleased to have you call and see all these new things, if only for the style information, which you gain by the visit.

HAD FRONTAL HEADACHES
EYES BOTHERED ME
DROPPING IN MY THROAT

MRS. ELIZABETH H. MARTIN, 332 Bowen Avenue, Chicago, Ill., Chaplain Garfield Circle, writes:

"Peruna has been a blessing to our family for a good many years, as we have all used it off and on for colds and catarrh, and I have given it to all of my children with the best of results.

"I found that a cold left me with catarrh of the head in a very bad form. My head was stopped up, I had frontal headaches, my eyes bothered me, and there was a nasty dropping in my throat which nauseated me and made it impossible many times for me to eat my breakfast.

"As soon as I began to use Peruna I found it relieved me, my head soon cleared up and in a remarkably short time I was rid of catarrh.

"I can, therefore, give my personal experience with your valuable medicine, and am pleased to do so."

People who prefer solid to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which contain the medicinal ingredients of Peruna.

ARE LOOKING FOR BIG HOWL

City Authorities Expect Trouble in Selecting Hospital Site.

"The fact that certain prominent East end people said they would sell their property at 10 cents on the dollar if the contagious hospital were located near them, has furnished an argument for people in other parts of the city, and now there is going to be a terrible howl wherever the institution is put," said Mayor Haven this morning.

"If we propose to place the hospital in the West end, for example, the people will point to the East enders, and say that because they said they would have to sell out at a sacrifice if the thing came near them, we felt compelled to select a site in some other part of the city. In fact, this argument already has been presented to us. They say that what holds true of the East end also holds true of the West end. The talk of the East enders has made it much harder for us. The worst of it is, it was entirely uncalled for, for we had no intention of locating the hospital there."

BIG REWARD IS OFFERED

Docks at Two Harbors Damaged to Extent of $15,000.

Vandals Steal Launch to Aid Them in Their Work.

The new steel dock of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad at Two Harbors and the machinery used in constructing the dock was damaged to the extent of $15,000 last night by unknown men, supposed to be working their revenge on the American Bridge company for being what is commonly called an "open shop" concern.

The men escaped without being detected. The damage was not discovered until this morning. No dynamite or other explosive was used. The damage consisted in bending, twisting and breaking machinery and iron work of the dock and throwing whatever could be worked loose into the water.

This is merely one of a series of similar outrages perpetrated against the company throughout the country, all of them said to be due to the fact that the American Bridge company, which furnished material for the Two Harbors structure, is opposed to labor unions. Dynamite has been freely used at other places. At Two Harbors so many watchmen were employed that the miscreants were evidently afraid to use any explosive, for fear they would be caught.

Launch Is Stolen.

The bridge company has offered a cash reward of $1,000 for any one giving information which will lead to the arrest of the men who committed last night's outrage. A reward of $500 cash is offered to any one who will furnish information that will lead to the arrest of the man or men who stole a launch from Superior earlier in the week. This launch was used in getting to the dock and later was taken back to Superior and beached.

Agents for the company say that while the whole trouble, all over the United States, started from grievances, real or imagined, held by the structural Iron Workers' union against the American Bridge company, they do not for a moment believe that local members of the union, either in Duluth or Two Harbors, had anything to do with the wrecking of the dock last night. It is believed that the guilty ones in last night's affair were from the outside and unknown in Duluth. It is further believed that officers and members of the local union had no knowledge whatever of the outrage contemplated.

Taking heed from experiences elsewhere in America, officials of the company have been afraid that some attack might be made on the Two Harbors structure, which is the largest ore dock of steel construction in the world. Two weeks ago they received an intimation that such an attack was planned and engaged the services of a large crew of night and day watchmen whose duty it was to constantly on guard and to allow no suspicious character near the scene of operations. The guards were warned to be as vigilant as possible, and not to be afraid of following out their suspicions in any case where they were not absolutely sure that the visitor had legitimate business with the dock people.

Came In Launch.

Most of the watchmen were placed at the land end of the structure, only two or three being placed along the dock. The agents of the company expected that if there was any trouble it would come from the land end of the dock. They were mistaken here, however, for the miscreants approached from the lake in a launch. They stole quietly up to the dock in the darkest hours of the night, landed and set about their work of destruction. It is believed they posted sentinels to watch for the approach of guards, for nothing was discovered of their work until this morning, although to complete the job of destruction they must have been on the dock fully two hours.

They contented themselves with breaking delicate machinery, taking out parts of it and the bridge that could be removed and throwing them far into the lake. Other parts were bent and twisted all out of shape and form, and made utterly valueless. So successfully did they work, that fully $15,000 damage was wrought before their contract of destruction was completed to their satisfaction. Then they boarded their launch again and headed out into the lake.

It developed this morning that the launch was stolen in Superior. The boat was returned to Superior, all right, but not to the boathouse whence it was taken. It was run aground on Connor's Point, and left there until discovered by the owner this morning. It is naturally supposed the gang came back to Superior in the boat, and then took a train for out-of-town points.

LOVING CUPS FOR THREE.

Judge Taft, Wife and Son Are to be Given Them.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 27.—Judge Taft is to be presented with a silver loving cup tonight by the guests of the Homestead hotel. The presentation ceremony is to be made by the juvenile members of the guest body, after a speech by Col. John McAnerney of New York. No appointments have been made by the candidate for the two remaining days of his stay.

Loving cups also are to be presented to Mrs. Taft and to Charlie, the 11-year-old son. The ceremonies are to follow an illusarated lecture by Burr McIntosh, in which fifty or more photographs of Judge Taft in and about the hotel will be shown. Judge Lurton of Tennessee will act as presiding officer for the occasion. The presentation to Mrs. Taft will be by Mrs. Lake Blackburn of Kentucky, and to Charlie by twelve little girls in white.

NEW OFFICERS

CALENDAR IS HEAVY ONE

List of Cases for September Term Longest in History of Court.

Marital Troubles of Thirty-Five Couples to be Passed Upon.

The calendar for the September term of district court has been compiled and the civil list is probably the heaviest in the history of the court. In all, there are 244 civil cases, 174 of which are new cases, filed for this term, and 70 were continued from the last term of court.

Of the new cases 112 are to be tried by jury, 36 by court and 26 are divorce cases. The 70 continued cases are divided into 45 jury, 16 court and 9 divorce cases.

The May term of court, which was an exceptionally heavy one, had 210 cases and the increase of 34 is no insignificant one. The court officers are priming themselves for a long seige of hard work, as many of the cases will be hard fought and will be long drawn out.

Sheriff Bates is busy serving summonses for the grand jury and the jurors will gather on the first day of court next Wednesday. Their work will not be exceptionally heavy this term. There are about thirty prisoners awaiting examination in the county jail, few on very serious charges. George Hamilton will be examined on forgery charges and the assailant of the Aurora marshal has a charge of assault with intent to kill standing against him.

$1000 REWARD

Will be paid for information leading to arrest of parties who wrecked machinery on ore docks at Two Harbors the night of Aug. 26.

$500

Will be paid for information leading to arrest of parties who took launch from West Superior night of Aug. 26.

CARRIES HOME ALONG WITH HIM

Wilson Bradley Will Live in Tent at Rawhide, Nevada.

With his future home, in the form of a tent, packed in his trunk, Wilson Bradley, son of C. H. Bradley, lumberman, left yesterday afternoon for the city of tents, Rawhide, Nev.

Tents are said to be at a premium at the Nevada gold camp, as the demand is greater than the supply. So Mr. Bradley has gone prepared. The innumerable reports of rich strikes that have recently been made at the Rawhide camp, have restarted the rush, which at first built the city to a population of nearly 9,000 in five months. There was a lull then for a time, but new developments have caused a fresh stampede. The length of Mr. Bradley's sojourn in the desert state is undecided.

Mr. Bradley was accompanied on his journey by J. T. Hale and L. H. Merritt, who are going to Rawhide to look after their interests there in the Rawhide Royal gold property, from which lately they have received very favorable reports. On their return trip to Duluth, they will stop off at Milford, Utah, where the Red Warrior and Mowitza silver, lead and copper mines are located, and in which they are also interested. They will probably be away a month.

President Nears Home.

New York, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt and party arrived at Hoboken on a special train over the Lackawanna railroad at 7:55 this morning, from South Columbia, N. Y. The party boarded the yacht Sylph, which immediately started for Oyster Bay.

WILL HEAD VETERANS

Duluth G. A. R. Drum Corps Allotted Place of Honor.

To Lead Minnesota and Wisconsin Divisions in Parade.

Duluth's G. A. R. drum corps will lead the gray-headed veterans of the Civil war from Minnnesota and Wisconsin, in the G. A. R. parade at Toledo, Ohio, next week.

The delegations from the G. A. R. posts of this state and her neighbor will keep time to the music of the Duluthians, who have been heard here on so many occasions of patriotic observance. The corps has been alloted a place of honor and importance in the annual encampment march, which years are curtailing, not only in the number of old soldiers in line, but in the length of the route.

The Duluth delegation to the encampment will leave for the Ohio city Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. It is expected that there will be about fifty persons in the party, including the ladies.

With the drum corps at the head the party will march down Superior street, from Kalamazoo hall to the union depot, where the train will be boarded.

In the Duluth corps are: J. R. Randall, C. T. Plummer, Charles A. Gregory, Franklin Stevenson, Harry G. Champlain, W. W. Huntley, Leonard Keilar, Sylvester G. Sherman, Leverett C. Smith, Llewellyn Smith, Lester Smith, H. H. Covert and John Gunn.

INSPECT THE DULUTH HARBOR

Chicago Harbor Commissioners Spend the Day in Duluth.

A party of members of the Chicago harbor commission was in Duluth yesterday to inspect the local harbor.

They were taken about the harbor in the tug V. H. Raber by Col. Graham D. Fitch, U. S. A., chief of the local corps of United States engineers, and W. E. Gaynor, local manager of the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company.

Those in the party were: Frederick Delano, president of the Wabash Railway company and a member of the Chicago harbor commission; Isham Randolph, chief sanitary engineer of Chicago; George Sykes, secretary of the Chicago harbor commission, and J. M. Ewen, chairman of the commission.

Every member of the party was delighted with the Duluth harbor. They have inspected a number of different harbors on the lakes with a view to making recommendations for the improvement of Chicago's water front, and they said after the trip around the local harbor that they found more of interest and benefit to them than at any place they have visited thus far. They left for Chicago last evening.

DON'T

Miss the Boat club ball game this year. The few who stayed away last year regretted it. It will take place at Athletic park on Saturday afternoon. It costs 25 cents to get in, and that much more for a grand stand seat and permission to throw pop bottles at the umpires.

THE BOAT CLUB BALL GAME

Ten Hats as Prizes to the Most Graceful Players.

A scare was thrown into the ranks of the Duluth Boat club "Bachelors" yesterday afternoon when it was announced that Richard F. Grant would be unable to take part in the annual boat club ball game next Saturday at Athletic park.

Last year Mr. Grant was one of the shining stars of the bachelors' team. In the eighth nining he caught an infield fly unassisted, and when it was heard that he refused to risk his reputation this year, a deputation waited upon him and impressed upon him the importance of sacrificing himself for the good of the cause, especially in view of his present candidacy for the state legislature. He finally weakened and will positively appear Saturday afternoon.

E. P. Towne, who used to tie opposing batsmen in knots, while performing on his college team, will shoot them over for the married men.

Clarence B. Miller, who sprained his ankle in last year's game, and was laid up for several weeks, has been selected by the married men, but will appear as one of the corps of umpires. He will be asked to make a speech after the game if he can be caught. C. E. De Witt, Harvey Clapp and others will assist.

It was rumored that Dr. G. H. Jones, who has had the arrangements in charge, would give a "Salome" dance between innings, if pop bottles were barred from the grounds, but the rumor could not be confirmed, and Dr. Jones refused to either confirm or deny it.

Each side has a list of fifteen men to draw from, and of nine are not enough to properly cover the field, more will be used.

The Waite Hat company has donated ten hats to be given as prizes in whatever way the club may see fit. They will go to the most graceful players.

Following are the players from whom the teams will be chosen:

Married Men—Julius H. Barnes, Fred Reynolds, G. G. Dickerman, Howard T. Abbott, E. P. Towne, C. E. Adams, Frank E. Church, G. H. Jones, F. E. Brooks, J. D. Deighton, John Ball, Ward Ames, Jr., Anthony Puck, Guy E. Warren and B. P. Neff.

Bachelors—Gilbert Cutler, Elmer E. Whyte, Charles J. McBride, Richard Grant, Harry Dinham, Ray Withrow, W. H. Smallwood, C. D. Brewer, Sam D. Glass, Charles H. McLennan, Al Skelton, C. C. Colton, H. Haroldson, Ray Higgins and S. Forgette.

When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by all drugists.

AFFIRMS NEW TRIAL ORDER

Supreme Court Upholds District Court in Powers-Simpson Case.

The mandate of the state supreme court on the appeal of William Delahunt from the order of the district court, granting a new trial in the case of the Power-Simpson company vs. Delahunt. The mandate affirms the order of the lower court.

The suit was instituted by the Powers-Simpson company on a contract entered into between it and Delahunt in 1906. Delahunt contracted to cut some timber for the company, the supplies for the camps to be furnished by the company and Delahunt to pay for them. The suit was for $2,367.51. In his answer, Delahunt put in a counter claim for $4,621.02 and the jury rendered a verdict last November for $4,497.43 in his favor. The motion of the Powers-Simpson company for a new trial was granted by the district court and Delahunt appealed to the supreme court, the order for the new trial being affirmed.

The suit was instituted in the Fifteenth judicial district in Carlton county and was brought to the St. Louis coounty court on a change of venue.

FRENCH CABLE COMPANY GUILTY

Venezuela Courts Fine It $5,000,000 for Aiding Matos.

Caracas, Venezuela, Monday, Aug. 27. via Port of Spain, Trinidad, Aug. 27.—The civil court of first instance today handed down a judgment declaring the French Cable company guilty of complicity in the Matos revolution against President Castro and condemning it to pay damages to the amount of nearly $5,000,000. In addition the company must pay a further amount to be assessed later by experts.

The company may appeal from the decision. It is practically a duplicate of the decision handed down against the New York & Bermudez Asphalt company.

The British minister to Venezuela has been in conference lately with President Castro.

MILLION DOLLARS RAISED

For Aid of Chinese Sufferers From the Big Flood.

Honkkong, China, Aug. 27.—Nearly $1,000,000 has been raised to relieve the sufferers from the flood last month which followed a storm costing 1,000 lives at ocean ports. Subscriptions have been pouring in from all over the world. The Chinese people themselves responded generously to the appal for aid, and for the first time a bazaar run on American lines was opened in Hongkong to raise money. Men paid $100 fo ra drink of lemonade and $50 for side show tickets. The Chinese women learned to derive pleasure from pestering the men until they contributed, even as the American women do.

Meeting Place Changed.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 27.—Secretary Irwin Sheppard of the National Educational association announced yesterday that the department of superintendence would meet in Chicago Feb. 23-24, 1909. The meeting was to have been held in Oklahoma City, but the destruction of the leading hotel there by fire necessitated a change. Between 1,000 and 1,500 principals, superintendents and college presidents will attend the meeting.

CURIOSITY SATISFIED.

Heavyweight Falls Into Concrete Mould of Business University.

A Duluth citizen of considerable avoirdupois who had a great deal of curiosity as to the methods being employed in the concrete construction work of the business university at 118 Fourth avenue west received a lasting impression of this novel building in an unusual and somewhat amusing accident.

While walking along the third floor he dropped about fifteen feet into one of the large wooden chutes that is used as a mould for the concrete pillars. He filled the chute so completely that he could not get his hands and feet to work. Workmen came to his assistance and he was finally taken from his awkward position by means of a rope and tackle.

AUTO FALLS DOWN SHAFT

Peculiar Accident in Minneapolis Automobile Garage.

Minneapolis, Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alvin V. Skiles, 1716 Colfax avenue south, and Don Sheldon, 110 Malcolm avenue south, were victims of a peculiar accident late yesterday in an automobile garage on Hennepin avenue.

Mr. Skiles called at the garage preparatory to taking his machine out for a drive and as was his custom, ascended to the second floor, where his machine was kept, started the engine and machine toward the elevator shaft to lower the car on the elevator. Just about the time Skiles had started the engine and climbed to the steering apparatus, Don Sheldon, the assistant in the garage, was descending on the elevator with another automobile, and had not reached the main floor until Skiles' machine crashed through the elevator gates on the floor above, taking a headlong plunge down the shaft. Fortunately Skiles' massive car struck the strong cross beam of the elevator, causing the machine to be stopped in its plunge and this saved the life of Sheldon, who was seated in the car on the elevator. After little difficulty both men were extricated from their perilous position, none the worse for their experience, although Skiles' car was completely wrecked.

Much Silk Stolen.

New York, Aug. 27.—Ten thousand dollars' worth of silk cloth, enough to fill two vans, was stolen from the warehouse of Katz & Quint in East Twentieth street last night.

THREE MORE EXCURSIONS

Last of Herald's Popular Priced Excursions Saturday and Tuesday.

With the lake excursion Saturday afternoon and the lake and river excursions next Tuesday, The Herald's popular low priced excursions will end for this season. If you have not yet enjoyed a Herald excursion to Fond du Lac, on the steamers Newsboy and Mascotte, or a delightful ride on old Lake Superior, on the steamers Easton and America, don't fail to plan for a trip either Saturday or next Tuesday.

The excursion on the Lake Saturday afternoon and evening promises to be the best of the season. The Northern Railroad club, comprised of railroad men of Duluth, Superior, Two Harbors and the ranges, has made arrangements for its members and their families to enjoy the Saturday excursion, leaving Booth's dock at 4 o'clock. The club will have a band and male quartet, and the excursionists will have plenty of music besides being entertained by other "stunts" that the committee in charge is planning.

The price of tickets for Saturday's excursion remains the same—80 cents. Tickets are now on sale at The Herald office. Buy early, for the sale will be limited.

Medicinal Value of Vegetables.

By the simplest preparation of certain vegetables, nerves may be soothed, bilious attacks warded off, the blood purified and colds averted. The general system may also be toned up by the daily use of golden grain belt beer. A glass at mealtime and before retiring induces peaceful and refreshing sleep; strengthens the brain and gives new life to the tired muscles. Order of Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

DIVORCED WIFE SUES.

Wants Part of Husband's Property and Damages From Rival.

Fergus Falls, Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Albertson has two law suits that promises to develop sensational features, if they come to trial.

The plaintiff in both cases is Mrs. Lena Voelz, formerly of Richville, and now of Minneapolis. The defendants are Albert Voelz of Richville, and Mrs. Albert Voelz.

Mrs. Lena Voelz was formerly the wife of Albert Voelz, but was divorced from him. She now alleges that she did not obtain her rightful share of his property and sues to annul the divorce with a view to determining her right to his property, which is said to be considerable. She sues the present Mrs. Albert Voelz for alienating her husband's affections. Mrs. Albert Voelz was formerly Mrs. Mielke, who married Mr. Voelz shortly after his divorce from Lena Voelz. The plaintiff wants $10,000 in damages.

Manufacturers Adopt New Way of Introducing Goods

Cas-Ka in Duluth

Free for Two Months. We Gave This Medicine to Over 500 People Last Friday and Saturday At Boyce's Drug Store.

F. J. McMillan, known as the Cas-Ka man, has arrived in the city and in reply to questions asked him as to the length of his visit, replied that he would be here for the next two months to meet Duluth people and explain what Cas-ka does. "We do not intend to ask your people to buy this preparation all the time I am here, but I do ask the public to give Cas-Ka a trial at our expense."

"Do you have many people come to try your medicine, free?" Mr. McMillan was asked. "Yes, indeed," he replied, "you will see that in less than ten days I will be giving away Cas-Ka to between 400 and 500 people every day."

"And do all of these people buy some of the medicine?" was another question asked Mr. McMillan.

"All of those that the medicine helps will certainly buy and recommend it to their friends. They may not purchase it while I am here advertising, but we will show them what the medicine will do and if they are ever bothered again we are confident they will buy Cas-Ka then. The next time you go by Boyce's drug store stop in and ask one of the clerks for a sample of Cas-Ka."

Mr. McMillan then produced a long list of names of the people living in Fargo, Grand Forks, Crookston, Mankato, Fergus Falls, Winona, St. Cloud and other cities who were benefited by the use of Cas-Ka, among them being clergymen, lawyers, judges and business men, all prominent and well known, whose recommendation can be relied upon.

"If you ask the manager of Boyce's store," continued Mr. McMillan, "he will tell you that my letters of recommendations are from leading druggists of the state, some of them being members of the state board of pharmacy. You may think this is boasting on my part, but I may add if you will come to me one month from today I will show you many testimonials from Duluth people that Cas-Ka has helped.

"We only claim Cas-Ka for one thing," said Mr. McMillan, "the blood, and it first places the stomach in the proper condition. And to show Cas-Ka's action on the kidneys, which cures rheumatism. People that have to get up at night and bed-wetting children are relieved in four or five days. And the next two months will tell if this is the truth or not.

"Cas-Ka is manufactured by J. W. Harrington & Co. of Marshall, Mich.," continued Mr. McMillan. "I have letters in my possession from every druggist we have ever sold Cas-Ka to, as I have made every town in Minnesota larger than Crookston, and have a letter from every one and some of them are members of the state board of pharmacy in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, North Dakota and other states. So you can see we are not strangers in this state.

"If those of Duluth, who are troubled with bad stomachs or weak kidneys will call at the drug store it will require only a few days to demonstrate what Cas-Ka is. And your people should bear in mind that this trial will cost you nothing.

"Read next week's papers or get one of the hand bills for the testimonials of Grand Forks, Fargo, Crookston and Fergus Falls people who have used Cas-Ka.

"We want all those bothered with rheumatism to try Cas-Ka. If you are so situated so you can not come twice a day to try Cas-Ka free, you can get one of the $1.00 bottles for 35 cents, and if it does not help you, bring back the bottle and get your money back. You can use part or the entire bottle as a test. Mail orders will receive prompt attention from those living a distance from Duluth."

PLUMMER YOUTH HAS DISAPPEARED

Posses Search in Vain for Red Lake County Printer.

Plummer, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—No trace has yet been found of Harry Colby, the 15-year-old printer, who was employed by Charles Latta of the Plummer Pioneer. He complained of being ill last Monday morning and at 9:30 started out for a walk in the woods, taking a book and a revolver. That was the last seen of him and it is feared he is lost. Monday evening and all day Tuesday and Wednesday posses searched in the woods for him and every town was telephoned, but he appeared to have dropped completely out of existence. He left all his clothes except what he had on and had but a few cents in money. Some fear that he accidentally shot himself with the revolver and is lying wounded or dead in the forest somewhere. His home was at Fertile, where his mother resides, but who is at present visiting in Fertile, Iowa. He also has a brother at Beltrami.

MILWAUKEE MAN PRESIDENT.

Wisconsin Hibernians Adjourn After Electing Officers.

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—After selecting Janesville for the next meeting in 1910 and electing officers, the biennial convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Wisconsin adjourned here with a banquet. The new officers of the state organization are: President, J. P. Colian of Milwaukee; vice president, George B. McCall of Chippewa Falls; treasurer, Frank L. Mathews of Ashland; secretary, J. P. Hefferman of Janesville.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

Forest fires that have been raging for nearly forty-tight hours between the third and fourth range back of Mount Wilson, Cal., on the government forest reservation continued Wednesday, devastating large forest regions. A large force of rangers has been assembled to fight the flames.

A party of government wireless telegraph experts left the Mare Island navy yard for Alaska, where they will establish a new wireless station near Valdez, which will be the last of a chain of stations established at intervals of 200 miles along the coast from Point Loma, near San Diego to Alaska.

Failing to persuade the miners at the Hudson mine at Terre Haute, Ind., to returne to work, National President Lewis of the Mine Workers of America, late Wednesday night revoked the local charter.

There was a light fall of snow in the suburbs of Baltimore, Wednesday night and flurries were reported from other points in Maryland.

Two children of Peter Good, a farmer of Ethelbert, Man., were cut off in an upper story of their home by fire Tuesday night and were burned to death.

TWO ELEVATORS, ALSO SOO STATION BURNED.

Underwood, N. D., Aug. 27.—The Farmers' elevator and the C. G. Ireys elevator were destroyed by fire early yesterday. The Soo station, where the fire originated, was also destroyed. The total loss was about $15,000, partially insured.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Sold by all druggists."

COLORED ELKS FACTIONS HAVE FINALLY UNITED.

St. Paul, Aug. 27.—The Atkins faction of the I. B. P. O. E. (colored Elks) holding its annual session in St. Paul has ratified the report sent in by the Howard section which unites the two organizations after a split of several years.

The two factions will meet at Detroit next year in separate sessions and wind up their respective business whereupon they will adjourn to meet in united session immediately. At this session a temporary organization will be formed which will proceed to elect officers for the permanent organization. This will unite upwards of 28.00 colored men in the largest body of its kind in America.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is sold under a positive guarantee to cure constipation, sick headache, stomach trouble, or any form of indigestion. If it fails, the manufacturers refund your money. What more can any one do. Sold by all druggists.

TABLET TO FARRAGUT

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 27.—Some 3,000 shipmates, relatives, friends and admirers of Admiral David Glasgow Farragut yesterday paid a tribute to the memory of the hero of many battles of the sea in the dedication of a memorial tablet in the Portsmouth navy yards. The commandant house at the navy yards, where the famous fighter died, was the scene of the exercises, and Admiral George Dewey, who served with Farragut, lifted the covering from the tablet. The exercises were very simple. The chaplain of the yard, Rev. Frank Thompson, officiated, after which Admiral Dewey stepped to the front and following a few extemporaneous words unveiled the tablet.

The memorial bears this inscription: "Died in this house Aug. 14, 1870—David Glasgow Farragut, admiral in the United States navy. Faithful and fearless."

In opposite corners of the tablet are displayed the United States seal and the regulation anchor of the United States navy.

HEAVY RAIN AND COLD WEATHER IN NEW YORK.

New York, Aug. 27.—A terrific downpour of rain lasting more than twenty-four hours, and attended by the coldest August weather New York has experienced for twenty-three years, was responsible for two deaths yesterday and great property damage. More than three inches of rain fell and the thermometer registered as low as 56 degs. The gale during the night tore up trees and leveled field crops in the vicinity of New York. Those to meet death were John Lynch, who drowned in a sewer, and an unidentified cripple, who perished from exposure in an East side hallway.

Several buildings in course of construction collapsed when their foundations became inundated. At Fire Island, the Surf hotel, sank several inches and part of the building fell. Miss Oakley, daughter of the proprietor, was injured by falling plaster, but the guests eccaped unhurt.

"PURIFIER WHITESIDE" WOULD RUN FOR CONGRESS.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 27.—The greatest sensation in Montana politics this fall has been the announcement of Fred Whiteside, editor of the Kalispell Bee, that he will seek the Democratic nomination for congress.

Whiteside is a representative from Flathead county, while Thomas D. Long, senator from the same county, has been in the field for some time. Former Governor Toole is also understood to be a candidate for this position.

Whiteside is the minority floor leader in the house and Long holds the same position in the senate.

Whiteside created Montana's greatest sensation eight years ago, when, during a senatorial contest, he walked to the speaker's desk and deposited $30,000 in $1,000 bills, saying it had been given him for voting for W. A. Clark, and which resulted in the Butte man's resignation from the federal congress ultimately.

Charles N. Pray the present congressman, will have no opposition in the Republican convention.

WEST END

WILD WEST, BOYS' RAGE

West End Youngsters Are Now Imitating Buffalo Bill.

Lasso Smaller Fry in "Arenas" Made of Burlap.

"Wild West" is now the rage among the youngsters of the West end. Last Saturday they saw the marvelous equestrian and sharp-shooting feats of Buffalo Bill and his company of Indians, cowboys and soldiers, and their emulation of Col. Cody and his riders is in full blast.

Arenas made of burlap have been put up, and from behind them come the shrill cries of the Willies, Charlies, Jimmies, Oscars and Patricks who are enacting the roles of bloodthirsty Indians or dare-devil cowboys.

The cowboys induce the smaller fry to romp past them in imitation of bronchos or steers and allow themselves to be lassoed. The characters of bronchos and steers are not much sought by the little fellows, however. They want to be cowboys, too.

The Wild West show business will probably keep the kids interested in the back yards where the burlap "arenas" flutter in the breeze until the end of the vacation comes and they must think once more of their books and football.

Many Attend Picnic.

The picnic at Lincoln park yesterday given by the United Order of Foresters of Duluth and Superior, was largely attended. There were a number of interesting athletic events during the day. The tug of war could not be decided, as the rope which was first used broke, and later a chain gave way during the contest. William McQuinn won the fat men's race, beating David Butchart.

In the evening there was dancing in the Lincoln park pavilion.

West End Shortrails.

Miss Katherine Dembrault has gone to Minneapolis, where she will visit relatives and attend the state fair next week.

Miss Edith Pederson will leave next week for Brainerd, Minn., where she will enter the Northern Pacific hospital as a nurse.

Joseph Braff returned yesterday from Madison, Wis., where he has been visiting friends.

Arthur Holzmann has gone to McKinley, Minn., to enter the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Batte of the Osborn flats have gone to Ashland to visit Mrs. Batte's parents.

The West End Democratic club is laying plans for a big rally under its auspices for the near future. It is planned to secure some of the leading Democrats of the state as the speakers.

Frank Seward of St. Paul and Gus Bleberman of La Crosse were in the West end yesterday. They are on their way to Grand Rapids, from which place they will start on a canoe trip and outing. They spent yesterday with Mr. Seward's friends in the West end.

Mrs. John Peterson of 1815 West Superior street, who is quite ill, has been removed from her home to St. Luke's hospital.

Miss Johanna Johnson of West Third street, and her guest, Miss Gertrude Whipple, have gone to Minneapolis for a visit.

Pat Berhens has returned from St. Croix Falls, where he has been for the past month.

John McClure has gone to French River for a week's camping.

Patrolman David Olson has returned from a ten days' outing.

Miss Irene Pratto of the United States block is entertaining Miss Helen Seabrooke of Seattle, Wash.

Felix McLaughlin, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Rachael Duff, left yesterday for St. Paul.

Rev. C. H. Hjorthome and family of Ellsworth, Iowa, are visiting Richard Hanson of Twenty-fifth avenue west. At one time Mr. Hjorthome was pastor of Zion Norwegian Lutheran church in the West end.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Butler have returned from a fishing trip.

Dr. Davis is visiting at Mount Clemens, Mich.

Many West enders attended the funeral of Daniel Donovan, the pioneer resident of Duluth, who died this week, at St. Clement's church this morning. It was under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of which he was a member. The interment took place at Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Charles Baxter of West Fourth street entertained at cards yesterday in honor of Mrs. E. H. Trump of St. Louis, who is her guest. The favors went to Mrs. Trump, Mrs. A. J. McClough and Mrs. J. Manson. Mrs. Baxter was assisted about the rooms by Miss Lottie Crowley and Mrs. Thomas Getts.

This woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her life. Read her letter.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For years I suffered with the worst forms of female complaints, continually doctoring and spending lots of money for medicine without help. I wrote you for advice, followed it as directed, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I should have been in my grave to-day. I wish every suffering woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

forms of their party. Mr. Taft, he said, was not the heir to Republican reforms. Mr. Bryan said in part:

"You know it would be very hard for me to make a political speech in Salem, because a good many of my earlier acquaintances here were Republicans, and I would not for the world say anything that would hurt the feelings of any Republican friends. But I was thinking today of a story that might fit this case; especially would it fit the case with the Republicans who are friendly to Mr. Roosevelt. I got this story in Canada. An American official up there told it to me. He said that there was a man nominated for office, and he was very anxious to poll a big vote in his home town, or the town he was born in, and he went back there and made a speech, and they turned out, those of his own party and those of other parties, and he made a personal appeal to them. He told them that he was very anxious to have a large vote in the town of his birth, just as a compliment to him, and in the course of his speech he said:

"Many of you will not agree with me in party affiliations, but I believe you will vote for me just for old friendship's sake; and he pointed to an old man named Smith. He said: Now there is old brother Smith. I know we do not believe in the same party, but I have known him from the time I was a boy and he has known me, and I believe that Brother Smith will vote for me just for old acquaintance sake. Won't you, Brother Smith?

Reforms Come by Descent.

"Now Brother Smith was a very frank old man and he blurted out: 'I would rather vote for the devil first.' 'Well,' responded the young man, 'as your friend is not running this year, cannot I expect your vote?' And so I feel that, as the friend of the Roosevelt Republicans is not running this year, I am going to get some of their votes. But I might put it on a stronger ground than that. There are certain things that come naturally by descent, and reforms come by descent. You cannot convey a reform by will. The president has tried to bequeath certain reforms to the Republican candidate, but I am the next of blood in the reform business and they come to me. In fact, I think I could make it stronger than that. If a man dies and leaves no children the property goes back to his parents, and so far as reforms are concerned, the Republican party has died without heirs and the reforms go back to the one from whom the Republican party got the reforms.

"So I think I have a right to expect a good many Republican votes this year. Then, my friends, I am expecting large additions to the Democratic vote because the times are ripe for a change in administration. Mr. Taft was making a speech over in Virginia and he forgot that there was a country outside, and he was making the speech for the Republicans of Virginia, and he told those people that when a party stayed in power a good while, it was apt to become corrupt, and it was a good thing to have a change. His remarks have a larger application that he made of them that day, and if a party in a state will get in a position where a change is necessary or even desirable, I want to say to you that when you apply it to a national party, the reason for a change is still greater; for the farther many get away from home, the more apt they are to forget the people at home, and these Republicans in national offices have been serving far away from home, and they have forgotten the struggling masses at home.

Shall the People Rule?

"In our platform we declared that the overshadowing issue was, 'Shall the people rule?' Mr. Taft says that they do rule. That is a question about which there is a difference of opinion. All who think they do rule today will differ from me; all who think they do not rule will differ from Mr. Taft. Mr. Sherman said that the people do rule. He ought to know better, for he has been one of the fellows who has kept them from ruling; in the house of representatives he has been one of the men responsible for the thwarting of the will of the people. I lay down the proposition that the American people today do not rule. They do not conduct their own government, and a government conducted by others is not responsive to the will of the people. Now, if I am right, Mr. Taft is wrong, and Mr. Sherman is wrong. When they say that the people do rule, they admit that the people ought to rule, and if they admit that the people ought to rule, if I can convince the country that the people do not rule, then we are entitled to a verdict at this election, and I am willing to meet the issue."

Mr. Bryan then discussed the publicity of the campaign contribution plank contained in the Democratic platform, saying that the contributions from the great favor-seeking corporations had been used to put into power people who, when in power, were obligated and mortgaged to the men who helped elect them.

"There are men in this audience today," he said, "who have learned within five years that the money they were paying to insurance companies was in part given to the Republican campaign fund to help carry elections."

Mr. Bryan also said that the present rules of the house of representatives destroy the opportunity of the people controlling their own government, and charged that they had converted the popular branch of the government into a despotism. He also discussed the tariff and trust questions, outlining his remedies in the Des Moines and Indianapolis speeches.

"KNEE BRACELET."

Latest Sensation to be Sprung by the Chicago Jewelers.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—The knee bracelet, to be worn by the fairer sex below that portion of the anatomy which the name indicates, and with a directoire gown, is the latest sensation to be sprung by the State street jewelers.

If women must be fashionable this fall they must wear the bracelet, which is liberally set with sparkling stones, and is bound to attract some attention even when out of position with each directoire gown in which they appear.

Advance styles in adjustable sizes arrived yesterday. Half a dozen of them displayed in a jeweler's window who first received them were quickly sold. By evening the clerks no longer blushed when asked for the "knee bracelet," but were handling them out like they would sugar spoons or salt and pepper sets.

MINNESOTANS MAKE GOOD.

David Hilger Likely to be Nominated Lieutenant Governor in Montana.

Lewistown, Mont., Aug. 27.—Two sons of Minnesota are likely to figure on state tickets here this fall. David Hilger of Lewistown, who came out from the old home in Minnesota many years ago a poor boy, and who is now president of a bank, has announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor, and there appears to be no doubt at all that he will receive the nomination.

Judge E. K. Cheadle, also of Lewistown, formerly of Brainerd, Minn., and a brother of City Clerk Cheadle of Duluth is the leading Republican candidate for the nomination of governor, but will have strong opposition. Recently Judge Cheadle was injured in an automobile accident while on his way to Helena, and is still laid up.

BULB DID NOT BREAK.

A 32-candle-power incandescent electric bulb fell from the roof of the Spalding hotel to the cement sidewalk on Superior street yesterday afternoon without breaking. People who have dropped one of the bulbs on to the floor in their own homes, only to hear it explode with a sound like the report of a gun, will find this hard to believe, but there are several witnesses who testify to the truth of the story.

A man was replacing some of the lights on the roof of the hotel, when one of the bulbs slipped from his hand and fell to the street below. The heavy steel end swung downwards, naturally, and of course was the first to hit the sidewalk. It landed just right to protect the glass part of the bulb, and, to the surprise of several people who narrowly escaped being hit by it, the bulb toppled over on its side and lay there unbroken.

MARRIED WOMEN

Every woman covets a shapely figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this liniment prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend makes the danger of child-birth less, and carries her safely through this critical period. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this remedy.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

FOUR AFTER EACH OFFICE

Forty-Nine Have Filed for Twelve Offices in Polk County.

Two Democrats Fool Republicans by Filing for Legislative Offices.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last day for filing for nominations brought no sensations in Polk county, barring the filing of two candidates for the Democratic nomination for two representatives from the Sixty-second legislative district. They are W. W. Brown of McIntosh and Frank Kohler of Rhinehart. The filing of these two men will make considerable difference in the contest on between Messrs. Stair, George, Holton and Sangstad for the Republican nomination, as it means that more Democratic votes will be cast than would otherwise have been the case. It also means that if Sangstad and Holton should win out, Kohler and Brown would receive a big vote from the Republican ranks, as they have incurred the enmity of a certain faction, which will work to encompass their defeat. Thomas Mellum of Mentor is the Prohibition candidate and W. B. Mellang is the candidate of the Socialists. The other filings late yesterday were all Democratic and included F. E. Le Page, Mentor, for county commissioner, and Nels Peterson of Crookston for county treasurer.

In all there are forty-nine candidates for twelve offices and the contest at the primaries, as well as at the general election, will be the most spirited that has been witnessed here in many years. The fight for the Republican nomination for sheriff is the most bitter, with nine men in the race.

BUSY TIMES IN CITY OF AKELEY

Hubbard County Metropolis Notes Improvement in Conditions.

Akeley, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive improvements are being made at the Red River Lumber company's big sawmill plant, which are greatly encouraging to the business men and citizens. In spite of the dull business season, the mills have been busy, and a large crew of men is engaged in constructing a very large storehouse, 75 by 126 feet, to store machinery and the logging equipments. Another story will be added to the box factory and several new machines will be placed in operation. These improvements will almost double the number of men employed in making boxes.

The new machine shop recently constructed is being fitted with several new machines, and a mammoth derrick, a steam engine, and a gasoline engine to give power for the shop. Here the company's machinery and the engine will be repaired, and a small-gauge railroad track has been laid from the mills to the shops.

In the town proper new sidewalks are being laid for four blocks, and the streets are to be improved. W. J. Butler, Bert Rodman and several other business men have made extensive improvements on their town property, and the city fire hall has been entirely remodeled, as well as the band stand in the center of the town. Several new houses have been built, and Akeley has been busy several weeks making improvements.

Farmers are taking lumber to their farms and making new homes or enlarging their residences and barns, and altogether Akeley is recovering from the recent financial trouble that struck the whole country.

Some recent real estate transactions have been made, and the constant growth of the town continues.

INSPECTING ST. CROIX.

Government Engineers Are Looking Over the Proposition.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)— Maj. F. R. Shunk and Maj. R. Davenport of the corps of United States engineers in charge of river improvements, came here yesterday in pursuance of a plan outlined some time ago to make an inspection of the St. Croix. They took the gasoline launch Clyde and made a trip downward as far as Afton.

They had ama pshowing the features of the river and planned an especial investigation of the points at Cat Fish bar and near the Hudson bridge. An inspection of the river between here and Taylors Falls is contemplated for the future.

The inspection is being made at the instance of Congressman F. C. Stevens who has been requested to take an interest in the matter by river men. It is his intention to urge congress to make an appropriation for improving the St. Croix and the report made by the engineers will be used in the way of information.

MOVED MANY BEES.

Wisconsin Apiarist Used Barge on Mississippi River.

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 27.—H. J. Stahmann, who conducts an apiary at Bruce, Wis., passed down the river day before yesterday with an army of honey bees, which he valued at $5,000.

The little honeymakers in countless thousands and their hives were towed in a barge, fifty feet long and twenty feet wide. The barge was screened off with mosquito netting.

The bees were taken up river several weeks ago, when the basswood blossoms were in bloom, and placed all along the St. Croix, between Marine Mills and Taylors Falls.

Thousands of bees escaped from the barge all along the line, but they followed it the entire distance, although at times they were more than a mile behind the barge.

A stop of two hours was made here to enable the stragglers to catch up with the main army. William Reinshardt towed the barge through Lake Pepin for Mr. Stahmann, and although his launch and barge were fully twenty feet ahead of the barge, he admits that it was not a pleasant trip. He was very kind to the bees and let them walk all over him, and completed the trip without being stung.

PULLED GUN MUZZLE FIRST.

It Went Off and Stillwater Man Was Killed in Far North.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gustave Balfanz, 35, for many years a mill hand here, was killed in Alberta, N. W. T., this week while hunting, according to advices received here. The tragedy happened on Paddle river, northwest of Edmonton. Balfanz and a companion were hunting, and Balfanz stopped to tie his shoe. He picked up the gun with the muzzle toward him. The trigger caught in some brush and the full charge entered Balfanz's breast, killing him instantly.

MINOT WILL EXPLORE.

Fifty Thousand Dollars Raised to Drill for Gas.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a mammoth meeting at the Commercial club $50,000 was pledged in a surprisingly short space of time by fifty of Minot's most prominent business men for the purpose of exploiting the oil and gas fields in the immediate vicinity of the Magic City.

The meeting was composed of fifty of the men who have always been foremost in the upbuilding of Minot and Northwestern North Dakota, and believing that the time had come for concerted action, the proposition was taken up in a business-like manner, the money pledged, officers elected, and from now on the investigation will be pursued by some of the most expert oil and gas men in the country in a systematic manner.

John Eltz was elected chairman of the organization, while Attorney Arthur Le Sueur is the secretary. A committee consisting of John Eltz, Ed Kelly, John Lee and Nick Hendrickson were appointed to make a flying trip to Westhope to investigate the operations there, and left immediately after the meeting for the fields at that place.

TROOPS COMING HOME.

North Dakota Soldiers Are Leaving Encampment in Washington.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to a letter received from a member of Company B, National Guard, which has been camped at American Lake, Wash., the regiment will start homo today, and they expect to land in this city about Aug. 31 or Sept. 1. The letter stated that the regiment of this state participated in a big sham battle, which was held Monday and Tuesday, in which both the regulars and the state soldiers took part.

GIANTS GOING HUNTING.

Fourteen Men of Large Size Apply for Licenses.

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 27.—Fourteen men of Albany, every one over five feet and seven inches, want hunting licenses. Supervisor A. B. Comstock brought their applications with him, and he will take back the desired documents.

These fourteen men are all above the average height. Four of them are over six feet tall, one of them being 6 feet 3½ inches high. Another is even 6 feet 3 inches.

When these modern giants get to prowling through the woods of Green county, after the hunting season opens, it will not be the lack of strength that will prevent them from continuing on the trail of their game.

HE SHOT IN REVENGE.

Italian Says He Was Sore Over Being Robbed.

Rochester, Minn. Aug. 27.—Frank Trezza is the name given by the Italian who figured so prominently in the shooting affair of Monday in Mayo park, when he was brought before the city justice, late Tuesday afternoon, to tell his story. According to Trezza, he received a check of something over $20 for pay for his work at St. Mary's hospital. He cashed it at Devillier's saloon Saturday night, and it was here that he met the two men.

The Italian claims that the men urged him to accompany them, and that in an alley they relieved him of something over $16. He admits shooting the men, and says that it was done in revenge. His story of the shooting practically agrees with that of the men and the boy who witnessed the affair. He says he found the revolver in Chicago and that he spent 10 cents for the cartridges at a hardware store in this city. He claims a residence in this country of fourteen months.

IS COMING TO DULUTH.

Ishpeming Instructor Will Take Position Here.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. G. Geiger, instructor at the manual training school in this city, has resigned his position and will leave next Monday for Duluth, where he is to have charge of the manual training school there. Mr. Geiger will receive a much larger salary in Duluth than he was paid here. The school is considerably larger and there will be much more responsibility. He is a fine instructor, one of the best that the local schools have ever had, and his departure will be regretted by many here. The board has three different men in view for the place, and it is expected that one of them will be secured within a day or two.

WINS SMALL WAGER, BUT FORFEITS LIFE.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—To win a wager of 50 cents Frank Luck, 31 years old, living with his mother at 755 Whitall street, last Monday drank a quart of whiskey in a Payne avenue saloon.

He died at the City hospital yesterday after forty-eight hours of intense suffering.

MANKATO'S NEW CHARTER COMMISSION IS NAMED.

Mankato, Minn., Aug. 27.—Mankato is to have a new and up-to-date city charter. This is the desire of the citizens as expressed through the city council, the Commercial club and the newspapers, and District Judge A. R. Pfau appointed the following charter commission to serve for four years: George M. Palmer, John Nyquist, E. Wise, F. K. Meagher, Henry Himmelman, Jr.; H. F. Leonard, Henry Fricke, T. R. Caughlan, H. H. Tompkins, Claus Swanson, Adolph Lille, Charles T. Taylor, and B. F. Fay.

FIRST MINNESOTA VET HEEDS FINAL SUMMONS.

Fairmont, Minn., Aug. 27.—Artemus L. M. Decker, a veteran of the famous First Minnesota, is dead at his home in this city from cancer of the stomach. Mr. Decker worked as a government mail clerk until three weeks ago. He enlisted in Company F of the First Minnesota, the company of which William Colville, later colonel of the regiment and brevet brigadier general, was captain. He participated in all of the hard service which ave the old First its enduring fame. He was present with his command at Gettysburg, but being severely wounded earlier in the action, did not participate in the famous charge. At the expiration of his enlistment he was transferred to the First batttalion and served until June, 1864, when he was discharged for wounds. Immediately after the war Mr. Decker came to this country and has lived here ever since. He was 68 years of age. He is survived by a wife and large family of children.

BOAT RUNS AGROUND.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 27.—The excursion steamer, Plow Boy, with a large party of copper country young society people on board, returning from a social evening at the White City, Portage entry, ran aground near the entrance to Big Portake lake at about midnight and is still hard on. The passengers were taken off at 6 o'clock in the morning after a most trying night, and finally brought to Houghton. Tugs are at work on the Plow Boy.

GRAND FORKS VET DIES.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—After several weeks of suffering William James, a veteran and member of the Grand Army of the Republic, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. J. Adkins. The funeral will be held from the Methodist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will be in charge of the Willis A. Gorman post, G. A. R., the remains to be interred in the Grand Army lot in Memorial park.

TWENTY-TWO BANKERS IN FEDERAL PENITENTIARY.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 27.—With the arrival at Leavenworth, Kan., of George D. Perrin, the young Hot Springs, S. D., banker, who was sentenced to five years in the federal prison for embezzlement, there are now twenty-two bankers in the Kansas institution.

Baptists Are Meeting.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Marquette Baptist association, comprising all the churches of that denomination in Northern Michigan, began its nineteenth annual meeting here yesterday. The annual sermon was delivered by Rev. C. A. Smith of Sault Ste. Marie.

To Rebuild Stave Mill.

Gladstone, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is announced that the Northwestern Cooperage & Lumber company's stave mill here, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt as soon as practicable, and will be larger than the old plant and equipped with more modern machinery. The factory has been in operation for fifteen years, and was one of Gladstone's principal industries. It employed more than 100 men. The loss from the fire was approximately $35,000, partially covered by $20,000 insurance.

Move to Houghton County.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Announcement is made that William Beltner & Son will move their butter dish plant from Traverse City to Upper Michigan, where they own a large tract of timber, and where there is also other available timber for a long-time run. The factory will be located at Sidnaw, Houghton county, where a large building is being remodeled to meet the requirements of the plant. The Beltner sawmill and chair factory, located on Boardman lake, will probably follow in another year. The firm still has some timber in the vicinity of Traverse City which will first be used.

Increases Its Capital.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis Dry Goods company has filed notice of the increase of its capital from $200,000 to $400,000. President C. F. Gordon says the company has always carried a large surplus and that at a meeting of the directors on Aug. 1, it was decided to double the stock. There will be no change in the makeup of the firm or in the stockholders.

Ironwood Woman Dead.

Negaunee, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Michael Ryan of Ironwood, for a number of years a resident of Negaunee, and well known to many here, died Monday afternoon after two days illness. She was a daughter of Capt. and Mrs. James F. Foley of Negaunee, and the captain left for Ironwood to attend the funeral, which will be held this morning. The deceased was about 60 and is survived by her husband, five sons and two daughters.

Their Picnic Supper Stolen.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 27.—A picnic party, headed by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Meader and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Cathcart, drove out for evening supper at Five Mile dam. Before eating they took a walk down on the rocks, and when they returned they found that thieves had stolen their picnic baskets, which included the supper, dishes, silver spoons, knives and forks, tablecloth, etc., leaving only the rigs. They had to drive back to town for their suppers.

A New Back for an Old One—How It Is Done in Duluth.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame, to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Follow the example of this Duluth citizen.

Ernest Grotke of 226 Fourth avenue east, Duluth, Minn., mason, says: "I speak from experience when I say Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable and valuable remedy. I first heard of their merits from a friend, who had received gratifying results in his own case, and I was then suffering from severe, dull pains in the small of my back and loins, and had become so bad that I was almost compelled to give up my work. I procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. Although other remedies had failed to help me, I soon noticed the benefit and kept on using Doan's Kidney Pills until the pain and other symptoms gradually but surely disappeared, and I was entirely free from the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

JACOBSON'S PLACE.

All of the arguments that have thus far been put forth for Mr. Jacobson's candidacy for the governorship, including those made by himself, tend to one conclusion: that he was a good member of the legislature, and that he ought to be back in that body instead of seeking the governorship.

There is a place for a man like Jacobson in the legislature. He watches the pennies, and during his entire legislative career he was a "watchdog of the treasury." He carried this too far at times, as when he opposed liberal appropriations for education, and as when he fought the state university, opposed appropriations for it and declared it to be a breeding place for snobs. Yet treasury watchdogs usually do go too far; and they are valuable in legislative bodies nonetheless because they form a balance for members who may be perhaps too liberal in their views about spending the state's money.

But when it comes to putting such a man into the governorship, where his narrow ideas may be exerted to the extent of vetoing appropriations altogether, it is a different matter. In the legislature he is merely one of more than a hundred members. He has but one vote, and if he influences other votes it must be by argument. Even though his notions of economy may be dangerously narrow, his capacity for harm is small, because the other members may be depended upon to arrange a compromise between his niggardliness and their liberality which is likely to be about the right thing to do. In the governorship, however, he has full sweep, subject only to the right of the legislature to pass appropriations over his veto, a thing that it is very hard to do because of the large majority required.

In short, such a man may effect true economy in the legislature by forcing compromises; but in the governorship there would be no compromise so long as he held and exercised the right to veto any measure he pleased. Though Mr. Jacobson's legislative work resulted in practical economies, it was not because he had his will, but because he was able to force compromises with those who pleaded for more liberal expenditures. If he had had his will, his economies would inevitably have taken the form of that false parsimony which amounts in the end to actual extravagance. In the governorship he would have a long-delayed chance to run riot with his pruning knife unhampered by sound and economical liberality, and the result could not fail to be disastrous to the state, particularly to the educational system of which Minnesota is so proud, but which Mr. Jacobson himself has never been disposed to deal with fairly.

There is a place for Mr. Jacobson in the legislature, a place that has not been properly filled since he left that body. That is where he should be, and to say so is no argument in behalf of his governorship ambitions. In view of his attitude toward education, it is painful to contemplate what the result would be if he were put in a place where he could exercise unchallenged power over the state university and the state public school system. In view of his narrow ideas of economy, it is distressing to contemplate what would happen to the projects for the development of Northern Minnesota which call for liberal appropriations. Valuable as Mr. Jacobson could make himself in the legislature, the governorship is the last place the people of Minnesota should give him. His economy has too much of the "penny wise, pound foolish" about it to make it safe to trust him with the veto.

REAL COMPETITION?

Grand news it was that the wires brought The Herald yesterday from Chicago, to the effect that there is about to be real competition in the meat business.

It has been so long since the American people really experienced competition in this business that it is possible they will not know how to take it, but on the whole they will try bravely to bear up under the shock. Indeed, the only fear now is that the news is too good to be true.

The Chicago dispatch published in The Herald last evening said that the competition is going to be so real that it will even involve a reduction in the retail prices of meats. Furthermore, the competition is going to be all along the line, so that not only the consumer but the cattle-raiser and the retailer will benefit from it.

An independent concern, said to be amply capitalized, has been formed to begin business about Oct. 1. It will build stockyards in Chicago, and it will do all that the meat trust now does, and do it better and in a less hoggish manner. That is what is claimed for it. As for the people who are called upon to believe it, they will require that it be demonstrated. They are more than willing to see competition revived, for it has been dead so long that it is nearly as antique as the spinning wheel, and quite as great a curiosity.

Here's good luck to the independent concern which is going to do battle with the meat trust, and may the time when one swallows up the other and buries competition again be long postponed.

THE TWO ISSUES.

Whether or not William Jennings Bryan is going to be successful in his third battle for the presidency it is at present hard to say; it is always hard to say what the outcome of a political campaign is going to be, because the truth is down in the hearts of the voters and not upon the vociferous tongues of campaign claimants; but whether he wins or loses, the nation will be under a great obligation to him for stating the issues of this campaign, and of all campaigns until they are finally decided, more clearly than they have yet been stated.

In his speeches thus far in the campaign two issues have been urged, and they are fundamental and vital:

First, Shall the people rule?

Second, Shall society return to each individual a fair remuneration—no more, no less—for his service to society?

All other issues are embodied in these two. Issues of abstract prosperity, without regard to its distribution, are false issues, designed to confuse the mind of the voter. It is important that the nation shall be rich and prosperous, but it is far more important still that this wealth and prosperity shall be well distributed. A nation in which wealth is congested in the hands of a few, balanced at the other end by suffering millions, is a nation in deadly danger, in peril of its life and liberties.

No single other issue can be made more prominent or more important than these two. If one says that the tariff is the leading issue, he is to be reminded that if the people rule, and rule wisely for their own benefit, there will be no outrageous tariffs that prosper the few and impoverish the many. If one says that the trusts form the leading issue, he is to be reminded that if the people rule the hands of the trust magnate and his parasites will be shaken from their grip on the reins of government, and that the people will make the trusts their servants, and not their masters—as they are now.

The reply to the first issue proposed by Mr. Bryan is that the people do rule now. They do not; and it cannot be truthfully said that they rule in this country so long as selfish interests and special privileges are so strongly entrenched as they are today in congress, in the courts, in the machinery of the parties and in the purchased press. The people do not rule when a Cannon can become absolute dictator, in behalf of the interests, of one branch of congress, and when an Aldrich, spokesman for congested wealth, can rule the action of the other branch. The people do not rule when party machines, influenced by the interests that provide their campaign funds, can control the nomination and election of legislators, state officers, congressmen, senators and even presidents. The people do not yet rule, but they are coming into their own.

The issue of whether or not the people shall rule is the political side of the real battle before the American people, and the issue of whether the people shall exert that rule to insure to each individual a fair remuneration for his services to society—which involves the proposition that no man shall seize, through special privilege, a million times his share—is the economic side.

COMPARATIVE BUSINESS.

In judging the progress the country has made in its recovery from the panic and its offspring, industrial depression, we should not seek to compare present business with the business conditions that prevailed just before the collapse.

So says Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester company, in an interview in The Herald tonight; and so this newspaper has said before upon several occasions.

Comparisons should be with the normal or average conditions of the past few years of prosperity, and not with the abnormal.

The activity that prevailed early in 1907 was not normal, but was distinctly abnormal. It was feverish, hectic, almost frenzied; certainly it was far beyond the country's capacity for endurance, as results showed. It was evident before the first signs of trouble appeared that the country could not keep up the pace, and that a stop for breath was necessary. Events in Wall street, precipitating panic, brought on the stop a little ahead of time.

Recovery has been much more rapid than many expected it to be, and indeed it has been at a speed quite remarkable. Yet if we attempt to compare present activity with that which prevailed just before the panic, it makes it look pretty quiet; so we should make comparisons not with early 1907, but with the normal of good times that prevailed during the several years preceding.

"Now it appears to me," says Mr. McCormick, "that if we compare the present conditions with the normal we are pretty well off, for we are approaching the normal in a conservative, safe and steady manner. I take a very favorable view of the business outlook." And there is no reason why anybody should take a different view of it.

THE INCOME TAX.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have noted in your editorial columns many times the fact that you disapprove of taxes that penalize industry and thrift, such as those that bear heavily on the materials and working tools of industry. Evidently you wish thrift and industry rewarded and sloth penalized. But how do you reconcile these views with the fact that you also favor the income tax, which is a tax upon thrift?

A STUDENT.

Though it may seem that there is a lack of consistence in the advocacy of a tax system that will reward thrift and penalize sloth by one who also favors the income tax, there isn't a bit of it. They are two very different things, as a moment's thought will make clear.

The particular form of taxation to which objection is made is that which bears heavily upon the MEANS OF PRODUCTION—upon working tools, machinery, household furniture, stocks of merchandise, etc.

The income tax, on the other hand, is a tax upon the FRUITS OF PRODUCTION, and you must know that in very few cases, amounting to a very small proportion of the whole, does the producer accumulate the fruits of his productiveness.

In fact there isn't a system of taxation yet produced which would distribute the burden of taxation so justly as the income tax; which would bear most heavily upon those who can best afford to pay, and lean most lightly on those who can least afford to pay. This is the way taxation ought to work, and as a matter of fact it works today just the other way.

The income tax should be upon a sliding scale, exempting those below a certain stage of income, and increasing rapidly with the increase of incomes. A man earning $300 a year should pay nothing, a man earning $1,000 a year should pay a slight tax, a man earning $5,000 a year should pay not only a larger amount but a larger percentage, a man earning $50,000 a year should pay a still higher percentage, and a man receiving $500,000 a year—nobody can earn that much—should pay a very heavy percentage indeed.

When you get up into the large incomes, you come upon those who are reaping the fruits of the production of others. A single income of $500,000 must be drawn from the productivity of thousands. To tax such an income heavily is to restore to the producers, through exempting them in some measure at least from bearing the burden of public expense and through increasing the government's service to them, a part of the fruits of their production.

In thinking of tax matters, a clear line should be drawn between the taxation of the means of production and the taxation of the fruits of production. Taxing the means of production hampers and penalizes industry; taxing the fruits of production upon a just basis tends to overcome some of the unjustness of distribution characteristic of present economic conditions.

The West seems to be enjoying a very spirited revival of the bandit industry.

HOTEL GOSSIP.

A man who has been in Duluth a good many years was telling at the St. Louis hotel last night of a mistake a New Yorker made in thinking that certain men were without means, simply because their clothes were perhaps not of the best or the latest cut.

This happened some years ago. The New Yoorker came down from dinner one evening, leaned against the desk and lit a reflective cigarette. "I like your hotel," he began, "but there is one thing about it that I do not like." The man from New York was asked what it was that he found objectionable about the hotel. "It is the bums," he replied. "Look there now. All those chairs are filled. They should be for the guests of the house. Instead they are occupied by a lot of bums and people who have never stayed at a hotel in their lives. You have a nice hotel here, but that is one thing that I don't like about it."

"My dear fellow," replied the man to whom this talk had been addressed, "I want to tell you something. That row of men which you designated by the name of bums, represented just about $6,000,000. You see that first man? Well, he is worth over $2,000,000 alone and the others will bring the total up above the $6,000,000 mark. Those are the men whom you called bums; those are the men whom you would have me ask to vacate those chairs?"

The New Yorker reflected a while and then admitted it would be rather peculiar to ask a man with $2,000,000 to leave the hotel on the ground that he was a bum. He decided that he would stand up as long as the $6,000,000 brigade continued to hold down the seats.

And the statement about the men having the filthy lucre was no exaggeration.

The cigarette of the man from New York went out as he reflectively contemplated this new phase of wealth. He had been used to judging men by their clothes. The unostentatious ways of the men who had plenty of the world's goods caused the New Yoorker to remark that after all Bradstreet was the best authority to consult before making the mistake of thinking a man to be on the rocks of financial adversity, because his sleeves happened to be frayed at the elbows, or his trousers needed creasing.

Mark H. Joseph, a well known politician of Louisville, Ky., is confined to his room at the Lenox hotel by illness. Mr. Joseph took a long drive the other night and became thoroughly soaked. He was quite seriously ill, but was somewhat improved yesterday and his friends believe he will recover in a few days.

W. A. McDonald, who was here yesterday attending the meeting of the G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. club, stated at the St. Louis last evening that the wheat crop of North Dakota would not be as large as generally expected. Mr. McDonald lives in Grafton, N. D., which is in the midst of the wheat country.

Mr. McDonald states that the hot, cocking winds that came in the growing period had much to do with damaging the wheat. Up to the time that the hot winds swept over the state Mr. McDonald says that the prospects of a great crop were very bright. However, it looks at the present time as if North Dakota will produce only an average crop. Bad weather conditions have been the rule through a large part of the growing stage of the wheat. The long dry spell, when the ground was so hot that it would burn your foot, and the hot winds scorched the wheat, has, according to Mr. McDonald, dones its part toward reducing the yield.

J. O. Cooper of Seattle, who has been a guest at the St. Louis hotel for the past two months, has returned to his home. Mr. Cooper is interested in mining property and while here thoroughly investigated mining property on both of the ranges. Mr. Cooper said before he left that mining men of the West and the coast country did not realize until they visited the ranges what an immense industry was carried on here.

W. H. Foote, at the Lenox, says that politically the West is more alive than it has been at any time since 1896. He says that the people are thoroughly interested in the coming election and that he believes that the largest vote ever polled in this country will be the result of this interest. Mr. Foote says that the votes of 1900 and 1904 did not show the increase that should come with the increase of population. The vote of 1896 showed a big gain over that of the previous election because the voters were thoroughly aroused. Mr. Foote believes that they are equally aroused this year and that this wide interest in the fluestions that are confronting the people will be reflected in an unprecedented popular vote.

THE WEATHER.

The wind got out of the northeast during the night and this morning, though it was still partly cloudy, it was warmer and more pleasant. Light showers fell during the night, and the weather man says there will probably be more of them tonight or tomorrow. Last night's lowest temperature was 54 degs., and yesterday's highest was 82 degs. A year ago today it was cloudy and damp after a northeaster. The sun rose this morning at 5:21 and sets tonight at 6:58, making 13 hours and 37 minutes of sunlight.

Says Mr. Richardson of conditions: "During the past twenty-four hours low pressure areas central over the east gul region, Manitoba, Arizona and British Columbia caused further showers in the Atlantic states, Minnesota, Red River valley, Western Canada, Western Missouri, Kansas and New Mexico. Very heavy rains fell over Eastern Kansas. Rising pressure in the Eastern Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado are attended by cooler weather. The barometer continues high over the St. Lawrence valley. Indications fator scattered showers in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight and possibly Friday."

Following were yesterday's highest temperatures:

The Village Airsmith.

Over the spreading chestnut tree
The village airship floats;
He patches, for a princely fee,
Disabled aero-boats.

Long years ago his granddad nailed
The shoes on horses' feet;
But, when the equine fad came failed,
The son fixed autos fleet.

And when the auto craze gave way,
And airship ruled the roost,
The grandson, foxy in his day,
Just gave the shop a boost.

He floated it far o'er the town
Where granddad went to church,
And now the income he drags down
Leaves granddad's in the lurch.

So, high above the chestnut tree,
The busy forge now flares;
The smith—ah, who so gay as he,
Or who with fewer cares?

These airship cogs and shafts and such
Cost muckle, muckle sold,
For each fad finds the fixer's touch
More shameless than of old.

MILLER AND BEDE.

Elk River Star-News: A vigorous contest is going on up in the Eighth district between Congressman Bede and C. A. Miller who wants to succeed the birch bark man. According to all accounts the latter is making things rather interesting for J. Adam, and there are prospects that he will be permitted to conduct his lecture tours without drawing a salary from the government after his present term expires.

Royalton Banner: There appears to be a little trouble ahead for J. Adam Bede before he is again returned to congress from the Eighth district, which includes the great city of Duluth. He doesn't have the approval of the leading Republican paper of that district, the Duluth News Tribune, and several of the newspaper boys are jabbing him a few. Clarence B. Miller of Duluth appears to be making a favorable impression among the voters and it may be possible that they will select a Miller to look after their interests down at Washington. —Stillwater Gazette.

We have no quarrel with C. B. Miller and he may represent the Eighth district in Washington next term but every self-respecting Republican does repudiate the claim that the News Tribune is the leading Republican paper of the district, and everyone will agree that its support will injure Mr. Miller's campaign. It was never known to support a winner.

Big Falls Compass: Hon. Clarence B. Miller of Duluth, candidate for congress, addressed the people of this vicinity last week, upon the live issues that concern Northern Minnesota. Mr. Miller is a clean, dignified and scholarly politician—his speech, manner and conversation are free from reflections against his opponent. Every possible effort is being put forth by Mr. Miller to present to the voters, reasons for his nomination. He will sweep the north country, with ballots, at the polls Sept. 15, 1908.

Anoka Union: Bede's record in congress is what is going to beat him—together with the excellence of the candidate against him.

Carlton Vidette: The people of Northern Minnesota might well feel proud to claim as their representative in congress a man of the stamp of Bede. He will stand up among the best and strongest men in the country's legislative body. Bede is a man for the people—not for the corporations.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: It begins to look as though Speaker Cannon's two spiritual satellites might not go back to the next congress. At least J. Adam Bede is likely to be defeated at the primaries by Clarence B. Miller and Barley Jim Tawney is none too sure of re-election.

Anoka Union: St. Louis county is going to give Miller a big majority on the 15th of September. Anoka will be right in line too, with several hundred to the good for the new deal.

Hibbing Mesabo Ore: J. Adam Bede is the first congressman from this district that ever brought anything good to the district outside of Duluth. He gave Virginia a $60,000 postoffice building, and yet a newspaper of that town persists in mocking and misrepresenting the congressman after the malicious fashion of the Duluth News Tribune. The editor of the Virginia paper failed to get a postoffice appointment and that is cause enough to make any man place the individual grievance above the welfare of the community. And besides its a fine exhibition of public appreciation.

Governor Jonson's Nomination.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Politics, always pregnant with dramatic possibilities, offered a strikingly stirring climax in the nomination of Governor Johnson for governor of Minnesota against his will. A Democrat, he had carried the Republican state twice, and he felt that two terms were enough for one man. Also, he had a sentiment against a third term, even for a governor. Besides, his personal desire was to relinquish the office. He wanted a rest from its responsibilities and duties. But the temper of the convention was overwhelming. Some one mentioned Johnson's name. There was a sixty-four-minute demonstration. The Democrats there assembled would consider no other name. Whatever might be Governor Johnson's wishes, declarations and pleas, the convention thundered its command that he be the nominee. In this presidential year the party faced a crisis. Johnson's party strength, his ability as an executive, his exalted character, his popularity made him, in view of the convention, the one ideal candidate. It was a most trying episode for Governor Johnson. He was commanded to take something he did not want. it was a party which had honored him and which now needed him that thus spoke. In the play this would be the great moment of suspense. It would be the time when the audience held its breath for a development.

Governor Johnson for the gratification of his own pleasure and a vindication of his own word, might have declined. But if he had declined the nomination he would have spurned the pleading—even the mandate—of a party which had formally called upon him after a mature consideration of the exigencies of the case. Which would have been the worse, the spurning of his fellow citizens thus assembled or the sacrifice of his desires and apparent breaking of his word?

No one who has watched the manner and method of Governor Johnson doubts the sincerity of his ante-nomination utterances or the disappointment he feels in being forced into a race he did not wish to enter. The statement with which he announced his acceptance had the tone of a man regretful, but courageous. That he will be a tower of strength in Minnesota goes without saying. He would be a tower of strength in any state. The Democrats of Minnesota could hardly be blamed, as a matter of party wisdom, for forcing the nomination upon Governor Johnson, and, in view of all the circumstances attending the nomination, Governor Johnson can hardly be criticised for accepting what he tried to evade and said he would not receive.

American Lawmaking.

New Orleans Picayune: Theoretically, it is a grand benefaction that the people of a great nation have the right to make their own laws, instead of being ruled by the will of a despot or the decree of an oligarchy. But there is one serious defect in our grand system of popular lawmaking. It is that too often the most unfit persons possible are chosen to do the legislating. In every other sort of business we choose and seek to employ experienced qualified persons to attend to our affairs, but too often the most inexperienced, incapable persons are chosen for the supremely important function of making laws for the government of the American people.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Willmar Journal: A judge up at Duluth is giving auto speeders straight jail sentences without the alternative of paying fines. Gee! you can hear them holler clear down here!

Biwabik Times: In county matters Duluth pays one-fifth of the taxes and has control of the expenditure of all monies. Yet some Duluth men wonder why the ranges are insisting upon county division. Surely no range man can be so dense as to wonder why division is necessary.

Hibbing Tribune: The ranges are getting together with themselves this year and seem likely to show Duluth a political trick or two.

Virginia Enterprise: The range voters this year have an opportunity of voting for range candidates for many of the county offices, and it is up to them to stick together as a unit. In this manner the Duluth gang can be rooted out and the greatest opposition to county division will be killed at the same stroke.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: "A misfit truth is the worst of all lies," says the Duluth News Tribune. The writer of that line must have received the inspiration from Duluth's morning exponent of civic righteousness.

Winona Independent: The Albert Lea Standard says that of the papers that come to its exchange table, it reads first The Duluth Herald and the Winona Independent. To be mentioned in the same breath with The Duluth Herald, which we consider the best paper printed in Minnesota, is an overwhelming honor. We make our profoundest courtesy to the Albert Lea Standard.

Lake Crystal Union: And still Mr. Jacobson is silent as the tomb.—Duluth Evening Herald.

There was one time the tomb was not silent. It gave up a man who had been slandered and betrayed, yet he was the best man that ever lived.

Mankato Free Press: The Duluth Herald says: "In the southern part of the state a member of the last Minnesota house of representatives is making an appeal for re-election upon the ground that he had a large part in defeating the demands of Northern Minnesota for a reapportionment of legislative representation."

The Free Press does not blame The Herald for expressing its indignation in the premises. Any man who will make an appeal to the people for re-election on the ground that he assisted in defeating the demands of any particular section of the state is hardly of broad enough mind to represent any district in the legislature. Such appeals as this man makes tend to breed ill-feeling between Northern and Southern Minnesota and such a condition of affairs would hurt the interests and growth of the entire state.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): The Duluth News Tribune is an alleged Republican newspaper, yet it tries to control by the rule or ruin policy the policies of both parties in St. Louis county.

It was Democratic Mayor Cullum's mouthpiece, and fought the Duluth Republicans in its effort to re-elect the mayor.

And it is a malicious prevaricator in all things political where it has an interest.

It makes no pretenses to give the opposition a fair shake, and it sneaks up behind and gives the under dog a kick every time it gets the chance.

The Duluth News Tribune has launched its customary campaign of misrepresentation and vituperation against Congressman Bede.

Biwabik Times: The Duluth Herald is growing quite touchy upon the proposition that Duluth is not treating the ranges right politically or commercially. We feared that we had failed to make an impression. Duluth is a good town, has splendid citizens and a wonderful future, but it should keep in mind the fact that it pays but 20 per cent of the taxes and should be content with one-fifth the say in county matters.

An Essential Point.

Harper's Weekly: Frank Hitchcock, the Republican campaign manager, is fond of taking long walks in the country. On the occasion of a recent visit to the South he started one day for a tramp out to Nashville to a town called Parker. When he had gone some miles he encountered a man who was weeding a patch of ground near the road.

"Am I on the road to Parker?" asked Hitchcock.

"You are," answered the man, surveying Hitchcock with mild curiosity. "Well, am I half-way there?" inquired the traveler.

"Why, as to that," responded the man in the patch, "it would seem as if 'twould make a diff'rence where you started from."

RUMOR PROVED TO BE FALSE.

Robbers' Den Was Sent Up in Smoke by Police.

The picturesque shanty, inhabited earlier in the summer by a gang of thieves, who made repeated raids on the larders of the New Duluth farmers, yesterday had the torch applied to it by Lieut. Wilcox.

He, with another member of the West Duluth police force, drove out there yesterday morning, on the strength of a report they had received that the shanty was again affording shelter to a number of vagrants and petty robbers. The officers found no evidences that the place had been lived in since the time they made the arrests there some time ago. It was situated in an almost unapproachable place, up on the hillside this side of Irontown, just below the curve in the Duluth Missabe & Northern tracks, toward Proctor. Three of the hut's sides were made of logs, and the fourth was formed by a nearly perpendicular cliff of solid rock. It was an ideal spot for such a gang as made it their home.

When the people of New Duluth began to miss things from their homes it was thought that it was the work of tramps, but where they hung out was a mystery, until one night a fire was seen on the hillside. The next day the police searched the woods, but failed to locate the camp, so completely was it hidden. When at last they did discover it they laid in ambush until nearly 2 o'clock in the morning, when they arrested two members of the gang, returning from a raid.

NEW PLAN TO GET TUG

City May Set Aside a Certain Sum Each Year.

Mayor Says There is No Question of the Need.

The city may adopt the same system in raising money for the purchase of a fire tug as was followed by the county in securing a fund for the new courthouse and site, by including a certain amount for this purpose in the tax levy each year.

"It isn't by any means certain that this plan will be adopted," said Mayor Haven this morning, "but we have such a proposition under consideration and there is a possibility that it will work out. There can be no further argument against the necessity of a fire tug, and it looks now as if this idea of including a certain amount in the tax levy each year until a sufficient fund is raised, would be about the only way to get the desired improvement.

"Some people are very unreasonable in regard to the fire tug proposition. I have heard several say that if the railroad and other interests along the harbor front are not willing to buy the boat, the city should pay no further attention to the matter, as only the harbor interests would be benefited and not the city in general. This impression is a mistaken one. It is of the utmost importance to Duluth as a whole that no harm come to the warehouses, elevators, wholesale houses, etc., along the harbor front. Every laboring man in town, whether he be a taxpayer or not, and every taxpayer, is interested. All would be injured if the harbor front, or a good part of it, were cleaned out by fire.

"I watched the recent elevator fire from the top of the Torrey building. For half an hour it looked as if the flames would cross from Rice's Point to the mainland. It this had happened, with the strong wind then blowing from the west, the fire would have swept the harbor front clean. Wholesale houses and everything else would have gone down to destruction before the flames.

"Wouldn't that have been a blow to every citizen of Duluth? And still some people say it is not the city's business to put money into a fire tug. Other cities do it, and I fail to see why we shouldn't, if we had the money to do it with. Of course, under present circumstances, we have not got it. It has been suggested that the legislature be asked to take action in adopting legislation that would allow us to issue bonds to cover the cost of the tug, but it is hardly likely this suggestion will be carried out."

WATCH HERALD'S MARKET BASKET

The Leading Grocers and Butchers Will Offer Strong Inducements.

If you are looking for bargains in choice meats and groceries, be sure to look over the contents of The Herald's Market Basket tomorrow night. Housewives will find listed their most reliable and representative grocers and retail meat dealers of Duluth, who will offer special inducements for Saturday buying.

If you are dissatisfied with your high-priced grocer or butcher—if you would save from $6 to $20 per month on your grocery and meat bills, read The Herald's Market Basket every Friday night, and buy Saturday where your money will go the farthest. Compare the prices of the groceries and meats offered in The Herald Market Basket with the prices you are paying at the stores that do not advertise, and be convinced that it pays to trade with the stores that tell the public their prices.

PROGRAM COMPLETED

Tokio, Aug. 27.—The program for the reception of the American fleet in Japanese ports has been finished and submitted to Lieut. Commander John A. Dougherty, naval attache of the American embassy for approval, but it has not yet been publicly announced, owing to the probability that minor changes will be made. The attention to details characteristic of the Japanese is shown throughout the program.

The fleet is due to arrive at Yokohama on Saturday, Oct. 17 and that day and Sunday will be devoted entirely to receptions and entertainments in that city. On Monday Oct. 19, which will be known as American day the rear admirals of the fleet with their staffs will come to Tokio. They will be given apartments in the imperial palace at Shiba, where Judge Taft was entertained during his recent visit and an imperial carriage will be placed at the disposal of each rear admiral. Official calls will be exchanged on Monday morning.

RIGHT INTO THE LAKE

Went a Duluth Woman's False Teeth From a Booth Boat.

A woman went on The Herald excursion out into the lake last Tuesday.

She enjoyed it immensely for a while, until she began to feel queer.

Then she went right out on deck and deliberately threw away her false teeth. But she didn't care; she felt better, and the teeth were old ones, anyway.

Her husband told her that she was getting mighty extravagant to throw things away in that manner.

And so some fish out in Lake Superior is wondering what the funny thing is that has dropped into his home.

Special Jury for Hains.

New York, Aug. 27.—Governor Charles E. Hughes, in a letter received today by District Attorney Darrin of Queens county, stated that he would empanel a special grand jury to hear evidence in the case of the Hains brothers, accused of the murder of William E. Annis. The governor also said that he would select a judge to preside.

Gets Heavy Fine.
Paul Koch, arrested with Tony Smith on a disorderly conduct charge Tuesday night, was this morning sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail or to pay a fine of $75 and costs. Smith was allowed to go under suspended sentence. The men admitted fighting. Back of the fighting there was another charge that made Koch's offense doubly serious and occasioned the heavy punishment. He said he had $140 in the bank and would pay his fine.

Mrs. Peterson Dies.
Alma Peterson, wife of John Peterson, 1813 West Superior street, died this morning of convulsions at St. Luke's hospital. She was 36 years old and leaves a husband and five children. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Forward's undertaking rooms. Interment will be at Lutheran cemetery.

MAKES BEDE FAVORITE.

M. M. Gasser Issues His "Book" on the Political Race.

The first political "book" of the season is out.

It is prepared by M. Gasser and makes J. Adam Bede a favorite over Clarence B. Miller in the congressional race. It is understood that Mr. Gasser stands ready to take any amount of money on Mr. Bede's chances for reelection. Other candidates for county and legislative positions are named in the books, the odds being quoted opposite their names.

This is the first sign of active betting that has manifested itself in the campaign. It is said that there is plenty of money behind the odds quoted in the political book, and that the man or men behind it stand ready to take all bets on the candidates named in it.

NORTH BUTTE LEADS BULGE

Copper Stocks Have a Good Advance During Day.

THOSE WHO HAVE PASSED BEYOND

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 27.—E. H. Beckler, one of the best known civil and construction engineers in the United States, dropped dead yesterday at the West Tunnel Camp of the St. Paul pass, near Taft, aged 62 years. Under the direction of Mr. Beckler the Pacific extension of the Great Northern railway was constructed. He was at one time chief engineer for the Montana Central.

Boston, Aug. 27.—The death is announced at the home of his daughter in Brookline of John James Greenough, inventor and former superintendent of the patent office at Washington.

St. Paul, Aug. 27.—Rev. Johannes B. Frich, one of the pioneer ministers of the Norwegian Lutheran synod and for many years one of the leading spirits and educators in the church, died here yesterday, aged 73 years. Rev. Frich retired from active work several years ago. A son, Carl Frich, was formerly attorney general of North Dakota.

Your Last Opportunity.

Mack-Leone's farewell week.

CONSOLIDATION ACCOMPLISHED

Comanche and Copper Gulf Properties Are Merged.

The proposed consolidation of the Copper Gulf and Comanche Mining companies has been accomplished. The agreements have been signed and now only the final details remain to be completed, in this deal, which will be of vast advantage to both companies.

Word to the above effect has been received from Milwaukee, where H. B. Hovland and D. L. Fairchild of Duluth have been working for some time on the details of the consolidation. The general plan of the consolidation is the same as was before announced.

This is the greatest consolidation of copper properties that has taken place since the Greene-Cananea deal. The new company, which will have a capitalization of $2,000,000, will be known as the Savanna Copper company.

It was agreed some time ago that there should be a consolidation of the two, but the final agreement was not made until the report of the expert for the Comanche company on the Copper Gulf was heard from. Their report is said to have been most favorable. It stated that there were 8,000 feet of underground workings, 1,400 acres of fee lands and large quantities of black sulphide ore, running 4 per cent, in sight. The ore is a high-grade concentrating ore. By the consolidation the Savanna company will have 4,000 acres of ground, in fee, in the heart of the Burro Mountain district. There will also be a smelter, a concentrator and a railroad communicating with the mines and plants. The Comanche people will turn their property over to the new company free from encumbrance.

The Copper Gulf had no watered stock to begin with, and there will be none in the Comanche after the consolidation of there ever was before. The capitalization of the Comanche was $5,000,000. The plant at that mine has been overhauled and put into good condition for immediate operation, so that the Savanna company will be prepared to begin mining and producing copper at once.

Of the total 200,000 shares of the Savanna Copper company, 50,000 shares will be underwritten at par, so that the company will have plenty of working capital and will be in shape to carry on actual mining.

The consolidation, it is believed, will be beneficial to both companies. The Comanche company was bankrupt and the Copper Gulf company had plenty of ore in sight, but no railroad or reduction plant. The new company will have both ore and plant.

CENTRAL STORAGE POINT

For Wool Growers Will be Selected by a Commission.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 27.—The question of the selection of a central storage point was temporarily disposed of yesterday at the final session of the National Wool Growers' association, by the adoption of a resolution empowering President Fred W. Gooding to appoint a committee of six members including himself to act in conjunction with commissioners from thirteen Western states, with authority to select a central storage city and work out such details as may arise in connection therewith.

This committee, which is composed of Edward R. Callister, Utah; W. Scott Anderson, Boise, Idaho; Thomas Austin, Salt Lake City; J. R. Cosgriff, Rawlins, Wyo.; W. B. Sleeper, Cody, Wyo., and President F. W. Gooding, Wyoming, together with commissioners from the state of Oregon, Washington, Utah, Idaho, California, Arizona, Montana, New Mexico, Wyoming, Nevada, Texas, Colorado and South Dakota will, it is said, visit Denver, Omaha, St. Joseph, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and Chicago for the purpose of determining which city offers the greatest advantages for the wool growers of the Western states. This trip will probably commence Oct. 14.

MUCKRAKER SLAMS DULUTH

Youthful Author Says City's Books Are in Bad Shape.

The City Hall, official magazine for the League of American Municipalities, this month has an article on book systems of different cities of the country, in which the statement is made that Duluth's books are in such horrible condition that neither head nor tail can be made out of them, and that they are in such shape that no one can get any information from them.

The author of the article, a university student of tender age, it is understood, wrote the city clerk of Duluth asking for numerous facts and figures regarding the city's methods. Before an answer could be prepared, the letter was mislaid, and it was never answered. Without pushing his inquiry any farther, the youthful author prepared his article, passing by Duluth by saying that nothing could be made from its books.

Your Last Opportunity.

DISCUSSION RE-ENACTED

Memorable Words of Famous Men Are Again Spoken.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 27.—In the presence of nearly 15,000 persons here today, the memorable joint discussion of fifty years ago, in which Abraham Lincoln, forced Stephen A. Douglas, Lincoln's Democratic opponent for the senatorial toga, to say the words that cost Douglas the presidency two years later, was re-enacted. A speaker of national fame today repeated the words of the respective party leaders of 1858. The spot was the same, but the scene had changed. Paved streets and dwellings replaced the grove that sheltered the audience in 1858.

Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver of Iowa was the first speaker today having for his subject, "The Emancipate Part in the Campaign of 1858." Col. W. T. Davidson followed with an address on the "Little Giant."

Others who spoke were Congressman Frank O. Lowden, and Gen. Smith D. Atkins.

ESTIMATED GRAIN YIELD OF WESTERN CANADA.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 27.—The Northwest Grain Dealers' association today gave out the estimated yield this year of the crops of Western Canada. The wheat average is 17.7, total 107,000,000 bushels; oats, average, 36.5; total, 95,000,000; barley, average, 29; total, 25,000,000. Seventy-five per cent of the cutting will be finished by the end of the week.

BOUND AND ROBBED.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has reached here from Cross Lake, on the Minnesota & International road, that Charles Heath of that place was attacked in his store by two masked men Tuesday night, who bound and gagged him, then stole $150 in money and five watches. There appears to be no clue.

MARINE NEWS

HARBOR LIGHTS ARE VERY POOR

Lake Captains Want a Given Light at Harbor Entrance.

Lake captains who have for so long been working to get the lighthouse commission to install red and green lights at the harbor entrance are bound to have them by this fall, and to this end are recommending it at the bottom of each report sent in, so that the officials will know that the project has not yet been given up.

A well known captain who was going over the idea with local mariners in the tug office said this morning that the Duluth harbor is without doubt the hardest to get into and the most poorly lighted entrance on the lakes. He went on to draw diagrams showing the number of lights used other places, and showing how the lights would benefit the Duluth entrance. At Cleveland there are six lights all situated very close to the harbor entrance, so that it is impossible for a captain to miss his way. "If we could only get one little green light out there it would help wonderfully," he said.

The matter has been in the hands of local men for some time, but up to date they have been unable to get the lighthouse commission to take action.

"Coming into this harbor on a dark, stormy night," said another captain, "is the hardest thing I know. A fellow simply has to trust to luck and the grace of God. The strong current that runs out through the canal coming in contact with the swells coming in, kicked up by a ripping northeaster, forms a perfect pyramid at the entrance to the canal, making it mighty dangerous for a loaded boat to come through. I have come through your ship canal at night when I thought I was coming through the Superior entry, and sometimes I had no idea where I was."

It is coming near the time of year now when the nights are darkest, and the northeasters most terrible. The wreck of the Madaffa and many other boats along the shore is still fresh in the memory of seafaring men, and they want the lights this fall.

A number of them advocate the idea of having oil tanks on the pier, and in the event of a storm pour oil on the waters so as to enable the ship to make port. However, they say if they can have the light this year, the other can go over until next season.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

Although the educational classes of the Young Women's Christian association will not be organized until October, the preliminary arrangements are already being made, and the classes in all departments will be begun the first of week of that month. The teaching capacity and room at the association were both taxed to the utmost last year, and although it is hardly expected that the classes will be larger, because of lack of accommodation, the secretaries will do their best to supply the most urgent demands.

Miss Frances Pullar will again be physical director, and she will return to the city the middle of September, to make out the schedule of classes. Miss Ell Rose Taylor, who studied at Boston last year, will be the domestic science teacher, and Miss Raw will again have charge of the classes for teaching English to the young foreign women who come to the association for that purpose. There will again be classes in dressmaking, millinery and embroidery.

The Sunday afternoon devitnonal services which were discontinued during the summer, will again be held Sunday afternoon, beginning the first Sunday of September. On Sept. 13, Miss Gertrude Williams of St. Paul, a member of that association, who was in attendance at the Lake Geneva conference this year, will visit the local association and speak on the important features of the conference.

Class Reunion.

Members of the class of 1903 of the Duluth Central high school held a reunion last evening at Lester Park. A picnic supper was served at the pavilion followed by a bonfire on the lake shore. The members of the class who were present were:

Mrs. James Mishler.

Fall Fashions.

The fall suits are probably the most satisfactory and sensible that have been designed by fashion dictators for many a season, for they combine in an unusual way the beauty that comes from classic lines with practical and healthful modes. The sleeves are all long and the coats three-quarter length and trimmings smart braid finishings and large buttons matching or contrasting with the shade of the suit.

The skirts are medium length, and while the circular gored leads, and is predominant in a variety of the most pleasing styles, the plaited is by no means out, and with panel effects appears on some of the highest priced garments. Those wishing a decided change will want the circular skirt but, after all, it is never so satisfactory as the plaited, which suits all figures and keeps its shape.

In choosing the color it is merely a matter of taste for standard greens, blues, browns and grays are all shown in great varieties of shades and combinations. The stripes are better style than ever, the shadow stripes of two and three colors producing a color tone that is not decided enough for one to grow as tired of it, as they do of the ordinary stripe, and the combinations are so well harmonized that the softest and prettiest of colors are produced, and the woman who, ordinarily, would look like a fright in green can wear some of the new striped combinations of green and brown, or green and blue with excellent results.

Gray is to be the leading color, and it seems that there is no possible shade from the deepest tone to the silver that is not produced in some of the fall suits.

Velvet trimmings are very smart, buttons and strappings of that material being shown on some of the best garments.

Hints of what the fall fabrics are to be like are already creeping into the shops, so many of the facts will be well known. That glossy faced materials, with satins in the lead for elaborate occasions and satin faced wools for daytime use, will prevail, there is no doubt.

A great many checks, plaids and stripes are to be employed. Among some samples seen which represented a part of a buyer's output for the coming season, it was evident that very supple but firm weaves, such as the broadcloths, venetian cloths, prunellas and serges, are to be in great request. And it is said that enormous orders for velvets are putting the velvet manufacturers through their paces to keep up with them and get them to their customers before the season opens.

The vogue for separate coats will have a salutary influence on the velvets for winter, since nothing else combines so richly with cloth.

WITHOUT INVITATION

London Youth Enjoys Society's Hospitality.

How easy it is to "bluff" one's way in society was shown in London last week. On a bet two young men, not invited, danced and supped in a house where a fashionable ball was going on.

"Things have reached the point," says a woman of title, "where any well-dressed and presentable man may walk into almost any big house when a party is going on and, if he behaves discreetly and appears at home, he may eat a good supper, have a few glasses of champagne and go away with one of his stranger host's cigars in his mouth. This is done every night of the season by a group of impudent youths, who are sometimes foolish enough to boast of their exploits."

Hostesses in England are complaining this season more than ever of the presence of uninvited guests. A hostess cannot know all her guests by sight, and she seldom dares to risk offending by asking whether the supposed interloper has received an invitation. A duchess did that once. The guest simply bowed and departed. The duchess learned she practically had turned out of her house the husband of one of her best friends. Having detectives present at large parties does not answer, as the uninvited guests are not criminals, but merely young men who do it "for a lark." Two detectives at a party recently had never met and each denounced the other as "undesirable."

Publicity makes a product noted, quality brings fame. "Salada" Tea is both noted and famous.

Dish Washing.

Do not get discouraged about having to wash dishes 365 days in the year, advises a lady who writes for a living. Dishes must be washed, and of all the many duties that fall to woman's lot this seems to be the most disliked. But there is an ideal way.

The chief things required to make it a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcloths and a large enamel bowl. The dishes, when removed from the table, must have each of its kind put together. Two detectives at a party recently had never met and each denounced the other as "undesirable."

The chief things required to make it a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcloths and a large enamel bowl. Have a receptacle in which to place all the scraps that come from the dishes, plates, etc. The most important thing is to have plenty of hot water—not merely warm, but hot—and use some good soap in the water to make your suds. It cleans the greasy meat dishes and plates twice as quickly. Have your mops and handles for deep-mouthed jugs and have nice dishcloths made of cheesecloth.

the EVENING STORY

EDGAR'S TUTOR

By Belle Maniates.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

My brother Tom has a most beautiful country place, a charming little wife, and my young nephew, Edgar, I simply adore; yet, for one reason, and one reason only, I am adverse to visiting them. My sister-in-law has a match-making mania, and she is disconsolate over the fact that, in spite of her strenuous efforts and house parties in my behalf, I am still "unspoken for."

She makes her motive so very apparent to the luckless victim and to the onlookers, that from very shame I must needs be coldly aloof, and discourage any attentions. And yet, provoked as I have been at her persistency, I have never let her know how annoying her little schemes are to me, for they are worked from love and admiration for me, and she has a sensitive, warm, little heart.

But today when I read her letter urging me to come to Homewild for the month of August, I muthnied, for there was the inevitable postscript: "Oh, Allene, Tom has invited the dearest man in the world—next to himself—to spend the month with us! We met him when we went West last winter, although Tom used to know him long ago in college. He's just your sort of a man, and I have asked no one else. We'll be a quiet, little home party by ourselves.

My sort of a man, indeed! I don't know, myself, what sort that may be. I sat down in a white heat of anger, and laid bare my pent-up feelings to Nan. I told her I was sick and tired of being invited to meet some one for a certain purpose, and that if they had irrevocably invited this friend of Tom's for August, I would come in September. If they could put him off till September, however, I would come in August. I said many other things that I blush to recall. I posted my letter at once lest I repent of my heart-opening.

I received in reply such a dear little note from Nan. She was so sorry, and she would not match-make any more. She and Tom had reconciled themselves to the idea that I was heart-whole and fancy-free, and would probably remain so. Tom's friend said he would prefer coming in September, and his visit had been postponed. If I'd come, there would not be a single invited guest during the month. I felt a little penitent over my outbreak, but it was with great relief and happiness that I telegraphed that I would start tonight.

When I reached the little station near Homewild, my heart failed me at beholding, in waiting with Nan and Edgar, a man, big and brown. He was introduced to me in a careless way by Nan as Mr. Saltern. I was reassured when she bade Edgar occupy the front seat of the touring car with him, and she and I took the back seat.

"Who is he?" I asked in a forbidding way.

"Only Edgar's tutor," she replied. "The lad got so behind in his studies last year when he went with us, that Tom engaged this man to coach him. Rather good-looking, isn't he? Poor, though, and in love, judging from the conspicuous place in his room of a girl's photograph. I have come upon him several times gazing at it in a heart-broken way."

We had a lovely evening. There was a soft misty rain—what Edgar called a "drizzle-drazzle," and we all spent the evening within. Mr. Saltern seems to be quite en famille. He is such a strapping, manly fellow, I shouldn't think tutoring would be his line.

I never had such a delightful week at Homewild. Such a quiet, restful time. I am studying Spanish with Mr. Saltern and Edgar. We three go on excursions together. Edgar explores the woods and the river, while his tutor and I sit on a fallen log and he reads Spanish. I don't understand much of it, but he has a rich, musical voice. Edgar won't study, so I utilize the lesson hours. I wonder who the girl is that he has the picture of? I wish I dare go to his room some time when he is out, but some one would be sure to catch me prying.

Tomorrow is my last day at Homewild in peace and comfort, for Nan has invited some people down. I shall continue to devote most of my time to Spanish, however, as I am making such progress, and enjoy the study so much, but it won't be quite the fun with curious people about. We are going for our last row on the river tonight.

We went far up the river last night, and drifted back. He didn't have to row. The light from a moon of pale orange shone deep down in the river, and somewhere off in the wooded shores, a man's rich tenor voice was ringing forth, the notes falling with caressing cadence. We were talking seriously about life, and the end of my visit, and then I don't remember how he told me, but the orange moon, the lights in the river, the soft lapping of the water against the boat, the distant song and what he whispered to me were all blended into one beautiful whole.

After awhile he talked seriously again, this time about himself and his—I mean our—prospects. It seems he has a big business, but it has come to a standstill pending the issue of a lawsuit, and in the meantime he is tutoring Edgar. In the fall he will be in position to go on with his business, and at Christmas I am going to his home with him.

I told Nan this morning while he had gone to the station with Tom to drink back the guests. To my surprise she was greatly pleased. Then she looked a little frightened.

"Oh, Allene, I don't know how to tell you, but he isn't Mr. Saltern. He isn't Edgar's tutor—don't look so stern, dear, but he is—"

"Jim Wilde, Tom's friend," I replied, calmly.

"Oh, Allene, how did you know? He told me he hadn't confessed yet."

"Tell me first why he is here incognito."

"He was here when your awful letter came, and I didn't know what to do. I read it to Tom, and he just roared, and handed it to Jim, and they fixed up this scheme. It wasn't my plan. I felt guilty, but you were having such a good time, I couldn't spoil it. Tell me when you knew."

"I have known it for two weeks. One day when he and Tom were in town, and you were away somewhere, a storm came up, and I helped Katie put the windows down. I went in his room. There was a letter on the window seat addressed to James Wilde. On the dresser was my photograph, which you must have given him."

"He fell in love with you, Allene, as soon as he read your spitfire letter, and he borrowed your photograph."

And so, after all, I had a match made for me by my sister-in-law.

FIND A "BILLY."

Some Policeman Will be Called on for an Explanation.

"Found—On Superior street, a policeman's billy."

This advertisement in the daily press, while telling of an actual find, probably would not call forth an answer from the man who had lost the weapon of defense or offense, for where is the copper who would be willing to admit that he had lost the thing, realizing that embarrassing explanations might have to be given when the property was claimed?

The billy was discovered lying on Superior street in the business district in the small hours of the morning. Just who it belonged to hasn't been discovered. It was a good billy, and apparently had seen a good deal of usage. There seemed to be no doubt that one of Duluth's bluecoats had lost it. Whether its owner fell asleep in some vacant doorway and some practical joker carried off the club, or whether it got there by some other means, is a problem yet to be solved.

Two woodsmen brought it to The Herald office.

HAS FILLED 25,000 JOBS

State Bureau Employed That Number of Men During Year.

Supt. Louis Levy Says Demand for Labor is Normal.

"In the last twelve months the state free employment agencies of Minnesota placed in positions more than 25,000 men," said Louis Levy, superintendent of Minnesota's state free employment agencies, who is in the city on one of his quarterly visits. "The Duluth office in that time has furnished 7,365 men with jobs, and enabled 1,389 women to find places to work. At the Minneapolis office the books show a somewhat larger number, and at St. Paul, which is not the labor center that either Duluth or Minneapolis is, the bureau has done less than at either of the other offices.

The bureau at Duluth was installed in June, 1907. During the first six months they operated, until November 15, they handled, and I say it truthfully, more men successfully than any other office of its size in the United States. The financial lull came then, and after that there was a general shutting down and business in the employment line was nearly at a standstill. It since has picked up, until now it is almost normal. In Minneapolis we have carried on only one-third of the business in the last year that we did in either of the two previous years we operated."

Mr. Levy said it is an interesting fact that men of almost twenty different nationalities have received jobs through the Duluth office, while at Minneapolis and St. Paul, which branch was installed in May, 1907, peoples from thirty or more different countries have been supplied with jobs. "There have been American Indians, Laplanders, Japs and even Syrians. Men of all races and nations are handled by us. The possibilities in the scope of the state free agencies are limitless. We are in the position to fill places of all sorts, from common labor commanding only $.50 per day to a bank presidency, if we should have suen a call, with a salary in the thousands of dollars.

"It seems to me," continued Mr. Levy, "and I believe that the next legislature will take some action on it, that the free public bureaus should have the employing of teachers to teach in our public schools. The teachers have received a free education, and I believe that they should be able to get employment free in the public schools, and we are fitted to handle just such a business. It does not seem right that a girl that has gone to school in this city should have to apply and pay money at a teacher bureau here or out of town to get a position at Proctor or on the range, or even in her own city, as I believe has sometimes been the case."

When asked concerning the condition of labor, Mr. Levy replied that he thought things now about normal in most of the trades.

"In Minneapolis," he said, "and it seems to be the same here, all the laborers in the building trades have employment. Of course when winter comes the amount of building will be curtailed, but that is the case every year. In some lines we have had in Minneapolis more jobs than men. For instance, we received an order from a Red Wing lumber company calling for sash, door and cabinet makers, and it was a hard job to fill the order, which was a good-sized one. On the other hand, the mills at the Flour City are only employing 60 per cent of the millers and packers they did at this time last year. We are expecting that business will pick up soon in the mills and elevators and that we will have plenty of calls from those quarters for men. There are always men, even in the best of times, in some line or other, out of work. It may not be because there is not any work in their line to be had, but because they want a change and are not satisfied. Because there are many men inquiring for work does not always necessarily mean that there are few jobs. Many trades, such as structural iron working, are busy for several months and then there will be a space when the men have to look up a new job. It is so in the best of times, though of course these are not such."

MINNESOTA IN FIFTEENTH PLACE

Good Showing is Made at National Rifle Shoot.

The Minnesota team at the national shoot at Camp Perry stood in fifteenth position at the end of the shooting in the 200-yard rapid, 200-yard slow fire and 600-yard slow fire events.

DENMARK HONORS

The Hardy Explorers Who Found the New Northland.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 26.—The members of the Denmark-Greenland expedition who have arrived here were met on entering the harbor by hundreds of steamers and the whole of the Royal Yacht club flotilla. The Arctic steamer Denmark displayed her flag at half-mast on account of the death of Mylius Erichsen, the leader of the expedition, and two of his companions. The vessel was received with full military honors by warships and the king's yacht. The admiral and all the other officers and sailors took off their hats and cheered the Denmark while the national hymn was played.

Premier Christensen boarded the Denmark and welcomed the expedition in the king's name. Several naval officers carried Capt. Trolle ashore on their shoulders. In the afternoon there was a formal welcome at the university, attended by the royal family and the nobility of Copenhagen. The rector of the university greeted the explorers, who, he said, had gained new lands for Denmark and new honor for Danish science.

The king shook hands with each member of the expedition and talked long with Mylius Erichsen's old father, a country policeman. The king received the explorers in audience and bestowed decorations upon them.

LONG TRAMP SUCCESSFUL.

Couple Walk From East St. Louis to Waterloo to Find Work.

Waterloo, Iowa, Aug. 26.—Walking from East St. Louis to Waterloo, making an average of eighteen miles daily, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krumbach arrived here footsore and weary, but otherwise in good health. They came to seek work, bringing their scant possessions with them.

The journey was made through Illinois and Eastern Iowa. Part of the way they waded through water waist deep, where rains had swollen and overflowed the rivers. The couple, who are about 35 years old, have found employment here.

Find Candidate Elsewhere.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—There not being a lawyer of that political faith in any of the towns of the bailiwick, the Democrats of Iron county have been compelled to go elsewhere for their candidate for prosecuting attorney. They have nominated W. H. Hurley of Iron Mountain, Dickinson county, for the office.

AT SISTER'S HOME.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Are at Jordanville, N. Y.

Jordanville, N. Y., Aug. 26.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived today at Henderson house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, to take part in the ceremonies of presenting a library to the village. The library building is a gift to Jordanville by Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, the latter a sister of the president, as a memorial to Mr. Robinson's mother. The president will make a short address. Mr. Robinson will deliver the speech of presentation.

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT

Enables Raising of Faculty Salaries About 25 Per Cent.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The salary schedule for members of the University of Chicago faculty were completed today to go into effect some months hence. The readjustment to a higher place was made possibie by John D. Rockefeller's recent addition of $2,000,000 to the university endowment fund. The advances will affect one hundred faculty members at the start and will gradually include the remainder. Heads of departments are raised from $4,000 to $6,000; professors, not department heads, $3,000 to $4,500; associate professors, $2,500 to $3,000; assistant professors, $2,000 to $2,500; instructors, $1,200 to $1,800. In each case the increase amounts to about 25 per cent of the former salary.

MARRIED A YEAR AGO.

Calumet Maiden and Lover Overcome Parental Objection.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The friends of Miss Dorothy M. Rutledge, daughter of L. M. Rutledge, former principal of the Washington school in this city, are surprised to hear of her secret marriage over a year ago at Joliet, Ill. She displayed some talent as an artist, and her parents sent her to Joliet to study and make her home with her grandmother. While there she fell in love with Will Ross, who was 18 when they were married, while she was only 17. The parents objected because of the youthfulness of both, so a secret marriage was planned. Mrs. Ross visited her parents here a year ago. The older folks have withdrawn their objections and everything is lovely now.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—What was announced at the first official statement of the contributions in the present national campaign was made today by Treasurer Haskell of the Democratic national committee. The statement deals with funds turned in by five daily newspapers and the Commoner, their contributions reaching a total of $19,884. In connection with the statement Moses C. Wetmore of the finance committee said that other papers which had set marks as high as $3,000 for their offerings would be heard from later when their goals had been attained.

SUITS AGAINST THE SUSPENDED BROKERS.

Cleveland, Aug. 26.—Suit was begun today against A. O. Brown & Co., the suspended brokers, by George W. Benedict, who claims he deposited $8,000 with the firm on Aug. 11 for the purchase of 600 shares of Union Pacific stock. Benedict claims the stock has not been delivered to him, nor any accounting of the money made. James F. Grace, a trader, has also begun suit against the company to recover $5,000 which he says he deposited for investment in stocks.

WEST VIRGINIA TANGLE SUBMITTED TO COMMITTEE.

New York, Aug. 26.—The West Virginia political situation, which has proved so perplexing to Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, and was submitted also to Mr. Taft at a conference at Hot Springs, was today referred to a subcommittee of the national committee for investigation. The sub-committee consists of William L. Ward of New York, Charles Brooker of Connecticut and T. Coleman Dupont of Delaware, all of whom are members of the executive committee.

And let Kodol digest it.

There can then be no fermentation, no pain, no distress—no indigestion.

Eat a sufficient amount of good, wholesome food every day. Eat what the appetite calls for, because that is what the health and strength of the body require.

Then don't worry about indigestion or dyspepsia; but take Kodol occasionally—at the times when you need it, and your food will be digested completely; but don't diet and don't deny yourself the food you like, for dieting is unnecessary; it is wrong to be hungry.

Food is fuel for the body. It furnishes blood, bone, health and strength; but it must be digested first, and you are not going to be healthy or strong as long as your stomach fails to do its work.

Don't fear to eat the food you like for as you know the body requires a variety of it and that which you don't eat may be the very thing you need to supply the necessary strength for your body.

We say eat what you want and let Kodol digest it. Nor do you have to take Kodol all the time; you wouldn't want to have to take it all the time. Take it just when you need it, and in that way allow it to help the stomach to get strong and well.

But when you do eat what you want and what you like best, be sure that all the food is digested; you must be sure that the stomach is able to digest it.

Else that portion of the food, which remains in the stomach undigested, irritates the stomach lining, and that is what causes pain. Then again undigested food ferments in the stomach and that is what causes sour risings, gas and belching.

These are the things you have to get rid of but you can't do it by starving yourself. Weakening the body is not strengthening the stomach. Yet you do weaken the body when you deny yourself some article of food you find does not agree with you.

And here is where Kodol is so effective. It digests what you eat and does it completely. It enables you to eat just what you like and just what your appetite demands.

Kodol doesn't simply digest certain kinds of food—it digests every kind of food. It acts as Nature acts and it assists Nature in assimilating the food—it helps Nature get out of the food what there is in it—strength, blood, bone, muscle and life.

Kodol is for you. Kodol is for anyone and everyone who needs it and we want you to try it now and be convinced that you can eat just what you like if you will only let Kodol digest for a time that which you do eat.

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING.

Cyrus H. McCormick Says Country is Getting Back to Normal Conditions.

Cyrus H. McCormick, president of the International Harvester company, under which name the large manufacturing harvester companies of the country have consolidated, was at the Spalding hotel last evening with his wife and two sons. Mr. McCormick came to Duluth partly on business and partly on pleasure. He left for the range this morning to inspect the Hewkins and Agnew mines, which are controlled by the International Harvester company.

In speaking of the industrial situation, Mr. McCormick stated that people were in the habit of comparing present business conditions with the conditions that existed when the country was at the height of its prosperity. This accounted for the fact, he said, that many people believed business conditions were not good until they reached the high level mark. Mr. McCormick stated that to gain a more fair average the present conditions should be compared with the normal business conditions of other years.

"It seems to me that if you compare the present situation with conditions that have existed in normal business years of the past,' said Mr. McCormick, 'you will find that we are fairly prosperous. We are approaching normal business conditions in a safe and conservative way. I take a most favorable view of the business situation.'

Mr. McCormick stated that at the present time an inventory was being taken of the International Harvester company, which necessitated a closing down. Before the shutdown he stated that the plants of the company were being operated full handed. When operations are resumed it will be under full capacity.

TOOK BIG CHANCES; GOT NOTHING

Nicholas Johnson Stole Package Which Contained Only a Stocking.

Nicholas Johnson took a big chance and lost in stealing a stocking and shoestring tie from the Astoria cafe Superior street and First avenue last night. He thought there was something of value in the package, which was neatly done up and laid beside the cash register. The police took him in tow and at headquarters he smiled sadly when shown what the paper contained.

Patrolman Bradley who made the arrest, said Johnson entered the cafe, seized the package and ran out the door with it. Its owner, the woman cashier, ran after him. As he made a dash down the street Bradley collared him and he was soon locked behind the bars.

MORE BUSINESS; PRICES BETTER

Producers of Pig Iron in East Maintaining Fine Attitude.

New York, Aug. 27.—The Iron Age says: In the Birmingham district, in Virginia, in Eastern Pennsylvania, and in the Chicago district producers of pig iron are maintaining a firm attitude and are booking some business at better prices. In the Central West, in the Pittsburg district and in Southern Ohio the attitude of the makers is more uncertain. Statistics covering forty-three blast furnaces in Eastern and Central Pennsylvania and in Virginia, show a decline in stocks of close to 15,000 tons and an increase during one month in orders from close to 238,000 tons to over 285,000 tons. There has been considerable movement in pig iron in the east during the past week, and there is quite a large inquiry. The Pennsylvania railroad has bought an aggregate of 10,500 tons of pig iron.

There is some reference made from time to time on the subject of shading established prices. It is true that such concessions are being quite widely made, but they do not extend beyond one or two dollars per ton and are not regarded as troublesome.

In the light rail trade, in which the re-rolling mills play so important a part, the situation is more serious, and the large steel mills are taking a hand in the struggle. New rails weighing from twenty-five to forty-five pounds have been sold as low as $22 per ton. The placing of an order for 1,000 standard steel cars by the Chicago & Alton railroad, which would call for 9,000 tons of steel, is regarded as the forerunner of more liberal buying in this direction. The Harriman system has given to the American Bridge company 4,000 tons of additional specifications on an existing contract.

Low prices continue to rule in the cast iron pipe trade. Some steel bar makers report a good run of additional work. The sheet is steadily improving and the business in merchant pipe is enlarging.

BIG DAMAGES FOR SMALLPOX.

Henry P. Conlin Says He Contracted Disease on Great Northern Train.

Henry P. Conlin started suit in district court yesterday afternoon against the Great Northern Railway company for $12,677 damages, incurred by a case of smallpox which, he claims, he contracted on one of the company's trains while a passenger between Duluth and Crookston April 8 of this year.

Conlin charges in his complaint that the railway company accepted as passengers men who are afflicted with smallpox and that in consequence he contracted the disease while a passenger on the train. He was a patient in the Duluth detention hospital for twenty-five days and as a result of the illness his face is pitted and his health impaired. He asks $10,000 damages, $2,500 exemplary damages, and $177 for expenses incurred during his illness.

MORSE WILL BE TAKEN BACK TO CLEVELAND.

Pittsburg, Aug. 26.—Ethol Hyne Morse, said to be the son of a wealthy New York business man, who was arrested here yesterday at the request of the Cleveland, Ohio, authorities, charged with the larceny of ten athletic medals from Brewster P. Kinney, his roommate, will be taken back to Cleveland tonight.

RIOT LEADER ENDS HER LIFE

Mrs. Howard of Springfield Takes Poison on Being Arrested.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Kate Howard, one of the leaders in the recent riots in this city, committed suicide yesterday by swallowing acid while being placed under arrest. She died as she was being led into the jail.

Before the special grand jury, now in session, many witnesses testified that Mrs. Howard was one of the ringleaders of the mob which wrecked Loper's restaurant and cafe. She was the first person indicted, and was held on several counts in the sum of $10,000, which she furnished. When she was released she said she would never be arrested again.

Today, shortly after the special grand jury returned another indictment against her, charging murder in connection with the recent lynchings. Deputy Sheriff Kramer was sent to Mrs. Howard's rooms to arrest her. Mrs. Howard received the officer at the door. She secretly swallowed a large dose of poison, then said: "I'm ready to go now."

She accompanied the deputy to the jail, two blocks away, and was just entering the jail door when she fell dead. Mrs. Howard was 42 years old.

Big Sawmill Operating.

Ontonagon, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notwithstanding that the lumber market is not in the most prosperous condition, the big sawmill of Geo. A. Bergland of Milwaukee is operating at full capacity at Bergland, Western Ontonagon county. Considerable lumber is being shipped.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

FIGHT MAY TAKE PLACE

Stanley Ketchel's Scruples Toward Colored Boy May be Overcome.

Says He is Willing, But His Manager Kicks.

New York, Aug. 27.—Stanley Ketchel may fight Sam Langford after all. In an interview last week Ketchel said that he was willing to fight any one in the world, white, black or yellow, but at present would leave it to his manager, Joe O'Connor, to decide. The latter, of course, objects strongly just now to Langford, but the way things are turning out in the West, Joe, it is said, will probably change his mind and take "the Boston terror" on.

The Papke fight in Los Angeles is still in the air. Ketchel wants the weight let out some, and the go with Burns is as good as off. The "side-stepper" demands $20,000, win, lose or draw.

A letter was received from Frisco last night saying that a Ketchel-Langford match was thought of, and as a certain promoter expected to draw a record-breaking house, that Ketchel's manager might reconsider and make the match.

Ketchel is very sore about the booze story which appeared last week, and in an interview said:

"I suppose I must expect to be criticised, even if I don't deserve it. Such is fame, they say. The man who sent word East that he saw me frequently at late hours and under the influence of drink, while training for Joe Thomas, lied. During that training spell I took an auto trip out the Beach boulevard and was back to my quarters before 9 o'clock. I was never out late at all.

"I was properly trained, as my work in the ring showed. I haven't reached the height of my ambition yet by any means, and I would like my friends all over the country to know that I will take good care of myself and lead the kind of life that a fellow that has dreams of becoming the world's champion would lead."

"No siree." "I have troubles of my own."

That's what Dr. J. A. McCuen said this morning when asked if he would take charge of the "Sox" next year in the event that he was asked.

"Baseball is a fine game, and I like to watch it as well as the next one, but as to managing a team, I am afraid I wouldn't be much good—then a fellow has more friends by keeping out of it altogether; you can't satisfy everybody, you know," he said.

The management of the Duluth baseball club seems to be sort of a hot iron. Everybody seems to be afraid to touch it. Several other men who were mentioned for the place said that they would not have a thing to do with baseball in Duluth.

One man said, "If we can doctor up a league including Minneapolis and St. Paul, play a higher grade of ball, and get grounds located nearer town, I for one would be willing to put money in the venture, but until that time I am afraid Duluth will have to get along with the sport that the Commercial league furnishes."

"Strike tuh," the famous expletive of "Silk" O'Loughlin, may cause the permanent retirement of the American league umpire from baseball. In his last Philadelphia game he collapsed, and the game had to wait. In Boston last Friday he twice collapsed and had to go to his dressing room before the game could continue. This was in the third and seventh innings.

Physicians have told O'Loughlin that he is suffering from a severe organic stomach trouble. It is caused by the strain on the muscles of the diaphragm in yelling "Strike tuh," and they have warned him that he must stop this.

The Cubs have already lost more games than they did during the entire season of 1907. Last year their defeats totaled 45. The black mark youngster Tuckey of the Doves handed them Saturday was the 47th.

As Chicago still has forty-six games to play, it's bound to drop some twenty more games than it did a year ago. Twelve months ago at this date the Cubs had played 107 games, winning 78 and losing 29, a mark of .729.

Pittsburg and New York were tied for second place. Each team had won seventeen less and lost twelve more than the Cubs. So summed up, Chance, Evers & Co. are practically twenty games behind their 1907 record. That would indicate that their name is going to be Dennis.

At last somebody has come forth who could hit Tommy Burns. Bill Squires, who once proved the biggest joke fighter who ever came to the United States, met the American Monday, at Sydney, Australia, and actually bloodied his nose, hit him on the jaw and caused the champion to stagger. Squires gave Burns quite a drubbing, until the American adopted cautious methods, awaited his opportunity and sent in the blow that caused Squires to go down and out.

From all accounts it was a real battle, in which heavyweights actually stood up and pounded each other. No doubt the pugilistic world will be astounded. Fight fans have so long been used to hearing of Burns "toying with his opponent," that the spectacle of an opponent who could make things interesting for a dozen rounds has become rare indeed. Squires seemed to lack sufficient steam to put his opponent on the floor, but from all accounts of the fight he succeeded in landing a lot of telling blows. At one time he had Burns staggering to his corner.

Bill, meaning Squires, was fighting at home, and that fact probably added to his bravery. When he appeared in the United States he looked what is commonly termed a "nutt." Possibly Bill had it in him all the time, and it was just getting out. Anyhow, he actually bloodied Mr. Burns' classic nose, which, of itself, is quite an accomplishment.

Now that the Northern league season is over, the eyes of the baseball fans are turned on the range towns for good, live baseball talk. Every year about this time every town on the range thinks their own little team the best, and each team straightway opens negotiations with the best players in the country to help them win the championship. The baseball enthusiasm is higher than ever this year, and there promises to be a lively battle between them at the windup.

Hibbing, Virginia and a number of other towns are strong, and the best efforts to down each other will be watched with interest by followers of the game in Duluth.

They play a good article of ball up on the range, and there is talk of having the leaders come down and play off the end in Duluth. Reinforced by a number of ex-leaguers, a great many semi-professionals, and some men from the big leagues, the battles will be warm and merry from now on until freezing up time.

Last year Virginia gave Hibbing the worst of it, and this year Hibbing is determined to get even.

New York Wins Hard Fight.

Pittsburg, Aug. 27.—By a great and exciting uphill fight, New York won yesterday's game from Pittsburg by a score of 4 to 3. The visitors made one run in the eighth inning and came back in the ninth with two more. Pittsburg made their three runs in the sixth inning with two men out. In this inning the game was stopped for about fifteen minutes on account of an argument as to whether Leach had been hit by a batted ball. Young pitched a great game, but was weak with men on bases. GOOD SPORT PROMISED.

Under the Auspices of Tri-State Circuit and Fair Association.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some excellent sport is promised this fall on the circuit of the Tristate Racing & County Fair association, which is made up of Rhinelander and Ashland, Wis.; Duluth, Minn., and Ironwood, Mich. There will be two days' racing on each track, excepting at Rhinelander, where the meeting will continue for three days. Each town has hung up $1,400 in prizes, an aggregate of $5,600, and at each meeting the events and purses will be as follows: 2:50 pace, $150; 2:25 trot, $150; 2:17 pace, $200; 2:13 trot, $200; 2:24 pace, $150; 2:20 trot, $150; free-for-all, $400. The dates are: Rhinelander, Sept. 8, 9 and 10; Ironwood, Sept. 17 and 18; Ashland, Sept. 23 and 24; Duluth, Oct. 2 and 3. Some of the fastest harness horses in the Northwest will take part in the races.

MATHEWSON TO YUCATAN.

Chewing Gum Nation Wants to See Him in Action.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 27.—Christy Mathewson's fame is not of the United States alone. There are other sections of the world where the fame of the noted twirler has reached. As evidence on this point, Christy received a letter the other day from Merida, Yucatan, requesting him to come there this winter and give a few exhibitions in the art of making an official baseball obey.

So another baseball invasion is on taps; this time to the land of the chewing gum.

A TRIP IN THE WILDS

Country North of Winton is Real Sportsman's Paradise.

Duluth Man Saw One Herd of Fourteen Moose.

After six weeks of canoeing for pleasure, through the wilds of Northern Minnesota, covering hundreds of miles of rivers, creeks and lakes in a country known as a hunters' and fishermen's paradise, Fred W. Chilcott of Duluth and David Donnelly of Minneapolis, have returned to the city, looking as sound and healthy as a month and a half of recreation in Minnesota's famous pine woods could be expected to make any one look, and filled with enthusiasm over the possibilities of this section of the state for trips of this kind.

"Ely and Winton were our headquarters, and from there we made a number of trips by canoe, some of them extending as far as the Canadian boundary," said Mr. Chilcott, in speaking of their outing. "As we were traveling most of the time, you can see that we covered a good deal of territory. I have heard the expression, 'hunters' paradise,' but never before fully realized what it meant, until we got well up into the wilds.

"Some city men may find it hard to believe, but it is a fact, that we saw one herd of moose containing fourteen animals. We saw several bunches of three and four, but the herd surprised us, for it has always been our understanding that moose did not travel in large herds, especially in the summer time. During the six weeks we saw scores and scores of moose. The summer is the best time to see them, for then they seek out the rivers and lakes to escape the flies and other insect pests of the forest.

"Speaking of insects, we were not bothered at all by mosquitoes, although we went into the woods early in July. Of course there were some, but not enough to cause any particular annoyance, and we threw away all our mosquito nets and liquid preparations to ward off the pest after the first few days in the woods. Ducks, partridge and all kinds of feathered and furred game we saw in abundance. Being so early in the season, this didn't do us much good.

"There are any number of canoe trips that may be made out of Ely and Winton, extending from a few days to weeks, and even months. A person can start out and go to the Gulf of Mexico, or to Hudson's bay by canoe, by making a few short portages, or take a trip and come out into Lake Superior.

"More beautiful scenery than that along the rivers and lakes of Northern Minnesota it would be hard to imagine. Fishing is the finest in the United States. We caught great big fellows as fast as we could pull them out, but after the first day or two fished only as necessity demanded. The country is very wild, and one can travel days without seeing another white man. It makes the best possible kind of an outing."

DOWN TO THE FINAL ROUND

Elmer Whyte and Howard Abbott to Play for Championship.

The finals in the tennis tournament that has been in progress for the week past at the Northland Country club, will be played Friday afternoon between Howard Abbott and Elmer Whyte. There has been a great deal of interest in the tournament this year, so much so in fact that new tennis courts have been laid out, and work will be started on them at once.

The tournament this year has been interesting, and has fought all the way through. The best game of the season was the one between Richard Grant and Howard Abbott played yesterday afternoon in which Mr. Abbott won out by a small margin.

KETCHEL SIGNS TO FIGHT PAPKE

Middleweights to Fight on Labor Day in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 27.—Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke yesterday signed articles for a thirty-five-round fight before the Jefferies Athletic club on Labor day, Sept. 7.

There was some difference over the weight, Papke holding out for 156 at 11 o'clock on the day of the fight, and Ketchell demanding 158 at noon. Ketchel finally won, and the weight was decided upon at his figures. Both men posted forfeits of $500 each to bind the match.

This battle, which gives promise of being one of the greatest the coast has seen for many months, will cost the Jeffries club 60 per cent of the gross receipts. Sixty per cent of this will go to the winner and 40 to the loser. The bout also will mark the re-entry of James Jeffries into the ring as referee.

MOTOR RACE POSTPONED.

Affair Will be Pulled Off for Sure Next Wednesday.

On account of the ball game between the married and unmarried men of the Duluth Boat club Saturday afternoon, the motor boat race will be postponed until some time next week.

All principals entered are anxious for the race to be pulled off so that the wrangling between the different boat owners will be settled for all time. This is the only event planned by the boat club for the summer season that has not been held, and the officers are anxious to get it out of the way. G. G. H. Jones who has the affair in charge said today that an effort will be made to run it off next Wednesday afternoon, providing the weather permits.

Daniel Webster.

DESCENDED from a stern unbending race of Puritan Pioneers and Indian fighters, this colossal personality ("With eyes of power and Jove's own brow") was born in the village of Franklin, N. J., where his father kept a roadside tavern, and where his intellectual development began.

The principles of "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable," so eloquently enunciated by him, in after years nerved the arm of Lincoln, flashed from the blades of Sheridan, and glinted from the bayonets of Grant

And some of his most memorable orations were delivered in taverns and at public banquets, where the delicious juices of the barley fields gurgled cool and invitingly from a thousand bottles; filled every bumper glass, and delighted his own palate; developing within him, force and energy, intellect, eloquence, mind and soul.

Budweiser

The Natural Drink of America

A pure and wholesome product of barley fields and hop gardens. LUPULIN, which has created a stir in the medical world because of its great Tonic properties for stomach disorders, is found in the highest and most effective form in Saazer Hops, grown in the Province of Saaz, Bohemia. The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, St. Louis, U. S. A., imports more of these hops than all other brewers in the United States.

More Budweiser is drank in American homes than all other beers.

SEASON IS OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

Grouse, Prairie Chicken and Snipe May be Shot Sept. 1.

The grouse and prairie chicken season will open next Tuesday and a number of Duluth sportsmen will leave Sunday evening so as to be on the ground on the dawn of Tuesday morning.

The best hunting of this kind is found in Western Minnesota and the Dakotas, although now and then a stray covey of grouse is found quite near the city, usually on a railway track. Many Duluth men have their regular hunting grounds, which they visit every year, and which are, of course, the "best places in the country" to hunt.

Guns are being hauled out, hunting dogs looked up, the map carefully gone over, and according to local hardware dealers, bird shot is being hustled over the counter. Just a month from Tuesday the partridge season opens. This is by far the more popular sport around Duluth, as the sportsmen can get into the thick of the bird country within a few hours.

Reports from the country indicate that there will be more birds this year than ever before. Last year a great many were drowned out, but this year the heavy rains came too late to do much damage.

GOV. HUGHES HELD UP HORSE RACES

Sporting Men Refuse to Race While He is Present.

Ballston, N. Y., Aug. 27.—For an hour and a half yesterday afternoon the openly expressed hostility of owners of trotting horses taking part in the events at the Saratoga county fair toward Governor Charles E. Hughes held up the racing program at the fair grounds here. Governor Hughes was a visitor at the fair yesterday and addressed a big gathering which gave him a hearty greeting and an attentive hearing. The governor's presence on the grounds was resented by the horse owners, who have taken exception to the governor's efforts to suppress betting on the race tracks of the state. As a consequence they refused to start their horses while the executive was on the grounds.

The "strike" of the horse owners created na unprecented situation and caused the management of the fair marked embarrassment. When the conditions became known a sensation was created among the thousands of spectators on the grounds and considerable pressure was put upon the trotting men to change their attitude and run off the races as scheduled. In this the fair officials took the lead, urging the case strongly upon the recalcitrant owners and pointing out the awkwardness of the situation caused by the balk in the program. Their efforts were fruitless, however, the owners remaining obdurate and for an hour and a half refused to budge from their position. They openly declared that Governor Hughes had antagonized their interests and that they proposed to retaliate by refusing to take their horses out on the track while he was present.

Those in charge of the fair threatened to have the owners disqualified for their refusal to come to time when the races were called, but even this threat had no effect in altering their attitude and the race were held up during the entire period of the executive's visit to the fair.

Governor Hughes was scheduled to leave on the 4 o'clock train and shortly before that time left the fair grounds enclosure. Immediately upon his departure the racing proceeded. The lateness of the start caused the continuance of the trotting until dark.

LOOKING FOR A FIGHT.

Kid Daly is in Town and Anxious to Scrap.

"Kid" Daly blew in last night from Port Arthur, and shambeled right up to The Herald office looking for a fight. Daly is fresh from battles down East, where he never did worse than a draw and is ready for a "mix" with anyone he can hook up with in Duluth.

Monday night at Port Arthur he boxed ten rounds with Vernon Austin, champion of Canada and gave a good account of himself. The affair was an exhibition affair, and no decision was given.

He fights at 122 pounds, and is dead anxious for a "mix" for fun, marbles or money.

Spaldings Get Busy.

From the members of their baseball team, which has enjoyed a successful season ,the Spalding Athletic association has organized a football team, and will practice at once. A number of old time Duluth football stars will be seen in the lineup, and they are anxious to get a schedule framed up. They will average 145 pounds and desire games with the best teams in Northern Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

John Danielson has been elected captain, and A. P. LaVell is manager. Any one desiring dates can arrange the same by addressing him at 312 East Fourth street.

Pulliam Approves.

New York, Aug. 27.—President Harry C. Pulliam of the National baseball league yesterday announced approval of the following: Contracts—With Boston, Bealz Becker. William H. Chappelle; with Chicago, J. S. Neur, Floyd M. Kroh; with Cincinnati, Jacon C. Volz; with Pittsburg, Robert G. Vail; with St. Louis, Fred J. Kaiser.

Releases — By Chicago to Boston, John L. Donahue; by Brooklyn to Brockton, N. E. L. Pembroke Finlayson.

Infantry Wins Trophy.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 27.—The United States infantry team won the national trophy and the $300 offered by congress by winning the United States army rifle match yesterday. The infantry's score was 3,224. The second prize, the Hilton trophy and $200 in cash, went to the navy team, which scored 3,220. A score of 3,180, made by the Cavalry team, gave the cavalry third place, the bronze trophy. "The Soldier of Marathon," and $15 in cash. The marine corps was fourth with 3,117 and won $100 in cash. Fifth place and $75 in cash was won by the Wisconsin team with a score of 3,073, which also heads the national guard teams. All of the high honors were taken by the regular army service teams.

RAZOR AT THROAT; AX OVERHEAD

John Sullivan Says Life is in Danger and Wants Divorce.

John Sullivan doesn't relish the idea of living with a razor at his throat and an ax hanging over his head. He filed suit for divorce in district court yesterday against his wife, Josephine Sullivan, because, he says, she has twice threatened to kill him, once with a razor and later with an ax. He alleges also that she is an habitual drunkard and prefers the company of other men to his.

Sullivan is 47 years old and his wife is 30 years. They were married at Milbank, S. D., Nov. 8, 1894, and three children were born to them. He claims that she ill-treated him several times, only to leave him in July, 1902, remaining away four and a half years. On her return, he says, she claimed she no longer loved him, and in March, 1907, when he reprimanded her for being in company of other men, she threatened to kill him with a razor. In November of the same year, he says, she hit him on the head with a dish causing a scalp wound, and in July, 1908, threatened him with an ax.

Edith Benneson, aged 26 years, filed suit for divorce yesterday against her husband, Joseph Benneson, 36 years old, on the grounds of cruelty. He is an habitual drunkard, she claims, and illtreats her and her children by former marriage. They were married in Duluth Nov. 26, 1907.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davison, of No. 379 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "Thedford's Black-Draught is a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ORE UNDER VIRGINIA

Drill Cuts Sixty Feet of Metal in Second Ward.

Other Ore Strikes Are Also Reported in That Section.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)— The prediction recently made that a considerable portion of the city of Virginia would have to be moved to make way for mining operations is in a fair way to be verified, as a drill placed in operation about three weeks ago in the thickly populated second ward is now working in ore. Up to yesterday morning the drill had cut sixty feet of ore and was still working in that material. The surface is only forty feet in thickness and consequently should a mine be developed the prospect is that it will be operated as an open pit proposition.

It is common report that recent explorations by the Oliver Iron Mining company on land just adjoining the city on the east revealed an ore body 400 feet in depth, some of which is said to be located under the old dumps near the Missabe railroad yards, which were formed from dirt stripped from the Oliver mine years ago. This report set some Virginians to thinking that possibly ore existed to the west of the Missabe tracks with the result that Messrs. H. J. Nathanson, S. W. Gilpin and others secured an option for a lease on the forty acres, which is bounded on the east by the Missabe tracks, on the west by Cleveland avenue, on the west by Chestnut street, the main business throughfare, and extending four blocks north from Chestnut street, containing some of the most substantial business structures in the city, while the entire track is thickly covered with buildings. The drill is located in the northeast corner of the forty at present, and the finding of ore there will undoubtedly lead to systematic exploration of the entire tract.

Forty Cents Royalty.

The owners of the mineral rights reside in Pennsylvania and it is stated that the lessees agreed to pay a royalty of 40 cents per ton. An effort was made to organize a local syndicate to pay for the drilling of the ground, but Virginians were too skeptical and so a deal was made with Messrs. Geary and Power of Hibbing to do the drilling for an interest in the lease, and it is probable that they have struck it rich as a reward for their enterprise.

The Coleraine mine adjoining this forty and the two properties take in the entire thickly settled Second ward, ando the indications are that ore exists in much the greater portion of it. The ore body on the Columbia is known to run clear up to the southern limits of the property, and should the explorations on the tract now being drilled reveal a considerable body of ore the prospects are good that hundreds of buildings will have to be moved at immense cost.

The Columbia mine wrought for a time, but mining was discontinued several years ago owing to the excessive accumulation of water in the drifts. When mining operations will be resumed is not known, but it is probable that nothing will be done until the ore in other properties controlled by the company is exhausted.

OVERHEATED STOVE

Causes Blaze That Destroys Virginia Boarding House.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Robertson, who has conducted a boarding house on Pine street, lost her home by fire early yesterday morning. The blaze started from an overheated stove in the kitchen and had gained such headway before the alarm was turned in that the house and contents were destroyed. The loss was about $1,500 with no insurance.

Rev. and Mrs. Christensing, missionaries from China, held services last evening at the Norwegian Lutheran church and will appear again tomorrow evening.

Mr. John Perala, who was severely burned recently on account of an explosion of kerosene, has gone to a Duluth hospital for treatment. It is feared that it will be necessary to amputate her right hand on account of the severity of the burns.

GILBERT WOODMEN LODGE.

It Has Been Organized With Twenty-Three Charter Members.

Gilbert, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. Strand of Duluth, district deputy of the M. W. A., has been here a few days organizing the M. W. of A. lodge, and Tuesday night a class of candidates, twenty-three in all, was taken over to Sparta and initiated into the order.

After the initiation ceremonies a banquet was given by the neighbors of Camp No. 8670, Sparta. Neighbor D. M. Mauser was toastmaster. Speeches were delivered for the good of the order by T. Strand, the deputy; also Dr. H. R. Baker, one of the candidates; D. M. Mauser, Capt. Caine and others, and all enjoyed a good social time.

NIGHT SHIFT WORKING IN THE ADAMS NO. 48.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The No. 4 shaft Adams, which has not been working nights since the first of the year, put on a night shift the first of the week. A number of men will thus be given employment. In the open pit a steam shovel has been placed which casts the ore into the mills and electric motors haul the ore in 4-ton cars to the shaft, where it is dumped into a pocket and then pulled to the surface.

The Adams location is taking on an almost new appearance as the company houses are all being re-shingled.

MONEY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Virginia Council Expected to Make Substantial Levy.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The heads of the different city departments held a meeting at the city hall yesterday afternoon and made estimates of the amounts of money needed to pay the expense of their departments during the coming year. The members of the council were also present. While the committee appointed by the Commercial club to ask the council to make a substantial levy for public improvements did not appear, the council practically decided to make a levy of $25,000 for a permanent improvement fund and $20,000 additional for the general improvement of the streets and alleys of the city. The board of tax levy will meet in September, when the amounts to be raised for the expenses of the different departments will be definitely determined.

GOING AWAY TO SCHOOL.

Many Virginia Young People Will Soon Depart..

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large number of Virginia young people will depart during the next week to attend higher institutions of learning. Harry Neff will attend college at Wabash, Ind. Leslie Redd will return to Iowa university to take his second year's course in dentistry. Leighton Simons and Adolph Hallmer will resume their studies in the University of Minnesota. The former is taking the engineering course and the latter is taking the academic course. Milton Butler will finish his studies this year at the Wisconsin university. Henry Sincock will return to the Northwestern university. Sigvert Dahl will go to the state university for his second year in the law department. Miss Elodie Johnson, who graduated from the high school this year, will enter the University of Chicago, while Minnie Cohen, another 1908 graduate, will attend the Duluth normal school.

TREED BY SHE BEAR.

Two McKinley Men Given a Lively Time.

McKinley, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An old she-bear, the mother of two cubs, Thomas Roberts, master mechanic here and Fred McCaskey, a locomotive engineer, had killed, attacked the slayers of her offspring near here a few nights ago and drove them up a tree. She was climbing after them when Carl Jackson, who happened along, attracted her attention and she took after him. He sprinted into camp like a Marathon winner and excitedly related how he had been pursued. In the meantime McCaskey and Roberts, who had witnessed the chase from the perch in the tree came down, secured their rifles they dropped while scrambling up the tree, and picking up the carcasses of the cub bears repaired to camp, thankful that Jackson had happened along.

GOLDSTEIN STUNG EVELETH.

Several People Looking in Vain for Absent Tailor.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the hurried leaving town Sunday morning of I. Goldstein, a number of people are out some money. Mr. Goldstein came here about two months ago and ingratiated himself with most of the people he came in contact with. Some said that he was not so good as he claimed himself to be and said that he had a bad record in Hibbing and Duluth, leaving both of those places with unpaid board bills and other debts. When he came here he represented himself as being from Chicago, and secured a place as tailor with Mr. Erickson. The man had some learning, and showed himself oft at every opportunity. Everything went well with the man until a few weeks ago, when he got into a fight.

Goldstein was fined $10 and costs, which amounted to quite a sum. He appealed the case to the district courts and was let out on $100 bail, furnished by his employer, Erickson, and a Mr. Puillips. Through his leaving, the bail will be forfeited. Since the time of the trial it is said he has been going very well with Goldstein, and at his leaving Sunday morning was in debt for his board bill and various sums of money he had borrowed from local people The current opinion is that the man has gone to Canada.

SURVEYING FOR SPARTANS.

Steel Corporation Making Building Site Ready.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—As further evidence that the town of Sparta will be sold to the Steel corporation, surveyors are now at work on the forty adjoining Gilbert, where the Sparta people will move to, and in which they will receive lots for the ones they leave at Sparta. The addition has been platted for some time, but has not been completely surveyed, as will be done when the deals now pending between t he property owners and the Steel corporation at Sparta will b completed.

The road from Eveleth to Sparta is being made considerably wider, almost twice the width of the present road. The hill just beyond the Fayal location is being built up on the side near the location, making a much easier ascent than formerly. All along the way improvements are being made, the material being taken from the side of the hill, near the Miller trunk road. From Gilbert to the Sparta road improvements are also being made to level the road, but at present it is not used much.

MAY BUILD SAWMILL.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seeing the need of a small sawmill to be used by the farmers in the vicinity of the Miller trunk road and the homestead country south of Eveleth, W. N. Barber and W. P. Veitch of this town are figuring on putting up one. The farmers around the country that will be helped by the sawmill are greatly pleased with the new enterprise.

Committee on Premiums.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake County Agricultural society has selected the following committee on premiums for the coming county fair: Mrs. J. M. Hickox, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Owens, Mrs. H. K. Gillon and Mrs. W. Elfstrand.

Representative Saarl's Condition.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—From telegraph reports received here, Hon. John Saarl, representative from this district, who was operated on in St. Paul, is steadily improving, but is not yet out of danger.

Preferred Coming Here.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the municipal court yesterday John Shea and John Zolar, who were each arrested for drunkenness, were fined $5 o rtwenty days in jail. The men had no money, but one of their friends offered to pay the fines, but the men preferred to be sent to Duluth.

EVELETH NEEDS LIBRARY.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in securing a public library has been renewed by the visit Tuesday of Miss Clara F. Baldwin, secretary of the Minnesota Library commission, who came to try to place books here for the use of the Eveleth Art club. As the city is without a public library it is hard for those interested to find necessary books when they are needed. At the present time those who want to read books must take the books from the school library which is now located in the Fayal building. Many people here are in favor of the securing of a public library.

Virginia's Personal Notes.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. C. McClair, bookkeeper for the Cole & Davidson Lumber company, was joined by his wife and family Monday. They came from their former home at Shadron, Neb.

Fred Bliese of Phillips, Wis., arrived here Tuesday evening for two weeks' visit with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Johnson. He says the recent frosts did great damage to the crops in Northern Wisconsin.

Atlantic City, and that the others were in sympathy with the violators of the law. The grand jury, now in session, is not likely to find indictments, the governor declares, and in his proclamation he states that he has affidavits from James C. Steelman and William Reeves Winters, stating that they purchased liquors last Sunday in saloons operated by three members of the grand jury.

The governor says he can see but one of two things to do under the circumstances, first to call out the militia and police of Atlantic City and declare the resort to be under martial law. This would require an appropriation by the legislature. Second, he will ask a special session of the legislature to enact special legislation authorizing him to appoint a disinterested commission to take charge of the affairs of Atlantic City. He also wants a law authorizing him to remove officers, after a hearing, for failure to perform or who wilfully refuse to do their duty.

Creates a Sensation.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 27.—Governor Fort's startling proclamation created a sensation here. His drastic attitude on the subject of violations of the law was the sole topic of conversation everywhere. The grand jury is meeting again today at May's Landing, the county seat, and much curiosity is expressed regarding the outcome of the body's deliberations. A week ago, the grand jury after much deliberation handed down but two indictments against alleged violators of the Sunday liquor law, other charges being postponed. The following Sunday was declared by observers to have been more "wide open" than ever before. Members of the grand jury and Atlantic City officials frankly declared that there would be no indictments or enforcements of the laws against Sunday liquor selling and gambling until after the close of the season. As a severe storm is prevailing and summer visitors are leaving the resort in great numbers, it is possible that the grand jury may conclude that the season has closed and act on the evidence of law breaking that has been presented by County Prosecutor Goldenburg, one of the leaders of the reform body, who have been active in their efforts to bring about a different condition of affairs here.

SMART SUITS FOR FALL

We are showing the new ones this week and you can't help being delighted with them.

The Stein-Bloch Suits are cut along most graceful lines and are surely genteel clothes. They bear evidence of being the result of over half a century of knowing how. In style they excel. The workmanship is of the highest class.

The Young Men's Suits are the most attractive creations that have ever been shown in Duluth.

To appreciate them you need to see them. They have all the new wrinkles that please the fellows who like College Cut Clothes.

An examination of these suits will be an education in 1908 clothing styles.

THE COLUMBIA

ARE JOLLY MARINERS

G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. Members Brave the Terrors of the Deep.

Witherspoon Gives Advice to Two Harborites—Fenton an Admiral.

The good ship Easton bore a jolly crowd of G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. members to Two Harbors yesterday afternoon.

Some of the members of the club, which is composed of railroad men, refused to get on the boat at first. However, W. E. Witherspoon of St. Paul, crawled along the hold of the boat and poked a crooked stick, which he has effectionately carried for the past three days, into all dark spaces. He thoroughly explored the bottom of the boat and then assured the more timid members of the club that all was well and that there was nothing to fear. Thus assured, by a man of Mr. Witherspoon's nautical training, the railroad men climbed on board the ship and the ropes were slipped.

A Heavy Sea.

Going through the canal the ship encountered a heavy sea and several of the club members shifted to the sitting room and looked uncomfortable. T. E. Blanche, ex-president and experienced waterman, secured assurance from the captain of the boat that the storm was a mere bagatelle, as it were, and that the rocking of the boat and the list to port was only a natural characteristic of the good ship. Passing among the riders of the rails, Mr. Blanche exhorted them to be brave and bear up. "For the sake of the ladies," said the retiring president, "put on bold faces and come to the forward deck." Whereupon Clarence Kelly, sometimes known as Hathaway, crawled from under the davenport and strode with Mr. Blanche to the forward deck.

When the fears of the members of the club had somewhat calmed, it was suggested that a business meeting be held. This sounded good to the more timid members of the club, who despite the encouraging words of T. E. Blanche, still wore faces of blanched hue. They found they possessed more courage in a crowd.

President Is Calm.

President Adson, calm as a veteran sailor and dispelling fear by his dignified bearing, called the meeting together. It was suggested that the name of the club should be changed. The result of the vote was an almost unanimous verdict in favor of retaining the name of G. A. M. B. A. Y. C. It was decided that Duluth and Superior should be the permanent meeting places of the club. Some of the members from the Twin Cities, were by this time becoming quite boisterous under the leadership of F. D. Lyon. Brother Lyon fought hard for Minneapolis as the next meeting place of the club. President Adson spoke sternly to Mr. Lyon, who retorted with some shot that had to do with some dark secret in the life of President Adson.

Resolutions were adopted thanking W. S. Chadwick for the work he had given to the success of the club, and a motion to make him a life member was unanimously carried. Resolutions thanking the press for the courtesy it had shown, and the Booth line officials for their kindness to the members of the club, were passed.

August, 1909, was set as the next meeting time of the club, the exact date to be determined later. A motion to give W. S. Chadwick a testimonial was unanimously passed and a committee appointed to select some fitting testimonial of the club's gratitude to Mr. Chadwick.

Witherspoon Speaks.

A short stop was made at Two Harbors. W. E. Witherspoon made a rapid tour of the town, accompanied by his "human stick," addressing several impromptu gatherings and giving the residents of the town advice that no doubt they will soon forget.

The return trip was one long dream of delight. First the welcome call of dinner rang through the ship. This clarion call brought forth from state rooms pale and tottering members, who wanly smiled as they spied the planked whitefish. The orchestra struck up "A Sailor's Life Is the Life for Me." G. A. Sherwood executed a hornpipe he had learned when he played in the No. 3 "Pinafore" company, and the members of the club assembled in the dining room. Several club members remained in the forward part of the hold to watch the moon. It was beautiful on the starboard side of the boat.

After dinner the members repaired to the music room and Fred D. Lyon sang "Asleep in the Deep," with such realistic effects that several of the members were seen to doze away. An encore resulted in Mr. Lyon singing "Sweet Rosy O'Grady," with all the beauty that his sweet Irish voice was capable of lending to the song. He made a terrific hit.

Fenton Made an Admiral.

A. M. Fenton, attired in a sailor cap, paced the forward deck during the heaviest part of the storm, oblivious of all danger. After this feat of seamanship he was appointed admiral of the boat. The members of the club were the guests of the Duluth Yacht club after the return from Two Harbors. All of the visiting railroad men voted it the best time they ever had and gave the assurance that they would be on hand next year.

THAW SAYS IT'S CORRECT

hundred plays golf for money. I have attended more than a hundred baseball games and found that my own and my neighbor's interest came from the playing of the game itself. Were it otherwise professional baseball would become a farce. Mr. Hand cannot be familiar with the spirit of amateur baseball.

"That field sports, tennis, etc., are indulged in as a pleasant and wholesome exercise is, I trust, beyond doubt. Were this otherwise the votaries of racing would have an unanswerable argument in favor of their diversion. The effect of Mr. Hand's statement coming from such an authority cannot be otherwise than injurious.

"Another remark I hope will not meet with general approval. His affirmation that 'I cannot imagine any serious difference of opinion upon the proposition that there were justices of the supreme court in the First district, who were not entitled to the respect of any well informed lawyer,' has a disagreeable sound to me. If Mr. Hand believes this and has proof, it is his duty to bring charges against the judges thus accused. If not, this inrimination should have been committed."

try towards Democracy and I feel absolutely confident of the election of Bryan and Kern," said Mr. Mack. "I say this frankly, not because it is an utterance naturally expected to come from a national chairman of a political party, but from the fact that reports received and preliminary canvasses made indicates that the next administration at Washington will be Democratic.

"The campaign in the West is being vigorously pushed and within ten days the work will be well advanced in the East. Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and New York will undoubtedly go Democratic this year.

"I have been away nearly a month and have not kept in touch with the gubernatorial situation in this state. The Democrats have several good men who can be nominated for governor, but that is a matter for the Rochester convention. As to the Buffalo primary yesterday I can say I know nothing about it, as the national campaign has occupied every minute of my time."

Speaking of campaign funds, Mr. Mask said:

"I am not worrying about finances and there is no distress for money. The finance committee has supplied me with all the money that is necessary, and I have ordered supplies and everything needful in the campaign. Our funds come mostly in small contributions from the masses of the people, and we are gathering much money in this way. The day for large contributions, so far as the Democratic party is concerned, is fairly over. I am not afraid that the committee will not obtain all the money it needs to conduct a legitimate campaign."

Mr. Mack held numerous conferences throughout the day. Many national committeemen and prominent Democrats called at headquarters.

wedded him twenty-nine years ago. They have no children.

On Stage at 10.

Tony Pastor was widely known throughout the country and also in European cities as a vaudeville manager. He began his public career at the age of 10 in 1845, when made his debut in Barnum's museum, and four years later he went on the road with Raymond & Warring's circus, doing a black-face stunt as a tambourinist, riding in the "grand entree" and also doing a tumbling act.

He became a clever bareback rider, and played the star part of Pete Jenkins, the countryman who came staggering into the ring and bet the ringmaster that he could ride the horse as well as the rider in spangles. He took delight in observing the astonishment of the young people, who seemed to fear that he would fall off, when they saw him reveal himself as the crack acrobat rider of the show.

In 1861 he was a singer in a variety theater at 444 Broadway. When the news of the firing on Sumpter reached the city, Pastor purchased a big American flag and a copy of the "Star-Spangled Banner," every stanza of which he committed to memory. That night he came out, waving the flag and singing the anthem. The audience went wild with enthusiasm, and Tony occupied the stage for the remainder of that evening. The audience would not let him retire. Every man and boy in the house—no women were allowed to attend variety shows in those days—stood up and cheered until dumb from hoarseness.

A Manager in 1865.

Pastor's career as a manager began in the spring of 1865, when, with Samuel Sharpley, the minstrel, he took a variety company on the road.

Pastor was the first manager to let down the bars excluding women from variety performances. His venture in Paterson in the latter part of 1865 was really the pioneer vaudeville entertainment, as the term is now understood. It was an immense success, "family patronage," by presenting to the women at the matinee performances presents of various kinds, including silk dresses, barrels of flour and sewing machines.

It was in his Broadway playhouse that "Lillian Russell," a name which he is credited with inventing, made her first stage appearance in "Pinafore," burlesque.

Among the other noted people of the profession who first appeared under the management of Tony Pastor were May Irwin, Florence Bindley, Francis Wilson, Gus Williams, Denman Thompson—who presented the rural sketch from which "The Old Homestead" was evolved—Jennie Yeamans, Pat Rooney, Nat Goodwin, Weber & Fields, Vesta Tilley and Vesta Victoria. Maggie Cline was also one of his finds. Dan Daly, too, was among the number of his proteges. It was at his old Broadway house that he first introduced "condensed" operas and burlesques of the Gilbert & Sullivan operettas.

At least three songs sung by Tony Pastor during his stage career can be whistled by a good share of the home-bred New Yorkers who are between 45 and 60 years old. They are "Jim, the Carter's Lad," "Down in a Coal Mine," and "Pull Down the Blinds." Each was a craze in its day, and each was brought from England by Pastor, who was then in his best voice.

FLOOD AND FIRES

river would have reached its highest point. This prediction has been exceeded by several feet, the river having reached between forty and forty-five feet, the danger line being thirty-three feet.

Immediately on learning the weather bureau's warning, those living nearest the river began moving out for higher places, and by the time the water reached their homes they were well on their way to the hills.

There is a great deal of suffering among the poorer classes of whites and the negroes who occupied houses nearest the lowlands. When the river began to rise, people could be seen going through the streets with what little bedding and other things they could hurriedly gather up and handily carry on their backs. Women were seen with their children in their arms making their way toward higher places, while the men were driving livestock.

Thousands of people went to bed Tuesday night with the thought that they would wake in time to escape the flood, but, greatly to their surprise, they woke to find themselves surrounded by water and cut off from escape except by boat.

The cabmen and those possessed of boats were quick to see their opportunity, and at once began to charge exorbitant prices for moving those unfortunate enough to be caught in perilous positions.

Many people, in attempting to wade or swim from their home or from places of business in the flooded district to points of vantage, lost their footing, and only saved themselves from the rushing torrent by catching to tree limbs or anything else they could get hold of.

Exorbitant Fees Demanded.

It is reported that a number of people were caught in these positions, and when the boatmen passed near enough to be hailed they would refuse to go to the assistance of the unfortunates unless they were assured of being paid unreasonable, exorbitant fees. One man was seen in a tree who was pouring fourth pitiful appeals for assistance and offering $50 to anyone that would rescue him.

The police department early established temporary headquarters at the health and drainage department office on May avenue out of the high water district and patrolmen were placed on beats up to the water line. They made few arrests, however, the people seeming to appreciate the situation and keeping within the law limits.

At the Western Union telegraph office when the water began to rise many of the operators left the building for their homes. Five minutes later, however, and they were compelled to abandon the telegraph office and seek safety in the chamber of commerce building where wires were found still intact and they were in communication with the Atlanta office about midnight. No business was handled, however, as there were no means of handling the business properly. At daybreak this morning the operators in this building reported that the water had fallen four end a half inches since midnight and if the fall continued telegraphic communication with the outside world from Augusta would be re-established by noon today.

At the Postal Telegraph office the operating force were compelled to desert the office when the water reached the top of the operating tables. The Postal company was about to move into new quarters but the many changes in wires had not been completed but despite the fact that the flood came on so suddenly, this company was able to make enough changes to establish a through service east and west on a few wires and then every one had to seek places of safety. No business was transacted by the telegraph companies after dark Wednesday. The telephone service into Augusta held up until about 7:30 p. m., and finally collapsed, perhaps the last communication from that city to Atlanta being between the Associated Press and its correspondent.

It is not possible to give an estimate on the financial loss resulting from the flood. An idea may be gathered, however, when it is taken into consideration that every business house, every bank and store was submerged in from four to eight or nine feet of water, and nearly all the residence portion, including the fashionable residence district of Green street with all its churches in from three to six feet of water, the damage is inestimable. With last night's fires, the cessation from business until the city has recovered itself and damage to stocks of goods of all kinds, it is thought that the loss will go well above the half million mark.

VILAS PASSES AWAY

immediately upon assuming the presidential office. On March 7, 1885, Mr. Vilas became postmaster general, an office he held until January, 1888, when he became secretary of the interior. He served in that capacity until March 6, 1889, when he returned to Wisconsin to resume the practice of law and to enter actively again into the Wisconsin political arena.

In the campaign of 1890, in Wisconsin, Mr. Vilas spoke daily, and sometimes several times a day, on a tour of the four which included the entire state. The result of the election enabled the Democrats to choose, for the first time in thirty-five years, a United States senator. Such a hold had Mr. Vilas upon the affections of his party that in the caucus he received every one of the eighty-five votes upon the first ballot. In January, 1891, he was formally elected by the legislature to the senate for the six years' term beginning March 4, 1891.

Postal Service Improved.

While in the cabinet, as postmaster general, Mr. Vilas carried out several pieces of work of great value to his department. He established improved business methods in several divisions; he gave an increase of service with a decrease in cost proportionate to expenditures of former years; he improved the foreign mail service and bettered the domestic service, being thanked in an elaborate testimonial from the great importing and commercial houses of New York; he had the postal laws and regulations completely revised, personally preparing the scheme and arrangement; he arranged a treaty with Mexico, and an agreement with Canada, whereby domestic rates were applied to mail service from this country throughout North America, and he inaugurated the parcels post conventions with foreign countries for the transmission of articles of merchandise not exceeding eleven pounds weight.

THE MARKET HAS BREAK

Flax Takes a Slump During the Session in Duluth.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 27.—After advancing over yesetrday's close, wheat broke at the close today and showed losses in most of the American markets. Duluth and Minneapolis were weakest at the end of the session, the depression being largely on more favorable news from the harvest fields. The weather in both the American and Canadian Northwests is better for threshing than it has been any time this week.

Argentine shipments of wheat were weak, and are estimated at 1,200,000 bus.

Liverpool closed ⅜d to ½d lower, Budapest ⅛c higher, and Berlin ½c higher.

The September option closed ⅞c lower in Duluth, ¼-⅜c higher in Chicago, 1c lower in Minneapolis for new wheat, ½c lower in New York, ⅛c higher in St. Louis, a shade lower in Kansas City and unchanged in Winnipeg for October wheat. The December option closed ½c lower in Duluth, ⅝c lower in Chicago and New York, ½-⅝c lower in Minneapolis, ¼-⅜c lower in St. Louis, ⅝-¾c lower in Kansas City and unchanged in Winnipeg.

September corn closed ⅜c higher in Chicago and ⅜d higher in Liverpool. September oats closed ⅜-½c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat—As a result of the firmer cables from America yesterday, and the higher offerings of American winter wheat, the market here was steady at the opening and unchanged to ¼d higher. Following the opening, and during the remainder of the morning session, the market was under pressure with offerings larger and support lacking, values declined ¼d to ⅜d. Realizing was the result of the large arrivals here of American winter wheat, which grade high, and the inactivity of cash markets. At midday the market was easier, and ⅛d to ¼d lower than Wednesday.

"Corn was steady at the start and unchanged. Later the market was well supported with offerings light and values showed an advance of ¼d. Strength resulted from the poor condition of La Plata cargoes arrived here and the strength in America yesterday."

Car receipts at Duluth were 29 against 32 last year, and at Minneapolis 318 against 72 last year, making a total for the northwest of 547 against 104 last year. Chicago received 65 against 116 last year. Winnipeg received 33 against 38 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 782,000 bushels; last year 679,000 bushels. Shipments, 400,000 bushels; last year 455,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour aggregated 483,000 bushels.

Primary receipts of corn were 511,000 bushels; last year 356,000 bushels. Shipments 348,000 bushels; last year 362,000 bushels.

Wheat was fairly active in the Duluth market. September wheat opened ⅝c off at 99⅞c, advanced to $1.00⅝ and declined by the close to 99⅞c, a loss of ⅞c from yesterday. December wheat opened ¼c higher at 98¼c, advanced to 98½c, declined to 97½c and closed there, a loss of ½c from yesterday.

Durum wheat closed ¼c lower and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 6¼c over September for No. 1 northern.

Flax was active and declined quite heavily after the first half hour, closing soft. September flax opened unchanged at $1.29, and declined by the close to $1.26⅝, a loss of 2⅝c from yesterday. October flax opened ⅛c lower at $1.27⅝, went off to $1.25 and closed there, a loss of 2½c from yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.27, declined to $1.25 and closed there, a loss of 2c from yesterday.

December flax went off from $1.24½ to $1.23 and closed there, a loss of 2c from yesterday.

Oats closed ⅝c higher, and rye ½c up. Barley was unchanged.

Following weer the closing prices:

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Lower Cables and Liberal Receipts Have Depressing Effect on Wheat.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Lower cables and liberal receipts in the Northwest had a depressing effect on the market here today, initial quotations being unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower compared with the previous close. Pit traders were inclined to sell short owing to the continued clear weather generally throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas, and the market lacking any substantial support became a trifle weaker during early trading. December opened at 95@95⅛c and sold off to 94¾@⅞c. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 412 cars against 218 cars last week and 220 cars a year ago.

Buying of the September delivery by cash houses caused a rally toward the middle of the session which carried the price of that option up to 95c. December in the meantime advanced to 95⅝c. The market weakened later on liberal selling of December by several leading longs, and closed barely steady with prices ¼ @ ⅜c higher to ⅜c lower. Final quotations on September were at 94½c and on December at 94¾ @ ⅞c.

Corn was steady, prices early in the day holding within a quarter of a cent range. Cables were firm, but the ideal weather in this country for the growing crops offset the foreign situation. December opened at 66⅜c to 66⅜@½c and sold at 66½c.

Local receipts were 258 cars with 89 of contract grade.

The distant deliveries displayed considerable firmness during the last half of the day because of crop damage reports. December advanced to 66⅞c. The close was firm at net gains of ¼ to ⅜c, final figures on December being at 66⅝c.

Trade in oats was very quiet and the market was steady, prices at the opening being unchanged to ⅛c higher. December opened at 49⅜c and sold at 49¾ @ ⅝c. Local receipts were 217 cars.

A decrease of about 28,000 head in the total receipts of live hogs at Western packing centers compared with last year's arrivals for the corresponding day had a strengthening effect on provisions, prices at the opening being from 2½@10c higher than yesterday's close. Trade, however, was quiet.

Close: Wheat—September, 94½c; December, 94¾@⅞c; May, 97⅝@¾. Corn—September, 77⅝c; December, 66⅝c; May, 64¾c. Oats—September, 49⅜@⅝c; December, 49¾@⅞c; May, 51¾c. Pork—September, $14.55; October, $14.65; January, $15.95. Lard—September, $9.32½; October, $9.40@9.42½; January, $9.27½. Ribs—September, $8.80; October, $8.87½; January, $8.30. Rye—Cash, 78c; September, 75@76c. Barley—Cash, 61@66c. Timothy—September, $3.50; October, $3.45. Clover—October, $9.85. Cash wheat—No. 2 red, 95@96¼c; No. 3 red, 94½@95½c; No. 2 hard, 95@96½c; No. 3 hard, 94@95½c; No. 3 spring, 96c@$1.04. Corn—No. 2, 79@½c; No. 2 white, 79½@80c; No. 2 yellow, 80¼@½c; No. 3, 78¾@79c; No. 3 white, 79c; No. 3 yellow, 79¾@80c. Oats—No. 3 white, 49½@50¼c; No. 4 white, 48½@49½c; standard, 51c.

Heard on The Floor.

Nine cars of new No. 1 northern wheat were sold in the local cash market today. New wheat is arriving every day, although, of course, the movement is still light. Seven cars of new No. 1 northern sold here today for $1.05½ and two cars for $1.05¼. Two cars of new No. 2 northern sold at $1.03½.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens Lower, Advances, But Turns Downward Later.

Minneapolis, Aug. 27.—Foreign indifference to our changes was clearly expressed in a Liverpool opening cable, only ⅛d higher and closing cables ⅜@½d lower. This was poor response to the display of strength in American markets yesterday. The local receipts were big, 318 cars against only 72 last year. Duluth got 29 against 32. Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis receipts were moderate. Local elevator stocks fell off again, and the decrease so far this week is 175,000 bushels. The market opened ½@⅝c lower, advanced quickly to yesterday's close and made fractional gains, but turned downward later, and at the end of the session was weak and lower. September opened 99⅝c; high, $1.00½; low, 99@⅛c; close, 99@⅛c. Old September opened 99⅞c; high, $1.00⅜; low, 99¼@⅜c; close, 99¼@⅜c. December opened 98⅝c; high, 99⅜c; low, 98¼@⅜c; close, 98¼@⅜c. Old December closed 98½@⅝. May closed, $1.02¼.

Cash wheat was in splendid demand. Local millers wanted it and outside demand was good. No. 1 northern sold 3c over new September and No. 2 at September price to ½c over. In No. 1 northern 52 cars sold from $1.02½@1.03. No. 2 northern sold mainly at 99⅞c@$1. Velvet chaff in No. 1 northern brought 97@98⅝c and No. 2 velvet chaff 92@95c. Close: No. 1 northern, spot or to arrive, $1.01⅞; No. 2 northern, spot or to arrive, 98⅞c; No. 3 wheat, 95⅞c.

No. 3 yellow corn, 76¾c.

No. 3 white oats, 47⅝c.

No. 2 rye, 71¾@72¼c.

Barley receipts 145 cars. Prices were about 1c lower and in the first 75 cars there was nothing as high as 60c, the top bringing 59c; 26 cars at 57c; 17 cars at 58c; 11 cars at 56c. Close, 55@60c.

Flax—Receipts, one car. Nothing doing in spot; nothing offered. Sales to arrive, $1.26. Spot nominally quoted Duluth September price. Close, $1.26¼.

Millstuffs, dull and indifferent interest shown by buyers. Bran in bulk, $18.50@18.75.

Larger flour shipments attest better demand. Sales are not materially larger, but there is enough increase in orders booked to make the situation distinctly better. Quotations are bringing in foreign inquiry, but only low grades are reported saleable. Shipments, 40,128 barrels. First patents, $5.75@5.85; second patents, $5.60@5.70; first clears, $4.35@4.45; second clears, $3.50@3.60.

Grain Gossip.

Charles E. Lewis of Minneapolis says: Prices for cash wheat in the Northwest are down to a normal basis, and the situation is bullish. Those who do not believe this will find it out later. I was in the Canadian Northwest last week and found ice there. There was 40 to 50 per cent damage by the freeze in the Saskatchewan and about 20 to 30 per cent in Manitoba. Considerable wheat is yet to be harvested there, and when they come to thresh they will find a lot of poor stuff, like they did last year. They are cutting wheat green over in Canada to save it from frost.

THE YOUNG MAN WAS SWINDLED

"Gee, whillikin, the ring ain't gold." Pedestrians on West Superior street this afternoon were attracted by a young man, evidently from the rural precincts, running down the street. Close at his heels ran a man much smaller.

Around the index finger of the right hand of the young man from the country was a broad blue mark. It was the stain of the 40-cent ring. Finally the man stopped pursuing the man from the country and the latter stopped and told the crowd that gathered around him his troubles.

"I bought that ere ring," he said between breaths and puffs on the rope that was in his mouth, "for 40 cents. Told me it was pure gold. I calculated as how I was gettin' a bargain. Now see this ere mark that the ring has left. I want my money back, and the storekeeper tells me he will bust me in the face if I go in his store."

Plucking up courage, the young man with the following-the-plow walk went back to the store. "I want my money back," he shouted into the store."

"You won't get it," came the reply out through the door of the store.

"I'll call a policeman, by gosh," threatened the young man with the unsophisticated expression.

The last seen of the young man he was searching for an officer to assist him in getting his money back.

Swedish Dancers Here.

The troup of Swedish national dancers who came from the historical gardens of Skansen and Stockholm, reached Duluth this morning. The Swedish national dances will be given by these people at Lester park, beginning Saturday and continuing all the next week. This is the only troupe of Swedish dancers that is touring America and is the first tour of its kind. The folk and national dances of Sweden will be given by the members of the troupe.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Higher Prices Prevailed All Day and Close Was Strong.

Large Blocks of Reading Bought on Steadily Rising Scale.

New York, Aug. 27.—Leading stocks were in fair demand at the opening of the stock market but, although prices were higher, they did not vary much from yesterday's final figures. Southern Pacific, American Smelting, Reading and Amalgamated Copper were in the best demand.

Bull operators took hold of their favorite stocks with confidence again, and an active and rising market resulted. The well known railroad stocks were all taken in round amounts, especially the Harriman group, Southern Pacific establishing another record figure at 103. Gains of a point or thereabouts were numerous and included most of the important railroads and specialties. Missouri Pacific and Union Pacific advanced 2 points.

Business shrunk considerably, but prices held strong at the best. Reading and Consolidated Gas improved 2 points. Bonds were firm.

Higher prices prevailed for the Harriman stocks but the rest of the list was dull and not essentially changed from the morning high level. Southern Pacific's gain reached 2¼ and Union Pacific's 3 points.

Increasing strength was manifested in the dealings in the late session and a higher level of prices was recorded all around. Union Pacific got up 4½ to 162½. Northwestern also advanced 3¼, Southern Pacific 3, Consolidated Gas 2¾, Sloss-Sheffield Steel 2½ and Illinois Central and American Smelting 2. Moderate realizing caused a slight reaction, but the rise was subsequently resumed on active buying.

The market closed active and strong. Large blocks of Reading were bought on a steadily rising scale, and it ultimately advanced over four points. The market in general continued strong and the day's gains were increased materially, especially among the coalers.

BUTTE-BALLAKLAVA — Shut your eyes and buy this one with every dollar you can beg or borrow. All that I can say is, that I have told you the absolute truth about this rich mine below the North Butte. $7.87 bid for any part of 1,000 shares and not anything offered.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR should tighten again soon. It should easily advance to $3.00 on a strong general market. We had two slow day in all the stocks, but let Ballaklava gradually crawl up to $15, it will then take Butte & Superior with it.

GREENE - CANANEA tightened again today and sold at $11.62.

NORTH BUTTE sold through $85.00, and looks very good.

CALUMET & SONORA — is strong at $9.75 to $10 and should have big advance.

CARMAN holds at $3.00 to $3.25.

CALUMET & MONTANA at 32 cents to 35 cents.

SUPERIOR & PITTSBURG closed at $13.25 to $13.50, and seems to have hit bottom.

SHATTUCK is quiet at $16.75; not much demand or not anything offered to speak of.

COPPERS look fine. Ballaklava will now take its turn and wake up the entire curb list from one end to the other.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Apples show a decline of 50 cents in the market today. Receipts are improving and prices are expected to be on easy basis for some time. Cabbages are scarce and are selling at $2 per crate.

SHOOTS NEGRO, GETS REWARD

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 27.—Patrolmen Sullivan and Peticord of the Indianapolis force were killed, Sept. 30, 1906, by two negroes, who, in the act of breaking into a house, were surprised by the police. George Williams, one of the negroes, was captured and hanged. Jesse Coe, the other negro, has since been a fugitive, near Martinsburg, Ky.

Today Sheriff J. E. Bryant of that county was paid $1,500 by Mayor Bookwalter, upon the identification of the body of Coe, which the sheriff and his deputy brother shot to death in the hills of his Kentucky hiding place, yesterday afternoon, and brought him here and claimed the reward.

Dies at Church Door.

Russell, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dropping dead as she entered a church door was the unusual fate of Mrs. Herman Schwarz, the wife of a farmer in this vicinity. It is supposed she suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

SUPERINTENDENT MAKES REPORT

County Superintendent of Schools Gilpen has just completed his annual report embracing facts concerning figures that will interest every resident of Duluth and St. Louis county.

In the county schools last year, not including Duluth, there were 11,665 pupils, and in the Duluth schools there were 12,153, making a total of 23,818 boys and girls being educated at the expense of the county.

These pupils cost the county in salaries for teachers $316,882.37 in the country, and $216,435.89 in the city, making a total of $533,318.26 for teachers' salaries.

There were employed in the country thirty-nine men and 363 women, and in Duluth proper there were twenty-three men and 302 women. The average salary paid was $94.48 for men in the country and $55.33 to women. The salary in the city averaged $119.49 for men and $63.22 for women.

SYSTEMATICALLY CRUEL.

Wife Says Her Husband Abused Her and Threatened Her Life.

Mary Agness Vanbinden started suit today in the district court for divorce from Peter Vanbinden on the ground that he has been systematically cruel to her for some time. She is 31 years old and he 50. She claims that they were married at Newberry, Mich., June 11, 1892. In Auust of the same year she alleges that he struck her with a stick of cordwood and later, flourishing a gun, threatened to take her life. Again on July 25, 1908, she charges him with knocking her senseless with a club. She askes the charge of her two children and alimony.

REFUSED TO SAIL.

Woman Had Dream That La Touraine Would Sink at Sea.

New York, Aug. 27.—Crying that she had dreamed that the French line steamer La Touraine, which sailed for Havre today would go down at sea, Maria Fenelli refused to go aboard the vessel, although every effort was made to induce her to change her mind. With her husband and seven children, Mrs. Fenelli was to have sailed for their old home in Alessandria, Italy, where they intended to spend their remaining days, but the strange omen that came to her in a dream of the ill-fate of the ship had so thoroughly frightened the woman that she would not go on the vessel, and when the La Touraine steamed away, the woman with her little flock of children and an angry husband, were still standing on the pier.

SEVERE STORM PREVAILS AT NORFOLK AND VICINITY.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 27.—Increased intensity today marked the stormy weather conditions which have prevailed here unabated since Sunday last with a total rainfall to date of 6½ inches. The continued storm has not only paralyzed commerce and brought untold troubles to the railroads coming into Norfolk from the south, but has added increased losses to the already severe damage sustained by farmers to their growing crops.

A northeast storm swept the Virginia, Carolina and Maryland coasts today with a wind velocity at the Virginia capes of thirty-six miles an hour. All shipping is held in port. The river and streams through Eastern and Central North Carolina are still rising with floods bringing in much property damage to transportation lines and others.

Sues Virginia Doctor.

Suit was filed this afternoon in the district court by Christ Christopherson against Charles B. Lenot, a doctor at Virginia. He is suing the doctor for $932.52 damages for time lost, expenses and improper treatment for a broken arm.

Follow Comrade to Grave.

A squad of twelve policemen, in charge of Sergeant Toewe this afternoon, accompanied the body of Daniel Donovan, a former member of the Duluth police force, to Calvary cemetery. The funeral, which was attended by a large gathering, took place from the Cathedral, where the services were conducted by Rev. Father Corbett.

BRAINERD LODGE'S GROWTH.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—White Sand lodge No. 360, M. B. A., celebrated its tenth anniversary last evening. After the intiation of a good sized class the lodge was entertained with a fine musical and literary program, which was followed by refreshments and dancing. The lodge started with a charter membership of fifty-seven, and now has over 400 members in good standing. District Deputy James F. Dykeman, who was vice president of the lodge when it was organized, was present and made the address of the evening.

HUNT FOR ROBBERS' LOOT.

Bowbells, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a renewal of the search for the hidden treasure of a band of robbers who held up a Hudson Bay paymaster in this section of the country thirty-five years ago. The men were pursued and gave all the money to one man after which they scattered. This man, fearing capture, is reported to have cached the money in the hills a dozen miles from here. Afterwards he was captured but died before he could be tried. On his person was a rough map describing the location, which is supposed to have been in this vicinity. The robbery occurred in 1877.

WATER IS RAPIDLY SUBSIDING AT AUGUSTA.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 27.—Augusta today was rapidly recovering from the flood conditions of yesterday and last night. The water on the streets has fallen until this afternoon, the sidewalks were practically clear and there was no further danger of loss to property.

No Clue to Eddy.

Milwaukee, Aug. 27.—Nothing has developed in the case of Ralph W. Eddy, the missing traveling man, and in all probability the search in Milwaukee will be discontinued Friday if no clues are found today, and the hunt started in Chicago at the boarding house of Eddy. From there an attempt will be made to follow Eddy to Milwaukee.

Prohibitionists to Have Organ.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An official publication is what the Prohibitionists of North Dakota are planning. A committee was appointed to take up the matter and make a selection. Instead of starting a new paper the plan will probably be to convert some existing publication into the existing organ. Several proffers have been made. While many papers in the state devote considerable space to prohibition items none of them are exclusive cold water publications.

$1,200—Five-room house, part hardwood floors, cellar, in good repair. Forty-sixth avenue east.

$1,350—Four-room dwelling, hardwood floors, built recently, storm and screen windows. On East Sixth street.

We are prepared to make reasonable terms on both of the above.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

This company operates a street railway line in the city of Duluth between Third avenue east and the end of Rice's Point and another street railway line in the city of Superior between Twenty-first street and the end of Connor's Point. These lines are separated by the waters of St. Louis bay, and are operated as two distinct and separate lines.

The fare for a continuous ride in one direction between any two points on either one of these lines it 5c.

The public is hereby notified that this company does not, by undertaking to carry any passenger, or by accepting fare for such carriage, assume any responsibility beyond that of carrying such passengers safely between points on the above mentioned lines.

This company is not responsible for close connections, nor safe transportation, between the above mentioned lines by any ferryboat or other means of transportation. While the employes of this company have been instructed to keep themselves posted and give upon request all the information they can as to the probability of connections being made with other transportation lines, the company has not better means of foreseeing unexpected interruptions in the service of such lines, nor of telling how long such interruptions will continue, than the public has, and therefore, cannot be responsible for notice of such interruptions.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT, DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA, FOURTH DIVISION.

vs.
Minneapolis & Northern Elevator Company.

The undersigned, Receivers of the property of the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company, under appointment of the United States Circuit Court for the District of Minnesota and also for the District of North Dakota hereby give notice that under an order of the Court filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Minneapolis, Minnesota, on the 25th of August, 1908, and filed in the office of the clerk of the United States Court at Fargo, N. D., on August 26th, 1908, they will receive written bids at the office of the clerk of said United States Circuit Court at Minneapolis, Minnesota, up to 10 o'clock A. M., on August 31st, 1908, for the lease of 33 elevators and warehouses situated in the state of Minnesota, and 47 elevators and warehouses situated in the state of North Dakota, all on the line of the Great Northern Railway company in said states, for the present crop season and up to August 1st, 1909. The property leased is to be returned at the expiration of the lease in as good condition as when received, ordinary wear and tear and damage by the elements alone excepted. The lessee will also be requird to make good all damage and injuries suffered or inflicted in consequence of any lack of proper care on his part or that of his servants or agents in the use of the property.

All propositions to lease must be made in the alternative, each bid stating the price per bushel which will be paid, based upon the entire amount of grain purchased or handled through or in connection with operation of said elevators and warehouses, and also the amount of cash offered as rental for the elevators and warehouses for the entire period. A list of said elevators and warehouses is attached to the petition herein on file in said Courts. For further information in relation to said matter all persons interested are referred to the order above described and to the petition and other papers on file in said action in the office of the Clerk of each of said courts. The receivers will also furnish any further information upon request.

Dated August 26th, 1908.

CHARLES M. AMSDEN AND HENRY F. DOUGLAS, Receivers for Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company,
Duluth Evening Herald, Aug. 26, 27, 28, 29, 1908.

THERE IS CLAIMED TO BE DUE and is due at date of this notice Three Hundred and Thirty Dollars ($330.00), upon a mortgage executed and delivered by Daniel M. Hoyt and Lizzie M. Hoyt, Mortgagors, to Elisha R. Brace, Mortgagee, dated May 31st, 1890, recorded in office of Register of Deeds, St. Louis County, Minnesota, May 31st, 1890, at four o'clock P. M. in Book 37 of Mortgages, page 477.

Following assignments of said mortgage in writing were made and recorded in said Register of Deeds office, viz:

Elisha R. Brace to Emily Viles, dated July 3rd, 1890, recorded July 5th, 1890, at nine o'clock A. M. in Book 74 of Mortgages, page 59.

Emily Viles to Chas. P. Craig & Co., dated Oct. 31, 1906, and recorded April 8, 1907, at eight o'clock A. M. in Book 189 of Mortgages, page 410.

NOTICE IS GIVEN, That said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the following described premises described in said mortgage, which are situate in St. Louis County, Minnesota, to-wit: Lot Nine (9), in Block One (1), in Macfarlane's Grassy Point Addition to Duluth, according to the recorded plat thereof. The balance of the property described in said mortgage, other than said Lot Nine has been heretofore released from the lien of said mortgage.

Said sale will be made by Sheriff of said County at front door of County Court House in Duluth in said County on Sept. 5, 1908, at ten o'clock A. M. at public vendue to highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of Three Hundred and Thirty Dollars ($330.00), and Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00), attorney's fees and disbursements allowed by law.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.—

WHEREAS, Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Four Hundred twenty-seven and forty-six one hundredths Dollars, ($427.46), which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by J. H. Morton, a single man, mortgagor, to Gust Meden, mortgagee, bearing date the 12th day of January, 1905, with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, on the 16th day of January, 1905, at eight o'clock A. M. in Book 141 of Mortgages, on page 405, and

WHEREAS no action or proceedings have been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case, made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by the sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: An undivided two-thirds (2-3) of the following described tracts or parcels of land lying and being in the County of St. Louis and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The northeast quarter of the northwest quarter, (NE¼ of NW¼), northwest quarter of the northeast quarter, (NW¼ of NE¼), and the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter (and SE¼ of NE¼), of section Twenty-two (22), in township Fifty-one (51), north, range Fifteen (15), west, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, at the front door of the County Court House in the City of Duluth, in said county and state, on the 5th day of September, 1908, at 10 o'clock, A. M. of that day at public vendue to the highest bidder, for cash, to pay said debt of Four Hundred Twenty-seven and forty-six one hundredths Dollars ($427.46), with interest and taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00), attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale as provided by law.

Dated, July 22, 1908.

GUST MEDEN, Mortgagee.

HORSES WERE MISTREATED.

Powers-Simpson Company Made Defendants in Three Suits.

Charging that horses which they rented to the Powers-Simpson company were mistreated and died or were returned in bad condition, three parties instituted separate suits against the company in district court yesterday.

The aggregate amount of damages asked is $4,681.46. Gould & Morrison claimed they rented horses to the company Jan. 7, 1908, and in April three of the horses were dead, one crippled and the other sick and in poor condition. Graupman Bros. sue for $1,079 on the grounds that horses they rented to the company were in bad condition, and George McAllister claims $1,777 on the same grounds.

MORPHINE RUINS HOME

Mountain Iron Man Unable to Care for Afflicted Wife.

Has No Means to Place Her in Sanitarium for Treatment.

A pitiful case has been brought to the attention of the local authorities by the efforts of John Nault of Mountain Iron to have his wife examined and committed to the state hospital for the insane at Fergus Falls. The woman is a morphine fiend and as such cannot be committed as insane, so the husband, who is without means to place her in a private sanitarium, is in Duluth seeking to have her taken in charge of by somebody who will care for her.

Mrs. Nault was placed in St. Mary's hospital by her husband last Sunday night. Tuesday morning she arose early, escaped from the hospital and returned to her home at Mountain Iron. The husband brought her to Duluth today, tried to file information against her in probate court for insanity, and when turned away there sought out other authorities, in the hope that he might be relieved of the burden, which is too much for him.

According to the story told by the man, his wife first took morphine during an illness. When she recovered she had become adicted to the use of the drug, and all efforts to break her of it were futile. She left her home last week and wandered about Mountain Iron looking for the drug and for several days he was forced to remain home from work to care for her. He then brought her to Duluth and put her in the hospital, from which she escaped.

He doesn't know what to do now. It was suggested that he place her in a sanitarium, but he is unable to do so on account of lack of means. He cannot leave her home alone, and he must work to support his three children. His plight is a pitiful one, and something will probably be done by one of the charitable organizations today to relieve him.

What a New Jersey Editor Says.

M. T. Lynch, editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family, but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it." Sold by all druggists.

HELD UP IN THE RAILROAD YARDS

John Koski, Victim of Robbery, Helps Capture Assailants.

Accused of having assaulted and robbed John Koski in the Northern Pacific yards, Alex Holmi and Gust Leino were arrested in the yards last night by special officers of the railroad company.

According to Koski's story, he was unloading a box car when the two men approached and one of them hit him over the head with a box. He says he was then held up and robbed of $4. The pair then started off, but were pursued by Koski and the special officers, whom he met in the yards. Both men were positively identified by Koski at the police station.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express company, Chicago, writes: "Our general superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier, who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the Twenty-third Ohio regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by all druggists.

LAWRENCE WITHDRAWS.

Two Harbors Candidate Drops Out of Legislative Race.

Judge D. H. Lawrence of Two Harbors has withdrawn from the legislative contest in the Fifty-first district. Judge Lawrence states that his law practice was such that he found it impossible to give the proper attention to his campaign. The withdrawal is made in favor of the candidacy of Chester A. Congdon and G. W. Buck, candidates from the Fifty-first.

Before he withdrew from the race Judge Lawrence states he had the promise of both Mr. Buck and Mr. Congdon that they were in favor of a reapportionment of the Fifty-first district, assuring Lake and Cook counties of one representative. Both of the gentlemen assured Judge Lawrence that they were not only in favor of the reapportionment, but they would also do anything in their power to bring it about should they be elected.

EX-SENATOR ALLEN DEAD.

Former Resident of Cloquet Passes Away in Maine.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ex-State Senator W. P. Allen of the Fifty-third district, comprising Aitkin, Cass, Itasca, Hubbard, Wadena and Carlton counties, and a former resident of Cloquet, where he was for years engaged in the lumber business, is dead at his summer home at Maton, Me., according to a telegram received here.

Mr. Allen had been living for the past four years in St. Paul. He was in the state senate from this district from 1891 to 1895.

PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN AT MINOT'S BIG FAIR.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 27.—Approximately $2,500 in prizes will be given to farmers who make the best exhibits of farm produce at the coming harvest festival, which will be held here, Sept. 28 and 29.

The display of exhibits at the festival will probably surpass anything of its kind ever put on exhibition in North Dakota. Every farmer in Northwestern North Dakota to the Canadian line on the north and the Montana line o nthe west will be invited to display choice products.
